[Bhagavad-gītā, 7.5]

Which entering into the mundane substance makes it moving, yayedam dhāryate jagat. So wholesale dissolution, then the conscious aspect as para-śakti only has connection with vaiṣṇavam padam, the lower portion of the Vaikuṇṭha. That is Śivaloka, Śiva, Mahā-Viṣṇu, almost entering into Mahā-Viṣṇu. Then Garbhodakaśāyī-Viṣṇu, Kṣīrodakaśāyī, They also retire into Mahā-Viṣṇu. The most fundamental background of this mundane world. So this is the background of this world of creation. And then this mundane, there are different mundane worlds, there are different stages. Bhūr, Bhuvah, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka, upwards, and then, [?] etc. In the lower we are told.

ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, punar āvartino 'rjuna [mām upetya tu kaunteya, punar janma na vidyate]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 8.16]

Wherever we go we are to return back. We can't maintain our stability, our position, certainty or surety. But moving by the waves of action, reaction. Mām upetya tu kaunteya, punar janma na vidyate. If possibly crossing that land of equilibrium we can go up then of course we are saved, we acquire a substantial position there.

[na tad bhāsayate sūryo, na śaśāṅko na pāvakaḥ] yad gatvā na nivartante, tad dhāma paramaṁ mama

[“My supreme holy abode is that place which the surrendered souls reach, never to return again to this deathly plane. Upon going there, one never returns to this material world. Neither sun, nor moon, nor fire - nothing can illuminate that all-illuminating supreme abode.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.6]

We enter into the domain, the kingdom of Kṛṣṇa, Nārāyaṇa. And there, generally no question of reaction because the cause of reaction is removed. And then only we can enter there. The cause of reaction is exploiting tendency or renouncing tendency. Exploiting, everything is meant for my comfort, self centred.

Our Guru Mahārāja used this word, geocentric, and the opposite heliocentric. Helas or something the Latin name of Sun perhaps. Heliocentric means Sun is in the centre, and geocentric the Earth is in the centre. So geocentric means necessarily self centred. Everything is meant for me. I am to enjoy as much as possible. This is this world. And there, heliocentric, that is God centric, God centred. So no self centred tendency remains in those souls that are entering into Vaikuṇṭha. They have already accepted God centred nature so they are safe. Their object towards the God, and they get supply, they get help from that centre. So their position is unsafe, and more, more safe. And that avyākṛtaṁ, Virajā, Brahmaloka. That is the buffer state, neither exploitation, nor service.

They, like the exploiters, do not think that ‘everything is for me, or my enjoyment.’ At the same time they also do not admit that, ‘I am for someone else. I am independent. I don’t want anything for my enjoyment. At the same time I’m not to be enjoyed by anyone. I’m for myself. By myself and for myself. I’m not for any other being.’ No cooperation with the higher centre, higher sphere. That is the marginal position, between the two fences, sitting on the fence policy, neither that side nor this side. I’m independent. This is misinterpreted, so ‘ham [‘I am that’], misinterpreted, aham brahmāsmi [‘I am Brahman’], so ‘ham, these Vedic mantrams were misinterpreted by them to support their opinion, tat tvam asi, [‘Thou art that.’] You are that thing. They have gone so far as to say through the lips of Hanumānji who is an example of a bona fide servitor of Rāmacandra.

deho budha aham daso smi mano budha tadam sakha atma buddha tade varam te nistha virarate [?]

Something like that. “When I consider myself, identify myself with this body, I am Your servant. But when I’m on the mental plane I think I am Your part. I am servant, that is the best, lowest conception. And the middle conception, that I am Your part, atma buddha tade varam, when I consider my soul then I am one with You.” Their composition, so their thinking is like this. So really they have no fulfilment of life. Life is useless, just like sound sleep, samādhi, meaningless, purposeless, no object of life, no aim, only to withdraw from the mortal world, that is enough, withdrawal from the negative prospect of our life. No preaching positive life. So in their consideration everything is māyā. And if we want to get out of māyā we are dissolved from, nothing is. That is the very position of [?]

So Bhāgavatam [4.24.29] says, Śiva, avyākṛtaṁ, mām avyākṛtaṁ. “After Brahmā, then above Brahmā I am there. And this is very hard to understand, my position, that I am the master of māyā, at the same time the service beginner. On my topmost capacity I begin, I rather merge into this serving domain. And here I am also as a master, but not real master, seem to be master of this mundane, because this is all false. But that is my peculiar position.” Mahādeva says.

Sanātana Goswāmī has mentioned in his Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛtam, when the jīva soul is passing away, crossing this māyā, the Devī Māyā may dutiful call comes to him and requests him not to leave her company. “You remain here. I shall serve you. Why do you go away, leaving me here alone?” Appealing tone the Māyā proposes her servitors, to the liberating soul. But if he gives consent, then again that taṭasthā position, he again comes here. But if he can get relief of that subtle most stages of consciousness and can enter, crossing that domain, can enter Vaikuṇṭha, he’s more or less safe, crossing the buffer state there, Vaikuṇṭha. Vaikuṇṭha, that land of service, the land of gentlemen who does not want to consume anything for his own selfish desire.

atma samarpan [?]*

Śaraṇāgata devotee, a surrendered soul, akiñcana, one who's selfless and self surrendered. Two sections of people, selfless people and self surrendered. One thing, selflessness is common in both the sections. But a surrendered soul, that is something positive. What is that? Ātmā-samarpaṇa, self opposition, dedication. He's already akiñcana, does not want anything, like the previous man, akiñcana, don't want anything. Śaraṇāgata devotee he also will say, 'I don't want anything.' But something added. 'I want to offer myself for some cause. For my own self I don't want anything. I don't want anything for myself. But I want to offer myself, to give myself off to another higher entity.' This is added to akiñcana, to selflessness. He does not want, but he wants service. So what is service? We are to understand thereby, service. 'Nothing I want for my own satisfaction, but I sacrifice myself for the satisfaction of some higher being.' That is added to akiñcana then it becomes bhakti. When eternally serving creed is accepted then the selfless soul becomes a devotee. And serving to whom? The viśuddha-sattva, his serving land, land of service is viśuddha-sattva, and that is also degree of development. General hemisphere, first half is Paravyoma, and the higher half is Goloka, Braja-dhāma. One is calculative service, and the higher...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... in that respect. Then you say you are a brāhmaṇa. But his tendency to do My vrata, that was more earnest and you do not see any superiority there. But he sees superiority, and he had consulted the brāhmaṇas also, the ministers. The brāhmaṇa ministers were consulted before he took that pāraṇa, only a drop of water. You could not tolerate.

And another thing, you say you are a sannyāsī. What is this Durvāsā? He's a grhastha, he's a kṣatriya, but he did not go back when you wanted to destroy him. But your case, you were running for fear of your life through the whole world. So who is holding superior position? You brāhmaṇa, you brahmajñā, you should not identify yourself with your material body, but you were so much engrossed and identified with your body for fear of burning of that body you were running through the whole of the world. And Ambarīṣa, what did he do? He stood still, did not budge an inch to save his body. So consider, so many other things are also discussed.

hṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ*

[The Lord tells Durvāsā: “I am the slave of My devotees; I have no freedom apart from their will. Because they are completely pure and devoted to Me, My heart is controlled by them, and I reside always in their hearts. I am dependent not only on My devotees, but even on the servants of My devotees. Even the servants of My devotees are dear to Me.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63]

“I am again pleading, pleaded. You will have to go to that Ambarīṣa. My court is not bona fide to give judgement. You shall have to, this is My decision.”

“How is this? You are supreme power. And they're all...”

Ahaṁ bhakta- parārdhīno, hy asvatantra iva dvija. Oh brāhmaṇa, know it for certain that I am rather dependent to My devotees, bhakta-parārdhīno, hy asvatantra, as if I have no freedom against them. This is My position. And you will have to abide by such law of affection. My relationship with My devotees is of such nature. Sādhubhir grasta- hṛdayo, they have swallowed up My heart, bhakta-jana-priyaḥ. And the devotees are very favourite to Me.”

And another thing,

sādhavo hṛdayaṁ mahyaṁ, sādḥūnāṁ hṛdayaṁ tv aham [mad-anyat te na jānanti, nāhaṁ tebhyo manāg api]

[“The pure devotee is always within the core of My heart, and I am always in the heart of the pure devotee. My devotees do not know anything else but Me, and I do not know anyone else but them.”]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.68]

“Our position is such, as they give their whole heart towards Me, I also cannot but offer My whole heart towards them. Action reaction, visa versa.”

ye yathā māṁ prapadyante, tāṁs tathaiva bhajāmy aham [mama vartmānuvartante, manuṣyāḥ pārtha sarvaśaḥ]

[Śrī Kṛṣṇa says: “As a person takes refuge in Me and surrenders unto Me, I respond and reward accordingly. Being the ultimate goal of all philosophies and doctrines, I am the objective to be attained by all. Certainly, O Pārtha, everyone follows My various paths in all respects.”]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 4.11]

“Whoever approaches Me with whatever nature, My reaction towards him is of similar nature.

They have given everything.

ye dārāgāra-putrāpta-[prāṇān vittam imaṁ param hitvā māṁ śaraṇaṁ yātāḥ, kathaṁ tāmś tyaktum utsahe]

[“Since pure devotees give up their homes, wives, children, relatives, riches and even their lives simply to serve Me, without any desire for material improvement in this life or in the next, how can I give up such devotees at any time?”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.65]

“If he does not show any...”

“No, no, just go and see. They’re not of your type. They’re of another type. You go, you’ll have to go, and please go. And you’ll see that how, what type of persons they are, My devotees.”

What to do? Durvāsā had no other alternative but to go back to that Ambarīṣa. Durvāsā was astonished to find that Ambarīṣa in the same posture he’s standing.

Thinking himself as a great offender, “The brāhmaṇa _____ [?] the yogī _____ Durvāsā, who is considered to be born in a part of Mahādeva. He's dishonoured by me, and how shall I go and take food. The Ṛṣi is misbehaved in such a way, how my misfortune. Oh Sudarśana, for my protection You are driving that man like a beast. How can I tolerate?”

In this way he’s in repentant mood. In same posture Ambarīṣa, one year he took, and Ambarīṣa standing, stopping all the engagements.

Durvāsā approached him and as if he attempted to fall at his feet.

He suddenly came and opposed him. “What do you do? You are my venerable [?] You are Nārāyaṇa to me. You are my guest. So you please be satisfied with me and be gracious and take food. Then only I can go and take my prasādam, otherwise I can't.”

Durvāsā says, “Sudarśana won't allow.”

Ambarīṣa began to chant things in praise of Sudarśana. “You Sudarśana, Your eyes are always vigilant over the devotees for their protection. You are so great. If I might have done any good activities, any devotional action, You be propitiated, be satisfied. I request You not to disturb this brāhmaṇa who is my guest, honourable guest. And a guest should be considered as Nārāyaṇa's delegation. It is in the śāstra. So if You have got any sympathy, a drop of sympathy towards me, please don't try to be aggressive towards this brāhmaṇa who is my [?]

So Sudarśana, what to do, He had to retire.

And Durvāsā he was satisfied and he took prasādam there, and then Ambarīṣa took prasādam.

And then, from then Durvāsā Ṛṣi wherever he goes, on all sides says, "What is the greatness, what is the magnanimity of a Vaiṣṇava? I have seen with my own eyes, my own experience, how great they are. What are you doing by this yoga and other attempts, futile. But how resourceful are the servants of Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa, or how magnanimous they are. They are the jewels of the world. They are the hope of the world, and everyone should honour them if they want their real benefit."

In this way [?] was described in Bhāgavatam.

So real Vaiṣṇava, his position is such. For those that are dedicated to the Absolute Personality, and the actual reaction is also so. So the Lord is not heartless machine. We have come to a hearty Absolute, Who has got heart, everything.

I remember one lady during Swāmī Mahārāja's lifetime delivered lecture in this Nat Mandir. She told that, "We have come from so far away under the banner of Swāmī Mahārāja. As regards for myself I'd like you to know, I'd like to inform you that his call impressed me most, here only, that we can live as a family man with our Supreme Lord. We can live as a family, we can serve Him as a family man. And He also considers us as a family man."

martyo yadā tyakta-samasta-karmā, niveditātmā vicikīṣito me tadāmṛtatvaṁ pratipadyamāno, mayātmā-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai

[“One who is subjected to birth and death attains immortality when he gives up all material activities, dedicates his life to the execution of My order, and acts according to My directions. In this way, he becomes fit to enjoy the spiritual bliss derived from exchanging loving mellows with Me.”]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.29.34]

This ātma-bhūyāya. In Bhagavad-gītā, viśate tad-anantaram, tato māṁ tattvato jñātvā, viśate tad- anantaram .

[bhaktyā māṁ abhijānāti, yāvān yaś cāsmi tattvataḥ tato māṁ tattvato jñātvā, viśate tad-anantaram]

[“By the potency of that supreme devotion, he is able to completely know My nature of Almighty Lordship and majesty (aiśvāyamaya-svarūpa). Thereafter, acquiring the perception of his divine relationship with Me, he enters into a group of My intimate personal associates, whose nature is non- different from Mine.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.55]

Myself. What is that, what is the meaning ‘entering into Myself?’ That they enter into My family life. Mayātmā-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai, in Bhāgavata, ātmā-bhūyāya ca kalpate, that they’re given recognition in the midst of My own members, ātmā-bhūyāya ca kalpate. That I consider them as My own, even sometimes more than Myself.”

As He’s saying to Uddhava. “Uddhava, you are so dear to Me, so beloved. Even Brahmā, Śiva, My elder brother Baladeva, My wife Lakṣmī Devī. What to speak, even more than My body, I like you. I like you, I love you, even more than Myself. More than I love My own body I love you, your spiritual body, that is Myself.” [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15] prana gopi gauri esi [?] It is mentioned in many places that, “More than My life I consider you to be superior, Uddhava, devotee.”

So, such things are there and they’re real. But we; that is the standard of our ideal, our ideal, our goal is of such quality. Again very, very high, at the same time we should not think that I have attained it, I have got it, only to prove that it is imaginary, it is futile. It is there, it is the real of the real. But still I am infinitesimal, I am fallen. Only with the help of the rarely found Guru, Vaiṣṇava, that we can hope to such a great level; where we can be one with the Supreme Lord. This is the most important quality of what is called love or prema, love divine. It is the special qualification of bhāgavat prema that it can raise the tiny soul to the level of the most favourite of the Lord Himself. That is not a peculiar blessing in me, but this peculiar, extraordinary qualification in devotion, or prema, rāga, anurāga.

sakala chāḍiyā bhāi, śraddhādevīra guṇa gāi, [yanra kṛpa bhakti dite pare]

Through faith, śraddhā, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says in one of his songs:

Śraddhā can give anything and everything. We may be the poorest of the poor, meanest of the mean, but śraddhā, prema, it is of so high quality, substance, that slight connection of that takes us very near and closer towards the heart of my Lord. There are so many there from the servitors they're also so magnanimous, so gracious, that it is possible, becomes possible for us to enter into that divine domain of love. It is possible and found in Vṛndāvana, Braja, the Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, Brajendra-nandana, it is there. The friends, the consorts, the parents, servitors, the paraphernalia, the Yamunā, the hill, the forest: everything of peculiar loving type of divine existence. Vṛndāraṇyaṁ sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ prāviśad.

[barhāpīḍaṁ naṭa-vara-vapuḥ karṇayoḥ karṇikāraṁ bibhrad vāsaḥ kanaka-kapiśaṁ vaijayantīṁ ca mālāṁ randhrān veṇor adharasudhayāpūrayan gopa-vṛndair vṛndāraṇyaṁ sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ prāviśad gīta-kīrtiḥ]

[“While the gopīs were describing the sweet vibration of Kṛṣṇa’s flute, they also remembered their pastimes with Him; thus their minds became enchanted, and they were unable to describe completely the beautiful vibrations. While discussing the transcendental vibration, they remembered also how Kṛṣṇa dressed, decorated with a peacock feather on His head, just like a dancing actor, and with blue flowers pushed over His ear. His garment glowed yellow-gold, and He was garlanded with a vaijayantī garland made of tulasī, kuṇḍa, mandāra, parijāta, and lotus flowers. Dressed in such an attractive way, Kṛṣṇa filled up the holes of His flute with the nectar emanating from His lips. So they remembered Him, entering the forest of Vṛndāvana, whose soil experiences the pleasure of consortherhood upon being embraced by the touch of Kṛṣṇa’s lotus feet.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.21.5]

When Kṛṣṇa is entering into the jungle, into the forest to keep up the cows, the Bhāgavata, Śukadeva, he’s giving a slight description of the fact. What is the matter? Kṛṣṇa is putting one foot after another, and the Earth as if she’s feeling the ramaṇa sukham, the most loving concentrated pleasure of union the Earth’s feeling. The very Earth which is seen to be gross matter, the Earth is feeling like a living heart, that she is getting the thrilling touch of the high ecstatic sensation as if union in high love. Vṛndāraṇyaṁ sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ prāviśad gīta-kīrtiḥ. The friends are saying, “Around the play, in His play, how beautiful, how charming, how loving His ways and actions and words and gesture. Everything all charming, the beauty, and practices, just everything of divine capturing love, prema.”

That is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. We are all out of our houses, and our present engagements and environment, with these high aspirations that one day by the help of the Guru, Vaiṣṇava, we may be taken into that divine land, which is giving dream of the divinity. That may be far off, but still, we won’t accept anything as our highest goal except that.

nityābhiyuktānām, yoga-kṣemaṁ vahāmy aham]*

[“I personally assume the whole responsibility of acquiring and protecting the necessities of My fully dependent devotees who are always absorbed in thought of Me alone, and who worship Me exclusively in all respects.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.22]

Exclusive devotion: and our attention towards that. By the grace of the Vaiṣṇava and Guru; śikṣā, dīkṣā, wherever they are, we pray for their blessings that we may not be led astray. But we may go safely under their guidance towards that high Kṛṣṇa consciousness in Vṛndāvana. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Jaya Om Viṣṇu-Pāda...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... should be conscious that Kṛṣṇa is all pervading and He's omniscient. He's everywhere and He's noting our present condition. He's all seer. So, there is some peculiar purpose underlying this circumstance. Nothing is without any meaning. It has got also some meaning and some deep meaning. We need not be discouraged. We must try to keep our sincerity to our faith.

[“O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

If we're to be sincere to our own creed, nothing can harm us, disturb us. We can at the same time, cast our glance into the Purāṇic examples, both of men and women. That those that were living that were under hard trials in their life, they are notable personages.

So much so that once Yudhiṣṭhira Mahārāja told to Devaṛṣi Nārada, “Devaṛṣi, I am afraid that considering our life in different stages of testing, different adverse circumstances, none will come to love Kṛṣṇa. They all know that Kṛṣṇa is our close friend, but still we are suffering, outside, in such a hopeless manner. So this will discourage persons to come to devote their life towards Kṛṣṇa.”

But on the other hand Devaṛṣi Nārada told, “What do you think, Yudhiṣṭhira Mahārāja, what you have lost apparently that is nothing. But what you have gained, what is that? In every circumstance you feel any difficulty you remember Him and He’s at your door. Whom the yogīs, the jñānis, the devotees in general, cannot have a peep of His darśana. And whenever you remember Him in any situation peculiar, He’s at your door at once. What do you say? This is your great achievement.”

So something like that.

Kuntī Devī she also prayed that, “Keep me in unfavourable circumstances so that my attention towards You may remain intact and living. And that is the best prospect of anyone’s life and prosperity and everything. The real success is there.”

So, the apparently adverse circumstances, only for our test, how much we are really faithful to our own creed. So we must stand firm. We won’t be cowed down by the different positions in this birth, in this world, we may have to face. But it is to test our real chastity of our faith. And we must hope, by the grace of Guru and Vaiṣṇava we must pass through this ordeal.

At the same time I cannot but mention the fine, the most fine adherence to the Vaiṣṇava creed of Jayatīrtha Mahārāja. His heart is so sublime, so pure, does not care for anything which the world they aspire after, but exclusively given to that. Generally understood as some abstract, but it is reality in his heart; the search after Kṛṣṇa. As Mahāprabhu did:

*kāhāṅ mora prāna nātha muralī-vadana, kāhāṅ karoṅ kāhāṅ pāṅ
vrajendra-nandana*

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: “Where is my beloved Kṛṣṇa? I can’t tolerate His separation. Where is the Lord of My life, who is playing His flute? What shall I do now? Where should I go to find the son of Mahārāja Nanda?”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.15]

The call of that great flute we are to attend. Our ear should be open to that; and all else will:

*na dhanam na janam na sundarim, kavitam va jagad-isa kamaye mama
janmani janmani svare, bhavatad bhaktir ahaituki tvayi*

[“O Lord, I have no desires to accumulate wealth, followers, beautiful women, or salvation. My only prayer is for Your causeless devotional service, birth after birth.”] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 4]

The śloka of Mahāprabhu.

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam bhaktir uttamā

[“One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service.”] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11]

Elimination and selection will go side by side to the highest stage also. We shall be conscious and wakeful to our own proper realization [?]

veda vihinars mitayo vihinar naso vina yasya yatam vihijam [?]

dharmasya tattvaṁ nihitaṁ guhāyām, mahā-jano yena gataḥ sa panthāḥ

[Yudhiṣṭhira Mahārāja said: “The real secret, the solid truth of religious principles is hidden and concealed in the hearts of unadulterated self-realised persons, saints, just as treasure is hidden in a mysterious cave. Consequently, as the śāstras confirm, one should accept whatever progressive path the mahā-janas advocate.”] [Mahābhārata, Vana-parva]

Different interpreters of Veda and our scriptures, different leaders of different communities, even in the religious section, but the real mahā-jana says that the Lord Himself, He gave the path of revelation through Brahmā in the beginning of the creation. And that current we must try to select and accept and follow by the elimination of any other. He Himself told to Uddhava that, prakṛti-vaicitryād, and pāraparyeṇa.

[evaṁ prakṛti-vaicitryād bhidyante matayo nṛṇāṁ pāraparyeṇa keṣāñcit pāṣaṇḍa-matayo 'pare]

The mutilation of the truth is bound to be disfigured by these two methods in this mundane world. But a fortunate soul he will have the eye of sincerity to understand what is the real path chalked out by mahā-jana, Vaiṣṇava and Ācārya. And to adhere to that, that is Ācārya-ship. The follower of the Ācārya, of an Ācārya, can become an Ācārya. The fitness is there. Who can understand and follow the real Ācārya, he's Ācārya. He's safe for the ordinary people to come under his direction. We hope the Vaiṣṇavas, the Lord, they will guide us in our path.

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

So His blessing on our head, we shall march on towards Vṛndāvana. Kṛṣṇa consciousness, what the great Swāmī Mahārāja has given up to the western people in such a wide magnitude.

Jai Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jai. Jai Śrīpada Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāja kī jai.

So today we dissolve the meeting here with your permission.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...spiritual eye, the combined saṅkīrtana of the westerner and the easterner. And our Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura attempted.

We first saw one German devotee, Herr Schulze [Sadānanda Dāsa], another, one Baron. The third we are told that one Bowtell, Mrs [Daisy] Bowtell, took initiation [becoming Vinode Vani Dasi] in Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism in London by the founder of Gauḍīya Saṅga, [Bhakti Sāraṅga] Goswāmī Mahārāja.

And then I saw [A.C. Bhaktivedanta] Swāmī Mahārāja with two followers here, one Acutyānanda another Rāmānuja. And they lived here for three weeks in that building. And that time the Navadvīpa municipality gave a reception to them, it was arranged.

And then gradually you all have come to fulfil the spiritual estimation or conception of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. We are fortunate enough to see what Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura saw in his spiritual eye. In our physical eye we are seeing and we are very happy to find that the divine love, as expounded by Śrī Caitanyadeva; that should be the only engagement of all of us.

And that is the highest attainment for which Vedavyāsa, the greatest exponent of the revealed truth in the world, was chastised by his Guru, Devaṛṣi Nārada. “What you have given, that is nothing. What I say now to you, give that to the world, then your gift will be fulfilled, attain fulfilment.”

So the fulfilment of life is in divine love. And that is towards Kṛṣṇa, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, in different phases of life, of engagement. Whole time engagement, twenty-four hours engagement with Kṛṣṇa is possible only in mādhurya rasa.

That gentleman, that German gentleman, though we knew it, but he first gave a clear description: “That nowhere in the world, in no religion, we can find twenty-four hours engagement with God. It is only given in Vṛndāvana and in mādhurya rasa. That a jīva may have twenty-four hours engagement with God, it seems to be impossible, and by the grace of Mahāprabhu it has been given such great hope. The greatest hope ever we can conceive; service. And service of that quality is possible.”

So by gradual process, it is not a very easy thing, we must not take, but our aim is the highest; we must be proud to think of that. And gradually one day or other we shall reach there. This is our fortune, we may think it out. There may be many obstacles on the way, does not matter. No obstacle is worth anything if we can attain the twenty-four hour service of the Supreme Lord. No price is considered to be greater, high, what we get in exchange of it. The highest prospect, the sweetest, the most charming, the most beautiful, the most conquering thing, and that is all love. All love, self giving, love means self giving, self sacrificing, self dedicating. Ostentatiously, nothing to get, but everything to give, and thereby something arises which will conquer the whole heart to its fullest extent.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Swāmī Mahārāja has very widely given by the grace of the Lord to the westerners. And you have all come with sincere heart for the same. And we hope the Vaiṣṇavas will be pleased with you to sanction with that great gift.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. I am sick. I can't speak any more. So with this little talk I want to retire. Jayatīrtha Mahārāja will speak something?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: First we have one small presentation to make to you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Garland.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: A very small token from the western world, representative of the Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's grace. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Devotees: Haribol.

Devotee: Śrīdhara Mahārāja kī.

Devotees: Jaya.

Parvat Mahārāja: It's not a very common garland.

Aksayānanda Mahārāja: It's a special garland.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Special garland?

Aksayānanda Mahārāja: There are many notes here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Aksayānanda Mahārāja: Many notes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Note?

Parvat Mahārāja: Between the flowers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Flower and money; of course, money.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Fifty rupees for each devotee who has come, approximately, so five thousand and one.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There are note, many rupee, or dollar, what are they?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: I'm afraid to say they're only rupees.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rupees, you have converted. Western converted into eastern.

Aksayānanda Mahārāja: But not one rupee, fifty rupees each.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Fifty rupees each. It is managed by your holidays, all these things managed by your holiday.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: More than that. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Śrīla Prabhupāda was never short of money. Kṛṣṇa always sent so much money. Because Śrīla Prabhupāda was always expert at utilising.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Empty handed he went and with a full chest he came back.

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. He told that your energy and the eastern brain, western energy combined; that can do a great deal for the promotion of the propaganda of divine love.

“Peace hath her victory not less renowned than war.” Milton. In Milton we find, “Peace hath her victory not less renowned than war.”

I told Jayapatāka the other day, that power mongering, that is not the way to conquer. Something else, you should try to find out that, to keep up those followers of Swāmī Mahārāja together. Those that are in charge they should have to make some sacrifice and penances and shedding tears. Not by taking the attitude of worship measures, to rule. This is not a mundane thing to rule over, but through heart we shall try to attempt. What is wanting in us that we can't keep them together as desired by Guru Mahārāja in such a short time? They should look out for that. Gaura Haribol. At the same time, bahave viprihamvad vikra yayad dina musidya dina [?]

Those that have tasted a drop of that divine nectarine, they do not care for anything of this world. They become poor, poorest of the poor. And at the same time, whom they leave, they are also, with heavy heart gives him send-off. Heavy heart gives him send-off and he wanders from one tree to another tree for his shelter. Going just as the bird from one tree to another tree he also with heart within, within his heart he has got that wealth and he wanders from the shade of one tree to another tree. And he himself is not very puffed up with pride but very doing in searching of some wealth as if he has lost. To find out his lost wealth of heart. With this attitude he's running from one tree to another tree. And also those that have got some affection for him, they're also shedding tears, that he's not accepting any comfort which is offered by them. No comfort, no ordinary comfort he seeks for search after something else which has got long missing link. The divine link that he feels within his heart, he wants to find out, to trace the source of that missing link. In this attitude from one place to another he's wandering. He's also not in a very happy mood because he's searching his wealth, not yet got. And those that were his friends they're also not happy because he left them. He does not relish their company, and wandering hither thither to search his lost wealth.

Not afraid of any support of the mundane world. Don't care. At heart they have some conception that the source of everything, the source of satisfaction is above, not here. Not here; it is in some divine quarter and I am to propitiate this divine will. Without whom, without whose connection my life cannot be fulfilled, cannot have any fulfilment. My fulfilment is there. I am searching for my fulfilment of life. It is not the lower fulfilment of satisfaction can tie us any longer. We are in search of that.

Kṛṣṇānusandhāna, brahma-jijñāsā in Vedānta, took the shape of kṛṣṇānusandhāna in Mahāprabhu, the lover divine. 'Divine lover, I am in search of Him. I can't find rest anywhere here in the world, but His grace, by His glance, little I want, kṛṣṇānusandhāna.' And He has also taught us to go in that way. Give up all your quests, all your engagements and take dīkṣā in kṛṣṇānusandhāna, search the Lord of your heart. The Lord of your heart, He can fulfil, give fulfilment to the fullest of your satisfaction which you want. You don't know. Knowingly or unknowingly you are searching for Him. You are searching for Him. You are thinking that this will satisfy. Whenever you meet the position you will find that no, no satisfaction. Then from that you will go to another thing, 'Oh that will satisfy me,' when you reach then no satisfaction.

māninaḥ andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-

Unfortunately we are not conscious of the fact that only Kṛṣṇa can satisfy our, He can quench the thirst of our inner heart. And Mahāprabhu came with that. Swāmī Mahārāja took it to you in that country. You have all come with the quest of that great, greatest wealth. And I hope our superiors will look to your wants and you will get satisfaction by their grace. Your will, will be fulfilled.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

You are not habituated to this climate, to this form of diet, and also many, many things. But still with so much privation you have come to that land, holy land of Mahāprabhu, and you are undergoing the pains of living here. And I cannot make arrangements suitable for you, so I am asking my people to get some independent arrangement for you. You may suitably arrange to keep up your health. Rūpa Goswāmī has said,

parityāgo, vairāgyaṁ phalgu kathyate*

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.125]

Phalgu vairāgya, what I must, which will help to attain my object I shall accept that. I shall accept that generally in this way that I am to keep up my health well, as much as possible, easily, and then to go on with my service.

avincya katha buddha hari sambandhe madhava [?]

asakti veta sambandha sahita sakale madhava [?]

Properly adjusted we should accept the environment in such way and that will help me to the attainment of the service of Mādhava. Gaura Haribol. So Jayatīrtha Mahārāja to address something: and others also. Gaura Haribol.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja:

om ajñāna-timirāndhasya jñānāñjana-śalākayā cakṣur unmilitaṁ yena,

Our thanks for the mercy of Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī we know are coming spontaneously within in the heart of all the Vaiṣṇavas here. You are so kindly giving us your shelter and shown us in fact more hospitality than we've found in other places in the world. Maximum amount of mercy you've shown to us here. Surely, rather on the opposite side we are very much afraid that we are causing you a great inconvenience by staying here and creating so much noise and distraction for Your Divine Grace. And we know that you're always absorbed in tasting the nectarean mellows of love for Kṛṣṇa and we don't like to disturb your service. So at any rate we are very thankful that arrangements are being made separately so we won't be able to create offence to you in this way. But of course we must shamelessly admit that whether we stay here or whether we stay in our own camp, we're actually here in order to obtain your kṛpā, your mercy. And one way or the other we hope that you won't deny us that. And especially we know that you can also give us mercy of Śrīla Prabhupāda and all the predecessor Ācāryas as well, and the mercy of Mahāprabhu Himself. So we are here in the mood of that cakora bird, or cataka bird, simply looking to you, to your lotus feet for the shower of mercy that we know is always emanating from the feet of the mahā-bhāgavata devotees. So simply in search of that, in want of that, we've come as beggars to your door. And we know that because Vaiṣṇavas are the most magnanimous gentlemen, that you won't turn poor beggars like ourselves away, especially since we have been turned out to some extent of our own home. So we have come here to our grandfather's house seeking shelter, and it would appear as if we've come home, in the genuine sense of the term. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Speaking so much in praise of me, I am not fit for that. What little bit I could have done for you, that is the minimum one should do. I'm doing that only, because I hope that I bear a drop of sympathy towards Mahāprabhu and Gurudeva and his sampradāya, I cannot but do. At the same time I am ashamed that what I should have done I could not do. I could not do due to my disability. Still I considered it to be my fortune that so many of you have got love and attraction and sympathy for me. And so I may hope that my predecessors will be satisfied with me and that will help me to the attainment for my own higher goal. Your company is a proof that still some grace is left in me by the mercy of our Guru, Vaiṣṇava, Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu. That is my solace. Gaura Haribol. Anyone, Aksayānanda Mahārāja, Bhāratī Mahārāja?

Devotees: Parvata Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Devotees: Parvata Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Parvata Mahārāja, yes. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: If they ask us to perform this aṣṭa prahar līlā, kīrtan ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally we don't attend because there is the smoking amongst the parties that participate. They do not observe the rules, so smoking etc, the gangika, the tobacco, all these things. So that is sahajiyā. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says when one śuddha bhakta is conducting, under the leadership of a śuddha bhakta, if any saṅkīrtana we may participate otherwise not. When nāmāparādhā, nāmābhāsa, is predominating, we should not join and indulge in that. At least one śuddha bhakta and under his leadership the saṅkīrtana going on, then we can participate. All may not be śuddha bhakta but the leadership must be from śuddha bhakta.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Because from Calcutta, Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, you entered into the room where he was chanting.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: In Calcutta, I think it was there, and he said, puspa phelte pale hoy [?] that story.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha.

End of 82.03.25.B_82.03.29.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... leaves the stage of prolapse. This medicine will help us. At least I have found like that. And in many places also its application I have experienced.

tat te 'nukampām susamīkṣamāṇo, [bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam

hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāḥ

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8]

I have repeatedly told this also. A bad workman quarrels with his stools. There is a saying in English literature. Whatever circumstance we find around us, that is earned by our own karma. None to blame. The first thing we are to take in this way. This is truth. Stern reality. This is our earned - none to be blamed. Not only to adjust oneself with his present circumstances, but we are to advance more. What is that? That is what is more important. Not only this is adversity, but this is grace of the Lord. This is what is necessary medicine of my present stage. We are to accept our environment in such an optimistic way, not in a reluctant way. The circumstance, adverse circumstance, that seems to me to be adverse, that should be faced that we are face to face with our friend and not an enemy. We are to invite, we are to welcome any adversity with this spirit. Then it will immediately change its face. This is the most, the highest type of medicine to face the danger as it is a friend. The first step, that this is my own earned, none to blame for this. And the second step, and it is the necessity, real necessity at this stage, this medicine, to uplift me. Because, every event can't come without the sanction of the Absolute. Without His sanction no movement is possible. And He's a friend to me, affectionate guardian from whose hand everything is passing to me. It is necessary, it is the necessity, so He has sent this to me. And if I hesitate I'll have to suffer. But I must welcome, welcome, this is coming from my Lord, my dear Lord. With this attitude if we can approach the circumstances of any type, then at once the sky will disfigure, it will come with opposite smiling face the atmosphere will come.

Just as, suppose a boy is disobeying his affectionate mother, and mother is going to punish the boy. But whenever the boy will come into such consciousness, “Yes mother, I have done wrong. You punish me more severely. Yes, I know that I deserve such punishment. Give me more than that. You punish me more, repeatedly.”

At once the motherly heart will come out full of affection. “No, no punishment. He has gotten it, he has come to real consciousness, his offence no more.” With vindictiveness, mother cannot punish her son. Only to mend him, only to purify him, that is the necessity of the punishment.

So the Absolute arrangement, dispensation, “I’ve got no vindictive will, wish, in the back.” The ultimate reality without whose consent nothing, even a straw cannot move, He’s all alert in my, in everyone’s case, He’s always alert. He’s omniscient, He’s omnipotent, He’s all mercy. So we are not guardian less, we have got our guardian. And He’s seeing everything, so I need not be afraid of any misdeed, any wrong doing over me. It is not an anarchical land. There is government, good government, and the highest authority is my friend. He’s my sympathetic friend.

bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram suhṛdaṁ sarva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati

[“I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshipping object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshipping Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity.”]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

One can get peace only when he can understand that all the activities meant for His satisfaction, He's friendly to me.

“Suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ. I have not vindictive spirit to retaliate over so many souls. It is necessary for their purification.”

So I am to tolerate. But whenever the purification is finished, no longer any punishment is dealt with. So bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram, suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ. He'll be friend of all the dangers when you can realise it really, in fact, then only all troubles, all apprehensions, disappear from our heart forever.

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, [bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam hṛd-vāg-vapurbbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk]

[“One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality.”]

When we can inspect the circumstances with a clear and a real vision, closer attention, then it will come out. What comes out? Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, samīkṣa, means perfect inspection. Susamīkṣa, whole meaning, perfect examination, testing. Then we shall find that this is this. 'This is not a ghost, but this is a tree, or this is my father, figure, not ghost. I thought it is a ghost coming and approaching towards me, no, no. My affectionate father is approaching towards me.' Something like that, susamīkṣamāṇo.

Bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam. At the same time, whatever difficulty will come to make us suffer, we won't allow them to go away because it is the result of my own deed. Why should we turn to go to others? I must embrace it, otherwise I shall be a coward. I have done wrong and the result will be suffering to another person, what is this? What I have done wrong I must have the reaction. It is gentleman like. So I won't allow the suffering, the result of my my own bad karma to go away. I must take it in a gentleman like spirit. Bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam.

At the same time, hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, and simultaneously showing my heart felt gratitude towards the providence. 'Oh, You have - Your action has got no fault, know that. You have done the just thing, as given to me.' Our gratitude to the authority we shall show, offer. 'Yes, You have done all right. I'm suffering, I shall give thanks to the proper agents of the suffering, and think that the results of my bad deeds are being finished. No that very soon I'll get out of the reaction of all my bad deeds.' This should be the attitude. Whatever the misdeed I have done I must finish that, and who will help me to finish the consequences of those bad deeds they're my friends, and no sooner I shall be a pure type.

Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam, hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te. At the same time in thought, word, and deed, not only lip deep thanks but heart felt thanks towards the authority. Jīveta, if one can lead such a life, life of such a type, mukti-pade sa dāya bhāḥ, no sooner he will get rid of all the troubles that he's feeling, everything. This is the recommendation, "Do this. Very soon you will be relieved of all the troubles. Don't try to avoid them. Neither try to suffer them with much reluctance and hesitation, but invite them. The justice is coming from my Lord. It is for my good. And welcome it, and very soon it will be finished and you will be liberated from all these troubles.

To face the danger, the adverse circumstances, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam has come to teach us in this way. Face adverse circumstances with this spirit, this is real spirit, this should be of facing the troubles and you'll get relief very soon. So we're in the midst of this world. These problems are always hunting us, and Bhāgavatam has given His advice in this way. "Be courageous, don't allow yourself to go into despair, don't be disappointed, but have courage and face courageously and with well meaning. With thought, deed, and word, kāya- mano-vākya. In word also you try to say, to chant the śloka of Bhāgavatam, Gītā, etc, and in thought also you try to take in, and in your activity also you translate those advices in your life. Then no sooner, very sooner you will get relief, and real relief, honourable relief. Not by bribing but by dint of your own right you will work out your liberated stage, and where you will be eligible for the service of Kṛṣṇa.

That is the negative side. In the positive side also there is many things to say. That is the union in separation. We find that vraja-vāsīs they're eternal friends, eternal companions of Kṛṣṇa, they're also suffering sometimes by Kṛṣṇa's viraha, etc. That is another thing. That suffering is joy. From here we take it that they're suffering. Yaśodā is suffering so much for the separation of her affectionate son. But that suffering is not suffering in the real sense. It is a form of joy. As in the ordinary poetry, in poems also we find. "Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest things." Someone, Shelly or Keat or someone.

[The English Romantic poet, Percy Bysshe Shelley, 1792-1822]

“Sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest things.” Sometimes one profusely sheds tears when we are reading some piteous history. Rāma, Sītā, then so many others there are in different ordinary poems and also religious poems. But we shed tears but we cannot give up the book. Through tears we go on to give us our goal, and more, and the tears are running. What is this? We feel some sweetness, some taste, some taste. They’re religious people but they’re suffering, suffering for the cause of God.

Christ is being crucified. The crucifixion because He says, “That is God, He is everything. He’s our Master, and we must worship Him in a general way.” He says. For that purpose He’s to be crucified. We must be very aggrieved to find this, and at the same time we cannot give up the book, we want to read it more and more. How His sacrifice, the great magnanimous sacrifice for the good of the mankind.

So that is sweet. To sacrifice for God. To sacrifice for something good, that is sweet in some sense. So Kṛṣṇa’s connection of any way, that is very sweet, sweet. His separation is also sweet, and union is also, cannot but be sweet. Sometimes also in union there is separation, prema-vaicittya.

“He’s there but a wave of thought came in My mind, if He leaves Me what will be My fate? And so grief is capturing the heart, but the object is there in My front.” This is in the case of Rādhārāṇī, prema-vaicittya, a type of affection wave is such, the object of affection is on the front but some apprehension. “If He leaves Me what will be My future?” With that there’s suffering, intensely suffering.

But this is also, in any way the affinity towards the truth, towards the Love Divine, that is ānandam, joy, ecstasy. There is beauty where there is love. So it is only a form, different form, but in reality that is ānandam because the background, the whole thing is real, not deceitfulness, but opposite in this world. Here if one can have opulence, but still at the background that it is transient, really, and the man must be uneasy. He may be a king, he may be a great general, but the relativity in which he's existing, that is deceitful, that is treacherous, so he cannot find here any blissfulness, any cheerfulness, any happiness in a real way, substantial way.

So the Bhagavad-gītā repeatedly encourages us, "Go on thinking what is your duty you go to discharge. Don't try to look for the result, the consequence. Consequence, it is in My hand. It is in My hand. But your quota, the duty, it is, it has been given to you, you do, but the consequence does not depend on your activity. Your activity producing a small wave, a weak wave, but there are so many waves outside you, and they will be combined and the resultant will come accordingly. That does not depend on you. You have got no control over the result. It is the resultant. As you are producing a wave, there are so many infinite units they're also producing waves in some such way. And all waves mixed together will produce the common result. So you don't care for it, it is not your at your hand, don't care, worry for that, for the result. So a selfless way, thinking about Me, that is the all controlling centre, putting your trust on the all controlling centre, you give your quota. You contribute your partial energy to the world of infinite, looking at the all controller. Otherwise if you go to get the calculated, your estimated result, you'll be frustrated, your energy will be wasted, useless. Don't take this wrong way. So the consequence, the result is with Me, and the work, your partial duty, that is only with you. This naked truth you'll have to accept in your life, otherwise you cannot be satisfied, for wrong calculation of the circumstances outside. Every moment you'll be frustrated. Don't make you the prisoner of that frustration in your eternal life. Leave it to Me."

"This is the highest policy. The highest principle of life is here." The Bhagavad-gītā comes here to teach us this. "Don't do, to worry, to modify the whole world, only you mind your own self what is really in your command. That also partially, circumstantially, you are to bear to control you. But still only if you attend, give your whole attention to your quota you'll be best benefited. And all else leaving to Me."

This is the way of living a life properly and we can thrive by following such rules as given. We are living in the infinite, and the infinite is not a stone like substance. The infinite is all conscious, all intelligent, all loving. He's infinitely superior in all respects than us. So we should not disbelieve Him to our own difficulties. That will increase our difficulties. We should learn to believe Him, the infinite represented by whom, and go on. That is harmony in life. Seek harmony not discord. The ultimate reality, ultimate controller, He's for harmony. He's harmony Himself. He's beautiful, harmony, harmonious, loving. Harmony, beauty, loving, ecstasy, that is of similar thing. So He's harmonious, and harmony will satisfy you only, not discord. Don't be a member to the discordant, to create the world of discordance, discord. But try to be a member of the world of harmony. And this is the way by which you can in no time, a very short time, you can come in connection with the world harmony, in that plane. In the sea, on the surface, so many waves, but dive deep, no waves are disturbing you. So on the surface we are seeing so many disturbing small waves clashing, in clash together, but in the deepest, if we connect with the deep sea there is no such wave clashing.

So there is a plane, nirguṇa plane, the sattya, raja, tama, triguṇa of māyā, this separatism, clash between separate, consciousness of separatism. But dive deep and you'll come in touch with the more universal characteristic of the world, and nirguṇa. Vaikuṇṭha is nirguṇa, and positive love, not only nirguṇa, not only independent of clash, but welcome adoration, with adoration welcomed you - positive love you will find if you go more deeper plane of this world. And that is Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness, not only not disturbance producing, but it is love producing. Not only justice, but it is the land of mercy, land of love. Love means who compensates others' defects, that is love. By self dedication, compensating others' defect, that is the land of love. That is the land of mercy. That is in Vṛndāvana, in the deepest existence, in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. And over that we are to pass through Vaikuṇṭha consciousness that is of justice. And here clash and injustice in this māyāic world, Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka, brahmāṇḍa. A clash of separate consciousness, separate interest, clash of separate interest. But passing through Brahmaloḥka if we enter, in Brahmaloḥka it is equilibrium, then passing through that if we come, Vaikuṇṭha, the land of justice. Then again deeper, if we can make progress to go we'll find Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the land of Divine Love. There everyone is compensating others' defects, as if. No defect really, but still the tendency there like that, love and mercy, self sacrifice to keep others' happiness. To sustain the general happiness of the place, everyone is contributing something, labour of love, that is the land Vṛndāvana. Kṛṣṇa consciousness, which has been given in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, and Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva He came to point out that. In scriptures you will find different stages of advices, but the highest advice, you may not know, the goal of life has been given to us that Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that Vṛndāvana consciousness. And that is also differentiated way we are to see. In vātsalya rasa, some sākhya rasa, mādhurya rasa, svakīya, parakīya, specially in Vṛndāvana. In Vṛndāvana almost everything is parakīya. Parakīya means the relation not acquired by any right, but only free choice. Free choice, even crossing the ...

You see, justice is a good thing. We cannot have any complaint against justice, but still, mercy is higher thing. If we can conceive that then we can conceive even the crossing the social laws, social law, the scriptural law, rules, we venture towards the Absolute Truth. We cross the law of justice, the social law, the religious law, all these things. But towards whom? Towards Him who is the Master of everything. He's really the Master of everything. And the law distributed, this yours, this is his, this is third man's, in this way. That is justice. Justice means law. Law means adjustment of right between many. But when one is Master, Absolute Master, how can law come there? No law can come there. He's the Absolute owner of everything, absolute good, perfect. He should not be the owner? Educated person like me he'll have some right? The absolute intelligence, absolute loving tendency, the power must not be vested there? The Absolute Good? The power should be vested, distributed amongst the deceptive gentlemen? What is this?

So in Vṛndāvana, above law, the good dictator, good, absolute owner. That sort of consciousness comes within. And also, one thing is there. Yaśodā, her affection is towards the child, but the apprehension in the background, “That some say that child does not belong to me. I may lose this child. Such an affectionate child I may - it may be lost. There are some in the background they say that this, something, He’s God. Some say He’s Vasudeva’s son. The Garga came, sent by Vasudeva to give the name Kṛṣṇa. So there is a rumour that He’s not my son, He’s Vasudeva’s son, Devakī son, He’s not my child.” This sort of background pushes this affection to the highest intensity, “That I may lose the object of my affection. My affectionate eyeball may be removed.”

So with much intensity, as much as possible, her heart can command. With that love, affection, she comes to nurture the boy, to serve the boy. Mother’s friends are also servants in some way. Sweet servants, at the cost of their life they want save the interest of the child. Ordinary servant, how much service he can render, he can give? But parents, they’re also servants. The friends are also servants, confidential servants, playing, sometimes taking on the shoulders, in different ways. All serving but in different type, different sweeter type service, in this way. Parakīya, friends also servants.

“Some say that He’s not of our own rank. He’s divine, He’s Lord Himself. Then, we may lose His company. Then how we’ll keep up our life if we cannot, if we’re not allowed to play with Him? In such a beautiful way, His charming way, He’s playing with us. If we’re deprived of that, how can we keep up our life?” Parakīya. “I can, it is not my right. The company which I get properly it is not as the result of right, but I can lose any moment. It may be withdrawn from amongst us.”

This apprehension increases the intensity of their respective service and love towards the prime cause. So this is Vṛndāvana, the land of love, land of mercy. Of course from the lower standpoint, that Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Mahāprabhu, wanted to give it. It is His domain. He's the guardian. He's the Master of the highest there. And in mādhurya rasa, not to speak of, whole time engagement is possible only with the Lord in mādhurya rasa. And the apprehension of losing, of separation, he's also in the most intensified degree, and so the parakīya rasa in that sweet service, its intensity in earnest grade of degree. In this way. This has been given by Lord Himself, that Kṛṣṇa and Rādhārāṇī combined, Mahāprabhu, by Himself.

Nityānanda Prabhu announced from door to door. "Oh, come to Gaurāṅga. You don't know how you'll believe, what prospect you'll be connected with. Take the Name of Gaurāṅga. I'm touching your feet." Nityānanda Prabhu shed tears profusely from door to door. "Take, accept Gaurāṅga. Accept His teachings. Then you don't know the inestimable prospect in your future waiting for you. Don't dismiss Gaurāṅga from your door. He has very graciously come to your land here." In this way Nityānanda Prabhu's wandering here.

And so many agents are still trying to bear that, carry that flag, according to their capacity as much as they can. And our Swāmī Mahārāja did wonderful, that the flag of Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu, or Guru Mahārāja Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, he went to the west, far west, and came back with a flying colour. So many as the result we find so many of you even here also. That thing is such. And I hope you will get the taste of this high, divine love, at your heart. This sort of divine drop of love will enrich you, every heart of you, and you will be, in your turn spread it in the environment wherever you'll be.

mām nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca*

["My devotees mix together, talk about Me, and exchange thoughts that give consolation to their hearts. And they live as if this talk about Me is their food. It gives them a high kind of pleasure, and they find that when they talk about Me among themselves, they feel as if they are enjoying My presence."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

The Lord Himself says in Bhagavad-gītā, "Mac-cittā, their whole attention, mind, is on Me. Mad-gata prāṇā, the whole life, the whole energy also My conception commanding them. Mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam. When they talk with one another, each other, they talk about Me. My devotees when they talk with their friends, their nears and dears, they talk about Me. I am the object of their talking, eating, playing, whatever they mix with Me they do, they deal everything mixing Me with that thing. Bodhayantaḥ parasparam, kathayantaś ca mām nityam. Always go on talking about Me. They have found a miracle in their life, the most precious jewel they have found, and talking only about that, and about Me. Parasparam, kathayantaś ca mām nityam, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca. And thereby they feel, tuṣyanti, prasāda, when we talk of sweet food, satisfied. Talking about Me they feel such pleasure, such ecstasy, joy, happiness. And ramanti ca, and even the union of the husband, wife, there, they feel this sort of pleasure. And that type of pleasure also they feel in Me, in ramanti ca."

Even Śaṅkarācārya, he has also that interpretation, that, just as, yuvatīnām yathā yūni, yūnañca yuvatau yathā mano 'bhiramate tadvan, mano 'bhiramatām tvayi

I want that intimate connection with You, my Lord. I am the neediest of the needy, but at the same time I have this ambition. I am so disgusted with the world outside that I want the most intense and comprehensive relationship with You. With this attitude, the surrendering process begins and rises step by step. I want that standard of divine love, of intimacy with You. I want to dive deep within You.”] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindu, 1.2.153] & [Śrī Guru And His Grace, p 144]

It is in the Arcana Kana, the prayer. The servant is praying to the Lord when performing arcana. Just as a young man’s mind is captured by a young lady, and a young ladies mind is captured by a young man, so in that way...

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Any question? Any question from any quarter? Gaura Haribol.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. No question? Then our Bhāratī Mahārāja may address...

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yes, one question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One question, by whom?

Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya dāsa: Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, new gentleman, eh? Come from, come yesterday? No?

Devotee: No.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: He's Swāmī Mahārāja's disciple.

Devotee: No. Tīrthapāda's disciple.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya, a great logician.

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya was an outstanding scholar in logic, nyāya. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. What is your question?

Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya dāsa: I was wondering if you could explain how the jīva comes to the material world in the first place? How he becomes envious of Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Devotee: He's asking how the jīva comes to the material world in the first place?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Primary eh? ABC. Then in Sārvabhauma type I shall answer.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hari Charan [?]

You are to deal with reality. Is it necessary for you to know from where you've come? Or what is your real necessity, immediate necessity? There is trouble, how to get out of the trouble? That should be the question, or it will be...

This is somewhat luxury, this question, this sort of question. First I want to get relief from the pains I'm in the midst of. That is practical, genuine, sincere. First opportunity I want to get out of fire. Next it may come that how I was caught by fire. And when I'm within the fire, that enquiry committee how I came within the fire, to get any certain enquiry committee is not necessary. First I want to save from the fire, then when I shall get out, then that question may come how I caught fire, next.

This is curiosity hunting philosophy [?] How I am to get out of the fire? That should be the real question of earnestness, practical question. And these are philosophical to satisfy philosophical curiosity, but have got no practical value. So that background we may know. Jīva Goswāmī has given, Rūpa Goswāmī has written that,

It is within but it is covered, and to discover and to come out with the inner wealth. That is it is within us but it is covered, and to discover it, then we see we are in real possession. It means that it was with me. How could I lose it? How I have lost this? It comes such question in its turn. Then Jīva Goswāmī has given the explanation.

The general jīva soul which we find in this world, that comes from taṭasthā, the marginal position. Not in the positive participation, neither in the negative, but taṭasthā, marginal potency there is. The in carrying current and the out carrying current, and between the two there is some margin, there is some equilibrium stage. And the equilibrium has been disturbed and then this negative side movement has been created. And the jīva which were in dormant form in that equilibrium, that has come to this negative side to exploit. In this way the first start of the jīva soul in the world of exploitation has been told, described. Mahāprabhu says, jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa' / kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa' [sūryāṁśa-kiraṇa, yaiche agni-jvālā-caya / svābhāvika kṛṣṇera tina-prakāra 'śakti' haya]

or fire. Kṛṣṇa has three varieties of energy: cit-śakti (His internal energy), taṭasthā-śakti (His marginal energy), and māyā-śakti (His illusory energy)]. [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108- 109] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 10.14]

We are to harmonise that jīva in the taṭasthā he's created, if we told, but his automatic existence is endowed with two adaptability. Taṭ means margin. Margin may be thought out to be endowed with two possible adaptability. Adaptability for exploitation, and adaptability for dedication. But in the most marginal, most germinal form which cannot be detected. Detected, ākṣara, kūṭa-stho 'kṣara ucyate.

[dvāv imau puruṣau loke, kṣaraś cākṣara eva ca kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni, kūṭa-stho 'kṣara ucyate]

Kūṭa-stho means beyond trace, tracing, which cannot be traced. That is kūṭa-stho, undistinguishable position, undetectable position, that is kūṭa-stho. Kūṭa-stho 'kṣara ucyate. Kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni, kūṭa-stho 'kṣara ucyate. What is already mingling in this exploiting energy, that is kṣaraḥ. And ākṣara, what is in the position of the undetectable plane, undiscriminatable plane, that is equilibrium. And if equilibrium is being disturbed then some coming this side, and some may go that side, in this way, kṛṣṇera taṭasthā-śakti. Taṭ means margin. Taṭ means neither land nor ocean. That is called taṭ in Sanskrit, neither land nor ocean, the margin between the two.

So in carrying, out carrying, and the margin equilibrium position, and equilibrium is disturbed by the waves of both sides. And thereby many come, many from that undetectable quarter is seen to come to this world of exploitation. And here also by the grace of the Lord so many agents to recruit them to their higher prospective world where they can have higher prospect in the world of dedication. And by their gracious activity of relief work the souls they're imparted with some sort of injection of nirguṇa, the dedication. And that is accumulated gradually in them, create a tendency to challenge his present land of exploitation, challenge his prospect of this land of exploitation, and it is deposited more and more and creates a tendency in him to go towards the land of dedication. In this way the devotion is being preached and so many new recruitment from this world goes to that. And so many others also from that marginal infinite point, the line is infinite, the plane is also infinite. So the marginal aspect of infinite, so many comes again here. In this way it is to be mathematically understood.

But, just as who are in the plane of dedication, they sometimes at their, between the quality of their play, they manage to come here sometimes, by giving some curse, this or that, as if, they come here. But that is coming temporarily for play. Just as the Americans with some visa, passport, can come here and stay for some time and go away to their land. But for ordinary to go to that land it will be difficult, to get passport, and visa, and then to enter. But from higher position anyone can come and secure the passport, visa, playfully, and comes and goes very easily.

So from the land of dedication anyone can come by the order of God, of the Lord. Or in a group with some plan or some scheme comes to this world for the benefit of the world. And they, after passing some time in pastimes, and they vanish, go up to their own position. That is also a class, but there that is playfully come, not come here in a prison house. So many officers, and so many visitors can also enter in a jail, in a prison house. But the entering of the prisoners in the prison house, and the outside visitors in the prison, that is not one and same, different. One as a visitor and another as the result of his own crime, permanently habited there. In this way.

Is it clear, Sārvabhauma ji, or any sub issue, eh? Generally I have described. Now if any particular point within this you'd like to ask you may ask. You have asked, but many one they have this curiosity they will also hear. So you may ask question, for the benefit of all.

Devotee: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, what is the actual cause of the disturbance?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What disturbance?

Parvat Mahārāja: That makes the jīva fall down from marginal to external, what disturbs the sleep condition?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. Disturbance, the movement, that may be sometimes innate and sometimes external. The Mahā Viṣṇu is at the back and He creates the,

mama yonir mahad brahma, tasmin garbhaṁ dadhāmy aham sambhavaḥ sarva-bhūtānāṁ, tato bhavati bhārata

[“O Bhārata, material nature, known as pradhāna, is the womb into which I cast the seed (in the form of the individual soul which is born of the material potency). From that place, all beings headed by Lord Brahmā are generated.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 14.3]

The Mahā Viṣṇu Who is at the back of this, on the other side, the side of dedication, the current of dedication, on the upper side we may say, there is Mahā Viṣṇu Who is supposed to be the Master of this land, the no man’s land, the taṭasthā. Taṭasthāloka, that buffer state, that equilibrium state, that is divided from subtle standpoint into two. The exploiting side, half almost, is called Virajā, like some watery accommodating position, that is the highest conception of prakṛti, of matter, or exploitation, in the subtle form. And the other side that is on the dedication, that is...

And the Brahmaloка, that is the lowest conception of consciousness. Consciousness means enjoyer, and Virajā that is object of enjoyment. Enjoyer and enjoyed, prakṛti puruṣa. Puruṣa is enjoyer, prakṛti is enjoyed. Then this side the half is Virajā, prakṛti, and the other side, the Brahmaloка, is Puruṣa, type, but not clearly expressive. Undetectable, indiscriminate able, position. Now, from Brahmaloка the enjoyer unit is pushed to this side, and that is pushed by Mahā Viṣṇu Who is the personal conception of the first, the most lower conception of the enjoyment, enjoyer as a whole. The Mahā Viṣṇu, His push creates some disturbance here. He’s free, by His free actions some push comes into the prakṛti. And that is called that tal-liṅgaṁ bhagavān śambhur [Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, 8] The ikan [?] of Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī, a glance, as if a glance is cast on the Virajā, the objective representation in its finest form represented as Virajā, prakṛti. The most crudest form of enjoyed element is prakṛti, and there the glance is cast, ikan [?] it has been described as ikan, [?] glance. First conception of enjoyment that comes, and thereby, backed by that Mahā Viṣṇu, is just superior to that Brahman this massive conception of the crude subjective plane, pushed from the back side, or upper side, creates some movement, and thereby some are forced to come somewhat this side. Mahā Viṣṇu, jagat katya [?] Apa eva sasayado [?]

In Manu-saṁhitā also, tata svayaṁbhu-bhagavān apa eva sasayado [?] Generally water is, has been selected to be the example of prakṛti, Virajā.

And the light has been suggested to be the conception, to carry the conception of consciousness, something. Brahmaloka is some light, mass of light. And mass of water. Something like, light and water. That analogy, these two analogies have been used for prakṛti and Puruṣa, as Virajā and Brahmaloka, anyhow.

And if we are to trace the cause of the cause of the cause, the prime cause, then His sweet will, He's making līlā.

Hegel says, "He's for Himself." Absolute must be by Itself and for Itself. So He's for Himself. Not responsible to anyone. His automatic play is līlā. From the Absolute consideration we are forced to come to this point, that what is causeless movement, that is līlā. Causeless dynamic existence means līlā, His pleasure, His sweet will. Ultimately everything is attributed to His sweet will. The prime cause is not under any law of necessity. We find Him in such a way. That should be the explanation of everything, the very root.

Hegel's side in German, he was also of such opinion. "Reality must be by itself and for itself. He's His own cause, and He exists to fulfil His own purpose." That is līlā. We see it. But ultimately it is His līlā. Everything is meant for Him, not for any part.

"And partial necessity is also there. It is subsidiary, under Me." Can't you follow?

Devotee: Yes, I follow.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: So Mahārāja ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Artheṣu abhijñāḥ svarāṭ, in Bhāgavatam, [1.1.1] Also this as Hegel says, it is in Bhāgavat, svārāṭ, artheṣu abhijñāḥ, He knows the reason of everything, and He's absolute, svārāṭ. Not to give explanation for His movements to anyone else. That is His position, in Bhāgavat says. Artheṣu abhijñāḥ, but for what? Only it is known to Him, and, He's svārāṭ, He's autocrat. So no explanation can be called from Him. It is automatic, automatic autocrat in dynamic movement. It is His līlā. And law and necessity, it is all with the underlings and we're striving for that for better satisfaction.

Eh? What do you say?

Parvat Mahārāja: I was going to ask, then the ultimate goal of the Māyāvādī philosophers is to go sleeping on the taṭasthā-śakti line?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, that equilibrium, that Brahmaloka.

ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, [tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādrta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ]

["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

They return to that position, which is taṭasthā in the conception of the Vaiṣṇava, the Brahmaloḥa there. And in time, in Rāmānanda Rāyā-saṁvāda it is mentioned.

‘mukti, bhukti vāñche yei, kāhāñ duñhāra gati?’ ‘sthāvara-deha, deva-deha yaiche avasthiti’

[“And what is the destination of those who desire liberation and those who desire sense gratification?” Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu asked. Rāmānanda Rāya replied, “Those who attempt to merge into the existence of the Supreme Lord will have to accept a body like that of a tree. And those who are overly inclined toward sense gratification will attain the bodies of demigods.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.257]

Those that aspire after exploitation, enjoyment, and those that want permanent retirement, mukti, salvation, liberation, complete, what is their real position? Then Rāmānanda Rāya gave an answer to the query of Śrī Caitanyadeva. The ‘mukti, bhukti vāñche yei, kāhāñ duñhāra gati?’ that was the question. The answer came, ‘sthāvara-deha, deva-deha yaiche avasthiti’. Those that aspire after enjoyment they get deva-deha, the position of the [demi] gods and get good arrangement for their enjoyment and then comes back. And those that aspire after liberation they go to the sthāvara-deha, just become a Himalaya or a tree in Australia.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is one tree living for five thousand years, found there. In Allahabad also there was a tree of long life. We are told that Rāmacandra He took His seating under the shade of that tree, that Okayabot [?] was the name. And Kṛṣṇa also came to play under that tree sometimes. And when the British constructed a fort that trunk of that Bota [?] tree that was uprooted and it was kept there, perhaps now also they have kept it to show that the oldest Botabika [?] trunk is here. So long, long time. Sthāvarāṇām himālayaḥ.

["Of sages, I am Bhṛgu; of sound vibrations, Om; of all sacrifices, the repetition of the Holy Names; and of the immovable, the Himālayas."]

In Bhagavad-gītā [10.25] it is mentioned that: "I am the choicest thing in every section, so I'm Himālaya amongst the sthāvara."

So sthāvara-deha means the body of a mountain. He wants unconscious position. Liberation means not subject object relation, subject object both combined together. Darśana. I'm seeing the finger, finger when reaches the seer more then more vision. So object and subject, knower and the known, when they combine then that becomes Brahman point. And he does not mind if he's Himālaya, only unconscious for long time unconscious existence. So externally that may be Himālaya [?] Or so many planets there are, they have got also life, their personality, they're in such a big figure. The trees also have got personality, the stone also.

Even Huxless [?], the scientist Huxleigh [?] he told that so small stones which are called as gotin [?] when burned it gives life, a kind of stone. That movement he measured, in one lākh of years perhaps one millimetre, but movement, life is there in the stone, a kind of stone. So there is life in stone also in mountain. And in Earth, in so many planets, they're also persons, but they have got such a big figure.

Just as elephant and an insect, the ātmā, the soul in the insect and the elephant that is one and the same, similar. But the body is such a huge and such smallest small, microscopic small. But ātmā is another type. It can exist in both the places.

So Himālaya, the great mountain, a soul, a liberated soul he's sleeping as Himālaya for crores of years. That is mukta jīva, sthāvara-deha.

ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayi asta-bhāvād [aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nāḍṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ]

Just as that gentleman wanted to sleep only, that Kumbhakarna. He wanted a good sleep, an endless sleep he wanted. So mukti, the sāyujya mukti is like that, of that type, of same, a long period of sleep, so sāyujya. The object and the subject related together combined, no bifurcation. That is either as exploitation or as dedication, the bifurcation of two kinds. Otherwise the both combined, mathematically. The seer and the seen.

Anyone, saying something from that quarter?

Kulangana: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, my name is Kulangana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, Kulangana, yes.

Kulangana: Could you kindly explain why people complain that Kṛṣṇa is immoral.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, ha, ha. Because they complain they're the culprit.

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They think that they're possessor, they're owner of someone. That Kṛṣṇa is the absolute owner of everything, they can't conceive. So they establish themselves in a false way.

'That I have got some right. The others have got some right.' Against Kṛṣṇa they want stand, make a stand. 'That we have got right against Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is not absolute righteous owner of everything. So no, he's not infinite. Finite has got some demand in the infinite, and that not of submissive but against.'

And began, first came, as if we can trace, from Mahādeva, the master of māyā, the puruṣa as a group in general they deviated. The consciousness, the so many units of consciousness, or a mass of consciousness, which deviated from Kṛṣṇa consciousness. That is, Kṛṣṇa is all in all, the Absolute Autocrat, Beautiful, that is the prime cause and that is the Master of everything: from this consciousness deviation came. And in Śiva consciousness, who is the representative in general of the deviated souls, pratika [?] He says that, bhayaṁ dvitīyābhiniveśataḥ syād, [īśād apetasya viparyyayo 'smṛtiḥ tan-māyayāto budha ābhajet taṁ, bhaktyaikayeśaṁ guru-devatātmā]

[“Fear arises when a living entity misidentifies himself as the material body because of absorption in the external, illusory energy of the Lord. When the living entity thus turns away from the Supreme Lord, he also forgets his own constitutional position as a servant of the Lord. This bewildering, fearful condition is effected by the potency for illusion, called māyā. Therefore, an intelligent person should engage unflinchingly in the unalloyed devotional service of the Lord, under the guidance of a bona fide spiritual master, whom he should accept as his worshipping deity and as his very life and soul.”]

The beginning of apprehension is here. ‘That I have got some separate existence. I want some separate property to master over.’ From here the consciousness of exploitation came, and this is blackmailing, this is black marketing, ‘that we are also owners.’ This false ego, that is the cause, ‘that Kṛṣṇa is not absolute owner of everything, absolute enjoyer of everything. But we have got also our right.’ This separate consciousness, dvitīyābhiniveśa, that is the cause of all troubles.

And He’s above law. Our inner heart which can feel this real truth that Kṛṣṇa, the centre of all attraction, He’s the owner of everything, Who can attract everyone by His beauty and love. He’s the sole owner and enjoyer of everything. And who comes in contact with that plane, that current, they cannot but contain them but to be at the disposal of that inner sweet current of the fundamental existence.

Do you follow, hmm? Can’t understand? Any question again? Eh?

Kulangana: I could understand.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, try to understand in this way that He’s the Absolute owner. All that say they’re owner, that is, he’s created, his creation, created by him, to suit his purpose. And He's above law. Law comes only for us to regulate many. But where there is only sole owner, autocrat, law coming from Him but law is not above Him. He's the Absolute owner and enjoyer and doer, everything, is in Him Absolute position, holds Absolute position in Him, in His conception. Ultimate cause is such, it is master of everything. His will regulating every atom of existence. If we can accept that, about Kṛṣṇa, and He's all love and beauty, we cannot have any grievance. He's owner, He's thinker, knowledge, and He's beauty, sat-cit-ānanda, satyam, śivam, sundaram, the Master of all existence, the Master of all consciousness, knowledge. And the Master of all sweetness, Absolute. And everyone has natural hankering for Him, and He's for everyone, not for any partial position. For everyone He is, because He's the most fundamental. He must have to represent and fulfil, give fulfilment to everything. And when we put some objection, 'We want our position, that we have got some hold over some energy' that is false.

Kulangana: Otherwise we can say that we are envious of Him, we are envious of God.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: [?]

Kulangana: So why we say that He's immoral because we're envious of God.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Yes, yes. We have got objection to call a spade a spade. The truth is truth. We have got objection. The Master, He's our Master. We have got objection to say that we have got one master, that ultimately the cause is one, the commanding principle is one. The separate existence, we have got a separate interest. We can't tolerate the enjoyment of Kṛṣṇa as unlimited. And still, so many forms have been created by Him to enhance His position of enjoyment. That is another aspect.

This parakīya system has been evolved by Yogamāyā to increase the union to its highest intensity, it is necessary, what is not formed in svakīya. When publicly it is admitted, socially and scripturally it is admitted that He's the enjoyer of all of us, there the enjoying intensity is in general standard. But to make it more intensified, their position of union is necessary to be created in the environment by Yogamāyā.

So Jīva Goswāmī has shown from the scriptures that Rādhārāṇī in fact is Kṛṣṇa's own sweetheart. But the posing in Vṛndāvana as parakīya, that She belongs formerly to someone else, to some other husband, and to make it very precious and make it very risky and even blameable, the position has been made of a [?] and risky type, and then the intensity of union becomes greater. It has been explained in that way also. If we, it is true, but if we can follow, by Yogamāyā. Not only in mādhurya rasa but in also, as I told previously, in vātsalya, in sākhya and others. He's our, we are to serve Him, but the service may not be eternal, permanent. Only in any time I may lose such opportunity. That makes one to make the whole of his energy to collect intensely to engage in the service of that respective type.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: Śrīdhara Mahārāja, I've been a disciple Śrīla Tīrthapāda. How can I render pleasing service to him?

Devotee: As a disciple...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is he? What is...

Navanita cora dāsa: My name is Navanita chora dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Navanita chora. Yes. How you can render service to him?

Navanita chora dāsa: Yes, Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You can render service to him by carrying out his orders in a general way, it may be seen.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...then you are to consult me with, privately you may consult with me, discuss with me. But generally his connection has taken you to this sort of life, and thankfully you must obey him. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. By the will of the Supreme he has given you this connection with this light and this prospect. So by supreme arrangement it is expected that through him you will get your aspiration satisfied, with that point, that channel, generally. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Another question Mahārāja.

Devotee: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, while also performing our daily activities, should we meditate on Lord Caitanya Mahāprabhu, or can we meditate upon our dīkṣā Guru?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everything should be done proportionately, not one is in full. Perhaps every point has got importance. The Guru, general Guru, and what is shown by the Guru, the śāstra Guru. Bhagavān has come as Guru. Then there is śāstra guide, Guru, and śikṣā Guru, dīkṣā Guru, sannyāsa Guru, and canvassing Guru, this vartma-pradarśaka. From so many points I can get my benefit, spiritual, and I should be proportionately open and dedicated towards them for my own benefit.

Earning money from different sources, the money is coming to me, and I must not stop the opening through which the money is coming, flowing to me. As much as I find money flowing towards me I shall give that sort of attention. If am am clever then the source and the source of that source in this way I shall have to have estimation and to show my attention accordingly, and proportionately, to my gain.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. We must be realistic, we must be awake of our own interest, what is what, and what direction it is coming from. We must be awake. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Question here Mahārāja. Śvetadvīpa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śvetadvīpa. What is his question?

Śvetadvīpa: Can you explain the point between the king and the flatterer?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: The point you made between the king and the flatterer.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Flatterer, the king and the flatterer. What is at the bottom of this question?

Śvetadvīpa: The king wanted a jester...

Bhāratī Mahārāja: But what's your motive? What do you want to know?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? Here no flattery, no extent of flattery is possible with the Supreme Authority. How much flattery? Flattery means what is not there, to ascribe that thing to him. That is flattery. To sing the glory of a king, and to make flattery of the king, that is two different things. Is it not? Flattery means false praise. What do you think? Eh? What is flattery? It means false praise, false glorification. Is it not?

But in Absolute there is nothing false. In Kṛṣṇa everything - what much you can perceive and produce? He's infinitely good, holding higher position. No, nothing can be raised into the position of flattery. What is real, the fact is there, that is beyond our ability to glorify Him. A tiny jīva, how much it can make praise about Him, highly, what is not there. It is impossible. Flattery is never possible in Kṛṣṇa, or in Gurudeva, etc. Flattery is in the, that role may be played in the māyāic world. Hare Kṛṣṇa. No flatterer of Kṛṣṇa is possible. Ha, ha, ha, ha. That empty glorification, that is not possible there. So much glorification is necessary, the Brahmā, the Anantadeva, they're always singing but don't find any limit.

Lag badhi chari ya sunyi dari bari [?]

The Anantadeva with His unlimited lips is sing the glory of the Supreme Lord but can't finish.

When the flattery will come there?

Devotee: [?]

Kulangana: I would like to say that that means we can't cheat God.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does she say?

Kulangana: We can't cheat God. It's not possible to cheat God.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, it is true, we can't cheat Him. We can't cheat Him, for He can see more than I can see myself. Hare Kṛṣṇa. I do not know fully, I do not know me, myself, fully. But He knows infinitely in the full way, knowledge about me.

Kulangana: But I was reading in the śāstra that God doesn't know Himself.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. The nirguṇa, He knows His own qualification and for that He's to take as if another shape, Baladeva. He has got His śakti.

*sukha-rūpa kṛṣṇa kare sukha āsvādana / bhakta-gaṇe sukha dite
'hlādinī'-kāraṇa*

[“Ecstasy personified is Kṛṣṇa Himself, and He feels, tastes and enjoys Himself; but only through faith is it possible to transmit and distribute that ecstasy and joy to others. Faith is the very nature of the hlādinī-śakti, the ecstasy potency, which is represented in full by Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. It can transmit total Kṛṣṇa consciousness to the devotees outside. Faith is the halo of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, by the light of which others may understand Kṛṣṇa. When the negative combines with the positive, realisation of Their function is distributed to all other negative parts.”]

He can feel Himself as He’s the Absolute Ecstasy, everything. But to make it explicit to us, our only source of help is His potency, the hlādinī. That can distribute. He’s full of ecstasy and that ecstasy to be distributed to us some potency is necessary. He Himself is ānandam. But to distribute that to others a potency is necessary. And His potency, that distributes Him to others, that is His external self. Nothing is beyond Him. Everything is within Him in a particular sense, and not within, that is also. But through His potency He’s known to others.

And also, the potency of ecstatic portion of Him, that is knowing, know, consciousness thinking, willing, thinking and feeling. Things may be for our understanding may be classified under these three heads, in general. Thinking, that anubhuti, which can understand, which can feel. That is mainly in Kṛṣṇa. But the feeling, the satisfaction, self satisfaction, that is also His part but that part is meant as hlādinī, ānandam ca, sat-cit-ānanda. The feeler and the felt of ecstasy, and the energy which maintains the existence both. These three aspects of the Absolute. So it has been described in the śāstra that Kṛṣṇa the feeler, mainly the feeler, the thinker, He feels Himself as ānanda and that part is represented in the fullest form in Rādhārāṇī. So He’s charmed by the beauty of Rādhārāṇī. He thinks, the thinking, the main aspect of thinking, Absolute, He’s charmed by the feeling aspect of the Absolute.

And Baladeva represents the general existence, the foundation, of the whole, the willing, the energy. And thinking, the feeler, and hlādinī, the felt, the ecstatic, ecstasy. In this way it has been divided for our understanding. But in total everything is one.

And there is something more to understand. Something under Baladeva and Rādhārāṇī, the two aspects. Something up to sākhya rasa, vātsalya rasa, it is commanded under Baladeva, the existence. And Rādhārāṇī from the mādhurya rasa is a separate department, that wholesale transaction, that is a separate department. In very subtle form it has been described in this way.

So, it is mentioned that Dvārakā Kṛṣṇa when He comes to see a portrait of Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa He's charmed to find His face. "I was so beautiful in My days of Vṛndāvana." He's charmed. He Himself, sukha. Sukha-rūpa kṛṣṇa kare sukha āsvādana. Sat-cit-ānanda as a whole represented in Him. But if we are to see Him in a more differentiated way then we are told like this, that His hlādinī aspect, and this thinking, Vāsudeva aspect, the thinker, principal thinker, the principal existence, and the principal object of thinking, aspiration of thinking, they may be jñāna, bala, kṛiyā, ca, as in Upaniṣad, vividhaiva śrūyate, jñāna-bala-kriyā ca.

[na tasya kāryaṁ karaṇaṁ ca vidyate, na tat samaś cābhyadhikaś ca dṛśyate parāsyā śaktir-vividhaiva śrūyate, svābhāvikī jñāna-bala-kriyā ca]

["He does not possess bodily form like that of an ordinary living entity: He has a transcendental form of bliss and knowledge, and thus there is no difference between His body and His soul. All His senses are transcendently divine. He is absolute substance. Any one of His senses can perform the action of any other sense. Nothing is greater than Him or equal to Him. His potencies are multifarious, and thus His deeds are automatically performed as a natural consequence of His divine will. In other words, whatever He wills immediately becomes reality. His divine energies are threefold: His knowledge (jñāna-śakti) potency (a.k.a. cit-

śakti or saṁvit-śakti), His strength potency (bala-śakti, a.k.a. His existence potency, sat, or sandhinī-śakti), and His pastime (kriyā-śakti) potency (a.k.a. His ecstasy potency, ānanda or hlādinī-śakti).”] [Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad, 6.8]

Bala means energy, general energy. Jñāna means the feeler, the enjoyer. And kriyā the vilāsa, the pastimes, for which He’s hankering. He has given Himself to the wave of pastimes. Jñāna-bala-kriyā ca. And thinking, feeling, willing, these three aspects of the Absolute. And they have got their respective position, but they’re ultimately one, representing one. But when differentiated, first in three groups, and then so many branches of different groups. But one is not independent of another, having some co-relation.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: Mahārāja, how should we regard the inhabitants of Navadvīpa Dhāma?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is according to ones stage one will do. The highest stage, not to disturb anyone and to adjust with them. Skilful adjustment, that according to my necessity, according my stage and necessity, I'm shown the way. But really there is perfection behind. With this attitude we should try to mingle. Apparently if any animosity we find, we are to take that in my spirit, to my test it is necessary. But in real representation it is not so.

Everywhere, still as the capitol and the country, the difference between capitol and ordinary country. So the Dhāma and ordinary. Everywhere there is abode of the Lord. A special feature in Dhāma, that is special presence of the king in his capitol, but everywhere he's placed. So Dhāma should be seen as the gist, the substance, substantial representation, and there at least we must adjust. In the country abroad we may speak freely, but at least in the capitol we must be a little careful in seeing and speaking, because there is intense power of the king is there. My good or bad future may be easily created there, in concentrated place. So we must be careful to deal specially in Dhāma, but always we must be careful in our dealing. Not anonymous, what is anonymous, and what is enemy, animistic, that is the origin in me not outside, just as began,

hṛd-vāg-vapurahir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk]*

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8]

I’m the cause that I have come, I am thrust here. I am put into prison. Why? In prison also there is gradation. According to my karma, my sin, I’m put in a particular prison. There is no mistake in the calculation of God, or nature. As that computer, a machinery calculation. So I’m put in a particular position due to, that is my fault. I’m responsible and the responsibility of my position not to be attributed to the environment. That will be wrong for me, and injurious for me.

So Dhāma in concentrated position, and anyhow and everywhere the same truth is applicable but with lower importance, and here it is increased importance, Dhāma. Just as in capitol how to deal with the king, and in ordinary country. There is concentrated position and scattered position. This sort of... Eh?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, everyone asks, “Are the Dhāmavāsīs liberated?” Everyone always asks this question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is in mukta desti, Dhāmavāsīs liberated. But māyājāl, by measurement, by measuring interest, the main interest of the measured quality we see otherwise. When that screen is removed then I shall see the Dhāma proper. Māyājāl.

Through the śāstra we are seeing the Braja līlā of Kṛṣṇa, as she told, ‘a debauch, a thief, an aggressor, all these things.’ But when we want to see through the śāstra by gradual process we are to conceive, ‘Oh, the holiest position may be such. Most purest position may be such.'

But ordinary people, 'Oh, the fools they run after Kṛṣṇa. The example, a debauch, a thief, a liar, aggressor, and he's the ideal?' The ordinary person will see.

But who can see through a particular process given by the scripture and the sādhū, that their śraddhā that will console, 'Oh, in higher conception it is possible.'

So according to the stage of our consciousness we can see things, the pure, impure.

*yā niśā sarva-bhūtānām, tasyām jāgarti saṁyamī yasyām jāgrati

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

What is day to one that is night to another. What is night to one that is day to another. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

That lady, one of the ladies told that, "Only the jealous persons, they will have objection against Kṛṣṇa." Who are jealous, want to be Kṛṣṇa himself, he will say that, "Kṛṣṇa is doing wrong." Who wants to become himself Kṛṣṇa, the enjoyer. The jealousy, that cannot allow ourselves to accept the conviction that Absolute Good He will have autocracy over everyone, and that will be good for all. The Absolute Good, He will have full control and there cannot be anything wrong. This plain conception we cannot admit.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...foam and bubbles, if we find in the Ganges water, that cannot remove the purifying capacity of the water by the stream of Ganges. So also in a Vaiṣṇava if we find some physical defect in the body or in the mind, that cannot remove his purifying capacity from within. Through his ways it is shown he's connected with the Supersoul, and Super, Supersoul Kṛṣṇa, Nārāyaṇa, etc.

dṛṣṭaiḥ svabhāva-janitair vapuṣaś ca doṣair na prākṛtatvam iha bhakta-janasya paśyet gaṅgāmbhasāṁ na khalu budbuda-phena-paṅkair brahma-dravatvam apagacchati nīra-dharmaiḥ

[“Being situated in his original Kṛṣṇa conscious position, a pure devotee does not identify with the body. Such a devotee should not be seen from a materialistic point of view. Indeed, one should overlook a devotee’s having a body born in a low family, a body with a bad complexion, a deformed body, or a diseased or infirm body. According to ordinary vision, such imperfections may seem prominent in the body of a pure devotee, but despite such seeming defects, the body of a pure devotee cannot be polluted. It is exactly like the waters of the Ganges, which sometimes during the rainy season are full of bubbles, foam and mud. The Ganges waters do not become polluted. Those who are advanced in spiritual understanding will bathe in the Ganges without considering the condition of the water.”] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 6]

So this is an important śloka in Upadeśāmṛta, by which we should not try to identify with physical, jumble together the physical and spiritual things. The learned men may have a weak body, and an intellectual giant may have a weak body. So the intellect can stand without the strong body just as. So the soul can be connected with any body which is seen by us by our eye experience. We are to gradually understand the function between matter and spirit.

When the Lord Himself appeared here, though we could see with our fleshy eye, when Kṛṣṇa, Mahāprabhu, and other incarnations come down, our physical experience also can have some conception of Him, but that is not real. If it would be so then all would be able to recognise Him as God. Śiśupāla, Dantavakra, Jarāsandha, they could not recognise Kṛṣṇa as God. So physical appearance has got nothing to do with the real connection with Godhead. Our soul’s eye must be awakened. On the whole our soul experience must be awakened to have some idea, or according to the growth of awakening of our soul experience we can understand. Some can understand Nārāyaṇa, some Brahman, Paramātmā, some Dvārakeśa or Vṛndāvaneśa, in different rasa, all depends on the soul’s awakening. And inner awakening we can have experience of the Absolute Truth in our respective necessity, innate necessity.

So we'll always be very careful to differentiate between this sense experience, our mental experience, and the soul experience. And though there is gradation in the soul experience also we are to count for that, we should be prepared for that discrimination in the soul's experience also. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Any question?

Devotee: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, there appears to be some worries, that even though the Ganges water is very spiritually purifying, but it may be materially damaging to the health of the devotees. Could you perhaps clarify that phrase.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nimāi, ke bolchen? May damage materially, but the real devotee he will try to get the spiritual benefit at the cost of the material damage.

Devotees: Jaya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? Suppose I find that the Vaiṣṇava he's seen with some infectious disease, and if I take his prasādam the disease may come in me. What shall I do? If I take prasādam of the Vaiṣṇava it will be wholesome for my soul, soul's body. But it may contaminate my physical body. So at the risk of the physical body I must take his prasādam for my souls benefit. What do you think?

Devotee: Yes. It is clear, Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. There was one Vāsudeva Vipra when Mahāprabhu was, from Purī He was in a tour in the South, then in Śrī Kurvan He met one brāhmaṇa who was suffering from leprosy but he was a pure devotee. Mahāprabhu became, was guest to, in the house of a brāhmaṇa named Kūrma, and Vāsudeva Vipra the devotee he got the intimation that, in his heart he could, he might have heard that God Himself has appeared, Kṛṣṇa, and He's in Purī and He may come this side. And he heard that He has come in our village. But before he could meet Him Mahāprabhu left the village and going off. Then from the heart that news reached him that He has left the village. Then with very emotional and earnestness he fell on the ground.

“Ha Gaurāṅga, I could not have a darśana of You. You came so far but I could not get Your darśana.”

When Mahāprabhu was going His such thought arrested His progress and He ran back and welcomed him. That brāhmaṇa whose whole body, not only that leprosy right stage. So much so that it is mentioned that the worm, or what is that? Worms are falling, worms are coming out of the sores and he's putting the worm again into his body, [so] that the worm will [not] die. He was of such spirit, and such developed leprosy in his body. But he was a devotee. Mahāprabhu came and embraced him and the body was transformed immediately we are told.

Sanātana Goswāmī when he came from Benares to Purī through the jungle route, and there was such atmosphere and water that he developed itches, a kind of itches into his body. And when he reached Purī he was oozing that wound, so many oozing with some sort of juice from the body. Then Mahāprabhu went to embrace him and he's running away.

“I am of such, born in such a mean section. And the body is such, of lower stuff that so many itches on my whole body and they're emitting a bad smell and juice. Don't touch me my Lord, I'll be offender.”

But Mahāprabhu did not care and embraced him. For a few days it was going on in that way. Then Sanātana Goswāmī told to Haridāsa, “I think I must leave the place, soon, and go to Vṛndāvana, because I cannot tolerate that my Lord, He’ll embrace me, this filthy body, and all these nasty things will get smeared on His beautiful body. I can’t tolerate. I must leave the place. Or I may do one thing. This nasty body I shall place just before the wheel of Jagannātha and it will be crushed, will crush me to death. Then I shall go in next birth I shall get a good chance of higher birth.”

Then it was taken to Mahāprabhu by Haridāsa Ṭhākura. Then Mahāprabhu told, you are to note this very carefully, very carefully that Mahāprabhu told, “The body of a devotee is not material, it is said. Usually Māyāvādī who do not care for this material good or bad, they also not care of the filthy or the pure character of this material thing. And what about devotees, they have some higher consideration.”

bhakte-deha 'prākṛta' kabhu naya, cid-ānanda

[prabhu kahe – vaiṣṇava-deha 'prākṛta' kabhu naya 'aprākṛta' deha bhaktera 'cid-ānanda-maya' dīkṣā-kāle bhakta kare ātma-samarpaṇa sei-kāle kṛṣṇa tāre kare ātma-sama sei deha kare tāra cid-ānanda-maya aprākṛta-dehe tānra caraṇa bhajaya]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: “The body of a devotee is never material. It is considered to be transcendental, full of spiritual bliss. At the time of initiation, when a devotee fully surrenders unto the service of the Lord, Kṛṣṇa accepts him to be as good as Himself. When the devotee’s body is thus transformed into spiritual existence, the devotee, in that transcendental body, renders service to the lotus feet of the Lord.”]

“It is mentioned in the scriptures that the body of a devotee is not which is seen by our fleshy eye experience. It is not confined there. Bhakte-deha 'prākṛta' kabhu naya. What we get experienced through our eyes, nose, etc, body senses, physical senses, one should not limit the standard of purity of the body of a devotee in that layer, prākṛta' kabhu naya. It is said in the scriptures, but I see that just like this ordinary material body, so many itches are there. Then what to do? I'm to believe in the revealed scripture, or to believe my eye experience? I see the filthy characteristic in the body of a devotee, but in the scriptures we are made to understand, we are wanted to understand that this is not material body.

So Kṛṣṇa, to test My genuine devotion, He has produced these things for My test, My examination, to examine My sincere affinity towards the scriptural truth, this thing has been produced by Kṛṣṇa. If I stick to My material experience then I lose My faith in the scriptures. So Haridāsa I can't do that. I can't do that. It is Kṛṣṇa's will that has produced, and only for My test. I can't fail in the examination.

I must - that this is not the material, but the special will of Kṛṣṇa to test Me, this has been created for Me, whether I'm accepting that.”

Devotee: Haridāsa Ṭhākura told...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. We don't think. No. Haridāsa Ṭhākura told, “You are our guardian, an affectionate father, mother, so just as mother by her affection she does not care the dirtiness in the stool of her son, through affection. Through affection and love, that makes Him ignore the dirt in us. Oh our Lord, devotee, we are dependent on You, and You have got much affection for us. And so Your affection does not allow You to read the defect in the object of Your affection. This is our finding.”

Haridāsa Ṭhākura told.

Then Mahāprabhu, after two days, one day suddenly and the whole thing disappeared.

Sanātana got his purest devotional body, in the external world. But Mahāprabhu also in the meantime mentioned, “That you say that it is a filthy thing emitting bad odour, but I don’t think like that. I got the scent of the catuḥsama, four good scents, catuḥsama...

Physically it may be nasty to the ordinary man of physical consciousness. So by all these we are requested, our mind is requested to attend, to draw our attention to make distinction of the goodness of spiritual and material differentiation. The spiritually good thing we may see in a material defective thing, but we may not be misguided by that. The transcendental purity we are after. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Sometimes paramahansa Vaiṣṇava does not care for any physical purity, but their heart is as pure as anything. [?] but physically they may not be very careful for the purity. There was one Vaṁsī Dāsa Bābājī here, Vaiṣṇava respected, he commanded universal respect here. Vaṁsī Dāsa Bābājī. Sometimes it was seen that some filthy things are around him. Our Param Guru Gaura Kiśora Bābājī Mahārāja he sometimes lived in a, very near, in a room that was very near to public latrine, so that ordinary people may not approach him. Then to teach us that the physical impurity is not so much injurious as this mental. Physical impurity, purity is not so dangerous as mental purity, impurity. Sometimes to avoid the mentally filthy persons, sādhū they take their shelter near the physical impurity. Our Gaura Kiśora Bābājī Mahārāja he lived in a room nearby public latrine. Physical impurity but avoiding this mental impurity. That is more dangerous. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Any question? Who is here? That Kulangana?

Devotees: Yes, she's here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Her question yesterday, that only out of our jealousy we can't recognise Kṛṣṇa. It is a very good idea. In Bhāgavatam [1.1.2] also, nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satām, from the first śloka, perhaps.

janmādy asya yato 'nvayād itarataś cārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ tene brahma hṛdā ya ādi-kavaye muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ tejo-vāri-mṛdām yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā

dhāmnā svena sadā nirasta-kuhakaṁ satyaṁ param dhīmahi

[“O my Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, son of Vasudeva, O all pervading Personality of Godhead, I offer my respectful obeisances unto You. I meditate upon Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa because He is the Absolute Truth and the primeval cause of all causes of the creation, sustenance and destruction of the manifested universes. He is directly and indirectly conscious of all manifestations, and He is independent because there is no other cause beyond Him. It is He only who first imparted the Vedic knowledge unto the heart of Brahmājī, the original living being. By Him even the great sages and demigods are placed into illusion, as one is bewildered by the illusory representations of water seen in fire, or land seen on water. Only because of Him do the material universes, temporarily manifested by the reactions of the three modes of nature, appear factual, although they are unreal. I therefore meditate upon Him, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Who is eternally existent in the transcendental abode, which is forever free from the illusory representations of the material world. I meditate upon Him, for He is the Absolute Truth.”]

dharmāḥ projjhita-kaitavo 'tra paramo nirmatsarāṇāṁ satām [vedyaṁ vāstavam atra vastu śivadaṁ tāpa-trayonmūlanam śrīmad-bhāgavate mahā-muni-kṛte kiṁ vā parair īśvaraḥ sadyo hṛdy avarudhyate 'tra kṛtibhiḥ śuśrūṣubhis tat-kṣaṇāt]

["Completely rejecting all religious activities which are materially motivated, this Bhāgavata- Purāṇa propounds the highest truth, which is understandable by those devotees who are fully pure in heart. The highest truth is reality distinguished from illusion for the welfare of all. Such truth uproots the threefold miseries. This beautiful Bhāgavatam, compiled by the great sage Vyāsadeva (in his maturity), is sufficient in itself for God realisation. What is the need of any other scripture? As soon as one attentively and submissively hears the message of Bhāgavatam, by this culture of knowledge the Supreme Lord is established within his heart."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2]

The Vedavyāsadeva in his introduction to Bhāgavatam in the second śloka he mentions this. "That I'm preparing this scripture. Why? I have given many things to the world [?]

We are told. But what is the necessity of this new inauguration? Projjhita-kaitavo 'tra paramo nirmatsarāṇāṁ satāṁ. This is specially prepared for the non jealous people. Jealousy, matsarāṇāṁ _____ [?] One who cannot tolerate the good of others, matsara, can't tolerate." Our Guru Mahārāja told that, "The Māyāvādīs they're all matsara, they can't..."

Like that Washington slogan, "No taxation without representation. We don't accept any prime cause if we're not represented. So ham, the prime cause I must be there, otherwise I won't admit that is the prime cause."

And Guru Mahārāja told, "Geocentric and heliocentric conception. Because I am here on this Earth so Earth must be in the centre. The others say, 'Though I'm not in the Sun, but we admit that Sun is in centre and not our Earth.'"

So, the matsarata, that the spirit of jealousy does not allow us to recognise that Kṛṣṇa is all in all, and we have got no position but that of a slave of Him. This is self abnegation, nirmatsara, who has got no trace of jealousy in their heart, they can accept such type of Godhead of the Supreme Cause must be like that. Our defective position should sincerely prove to us that we may not have a position in the Supreme place, then we cannot deviate in such lower conception.

So everything is for Kṛṣṇa. Nothing for me. But by the great grace of the great Lord, I may be considered as a slave to Him. The self abnegation, the tyāga, the renunciation, the living renunciation. That is dead renunciation. The living renunciation is there in the dedication and the dedication of the fortune, of the faith, at the disposal of the Absolute. There lies real renunciation, of self abnegation, that nirmatsara. Only they can have the conception of the Absolute Truth as Kṛṣṇa the autocrat, the despot. He's the owner and enjoyer of anything and everything, even including me. So this is the highest abnegating spirit, that is dedication, nirmatsarāṇāṁ satām.

Jealousy is the greatest enemy in us. One who has got a pinch of it he cannot come in Kṛṣṇa consciousness [?] because Kṛṣṇa is all in all [?]

But by doing that they're benefited also, most. He's autocrat, He's above law. So as He comes to grace me no law can bind Him. I have got that fortune, so it is not a loss but it is the gain of us, that He's autocrat, He's above law. He's merciful, He's graceful. So we can have, can consider us to be fortunate because so low we are, if by justice He's to come we have got no hope. But only graciously He can come and uplift us to any position He likes. That is our prospect here.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Kulangana: My name is Kulangana. So yesterday I said that Lord Rāmacandra was sent to the forest, Daṇḍakaranya forest. But myself I don't feel like sending to the forest. I feel that I come to the spiritual abode. I don't think that I am condemned. I feel it extremely hard to express my happiness to be here. I don't think that I'm in India, I didn't come to India. My spiritual master A.C. Bhaktivedānta Prabhupāda he said that, "In India people there are interested in politics." And he couldn't start his movement so he come to West.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ke bolchen?

Devotee: [?]

Kulangana: And it's very nice to take bath in the Ganges. But I am the most interested to have association of a great Vaiṣṇava to make...

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only show your nobility, the noble heart. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Another gentleman was putting a question?

Kulangana: Please forgive my offences at your lotus feet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Devotee: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, how do we tell which Vaiṣṇavas we should listen to and hear philosophy from? How do we judge which personality it is beneficial to listen to?

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just as light is self effulgent, how can I see that this light gives more lustre than another. In that way. The recipient will make you acquainted that this light is stronger, this sound is stronger, and this is of lower order. In this way. Whatever you are searching, whether that is coming more intensified way, or pure way, or filthy way, or this lower degree of current. In this way. The feeler will say. The sincerity, the sincere capacity of recipient, of receiving, that will be the guarantee. Hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, the heart, the approval of your inner heart, that will be the guarantee. In Manu- sarmhitā [2.1] the definition of religion, of duty, has been given in this way.

hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata]*

That is generally observed by those that are learned in the revealed scripture, sadbhir. And that is also corroborated by the saints who do not differentiate between the worldly good and bad. Nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ. Who does not care, has no attachment for the good and bad of this world, sevitaḥ, accepted by them. Nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ, hṛdayenābhyanujñāto. And the third group whose internal approval, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata. The real conception of duty must have these three certificates. One from the revealed scripture. Another from the current sādhū who does not care for worldly benefit of loss or gain. And the third, internal recognition of his sincere heart. By these three things we are to judge whether it is true or untrue, be saved for our safety. Nutshell I say. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes, I follow.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But is it clear?

Devotee: Yes, it's clear.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. You are to think and think, then it will be clear.

Devotee: One question at the back.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? Yes. What?

Devotee: [?]

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ātmā, who says that all ātmā are of equal status? No, never it is. They have got their specific capacity and prospect. Every unit has got its something common and something precious, everywhere. The gradation there, there are so many atoms, but if we have got eye to detect the differentiation in the atom that is also possible. Really it is so. No one soul is totally identical with another soul. No atom can be completely identical with another atom. The differentiative nature is universal. No two things can be identical, some difference and something common.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where will they go? Those that come in this world from the marginal stage who are getting the connection with the [?] marginal connection, they go, cross over.

'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana'

*[upajiyā bāḍe latā 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya 'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi'
'paravyoma' pāya tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana'*

'kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpavṛkṣe kare ārohana]

["The creeper of devotion is born, and grows to pierce the wall of the universe. It crosses the Virajā river and the Brahman plane, and reaches to the Vaikuṇṭha plane. Then it grows further up to Goloka Vṛndāvana, finally reaching to embrace the wish-yielding tree of Kṛṣṇa's Lotus Feet."]]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153-4]

He can cross with the help of the sādhū, Guru, that marginal position very easily.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In peculiar stages that is possible, not in general. But in special cases, by the special will of the Lord, by a very powerful devotee of the Lord. It is possible that from that slumber they can be identified and taken to. But that is very, very rare, in special case.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm. Because they're not awake, they're completely in slumber, deep slumber. To detect, to find, to take us, that is a very peculiar strategy is necessary. Only in the special case that is possible, not ordinary.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From Mahāmāyā the recruitment is possible from Brahmaloḥa and Virajā, but that is very rare, by the special order of the Lord. He knows everything. Though it is undetectable, ākṣara, kūṭa-sthaḥ, but in the eye of the Lord everything is clear. So may be possible, but very, very rare.

Devotees: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Purity, that may be of two kinds, apparent and real. Apparent purity is sattya guṇa. Tama guṇa in this world may be to make the best of a bad bargain. The whole thing is bad, but there is distinction in bad and bad, more bad and less bad. During the sattya guṇa the purity is according to that. But the Absolute purity is not, that is of another type, nirguṇa type, wholesale purity, nirguṇa. That is maybe found in the midst of apparently physical impurity, in a bad, the devotion may be traced. Slight purity may be found apparently in the midst of this material impurity. So it is real purity, and this is comparative purity in this māyā. The wholesale is misunderstanding. Less misunderstanding and gross misunderstanding. So less misunderstanding is little purer, but apparent is misunderstanding. Something like that. So purity is absolute purity. Sometimes it may be seen in material impurity for the time being, but still it is purity of the highest order. And whatever purity it has attained that won't be finished and that will take him to the highest position. The absolute purity and the relative purity we are to distinguish.

We may stop here. You may get time to cook and to do the serving duty. I'm not also feeling well.

Devotee: Jaya Om Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya

Devotees: Jaya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sevā Vṛnda kī jaya!

We try to let our hours following some rules, which is connected with our human nature and_____ [?] But there are so many worms and insects, they have their full generation within one hour. Within one hour of our measure, that may be a few lives together, there are few generations. And also we are told that one day of Brahmā, or one night of Brahmā, that means in our calculation it is crores of years. So small span of time may seem to us a long, long, time, period. And space also like that. Time and space, these are the factors of thought, thinking. The controlling subject is there, Super Subject. He's controlling. The idea, style, more or less, or more space or less space, the whole thing is controlled by the Super Subjective Area. We are told, the night when the rasa līlā took place, by the special desire of the Lord, one brahmaratri, that sahasra yuga, in human measurement, was entered into that night. Possibly it was arranged like that. One brahmaratra was managed to enter into our ordinary night space, time, span of time. But still the gopīs thought, just a twinkling of an eye the whole night passed away. Only as a twinkling of an eye, nimesh [?] that is twinkling of an eye. The whole night passed away so small span, though a sahasra yuga of measurement of Brahmā's night was entered into it, by the Supreme Agency.

So it is all questions of relativity. We are depending, we are floating on the whimsical wave of the sweet will of the Lord and His potency. We are play dolls. We are floating in the waves like play dolls. That is our position. So only we shall try our best to be, not in opposition: always in submission, ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ.

[anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā]

[“One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service.”] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.167] & [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.11, purport]

Not prātikūlyena, contributing, with the attitude of some contribution towards the fulfilment of the līlā. His līlā ocean. The waves of the līlā in an ocean. It is playing like that. We shall keep to the side of the authority, ānukūlyena, not in opposition but we should try. Everything is infinite, the mādhurya-rasa, the friend rasa, sākhya rasa, vātsalya rasa, anything which is in the relativity of the infinite, all infinite. And what is one's own natural rasa, that seems to him to be the best type.

Yaśodā won't say that the mādhurya-rasa will be better. She can't say. “Oh, this vātsalya rasa is the best.”

The sākhya, the friends will also say like that, feel like that. “That what we realise from our relative position, the friendly service, that is the highest. That is the highest.”

[kintu yāñra] yei rasa, sei sarvottama / [taṭa-stha hañā vicāṛile, āche tara-

Whoever is naturally in possession of a particular attitude towards the service of Kṛṣṇa, he considers that to be the best. This is the general way. But still, taṭa-stha hañā vicāṛile, āche tara- tama. If it is possible to judge indifferent, withdrawing from the relative speciality of particular service, then calculation is possible, and then superiority and inferiority can be judged. It is possible also. Taṭa-stha hañā vicāṛile, āche tara- tama. More and less, this is there if it is possible for anyone to become indifferent from, withdrawal from the relative position of the rasa, and then to calculate. Then they have calculated the śanta, dāsya, sākhyā, vātsalya, mādhyā, svakīya, parakīya, in this way the development goes on, and can be understood. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So nimesena [?] A twinkling of an eye. One yuga, this one light year, they say light year, the ray of the electricity means so quickly that it can circumambulate within, in one second it can circumambulate seven times this Earth. That is one lākh, seventy five thousand miles in a second, that is the...

Only one lākh, then how much distance it can cover? Light year, that one year that ray can go, run, as much as traced, that is called light year. And by that measurement they say so many stars are there, it is of the distance of so much, light years. Such measurement is there also, and more and more. But all controlled by the Super Subject.

yugāyitaṁ nimeṣena, cakṣuṣā prāvṛṣāyitaṁ [śūnyāyitaṁ jagat sarvaṁ,

[“O Govinda! Without You, the world is empty. Tears are flooding my eyes like rain, and a moment seems like forever.”] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 7]

One [?] one twinkling of an eye, that can be converted into one yuga, twelve years of time. Mahāprabhu says that, “I can’t have darśana of the Lord. Yugāyitaṁ nimeṣena, cakṣuṣā prāvṛṣāyitaṁ. One twinkling of an eye seems to Me like one yuga, twelve years.”

raso vai saḥ. [rasaṁ hyevāyaṁ labdhānandī bhavati

[“Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the embodiment of all ecstatic bliss; He is the reservoir of all pleasure. Having derived ecstasy from Him, the individual souls become blissful. For, who indeed, could breath, who could be alive if this Blissful Lord were not present within the hearts of all souls. He alone bestows ecstasy.”] [Taittirīya Upaniṣad, 2.7] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 9.2]

We are all subservient of rasa, ecstasy, beauty, love, every one of us from the core of our hearts we are thirsty of that divine blissfulness. Knowingly, unknowingly, every one of us, consciously, unconsciously, it is our innermost nature that this thirst of that particular rasa, sukham. We can't say, anyone of us, none of us can say that. We want satisfaction. We want fulfilment. Everyone of us must feel, must seek, admit, that we want fulfilment in our life. And how to get the fulfilment that is the problem. And so, so many sciences have come, knowledge, and the diligence of different types they approach us to fulfil our innermost hankering, that our rasa, innermost.

Some say, "We want energy, power." Some say, "No, we want knowledge." But some say, "We are, we want beauty, we want love." In this way it has been dealt with scientifically, and shown. But those that have told that it is, "What is love, that we want really, from our heart. We belong to that section, and no energy, no knowledge, no power even can satisfy our inner hankering. But beauty and love. That is what we want from the core of our heart. And Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva They came with this idea, that your diagnosis, that your real inner most want is not for anything else but for love. And if you want to go to that land to live in, then you are to follow the particular process, to reach that highest plane of life, through dedication, through śraddhā, through faith. In such way, the Lord of love, and His domain. That is such and such. You are to hear, you are to increase your earnestness, your thirst for the same, and to accept a particular process through which you can reach there. That is what is wanting, devotion.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Any question, from any quarter?

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: [?]

Devotee: She said, "How can we increase and develop our faith?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, general question. By improving our serving attitude, and coming in connection with sādhū and śāstra, scripture and living scripture. Living scripture. If we can, if we like to better our pecuniary position, then anyhow we have come to a place where the money is, anyhow we shall have to come and then to see how we can get money from there. So also if we want that divine love, anyhow we are to come to a place where that love is. So in the heart of a sādhū we find a trace of that love, pure love, divine love. We are to differentiate between lust and love, and the differentiating trace is this, that sacrifice. Die to live. Love always wants to give, die to live. By giving we can get it. As much as we can give, and as freely we get it as a reaction we get that thing. By taking we lose, we can get loan. By giving what we get in reaction that is good. And the quality of giving our gift will also bring in return such quality of things for us. Offer and have. Dedicate yourself and automatically you will get the benefit. Don't want anything for yourself. Unqualified surrender and dedication, and similar noble things you'll also get in return. Be noble, be generous, in your gifts, in your dedication and in that quality you will - nature is not bankrupt. The Lord is not bankrupt. As much as you will risk in your dedication, so much you'll be benefited. Unconsciously you'll find that is within you, it has come automatically. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.”]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śraddhā. Before that also ajñāta-sukṛti, jñāta-sukṛti. Śraddhā, the definition of śraddhā.

['Śraddhā' - sabde] - viśvāsa kahe sudṛḍha niścaya kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya

[“Śraddhā is confident, firm faith that by rendering transcendental loving service to Kṛṣṇa one automatically performs all subsidiary activities. Such faith is favourable to the discharge of devotional service.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.62]

If I discharge my duty toward the central truth of love then everything is done. We may concentrate, control whole of my energy and dedicate to a particular central position and others all will be served automatically. As we put food into the stomach the whole body is served. Like that. Pour water into the root of the tree the whole tree is nourished. So, to get such faith within one's heart that is the very important thing for us that it is possible. It is possible, the central truth is there, this conviction. If we discharge our duty in His connection everything is done. We should not be partial, we should not be prejudiced. To become out of all prejudice is to try to find the centre. Eliminating the branches if we mind to the centre that is not to suffer under any prejudice but that is freedom. We are to find it.

Give up all your duties that you are so busy in discharging. You can easily eliminate, you can easily take off from all engagements and direct towards the centre. You won't be the loser thereby. This faith. Such policy of life is possible. And not only possible but it is the best beneficiary to us. If we disconnect from the whole of the environment and concentrate towards the centre, that will be no elimination in the proper sense, but that will be to be centred. To be centred and that is what is necessary for the progress of our life.

This faith, śraddhā, then sādhū saṅga, then to come in connection with those that are engaged in such campaign, necessarily we shall select their association, their company. And thereby the transaction will be give and take. "What shall I do? What you are doing you are moving in such and such way and you are improving. So please instruct me how I can move from my present position, I can utilise my position, I can improve my position, I can go make progress further towards the truth." In this way sādhū-saṅga. Śravaṇa, kīrtana, comes in there to listen about that and to reproduce that to the public. Thereby cultivation thereby strengthens ones own faith and position by reproducing, kīrtana. Smaraṇa, in time of leisure also to think about that, what I am doing, what is my prospect, how to attain all these, thinking. Pāda-sevanam, then it will take me to some such a stage that there is a figure. A figure there is the duty of the heart to discharge; the head is there, the mouth is there, the hand is there, all these. What we find in the human society, that has got their original position in the ideal of the highest type. So pāda-sevanam, the lowest part I can help. Help means soothing service. In this way pāda-sevanam.

That will come within us and will require to be satisfied by such activity, a particular feeling of service, particular type of service to the Absolute. He's personal, He has head, He has eye, He has leg, He has everything. Otherwise where from these come in the human beings and in the animals also?

What is not in the cause cannot come in the effect. What is in the effect that must be in the cause. So, in the ideal there is existence of such humanly fashion.

[gope-veśa, veṇu-kara nava kiśora, nata-vara, nara līlāra haya anurūpa]*

["Lord Kṛṣṇa has many pastimes, of which His pastimes as a human being are the best. His form as a human being is the Supreme Transcendental Form. In this form, He is a cowherd boy. He carries a flute in His hand, and His youth is new. He is also an expert dancer. All this is just suitable for His pastimes as a human being."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya- līlā, 21.101]

Mahāprabhu is enjoying in a very pathetic mood. "You are so near to Kṛṣṇa. The highest līlā, the highest pastimes of the highest order, that is very near to this human fashion. So, in one respect we are very near to Him."

So this pāda-sevanam. Then arcanaṁ, vandanaṁ, always from the core of our heart to appreciate. Appreciate His existence, His nature, His dealings towards us, His pastimes of different ways, to appreciate them; vandanaṁ. Sakhyam, to come nearer to His service. To come in the confidential area, to enter the confidential area of service of the Supreme, sakhyam. Ātma-nivedanam, and on the whole everywhere the spirit, the general spirit will be to dedication, self dedication. That noble nature of our life's quality from within to dedicate, to make one's self empty by giving. Generally we think by giving we lose the thing, but it is not so. By giving we gain. We give in gross form, we get as reaction in a subtle form, and in higher form. So by giving we do not lose, by giving we gain. Especially in the case where we give to the higher place. By giving, that is by giving, by serving we gain as remuneration of the service in some noble coin, noble reaction we get. So sakhyam, ātma nivedanam, in all these ways we are required to deal with the higher nature. And thereby we gain, we get clear conception.

prapadyamānasya yathāśnataḥ syus, tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo

Generally we have some conception of the object of our service, how, what nature He is, and our serving attitude also increases in the meantime. And our indifference to what is non-God, that is to enjoy up to renunciation, that also decreases. We feel disturbed if we are anyhow connected with the spirit of renunciation, or encroachment, or exploitation. That we shudder to come in connection with exploitation and renunciation. No question of exploitation and no question of renunciation. Why? There is fulfilment in the noble line of all our lives. Why renunciation? Renunciation means negative side.

[“The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti-yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, and thus, even within this world, their spiritualised bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31]

Bhakti will increase bhakti. The dedication will help our progress in the line of dedication.

_____ [?] “Nothing succeeds like success.” Something like that idiom in English. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Sādhū-saṅga, śāstra-saṅga, the statements, the advices of the *sādhū*s that are collected in books, to try to understand, to follow that, to cultivate that. And that also with the help of a living scripture that is,

“yāha, bhāgavata paḍa vaiṣṇavera sthāne [ekānta āśraya kara caitanya-carāṇe]

["If you want to understand Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam," he said, "you must approach a self-realized Vaiṣṇava and hear from him. You can do this when you have completely taken shelter of the lotus feet of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 5.131]

To get the real standpoint of our learning from the scripture we want a teacher repeat it, proper teacher from which we are to understand. Ācāryavān puruṣo veda. One who has got a real guide, a real professor to teach, he can understand the meanings of the revealed scriptures. It is very hard to try to get out the real purpose what is embodied in the revealed scriptures. So it is necessary that a proper guide, proper teacher, we should get from whom we shall read, under whose guidance and instruction, praṇipāta, paripraśna, sevā. And higher living agents necessary for our promotion, progress, that is general way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol.

Cultivation, proper cultivation of the truth, that will give us progress, proper cultivation. And proper, that is in this way, in the presence of the experts of the department. If any error they will detect and help us, guide us. That is in every case, here also it is such.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

This is the general, if we take Hari Nāma also in this process, nāmāparādha, nāmābhāsa we are to dismiss and make progress towards śuddha-nāma.

asādhū-sange bhai "kṛṣṇa nāma" nahi haya ["nāmākṣara" bahiraya batu nāma kabu naya]

& [Gauḍīya-Kaṇṭhahāra, 17.55]

If we take the name, the divine name of the Lord that is a most helpful process towards the achievement of devotion. But there also, asādhū-saṅge bhai “kṛṣṇa nāma” nahi, we cannot take properly the name in the company of the non-devotees. Nāmākṣara” bahiraya batu. We may be seen to labour, to pronounce the sound, but only the form cannot produce the essence within. The essential help also must have to come, and that is, can be attained only through the approach of serving or dedication. So dedication, bhakti is everything.

Although a Māyāvādī can also take the name, a parrot also can take the name, a machine also can take the name. But mere sound, a peculiar vibration in the physical ether, that is not the real thing. But the inner vibration where the man is, where the soul is, the vibration must be there. Something must be produced, cultivated there in the soul, in the heart. Who is the receiver, who is searching for his own satisfaction? It must come in association of that point, of that plane. Nāma and every process of devotion must touch the soul, the inner party, real party. The cultivation must be in the real plane, not in the physical or mental aspect of the soul. These are all covering, physical covering, mental covering. The party, the man, the person who is the soul, and the cultivation, whatever, it must take place in that plane anyhow. We are to take it there, the soul’s plane. Have to rouse the soul to awake. And the soul can only cooperate with the Supersoul, that plane of Kṛṣṇa, Vaikuṇṭha, Goloka. The activity must be, [sādhū saṅga kṛṣṇa nāma ei matta jai] vaikuṇṭha nāma grahaṇam aśeṣāgham haraṁ vidun

Serving means die to live; to throw oneself wholesale for the higher existence.”]

The name, the sound must be Vaikuṇṭha, must be of infinite character not only of this phenomenal word. Words must not be confined into the phenomenal plane, must be deep culture, soul culture. Soul and Supersoul culture, the attempt must be in that plane. We must be very careful about that. The depth, about the depth of our culture; it must be within the core of our heart, in the very essence of our existence. That we shall be very mindful of.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Not lip depth but heart depth where we are, where the man is, that is the soul, and then our inner most thirst can be quenched. It must be detected, the thirst is where to be located; in the core of our heart, and our action must satisfy. It must be of that type, that quality.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

... already given to there. Only try to mix with them that will help you to take them, to that place. That place, the land of Kṛṣṇa. The land of Yaśodā in the vātsalya rasa, Nanda. Where the Lord bears the shoes of His father on His head. And that is natural there, where Yaśodā can whip her child for thieving so many things, stealing so many things. And He's there.

The bhakti, the devotion, the love, the play can play with Him in such a way. It is possible. The Infinite has been, has become the servant of the finite, as if. As if, He's so low that He's subservient to the finite. So, so low, or so high He is, His high position where we may be taken, so close connection, it is possible.

But the, nirmatsarāṇāṁ satām, then one qualification is necessary Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam [1.1.2] says in the beginning. "All these attainments are in your favour, in your fortune, but one condition, nirmatsarāṇāṁ satām, this is only for those people, honest people. The honesty is to be tested, to be examined, that honesty must be of this type, nirmatsara. Complete elimination of the element like jealousy within you, jealousy."

If jealousy is there, matsara, para sri kartara, matsarata, matsara means para sri kartara, one who cannot tolerate the good of others. That is matsara. Matsara is he who cannot tolerate the good of another, that is, he's matsara.

So Māyāvādīs all matsara because they cannot tolerate that any other thing will hold the supreme position where he's not being represented. With this idea they can go only up to mukti, Brahmaloka. And after Brahmaloka, if they're to enter, they will have to admit that without his representation the highest thing can remain, highest things are existent. So they're not nirmatsara.

But bhāgavata, the devotee, must be nirmatsara. Our Guru Mahārāja used to use this analogy, heliocentric and geocentric.

So ham means geocentric. 'Because I am on the Earth, Earth must be in the centre. I won't admit any other plan or proposal. I am on the Earth so Earth must be in the centre.'

But heliocentric, 'Though I am not on the Sun, but I admit that Sun is in the centre.' So the devotees they're of heliocentric thought. 'He's all in all. I may be His negligent part, but I am not all in all.'

But Māyāvādīs will say, 'No. So ham. I am Brahman.' They're all geocentric. And heliocentric are the devotees. 'No. Kṛṣṇa is all in all.'

So nirmatsarāṇām satām, matsarata. 'I must be represented. I do not admit anything more. No taxation without representation. No admittance of giving any rent where I'm not the manager.' So that Washington's slogan.

So nirmatsarāṇām satām, matsarata, parasri karata. The toleration of others prosperity, superiority, that is that everyone is my Guru, in other words. Whatever I shall find there, everyone is my Guru, and my guardian, and my affectionate friend. That sort of consciousness we are to get, we are to earn, the nirmatsarāṇām satām.

Then only can we be admitted into the plane of Vṛndāvana. Nirmatsara, self eliminated to the highest sense, then you'll be there, you'll be played. Everything is nirmatsara, but they are, the type is there, but the bad essence is not there, bad odour is not there. So there, everything is adored, everything. The Nanda's shoes are being adored on the head of the Supreme. What is the position? The shoe of Nanda is taken on the head, by whom we say, take to be The Supreme Entity.

Because there is no matsarata, parasri karata, none has any conception of the superiority of, cannot tolerate the superiority of others. It is such. The plane, the first faith is that, the creed, the general creed is that, and there of course development for the līlā, the development, the big and small, all these things are there. But the party feeling, this separate consciousness of that sort of party feeling is eliminated. That is līlā, play.

Real fight and mock fight. In drama one is killed, a man who is killed in a drama fight, he gets more applause than the killer, it may be.

Prabhupāda [Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura] told that, “Simha prasena [?]”

Simha killed Prasena, then Simha was again killed by Jambavan. Because it is līlā so who is killed, killer and the killed, both are satisfied. Both, who is killed, he’s feeling misery? No. Because killing is not in fact eternal. Eternal, cetan, in Vaikuṇṭha nothing is killed, all is eternal, all is consciousness. Then the play of killing and being killed, that is only a form, only a form, and both are satisfied. Who is being killed, who is robbed, he’s also satisfied, and who is robbing he’s also satisfied. A play. That is līlā, without causing any real misery to any party.

The movement is going, movement does not effect any dissipation. Movement generally means some dissipation of energy, dissipation, but here the movement without any dissipation, rather promoting energy, the opposite. Because the very nature of things requires it, where there is no death, where there is no pain, but still the drama, the play is going on like that. So we are to understand in that way, because it is of the soul. The soul is immortal. Supersoul, what is the question of being in mortality. And what is immortal that is constant. There is no dissipation. There is no mortal transformation. It is already a constant thing. And still play is going on, as if, killer, killing, all things, and giving, non-giving, in infinite.

If we deal with zero, so if we can deal with infinite, if you deal with zero everything is unaffected, all transaction zero. Then where you are you are that, no progress, no loss. So also if you deal with infinite the similar case, no loss, no gain, it is there. But still there is the environment, the play is there, cid-vilāsa. So it is difficult to understand what cid-vilāsa is. It is easy to find that the prime cause will be non-differentiated, non-specified, like zero, like slumber, deep slumber. The prime cause, the foundation of the whole, to conceive it is easy, that must be something like zero. But the infinite is also similar to zero, but it is positive, this is negative.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Līlā-māyā. Gaura Hari.

The land of occupation, the land under possession, and the land where we give our own possession to Him. Everything in possession given to Him. And thereby they get some reciprocative possession. Giving everything he gets some higher honour.

Suppose a king he has given everything to the subjects, he has got nothing, he's a beggar now. But he gets some respect from the heart of everybody, because what he had he has given everything. By that he has got everything. He has conquered the heart of everyone. So he's a king of another world. So something like that. Give everything to the extreme and you have the extreme. It is possible. So,

*martyo yadā tyakta-samasta-karmā, niveditātmā vicikīrṣito me
tadāmṛtatvaṁ pratipadyamāno, mayātmā-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai*

[“One who is subjected to birth and death attains immortality when he gives up all material activities, dedicates his life to the execution of My order, and acts according to My directions. In this way, he becomes fit to enjoy the spiritual bliss derived from exchanging loving mellows with Me.”]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.29.34]

“Who gives everything to Me, he becomes Mine, cent percent. He becomes Mine who gives everything to Me. Thereby he becomes My own.”

This is natural. This is not a redundant hyperbolic thing. Give everything to Him. And you also belong to Him. And He comes to you, visa versa. So don't want anything, even moksa, even liberation.

‘Gauḍīya Maṭha preaches slave mentality.’ That was the general complaint. ‘Not dignity of the attainment, of their prospect, but slave mentality they want ultimately. That it is the most dignified thing to be a slave to that Highest Entity. Stands for the dignity of the human race. Wants to the stage of master of this māyā to the slave of the Absolute. Wants to take you up there. To become slave means friendly, wholesale giving, friendship, the friendly position of the Supreme Entity. Slave means that.’

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not well?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He went to Kṛṣṇaga yesterday. But after that I did not meet him.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Not feeling well.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only heard through someone that partly successful. One accepted, another he'll go to Calcutta. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So one question...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I'm told, yesterday evening by Yenavendra [?] Prabhu...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: One boy would like to ask a question Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? Yes, what is it? Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Devotee: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, you were saying earlier on that the leaders of the masses should be honoured so that they will not be an obstacle on the path of devotional service. So if they are an obstacle, somehow or other they do present some obstacles on the path of devotional service, should we still honour them?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is he?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Nitya-siddha, disciple of Jayatīrtha Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is his question?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He's said, "You're saying we should honour the leaders of the masses so that they don't give some obstacle. But if they do give an obstacle should we still honour them?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is conditional. If you give more honour, by that degree of honour he may be conquered. Generally to avoid with some honour, that is the process given by Mahāprabhu, amāninā mānadena [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]. Your dealings will be generally that it will be more effective in the long run. Amāninā, you don't want any honour from them, but you will give their due honour. That process generally to be used, and in the long run that has been seen to be more successful in our way, in our journey.

But if it's not possible everywhere according to the temperament of the person then they will have to suffer from the reaction. But on the whole that has been found to be the highest process. Because the journey is not very short, a long way, and that attitude has been considered to be the most useful. Amāninā mānadena, don't want any honour but give honour to them. You are to adore. In Bhāgavatam also, prema-maitrī-kṛpopekṣa, bālīśeṣu dviṣatsu ca.

[īśvare tad-adhīneṣu, bālīśeṣu dviṣatsu ca prema-maitrī-kṛpopekṣa, yaḥ karoti sa madhyamaḥ]

[“The devotee in the intermediate stage of devotional service is called a madhyama-adhikārī. He loves the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is a sincere friend to all the devotees of the Lord, shows mercy to the innocent and disregards the envious.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.46]

Those that are against you, with indifference, indifferent to them, not attack, offensive for offensive, that will waste your energy more, but avoid, avoid. If you stick to that, in the long run you'll be victorious, upekṣāḥ. Prema, love, affinity towards God. Maitrī, friendship with the devotees. And bālīśe, that ordinary ignorant, to be benevolent towards them. And to the enemy, indifference. The general recommendation from Bhāgavatam.

And by Mahāprabhu something more.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ

[“One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa.”]

Don't oppose anyone, give opposition to anyone. But still, if any opposition comes to you, try to tolerate. And especially, don't encroach on the honour of anyone, but give honour to all. This policy will help you more, for the longest journey.

All the positive energy we can collect should be devoted towards the, should be dedicated towards my highest aim. Maximum we can gather should not be wasted in any other way but to my highest end. And at the same time we shall be conscious. “If He likes to protect me He can do. I'm not living in the relativity of a stone. But all conscious and omniscient and omnipotent entity, He's seeing everything. And if He likes He can interfere. As in the case of Prahlad and so many other devotees, He participated to protect His devotees.”

Parvat Mahārāja: May I ask a question?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Parvat Mahārāja: What Rūpa Goswāmī says in Upadeśāmṛta that one of the causes of fall down is to over endeavour to get things which are very difficult materially. So what is the limit of our endeavour to get things for Kṛṣṇa which are very difficult?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everywhere ‘you cut your coat according to your cloth.’ That is yukta- vairāgya, that is applicable everywhere. As our Guru Mahārāja told, maharambha, that a man who has got the capacity of managing a kingdom, an empire, he can find more time, make much time, much leisure. And another man he cannot manage his own family of two or five members, the whole time engrossed there and becomes mad to manage a family of five. So according to the capacity one’s to adjust himself in his ways, sādhana.

Suppose if a devotee’s a king and there’s molestation in the temple under his rule, he can’t be indifferent. He’s in that position, he has got his duty, he must go to protect and give punishment. Because he’s a king in the position of the government so he will - but indifferently he may do that, as his duty, not as a man. Ostentatiously he may go on doing his duty, but internally he may be non- interfering.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written in Kṛṣṇa-saṁhitā, vāagrāhī, sāagrāhī, two types of people. One reads, hears, and collects many things in the form of advice and understanding, but they cannot find out the gist, the very substance of the thing. But sāagrāhī, they collect the very gist of everything and eliminate the vyādhī. And the sāagrāhī, the highest class of devotion. Externally he’s managing the government and society, everything he’s doing, but internally perhaps he’s a gopī of Vṛndāvana. A gopī internally, there he’s another, and he’s doing his duty in that way. But externally he’s a king, or he’s a general, he’s fighting. So such double function also one may have, sometimes, not always.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...of coming direct to Mahāprabhu Himself. And who, that is Mahāprabhu, gave his charge to Svarūpa Dāmodara who is considered to be the second of Mahāprabhu.

directly represented Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu as His second expansion.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 10.111]

His charge was handed over to Svarūpa Dāmodara. And then once he faltered and again he came to Mahāprabhu. “Why You have made me leave my saṁsāra? And what is my aim of life? I don’t understand clearly. You please instruct personally.”

Then Mahāprabhu told him, “I have given your charge to Svarūpa Dāmodara. He knows more than I know, so don’t undermine him. Still, if you have got any liking to hear from Me direct, I say these things.”

*grāmya-kathā nā śunibe, grāmya-vārtā nā kahibe bhāla nā khāibe āra

*amānī mānada hañā kṛṣṇa-nāma sadā la'be vraje rādhā-kṛṣṇa-sevā

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu told Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī: “Don’t indulge in worldly talk, don’t hear worldly talk. Try your best to avoid mundane matters. Don’t eat delicious dishes, but take whatever ordinary food may come of its own accord; and don’t dress luxuriously. Always try to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa with the attitude of giving respect to others, without expecting respect from anyone. Be humble, but never aspire after respectful dealings from others. In this way, try to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa constantly. And within, try to serve Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana. Mentally, be in Vṛndāvana rendering service to Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa-līlā.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 6.236-7]

These four lines again He repeated. “Don’t care for good prasādam, food, don’t care for good food, bhāla nā khāibe. Or good dress, āra bhāla nā paribe. Grāmya-kathā nā śunibe, grāmya-vārtā nā. First line, don’t attend to worldly discussions, material discussions, don’t enter there, grāmya-vārtā nā. And you yourself also don’t discuss these worldly things with anyone. Neither you listen to, nor you speak about the mundane things. And don’t try to get the good dish, and nor for good dress. Then, amānī mānada hañā kṛṣṇa-nāma sadā, without caring for the environment you should go on with taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa. Not hankering for any fame, prestige, but you will give prestige to everyone. You will try to give prestige to everyone, but don’t hanker for the prestige from others. Amānī mānada hañā kṛṣṇa-nāma. In this mood go on taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa. And Vraja Rādhā- Kṛṣṇa sevā, and sometimes if you feel tendency to your highest object of life, do that very secretly, don’t take it out in the public, but in your mind in meditation you may go on with Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa pastimes.”

And that was granted to him, and that Govardhana Śilā and guñja-mālā. Then again Mahāprabhu took him by his hand and put it to Svarūpa Dāmodara, that he has crossed, already he put to Svarūpa Dāmodara. “That Svarūpa Dāmodara’s prestige, the Vaiṣṇava prestige to keep up, again He put to Svarūpa Dāmodara.

And Raghunātha dāsa most faithfully he, as long as he lived, he tried his best under the direction of Svarūpa Dāmodara. But when Mahāprabhu Himself and Svarūpa Dāmodara suddenly expired, departed, then he thought, “Why should I live here? It is difficult for me to go on with my life. And also I should see once Vṛndāvana [?] Rūpa, Sanātana is there, Mahāprabhu's favourite disciples." He started for Vṛndāvana and sometimes it peeped in his mind that, "Giridhari is given to me by Mahāprabhu Himself. I'm surrendered to Him. But I can't tolerate my longevity here. Life is rather a great burden, can't, emphatically. I shall climb up the Govardhana, and (depart the soil?) by accepting a fall from the peak of the hill, I shall leave my life, give it up."

With this idea within he went to Vṛndāvana. But after meeting Rūpa and Sanātana a diabolical change, revolutionary change came in him. "Where should I go, leaving Rūpa, Sanātana? They're living incarnation of Śrī Gaurāṅga. Always following the teachings of Śrī Gaurāṅga. They have not a minute left outside, continuously living with the teachings of Gaurāṅga very carefully." So he saw Mahāprabhu in Rūpa and Sanātana and lived there. And he learned many things from Rūpa Goswāmī and Sanātana.

Sanātana was given the charge of all those devotees that will come to live in Vṛndāvana. So Sanātana strictly applied that direction of Mahāprabhu, and he took care especially of Raghunātha dāsa.

His indifference was unlimited, did not care for his body, least. One day Sanātana found he's living near the Rādhā-Kuṇḍa but his consciousness somewhere else. Sanātana found a tiger came and took water, drank water from Rādhā-Kuṇḍa, first cast a glance to Raghunātha dāsa and drank. Sanātana found it from a distance, then came to Raghunātha. "What do you do?"

Then Raghunātha he took the feet dust of Sanātana Goswāmī. Sanātana Goswāmī said, "I have one request."

"No request, you order me, please."

"You must live in a cottage, and not under the shade of the tree, this is my request to you. Anyhow I shall ask a gentleman to make a small cottage for you here. You please stay there. This is my request to you.”

“If you order I must do that.”

In this way Sanātana used to take care of the devotees of Mahāprabhu in Vṛndāvana there.

Śikṣā Guru, first Yadunandan Ācārya formal initiation. Then Mahāprabhu’s care. Then from there the caretaker was Svarūpa Dāmodara Prabhu. And from there he went to the care of Rūpa, Sanātana, śikṣā Guru, and how he accepted them.

What sort of adherence to Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī who came to be the śikṣā Guru in the last? And Sanātana, about him also, he has written un-grudgingly. Vairāgyam, sanātanaṁ taṁ prabhum āśrayāmi, para-duḥkha-dukhī, vairāgya-yug bhakti-rasaṁ prayatnair, apāyayam.

“Who forcibly forced me to drink the rasa, the liquid juice of devotion, mixed with abnegation, not exploitation, abnegation, abnegation, mixed with vairāgyam. Bhakti rasam prayatnair. With much endeavour, or request, or forcibly even. Bhakti rasam prayatnair, apāyayam. Who am I? Anabhipsum. I won’t take it, my attitude, and andham, because I don’t know what he’s giving, what sort of high juice he’s giving to me I do not know, so I won’t take it. And he will give, must give it.”

Our Guru Mahārāja here used this example. Just as one is to give medicine to a horse to swallow, horse won’t take any medicine. But anyhow so many men will catch him and force him to devour it, swallow that medicine. Guru Mahārāja used that example of horse.

Anabhipsum andham. I won’t take because I’m blind. And he won’t spare me. He will give, make me drink forcibly, after many, many attempts, and different attempts. Vairāgya- yug bhakti-rasaṁ prayatnair, apāyayam mām anabhipsum andham, kṛpāmbudhir. He’s an ocean of mercy. That is the only thing. Para-duḥkha duḥkhī. In his heart he’s always feeling pain for the pains of others. Kṛpāmbudhir yaḥ para-duḥkha-dukhī, sanātanaṁ taṁ prabhum. Such Sanātana Gurudeva who came in the form of Sanātana I bow down to him.”

[“I surrender unto Śrī Sanātana Goswāmī, the Ācārya of sambandha-jñāna. He is an ocean of mercy and is always unhappy to see the sufferings of others. Although I was blind, in the darkness of ignorance, he gave me the light of transcendental knowledge. He taught me the real meaning of detachment and made me drink the highest nectarine rasa of divine love.”]

[Vilāpa-kuṣumāñjali, 6] & [Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism, part two, p 465]

These things were produced from Raghunātha after his contact with Rūpa and Sanātana, again more and more, Rādhā dāsyā. “I don’t want Kṛṣṇa if there is no Rādhārāṇī.” And this sort of high elevated serving attitude is very rarely found, and it was found in Raghunātha dāsa so he’s accepted as the prayojana Ācārya. What is our highest aim, that came by the desire of Mahāprabhu, sweet will of Mahāprabhu, through Raghunātha, to know, that what will be our highest end of life. So much so, sei lekhi pramali hoile paravyoma [?]

Be very careful. If you have any attraction for the śāstric convention, śāstric indention, or in calculation, then you’ll have to come down to paravyoma. There Goloka, higher sphere than paravyoma, than Vaikuṇṭha, the domain of Nārāyaṇa. In this way.

Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Can’t see. Slight help. [?] Who has got no eye, then what is the use of the mirror?

A very, very sweet, and very deep meaning there, nayana mangal, very sweet.

Very sweet and, and he was the disciple of Vaninatha who established that Chapahati Vighraha. He was the disciple of Gadādhara Paṇḍita. From Gadādhara, Vaninatha, from Vaninatha [?] And Vaninatha installed that Deity there. And Prabhupāda [Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī] begged it from the trustees. They were hesitating.

He told, “No, no. The property you may keep with you. Only the service of the Deity you please give me.”

They were astonished. “What is this? What type of man is he? Foolish man. He doesn’t want the property of the Deity.”

“The property you may enjoy as trustee, and then service of the Deity I shall perform with my own men and money by doing.”

That was the offering of Prabhupāda there, and anyhow they gave, and became disciples also. Nṛsiṃha Cakravartī. That man he came to stay here in his father-in-law’s house, but his own house was in a village Kaytan [?] where was my mother’s house in that village. And in my, when I was child I lived there. There was a good primary school, so I was given to study at that school, from six to eight, three years. And that gentleman he used to adore me very much, took me always on the shoulder and on the back, I remember. And he also expressed that. When I came, he was initiated before me, and when I came he was very, very happy.

What is the necessity of a mirror to a blind man? The outlook, the angle of vision, is not present, then how can he draw the real gist from the common mass. So subject is all important, so subject is dependent, objective side redundant, not that the subject is dependent on object, produced and dependent, but just the opposite. Just the opposite view we shall take.

We are nearer to consciousness, then through consciousness we come to matter, or anything. I am conscious unit and consciousness is nearer to me, consciousness, and through consciousness I come to many things outside, in different stages. But really speaking that is also - what I know that is conscious aspect, and not outside. That is unknown and unknowable, the other side.

So the Rahu, shadow, they're all considered as animate, not inanimate. The shadow is not inanimate, shadow of a tree is not inanimate. Why? What I conceive by intellect the shadow, that is also conscious facsimile. My nearer thing is that idea. Idea of the shadow, that is nearer to me than the shadow itself. What the shadow is it is difficult to say and feel, but the idea of shadow that is nearer to me, and that idea means it is reflected in consciousness.

So here the fossilism is being crushed. Fossil, here the fossil will be the source of every production, evolution. Evolution from fossil to consciousness, the knowledge. Knowledge has evolved from the stone. The stone is a part of the ocean of knowledge, and so many things, policy, a part of the ocean of knowledge. Hare Kṛṣṇa. That is the Vedāntic knowledge.

Śaṅkara and others they have given more importance to the material things, prakṛti, the potency. If the atoms and electrons are broken then only power may be detected, nothing else. The power, the potency, and potency, the energy, that is prakṛti.

And the conscious, the energy, that is puruṣa, consciousness, and Vedānta gave importance, athāto brahma-jijñāsā.

abhiṣamviśanti, tad brahma tad vijijñāsa*

[“The Supreme Brahman is the origin and shelter of all living beings. When there is creation, He brings them forth from their original state, and at the time of annihilation, He devours them. After creation, everything rests in His omnipotence, and after annihilation, everything again returns to rest in Him.”] [Taittirīya Upaniṣad, 3.1] & [The Search For Śrī Kṛṣṇa, p 44]

The all comprehensive principle from which everything comes and is maintained, sustained, and again enters into Whom. The Prime Cause, that is Brahman, and what is this athāto brahma-jijñāsā. Janmādy asya yato [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1] What is the necessity of your breaking the brain with this question? Janmādy asya yato, because everything is coming from Him, so I’m concerned to know the controller, where I live, He’s the controller. So I have necessity to know Him. Athāto brahma-jijñāsā. Janmādy asya yato.

Śāstra yonita [?] What is the basis of your statement? What I say, you go to say, you are a fallible creature. What value we shall give to your statement, eh? The source is śāstra. Transcendental things have come to make Him known to us. That is my source, the line of knowledge. Tat te samana [?] There are so many opinions different in the śāstra, revealed truth. Revealed scriptures are of different opinion. Tat te samana [?] but they must be harmonised. According to the capacity of the man He has given different instalments, loke vyavāyāmiṣa-madya [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.11] Everything cannot be told at once to anyone. There are different stages of knowledge, and we must say to them what he may grasp. In that way we’re to show in this way to be adjusted. In this way the Vedānta marches towards the analysis of the knowledge of the whole and the creation.

[“Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead. He appears in the spiritual world of Vaikuṇṭha in the form known as Nārāyaṇa. He expands as the Puruṣāvataraṁ who control the material world. He is Himself the supreme spiritual truth designated by the word “Brahman” in the Vedas and Upaniṣads. May that Lord Kṛṣṇa grant pure love for Him to those engaged in devotional service to His lotus feet.”][Tattva-Sandarbha, 8]

A similar śloka written by me, composed.

Devotees: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

yad dhāmnah khalu dhāma caiva nigame brahmeti saṁjñāyāte yasyāṁśāsya kalaiva duḥkha nikarair yogeśvarair mṛgyate vaikunṭhe paramukta-bhṛṅga-caraṇo nārāyaṇo yaḥ svayam tasyāṁśī bhagavān svayaṁ rasa-vapuḥ kṛṣṇo bhavān tat-pradāḥ

[“The effulgent, non-differentiated aspect of divinity known as Brahman is composed of infinite particles of individual consciousness, and has been considered by the Upaniṣads and by Vedic scholars to be the halo of the Absolute. The localised plenary portion of Godhead known as Paramātmā is sought after by the great yogīs practising extreme penances. Nārāyaṇa Himself, the predominating Lord of the Vaikuṇṭha planets, whose lotus feet are worshipped and served by His un- excelled bee-like devotees, is only a partial representation of the original Personality of Godhead. The original or full-fledged aspect of divinity is Kṛṣṇa. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you have not come to distribute Brahman or Paramātmā or even Nārāyaṇa-bhakti, but Svayaṁ Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa, the original conception of the Absolute, who is all-ecstasy. It is you, O Gurudeva, who can gently place me in His hands, and you have come to give Him to the public.”] [Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 7]

[From Śrī Kīrtana Mañjuṣā, p 53]

This is my composition. “Yad dhāmnah khalu dhāma caiva nigame brahmeti. They whose domain, the ray, the lustre of whose domain has been given the name as Brahman. Aṅgajyoti, kṛṣṇe aṅgajyoti and brahme aṅgajyoti, the lustre of the abode of Kṛṣṇa, not direct of Kṛṣṇa. The lustre of the abode of Kṛṣṇa has been given to us to be known as Brahman. Yad dhāmnah khalu dhāma caiva nigame brahmeti sanjñāyāte. Given the name of Brahman in the Vedas, brahmeti sanjñāyāte.

Yasyāṁśāsya kalaiva duḥkha nikarair yogeśvarair. And the yogīs, after much austerity they’re trying to find out the Antaryāmī which is all-pervading. Which should be traced in every point, every atom, what is that aspect, this is the idea here, Brahman, and the all-permeating, aṇor aṇīyān [Kaṭha Upaniṣad, 1.2.20], smallest of the small, entering in everywhere. They're trying to find out that. And that is only a particular function of the function of the function of Nārāyaṇa. Yogeśvarair mṛgyate. They're searching for what is a part of the part of the part.

And vaikuṇṭhe paramukta-bhṛṅga-caraṇo nārāyaṇo yaḥ svayam. And He Himself in Vaikuṇṭha in an elegant way sitting, and so many qualified devotees they're busy to serve Him. Paramukta-bhṛṅga-caraṇo. There, those servitors in Vaikuṇṭha just like so many bees in the lotus.

Paramukta-bhṛṅga-caraṇo. The liberated of the higher type who are living in Vaikuṇṭha and there, they're as if they're mad to take the honey of the lotus feet of Nārāyaṇa. In a very sweet engagement they're busy there serving Nārāyaṇa.

Tasyāṁśī bhagavān svayaṁ. They're to cross that plane and to find out Who is the very gist of Nārāyaṇa Himself, bhagavān svayaṁ. Why? Rasa-vapuḥ. He has got all the different phases of ānandam personified, raso vai saḥ [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 9.2]. If we go to note, to give stress, to give the highest characteristic of the Absolute, we cannot but say, admit, that it is ānandam, rasam, beauty, charm. And not power, grandeur, or anything else. That is the very gist. Who can give fulfilment and attract our innermost heart. That is rasa, and akhila-rasāmṛta-sindhu, rasa-vapuḥ, Svayaṁ Bhagavān. So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura you can, you are in a position to take us to that Kṛṣṇa. The Brahman, Paramātmā and Nārāyaṇa, and superseding Him there is such juice, such sweet substance of everything in Kṛṣṇa conception. You are giving it to us. So great you are. So what to talk about you?

_____ [?] According to the capacity of the valuation of your gift you should be judged, in this way. And that was very much appreciated. And there's another stanza also, this one stanza, another connecting with Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana, and the last, the Rādhā dāśya. Śrī-gaurānumataṁ svarūpa-viditaṁ. [Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 9] In this way I satisfied Prabhupāda [Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī] very much.

And he took me in his last bed, “Sing this particular song. Who is the highest servitor of Rādhārāṇī, that Rūpa Mañjarī, you sing. I want to hear, listen from your tongue the highest conception of our realisation represented in the song of Narottama Ṭhākura. That we may know this thing and that thing, but our everything is the divine feet of Śrī Rūpa, and our highest achievement. That is the gate to the entrance where we shall find our highest attainment, not hither thither.”

Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Caitanya. Nitāi Dayal.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Aranya Mahārāja: And you said one time, you are the gatekeeper to that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Haribol. Ha, ha, ha. Gaura Haribol. What I am you are daily testing, these gentlemen. ‘What mentality he’s got, how far he can run. Ha, ha, ha. Gaura Haribol. How much he’s appreciated by the devotional scholars, hmm? You’re to take me as non-compromising fanatic, and posing that he’s the scholar of the Gauḍīya theology, eh, that man.’ I am a man of that acquaintance, generally. anything and everything.’

[?] ‘He cannot compromise with

Of course I try to compromise but can't do at the sacrifice of the ideal. That is the nature. At least it must be open to the ideal, to mark to the pure ideal. That sort of compromise should be done, and to give up in the hands of the exploiters. The exploiters come out everywhere, Guru bhogi. Kṛṣṇa bhogi, Gaura bhogi, Guru bhogi, exploiting the good will of them in a particular section of imitationists.

Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: ... vijñesham apuja nitra kapadinam dvistva pujanam [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kapadinam?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Kapadinam dvistva pujanam. This is the statement.

vijñesham apuja nitra kapadinam dvistva pujanam [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: That's all, only this.

Devotee: [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Other, other subject. This is the only subject dealt with in the book, that has that important question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: This is the only point coinciding in the book of Swāmī Mahārāja. Vijñesham apuja nitra kapadinam dvistva pujanam [?] What is the meaning Mahārāja? And is slightly different in another book. This is the book published by Your Grace. And I have another book I found, Haridāsa dāsa, he's given, for Jīva Goswāmī, vijñesham apuja nitra kapadinam dvistva va pujanam [?] And in Cakravartī Ṭhākura, slight difference again, vijñesham apuja nitra kapadinam va dvistva pujanam [?]

Devotee: [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: It's only this vijñesha section we're concerned with.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The light that is coming to my mind is this. Vijñeśa, that is Gaṇeśa, leaving him aside, go to the source. Kapadi [?] means Śiva. And vaiṣṇavānām yathā śambhuḥ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.13.16] & [SCSM's Śrī Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, p 144], he has got some connection with Viṣṇu. So eliminate, when Gaṇeśa comes to you, set aside indifferently, or anyhow, and take the relationship of Śiva with him. And go to Śiva, and taking the link of Śiva, then he has got some connection direct with Viṣṇu, vaiṣṇavānām yathā śambhuḥ, so go straight from there to Viṣṇu.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So this is an aparādha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Without worshipping Gaṇeśa, you go to the Kapadi [?] Kapadi means generally Śiva, kapada [?] Kapada means this _____ [?] we use as ornament [?]

And then another suggestion comes to my mind. Kapalinam [?] means, in the kapal of vijñeśa. Gaṇeśa, I suggested in Brahma-saṁhitā, when Gaṇeśa he does his duty to disturb the hindrances of the worldly type, then at his forehead he thinks about Nṛsiṁhadeva. So kapal means this skull, so within the skull, Gaṇeśa, whenever he's engaged in the, in his duty, to discharge his duty to disturb the hindrances of the worldly things, he takes request to Nṛsiṁhadeva, he meditates, and by His power he's able to do away with all these things. So kapadi, whose sitting in his kapal, in his skull. As we find in Manu-saṁhitā, or this Brahma-saṁhitā?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yea, I got that also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahma-saṁhitā. So kapadi generally means Śiva, kapadi, his connection, take the connection of Śiva, eliminate Gaṇeśa, and accept the relationship of his father more, and then come there, giving some honour and go to Viṣṇu, Kṛṣṇa. And my suggestion is coming kapali [?] who is highest in the kapada, in the skull, and that is found in Brahma-saṁhitā. You'll find that.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I foolishly forgot. I admit that I didn't bring it. I have it but I forgot to bring it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahma-saṁhitā in English, yes you try to find out that. When Gaṇeśa he disturbs the difficulties of the obstacles in the way of success of the worldly men, at that time to perform that duty he invokes the grace of Nṛsiṁhadeva on his forehead. In this way something is mentioned. So kapadi ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...means Śiva, father.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: If they worship Śiva without honouring Gaṇeśa that is aparādha, sevā aparādha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To eliminate Gaṇeśa, and after Śiva anyhow, and go on towards.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Parvat Mahārāja has a copy of Brahma-saṁhitā, he's bringing it now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Eliminate Gaṇeśa, there is no doubt, but you may accept kapali [?] or may not, va. Va means vikalpa. Vikalpa means you may accept it or you may not.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Option.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Option.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: And the va also in another place, two vas.
Vijñesham apuja nitra kapadinam dvistva va pujanam [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. Kapadinam. But when Gaṇeśa comes in your front, eliminate him but you may, alternative that you may accept him as the favourite child of Śiva, and with that connection you may honour Śiva and go on taking Name.

_____ [?] When you meet the son, “Oh, your father is a friend, your father I am grateful to him.” In this way to satisfy the son, and dismiss him. Not to show honour direct to him, but in his connection to remember that, “Your forefathers, your relatives, they’re very near to me.” In this way show some respect and honour and then upāsanā [?], not to show any respect direct to him.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: [?]

yat-pāda-pallava-yugaṁ vinidhāya kumbha-, dvandve praṇāma-samaye sa gaṇādhirājaḥ vighnān vihartum alam asya jagat-trayasya, govindam ādi-puruṣaṁ tam ahaṁ bhajāmi

[“For the power to crush the obstacles of the three worlds, He whose Lotus Feet Gaṇeśa perpetually holds upon the pair of nodes of his elephantine head - the Primeval Lord, Govinda, do I worship.”]

[Śrī Chaitanya Sāraswat Maṭha’s 1992 publication of Brahma-saṁhitā, 50]

Would that be the right verse? Yat-pāda-pallava-yugaṁ vinidhāya kumbha-, dvandve praṇāma- samaye sa gaṇādhirājaḥ .

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaṇādhirājaḥ means Gaṇeśa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Vighnān vihan̄tum alam asya jagat-trayasya, govindam ādi-puruṣam tam aham bhajāmi.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Govindam, kumbha. What is the meaning of kumbha, vinidhāya kumbha? Yat-pāda-pallava-yugam.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Kumbha dvandve.

Devotee: Kumbha dvandve. Praṇāma-samaye sa gaṇādhirājaḥ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: English translation is there?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. English translation:

“I adore the primeval Lord Govinda, whose lotus feet are always held by Gaṇeśa upon the pair of tumuli protruding from his elephant head in order to obtain power for his function of destroying all the obstacles on the path of progress of the three worlds.”

[Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura's 3rd edition, 1973]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whatever duty he does, all with the help of Govinda, and Govinda there _____ [?] Nṛsiṃhadeva is vighnān asyam, and Gaṇeśa is also vighnān asyam. So vighnān asyam, or self of Kṛṣṇa is Nṛsiṃhadeva, and Nṛsiṃhadeva's help is taken by, searched for by Gaṇeśa when he does his mundane duties. So kapalinam [?] that may, very mysteriously, or deep thinking, that kapali means that Nṛsiṃhadeva, it may come. But ordinarily it may come Śiva, vaiṣṇavānām yathā śambhuḥ [Śrī Chaitanya Sāraswat Maṭha's, Śrī Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, p 144] & [Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam, 12.13.16] Eliminate Gaṇeśa and honour Śiva, or Nṛsiṃhadeva, and then go on with taking the Holy Name.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Then, in this translation here, as [?] said yesterday, "One should begin the worship of the demigod Gaṇapati who drives away all impediments in the execution of devotional service. In the Brahma-saṁhitā it is stated that Gaṇapati worships the Lotus Feet of Lord Nṛsiṃhadeva, and in that way he has become auspicious for the devotees in clearing out all impediments. Therefore all devotees should worship Gaṇapati." [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It will be difficult.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Taking the remote connection that when he discharged his duty towards the mundane world, he does it with the help of Nṛsiṃhadeva. So if you worship him to get out of the difficulties of your devotional way, then by the dint of his power of connection with Nṛsiṃhadeva, he will come to help you, and more connection may be. But in a general way it has been eliminated clearly.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: It may be...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may be connected everywhere, because everywhere He's within. Jīva sambandhe yane kṛṣṇa dvistam [?]

In the broad, broadest universal discourse ultimately it may come. You should honour all the jīvas, thinking that within him the God is residing. That is the most spacious and widest jurisdiction. Give honour to everything, whatever you see, thinking that within him God exists. In the widest way.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Previously, from the Padma Purāṇa, there's one verse given.

harir eva sadaradhyah sarva-devesvaresvarah itare brahma-rudradya navajneyah kadacana

["One should always worship Lord Hari, who is the Supreme Controller of all gods, and yet one should not show contempt for the demigods like Brahmā, Rudra, and others."] [Bhakti-rasamṛta-sindhu, Purva-vibhaga 2.116, from Padma-Purāṇa] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 13.104]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Within Hari search exclusively, but that does not mean that you will despise other demigods. Brahma-rudradya, including Brahmā and Śiva. Don't despise anybody, but your necessity is only exclusively devoted to Hari.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. So in that mood we should respect Gaṇeśa. That may be the case.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. We're indifferent, we're not going to dishonour anybody, to create a spirit of animosity. But we're given wholesale to my own Lord. That should be the attitude.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then I may go there.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Jayatīrtha Mahārāja may be expected today?

Religion is proper adjustment. We are maladjusted. It requires for our best benefit that we should be adjusted. We are a part of the whole, and we must be conscious of that fact. And where the part is properly adjusted, in the whole, that is in harmony. And where it is not, that is in māyā, illusory, avidyā. There are so many different conceptions predominating, provincialism, localism, selfishness, separatism, not properly connected with the prime cause. That is the difficulty. If we want to be reinstated - at present we are maladjusted, that is falsely adjusted, erroneously adjusted - if we want proper adjustment we're advised to follow a particular course, of sādhana. In Kali-yuga this Divine Sound, taking the hint of the direction from the Divine Sound, that we can trace what should be the proper way to go to the final adjustment. And whatever other attempts we make for that sort of highest adjustment, how we are to deal with the present environment, that has been recommended, that your dealings with the present environment will be such and such.

Generally, for the success of ordinary things, worldly attempts, we worship Gaṇeśa. Gaṇeśa. That the labour leaders, the head of the labourers, the ordinary labourer, Gaṇeśa. Gaṇa means mass, a leader of the masses. Mass is ignorant, and the leader of the masses is also expected to be so. But ostentatiously they have got some power, and with the manpower they may oppose anything and everything. So to satisfy them, to bribe them, the leader should be honoured. In the general sense the leader of the masses they should not be ignored, they should be honoured, so that they cannot put any obstacles in the way of our progress. This is the general case. In this world, this is the world of māyā means bribe. Here everything is going on on bribe. We want our selfish attempt to be satisfied, that is illegal, unlawful, to try to fulfil our respective separate desires, without caring for the others, not to take into account the centre. Ignoring the centre, ignoring the outside, only we want to satisfy our own interest. But that is the crude form of maladjustment, kāma. Then artha, dharma, everything self concerned with sense pleasure centred, sense pleasure centred. And for that purpose we try to acquire some help from the outside, and for that we are to pay something to them, and that is all, may be considered as bribe. So: ya tanya devata bhaktya yajyanti śraddhā anyatha, No.

niyamam āsthāya, prakṛtyā niyatāḥ svayā]*

[“Persons whose good intelligence has been spoiled by illicit desires for exploitation and renunciation or other duplicitous pursuits, worship other godly personalities such as the Sun-god and the many demigods. Being enslaved by their instinct, they adopt the corresponding rules and regulations of fasting and other tenets accordingly.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.20]

Whoever is found to worship another god, demigod, so many proposed authorities of different departments, whenever we go to satisfy them then it cannot be denied that we are bribing them to fulfil my motive, my selfish motive. They're in power, they're in some position by their previous karma, they're the heads of particular departments. And we want those things from them and we give something to them and get it very cheaply. This is the bribe. This is māyā. And our object is sense pleasure.

And what is wanted in us, normal, that we should seek after the satisfaction of the pleasure of the Centre that is God. If we want to attain that end of our life, that divine, highest, that pure end of our life, self abnegation, and self dedication. First, self abnegation, we must be prepared for, and then self dedication, and dedication only for the Centre. That is what will be conducive to our aim, our real benefit. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi.

So always, those that are in the path towards the highest divinity, the Vaiṣṇava, the sādhū, our submission, our search of help, anything, all our association, our concern will be with them. And that is the most safe position. Go through Vaiṣṇava, who are in the company of Vaiṣṇava. If you get a Vaiṣṇava then you may eliminate the God Himself. Worship Vaiṣṇava, and He'll be more pleased with you. That is the position.

And just the opposite position we find in the case of Gaṇeśa. When Gaṇeśa comes, the leader of the mass, comes just on my way, how should we deal with him, hmm? We should not disturb him. He may create some unnecessary trouble. So how to deal with him? You don't directly submit to him direct, but you may talk with him of some nearest relative who is connected with Viṣṇu, Kṛṣṇa, he's Śiva. In the case of the Vaiṣṇava: tadīyānām samārcanam, tasmāt parataram devi, tadīyānām samārcanam.

*[ārāadhanānām sarveśām, viṣṇor ārādhanaṁ param tasmāt parataram
devi, tadīyānām samārcanam]*

[Lord Śiva told the goddess Durgā:] ‘My dear Devī, although the Vedas recommend worship of demigods, the worship of Lord Viṣṇu is topmost. However, above the worship of Lord Viṣṇu is the rendering of service to Vaiṣṇavas, who are related to Lord Viṣṇu.’]

[Padma Purāṇa] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 11.31] & [Laghu-bhāgavatāmṛta, 2.4]

“Even you may eliminate Viṣṇu, but if you honour Viṣṇu dāsa your case will be more hopeful. But in the opposite case you are to give honour to the son, the subordinate. And anyhow to keep the apparent gentleman-like character. ‘Oh, your father, how is he?’ In this way, not to dissatisfy, not to dishonour, or not to honour. But His connection if anyone has any least connection with Nārāyaṇa, with Viṣṇu, my Lord, then I shall mark that.” In this attitude we are to deal with the leaders of the opposite forces where we are living. This is what we are to understand here.

We won’t indulge in cultivating hatred within us in connection with the opposite party. All our energy should be devoted to rather the prime cause. But who are not in need we should deal with indifferently, and never with any positive hate or anything. That should be our general attitude, but there may be particular cases. When I shall find that a man, a person of the enemy camp is going to attack a Vaiṣṇava, or Guru, or Śrī Mūrti, then of course the position will be otherwise, like the case of Hanumān [?]

The general is this, adjustment towards Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa conception of the God. He’s love, He’s beauty, He’s rasa, ānanda, sukha, happiness. Happiness, not power, nor majesty, nor splendour, grandeur, all these things. We are to consult the śāstra and the sādhus, especially those that are trying to come to Kṛṣṇa consciousness our object will be such. But if we meet in the way the grandeur, the splendour, all these things, we shall try to utilise it without being...

Suppose if I meet just on the way something great, honourable, magnanimous, splendour, all these things, then I shall try to utilise them for that plain and simple process of worship of Vṛndāvana. That should be our temperament. Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Just as our Guru Mahārāja told,

pūjāla rāgapaṭha gaurava bāṅge [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration.”]

Rūpa, Sanātana, they, under the direct guidance of Mahāprabhu, they eliminated grandeur wholly, grandeur of any type, even social grandeur, this red cloth. That is also a grandeur, that is that's showing the highest section of the preacher. The highest section of the religious leaders, the sannyāsīns, the preachers, that means the religious leaders, they have got this robe, red cloth. So it has got some connection with grandeur, leadership, social leadership. That was also eliminated by Rūpa, Sanātana.

So much so, when a big scholar came to discuss with them what is the real purpose of the śāstra they avoided. They did not consider it useful to spare their time in that useless discussion. “He has not come with a spirit of enquiry, but he has come to conquer, so a waste of energy.” They avoided.

But Jīva Goswāmī Prabhu he could not tolerate so much self abnegation, because of his Guru's position. "They ignored, my Guru. I can't tolerate that. I must fight with him, and I shall make him understand why my Gurudeva avoided his discussion, avoided discussion with him. Meaning a sheer waste of time, not that they're afraid of his scholarship." And Jīva Prabhu did that. And that increased the honour of the Goswāmī's there. And it was helpful for the general public to think how big Rūpa, Sanātana is. But still, they're so humble, in humiliated position they're passing. Perhaps that helped the ordinary public to appreciate their greatness and thereby they were benefited.

And this also was taken by our Guru Mahārāja. So some are of the opinion that our Guru Mahārāja was the Avatāra of Jīva Goswāmī. And I mentioned in my own poem, that stotram, that:

raghu-rūpa-sanātana-kīrti-dharaṁ, dharaṇī-tala-kīrtita-jīva-kavim [kavirāja-narottama-sakhya-padaṁ, praṇamāmi sadā prabhupāda-
padam]

[“O Śrīla Prabhupāda, your intense magnitude of devotion allows you a glorious position within that intimate group of Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa, Śrīla Sanātana, and Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī. Your happy and elevated philosophical conceptions have crowned and seated you along with that esteemed personality, Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī, on this Earth planet. And you share a friendly relationship with Śrī Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Gosvāmī and Śrī Narottama dāsa, as dear to them as their very own lives. I eternally offer my respects to that charming effulgence that decorates the radiant lotus toe-tips of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura Prabhupāda.”]
[Śrī Śrī Prabhupāda-padma-stavakaḥ, 7]

Who, kīrti-dharaṁ, who has held fast the flag of Rūpa, Sanātana, and who is accepted in particular sections of the devotees as the incarnation of Jīva. So his attitude was like Jīva.

Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. “I shall gather together all the powers and grandeurs and everything like that, and I must keep them just near the divine feet of my Gurudeva, to show that all these things, only to worship the feet of my Divine Master. Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. But we have got no necessity for them, no necessity for them. We have got two sides. One side, that the dark side is this, if we go to handle with these things then we may be captivated with them. If we’re weak we may be captivated by them. But only those that are masters of that idea, they can put them in the worship of the higher sādhus. And another thing is this, that if it is not done then ordinary mass will think that they hold the highest position and not the niṣkiñcana, Rūpa, Sanātana. All the aiśvarya is in the lower level, and the plainness of Vṛndāvana it is not in want of grandeur, but it does not require grandeur, it is above grandeur. The plainness, the real beauty, does not require any grandeur or any splendour, any aiśvarya. It is full in itself.” Something like that.

There was a talk between Śrīvāsa and Svarūpa Dāmodara, in Purī, in Herā-Pañcamī day or so. Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita he’s pleading on behalf of Lakṣmī Devī, the aiśvarya. And Svarūpa Dāmodara he was taking the part of the gopīs in Vṛndāvana. Two parties talking and a mild fight is going on.

And Svarūpa Dāmodara saying to Śrīvāsa, “You don’t remember that in Vṛndāvana the tree, the creeper, the bush, whatever simple things are to be found there, they’re not devoid of aiśvarya, of grandeur and splendour. But that is underground. If they require it, it will come at their beck-and-call. But generally they do not like it. It is above. The simplicity and the plainness and the natural position, that is of the highest type. We are to realise that, that those that have got such liking in their heart, they generally come to like Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. But others, they will like Vaikuṇṭha, the land of grandeur, awe, power, reverence, all these things.”

We like to come to Kṛṣṇa consciousness so we will be very much particular about these things in our consideration. We are very small. And if we want the biggest to be very near to us, He will have to come in a smaller shape to us He will have to come. So we shall be prepared for that. We come to be very near. We're so mean and He's so high and we want intimate connection with Him. So we should not think anything, we should not be lover of grandeur and splendour. There they create differences between everything. But only in the plane of plainness and simplicity, and especially in the land of love and mercy, that high and low can come very close together, closely together. So close association with the highest is only possible in the atmosphere of Vṛndāvana, not in any other place.

_____ padma locana [?] To an affectionate mother the blind son is seen to appear as a good eyed child. There is a Bengali saying. The affection has got so much fascinating power, the ugly son is seen to the affectionate mother very beautiful. Because all the defects is minimised by devotion, Yogamāyā. Bhakti is such. Bhakti is a type of such grace that the distinction between the low and the high is minimised to the least point, even nothing. So we are so mean, we are so low, so that will be our real side of our hankering, where we can come closer to the land of that mercy.

Jogyatā-vicāre, kichu nāhi pāi [Gurudeva, 4, from Śaraṇāgatī] If You come my Lord, if You come to search my qualities, to examine me, to test me, I have got nothing to say, no capital, nothing to produce to You as certificate. But only Your grace, only Your grace, Mahāprabhu told. Just go to that department and put your petition. That department of where, without any consideration help is coming. Go to that department. And don't mention that you have got this or that qualification. No qualification. No qualification. There is a department where no qualification persons is helped. Try to go there. And sincerely of course we must be mindful of our own position. In the internal mind we will foster that I am so big, I am so great, I am so, I am such a scholar, I am such, all these things internally, and externally hypocritically you will present yourself with that word. That won't do. You feel it, you feel it yourself. But what you think that you have got, all these qualities, that is all sham, all wrong, all hypocrisy. Really you have nothing, no qualification, no qualification.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, tṛṇād api sunīcena [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3] What is the meaning, tṛṇād api sunīcena, He says that, “I am lower than a blade of grass. Why? You see, a blade of grass has got its, some sort of position in the material world, some sort of intrinsic description, position, quality. But what about me? I am of opposite quality, vikṛta, I am disfigured. The blade of grass has got its own identification of some type or other. But I’m a diseased person. No normal intrinsic nature I have got. I am a mad man. A man may not be very meritorious, but if he’s of normal brain, he may be utilised in any position. But a mad man he may not be relied on any work. Vikṛta nameskara, vikṛta citya [?] I’m vikṛta citya [?] I’m a misguided soul. My energy, my intelligence, everything, focused towards opposite side. So my position is worse than a blade of grass. Tṛṇād api sunīcena. If I think really my position is worse, because I am beside myself. Whatever may be the prospect and possibility of my future, but at present I am mad, so I am negative, of negative value. So I’m lower than the blade of grass, if really it’s to be considered. So where to go for my benefit? To go to the...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Madhouse.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Madhouse. Madhouse is my real place of treatment, madhouse. And if I go to an ordinary hospital it will be...

Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi. So Vaiṣṇava here in the line, in this line, they are always helpful under all circumstances, Vaiṣṇava. And next, Vaiṣṇava śāstra. First Vaiṣṇava and then Vaiṣṇava śāstra. They will be our healthy association and help us.

And other [demi]gods who are holding superior positions to us they’re of other type. They sincerely believe according to, ‘They’re minor, that this is all bad, this Vaiṣṇava. What is this? You’ll thrive here.’ Like Cārvāka and others. ‘Oh, why you leave this present world of enjoyment and pleasure and running after phantasmagoria? What is God? All these things. At present you are getting so much pleasure, and leaving this, your mania is drawing you towards some future. Whether that is really existent or not none can say.'

All these things. There are so many departments, to mix with them that our precious internal wealth will be at stake. So don't go to associate with them, or to be beggars at their door. They're not reliable, they're, naturally they have no faith in this. In their good faith also, in their so-called nature, they will try to take, to draw to their jurisdiction, their department. So don't, but at the same time don't unnecessarily make them your enemies, that they will come and hinder you. Remain indifferent, Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: One more question.

Devotee: Mahārāja, the nine islands of Navadvīpa, it is said that each one corresponds to one of the nine processes of devotional service, śravaṇaṁ kīrtanaṁ smaraṇaṁ pāda-sevanam. It is said that Antardwīpa corresponds to ātma-nivedanam. So which process of devotional service is corresponding to this island, Koladwīpa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Koladwīpa, pāda-sevanam.

Devotee: Pāda-sevanam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Pāda-sevanam. And Lakṣmī Devī she generally represents that sort of service, pāda-sevanam. She has got her special tendency to service of Nārāyaṇa with pāda-sevana in the viddhi mārga.

Devotee: Aparādha-bhañjan-pāṭ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And in Mahāprabhu's līlā it has been added, aparādha-bhañjan, here in the pāda-sevana part of His Dhāma He showed His extensive mercy by releasing the greatest offender against Him. He pardoned them, a general forgiveness He showed to the offenders in His līlā, Koladwīpa.

kuliyā-grāmete āsi' śrī-kṛṣṇa-caitanya / hena nāhi, yā 're prabhu nā karilā dhanya

[“At Koladvīpa - the Govardhana Hill of Vṛndāvana, concealed in Śrī Navadvīpa Dhāma - the Most Generous Absolute expressed Himself in His maximum generosity. Without considering any crime, He absolved whoever He found. He accepted them all.”] [Chaitanya-Bhāgavat, Antya, 3.541]

All object was fulfilled by Mahāprabhu here in Koladvīpa when after sannyāsa He came back. After sannyāsa, after five years, He once visited His home. And at that time when He came first here He took His residence in Vasudeva Sārvabhauma’s brother, Vidyāvācaspati. Vidyāvācaspati he was the brother of Vasudeva Sārvabhauma, and Guru of Sanātana Goswāmī. He put up [stayed] with him there. And came and took bath in the Ganges. And so many offenders flocked together around Him and prayed to be forgiven, to be pardoned.

And He granted general amnesty. “Yes, I absolve you all from all the offences you committed against Me.”

To one Cāpāla Gopāl: “Oh. You have committed offence to Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita not to Me. So you have to go to him for forgiveness and he will forgive you.” He told.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Parvat Mahārāja: Can I have one more question?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Parvat Mahārāja: In Bhagavad-gītā Kṛṣṇa says:

*akṣaram brahma paramam, svabhāvo 'dhyātmam ucyate [bhūta-
bhāvodbhava-karo, visargaḥ karma-saṁjñitaḥ]*

[The Supreme Personality of Godhead said: “The indestructible, transcendental living entity is called Brahman, and his eternal nature is called adhyātma, the self. Action pertaining to the development of the material bodies of the living entities is called karma, or fruitive activities.”]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 8.3]

So this, I have a little confusion as to what is He referring to as the svabhāva of Brahman as being adhyātma. What is this adhyātma translation proper?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Svabhāvo 'dhyātmam ucyate. Akṣaram brahma paramam, that you understand?

Parvat Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Akṣara.

akṣaram brahma paramam, svabhāvo 'dhyātmam ucyate bhūta-bhāvodbhava-karo, visargaḥ karma-samjñitaḥ

Then?

Parvat Mahārāja: Adhiyajño kṣaro...

Svabhāvaḥ [?] which is including, in the area of karma, action reaction in this world, svabhāvaḥ. That is which is in the mental system which is kept as thoughts and ideas, action reaction in the subtle form in the mental system. That is adhyātma svabhāvaḥ. The soul is independent of that, but it is captured in the mental system, and the mental system that is composed of many subtle things in different stages of this world of exploitation, up to Satyaloka, the saguṇa, satya, raja, tama, the tri-guṇa.

The subtle body which contains within it the result of karma, that up to Brahmaloaka, this prākṛta, this natural life. That is adhyātma. Adi kṛtam ātmā. Ātmā has got different meanings.

Ātmā devi rte jive sadahi paramatmani [?] Ātmā means svabhāvaḥ, the nature. What is the nature? That there be the karma, the result of karma, that is contained in the mental system and creates svabhāvaḥ. And raja svabhāvaḥ, satya svabhāvaḥ, and tama svabhāvaḥ. And svabhāvaḥ of the animals, the birds, the beasts, the worms, and the gods, the ṛṣis, that are within the circle of this māyā, the twenty four stages of life within māyā. That is svabhāvaḥ, within mental jurisdiction.

With the dissolution of the mind one attains Brahmaloaka and further up. And then he's captured, the ātmā is captured in the mental tendency, mental system. By the dissolution of the mental system one is liberated, akṣara.

Do you follow?

Parvat Mahārāja: Yes. Now, this adhyātma, then is temporary, svabhāvaḥ is temporary?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not temporary: after liberation it will disappear. But with baddha jīva it is constant. Wherever he goes he's got this mentality, duly connected with exploitation. Gross or subtle, gross, or thing of very dense, the exploitation. Satya, raja, tama, tri-guṇa within exploitation, known as false identification aham [?] 'I am enjoyer.' and he's wandering through the world, fourteen worlds of tri-guṇa. That is all adhyātma. Atmani adi ksetra [?] The soul is captured in the mental tendency in the ambition of exploitation. The soul captured in the ambition of exploitation, that is, the whole life is adhyātma.

And when the charm for exploitation vanishes he's liberated. Then, when he can appreciate the life of dedication he enters Vaikuṇṭha. And the fullest surrender, wholesale surrender, to the Lord of love, then he attains the Vṛndāvana. In this way.

I am everywhere. I am interested in everything, and everything happens to satisfy Me only. No other whim they may have. If they think there may be other aims of life they’re in māyā, they’re suffering from false errand.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. So Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, you are to reply to those letters.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. He'd like to ask one more question Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? What does he say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: For proper functioning of this material world there are so many laws and arrangements. Then what is the position of the spiritual world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. That is infinite. And whatever we can conceive that is a finite of the finite. What can we do? There's so much magnitude we can't conceive. That is in one part. Such is infinite. Infinite is so great, so big. In Bhagavad-gītā Kṛṣṇa says to Arjuna.

So we may not try to conceive to have the conception of the Infinite. That is futile, so, jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]. Don't indulge your intellect to capture the Infinite within your clench, that is useless, kevala-bodha-labdhaye [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.4]. But only how you can utilise yourself in the universe, that is - that should be your enquiry. 'That I'm a point in the Infinite, how can I - still I'm something, how can I utilise myself in this Infinite?' That should be my duty to know, and then I'll be normal. And if I want to know intellectually more and more, more and more - wild goose chasing, that is a kind of disease. But normality will determine me when I shall think that, 'It is impossible, but I'm a part of the Infinite, how can I utilise myself in this infinite?' To know that and to do that. That will be the best thing recommended to us, for us.

Know thyself, and give accordingly. Infinite is there, you also are there, and you are a part of that Infinite it is also true. Then, you have got your own partial duty and you must do that, and satisfy yourself. And you know that then you'll be able to come in touch with the Infinite. There you can meet Infinite in Its highest form that is possible for you to get. That is the conclusion of the scriptures, of the experts, of the revealed truth, or received, revealed truth.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Is the lady Maliti here?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Malati?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Two letters yesterday came in her name. Has she got them?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: She's in Calcutta Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is standing there? Two standing.

Devotee: Dāruka dāsa [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Our Jayatīrtha Mahārāja may come. We must be ready for that. Here I stop. What's the time?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Quarter to ten.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Perhaps India may be independent.

Then that gentleman told, "No, not after this war, but this war will be finished and after four years, again greater world war may come, and after that India will get independence."

_____ [?] I wondered, that came to witness. But not after four years or so but after twenty years, the second great war. First great war began in fourteen and ended in eighteen, fourteen and eighteen, four years. And second great war broke out in thirty eight perhaps, in Poland. And then forty five it came to end, and forty seven India got independence, forty seven, August.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

That gentleman told me that I shall live up to ninety two years, and have some rheumatic pains in the end of my life. And I shall have ātmā darśana, I shall be able to come to consciousness, soul consciousness...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, the living teacher within me, which took me to Swāmī Mahārāja's feet, I am there. And I can't sell that to any other person, my inner voice.

Should I go that side? Many men here.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...to hear something from Jayatīrtha Mahārāja...

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: (Giggles) Anyhow, especially Jayatīrtha Mahārāja is very eager to hear something from Your Divine Grace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...about his last tour, a very summary. They're very eager and in anxiety, so as summary to speak with which you may satisfy the present assembly, with hopeful aspect.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: I've given some talks to them already since I got back.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All of them?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Most, mostly about our plans and programs on the positive side, I think so, with some enthusiasm. And of course as far as that bad news side is concerned that always travels fast anyway.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We are out to search the Lord of love. The conception about whom is given in Bhāgavatam, Caitanya-caritāmṛta. He's an Autocrat; but He has got the heart which is full of infinite love. We are out in search of such a master. We should not think that the path is covered by the flowers, but it may be spread with thorns also. It is necessary to test our sincerity, that how much is our hankering for that Lord.

Brahma adi deva yadi dhani nahi pai [?] There is a Bengali verse: "Even the god like Brahmā the creator cannot bring Him in his meditation."
Brahma adi deva yadi dhani nahi pai [?]

And another: "Hari viriñcira vāñchita... The Brahmā and the Śiva have got aspiration after Him, but no guarantee that they have got it. We have come out for such an ideal. So, we must be prepared for anything, any demand what may be necessary as the price for that. Only if we may take we may not get him, but still we want to remain on the path of searching for Him. There is a...what is that, "its own reward." There is an English proverb?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Virtue is its own reward.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Virtue is its own reward. That I am virtuous. Yes. That is my reward. I don't want anything else by living a virtuous life. So, that we are on the path of search of the highest truth of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that is our reward. We don't want any other reward or success. What can be attained, that can be stale. So, He can never be attained in such a way that the future will be something stale.

karotu vā yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampāto, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa

[Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8]

viracaya mayi daṇḍam dīnabandho dayām vā, gatir iha na bhavattaḥ kācid anyā mamāsti nipatatu śata-koṭir nirbharam vā navāmbhas, tad api kila payodaḥ stūyate cātakena

["O friend of the needy, whether You chastise me or reward me, in the whole wide world I have no other shelter but You. Whether the thunderbolt strikes or torrents of fresh waters shower down, the Cātaka bird (who drinks only the falling rainwater) perpetually goes on singing the glories of the rain cloud."] [Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, p 118]

We are given advice and understanding in such a way. That for the destination, the highest destination which we have got a conception of by Kṛṣṇa consciousness, given by the Kṛṣṇa consciousness, we must be prepared for anything else, any opposition.

We shall rather invite like Kuntī Devī, the Queen Kuntī. "You please put me in danger, constant danger: that is my friend to remind me about You.

I have thought it best, so give me danger.”

So, that should be our attitude in the quest of Kṛṣṇa, and not that already acquired things at our disposal, and the committee, the houses, the money, the power, and there is Kṛṣṇa, the monopoly of Kṛṣṇa is there, in the power-mongering and the showing of so much grandeur in the material world, it is not there.

It is in faith, deep, deep faith, the ideal. We are to consult the scripture, we are to consult the great honest men, mahā-janas, and śāstra. And hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto [Manu saṁhitā, 2.1] [Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja’ collection of verses, 554], our sincere heart; we can’t ignore that, we must have its deep, deeper approval, the deeper approval of our heart, that what we are doing we are doing well, we are doing rightly. This sort of underground consciousness we must have when we go to search about Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

janmani janmaniśvare, bhavatad bhaktir ahaituki tvayi*

[“O Lord, I have no desires to accumulate wealth, followers, beautiful women, or salvation. My only prayer is for Your causeless devotional service, birth after birth.”] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 4]

The causeless attraction of Kṛṣṇa. Not dependent on any other things or relations; causeless. Independent of all acquisition of this mundane world. It is independent; it does not depend on anything else. It is Absolute. Absolute. Everything has got stand on it, but it is Absolute. Exclusive attraction for Him. Otherwise, He won’t care to have any connection with us. He cannot tolerate any partner. Kṛṣṇa can’t tolerate any partner because He’s the Absolute. We heard from our Guru Mahārāja that there are so many qualifications, the characteristics in Him,

aiśvāryasya samagrasya vīryasya yaśasaḥ śriyaḥ

jñāna-vairāgyayoś caiva [yan nām bhaga itīṅganā]

[“One who is inconceivably complete in the six opulences of wealth, power, fame, beauty, knowledge, and renunciation, is known as Bhagavān.”] [Viṣṇu Purāṇa, 6.5.74] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 7.28]

Vairāgya: Nārāyaṇa or Kṛṣṇa, He has got vairāgyam. He's indifferent to the world. Our Guru Mahārāja remarked in this way, that His vairāgya, His indifference to this world is so much that we can't find Him, though searching. Everything belongs to Him, but His abnegation, cent percent, His indifference to this world is so much that He could not be found out in any part of this world, which is in His possession. He has got such a type of vairāgya, indifference. So, indifferent to everything, but only He cannot be indifferent to His beloved, mayi te teṣu cāpy aham.

[samo 'haṁ sarva-bhūteṣu, na me dveṣyo 'sti na priyaḥ ye bhajanti tu mām bhaktyā,] mayi te teṣu cāpy aham

[“I am equally disposed to all souls, therefore no one is My enemy or My friend. Yet, for those who render devotional service unto Me with love, as they are bound by affection for Me, I am similarly bound by the tie of affection for them.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.29]

In consideration with the other parts of the world, He's everywhere, He's nowhere. Everything is in Him, nothing is in Him. But in the case of His devotees, mayi te teṣu cāpy aham. "I am always there, they are always in Me." In Bhagavad-gītā we find that. In svarūpa-śakti, He cannot withdraw from His svarūpa-śakti. Of course, to show His pastimes in different ways, that is another thing, but He cannot be completely indifferent to the svarūpa-śakti: mayi te teṣu cāpy aham.

So, one who has got a slight drop of Kṛṣṇa bhakti, naturally he will be apathetic to anything else; anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna. Ādi [etc] means yoga and śaithilya [idleness, apathy]. Anyābhilāṣa, fleeting desires, baseless, temporary, fleeting desires, that is anyābhilāṣa. Karma, organized way of active life in which morality and also utilitarianism can be seen, and some sort of conception, mostly imaginary, of Godhead, karma. Jñāna, to eliminate from the present environment of attraction and complete withdrawal from this world of exploitation, and to take shelter only under deep and infinite slumber. Something like that. Samādhi, brahma samādhi, or prakṛti samādhi, either in Virajā, the highest, the most crudest conception of this worldly energy, and Brahmaloḥa, the outermost conception of the real world, of Vaikuṇṭha. Karma, jñāna, yoga. Yoga means jñāna yoga: slight difference between them. The yogīs engaged in search of the innermost substance what is within, aṇor aṇīyān [Kaṭha Upaniṣad, 1.2.20], the smallest of the small, all-pervading, which is living in the innermost position of an atom or electron, that is yoga. Karma jñāna anāvṛtam, not any contamination of all these filthy ideas of life. Ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu. Ādi means śaithilya, slothfulness, indifference to the attempt which is necessary for the service to Kṛṣṇa, karma jñānādi anāvṛtam. Then also another thing to be considered, ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam, not pratikūlyena.

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam bhaktir uttamā]

["One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167] & [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.11, purport]

In Bhāgavatam there is a śloka, Kāmād dveṣād bhayāt [?] in this way.

kāmād dveṣād bhayāt snehād, yathā bhaktyeśvare manaḥ āveśya tadaghaṁ hitvā, bahavas tad-gatiṁ gatāḥ

["Many, many persons have attained liberation simply by thinking of Kṛṣṇa with great attention and giving up sinful activities. This great attention may be due to lusty desires, inimical feelings, fear, affection or devotional service. I shall now explain how one receives Kṛṣṇa's mercy simply by concentrating one's mind upon Him."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.1.30] & [SB, 6.16.39, purport]

In this way. It is - it does not mean to touch the very inner meaning, but externally it is giving some description. That anyone who comes in His connection, direct or indirect, he's relieved of this worldly life. Such so, the Kāṁsa he's always afraid of Kṛṣṇa. Anyhow, it brought him in the relativity of Kṛṣṇa. Not in a loving attitude, but with an animistic feeling, he's always afraid. The Śīsupāla always had jealousy about Kṛṣṇa. But he cannot give up the thought of Kṛṣṇa. Always thinking of Kṛṣṇa, but jealous. So, dveṣā [hatred], bhayā [fear], this indirect connection with Kṛṣṇa also takes one to Kṛṣṇa. But the real adjustment is here in this way. Rūpa Goswāmī Prabhu has given in Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu [1.2.278]:

*yad arīṇāṁ priyāṇāṁ ca, prāpyam ekam ivoditam tad brahma-kṛṣṇayor
aikyāt, kiraṇārkopamā-juṣoḥ*

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.36]

What is mentioned in the scriptures in different places is that anyone coming in connection with Kṛṣṇa, direct or indirect, they can attain Him. Then what is the analytical meaning here? That when the sun and the sun ray, the sun ray is included with the sun. So also when Brahman, the consciousness, mere consciousness is connected with Kṛṣṇa, then it may be applicable, that those who are in the cultivation in an indirect way, they will come to Brahmaloka, sāyujya mukti, up to Brahmaloka. Brahmaloka in the broadest sense is included in Kṛṣṇa. So, dveṣā and bhayā, all these indirect cultivation they come up to this Brahmaloka.

Yad arīṇāṁ means what’s talked about the enemies of Kṛṣṇa, arīṇāṁ, and priyāṇāṁ, those are His own loving affectionate servitors, prāpyam ekam ivoditam. Generally it seems, apparently it seems that their attainment is one and the same. But Rūpa Goswāmī is giving a caution to us. Ekam ivoditam. Approximately speaking, it seems like that, but really, it is not so, because in the case of the indirect cultivation, the Brahmaloka has been identified with Him, and those that are having a favourable cultivation about Kṛṣṇa, for them the svarūpa-śakti, and according to the capacity of their nature, there is a great differentiation from Vaikuṇṭha to Goloka, and in different rasa. So, approximately it has been described in the śāstra that is one and the same, in any way one may come in connection with Kṛṣṇa, and he may get Him. But Him means a great difference between the two aspects of Him, one is Brahmaloka, just in the beginning of His land, and another His own home, where He plays with His friends. This great gulf of distance we are to understand when we are to adjust the things in this way. Yad arīṇām means about the enemies, and priyāṇām, about His own, and prāpyam means their prospect, ekam eva, only one and the same, oditam, kathitam, it is described in the scripture, that statement...

[yad arīṇām priyāṇām ca, prāpyam ekam ivoditam tad brahma-kṛṣṇayor aikyāt, kiraṇārkopamā-juṣoḥ]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.36]

It has been taken that Kṛṣṇa and Brahman is one and the same. The Kṛṣṇa and the lustre of His country, of His domain, is one and the same. With this basis of consideration this has been stated in the śāstra. We are to be wakeful to this fact. Brahma-kṛṣṇayor aikyāt. How? Yāt kiraṇārkopamā. Just as we may think that sun and his ray, we may sometimes include the whole extensive ray section also within sun. But a pencil of ray is where and real sun is where? A great difference. It is also like that. Kiraṇa means ray and arka means sun. Sun and its ray. We can include the ray within the sun sometimes, and we can eliminate the ray and we can consider only about the sun. So this we should understand the statements of the śāstra in different places when they say like this the underlying assimilation in such a way. We must be wakeful to that. So, ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam.

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam bhaktir uttamā]

[“One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service.”] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167] & [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.11, purport]

This is our necessity, the favourable cultivation about Him. That which pleases Him. This has got also, the enemy-like dealings are also necessary in His līlā. But we won't like it, we should not like it, we should not select it for our own. We shall try to go within, more and more, nearer, nearer approach there. And it is the ānukūl and prātikūl, it can be traced to the highest point, last point.

And so our aspiration is for rūpānuga. The Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, as Mahāprabhu has recommended for us there rūpānuga, rāgānugā, rūpānuga. First thing they're rāgānugā, not [?] not the path of law and rules, regulations, but they select more the path of heart, connection of heart to heart. That is rāgānugā. And of rāgānugā also there are different types. Within that rāgānugā is rūpānuga. Rāgānugā, the way of loving service and free from all rules, regulations, that is formality: no much formality but so much sincerity, that is rāgānugā. And rūpānuga, that is a particular group in the mādhurya rasa, the central line of the mādhurya rasa service. The highest service, the wholesale, the twenty four hour service, and the central thread comes to begin for us rūpānuga. So Mahāprabhu's sampradāya is generally known as rūpānuga sampradāya. Both love and mādhurya rasa combined in the central line, the line of Rādhārāṇī. Rūpānuga, and the beginning is there.

So Narottama Ṭhākura, the great Guru in our line of Divinity, his aspiration, he's describing himself. "When the day will come when my Guru Śrī Lokanātha Goswāmī he will take me by my hand and put me in the charge of Śrī Rūpa?" His Guru will carry him to Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī, rūpānuga line. "He'll take, he'll hand over me, when that day will dawn to show my fortune that I'm replaced by my present Guru Lokanātha Goswāmī to the hand of Rūpa Goswāmī?" That is the aspiration we're told, expressed there.

But we don't think this is anomaly, we don't think that is crossing the law of service to Guru. Here, should we think that Narottama Ṭhākura has committed any spiritual wrong when he says like that? It is out of nature, it is necessary. It is necessary, according to the detection of the inner acquaintance, innate nature, the complete analysis of the inner nature demands this sort of ostentatious transfer, we find it. And that should not be anomaly. The form and substance going together always, the form to help the substance, the ideal. Ideal is all in all, and the form conceived to help the ideal, and not to oppose it. This sort of aspect of the truth we must realise. It will help us a great deal in the whole of our life, what is the relation between the ideal and the form. Not - form is created to help the ideal, ideal realisation, the form is coming to here.

[śreyān sva-dharmo viguṇaḥ, para-dharmāt svanuṣṭhitāt] sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ

["It is better to carry out one's own duties a little imperfectly rather than faultlessly perform another's duties. Know that even death is auspicious in the discharge of one's duties appropriate to his natural position in the ordained socio-religious system, because to pursue another's path is perilous."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 3.35]

None have pleaded so strongly on behalf for form. The Lord Himself is pleading with strongest terms. Sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ. Don't go to accept other's duty. Rather die standing on the sphere of your duty. The strongest terms He as asked us to take our position firmly in the form, at the same time, sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja [ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

Why so much recommendation to stand on the form? Because I may not go down, to keep up in my own present position, to maintain my own position.

The general will consolidate his own position, but what for? Only he'll take chance that he'll go forward, but not backward. He may not be pushed backwards, so he must strengthen his position - the general. But that is not the end of his object. His object is to go forward. He must not forget that, he's to go forward, to attack his enemy and finish him. That should be his object. But he's asked by the military science that you must consolidate your position first, that the enemies may not push you back.

So, so much importance should be given to the form that my carelessness to it may not push me back. But that does not mean that I won't go forward, 'I have finished everything. My life is finished.' No finish in our life. It is dynamic. The truth is a dynamic one, not a static. Finished in Brahmaloka or Virajā. That is another thing, complete withdrawal.

But when we accept the life of service divine it is eternally divine in us, always to go forward, go forward. So we must be alert for progress, always for progress in our life, golden sphere. I have come to a standard, every days program always there must be novelty, not a stereotype thing, but novelty always in every days program.

So form should be there, but not at the sacrifice of the ideal, which we can see by the grace of the Infinite Lord, or His servitors. But the whole thing is concerned in this, the trouble, we find. Let God save us from this difficulty. This is a general difficulty which may come at every moment of every time in everyone's life. So a broad thing we are to understand clearly. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol.

Sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja. Progress means to give up the present and to advance for the future prospect, that is progress. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

At the same time we may not degrade us and take it as progress, in the name of progress we may not degrade us. We shall be careful about that also. So the śāstra and the sādhū, the consideration, and careful and selfless sincere consideration that will come to our relief.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, [durgatim tāta gacchati]

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

We are our own enemy, and enemy is not outside, that can damage us so much, if we do not take part in that. So Kṛṣṇa is there, and if we're sincere He will surely come to our help. He'll be seen. It is His test. What we select, we select Him, or we select some other things given by Him? So many charming things sent by Him to test us, whether we're eager for Him, or eager for things that may be given by Him? So we should always try to help us in the selection of His service, and not by things given by Him.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. [?] Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Any question? We don't hear the voice of Kulangana any more. Where is she? Not come? She's busy in arcana of Rasesvara [?] She's busy perhaps there? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, sometimes in his writing he refers to the analytic process and the synthetic process. Could you explain the difference between these two processes: analytic and synthetic.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is some instance? Generally his lecture is synthetical. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura more analytical, but our Guru Mahārāja was more synthetical. Synthetical means always tending towards the centre. Whatever part he begins, but try to connect with the centre and then to deal with it in any way. And analytical to begin from there and go to the parts, and parts of the parts, in this way. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura had analysed mostly. Of course the synthesis is there [?] Kṛṣṇa. But our Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, giving always a general characteristic, ontological aspect, ontological meaning. Very busy always to take anything with ontological, intellectual, the ontological satisfaction, in this way, of everything. That is required by the present scientific civilisation. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: I think your speaking is more towards the synthetic also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mine?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It was told like that, that mine is also synthetical. Rāmānuja is synthetical. Madhvācārya is analytical. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: If someone in the path of devotion becomes too much concerned with the external consideration, loses sight of the question of internal earnestness or hankering for the real thing, then in what way can he be delivered from that kind of misconception?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It will take time, and also it depends on the stage of devotion. His awakenment in the inner world will help him to dissolve the earnestness with the external side. As much as his awakenment will be on the internal world his object of worship will also be of the same level and it will be subtler and subtler. Bhāva bhakti.

Generally it is said that brahmacārīns and gr̥hasthas, in that stage they're in arcan adhikār, with things [?] They will, whatever they will do, they will do with the help of these material articles.

Sannyāsīns are supposed to do mental worship, not that, independent of material things, because they're sannyāsīns. External, physical things may not be available to them, and they're promoted to such a stage that only with the help of mental ideas they will go on with their worship. This is the middle class of devotee.

And the highest class of devotee they're above arcanam. They're seeing that everyone is worshipping Him, and only he's the exception, he can't do. That is their vision. 'Everyone is in connection with God,' but he's trying but he can't get the real connection. That is his temperament, of the uttama adhikārī, 'That I am deceived. I failed. I am unfortunate.' But at the same time he finds the connection of Kṛṣṇa with the whole of his environment. That is a peculiar type of devotion of Kṛṣṇa consciousness in the uttama adhikārī.

We can guess, conjecture, that because the object of our attainment is infinite, as much as we can approach to have a conception of infinite, so much so, we cannot but find ourselves very, very meagre in the comparison, in comparison of that.

Just as Newton told, “You say I have finished the world of knowledge. But I say that I am more learned than you, because, I know that it cannot be finished. But I’m only collecting some pebbles on the shore of the infinite ocean of knowledge. So I am more learned than you.”

So, as much as one has some connection, some conception of the infinite, so much so, he feels himself that he’s smallest of the small. And when we do not care about the very nature of infinite we may say, ‘Oh, I can finish it in no time.’

Devotee: Mahārāja [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Akṣayānanda Mahārāja not come?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Hmm.

Devotee: Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, Aranya Mahārāja, Parvat Mahārāja and [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vidagdha-Mādhava has got a letter. [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

...there may be, and also clash maybe, but that should be of a proper type. The fighting of the dogs should not be the ideal of the fighting of the man, or even the lion. The brahminical fighting, the Vaiṣṇava disagreement, that must have some respectable type. There may be difference but that should not come to such deplorable standard, level. This political, more political fight. That shows the standard of our faith in the Supreme. The justice is there, the Almighty. Justice is everywhere. With this consciousness we're to handle with anything and everything.

Just as suppose, in the presence of the father or guardian, if the children they want to quarrel, but their quarrel will be of a particular type when they're thinking that they're in the front of their guardian. The father is there, the mother is there, and the children are quarrelling for some, 'he has snatched my thing. I am given less.' In this maybe quarrel, but the guardian's eye, under guardian's eye.

So our fight should be that we are under guardian's eye. Kṛṣṇa is there. Guru is there. We are seeing almost same order of affection we get from them, and we have got proportionate affection from the same source, and just before them how should we behave? A ruthless, merciless, and heinous, with such mood, and such sort of feeling, that rudeness, this shows that how much God consciousness, Guru consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, is within us. Or we think we are masters, we are seeing the matter, the object. We are more related with the objective world than the subjective. That by capturing the physical aspect of things we have done everything. What is this?

Rather, the ideal side, that is more important than the physical acquisition which was necessary to help the - to propagate the ideal. The ideal is all valuable, not those materials that were gathered to help preach the ideal. Am I clear?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Yes, cent percent.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Who are more interested with the material than with spiritual, so the spiritual dissatisfaction will come there as a reaction, in general. Making too much with the material aspect, it can't satisfy the seekers after truth, quench their thirst. Ultimately none of you have come for material grandeur. You have come to surrender to the beauty of the ideal. The higher type of ideal, that has drawn you all, surely, not the external grandeur. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And there, that is normal. And we may be blessed with that sort of tendency in our heart.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Mahāprabhu showed that He's afraid of mixing with Pratāparudra, the material grandeur, power. But when Pratāparudra was found to serve Jagannātha in the form of a meanest servant, though he sits on the throne, but to Jagannātha he considers himself to be a sweeper. Pratāparudra, though a king, externally, but internally he thinks that he's a sweeper of Jagannātha. Then Mahāprabhu's heart melted. He showed that if you try to look at things in this way, through his laghimā, ego, how it is modest, how it is humble. That should be the standard of judging our friend. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Let us be blessed with that standard, that eye. We may not be conquered by other's ideal. Let God save them also from that sort of endeavour and adventure. They're thinking that they're progressing with much adventure. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Adventure, adventure, to explore the spiritual world, the world of humility and humbleness. There is much jewel, and what jewel we can find on the external surface? We want to be saved from that sort of charm of the external grandeur. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

There is a story in Sanātana's life. It is found in Bhaktamāla, and also Rabindranatha Ṭhākura has written a poem in that connection. In the verge of the Badrahan [?] District [?] there was a village, Mankar [?]. And there was a rich brāhmaṇa family and who had many lineage of worship and festivals of many religious type. But suddenly they had become poor. And the brāhmaṇa he says that, "I am the best of this line, lineage. I'm so poor that I cannot perform so many festivals that used to be performed here every year."

So he was a devotee of Mahādeva, Śiva. He began to pray very fervently to his lord of heart, Śiva. "That please help me that I can keep out the glory, the name and fame of my ancestors."

Then in dream he got some suggestion. "Go to Vṛndāvana, there is Sanātana Goswāmī, meet him, and your aim will be satisfied."

Then in those days no train, no bus, only by walking, the thousand miles, brāhmaṇa went to meet Sanātana in Vṛndāvana. Then anyhow, on the banks of Yamunā he found Sanātana in a hut and taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa. He met him and told his own things.

Then after giving hearing to him, Sanātana told, "Brāhmaṇa it was true that previously when I was Prime Minister to Bengal I gave many things to many brāhmaṇas, satisfied them. But now you find me I'm a beggar."

"Yes, I see your condition. But how can I think that my lord, Śiva, he has frustrated me, cheated me? I can't think like that."

"But what can I do? You see me."

"Yes, I see your position." Then disappointed, the brāhmaṇa is coming away.

The Sanātana Goswāmī suddenly - something came in his mind. "Oh brāhmaṇa, come, come, come. Śiva has not disappointed you. You see there is some rubbish gathered together. I think that one very bright stone was found one day and I put it there. That may be the touchstone, and if it is so, then Śiva has given you dream rightly.”

The brāhmaṇa removing the rubbish found a bright stone.

“Oh, it may be the touchstone. You take it, and all you’re difficulties will be removed.”

The brāhmaṇa took it. “How fortunate I am. Śiva, my lord, has guided me to a proper place, and I have got it.” And now going, he was always thinking that, “It may be ordinary glass also. But I must find some... this iron.” And when searching he found a small iron nail and took it and touched and it converted into gold. “Oh! How fortunate I am. I have got the touchstone. I’m so fortunate in the world I have got the touchstone.”

He’s going, but fortunately the reaction came in his mind.

“This is really touchstone, but why that man, that Sanātana Goswāmī, he so neglectfully put it in the rubbish? How is it possible? It can’t be thought out, that this thing should be so much neglectfully dealt. Why?” Then the next second thought came to him, in the heart of that fortunate brāhmaṇa. “That he must have something more, greater, higher, then he could neglect this thing.” The second thought came in his mind, “He’s in possession of something higher, substance.” And then the third stage he came to think, “That I have found such a saint and if I go back only with this then I’m deceiving myself. It is a proof that he’s a saint of the highest order that he could neglect this touchstone in such a way, hatefully. I have found such a sādhū, such a saint, and if I leave him then I commit a great mistake in my life. It is difficult to find such a saint in the world.” So he came back, returned, retraced, and when he came in the front of the cottage of Sanātana, then it came to its zenith. He threw away that touchstone into the river, and fell on the foot of Sanātana. And it is mentioned, _____ [?] “You have got, you are in possession of such a wealth that you did not care a touchstone to be a valuable thing. I want that valuable thing from you. I don’t like to be deceived by this touchstone, valuable thing.” He threw it to the water, and falling.

So external things, the charm of the external precious things should be conquered. In this way.

Gaura Haribol. The grandeur can attract the self deceiver.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Kṛṣṇa is such He does not tolerate any second of Him, competition, so no alternative. Kṛṣṇa is the only wealth. All others in our paraphernalia should be very, very insignificant. We should be satisfied with that, satisfied with that. Only the whole adoration He should command from our heart. And there should not be anything around us which may attract us, disturb our concentration towards Him. Only the exception of His devotees, those that will help me towards right direction, towards the direction of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Haribol. Nitāi. What was the capital of Swāmī Mahārāja? What was the capital of Nityānanda Prabhu?

[yena bhaje tāre bale danta tṛṇa dhari, āmāre kiniyā laha bala gaura-hari] eta bali nityānanda bhūme gaḍi yāya, sonāra parvata yena dhūlāya loṭāya [Locana dāsa Ṭhākura. Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja's, collection of ślokaś, 608]

His property was that of a negative character. He appealed, and began to cry, and request, and then began to roll on the door. "Please accept Gaura Hari, My Lord. Accept My Lord Gaura Hari. You'll be saved. You'll be saved beyond your conception. You'll be saved. Take Me." In this way His appeal, and He's crying, and He's rolling on the door, bhūme gaḍi yāya. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

That the main nature should be that, propaganda. "He's my business, my earnestness, my necessity, to satisfy my inner tendency, inner hankering, I should do it, not by suppressing and oppressing others."

Deserve and have, deserve. Try to promote the line of deservation. Deserve, and then He'll be eager to embrace you. Deserve and have. Having is only a consequent result. But deserve, try to deserve. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, Mahāprabhu tells, "Sarvatra pracāra haibe mora nāma." So mora nāma is Caitanya Mahāprabhu. Ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Both. We can take both sides. Who will preach, and whom he will preach. Ha, ha, ha. His Name means the Name which He's out to preach. And also, consequently, His Name who'll be preaching, Who's preaching the Name. We shall accept both of them. Don't allow, won't allow anyone to go away, Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Mahāprabhu's Name is of course clear. He want that, "The Name I am preaching." But we shall catch Him also there."

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. Then He'll be reluctantly revealed. Ha, ha, ha. Gaura Haribol. Ha, ha, ha. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura saw with his divine eye that things are advancing in such a way that it cannot but be that these plain things should be understood by the general mentality. And there is the threatening of the atom war, eh? That is a contribution positive to this. Ha, ha, ha. The threatening: do or die. Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The physical civilisation and the spiritual civilisation, come hither, or be victim of the atom bomb. Don't identify you with this physical body that is in danger in wholesale. But try to get out of this physical existence, some noble and higher, divine existence of you.

There is time yet. In the meantime you free yourself from the mal-identification of yours that you die by the atom bomb. You won't die, if you enter into Kṛṣṇa consciousness, no death.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi
Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Not only no death but also a life of nectar eternally. So, it is nearby, very close to you. Rather, you have come, run a long way to this material world to die. But your Kṛṣṇa consciousness nectar ocean is very near to you: as near as you are. And your real self is there. Why do you care for all these things? So:

*tvaṁ tu rājan mariṣyeti, paśu-buddhim imāṁ jahi [na jātaḥ prāg abhūto
'dya, deha-vat tvaṁ na naṅkṣyasi]*

["O King, give up the animalistic mentality of thinking: 'I am going to die.' Unlike the body, you have not taken birth. There was not a time in the past when you did not exist, and you are not about to be destroyed."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.5.2]

At the conclusion of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam the warning is given to Parīkṣit Mahārāja - to all of us - "That this animal consciousness you butcher, you murder, kill, this animal consciousness of yourself that you die. Why do you allow yourself to come down and identify yourself with this material world which dies? You are above death. You, yourself, is already above death. What you are really, that is above death. That does not die when the matter is being transformed into this and that. Tvaṁ tu rājan mariṣyeti, that I shall die, this idea you kill. Paśu-buddhi, this is animal consciousness, your false identification of your self with this body. That is the cause. You disconnect your self with the material body.”

Just as in your dream you may see that your beheaded body is there, lying. But a beheaded man may not have any existence. But in dream you can see that your dead body is there. So also, what you are seeing, that is like that you are independent, as a seer of this world. The world is being destroyed, you’re an onlooker. “Oh. The world is being destroyed.” From aloof you are looking, you are not included there. You can make you separate from this mal identification. It is time. You do it immediately, begin. That you are an onlooker, you are subject, and not object. The objective world may vanish, even the world, the solar system may vanish, but you are not a member of that mortal world. You are a seer, always a seer, a subject. And your prospect is on the other side, on the higher side, super-subjective side. Don’t mingle, entangle yourself with this material world.

You have come to mix with this material. You are taṭasthā. But on the other side there is a land of prospect for you. It is infinitely spread there. Begin your activity there, your prospect there, cultivation in that land. That will produce gems, gold, for you. So that is the scientific basis. And this cannot be ignored in a rational mind. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

And Gaurāṅga and Nityānanda came with what sort of prospect, high prospect for us. The loving lap of our Lord, and His friends, and His loving servitors. So much love we cannot conceive even in this mundane world. In such quantity and quality it is waiting for us to embrace. Go back to God, back to home, back to Godhead. The conception of Godhead is such and such. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: She's making some protestation of humility.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that she's going on?

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does she say? Her complaint?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: She's protesting that actually she comes from a very low family. She does not understand why I say that she comes from a high family. She comes from the lowest family.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, opposing you?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Yes. But still she offers he obeisances first, before she makes her protest.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari. We find from the lips of Sanātana Goswāmī that, “I have come from a very low family.” Generally people say that, ‘I am low, I am humble, I am bad, I am evil, everything.’ But my family is also low, that none can say very easily. We find in Sanātana Goswāmī that he’s saying that, “I’m low born, not any other. I am low, I am humble, I am mean. But my family, I am low born, family is mean, with so much humility it is very difficult to find.” It is found in you. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotees: Jai. Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With your connection with whatever family, your connection has made that great.

...objective world. That is adhokṣaja, super subjective, super natural, transcendental. That sort of fine subject can come down in our gross experience, but when it withdraws we are nowhere. We can't have it to catch it again, a finer subjective existence. There the Vaikuṇṭha and other worlds. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is not non-scientific. Here the ether, the air, the water, the trees, the earth, the stone, the iron, is in progressive grossness. So it must be produced towards the subtle _____ [?] super, super consciousness. It does not end with the subjective side which we hold, but it must go further in the regional circle, existence, consciousness. Consciousness independent, pure consciousness, and that is also finer, finest. In this way it is progressing, no end. So Vaikuṇṭhaloka, Goloka, Kṛṣṇa, in this way it is going up.

Sat-cit-ānandam. The satya, the existence, eternal existence, non vulnerable existence, and then that consciousness. The feeling, the perception of the objective world. Sat-cit and then ānandam, fulfilment of life. The consciousness is hankering to get something, fulfilment, that is happiness, or ecstasy. And that is the concrete reality. This matter has got existence only. The soul has got existence and also perception, existence plus perception. But soul wants something to attain, to get, is hankering. And this ānandam, that is endowed with three. It has got existence, conception, and fulfilment in him, that is beauty, or charm, or love, the three phases of existence. First is only existence, and the second existence with perception, and the third, existence, perception, and fulfilment, that is love, or prema divine. And that is the original substance, and these are outcome, product.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

So God is, and His Name also are there, and the service is there, and it is pure, and it is giving fulfilment to our life. Without Him we are imperfect. Coming in His connection we feel our perfection in progressive life.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

And Mahāprabhu told, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, that beauty or love, that is the highest thing, beauty and love divine, and not consciousness, not intellect, not intelligence, reason, or consciousness, but beauty, or love. It is divine, not thing of this mundane experience, but it is the prime cause. The prime cause is love. It is above justice. Mercy is above justice. Love is above calculation. It can compensate the whole defect in the existence, love, the affection, that is the highest principle of existence, and not consciousness or calculation, or blame or reason.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Mahāprabhu preached that, and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam the very gist of the Veda, Upaniṣad, is this, sat-cit-ānandam. Sat-cit-ānandam, satyam, śivam, sundaram. Śiva is immortal aspect. Satyam, that is satya and śiva. But sundaram, that is the fulfilment of life. That is finishing there with sundaram, ānanda and sundara of equal status.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

And that is harmony also is a synonym of that substance, adjustment, harmony. Otherwise, without sundaram, without beauty, nothing can be harmonised fully. Harmony is beauty, fulfilment. We are to follow this.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

We are in the midst of discordant element, atmosphere. We should try to be a member of the world of harmony. Well adjustment.

Devotee: We do not want another world war.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The world war will come and go, just as creation and dissolution, everywhere, in small and in a bigger size. It is the nature of this material world. But the world may be vanished and we may not be effected in any way. So Śukadeva Goswāmī advices Parīkṣit that, “You just kill your animal consciousness that you’ll die.” You are not this body. You don’t identify yourself with this material body. You are a subject, onlooker, you are seer of the - feeler of these material things. You are a separate entity. You are soul. When the body dies you don’t die. Na hanyate hanyamāne śarīre.

[“The soul is never born and never dies, nor does he repeatedly come into being and undergo expansion, because he is unborn and eternal. He is inexhaustible, ever-youthful yet ancient. Although the body is subject to birth and death, the soul is never destroyed.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.20]

When the body is killed the soul is not killed thereby. So you sever from your body consciousness and seek your prospect on the higher sphere. Don’t identify with this material body and think that your prospect is, must be in this material world, sphere, no. Atom bomb cannot do anything.

nainaṁ chindanti śastrāṇi, nainaṁ dahati pāvakaḥ na cainaṁ kledayanty āpo, na śoṣayati mārutaḥ

[“The soul can never be cut to pieces by any weapon, nor burned by fire, nor moistened by water, nor withered by the wind.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.23]

You’re beyond the jurisdiction of any heinous activity of this mundane world. Nothing can do any wrong to you, you are above...

Devotee: Mahārāja, it can take a lot of time to get to real Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm?

Devotee: Getting to real Kṛṣṇa consciousness...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not lots of time, only earnestness is necessary.

When Parīkṣit Mahārāja is appealing to Śukadeva, “I have got only seven days time. The brāhmaṇa’s curse will take me away from this life, only seven days to live for me.”

Then Śukadeva told, “This is enough time. Only properly utilised only a moment is sufficient.”

kiṁ pramattasya bahubhiḥ, parokṣair hāyanair iha [varam muhūrtam viditam, ghaṭate śreyase yataḥ]

[“What is the value of a prolonged life which is wasted, inexperienced by years in this world? Better a moment of full consciousness, because that gives one a start in searching after his supreme interest.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.12]

There are so many trees and so many mountains living after ages and ages, but what is the good of that? But if properly understood one moment if utilised it can give us a revolutionary change within us, in the highest line, higher line. Only decision of a second may help us very greatly in our life. Varaṁ muhūrtaṁ viditaṁ, ghaṭate. Properly understood, one moment if utilised it can give a turn to ones life forever. Otherwise, sleeping over the time, what is the benefit of so much ages and ages living.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Ke?

Parvat Mahārāja: Parvat.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Parvat Mahārāja. And there?

Rasarāja Dāsa: Rasarāja Dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rasarāja. And where is that Jagadadiśa [?]

Devotee: Jagadadiśa comes...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When? Gone to Nepal?

Devotees: No, he's here. He's downstairs.

Devotee: He has one question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who.

Parvat Mahārāja: Rasarāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that?

Rasarāja: You said that one moment of Kṛṣṇa consciousness is sufficient if it is pure.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is higher. But one varaṁ muhūrtaṁ, one moment if it is meant for search of truth, ātma samīkṣya, self analysis, who am I? The beginning may be here, to enquire after his own self. Who am I? Where am I? And what is my prospect? It begins from here, varaṁ muhūrtaṁ viditaṁ, Śukadeva Goswāmī says, kiṁ pramattasya bahubhiḥ, parokṣair hāyanair iha. Years and years unmindful existence, unmindful of his own interest, years and years passed away. What is the good of that? But for a moment if you are careful to utilise your own solution, mind your own solution of your life, who am I? Where am I? What is my prospect? Where from I have come? All these tackling of universal questions, here it begins.

And that comes from sukṛti, then Kṛṣṇa consciousness, ultimately śraddhā, then Kṛṣṇa consciousness. At least self analysis, self enquiry, ātmā jijñāsā. Brahman jijñāsā, ātmā jijñāsā. Who am I? Where am I? What is my prospect? All these things, analysis, self analysis will begin here. And then when he goes to compare, 'What is my best prospect?' then Paramātmā consciousness, Brahman consciousness, Nārāyaṇa consciousness, then Kṛṣṇa consciousness, all these alternatives come.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja. Why is it that we are deceitful?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. The vulnerability, the weakness, imperfection, is within our constructions. We are meagre. How can we be perfect? We are of atomic existence in every way. The atom cannot hold the whole thing within it. We are part: that is the main nature of our existence. But adaptability, possibility, the prospect within of both the sides is there. Jīva taṭasthā, marginal point, endowed with the adoptability of both sides. He can come to the material world to exploit, and he can go to serve the higher. The association with the higher and the association with the lower. Those two, the double possibility is within him, adoptability, such is the constitution of jīva, of all taṭasthā atoms, atomic existence. That has been explained ultimately when argument is pushed understanding follow in this way. We are to accept such beginning, data. We are to begin with the data of such nature, then we can explain this possibility of life of different ways.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa', [kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa' sūryāṁśa-kiraṇa, yaiche agni-jvālā-caya, svābhāvika kṛṣṇera tina-prakāra 'śakti' haya]

taṭasthā śakti (His marginal energy), and māyā śakti (His illusory energy).”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108-109]

The inner prospect is there in jīva. Kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa'. But he has come, he's found in a peculiar potency of Kṛṣṇa, of the Absolute, which is of taṭasthā. Taṭasthā means of marginal nature, both, margin, the ocean of exploitation, and the ocean of dedication, the opposite. And the margin is inertness, or indifference. But closely inspected we find there is at times, that is not, though posed in different way, but within the constituent part there is possibility of dynamic character. Though static it is felt outwardly: akṣaraḥ.

[“O Pārtha, the living beings in this world are seen to be of two natures - godly and demoniac. I have already elaborately described the godly nature to you, so now hear from Me about the demoniac nature.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 16.6]

Two kinds of creation. In creation we find we are to trace two kinds of things, kṣaraḥ and akṣaraḥ [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.16]. Some in a changing plane and some in a static position. The static portion also may be taken into this dynamic position of exploitation. And it is also possible for that constituent parts of the static position to participate into the plane of dedication. In this way it has been, the fact is so, and we are to accept that and go on, with the data.

Devotee: Mahārāja, is Lord Śiva a person or a post?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? What does he say?

Parvat Mahārāja: Is Lord Śiva a person or a position, a post?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A post?

Devotee: Like Lord Brahmā is a post.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. Lord Brahmā is a post in the material side, in the side of exploitation. And Śiva represents the buffer state, that is taṭasthā. He has come, encroachment towards this, and also on the other side, and also in the middle he holds that non-differentiated position. But some relationship with the plane of dedication, towards the centre, loyalty. And some attitude of revolting against the Absolute. Sometimes he goes to fight with Viṣṇu, and sometimes takes the name of Rāma and dance. The opposite things combined there in Śiva. So he's covering the equilibrium, some influence this side, some that side. Bhakta Śiva, Sadāśiva, and the Rudra, the destroyer of the wholesale dissolution of this world.

And bhayaṁ dvitīyābhiniveśat [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.37], the first consciousness of separate consciousness, dvitīyābhiniveśa. 'I'm not a part of undivided whole. I have got my separate interest.' The wholesale cause of separate interest, consciousness of separate interest is represented in Śiva. Jīva as a whole revolts first from the previous harmonised movement, and he's śiva. So he has got something in that land and something in this land.

82.04.16.D_82.04.18.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...of the illusory energy. Māyā means misconception, and he's the master of misconception. The jīva caitanya as a whole, which is in the clutches of māyā, misconception, that is śiva, jīva caitanya, vulnerable jīva caitanya, not invulnerable.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No.

Devotee: Is his body material or spiritual?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Spiritual, everything is spiritual, but influenced by, material means vulnerable, changing, changing any moment, which is not constant, which is misconceived. The misconception can change, and proper conception does not change. That also higher change, but that is some play, līlā.

Devotee: In seventh canto Prabhupāda writes in the purport that Lord Śiva is a post, as far as I can remember. Everybody can become a Lord Śiva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Force means śakti, potency. Jīva potency as a whole we may tell, śakti means force, force not inanimate but living force, that is power. Force generally is considered inanimate, and power is a living force, it is more, it is power.

Devotee: Not power, post, p,o,s,t, post.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Devotees: Post. Position.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Post.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: And the jīva becomes Śiva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Post means...

Parvat Mahārāja: Government position, government post.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Government post.

Parvat Mahārāja: Yea. Like the president is a post.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Appointed post, to render particular duty.

Devotee: Can the jīva become Lord Śiva? That is the question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Jīva can be Śiva, similar to Śiva. Jīva may be similar to Śiva. All liberated souls hold the similar position of Śiva, and then they pass into Vaikuṇṭha and becomes servants of Nārāyaṇa and Kṛṣṇa.

pāśa-baddho bhavej jīvaḥ pāśa-muktaḥ sadāśivaḥ.

[Sermons of the Guardian of Devotion, 2, p 94]

When under misconception every soul is jīva, and when above misconception every soul may be considered as Śiva. But when enters, after liberation, enters into service in Vaikuṇṭha then he's Nārāyaṇa dāsa, and who can enter into Goloka then he's Kṛṣṇa dāsa.

Śiva means, generally, a liberated soul, Śiva, but in the relativity of māyā. Śiva. Sadāśiva, the more original aspect of Śiva, he's a devotee, Sadāśiva. Śivaloka is there, just below Vaikuṇṭha, crossing Brahmaloka there is Śivaloka. The devotee Śiva lives there. And then the Brahmaloka. Tal-liṅgaṁ bhagavān śambhur [Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, 8]. Śiva, the portion of Mahā Viṣṇu that comes in contact with Nārāyaṇa as a ray and makes, creates a movement in māyā and this creation begins. There is a portion of, consciousness is mingled with some exploiting possibility, then they gradually develop into this world. The exploiting possibility of colonisation, some foreigners come to colonise in the exploiting area. That combination is Śiva, and develops into so many jīvas, when already engaged in exploitation, jīva. A portion of consciousness mingled with the potency of exploitation, and that gradually develops into this world, yayedam dhāryate jagat.

[apareyam itas tv anyāṁ, prakṛtiṁ viddhi me parām jīva-bhūtāṁ mahā-bāho,] yayedam dhāryate jagat

[“O mighty hero, Arjuna, this worldly nature known as external, is inferior. But distinct from this nature, you should know My marginal potency, comprised of the individual souls, to be superior. This world is accepted by this superior conscious potency as an object of exploitation for sense enjoyment, by the agency of each individual’s fruit-hunting actions and reactions. The divine world emanates from My internal potency and the mundane world from My external potency. The potency of the living beings is known as marginal, on account of their medial adaptability - they may choose to reside either in the mundane plane or the divine.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 7.5]

One as an enjoyer within, and something enjoyed, materialistic things evolves, in this way.

Consciousness...

Devotee: What about Rudradeva?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rudra is a part of Śiva, when he's used only in destruction, generally that is said as Rudra. Sometimes he comes from the forehead of Brahmā. After creation when dissolution is necessary he comes to dissolve, as Rudra. Brahmā as an ordinary jīva may be raised in the function of Brahmā, but jīva when mukta he attains the position of a Śiva, pāśa-muktaḥ sadāśivaḥ. And Śiva, the mukta jīva first crossing the stage of Śiva becomes Sadāśiva, and then from Śiva it may again, there is vulnerability, again may come there, but from Sadāśiva he may not come down. He's on a progress on the higher side, by the help of dedication. In the beginning the calculative dedication, and then spontaneous dedication. The inner most nature of everyone is spontaneous dedication, and that is Goloka. And there is always classification, gradation there, everywhere.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Do you know that Sarvabhavana?

Devotee: I've heard of him, Sarvabhavana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. He told he's going to Vṛndāvana this week, whether he has come back from there I don't know. Sarvabhavana. Caru Swāmī you know? No?

Devotee: No, not heard of him.

Jai Gaurendu: Sarvabhavana is still in Vṛndāvana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Parvat Mahārāja: Jai Gaurendu Prabhu is saying that Sarvabhavana is still in Vṛndāvana.

Jai Gaurendu: I was told that he's staying there for two weeks more.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: [reading from a transcript dated 82.03.05.C] ...at the same time we shall think that I cannot attain the fullest degree. I shall try. I am out to try for that which is impossible, to know the Infinite, I have come to try ... and satisfied with very little things. Not much ambition, but at the same time some disinterestedness also is in me, and some sort of common sense. My Guru Mahārāja and also my God-brothers had some certificate for me, not an aggressor. I was forcibly, almost, by affection's force, taken into the connection of ISKCON. And now, I was forcibly, almost, by affection's force, taken into the connection of ISKCON ... I am sitting straight here and anyone coming to me, according to my own conscience I am extending my helping hand to them.

Kīrtanānanda Swāmī: But those who are coming are using you. They're using you for their own political ends.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I'm not supposed to see things through your eyes. I have got my own eyes. I am fifty five years in connection ... is that I'm old. I'm tired can't talk any more now. If you find any necessity to meet me you'll have to come some time after, especially perhaps in the morning time. I'm a little in good health at that time. Now I am almost finished I can't talk longer. If you come again I shall try to put my things more slowly and judiciously and in an appealing way.

Jayapataka Swāmī: The point was ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now, I can't move, my energy finished almost. I can't speak any more. Jayapataka Swāmī: (said to others) You can tell Mahārāja that we just wanted to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jayapataka Mahārāja.

Jayapataka Swāmī: We just wanted to stress that it is not a question of anything personal, and neither is anything personal, it is a question only of what policy to adopt in terms of allowing...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why do you talk now. I can't listen to that. Because if you speak, then I shall have to reply, but I am unable to reply, so you will think that, "Mahārāja could not reply." I don't like that. So, if you want to talk more, I am ready, but you must come at some suitable time, I am not lacking in reasoning, or in representing śāstric quotation. Anyway, I am finished now. I can't talk more. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not much objection.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No trace of Māyāvādī. All Kṛṣṇa kathā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You can keep one copy, in your office.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes Mahārāja. Very good. Your speech is also sweet when exited, still sweet, not different.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Govinda Mahārāja told: Śrī siddhānta nidim [?] All siddhānta with you, perfect siddhānta, nobody can argue with.

Just nine o'clock now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If necessary they may take class. Jayatīrtha Mahārāja [?] Today I won't come out.

...

Vidagdha-Mādhava: ... go on with the original idea to make a very gorgeous presentation, very international flavour-full book. Should the original of that idea go on, or should a volume be printed more modestly, even which way its being done now?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? What does he say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He wants to know what is your good opinion. Should it be published in a gorgeous way, or should it be published in a simple way, for the time being?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Any way it may go to the hands of the public.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So long as its published, just so long as its done.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In both ways it may happen.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: But now its become successor.

Parvat Mahārāja: No wait.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...come out. It may develop gradually. Anyway it will come out in the market. And the next is that Premadhāma-stotram, in a very nutshell the life and the teachings of Mahāprabhu. Bābājī Mahārāja has gone away, Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī, he appreciated my śloka very much. And almost in his daily production, or capitulation, so many ślokas of mine he quoted in his daily bhajan. You have seen him?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yea.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With us he visited that Chaitanya Chandrodaya Maṭha.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With Swāmī Mahārāja along with me. Myself, Bābājī Mahārāja, Paramahansa Mahārāja, Govinda Mahārāja, all were along with Swāmī Mahārāja we were taking prasādam there. That is in photo from there.

*teṣām evānukampārtham, aham ajñāna-jam tamah nāśayāmy ātma-

[“Out of compassion for them, I, situated within the hearts of all living beings, dispel the darkness of ignorance with the radiance of knowledge.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.11]

The Māyāvādīs they give quotation here. “After so much continued pure devotion, then ultimately they’re rewarded with jñāna, jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā.”

But I have adjusted in some other way, that this jñāna is not that jñāna you mean. Viśvanātha Cakravartī only he has given a suggestion, jñāna vaiśiṣṭya, not ordinary jñāna. This jñāna has some vaiśiṣṭya, speciality. And what is that speciality? That moha, śoka-moha bhayava, that śoka-moha, jñāna-sunya-bhakti. The Yaśodā, Śacī Mātā, they’re also prey to that sort of so-called śoka and moha. And sometimes He comes in their heart, presents Himself in such a clear way that quench their śoka and moha, their separation. And at union sometimes when they’re suffering from the separation of Kṛṣṇa too much, then He comes suddenly and presents Himself in their heart in a very glorious way. And then they’re satisfied. This is the meaning there, jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā.

Śacī Mātā has cooked many types of curries, and she’s shedding tears. “These curries are very favourite to my Nimāi. Where are you my Nimāi? Who will taste all these things? I have offered them to Gopāla. Now who will take the prasādam Nimāi? Where are You?”

Ata bhuli asuya harideva nayam [?] The eyes were full of tears. Asta vasta ari jai korinu vakran [?]

“I ran immediately and took all these things, just in the front of My mother, and she forgot everything past. And could feel that I am her Nimāi, I am taking the food. Then again I disappeared. Then again, ‘What is this? Nimāi took this food. I saw it with my own eyes. But He’s not here. Oh, He has taken sannyāsa, He’s my Nimāi in Jagannātha Purī. Then what did I see? But the pot is empty. Who has taken all these things?”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

“Jñāna-sunya-bhakti, due to jñāna-sunya-bhakti, that ignorant type of devotion, the śoka and moha. Śoka means that sometimes this lamentation, and moha, a sort of depression comes to the devotee, and I go and show Myself clearly to them to satisfy, to quench their thirst. And then they feel relief for the time being. Ātma-bhāva-stho, according to their, as some as son, to some as consort, to some as friend, ātma-bhāva-stho. Respective corresponding relationship I meet them and they’re satisfied for the time being. When the separation is too much acute then I do in this way, I have come out in this way, from the clutches of the Māyāvādīns, that jñāna is above all.”

Parvat Mahārāja: Microphone.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is there?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Daśaratha Sūta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As the result of our previous karma we are bound to undergo some natural tendency, the previous saṁskāra. That may be compared as pati. Pati means rightful owner of me. My previous karma as a resultant has got some irresistible command and power over me. That is pati. And the present free will anyhow I must take out from it and offer to the Lord. That is upapati. Pati is the demand of the nature for my previous karma, the demand of mind and body. That has got some power on me and they won't let me be free to go to Kṛṣṇa so easily. They will try to take back. But we are to deceive that force, that internal force, and stealthily we are to take away our freedom to the sweet feet of the Divine Master.

And He's also a very clever thief, He'll also take it and digest it. Ha, ha. And He's very fond of that.

Kṛṣṇa is very fond of that stolen thing, very, very favourite to Him. Ha.

["Who is famous throughout Vraja as the Butter Thief. Who steals the clothes of the cowherd girls. Who steals the sins that a devotee accrues over many lifetimes. I bow down to that Lord, the Foremost of Thieves."]

[Radha-Kṛṣṇa Nectar, p, 206. Nectar Books. By Dasaratha-suta dasa, 1992] [Glossary of People, p 254]

The arch thief, the leader, the expert, He's so, His nature, only thieving, exploiting, not exploit but similar thing...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Plundering.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Plunder.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Plundering, hmm, thieving, plundering. His own thing He wants to enjoy in any way He likes, freely, to the extreme freedom. Ha, ha. And some say that is the most compassionate side, the graceful side of His. We can't give Him, but He stealthily comes and takes His own thing, from reluctant giver. So kind, so kind, stealthily comes to our heart and step the best thing there, so kind, so kind. Our defects, ignoring our defects of thought, deed, words, that we are. We belong to Him. Of course sometimes in our good condition we want to offer, 'everything in me belongs to His service, please take.' But there also may be some sort of insincerity. Independent of that He comes and stealing everything from my heart. Such a great master He is. The great lover, the principle of love is of such way. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Love means that. Mercy means that. He can take the most and He can give the most. His so inner plane, He's existing in such an inner plane, the nature of which is such. He can take most and He can give most, beyond our expectations in both the cases. He's such. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

kam prati kathayitum īśe, samprati ko vā pratītim āyātu go-pati-tanayā-kuñje, gopa-vadhūṭī-vitaṁ brahma

["To whom can I tell it, and whoever will believe it, that the Supreme Absolute, Param Brahman, the Paramour of the damsels of Vraja, is enjoying in the groves on the banks of the Yamunā?"]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.98] & [Padyāvalī, 98] Just before this Raghupati Upādhyāya says to Mahāprabhu:

*śrutim apare smṛtim itare, bhāratam anye bhajantu bhava-bhītāḥ aham
iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde param brahma*

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.96] & [Padyāvalī, 126]

“Let the other scholars go to Śruti, some to Smṛti, some to Mahābhārata, but I don’t care for all these things. My best conclusion is that I want to make friendship with Nanda Mahārāja. Nanda Mahārāja, he’s my real ideal of life. The Param Brahman, He’s crawling on his compound. What is this? The Param Brahman, He’s crawling in his compound. So some sort of enchanting capacity he has got. I don’t mind for Śruti, Smṛti, all these things. I want the substance. I want to make friendship, to make closer association with Nanda Mahārāja.”

nandaḥ kim akarod brahman, śreya evaṁ mahodayam yaśodā ca mahābhāgā, papau yasyāḥ stanāṁ hariḥ

Śukadeva he's also feeling wonder. "What wonder, the Nanda and Yaśodā, what wonderful realisation they have got, that who is Param Brahman He has come so close and sucking the breast of Yaśodā. Oh. [?] that is ever non invented, some wave, policy of realisation, they're unknown to the thinkers of the revealed truth. No revelation of such order ever came to this plane, if not the scriptural section. It is very, very wonderful, astounding.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Gadādhara. [?] Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Kam prati kathayitum īśe, samprati ko vā pratītim āyātu. To whomever I shall go to say, and who will come to believe my words? Go-pati-tanayā-kuñje, gopa-vadhūṭī-vitaṁ brahma. What we are told to be Brahman, the highest Supreme Cause of this world, He has come to entice and to enjoy the girls of Vṛndāvana. Are we to believe in these tales? Eh? What is this? Kam prati kathayitum īśe. To whom should I say, and who will come to believe, put faith in such ordinary, awkward things? That Brahman has come, the Supreme-most, the Absolute has come for play here, to seek in search of affection of the gopīs, the girls of the milkmaid persons, milkmen. Who will come to believe it?"

Then there is samprati, one word, now, who will come now to believe? I gave some interpretation long ago from Madras Maṭha that what is the meaning here, now? Who will come to believe, to put faith in such apparently lower idea, now? But afterwards men will come to put faith in this. When? After Caitanya Mahāprabhu will come. When He will come, and He will place it to the public in such a way, in a clear and generous, and crossing the law of morality in transcendental way, He will be able to show the transcendental characteristic of this thing, then people will come to put faith in this. That was the note in my article Mādhavendra Purī. In Harmonist I gave one article from Madras about Mādhavendra Purī. There it is mentioned in this way. That now no one will come to put faith in it, but afterwards they may come. And afterwards means after the advent of Śrī Caitanyadeva, the combined of Rādhā-Govinda. And He will push in such a way this thing that is above all moral questions, what is the real conception of 'For Itself.' He has dexterously. Then general faith in the public we may see, we can trace. It is so difficult, but Vyāsa, Nārada, who are the propounder of the School, they have come to see how Śukadeva can push the thing in the assembly of the scholars, this parakīya. The God is exploiter, and He likes it very much, exploitation of His own things. How he should put Him in the assembly of the scholars? Dvaipāyano bhagavān nāradaś ca.

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.19.9-10]

Dvaipāyana and his Guru Nārada, they also came to see how Śuka can put successfully this principle, that Kṛṣṇa aspect of the Absolute, why so superior, to assert. Śuka-mukhād amṛta-drava- saṁyutam.

Therefore this fruit has become even more tasteful, although its nectarean juice was already relishable for all, including liberated souls.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.3]

By his remarks, what he heard, and that he put with his own remark to be acceptable to the scholars, theistic scholars.

It is not a matter to show to the others, but it is to indent into the core of ones heart.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Who else are here Akṣayānanda Mahārāja?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Parvat Mahārāja, Daśaratha Suta, Bhakta Johanus from Holand, Dutch name.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dutch name. Gerard, Margaret [Brandt] I read a novel of Reade, one Mr Reade, when in I.A. class after matric in the college I read a novel, Gerard the Dutch hero, and Margaret the heroine. He came through Germany to Italy, Rome. And then one clergyman was in the plot, and anyhow he managed a letter to read that Margaret is dead. So Gerard he took to his church and became a monk. And then when he came back again into Holland he suddenly found that Margaret is there. Then there was a relation, but the relation not crossing the line of religion. Before that one child was born, of Gerard, and anyhow they mixed together, but only for religious purpose. The name of the novel is Cloister and the Hearth. Perhaps Margaret is representing the hearth, home, house, and cloister representing Gerard. They sometimes met, but for religious purpose.

One day, under the shade of a tree, both of them, there is a flood, both of them engaged in solitary talk, and some lady, elderly, she came to overhear and heard that they're talking that the flood is coming, how to accommodate the population? They're suffering so much. Then she went away. And when people came to talk anything ill about them she came out furiously. "Don't talk like that. They're as pure as the air is." She told, "They talk in privacy, they meet in privacy to plot charity to the poor." That was her conclusion. "They meet in privacy but to plot also. What is that plot? The charity to the poor."

And their son was Erasmus, who was a great poet afterwards, Erasmus, a good writer in English.

Erasmus. High thoughts we are told is found in his writings. Erasmus [of Rotterdam]

Cloister and the Hearth.

[The Cloister and the Hearth (1861) is a historical novel by the English author Charles Reade. Set in the 15th century, it relates the story revolving about the travels of a young scribe and illuminator, Gerard Eliassoen, through several European countries. The Cloister and the Hearth often describes the events, people and their practices in minute detail. Its main theme is the struggle between man's obligations to family and to Church. From Wikipedia]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

If our understanding is God-ward then everything is pure. Only one thing, 'For Itself. Reality is for itself. That is the current, purest current, and we must partake there. Everything is for Himself, good or bad, then everything is good. For Itself. Artheṣu abhijñāḥ svarāṭ [Śrīmad-

Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1]

deha-smṛti nāhi yāra, saṁsāra-kūpa kāhāṅ tāra, tāhā haite nā cāhe uddhāra [viraha-samudra-jale, kāma-timiṅgile gile, gopī-gaṇe neha' tāra pāra]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu continued: “The gopīs are fallen in the great ocean of separation, and they are being devoured by the timiṅgila fish, which represent their ambition to serve You. The gopīs are to be delivered from the mouths of these timiṅgila fish, for they are pure devotees. Since they have no material conception of life, why should they aspire for liberation? The gopīs do not want that liberation desired by the yogīs and jñānīs, for they are already liberated from the ocean of material existence.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.142]

No self consciousness, self consciousness fully merged in God consciousness. But still, individuality is retained, individual conception, personal conception exists. That is the difference between Māyāvādā and the cid-vilāsa. The individual consciousness, partial consciousness is not absent, it is there, and still the dedication may be so complete and perfect, keeping the individual. And that is more conducive and that enhances the līlā. The unity is there, the harmony, the very test of harmony is there, retaining the individuality to seek the interest of the centre. That is more in oneness, that is more than oneness. Kṛṣṇa says, naivātmā ca yathā bhavān.

na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr naivātmā ca yathā bhavān]

["Neither Brahmā nor Śīva are as dear to Me as you; My elder brother Saṅkarṣaṇa is not as dear to Me as you, nor even Lakṣmī Devī. Even My own Self is not as dear to Me as you."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15]

"Uddhava, you are My so favourite that I Myself is not so."

Central government is not very successful, but the states under central government is more conducive to its interest. Something like that. The government business is not thriving at present in India. But the individual enterprise of the merchants they're thriving, by their contribution, so if government trades through the individual, through the capitalists, they become gainer. But when they take it direct under their control they're loser. Something like that.

The individual consciousness is maintained, but is more conducive for the service of Kṛṣṇa, than his own. The śakti, the potency, is of such important type, with the Lord. Na ca saṅkarṣaṇo nātmā yathā bhavān . Premaika-niṣṭhāḥ bhakta. That is true in the case of the premaika-niṣṭhāḥ who has come in connection with the love proper. There are so many other types of bhakta.

Kavirāja Goswāmī. And Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, today is the day of his disappearance. The first giver of Śrī Caitanya līlā to us, Caitanya Bhāgavata.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Though it is mentioned in Caitanya-caritāmṛta, was Caitanya- maṅgala. Really it is Caitanya Bhāgavata but we find it mentioned in Caitanya-caritāmṛta as Caitanya- maṅgala.

vṛndāvana-dāsa kaila 'caitanya-maṅgala' [yāñhāra śravaṇe nāśe sarva amaṅgala]

[“Ṭhākura Vṛndāvana dāsa has composed Caitanya-maṅgala. Hearing this book will annihilate all misfortune.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 8.35]

Kavirāja Goswāmī’s writing. He has mentioned very respectfully, Kavirāja Goswāmī.

kṛṣṇa-līlā bhāgavate kahe veda-vyāsa, caitanya-līlāra vyāsa – vṛndāvana-dāsa

[“As Vyāsadeva has compiled all the pastimes of Lord Kṛṣṇa in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Ṭhākura Vṛndāvana dāsa has depicted the pastimes of Lord Caitanya.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 8.34]

Vṛndāvana dāsa is the Vyāsa of Caitanya līlā. And Vyāsadeva he wrote about Kṛṣṇa līlā. Especially the bālyā līlā we get from, the child pastimes of Mahāprabhu especially we get from Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura.

ore mūḍha loka, śuna caitanya-maṅgala, caitanya-mahimā yāte jānibe sakala [“O fools, just read Caitanya-maṅgala! By reading this book you can understand all the glories of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 8.33]

Kavirāja Goswāmī addressing to the public. “Oh you stupid persons, anyhow you give your audience, hearing, to Caitanya-maṅgala. And there you’ll be able to know what Śrī Caitanya is.” In this way he has recommended.

But it was we are told it was originally named as Caitanya-maṅgala. But little after the Locana dāsa Ṭhākura, a disciple of Narahari Sarakāra Ṭhākura of Śrīkhaṇḍa, he wrote a book and gave the name of Caitanya-maṅgala. So Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura then changed his name from Caitanya-maṅgala to Caitanya Bhāgavata. This conclusion we get from the ancient reporters. Caitanya Bhāgavata, and Caitanya Bhāgavata of Vṛndāvana dāsa.

Vṛndāvana dāsa is a son of Nārāyaṇī, lady Nārāyaṇa. She was a niece of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita.

Batasaspatri [?] Nārāyaṇī was the daughter of the brother of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita.

And Mahāprabhu had His much pastimes in the Śrīvāsa Aṅgan. One day Mahāprabhu asked Nārāyaṇī, the girl, to come to Him, and gave out of His own accord the betel chewing to her as a small girl.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Four years girl. She was so eagerly attendant to them, though girl of four years, but she liked very much the company of these big devotees, her previous saṁskāra, sukṛti. And Mahāprabhu offered that one day.

nārāyaṇī — caitanyera ucchiṣṭa-bhājana [tāṇra garbhe janmilā śrī-dāsa-vṛndāvana]

[“Nārāyaṇī eternally eats the remnants of the food of Caitanya
Mahāprabhu. Śrīla Vṛndāvana dāsa

Ṭhākura was born of her womb.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 8.41]

And then she had the fortune of giving birth to a child like Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, who came out with first description about Caitanyadeva very vividly, and also very boldly. He represented the then social states of Navadvīpa and in Bengal very boldly. How they were passing their time, even they were spending money like water in a marriage of the cats. A he cat and a she cat is being married, and in that ceremony they’re spending money like water. That was the engagement of the society at that time.
[?] and the object of their, the subject of their worship was visahari [?] that is manasa [?] the serpent god. And Kali, who generally is controlling the demons. Always at war with the demons, that Kali.

And very rarely the name of Hari, Nārāyaṇa, Govinda, very rarely used to come out from the lips of very few gentlemen when they used to come to take bath in the Ganges water. Nārāyaṇa, Hari, Govinda. That was the condition of the society at that time.

And of course under Mohammedan rule. The Kazi was there in Navadvīpa. And we know how with strong hand the Hindu feelings were checked by the Kazi, in the instance of Haridāsa Ṭhākura. Haridāsa Ṭhākura, it is disputed thing whether he comes from Mohammedan family, or some say he was a child of the brāhmaṇa family. But in his boyhood he was taken away by the Muslims and brought up there. But his previous saṁskāra was in favour of Vaiṣṇava dharma. He used to take Name of Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa mahā-mantra. And he was punished with whipping in twenty two markets. Whipping in two or three markets is sufficient to kill a man. But Haridāsa Ṭhākura was whipped in twenty two markets in Kalna, nearby. But he did not die.

Then those that were engaged to punish him they were frightened. “Then what about us? We must be punished, that we did not punish him. Only three, four market’s punishment is sufficient to kill a man, and we have punished him in twenty two markets. Still he’s alive. Now our life is at stake.”

Then they prayed to Haridāsa Ṭhākura and Haridāsa Ṭhākura showed, he’s posing in such a way that he’s dead. Then they took him to the Kazi, and the Kazi told, “Oh, you leave him on the Ganges water. Don’t give him any - put him in the burial ground, then he’ll have some good future. But as he was a kafir, non believer, he must be thrown into Ganges water. That will be his last punishment.” So they threw him to the Ganges water, and after a little Haridāsa Ṭhākura swam away and went to Advaita Ācārya Prabhu at Śāntipura, just opposite to Kalna.

So such was the nature of the rulers of the time. But still, some sort of religious habits were maintained by some. And Advaita Ācārya was the leading scholar amongst them. He openly accepted that Nārāyaṇa is the highest Avatāra, entity, and all else is under Him. Advaita Ācārya in Śāntipura, a good scholar.

At that time Navadvīpa was famous for this Indian logic study, nyāya śāstra. Nyāya means logic, Indian type of logic, nyāya, especially [?] nyāya. A newly adjusted logic was evolved by the scholars of Navadvīpa. So generally the people used to come and many of the easterners used to flock there for Ganges. Both learning and the Ganges presence.

So Navadvīpa - and little before Navadvīpa was the capitol of the Sen dynasty. The Balav Sen, Lakṣmaṇa Sen, they’re of Hindu creed. Before that Bengal was under the rule of Pal [?] dynasty who was Buddhist. But just before Mahāprabhu it came under the Sen dynasty, and the Sen dynasty had their capitol in Navadvīpa. And the Pal dynasty in Malda, Gaur [?] So Navadvīpa was a capitol town a little before. And the relics are also still to be traced there, as a big bit of relics there. Balav didi [?] is there.

During Lakṣmaṇa Sen's time, Jayadeva, the great Sanskrit poet of Vṛndāvana type, he appeared during the time of Lakṣmaṇa Sen. And during Lakṣmaṇa Sen's time the Muslims attacked. And Lakṣmaṇa Sen he was a devotee we are told, and he left for Dacca leaving Navadvīpa. And Navadvīpa came easily under the clutches of the Mohammedans.

Now, Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura has given vivid description. He was the last disciple of Nityānanda Prabhu. He has written in his poems, sarvaśeṣa-kṛpā-pātra [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 20.82?] "I'm the last remaining [?] of Nityānanda."

He saw those places in Navadvīpa where Mahāprabhu moved and lived, and where He used to teach the students, His house, His tol, and so many shops of different type, and Śrīdhara, anyone. And Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura saw with his own eye all these places.

And he also mourned, "That I have got the birth, but if little ago I could have my birth I could have seen many great personages, Mahāprabhu personally. I see with my eyes all the places empty, where He taught His students, that place is there. Where He dined, where He lived, that room, all is there. The markets, the Ganges, the banks of the Ganges where He used to roam, wander, during the afternoon or evening. All is there, only Mahāprabhu is absent. And this is my misfortune. I'm born but I'm not born a little ago." In this way he's cursing himself, his pastimes. "Why I came late, only a little after, why not a little before?"

Very vividly he has given description of the things he has seen with his own eyes of all the places of the līlā of Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

But we don't find any mention of the name of the father of Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, because we are told that he was not of this, unfortunately, he was not a devotee of Mahāprabhu. So all of the writers have carefully avoided his name.

Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura afterwards he lived in Jamnavad [?] here, Moradjanma [?] Just in the north west of Navadvīpa town there is Moradjanma [?] Mangachi. He lived for some time there. And then again he moved to the north western side which is known as Denur. Perhaps in his old age he passed his time with one of his disciples in his house. And the Deities worshipped by him, Gaura- Nityānanda, Guru-Gaurāṅga, that is found there still is worshipped, in Denur, a village. There the Deities worshipped by Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura is to be found.

So Nityānanda Prabhu [Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura?] has given general description of the earlier life of Mahāprabhu, but the later part of Mahāprabhu's description and His philosophical teachings not so much found there. Generally we can think that we find there the Yuga Avatāra, the Name giving, Name distributing aspect of Mahāprabhu more, than the Rādhā-Govinda combined, His inner, which is found only in aṣṭa-virincyād-cātur-yuga.

The philosophy and the real representation of the whole, especially the later days, that is found in Caitanya-caritāmṛta. And it is found very authentically. With a great authenticity we can rely, we can read Caitanya-caritāmṛta to every inch. Every part of Caitanya-caritāmṛta represents Mahāprabhu fully, because the source is Rūpa, Sanātana, and Raghunātha, who came in direct contact with Mahāprabhu. Not only in contact but Mahāprabhu inspired and empowered Rūpa Goswāmī to deal the śāstras of divine love, rāgānugā, the Vṛndāvana love. The divine love has been dealt scientifically and exhaustively by Rūpa Goswāmī. And it was possible that he was inspired to such purpose by Mahāprabhu.

Not only inspired by Him, but also we find in Purī He's asking Svarūpa Dāmodara, "I have given My all to him. You also grace him. He's a fit person to deal with this Vṛndāvana love, the science of divine love. He's the fittest person. You give everything to him. You can believe him. We can put full confidence in him."

So that Rūpa Goswāmī, and then from there Raghunātha dāsa Goswāmī. Direct contact of Mahāprabhu, Svarūpa Dāmodara, Rūpa, Sanātana. Kavirāja Goswāmī was a disciple of Raghunātha dāsa Goswāmī, and he came in close association with Rūpa, Sanātana, and Raghunātha, and got their benediction. So what he has given it is unparalleled, and that can never be imitated by anyone, Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

But still, he has pleaded for Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura. "Here, what Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, the other books, contemporary books, that Caitanya-maṅgala, not so much reliable, but Caitanya Bhāgavata reliable. But still, it is of a primary order we may say, but it is śuddha-bhakti."

Vṛndāvana dāsa niti bhakta sri caitanya [?]

Kavirāja Goswāmī, edam kaidam madhana mohan [?]

And he himself says, vṛndāvana dāsa niti bhakta sri caitanya [?]

And Nityānanda Prabhu's grace helped him to write about Mahāprabhu. That is the first book came out about Mahāprabhu. Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura. And he was so much intimate and closer to Gaura- Nityānanda Prabhu, he was so much captured exclusively by the personality and by the teachings of Gaura-Nityānanda he could not tolerate that anyone won't accept that.

So he has tried his best with folded palms. "I represent how magnanimous, how great Nityānanda- Gaurāṅga They are. You people try to understand Them, then what sort of divine taste of your future prospect you will get, you will understand. Come, come and accept, and you will know how great They are. So with my folded palms, falling at your feet, my request to you, come, and don't neglect Gaura-Nityānanda being puffed up by the vanity of your previous formality and this tantric mentality. But come to the feet of Gaura-Nityānanda, the great teachers. They have taken for us the great ocean of nectar."

In this way, but he could not keep himself, his extreme adherence to Gaura-Nityānanda and especially to Nityānanda as taken from his lips. "That I'm requesting you so much, but still if you don't accept, you oppose, I kick on your head."

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ata bhuli hali ata [?]

"I am trying my best, showing so many apologies. "You come and see, touch, come in touch, and you will see how great They are. But in spite of my so much entreaty and humiliation, if anyone comes to speak anything against, I want to kick on his head."

Then naturally, the ordinary person will think that he was a very proud and insolent person.

Whereas Kavirāja Goswāmī says: purīṣera kīṭa haite muñi sei laghiṣṭha. "I am the meaner than the meanest, even the worms in the stool." Jagāi mādhai haite muñi se pāpiṣṭha. I am the fallen of the fallen, sinner of the sinner, extreme sinner, even than Jagāi, Mādhai. Mora nāma śune yei tāra puṇya kṣaya. Whoever comes to hear my name, his merit diminishes. And mora nāma laya yei tāra pāpa haya. And who takes my name, touches in his tongue, he commits direct sin. I am such mean. But Nityānanda Prabhu is so magnanimous, so gracious, so great, that such a type of fallen soul has been taken up by Him.” [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.205]

*tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ
sadā hariḥ*

[“One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa.”][Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

Mahāprabhu Himself He has given out how the characteristic of a devotee who will take to Kṛṣṇa Nāma, how his nature should be, to the ordinary public. Tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā. More forbearing than the tree, and more humble than the blade of grass.

But this gentleman, this Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, how he will come to say that he will kick on the head of those? Most audacious, and it is objectionable even by the law of Vaiṣṇava, they will come to decide in this way.”

I had something in the mind about that, but when I came to Gauḍīya Maṭha I heard an interpretation revolutionary from Guru Mahārāja. One day I found that he said that, “Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura’s mercy knows no bounds. Those living persons who are, who have no other alternative, Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura found some way, he has made some way for them. How it is? When his kick touches any head, he’s sure to get relief.

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That sort of positive faith, the explanation in the positive line, how due to the faith in Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu I found in Gauḍīya Maṭha. Of course, generally there is some objectionable. Avaisnava daso [?] And their advice is also so. But if he has crossed that - but from the positive line, in a pushing way, such explanation came from Guru Mahārāja and I heard. The harmony, where it lies, the harmony. The plane of harmony I could trace, the heart's giving of a devotee attracts the attention of Kṛṣṇa more towards the damaged person. He cannot leave His devotees, but if devotees does rudely to anyone, the Master is more attentive to them who is damaged anyhow by the devotee. This is fact, and Guru Mahārāja was saying that those that have got no chance of coming this side, Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura has relieved them by his kick.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... for those unbelievers by offering his feet to them. Kṛṣṇa, Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu, They will have to sing something about those men who have got kick of Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, that cannot go useless. So something must be done for them. Ha, ha. Some provision. So this is thee positive line. Any wrong from the side of the devotees of Kṛṣṇa that is more than any reward conceived in the world. The positive things nature is such, especially that of Kṛṣṇa conception and divine love.

So Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura's day of disappearance today and we are trying to sing something in his praise so he may be propitiated with us. We do not know. His extreme love, extreme sentiment and appreciation for Gaura-Nityānanda has made him mad. He did not know what he's doing, saying or not saying, doing or undoing. He's beside himself. He can't tolerate the least idea that why such a magnanimous, such a gracious, such high things, why a man should not accept it. It is impossible for him to think out the alternative. So his heart is so full of devotion towards Nityānanda and Śrī Gaurāṅga. And we pray to him a drop of that kind and pure and intense devotion towards Gaura-Nityānanda coming from his feet. Śrī Kṛṣṇa-Caitanya, Prabhu Nityānanda, Śrī Advaita, Gadādhara, Śrīvāsādi Gaura-bhakta-vṛnda.

Hare Kṛṣṇa Hare Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa Hare Hare, Hare Rāma Hare Rāma Rāma Rāma Hare Hare.

Kṛṣṇa kathā and Gaura kathā we are lucky to hear. First we can hear Kṛṣṇa kathā but before that we can hear Gaura-Nitāi kathā. And before that we can hear of the associates of Mahāprabhu. And before that we can hear of the associates of the associates, and this way down from the lowest point we get the best connection. We think with the empirical mind that we will get the best connection directly to the highest point.

But Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu told, “Gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayoḥ dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ. I am not a brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra. I am not a brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsī, but I am the servant of the servant of the servant of the master of the gopīs.” [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya- līlā, 13.80]

Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, Śrī-Kṛṣṇa-Caitanya Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa nahe anya, none other than Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa personally Themselves appearing as one. And all His associates also we find they also have their place in Kṛṣṇa līlā. Particularly Gaura-gaṇoddeśa-dīpikā and other authorized works, that’s where every associate of Śrī Kṛṣṇa in Kṛṣṇa līlā, Vraja līlā, the same corresponding personality comes in Gaura līlā. So we could hear something today by good fortune about Śrīla Vṛndāvana dāsa Thakura and Śrīla Kṛṣṇa dāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī. They also correspond in Kṛṣṇa līlā. I don’t remember, Mahārāja will tell us, Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, perhaps Śrīla Vyāsadeva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Kavirāja as Śukadeva.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: And Kavirāja Goswāmī as Śukadeva Goswāmī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Their outer aspects.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Their outer aspects represented there. So the connection always comes all through. So therefore that is our fortune to hear this Kṛṣṇa gathā and bhakta gathā. And Gaura, Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu, that whole family that takes us not just to the Vedic culture but to the Gaura culture. We had, one day we were taking prasādam here, recently, and it was so nice all the devotees were saying, ‘this is really Vedic, very Vedic preparation.’ I was thinking ‘Vedic, very good but also it appears to be Gaura.’

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrutibhir vimṛgyām [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61] What the Veda is searching after, śrutibhir vimṛgyām, that meaning what the Veda is searching for, after, śrutibhir vimṛgyām.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So we have such fortune to come here, such a place, we should live in this place, when leaving we should still live in this place always in our heart. In Bhagavad-gītā [8.14] Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa has said, tasyahām sulabhaḥ pārtha, “I can be purchased by those who always think of Me.” Evaṁ satata-yuktā ye [Bhagavad-gītā, 12.1] I just forget the verse. But He has said there that, “Those who are always thinking of Me then I am very easily purchased.” So similarly if we are always thinking, when our Guru Mahārāja, Śrīla Prabhupāda, Swāmī Mahārāja, went to America he said, “I am always thinking of Vṛndāvana so actually I’m still in Vṛndāvana.” So by his grace we also could come to Navadvīpa to make that very special connection, down, down, down, to the present representative of Mahāprabhu Himself. That brings us to the highest point. So we should always live in Navadvīpa, whether physically or travelling to the other side of the world, I think that Navadvīpa will always remain in our hearts. And His Divine Grace Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja will also remain there.

Devotees: Jai.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja:

*vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca kṛpā-sindhubhya eva ca patitānām
pāvanebhyo vaiṣṇavebhyo namo namaḥ*

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, anyone more? Jayatīrtha Mahārāja, something. So many disciples are here waiting to hear from your lips Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Already they've taken bath twice. First in the nectar of your words and then Akṣayānanda Mahārāja's words. And now what will I do but throw some dirt upon them? Still at your request.

*vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca kṛpā-sindhubhya eva ca patitānām
pāvanebhyo vaiṣṇavebhyo namo namaḥ*

The other day we heard from Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī that on one occasion Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura began his lecture because he only had a short time perhaps by speaking only this one verse in praise of the Vaiṣṇavas, not even giving address to his own Gurudeva, or to Kṛṣṇa, or to Mahāprabhu. And that Śrīdhara Mahārāja's reaction to this was to readjust his understanding of what was most essential in terms of progress in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Of course that was his protestation of humility. We can understand that Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja is a nitya siddha, an eternally associated part of Gaura līlā and Kṛṣṇa līlā. So therefore we can't consider at any time he couldn't know that the service of the Vaiṣṇavas is actually the highest kind of service.

That was also on that occasion gave the remark of Lord Śiva to his wife establishing this fact. And also today by addressing the topic of Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, the devotee of Nityānanda Prabhu, Who in turn is the devotee of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu. So the devotee of the devotee, and here of course we have the opportunity to associate with his devotee, Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī, the devotee of Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura.

And as Akṣayānanda Mahārāja has very excellently pointed out the siddhānta of our faith, that by taking shelter of that station, Mahāprabhu's transcendental message, of this Kṛṣṇa prema, is being disseminated through the various stations in different parts known as the Vaiṣṇavas. And the quality of mercy that we receive from the Vaiṣṇavas, the servants of Mahāprabhu, has apparently in some mysterious way even been enhanced by coming through them. This principal also we find in the Bhāgavatam in relationship to Śrīla Śukadeva Goswāmī and his vibration of the messages of Godhead that he received from Vyāsadeva that are described as being even more sweet. So the mercy of the Lord becomes even more sweet as it comes to us through the disciplic succession. And when it reaches us finally from the Vaiṣṇava who is our immediate station, then it comes with such super excellent quality that we cannot help but recognize it as being divine in its origin. So in this way all of us have come to the lotus feet of Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī and we have the conviction that he is in fact the bona fide agent of the highest divine personage Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya Mahāprabhu.

And we feel in fact the realization of that verse of Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, sākṣād- dharitvena samasta-śāstrair, sākṣād-dhari...

[“In the revealed scriptures it is declared that the spiritual master should be worshipped like the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and this injunction is obeyed by pure devotees of the Lord. The spiritual master is the most confidential servant of the Lord. Thus let us offer our respectful obeisances unto the lotus feet of our spiritual master.”] [Śrī Śrī Gurv-aṣṭaka, 7]

...the messenger of Godhead is actually as sākṣād-dhari in as much as the Lord always travels with him. Therefore if we are in the company of the servitor of Godhead then we are in the company of Godhead automatically. In that sense the two are inseparable, Kṛṣṇa and His devotee, are inseparable. If we find His devotee we may not be able to find Kṛṣṇa, He's adhokṣaja, but if we find His devotee then in fact we've found Kṛṣṇa in him. When Raghunātha dāsa Goswāmī went to Vṛndāvana it's said that he found Mahāprabhu in Rūpa and Sanātana. So also we can understand that coming to Navadvīpa we found Mahāprabhu in Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī.

Devotees: Jai. Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Then Parvata Mahārāja, where is he?

Devotees: He's right here Mahārāja. At your feet.

Parvat Mahārāja: Maybe Aranya Mahārāja is senior to me by sannyāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Aranya Mahārāja, then we want to hear something from Aranya Mahārāja's lips, in the day of disappearance of Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, who has given description about Mahāprabhu.

Aranya Mahārāja:

*vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca kṛpā-sindhubhya eva ca patitānām
pāvanebhyo vaiṣṇavebhyo namo namaḥ*

om ajñāna-timirāndhasya jñānāñjana-śalākayā cakṣur unmilitam yena, tasmai śrī-gurave namaḥ

["I was blind in the darkness of ignorance but my Spiritual Master applied the ointment of proper spiritual knowledge and thus opened my eyes. Unto him I offer my respectful obeisances."]

*mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam kathayantaś ca
mām nityam, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca*

["My devotees mix together, talk about Me, and exchange thoughts that give consolation to their hearts. And they live as if this talk about Me is their food. It gives them a high kind of pleasure, and they find that when they talk about Me among themselves, they feel as if they are enjoying My presence."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

So when we come here in the presence of such exalted personality as Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja this is all we hear, topics about Kṛṣṇa, and how by hearing these topics we can become inspired to render service freely. So we are just like, Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, he's kicking on the heads of all those rascals who oppose Caitanya Mahāprabhu and Lord Nityānanda. We are praying that he will kick on our heads, help us to become purified and to engage in the service of Gaura-Nitāi.

Also just like Kṛṣṇa dāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī was considering himself more lower than the worm in stool, we are also seeing that same humility manifest in personage of Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī. He's offering his respects even to ourselves coming from such low mlecca and yavana backgrounds. And he's giving us an opportunity to engage in the service of Guru and Gaurāṅga.

So we can see that as this message descends through the disciplic succession it becomes sweeter and sweeter and sweeter because all the blessings of the previous Ācāryas are there. We have seen now that by the mercy of our Guru Mahārāja, Śrīla Prabhupāda, the message was presented very, very sweetly. And now again its becoming sweeter, more relishable by coming through the lips of another exalted personage, Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī.

So we are praying somehow or other that just like Narrotama dāsa Ṭhākura he was praying to Lokanātha Swāmī that somehow or other that he could be led by his Gurudeva to the feet of Rūpa Goswāmī. So in this way we are also praying somehow or other that we can be directed to the higher personages for service. Service is the ultimate goal of our life cause without service simply we will remain within this material world and beat our heads against the hard rocks of māyā's touch. She's very hard and we can see that all the conditioned souls are suffering to such a great extent. So somehow or other we have to get that mercy and be able to go out and distribute that mercy to these fallen souls to help them from their suffering state. Just like Haridāsa Ṭhākura he underwent so much punishment being whipped, as we heard this morning, in twenty-two market places. Unbearable suffering he underwent to spread the Holy Name.

So we also see in the life of our Guru Mahārāja, such turmoil he underwent, such hardships that he experienced to spread the Holy Name throughout the whole of the world. And even we are seeing now Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja in his advanced age is experiencing so much hardships and inconveniences by the presence of ourselves. We're imposing so much problems on him, but he's still willing to extend unlimited mercy to us, selfless. So we're praying somehow that we don't become a burden to him and that we actually are able to grasp the message that he is trying to deliver to us, and in return deliver that to others to help them in their journey back to Godhead. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotees: Jai. Hari bol.

[“May that Lord, who is known as the son of Śrīmatī Śacīdevī, be transcendently situated in the innermost chambers of your heart. Resplendent with the radiance of molten gold, He has appeared in this age of Kali by His causeless mercy to bestow what no incarnation ever offered before: the most sublime and radiant spiritual knowledge of the mellow taste of His service.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.4]

This composed, this poem by Rūpa Goswāmī, when it came out in the court of Rāmānanda, Sārvabhauma, Mahāprabhu, discussing how Rūpa Goswāmī has begun his books. Then when this stanza was pronounced by Rūpa Goswāmī then Mahāprabhu told, “No, no, no. This is too much.”

Devotee: Forgive me Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi.

Anyone want to speak something about Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura, the first author of Gaura līlā? Ladies also spoke here, delivered lecture in that hall. Hmm? Hare Kṛṣṇa. So no one? Then we may dissolve the meeting now. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...His disappearing, there was foundation for Dvārakā līlā from Vṛndāvana līlā. Vṛndāvana līlā went underground. After Kṛṣṇa left Vṛndāvana... (justo govinda- nandana?)

[krsno 'nyo yadu sambhuto yah purnah so 'styatah parah] vrndavanam parityajya sa kvacit naiva gacchati

[“The Kṛṣṇa known as Yadu-kumara is Vasudeva Kṛṣṇa. He is different from the Kṛṣṇa who is the son of Nanda Mahārāja. Yadu-kumara manifests His pastimes in the cities of Dvārakā and Mathurā, but Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the son of Nanda Mahārāja never at any time leaves Vṛndāvana, even for a moment.”]

[Laghu-Bhāgavatāmṛta, Purva-khanda 165] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 7.42]

It is also mentioned in Purāṇa that Kṛṣṇa does not (justo govinda-nandana?) who is considered to be the son of the gopa; that is of Nanda, He never leaves Vṛndāvana. He's always there, that Svayaṁ Bhagavān. Kṛṣṇa is always in Vṛndāvana. He cannot live separated from Vṛndāvana and the group of His party. So when as from Mathurā Vasudeva-Nanda, Devakī-Nanda was taken by Vasudeva to the house of Nanda in Vṛndāvana, so that Devakī-Nanda really left Vṛndāvana and Nanda-Nanda with whom the Vasudeva-Nanda was mingled, He's gone underground. That is, He took His position in the transcendental world. Though Vṛndāvana is the supreme most position of the transcendental world, still He came down from that position to some, to retire some imperceivable plane. And Vṛndāvana people they felt their separation, pangs of separation. And Devakī-Nanda who is Vilāsa Mūrti, Svayaṁ Bhagavān, Svayaṁ Prakāśa. Prabhāva-vilāsa of Svayaṁ Bhagavān really He came to Mathurā, Devakī-Nanda came to Mathurā; as He went carried by Vasudeva when He was born in such a way in the prison house. That Vasudeva-Nandan came back.

Then; Rūpa Goswāmī wrote two books, one Vidagdha-Mādhava, another Lalitā-Mādhava. Vidagdha-Mādhava is in Vṛndāvana, very clever Mādhava, very clever. And Lalitā-Mādhava, Mādhava submissive, playful. Lalitā-Mādhava went to Mathurā and in Dvārakā. And he feels that though externally we find Rādhārāṇī than this Chandrāvalī and also the friend circle. But they are inconceivably transformed into different form. Rādhārāṇī went to Dvārakā in posing of Rukmiṇī Devī. She came from the connection of the Sun; and anyhow through the Sun She managed to represent Herself. In other words he means to say that as Vasudeva-Nanda His supreme position is as Nanda-Nanda, so the Rukmiṇī and the Satyabhāmā the (moyhishi?) They must have Their original Svayaṁ Rūpa representation in Rādhārāṇī, and Lalitā, Chandrāvalī etc. That was his feeling, that they are not independent. Their original conception is in Rādhārāṇī and when they come in the lawful relation with Kṛṣṇa in mādhurya rasa they take such forms, they're aṁśa rather; they're part. The fullness in Śrī Rādhikā and the partial representation in all these (moyhishi?). Rādhikā and the other gopīs They are represented there partially in Dvārakā etc. So it is peculiar to think that (kahana moyhishi?) that the principal queen was Rukmiṇī, how She could come from Chandrāvalī? And rather of secondary position Satyabhāmā, she represents Śrī Rādhikā who is of the highest type here in Vṛndāvana, in mādhurya rasa service.

This is a peculiar thing and we are to follow in this way. That sentiment, in the highest place sentiment has got highest value. And little lower layer the intelligence gets the better hand. So Chandrāvalī she, her special capacity was fair intelligence and patience and the other general qualifications. And in Rādhārāṇī's case was more sentimentalism, bhāva-pradhan, priti pradhan, bhāma bhāva, etc. So in the second layer She has to get the second position not the primary position. These things are very abstruse, difficult to understand.

So Satyabhāmā was represented from Rādhārāṇī and Her first opposition leader, Chandrāvalī, got there the first class position in a little lower strata. And Lalitā, she became Jambhuvati, in this way, Madhumaṅgal was represented there as he is. Some śakha also they are represented in this way.

So Gadādhara Paṇḍita, Rādhārāṇī and Rukmiṇī, They are of the same line. And that was represented by Gadādhara Paṇḍita in Gaura līlā. In Gaura līlā the peculiarity is this; that the bhāva, the sentiment, the mood, the emotion of Rādhārāṇī, was taken by Mahāprabhu Himself, Kṛṣṇa Himself. So Gadādhara Paṇḍita, Rādhārāṇī who was emptied, his everything is drawn from him personally. So only a case, a shadow like position Gadādhara Paṇḍita holds there in Gaura līlā. And Rukmiṇī characteristic was maintained there; sober, considerate, patient, all these things, all these qualities remain there in Him. And so sometimes he's told as the Rukmiṇī avatāra, the avatāra of Rukmiṇī. But really his position was such that of Rādhārāṇī which was drawn by Kṛṣṇa and both combined became Mahāprabhu. That is the peculiar position he holds. He cannot, just like a shadow, he cannot leave Śrī Gaurāṅga. Wherever Gaurāṅga is going he's following from a distance. He does not know anything but Gaurāṅga. But still he's not seen to come forward, in the front, always in the backside, shyness. In this way he played his part, that Gadādhara Paṇḍita.

Mahāprabhu, Kṛṣṇa and Rādhārāṇī, They are born in aśṭamī, the middle of the new moon and full moon, both. But here Mahāprabhu took His birth in the full moon and Gadādhara Paṇḍita just in new moon, no moon. New moon means no moon. Full moon was taken by Mahāprabhu. And new moon or no moon was taken by Gadādhara Paṇḍita. He's master of everything, but still here he has given everything to his master and he's empty. He's empty in such a way he's playing his part, Gadādhara Paṇḍita, the highest position of sacrifice. He stands there. This is the ontological side.

From the historical side we find that he was born in a brāhmaṇa family in this at present (Mushidapur District?) Bharatpura. At that time many gentlemen had his house in the capital town, so Navadvīpa was a famous town for the brāhmaṇas to cultivate their learning. So here they have a house in this (Prachin?) Māyāpur, but at present located there. Mādhava Miśra was the name of his father and Ratnavati mother's name. They lived here and he was a student, a very meek and modest student was Gadādhara Paṇḍita. And from his childhood he was given to the devotion of Nārāyaṇa, Kṛṣṇa.

Nimāi Paṇḍita, Śrī Caitanyadeva, Nimāi Paṇḍita, He showed His character as an aggressor, impertinent, and extraordinary genius: in this way very frivolous. Gadādhara Paṇḍita was just the opposite. But Gadādhara Paṇḍita had some natural inclination, submission towards Nimāi Paṇḍita. And Nimāi Paṇḍita also had some special affection for Gadādhara. But Gadādhara Paṇḍita he had some; he could not face Nimāi Paṇḍita direct, some sort of shyness he felt about Nimāi Paṇḍita. And when Nimāi Paṇḍita is seen he tried to go aloof, but Nimāi Paṇḍita won't let him go. He asked him so many questions what he felt in a very perplexing mood, Gadādhara Paṇḍita; in this way.

But when Nimāi Paṇḍita came up from Gayā He was just a turned man, a devotee. Then Nimāi Paṇḍita met Gadādhara Goswāmī. “Gadādhara,” addressing Him, “Your life is real fulfilment; from the childhood you have got devotion towards Nārāyaṇa, toward Kṛṣṇa. But My whole life is spoiled. I passed My early days in ordinary topics, not cultivating the devotion of Nārāyaṇa, devotion of Kṛṣṇa. Love of Kṛṣṇa I did not know. I passed My life, whole life uselessly. But you, Gadādhara, from the very beginning you are a pure devotee of Kṛṣṇa. You are fortunate enough. I want the grace of you all so that I may pass my future days in devotional activity.” In this way.

Then Gadādhara Paṇḍita asking the, taking the permission of Nimāi Paṇḍita, he took initiation from Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi who was supposed to be Vṛṣabhānu Rāja, father of Rādhārāṇī. Vṛṣabhānu Rāja, Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi whom Mahāprabhu gave the name Premanidhi; not Vidyānidhi but Premanidhi. He was a very great devotee a very high order this Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi to whom Mukunda Datta took Gadādhara Paṇḍita and he got initiation there.

Then when Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa, Gadādhara Paṇḍita followed Him. He could not live in Navadvīpa without Nimāi Paṇḍita, who was Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. So much so that when he found that Nimāi Paṇḍita is permanently going to settle in Purī he took kṣetra-sannyāsa. Kṣetra-sannyāsa means a type of sannyāsa in which the sannyāsī takes the vow of not leaving that particular place whole life. So Gadādhara Paṇḍita came to know that Nimāi Paṇḍita will pass the last days of His life in Purī, Jagannātha kṣetra, then he took kṣetra-sannyāsa there. And sometimes Nimāi Paṇḍita is seen invited in his āśrama where he installed Gopīnāthaji and engaged himself in the worship of Gopīnātha.

Nityānanda Prabhu was very intimately connected with him and whenever He went to Purī, Jagannātha kṣetra, He used to stay with Gadādhara Paṇḍita. And Nityānanda Prabhu used to take many presentations from Bengal, Gaudadesa, to Jagannātha Purī, and used to stay with Gadādhara Paṇḍita. And one day it so happened that Nityānanda Prabhu had taken some rice and other things that was very favourite to Mahāprabhu and They are cooking and offering to the Gopīnātha and when They go to take food Mahāprabhu suddenly appeared there. And They were, “Nityānanda Prabhu has taken so many good things from Bengal and Gadādhara Paṇḍita is cooking and giving, offering to Gopīnātha, I must have a share there. You want to deceive Me, but I won’t be deceived. I have come here. Now take, give Me prasādam. Nityānanda’s things and Gadādhara’s offerings and I must have a share there. You can’t ignore, I am come, take Me, take the prasādam.” In this way They were highly pleased and He took prasādam there; so many things.

And we are told that when Mahāprabhu disappeared, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has taken this opinion, that He disappeared in the āśrama of Gadādhara Paṇḍita and He became one with Gopīnātha whom Gadādhara Paṇḍita daily worshipped.

Mahāprabhu asked Gadādhara Paṇḍita to teach Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam to Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. Gadādhara Paṇḍita used to hold, by the request of Mahāprabhu, used to hold Bhāgavata class daily almost. And Mahāprabhu with His followers used to hear that Bhāgavatam from the lips of Gadādhara Paṇḍita. He was specialist as reader of Bhāgavatam and he was requested by Mahāprabhu to teach Bhāgavatam to Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. And anyhow he managed to keep that order in some way or other. And by His will Śrīnivāsa Paṇḍita was the highest exponent of Bhāgavatam in future time.

So this is what we know about Gadādhara Paṇḍita. Gadādhara Paṇḍita who had very intimate relationship with Mahāprabhu for which the Ācārya, the Svarūpa Dāmodara, Rūpa, Sanātana, Kavirāja Goswāmī, Raghunātha dāsa, all of them they could see Rādhārāṇī and Rukmiṇī both in him, in his personality.

And according to that we shall try to understand him. And we shall pray to him for his special grace that we may be reckoned in the section of the intimate devotees of Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva and thereby we can attain our highest service in the group of Rādhārāṇī. Dvārakā Rukmiṇī and Rādhārāṇī Vṛndāvana.

With this aspiration we stop here today. Jai Om Visnupada... Any question?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Mahārāja asking any question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From any quarter.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Any question from any quarter.

Devotee: Śrīdhara Mahārāja, I was wondering, “Where was Gadādhara Paṇḍita born?”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What?

Another devotee: He’s asking, “Where was Gadādhara Paṇḍita born, where did He appear?”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What?

Devotee: Where did Gadādhara Paṇḍita appear?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Appeared in Bharatpura. At present it is in the district of (Mushidabad?) just nearby the place of Nityānanda Prabhu’s birthplace, Ekacakra, that side. Here is Ekacakra, something like, here is Bharatpura, birthplace of Gadādhara Paṇḍita in the Radhadesa. That is, that was known as Radha. Radhadesa, that is on southern side of Ganges and western side of (Bhagirathi?), and that was called in previous time as Radha. This (Bharam District, Bilvam, Bakura, Mushidabad, half?) It is considered as Radhadesa.

From the time of Alexander it is known like that. There was Alexander's time it is mentioned the Alexander was afraid to fight with the (Gangeri?) soldiers, Ganga and Radha combined (Gangeri?); (Gangaradhi?) some invincible batch of soldiers were here. And that was taken by Candra Gupta and fought with (Seleucus?) after Alexander. And (Seleucus?) was defeated by Candra Gupta whose capital was near (Patna?) just this side of Bihara near Ganga. And (Seleucus?) came to form a truce with Candra Gupta; he gave his daughter in marriage with Candra Gupta and had a truce with him. This Radhadesa: (Gangeri?) Ganga and Radha.

This place, the place of Jayadeva, Candidāsa, Kavirāja Goswāmī, they all come from this Radhadesa. Jayadeva: great Sanskrit poet of Vṛndāvana rasa, and Candidāsa in Bengali representing the highest sentimental verses about Vṛndāvana rasa. And Kavirāja Goswāmī, you all know Caitanya-caritāmṛta was given by him.

And Nityānanda Prabhu Himself He appeared from Radhadesa. And so many others, paṇḍitas, the eternal friends of Nityānanda and Mahāprabhu they took their birth in this place, so it is considered to be a very holy place this Radhadesa.

And Mahāprabhu took His sannyāsa and wandered in a madly position, half mad position of Vṛndāvana rasa throughout the Radhadesa and then came to Śāntipura crossing the Ganges near Kalna, went to Śāntipura Advaita bhavana. These things are described in Caitanya-caritāmṛta. And Caitanya Bhāgavata made by Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura who also lived nearby in Radhadesa passed his last days here. So what we get about Śrī Caitanyadeva mostly from the poets of this Radhadesa. Caitanya Maṅgala; there is another epic about Mahāprabhu. The poet of that [Locana Dāsa Ṭhākura] he was also in... Kograma; that is also in Radhadesa. And Narahari Sarkar Ṭhākura in Śrī Kandha, he had got much contribution in the līlā of Mahāprabhu.

Any other question from any other person?

Devotee: Kulangana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does she want to say?

Kulangana: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, could you please say something about the Deity in this temple.

Devotee: She wants to know some things about the Deity in the temple.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Here, in this temple, Deities?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: (Bengali)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When there was some disturbance in the Maṭh of our Guru Mahārāja between the trustees, I left our Guru Mahārāja's Maṭh's connection and went to Vṛndāvana. But I had my aim to take my shelter for my last days here in this Koladvīpa, aparādha-bhañjan-pāṭ. I went to Vṛndāvana and after passing the month of Kārtika there, the holy month, and circumambulating every day the Govardhana, Girirāja, when month was finished then I took Govardhana Śilā from there and I came to live, to pass my last days of life here.

When I was coming I had a thought in my mind that I am going to take shelter in Navadvīpa Dhāma for the whole life but the real master of the land of Dhāma is Nityānanda Prabhu. So I must go to Nityānanda Prabhu to take His permission to have His grace and then I shall go to Navadvīpa. So I went to Ekacakra, the birthplace of Nityānanda Prabhu, where His Śrī Mūrtis are being worshipped regularly. And there when I fell flat before Him I got some sort of inspiration.

And anyhow from there I came here with that Govardhana Śilā and in some rented house I lived about two years. And some of my God-brothers secured this land for me and I came here in a cottage, [nineteen] forty-two. And I used to go on with my taking the Holy Name and the pūjā, the worship of Govardhana Śilā. Then gradually I felt that Mahāprabhu's Śrī Mūrti should be installed here. And with the help of some of my friends and their request I installed Mahāprabhu's Śrī Mūrti and Govardhana Śilā. And then gradually, according to the line of our Guru Mahārāja, with Mahāprabhu, Rādhā-Govinda Mūrti should be there. So following that order I installed also Rādhā-Govinda Śrī Mūrti and Govardhana Śilā was there and Nārāyaṇa Śālagrāma came here, Nṛsiṃha Varaha, Lakṣmī Varaha; the Mūrti, very grave and very strict.

In Hari-Bhakti-Vilāsa there is classification of the nature of different Śālagrāma. How we should know what are the signs in Them and according to that what name and what is His nature, this is all described in Hari-Bhakti-Vilāsa. According to that we can know the Nārāyaṇa Śilā who is He, what is His name and what sort of worshipping and service He wants from us. It is found there. And out of His own accord that Lakṣmī Varahadeva, Nārāyaṇa came here, and these Śrī Mūrtis are being worshipped here according to our capacity.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: (Bengali)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And our Guru Mahārāja he installed almost everywhere this Mahāprabhu and Rādhā-Govinda meaning that Mahāprabhu is combined Rādhā-Govinda. Mahāprabhu means Rādhā-Govinda. Svarūpa Dāmodara has given us a śloka about the ontological nature of Mahāprabhu.

rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedam gatau tau caitanyākhyam prakāṣam adhunā tad-dvayam caikyam āptam rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitam naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam

[“I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the Predominating and Predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord’s internal pleasure giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.5]

Who is Mahāprabhu? Svarūpa Dāmodara: just as Rādhārāṇī had Her most intimate friend, Lalitā, who knew the real heart of Rādhārāṇī; so here, Lalitā’s avatāra was Svarūpa Dāmodara. He fully knew what Mahāprabhu was and he has given this acquaintance of Mahāprabhu, who really He is, the ontological side.

He says, just as we can't say winter is first, or summer is first, or rainy season is first, autumn is first, so in cyclic order it is moving. Everyone is first and any other one is second. If I begin from winter then the next comes summer. If we begin from summer then afterwards comes winter.

So the līlā is eternal. Kṛṣṇa, Mahāprabhu, in Kali-yuga He is coming as Mahāprabhu, Śrī Caitanyadeva, and in Dvāpara-yuga He is coming as Kṛṣṇa. But the time is eternal factor in nitya-līlā. Here of course we have counted, we have taken that Satya-yuga is first, Treta, then third Dvāpara, then last Kali-yuga. Again after Kali-yuga comes Satya-yuga. Satya, Treta, Dvāpara, Kali, cyclic order. That Kali-yuga is the beginning, then comes Satya-yuga next, then Treta, then Dvāpara or Kṛṣṇa: so whether Mahāprabhu is first or Kṛṣṇa is first, that is unquestionable, it is revolving in a cyclic order.

So Svarūpa Dāmodara said Rādhā-Govinda They were combined first and we see that in Dvāpara- yuga They are different for Their līlā. So sometimes combined līlā and sometimes separate līlā; in this way it is coming, passing through in a cyclic order. Who was one, combined and one, Rādhā- Govinda, later we find Them to be separated in Vṛndāvana līlā. Both Vṛndāvana līlā and Navadvīpa līlā are eternal. In the highest eternal ontological quarter we find līlā of both types. In one compartment, in compound, where is Vṛndāvana we find that They are having Their pastimes amongst Them, Rādhā-Govinda separate. And in Gaura līlā we find Rādhā-Govinda combined and both of Them trying to give Themselves out to others, distributing Themselves. What was confined in Their own section, own circle, here in Gaura līlā we find that that rasa is being distributed to others. So audārya and mādhurya, the two specific characteristic of two līlā and two avatārī, both of Them are avatārī, the source of all avatāra, the highest conception of the ontological aspect, the absolute, but two phases. One is They're tasting Their own sweetness in Their own līlā. And in another place They're all trying to distribute it to the other fallen souls. The two types of the same rasa and of the same degree, this is the difference.

So our Guru Mahārāja wanted to show in his form of installation of the Deities that the highest order of worship is here. That Mahāprabhu combined who is giving the rasa, and Rādhā-Govinda with Their paraphernalia what They are tasting within Their own circle, that highest order of sweetness is being distributed by Mahāprabhu Himself in His this figure. So They are of the same level, layer, and the same dignity and same highest position. To show, to represent this to the worldly intellect and devotion, Guru Mahārāja has taken this method in the worshipping, arcana, as favourable to his preaching about Rādhā-Govinda Vṛndāvana līlā.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: (Bengali)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And my Guru Mahārāja he installed his Vighraha in Caitanya Maṭh there he named Guru-Gaurāṅga-Gandharva-Giridhari. And here I have given the name, by remembering his holy feet, Guru-Gaurāṅga-Sundara, and Gandharva, and Govinda-Sundara, because Govindaji has got a special characteristic in our sampradāya which was worshipped, installed by Rūpa Goswāmī. In Govindaji's praṇāma we find:

dīvyad-vṛndāraṇya-kalpa-drumādhaḥ, śrīmad-ratnāgāra-simhāsana-sthau śrī-śrī-rādhā-śrīla-govinda-devau, preṣṭhālībhiḥ sevyamānau smarāmi

[In a temple of jewels in Vṛndāvana, underneath a desire tree, Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Govinda, served by Their most confidential associates, sit upon an effulgent throne. I offer my humble obeisances unto Them.] [Rūpa Goswāmī's Abhidheyādhideva Praṇāma]

We find in Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa has been installed in three phases; Rādhā-Madana Mohana, the sambandha-jñāna with whom we are ultimately connected in our final liberated position, Rādhā- Madana Mohana alone, no friend of Kṛṣṇa, no friend of Rādhārāṇī...

82.04.23.B_82.04.24.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is Kṛṣṇa, Madana Mohana. And in the mantram we find from Gurudeva, the first Kṛṣṇa and Madana Mohana that is identical. Then we come to Govinda, to Rūpa Goswāmī. Madana Mohana, Rādhā-Madana Mohana, worshipped by Sanātana Goswāmī, he's the Ācārya of sambandha-jñāna, with whom we are connected: to express that. Then the second, abhidheya, how to worship Him, that was given direction by Rūpa Goswāmī. And he installed Govindaji. What type of worship there? Rādhā-Govinda with some servitors also, the sakhīs, the mañjarīs, etc., they're serving Rādhā-Govinda. In that sort of posing it is installed by Rūpa Goswāmī. Not that They are alone but They are being worshipped. We are more concerned with that. That our superior Vaiṣṇava, Guru, and the pārṣada, they are worshipping Rādhā-Govinda and we can have our teachings, our trainings from that idea. That is more suitable for us. So I have tried my best to take here, to connect here the Vighraha with Govindaji. This selected group, they are worshipping Rādhā- Govinda and we shall have their example, instruction and accordingly we shall try to enter into their group. Then the third is Gopīnātha, Rādhā-Gopīnātha. And that is:

śrīmān rāsa-rasārambhī vaṁśī-vaṭa-taṭa-sthitaḥ karṣaṇa veṇu-svanair gopīr gopīnāthaḥ śrīye 'stu naḥ

[Śrī Śrīla Gopīnātha, who originated the transcendental mellow of the rāsa dance, stands on the shore in Vamśīvaṭa and attracts the attention of the cowherd damsels with the sound of His celebrated flute. May they all confer upon us their benediction.]

Then another: the sambandha, abhidheya, and prayojana tattva, rasa līlā. Gopīnātha, when He's showing His rasa līlā, that He's in a general, a public mādhurya rasa group; then He's Gopīnātha. That He's the Lord of the gopīs in general, all the gopīs He invites with the sweet sound of His flute and He begins rasa līlā where all are accommodated. So anyone with the aspiration of the Kṛṣṇa worship in the gopī type they may have some place there, a very general assembly of the gopīs where Kṛṣṇa plays with them; that is rasa līlā; a general. But that is for general there. Rādhārāṇī, Chandrāvalī and other groups, various groups are represented there, the most public, but our need in the special group, in the group of Rādhārāṇī. So we rather try, we appreciate them all, but our special affinity towards the group of Rādhārāṇī. And that They are being worshipped by our superiors, I like that most, and I got here Śrī Govindaji in the middle. Rūpa Goswāmī: specially my Gurudeva, before his departure, he took me to his side and wanted me to sing the song of Rūpa Goswāmī, rūpānuga vicara. And following that I have installed here Govindaji, Rādhā-Govindaji-Gandarva-Govinda- sundara. This is my attitude in the installation of the Deity here. I represent it to you.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Caitanya. Gaura Hari. I'm feeling weak so I try to beg your leave now. Gadādhara Paṇḍita's day anyhow we had some talk, discourse about him. Let Them bless us, be satisfied with this little quota, this speaking and hearing.

*nāhaṁ vasāmi vaikunṭhe yogināṁ hṛdayeṣu vā mad bhaktāḥ yatra
gāyante tatra tiṣṭhāmī nārada*

["I am not even in Vaikuṇṭha, not even in the heart of the yogīs, but where My devotees are singing with pleasure about Me, I am there, I am owned by them."]

“Neither I live in Vaikuṇṭha, nor I live in the hearts of the yogīs. Vaikuṇṭhe yoginām hṛdayeṣu vā. Wherever My devotees are talking about Me, discussing about Me, singing about Me, I present Myself. I cannot but be present there where you Nārada, you devotee, you are My devotee, you know it for certain that My attraction is towards discussion of My devotees. Where they talk about Me I cannot but be present there.”

So let him grace, show his grace and blessings toward us all by our, this little attempt of discussion of the Divine Lord. Invoking the grace of Gadādhara Paṇḍita in the day of his appearance, we retire this day from the meeting. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and Rabindranath mentioned his name that he's polluting the name and fame of India, approaching the ladies with [?] tricks.

Devotee: No, not that one.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What?

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That was one gentleman...

Another devotee: [?] Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] So your present name is? Devotee: Śukadeva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śukadeva, I forgot. Sixty-seven, eighty-seven years age at present, memory fading gradually. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. How are you attracted by the ISKCON movement?

Devotee: I've been attracted to ISKCON since seventy-five.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Seventy-five.

Devotee: I read some articles by Śrīla Prabhupāda in the Back to Godhead magazine.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where?

Devotee: In Calcutta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are living at that time at Calcutta?

Devotee: No, I was living in Bengal. I used to come to Calcutta for some work, on the āśrama.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where?

Devotee: In Bihar.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That I know. I have got some idea of the [?] I knew many gentlemen of the past age.

Devotee: [?] is millionaire there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes millionaire, Hari Sankara and Kṛpā Sankara, those two, yes both merchants. And, Gujarati merchants, and perhaps Hari Sankara's son is Yasopanta [?] is it?

Devotee: Yes, I know.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Arjuna Argarwala was in the [?]

Devotee: Arjuna.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Argarwala from ...

Devotee: He is very old now, but he's very strong.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Arjuna Argarwala I met, and his guru also. His guru he was in Benares, Ārya Samāji, but we had Vaiṣṇava servant. So he challenged me and he took his guru there from Benares. "How you can support Kṛṣṇa līlā? The debauchee Kṛṣṇa, immoral, God cannot be so such and such." All these things: arguments.

Then his guru came, he's a student of Vedānta, I asked him, "What sort of Vedānta you have studied?"

"Śaṅkara."

"And from whom?"

Then he came down. In Benares at that time there was one Dāmodara Goswāmī, a good scholar of Vedānta, he also published one book. I was also trying to publish a Vedānta at that time. Then he told, "Dāmodara Goswāmī, he is a Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, you know?"

“Yes I know.”

Then he fell flat. “Yes, my guru is Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava Society, the Vedānti Dāmodara Goswāmī of Rādhāramaṇa in Vṛndāvana.”

“Rādhāramaṇa [?] I know, in Vṛndāvana. Gopāla Bhatta parivar.”

Then I told that, “You know that Bāladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa Vedānta bhāṣya is there from the Gauḍīya sampradāya.”

“I have heard of that.”

“Your guru has got faith in that. Absolute good is absolute autocrat. Autocrat everything belongs to Him. We are the culprits that we think that this belongs to me, that belongs to that, then that gentleman, that belongs to other gentleman, this is quite wrong.”

īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, [yat kiñca jagatyām jagat tena tyaktena bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam]

[“Everything animate or inanimate that is within the universe is controlled and owned by the Lord. One should therefore accept only those things necessary for himself, which are set aside as his quota, and one should not accept other things, knowing well to whom they belong.”] [Śrī Īśopaniṣad, 1]

Everything belongs to Him and He is the enjoyer. And that Hegel philosophy, “Reality must be by itself and for itself.” By itself means it is caused by Himself, Svayambhu, otherwise He won’t become reality. If any third thing has produced Him then that will have more importance. And for itself: He’s existing to fulfil His own purpose: not to fulfil purpose of a third thing. Then if His existence is to fulfil the purpose of another thing, he will hold the higher position. So reality must have these two ideas in it; by itself, it is His own cause, and for itself, He exists to fulfil His own purpose; not subservient to anyone. Then...

Devotee: He had to admit.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Admit, had to admit, yes. So He is absolute good. Autocracy must be there, then the world will be saved. The autocracy in the hand of absolute good, so don't forget the absolute good, and power is concentrated there and that is the best benefit of the whole. In this way, Arjuna Agawala was very much satisfied, and his brother was Śaṅkara Argawala he was _____ [?] there his sons Madana and others perhaps are living now. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. There was one Bhagavati Argawala, Ramakrishna, so many in my young days I went to that place to collect some funds for the Maṭh here.

Devotee: Even now there's possibility of opening something there, doing something there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now everything taken and they're dispossessed of their property, government...

Devotee: But they're still very rich. There are multi millionaires.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Śukadeva, I might have heard your name perhaps, Śukadeva, now and then. Did you meet Mādhava Mahārāja? No? Mādhava Mahārāja who has a Maṭh in Vṛndāvana and Calcutta also, he was a preacher. But I preached during my Guru Mahārāja's time and little later. I am sitting here idle in this Maṭh, don't go out for preaching [?] My Guru Mahārāja wanted to send me to foreign country but I was reluctant. I can't follow their intonation and I have not a mind to mix with them. I came from big brāhmaṇa family, paṇḍit family.

So I did not go into the foreign land, but in my last days I find that Guru Mahārāja has taken so many foreign scholars to me. I can't - energy is finished, but still the demand is there.

Devotee: It is our good fortune to meet you actually.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. In the beginning I came I was placed in New Delhi, New Delhi just in construction. I was in charge of Kurukṣetra and New Delhi Maṭh was founded by me, Gauḍīya Maṭh. Through me it was founded at that first municipality declared [?] he was the first chairman of New Delhi Corporation. I was there. I invited him to Kurukṣetra Maṭh [?] He was the first chairman of New Delhi municipality corporation. I was there in Hanumān Road. I had a Maṭh, hired a rented house, started in Hanumān Road.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Then I had to go to Madras side for preaching. And Madras Maṭh was started and I was left there in charge of that Maṭh. Then of course Bombay Maṭh was started. There also I lived for one or two years.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

During the first non-cooperation movement I was studying law. And left the university and joined along with C.R. Dasa and others, Subash Gosh. We are of that type, Subash Gosh. Subash Gosh just came passing ICS but did not accept any service, joined movement along with C.R. Dasa.

Devotee: Many of his followers speculate that he is still alive. Is he still alive Swāmīji or he is passed away?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Devotee: Subash Gosh.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't think he is living. A man of his type cannot live in disguise. That is my idea. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Then after that lull came in the movement I joined Gauḍīya Maṭh: [nineteen] twenty-six. From twenty-six I am member of Gauḍīya Maṭh, and preaching. Ha, ha, ha. [?] after fasting sixty-two days he died, and Gandhi's civil disobedience movement in full fledged. At that time we had to oppose that national movement in favour of Gauḍīya Maṭh teaching. "That what you are doing is extended selfishness. Political freedom is nothing. By so many politically free country in the world but are they happy? What is the standard of happiness you have learned?"

Raso vai saḥ - real happiness is person. That is not a thing that we shall acquire that and put in the iron safe and enjoy. Real happiness, raso vai saḥ, ānanda, ānandaṁ brahmaṇo vidvān.

[yato vācho nivarttante, aprāpya manasā saha

ānandaṁ brahmaṇo vidvān, na vibheti kutaścaneti]

["As one gets subjective realisation of the transcendental blissful aspect of the Supreme Divinity, he sheds fear completely for all time. Such a realised man of wisdom is freed totally from negative thoughts. Having his thoughts fully attentive to the All-Blissful Divinity, he is spared from such torture. Such is the secret doctrine."] [Taittirīya Upaniṣad, 11.9.1]

The rasa, the ānanda: that is person, we are to understand. We are person and we are unhappy and we want to be happy by whose connection His status must be superior to that of us. So super subjective area He is living, the rasa. Real happiness in super subjective area, not in the objective area it can be located from. We are to begin our life in that way, raso vai saḥ, akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ.

yaṁ labdhvā cāparaṁ lābhaṁ, manyate nādhikaṁ tataḥ yasmin sthito na duḥkhena, guruṇāpi vicālyate

wavers.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.22]

That sort of rasa, ānanda, ānandaṁ brahmaṇo vidvān, raso vai saḥ. Rasa is not be located in the objective world, but in the subjective, super subjective world. And we are to approach Him in the slave mood, mood of service, dedication, and not as a master. The land, the plane of exploitation we are living in; then the plane of renunciation as Buddha and Śaṅkara; then the plane of dedication as Rāmānuja and other Vaiṣṇava Ācārya. Three planes we are to find. The plane of exploitation and that is subdivided. Exploitation of different nature there may be, exploitation, karma. Karma means exploitation. And jñāna means renunciation, complete withdrawal from the objective side, by renunciation, and to retire into a plane that is similar to sound sleep, samādhi, and not to come out in the objective world. If we awake then we must be awake in the mortal world, plane, there will be reaction; the land of, the plane of renunciation, a zero, a spiritual zero as in slumber. Then the life real: to begin towards land of dedication as a unit in the plane of dedication, Kṛṣṇa dāsa, Nārāyaṇa dāsa: subordinate.

nityo nityānām cetanaś-cetanānām, eko bahūnām yo vidadhāti [kāmaṁ tam ātmasthaṁ ye 'nupaśyanti dhīrās teṣāṁ śāntiḥ śāśvatī netareṣāṁ]

[“Of the innumerable, eternal, conscious beings, there is one eternal Supreme Being. That Supreme Lord is the maintainer of the innumerable living beings in terms of their different situations, according to individual work and reaction of work. That Supreme Lord is also, by His expansion as Paramātmā, present within the heart of every living being. Only those saintly persons who can see, within and without, that same Supreme Lord, can actually attain to perfect and eternal peace.”][Kaṭha Upaniṣad 2.2.13]

*brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati samaḥ sarveṣu

["The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema-bhakti) unto Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54]

"After one has realized that he's brahman, he's cetana, and not of any mundane affinity, then only he's eligible to make his way towards Me."

["After many, many births and deaths, one who is actually in knowledge surrenders unto Me, knowing Me to be the cause of all causes and all that is. Such a great soul is very rare."][Bhagavad-gītā, 7.19]

After ages and ages a jñānī ultimately comes to realize that Vāsudeva is all in all. Vāsudeva, Puruṣottama, Parabrahman, He has got personality. We took Him as non-differentiating, non- aggressive, non-assertive, a mass of consciousness, but it is not so, it is person, Vāsudeva, Parabrahman, Puruṣottama.

Have you gone through Bhagavad-gītā?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmaṇo hi pratiṣṭhāham: "I am the support of Brahman."

dvau bhūta-sargau loke 'smin, daiva āsura eva ca [daivo vistaraśaḥ prokta, āsuram pārtha me śṛṇu]

["O Pārtha, the living beings in this world are seen to be of two natures - godly and demoniac. I have already elaborately described the godly nature to you, so now hear from Me about the demoniac nature."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 16.6]

udāhṛtaḥ yo loka-trayam āviśya, bibharty avyaya īśvaraḥ]

[“In this world, there are two kinds of souls: the fallible and the infallible. All beings from Lord Brahmā down to the lowest stationary life-forms are known as fallible (as they have deviated from their intrinsic nature). But the personalities who are eternally situated in their divine nature are known as infallible (personal associates of the Lord).” “But totally distinct from both these types of souls, there is a Supreme Person who is known as Paramātmā, the Supersoul. He is the Supreme Lord. Entering into the three worlds in His eternal form, He maintains all beings in the universe.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.16-17]

What undergoes change and what is constant; two kinds of created things here.

*yasmāt kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ ato 'smi loke vede
ca, prathitaḥ puruṣottamaḥ*

[“Because I am transcendental to the fallible souls and also superior to My infallible eternal associates, My glories are sung in the world and in the scriptures as Puruṣottama, the Supreme Person.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.18]

“I’m above that, both that, constant and the changing things of this world. I am above, I transcend, so I am Puruṣottama, My name is Puruṣottama. I am above those two entity, kṣaram and akṣarād. I am Puruṣottama, person.”

In this way the personal God, that is we can get it, that God is person. And He is not a substance, mere inert non-differentiated mass of consciousness, not that. Assertive and He is all-good, ānanda, raso vai saḥ.

Devotee: Even adi jagat guru Śaṅkarācārya had to admit...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Devotee: Later on, adi jagat guru Śaṅkarācārya had to admit that there is...person.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I didn't meet any of them. I somewhat knew about Karapatri [?] I didn't meet him but I heard about him, Karapatri [?] He has gone through Vaiṣṇava literature also but his tendency toward Māyāvādā that Madhusudana Saraswati, a Bengali scholar, of the renouncement [?] Māyāvādā. Now only living on the basis of his argument, Madhusudana Saraswati, a Bengali scholar of Haridpura district. Advaita Siddhi, his book is known by the name of Advaita Siddhi. Before that Madhvācārya sampradāya, Jayatīrtha and others they refuted all other arguments of the Māyāvādī scholars very successfully. But this Madhusudana Saraswati came afterwards and he re-established some sort of Māyāvādā conception, we are told. But we have got our general knowledge from Gītā, and Bhāgavat and our Gurudeva. We came to understand. We met so many paṇḍits of so many departments, that I don't think anyone could defeat our arguments. I don't think...

Devotee: But there is some difficulty for me Swāmīji, because I have been in ten years in Māyāvādīs and...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is good that you had a good contact with Māyāvādā. Just as Jīva Goswāmī did, he first went to Benares and studied all the Māyāvādī treatise, and then in Vṛndāvana he refuted all of them.

Devotee: I would like to do that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And also I find that Kumara Bhatta, Kumari Bhatta perhaps, he went to Buddhistic Ācārya and he learned everything from them. Then again came back and refuted them, the Buddhists. And because he thought that he has betrayed his guru, though Buddha, then he put...

_____ [?] Kumari Bhatta. When Śaṅkara just coming Kumari Bhatta gone away. He was refuting the Buddhist, then Śaṅkara came and refuted successfully the Buddhist idea. But he himself delivered Buddhist goods in a new colour in Vedic literature, Śaṅkara. What Śaṅkara told that is similar to Buddhism because Buddhism says with the dissolution of the mental system nothing remains, there is no eternal existence of jīva soul. Here Śaṅkara and Buddha common that jīva soul is not of eternal type. But we find, nityo nityānāṁ cetanaś-cetanānām, [eko bahūnāṁ yo vidadhāti kāmān tam ātmasthaṁ ye 'nupaśyanti dhīrās teṣāṁ śāntiḥ śāśvatī netareṣāṁ]

[“Of the innumerable, eternal, conscious beings, there is one eternal

Supreme Being. That Supreme Lord is the maintainer of the innumerable living beings in terms of their different situations, according to individual work and reaction of work. That Supreme Lord is also, by His expansion as Paramātmā, present within the heart of every living being. Only those saintly persons who can see, within and without, that same Supreme Lord, can actually attain to perfect and eternal peace.”][Kaṭha Upaniṣad 2.2.13] In Gītā,

[na jāyate mriyate vā kadācin, nāyaṁ bhūtvā bhavitā vā na bhūyaḥ] ajo nityaḥ śāśvato 'yaṁ purāṇo, na hanyate hanyamāne śarīre

[“The soul is never born and never dies, nor does he repeatedly come into being and undergo expansion, because he is unborn and eternal. He is inexhaustible, ever-youthful yet ancient. Although the body is subject to birth and death, the soul is never destroyed.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.20]

[mamaivāṁśo jīva-loke], jīva-bhūtaḥ sanātanaḥ [manaḥ śaṣṭhānīndriyāṇi, prakṛti-sthāni karṣati]

[“The soul is a part of Me, as My separate fragmental particle or potency. Although he is eternal, he acquires the mind and five perceptual senses, which are parts of material nature as creations of māyā, My deluding potency.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.7]

What is the meaning of all these scriptures? He is eternal, jīva tattva. But Śaṅkara did not accept; he accepted the creed of the Buddhistic that with the dissolution of the mental system nothing remains. But Buddhists are silent. If anything remains anywhere Śaṅkara says, “The brahman which is imperceivable, inconceivable, some source of conscious substance remains. But we have nothing to do with that, we can’t know it. And that cannot be of any utility to us.”

Then how Śaṅkara comes to preach? How the Veda, how then if the truth cannot assert to come down in the māyic area, then how the men that are covered with illusion will get relief, go to the truth? I met many Māyāvādī paṇḍits, they can’t answer this. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

They say two kinds of pāpa [sin]. One is [?] bhrama and [?] bhrama [?] A flame is there and one is misconceiving that flame as a jewel. And there is another; the one he’s coming in connection of a real jewel but thinking, also mistaking it that it is jewel: two kinds of error.

Then I put, “How to detect that this is a particular type and this is a second line, how to understand one?” He could not answer.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: But Swāmiji why are there many Māyāvādīs preaching?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why not Māyāvādī? What is not here? Everything is here. This is not a standard place of living. This is within already the plane of misunderstanding. Māyā means mā yā, what is not that. Mā yā, mā means no, yā means what, what is not, that is the misunderstood aspect of the whole. So māyā, misunderstanding that is natural here and... mriyate anyayate māyā [?] Another interpretation, that everything has got infinite possibility, infinite connection, but we measure it according to our selfish nature. We see everything with our own interest, we ascribe our own interest in our environment and we want to read, and to store and record; so independent of that no interest. My impression about a thing, and a tiger’s impression, or an ant’s impression, that is not one and the same. The human interest that also may differ from this section, that section, in this way, one is friend and to another that same friend is enemy. The record, according to our own interest we record. And our place changes and our interest also changes; our reading is also changeable. Mriyate anaya [?] By measured estimation māyā means. Not in central angle of vision we see things, but we ourselves are centre and ascribe our central interest into the paraphernalia and we go on reading and recording in that way. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is Māyāvādā. So it will be, this is worst place.

Devotee: It means they are misleading people, public in general.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course.

māyāvādam asac-chāstram, pracchannam baudham ucyate mayaiva vihitam devi, kalau brāhmaṇa-mūrtinā

[“The Māyāvādā philosophy, Śiva informed his wife Pārvatī, is covered Buddhism. In the form of a brāhmaṇa in the Kali-yuga, I teach this imagined philosophy. Śaṅkarācārya is thus widely accepted as an incarnation of Śiva.”] [Padma Purāṇa, Uttara khanda, 25.7]

Again this is harmonized also. “I have ordered Śaṅkara, My favourite disciple, go and preach Māyāvādā against Me, against devotees.”

Why? Just as in hospital [?] to segregate them, to save the less serious. “So, whose idea is so ‘ham; more serious type of demoniac characteristic, remove them with this false preaching. And the other, innocent people will get facility to go in their own way. But otherwise they will come and disturb. So go and create another association for them, go and preach.” Mahādeva was asked by Nārāyaṇa, “Go and take them aloof.”

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi
Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

By the grace of Gaurāṅga [?] with the conclusion of Bhāgavatam. And that came from Vyāsadeva as his last treatise. And after he was chastised: given stricture by his Guru Nārada.

“What have you done so far? That is all nonsense. Dharma, artha, kāma, moksa. You have prescribed only the diet for the patients. But a normal person, a healthy person, how he will live, you have not given it to that. So now a new idea, that the healthy persons, raso vai saḥ, they will cultivate about rasa proper. They will live above liberation. Above renunciation there is a normal life, and how they live, give that sort of instruction. Otherwise all your Veda, Vedānta, Gītā, Mahābharata all falsified.”

In this way Nārada came to instruct Vedavyāsa; and then he gave Bhāgavatam.

And Mahāprabhu came with that final thing, “Don’t worry about the so many primary and other scriptures, but the highest thing that was given in the scriptures by Vyāsadeva in his, the last treatise, take up that, take the name of the Lord, go direct to Kṛṣṇa cultivation, kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam.”

[anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyam, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam bhaktir uttamā]

[“One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service.”] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167] & [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.11, purport]

To cultivate about Kṛṣṇa, how: by serving. There are so many people that raised that, “Gauḍīya Maṭh is preaching slave mentality. We say, So 'ham, so great we are. And they say, “No, no, we are slave to Kṛṣṇa.” So they are very cowed down, depression, bringing depression into the country, they're enemy of the country, Gauḍīya Maṭh people.” In this way.

And we are told that we are speaking the reality and you are suffering from so many diseased thoughts. In Sylhet we had a meeting and Siddhanti Mahārāja, you do not know perhaps, he had Maṭh in Calcutta and Purī and also here. He was a very brave and straight speaker. He attacked Subash Gosh, Bunkeen Chatterjee, (Mandakar?) all these. The young men they were of that place, they were very much disturbed and they came out to stop our meetings there. The sympathizers of the locality came to us to stop preaching, but we did not agree, we went to the meeting, they also came.

But I began with this appeal, “This is not a place, country for Subash Gosh, Bunkeen Chatterjee, (Mandakar?) only. But here is also Buddha, Śaṅkara, Vasiṣṭha, Yajñavalka, also Vedavyāsa, Śrī Caitanyadeva, Rāmānuja; they are also son of this land and what they have given to us?

Only political freedom what is that? Nothing; all the so called political countries they are suffering. So what is the real goal? That is to be...so many western scholars they also hope that India will give real freedom to the world, Max Muller and so many (Purchida?) and others. So you are to raise your consciousness to that standard." Anyhow the young men they went away and did not create any opposition.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. That Caitanya Prasāda, my name for that boy was Caitanya Prasāda.

Devotee: Caitanya dāsa or Prasāda?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prasāda. Prasāda was Cinmayānanda somewhat, that, I don't know whether... At that time Rahoul Saṅkīrtana or some Buddhist Ācārya just came from foreign to Bihara perhaps, perhaps Patna, Rahoul was his name, he was Buddhistic monk. He came...

Devotee: The leader of the Mayana...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Devotee: Mayana Buddhism.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Buddhism, Rahoul was the son, child of Buddhadeva, so his name very favourite to the Buddhist monks. And that sannyāsī's name was Rahoul, Saṅkīrtayana perhaps. I heard from that Caitanya dāsa about him.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

ahastāni sahaṣṭānāṁ, apadāni catuṣpadām / laghuni tatra mahatām, jīvo jīvasya jīvanam

We cannot live without consuming so many lives. Those that have got hands they eat those that have got no hands. And those that have got four feet they live on creepers and others, that grass, got no feet. And laghuni tatra mahatām, and bigger they live on the, of lower strength. Jīvo jīvasya jīvanam, everyone is living at the cost of so many thousands of jīva. That is the nonsense. We are in the midst of such hopeless situation, and to every action equal and opposite reaction.

Manu Saṁhitā says, “Do you know the derivative meaning of mamsaḥ?”
Manu says:

mamsa vakreta yasya mamsa adam, iti mamsesya mamsatyam padanti

manasya [?]

Manu says, “Do you know the derivative meaning of the word maṁsaḥ? Maṁ saḥ, maṁ means ama ke [?] me, myself, saḥ means he. Me-he, I am eating and he will eat me in turn: a reaction. So the name has been given maṁsaḥ, aham tvam, maṁsaḥ. In Bhāgavata also a parallel passage.

ye tv anevam-vido ‘santah stabdhāḥ sad-abhimāninaḥ paśūn druhyanti viśrabdhāḥ pretya khādanti te ca tāt

[“Those wicked persons who do not know the real nature of dharma, who are proud and stubborn, who consider themselves righteous and who mercilessly slaughter animals will, in their next life, be eaten by the very beasts they kill.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.14]

In this life they are murdering, killing the animals, but in after life they will kill and eat them in return. This is the law. And we are in such hopeless position, we are victim of such law, unavoidable law. We can’t live, we can’t foster our body without causing disturbance heinously to the environment. Then, what is the way to get out?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In this way from time eternal we are going up and then reaction going down. And going down, loan is finished, taken, and then light and going up. And going up and extorting, exploiting and becoming heavy and going down. And when going down loan is taken away and we are light and going up, and this is satya, raja, tama, eternally in this vicious circle moving, helplessly. Gītā says, yajñārthāt karmaṇo 'nyatra, loko 'yaṁ karma-bandhanaḥ [tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara]

[“Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa-bhakti).”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

na hi kaścit kṣaṇam api, jātu tiṣṭhaty akarmakṛt [kāryate hy avaśaḥ karma, sarvaḥ prakṛti-jair guṇaiḥ]

[“No one can remain without acting even for a moment. Everyone is forced to act helplessly, stimulated by the modes of material nature. Therefore, it is improper for a person of impure consciousness to reject the purificatory duties prescribed by the scriptures.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.5]

Even for a second one cannot live without incurring some debt in this atmosphere. The sashprasash [?], the water, the step throwing, the fire for the necessity of the body, always creating disturbance and killing so many insects, helplessly, hopelessly. And the reaction you must have to take, can't avoid. Then where [?] yajñārthāt karmaṇo 'nyatra, loka 'yaṁ karma-bandhanaḥ. Karma sasyad abhadra [?] It is eternally the karma, the exploitation, the elevationist they are always within inauspicious and ultimately meeting death. Yajñārthāt, yajño vai viṣṇu, Viṣṇudeva, work for Him, connect everything with the centre, with the absolute and do, then you can get out of this entanglement. You can't avoid energizing, but try to energize only for Him. Connect with the centre and you will be relieved thereby to the nth term.

[“O son of Kuntī, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you offer in charity, and whatever austere vows you may keep - do everything as an offering unto Me.”][Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27]

That is the way to get out, no other way to get out of the law of karma. In this way everything is connected with the absolute and we are relieved. So cent per cent when we are engaged with Him then we are free. And then that is gradation of the engagement according to the intensity and also the nature, the attitude, how to approach to serve Him. And what is His nature we have to know. So Nārāyaṇa conception of Godhead, the Vāsudeva, the Nārāyaṇa conception, the Rāma conception, the Dvārakeśa conception, Mathureśa, Vṛndāvana conception, different type of conception of the absolute is there. Gradually we are to accommodate with them and go on. There is difference also in our acquisition according to our acceptance of the gradation in the understanding of the absolute characteristic. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Caitanya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nine five?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja is the exhibition of psychic powers bad for spiritual life or good?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Exhibition of?

Devotee: Psychic powers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Psychic powers, that is bad, mal engagement. What for? I should have no time but the service of my Lord.

*yamātibhir yoga-pathaiḥ, kāma-lobha-hato muhuḥ mukunda-sevayā

[“The agitated mind, repeatedly taken captive by its enemy in the form of depravity rooted in lust and greed, is directly mastered by serving the Supreme Lord, Mukunda. It can never be likewise checked or pacified by practising the eight-fold yogic discipline, which is generally based on sensual and mental repression (yama, niyama, etc).”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.6.35]

Devaṛṣi Nārada says, “By yama, niyama āsana in the yoga, we can get some facility to get control over our senses, but that is for the time being, not permanently. But if we can engage ourselves in our natural service towards the Lord we are saved from.”

Mahāprabhu says, ‘Karma, yoga, jñāna... In Bhagavad-gītā, nāhaṁ vedair na tapasā, na dānena na cejyayā [śakya evaṁ-vidho draṣṭuṁ, dṛṣṭavān asi yan mama bhaktyā tv ananyayā śakya, aham evaṁ-vidho 'rjjuna jñātuṁ draṣṭuṁ ca tattvena, praveṣṭuṁ ca parantapa]

[“Neither by study of the Vedas, nor by austerity, charity, or sacrifice, can anyone behold My human like form of Supreme Absolute Truth (Parabrahman) which you are now seeing before you.”] [“O Arjuna, conqueror of the enemy, although in this form of Mine I am practically impossible to be seen by all other methods, the pure devotees, by their exclusive devotion unto Me, are capable of actually knowing Me, seeing Me, and entering into My divine pastimes.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 11.53-4]

And also,

tapasvibhyo 'dhiko yogī, jñānibhyo 'pi mato 'dhikaḥ karmibhyaś cādhiko yogī, tasmād yogī bhavānjuna

[“The yogī who is a worshipper of the Supersoul is superior to persons engrossed in severe austerities such as the cāndrāyana, superior to the worshippers of Brahman, and superior to the fruitive workers. Know this certainly to be My conclusion. Therefore, O Arjuna, be a yogī.”]

yoginām api sarveṣāṃ, mad-gatenāntarātmā śraddhāvān bhajate yo māṃ, sa me yuktatamo mataḥ

[“Among all types of yogīs, the most elevated of all is the devotee who has full faith in the authoritative pure devotional scriptures, and who adores Me with all their heart by hearing and singing My divine glories, rendering all services unto Me. Certainly this is My opinion.”][Bhagavad-gītā, 6.47]

Nāhaṃ vedair na tapasā, na dānena na cejyayā . Gaura Hari bol.

Mahāprabhu says - that in an example, [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20. 127-136]

“That a man is poor, then one astrologer comes to him, ‘Why you are poor? There is much wealth underground. You are to find that then your poverty will disappear. But be cautious, careful. Don't approach from the southern side, then there is that hornet, so many hornets there they will attack. They will come one by one and bite you and you will be disturbed and won't be able to go to the wealth."

That is karma-kāṇḍa. If you do any work, every result will come and capture you, good or bad, and keep you away from getting it.

"Then, don't go, approach from the western side, there is a magician, super powered magician, he will offer you this aṇimā, laghimā, vyāpti [becoming small as the atom, lighter than a feather, all pervading, etc.] all these so many things he'll offer you, and you'll be enchanted by that, and you won't be allowed to come. You'll be misguided and not allowed to come to the wealth proper."

So that is yoga, yakṣa' eka haya, Mahāprabhu says.

"And don't go to approach from the northern side. There is a python, a big serpent, ajagare, he will come out and devour you wholesale. The jñāna, the so 'ham, if you are one with brahman you have no existence at all, who will come to enjoy the wealth?"

"Just try to approach from the eastern side, that path of bhakti, sādhusaṅga, ādau śraddhā, sādhusaṅga, and take the name of the Lord and approach, you will get it easily."

So, in Bhāgavata also it is easy to dispense with the karma, elevation, but it is difficult to do away with the charm of knowledge, that I shall know everything. But Bhāgavata says that that is the worst enemy of you to go towards the Absolute. Worst enemy is jñāna, you want to know. You try to put you in the subjective position and you are trying always to make to draw the super subjective thing in your objective area. And that is impossible and that is killing of time. So jñāna-miśrā-bhakti, jñāna-sunya-bhakti, jñāna-miśrā-bhakti, karma-miśrā bhakti, jñāna-miśrā-bhakti. Jñāna is also the enemy; that you want to know, that you want to become subject of the super subject, is it possible? And in objective mood you are to approach the super subjective. Jñāna-sunya-bhakti Mahāprabhu recommended. When I came to read this in Rāmānanda-saṁvāda, jñāna-miśrā-bhakti, eho bāhya āge kaha āra, here it is now go further. And karma-miśrā, jñāna-miśrā, with the spirit of elevation, the spirit of knowing everything dismissed. No, it is all futile, useless killing of time. Because He is super subject, you are object to Him.

indriyāṇi parāṇy āhur, indriyebhyaḥ param manah manasas tu parā buddhir, buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ

["The learned proclaim that the senses are superior to inert objects, the mind is superior to the senses, and the faculty of resolute intelligence is superior to the mind. And he who is superior to the intelligence is the soul himself."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.42]

Who are you? Your knowledge is cast towards this objective world through the channels of your senses. Senses are all important. If you had no senses then no world for you. If you have got no mind you may say, "I was inattentive, I could not see."

"A man passed through your front." "No, I did not see him."

"Why?"

"I was unmindful."

So mind is more important to you than your senses. Then again go to the stage of judgement, buddhi, reason, that is more and more important. You are an idiot. You may have your senses, you may have your mind, you may have your property, but you are an idiot, your life is useless, ludicrous. So buddhi is all important in you. Then from buddhi you approach higher, you will find your own self, ātmā. Then beyond that Paramātmā, in this way, the Brahman, the Nārāyaṇa, that is on the other side. They are all subjective, super subject. You are an object. In this way you are to approach this subjective area. So jñāna-sunya-bhakti: the energy will be wasted which you will use to know Him.

You cannot know Him. You are a point of knowledge, an ocean of knowledge, and of subjective character. So you can only be utilized by Him. You submit, surrender wholly to Him and He will utilize you, and that will be the proper connection, and you will be benefited most thereby. So,

jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva, jīvanti san-mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vān-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām

[“Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahman by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes (kathā), which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

Who has left hopeless about the achievement of his knowledge and submit, He will utilize you, He knows best of your interest. He is your guardian.

[bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram] suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā mām śāntim ṛcchati

["I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshipping object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshipping Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

When a person finds peace, when He's there, the ultimate controller of the whole world, He's my friend, He's my guardian. My interest is well represented there in His heart. Then only he can find peace, otherwise not. So only surrender, and He knows best your interest and He will utilize you for your best interest. That is the way recommended by Mahāprabhu, śaraṇāgati. The bhakti school has recommended śaraṇāgati, surrender.

And Aurobindo also says [?] his book, that we must set aside our own spirit of searching our own welfare. How much we know? It is better to leave everything for His discretion. He will do, whatever: then He will come to decide for me and how the infinite knowledge will come to decide in my favour? And I must be benefited infinitely, greater way. What is good, what is bad, how much I know? So I leave everything to Him. I am surrendering. He will do on my behalf. I do not know what. So only take His name. Don't pray; don't thrust anything on Him, any condition, "Give me this," never say; but, "I want You. I want You who can give everything. I want You." So I want the greatest thing, not any partial thing. That is the most intelligent way to approach Him.

Jñāna sunya bhakti. Karma-jñāna-anāvṛtam. The gradation of devotion is given by Rūpa Goswāmī in this way.

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, [jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā]

[“One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service.”] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11]& [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.11, purport] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167]

Fleeting desires should be eliminated first. Jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam, the spirit of elevating your own self, your own position: that should be given up. And jñāna-anāvṛtam, I am one with You. No, you are of degraded nature substance and He is above, invulnerable and you are of vulnerable stuff. So you are not one with Him. Jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam, ānukūlyena. And also to serve Him, seeking His satisfaction: not to be arrayed in the opposite camp. In this way we shall, we want to cultivate our serving attitude towards Him. And he quoted also from Devarṣi Nārada’s scriptures: Nārada says, sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate

[“Pure devotion is service to the Supreme Lord which is free from all relative conceptions of self interest.”] [Nārada Purāṇa]

The high type of devotion should be like this. Sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ. Upādi means which is foreign, not natural, what has come after, to capture us like so many dresses. Sarvopādhi- vinirmuktaṁ, what is unnatural, what is artificial, what has come after, that all should be eliminated. What is eternal substance in me; that should be taken into account. Tat paratvena nirmalam. And the purity of your action will depend on how much it will satisfy Him, the centre. To what degree it is producing satisfaction in the central mind. That will be the criterion of purity, how much the centre is satisfied by your action. Not that you, you are vulnerable thing, what do you know what is bad what is good? How much do you know? You are expected to know what is good what is bad? He knows the best, and depend on Him. That will be the best intelligence and reason, judiciousness and fortune and everything to surrender, śaraṇāgati. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso, gopṭṛtve varaṇaṁ tathā. ātma-nikṣepa kārpaṇye, ṣaḍ-vidhā śaraṇāgatiḥ

[evaṁ paryyāyataś cāsminn, ekaikādhyāya-saṅgrahaḥ]

[“The six limbs of surrender are as follows: 1 - To accept everything favourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 2 - To reject everything unfavourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 3 - To be confident that Kṛṣṇa will grant His protection. 4 - To embrace Kṛṣṇa’s guardianship. 5 - To offer oneself unto Him. 6 - To consider oneself lowly and bereft.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.100]

And what is śaraṇāgati? That has been described in these six ways. Six departments of knowledge has been extended to us to understand what is śaraṇāgati, how to prepare for śaraṇāgati, to get Him, to achieve Him as our own; in this way.

I compiled one book collecting many stanzas from many places, from many sources, and couched in these six forms, Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta. That is going to be published very soon in English. It is already in Bengali script, Sanskrit book. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written in Bengali a śaraṇāgati very good life giving book, very simple as well as very life giving.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

In Rāmānuja sampradāya also there is one Prapannāmṛta. Mine is Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta. But in Rāmānuja sampradāya I am told there is a book, I have not found it, Prapannāmṛta. Yāmunācārya, Satakopa, they are also great exponents of śaraṇāgati.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

dīkṣā-kāle bhakta kare ātma-samarpaṇa, sei kāle kṛṣṇa tāre kare ātma-sama sei deha kare tāra cid-ānanda-maya, aprākṛta-dehe tāñra caraṇa bhajaya

[“At the time of initiation, when a devotee fully surrenders unto the service of the Lord, Kṛṣṇa accepts him to be as good as Himself.”]

[“When the devotee’s body is thus transformed into spiritual existence, the devotee, in that transcendental body, renders service to the lotus feet of the Lord.”]

*martyo yadā tyakta-samasta-karmā, niveditātmā vicikīrṣito me

[“One who is subjected to birth and death attains immortality when he gives up all material activities, dedicates his life to the execution of My order, and acts according to My directions. In this way, he becomes fit to enjoy the spiritual bliss derived from exchanging loving mellows with Me.”]

“By śaraṇāgati they enter into My family connection.”

Brahma bhūyāya kalpate, ātmā bhūyāya kalpate . Sanātana Goswāmī explains in this way ātmā bhūyāya becomes His own, enters into His family life; family life of the Lord, and how sweet it can be. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

So no more today, I finish here, getting tired. Afterwards: more afterwards.

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."]

We are to know what the real enquiry should be. To enquire after that thing by knowing which everything is known, it is possible. [?] other's opinions, all [?] What is this? Then gradually, of course I have read this śloka from Bhāgavatam in my previous life. It came to my mind; yes it is possible.

All the ties: that is vasana karmana [?] I want this, I want that, I want those. All untied nothing necessary, nothing necessary more. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, all the ties are untied, gone. Chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ, more serious thing, all the doubts are cleared, it is unthinkable. It is unthinkable that all doubts will be cleared. I shall be over doubtless area. It is most unthinkable, astonishing, astounding. Kṣīyante cāsyā karmāṇi, such urgent life is there. We can accept that life. We don't want anything, we are above all suspicion, all doubts and all past actions finished. Finished, no reaction from them, released from all reactions of our past life.

bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ kṣīyante cāsyā karmāṇi, mayi drṣṭe 'khilātmani

“When I am seen everywhere such things happen.”

This is the end of life. No other alternative. No other duty to attend than this school, to be a student, an eternal student of this universal education of Upaniṣad and Bhāgavatam. Bhāgavatam is the ripe fruit of the Vedānta, Upaniṣad. So no other urgent business anyone may have than the solution of the entanglement of lives together, eternal life. We shall engage ourselves whole heartedly, exclusively only to that thing, that inquiry, that engagement. No other engagement should be considered but only this wherever you are, begin your life with this. (stanisthita?) Wherever you are at present, your position you hold, does not matter, but come to this central inquiry.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī, yesterday you agreed to comment on Śikṣāṣṭakam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Starting today you agreed that you would comment on the different verses of Śikṣāṣṭakam starting with ceto-darpaṇa-mārjanaṁ, so we can try to publish.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Mahāprabhu, He gave us His advice in His eight poems composed by Himself. His other advices we have in the writings of so many devotees. But these eight śloka, Śikṣāṣṭakam, comes direct from Him, as it is, totally. And the first is this:

*ceto-darpaṇa-mārjanaṁ bhava-mahā-dāvāgni-nirvāpaṇaṁ śreyaḥ-kairava-candrikā-vitarāṇaṁ vidyā-vadhū-jīvanam ānandāmbudhi-

[“The Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa cleanses the mirror of the heart and extinguishes the fire of misery in the forest of birth and death. As the evening lotus blooms in the moon’s cooling rays, the heart begins to blossom in the nectar of the Name. And at last the soul awakens to its real inner treasure - a life of love with Kṛṣṇa. Again and again tasting nectar the soul dives and surfaces in the ever-increasing ocean of ecstatic joy. All phases of the self of which we may conceive are fully satisfied and purified, and at last conquered by the all-auspicious influence of the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa.”] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1]

The pioneer of Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam in this world: or universe.

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu is the pioneer of Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana. He said: “I have come to inaugurate the chanting of the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa, and that Name will reach every nook and corner of the universe.”]
[Chaitanya-Bhāgavat]

This Nāma saṅkīrtana, He meant here that, “Nāma saṅkīrtana, the Name I have come to inaugurate. That Name will reach to every nook and corner of this wide world, universe.” What is that? Nāma saṅkīrtana, Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam.

Bahubhir militvā yat kīrtanam tad eva saṅkīrtanam, congregational chanting, samyak kīrtana, congregational, both concerning quality and quantity. By quantity congregational as much as possible extensive, and quality Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam not saṅkīrtana, samyak kīrtana pūrṇa kīrtana is only Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam. To speak in praise of any other gods that is not saṅkīrtana. Saṅkīrtanam, pūrṇa kīrtanam, samyak means pūrṇa that cannot be saṅkīrtana, pūrṇa kīrtanam that is partial praise. But to be saṅkīrtanam, the song in praise of the whole, samyak kīrtanam otherwise that will be partial representation and defective to certain extent. The full sun will be in praise of the full then it will be full sun, full saṅkīrtanam. Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam is the fullest saṅkīrtanam, the chanting in the praise of the whole. He should be praised. He is manima. He is everything, He responsible for everything, He is the master. He is the dispenser of good and bad, the absolute controller of everything. Everything is due to Him, the fulfilment of life. The fulfilment of the life of all the parts, that only reaches Him.

Mukta pragraha vriti [?] The horse has got the reign, to check. But if it's let loose freely it goes.

So the kīrtana, the praise, if not checked by any purpose it will go straight toward the supreme cause. So everything is due to Him. He is the receiver, recipient of everything. Everything is for Himself, for Himself. So saṅkīrtanam means kīrtana of Kṛṣṇa; it cannot be, saṅkīrtanam, the praise of any other thing than Kṛṣṇa, Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam.

And Śrī means Lakṣmī Devī, śakti, His potency. Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam with His paraphernalia, that is included in Him. So Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam vijayate: that should thrive in this world. That should be victorious without any hindrance. A spontaneous and natural flow without any check from any side: exclusive, independent, perfect, unhesitating, the kīrtana, the praise of Him; that should be chanted in a congregational manner. The Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam, that sort of vibration should be created and that will be most healthy and wholesome for the whole of the world.

By śuddha bhakti, by surrender, by the pure devotion we shall take to that Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam. And what will be the different stages through which we shall pass? It is also mentioned there, ceto- darpaṇa-mārjanam, the first consequence is to cleanse the mirror of our mind. Mirror of our mind, ceta, or our heart, or mental system, what we may say. Ceto-darpaṇa-mārjanam, the mirror if it is covered with dust then we cannot see things properly reflected. So if our heart is filthy, it is dirty, then śāstric, that is scriptural advice, or any incident cannot be reflected here properly because it is covered with dust. What are the dusts? Anyābhilāṣa, our desires, so many desires, fleeting and also organized desires we may have and they're considered as dust, and our heart, our mind is covered with so many dusts. Infinite desires we have got and that is as dust has covered our understanding. We cannot see things properly, can't understand the advice of the Veda, of anything, of the sādhus properly because that cannot reflect in our mind because it is dirty. It is covered with so many infinite, ordinary desires of this mundane world, bhukti, mukti, etc.

So the first thing we get from Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana that is the cleansing of our mind, ceto-darpaṇa-mārjanam. And the varṇāśrama dharma is also formed to do this purpose. If without any attraction for the consequence we discharge the duty of varṇāśrama dharma then we get cita suddhi. The first instalment of Nāma saṅkīrtana gives us the result of varṇāśrama dharma, cita suddhi. Cita suddho vasa siddhi. Then we can have the proper memory, we can understand Vedic advice properly, cita suddhi. So first instalment of Nāma saṅkīrtana we receive as cita suddhi, ceto-darpaṇa-mārjanam.

Then next instalment, bhava-mahā-dāvāgni-nirvāpaṇam. Bhukti then mukti; bhava-mahā-dāvāgni-nirvāpaṇam, that we are to be, we are to come into creation. When this mundane wave catches the soul and mingles with the mundane vibrations in different stages: that is stopped, mukti: liberation. Liberation by second stride; first stride cita suddhi, Nāma saṅkīrtana, by second stride it comes to effect our liberation from the mundane forces. Bhava-mahā-dāvāgni-nirvāpaṇam, that the great conflagration, ādhiyātmika, ādhibhautika, ādhidaiivika, the three kinds of flame always burning our heart. That is stopped, appeased, bhava-mahā-dāvāgni. That we are to be, that we are to come in creation, we are to come in connection with the mortal world and that is to suffer misery; that is compared with fire. And that fire is extinguished forever.

They pick up ādhiyātmika, ādhibhautika, ādhidaiivika. Ādhiyātmika - which is coming from within, from the body or from the mind as repentance and so many diseases, ādhiyātmika. Ādhibhautika - which is the misery that comes from our neighbours, from man and from the beast, from the insects, so many things ādhiyātmika, ādhibhautika, bhuta means coming from another animal. And ādhidaivika means accidental, famine, flood, all these things, earthquake, ādhidaivika, not direct from any jīva but from the nature it is coming. Three kinds of miseries we are to suffer from. And this misery burns in our heart like fire.

And everything is quenched, extinguished fire forever by second instalment, second stride Nāma saṅkīrtana bestows us this relief, bhava-mahā-dāvāgni-nirvāṇam. Then śreyaḥ-kairava-candrikā- vitaraṇam, then by Nāma saṅkīrtana, after doing away with these two negative engagements begins the positive engagement and takes us to the reality, to the truth proper, śreyaḥ-kairava, maṅgalam śivanam, satyam śivanam sundaram.

The śiva which is above these mundane difficulties, śreyaḥ, in a general way maṅgalam, kairavanam, in a general way we get. We get from it, that Nāma saṅkīrtana, from Him, Nāma saṅkīrtana śreyaḥ-kairava. Fear covers the śanta, dāsyā, sākhyā, vātsalya rasa. If we scrutinize in a suppressed way it takes us there and vidyā-vadhū-jīvanam. And takes us to the, to surrender infinitely for the disposal of Kṛṣṇa, vidyā-vadhū, preparedness for wholesale surrender towards Kṛṣṇa, that is found in mādhurya rasa, śreyaḥ-kairava, the grace of Nityānanda Prabhu. Nitāiyer karuṇā habe, braje rādhā-kṛṣṇa pābe. Gradually, suppressedly, it passes to vidyā-vadhū-jīvanam.

Then ānandāmbudhi-varḍhanam, then when we come in that proper layer, level, then taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa we find the ocean - that is transcendental over experience, all types of experience. Transcendental, a new type of ecstatic joy we find in Nāma saṅkīrtana when the surrender is complete. According to the degree of surrender Name comes to assert, assert Himself over us and gives us joy which is like ocean in that it is infinite. Infinite type of joy we come to experience at this time.

Prati-padaṁ pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanaṁ, and also not a static conception of the ocean but it is dynamic in character, prati-padaṁ, at every step as if we find new wave, new light, and a new type of blissfulness. It becomes never stale or static but every moment it gives us a touch of the infinite characteristic of ecstasy, prati-padaṁ pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanaṁ.

Sarvātma-snapanaṁ, the last and the seventh effect is sarvātma-snapanaṁ, we may take in a twofold meaning. Sarvātma-snapanaṁ, all our existence of different strata and stages is purified. This enjoyment, though it is enjoyment but it does not pollute as the mundane enjoyment, it purifies. If we experience any mundane enjoyment then that keeps a thing for reaction, so it pollutes the exploiter. Enjoyment means exploitation. So pollution attacks the enjoyer. But here because it is from the opposite side, surrendered soul potency, and Kṛṣṇa is aggressor, so purification all sorts of enjoyment which we receive from the centre, from the autocratic desire of Kṛṣṇa; that purifies us, sarvātma-snapanaṁ, purifies to the whole, sarvātma. Atma dehi vido jive sarvadhi. As much as different phases we can conceive in our own self, the whole self with all these different planes are fully satisfied and purified at the same time, purified, snapanaṁ. And another meaning, sarvātma-snapanaṁ, if we do it in a congregational way everyone is, according to his capacity, everyone is purified, the singer...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...who comes in connection, sarvātma.

Snapanam means suddhim, sarvātma-snapanam, purity, dealing purity to all. That vibration purifies everywhere, whoever is coming in touch of that. So Mahāprabhu says, “Go on with Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana, but it must be Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana, saṅkīrtana of no other, and it must be proper, so sādhū-saṅga is necessary.” Not an empirical attempt but the attempt which we get from the grace from the higher, which can come down, can condescend to help us here. We must have that connection. That is all important.

asādhū-saṅge bhai "kṛṣṇa nāma" nahi haya, "nāmākṣara" bahiraya batu nāma kabu naya

The Name, that is not lip deep, only mere physical sound, but it has got the other, greater and higher aspects, it is spiritual, all spiritual. And we are in the plane of marginal existence, so higher connection is necessary. That the wave will start from some higher realm and will come to us and also it will spread itself to outside. And wherever it will go it will effect, it will produce such seven fold results, consequences, this Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana. That Mahāprabhu says in His first śloka. Ceto-darpaṇa-mārjanam, by first instalment, cleansing our soul: that is attacked with so many dirt of desires from the mundane world. Bhava-mahā-dāvāgni, by second grant it gives mukti, liberation, perfect independence of these material forces. Śreyah-kairava-candrikā-vitaranam, then the real good, that is the opening of our soul’s treasure. The soul, the innate resources of the soul is opened gradually, śreyah-kairava. Vidyā-vadhū-jīvanam, then Mahāprabhu takes, by one step He covers other forms of relationship with the Absolute and takes the vadhū. Vadhū means absolutely disposed stage for His enjoyment, surrendering, surrendering not conditional, unconditional surrendering for His maximum pleasure. Vidyā-vadhū-jīvanam takes us there in that plane. Then the other tasting of His ecstatic association in this.

ānandāmbudhi-varḍhanam prati-padam pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanam sarvātmasnapanam param vijayate śrī-kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtanam

So ānandāmbudhi-varḍhanam prati-padam pūrṇa.

tuṇḍe tāṇḍavinī ratim vitanute tuṇḍāvalī-labdhave karna-kroḍa-kaḍambinī ghaṭayate karṇārbudebhyaḥ sprhām

cetaḥ-prāṅgaṇa-saṅginī vijayate sarvendriyāṇām kṛtim no jāne janitā kiyadbhir amṛtaiḥ kṛṣṇeti varṇa-dvayī

[“When the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa appears on the lips of a devotee, it begins madly dancing. Then the Name takes over and handles him as if the person to whom the lips belong loses all control over his lips, and the devotee says: ‘With one mouth, how much can I gather the ecstasy of the Holy Name? I need millions of mouths to taste its unlimited sweetness. I’ll never feel any satisfaction by chanting with only one mouth.’] [Vidagdha-Mādhava, 1.15]

In Vṛndāvana such ego comes to us. So one who can take the Name of Kṛṣṇa in a proper way, it is displayed in such way it plays with the man who takes Kṛṣṇa in such way, a person. Tuṇḍe tāṇḍavinī, when He comes on the lips it begins, tāṇḍav means a mad dancing, tuṇḍe tāṇḍavinī, it goes beyond our control. It takes over the charge of the movement of the lips, the Name takes over the power and it handles in that way as if the person to whom the lips belong he loses all his control over his lips. The Name has taken the full control and dancing madly there, tuṇḍe tāṇḍavinī.

And ratim vitanute tuṇḍāvalī-labdhaye, not only dancing, engaged in mad dance, but also ratim vitanute tuṇḍāvalī. “With one mouth how much I can gather the ecstasy? Thousands of lākhs, millions of mouths necessary to chant Kṛṣṇa Nāma and to get blissfulness in great magnitude, one can never feel any satisfaction by one mouth chanting. Tuṇḍe tāṇḍavinī ratim vitanute tuṇḍāvalī-labdhaye.

Karṇa-kroḍa-kaḍambinī ghaṭayate karṇārbudebhyaḥ sprhām, He enters into the ear, the Name, the sound, Kṛṣṇa, the sound transcendental it awakens in one’s heart. What one or two ears, this is very injustice of the creator. Millions of ears necessary and by that if we can hear the sweet Name of Kṛṣṇa then my heart may be satisfied a little. Karṇārbudebhyaḥ sprhām, our desire, unquenchable desire for millions of ears to attain the sweet Name of Kṛṣṇa: that becomes the temperament.

Cetaḥ-prāṅgaṇa-saṅginī vijayate sarvendriyāñāṁ kṛtim, and when our attention is drawn towards it, then it faints, as Swāmī Mahārāja told to Acutyānanda. It loses itself: it is so much ecstasy, joy, that, cetaḥ-prāṅgaṇa-saṅginī, when attention is given towards that, what is this? Then it merges into ocean and cannot find himself anywhere. Cetaḥ-prāṅgaṇa-saṅginī vijayate sarvendriyāñāṁ kṛtim.

No jāne janitā kiyadbhir amṛtaiḥ kṛṣṇeti varṇa-dvayī, and in great disappointment he’s asserting in this way. “I fail to know what sort of quality and by what amount this Kṛṣṇa Nāma has been made of. I fail to understand; perplexed. With what sort of honey, that is sweetness, and what is the magnitude this Name has contained in Itself?" In this way he wonders, the taker of the Name.

This has been given by Mahāprabhu to us. "Take properly the Name, the sound representing the Absolute Sweetness."

In His flute also the sound has got in the flute of Kṛṣṇa much mystic power of capturing and pleasing the whole. Babhrāma vaṁśī-dhvaniḥ. The current of the river we are told goes against, stops there to hear the sound. The Yamunā's current is paralysed, can't move because the sound is there, sweet sound, attracting. The trees, the birds, the beasts, the insects, everything astounded in coming in connection with that sort of vibration, so sweet vibration coming from the flute.

So sound can play wonder. Sound has got the highest capturing potency and power. Sound can make or mar, do anything. Sound has got such intrinsic capacity. Not ordinary sound when that sound is absolute sweetness and goodness, how much power? And that is universal. That comes from the very subtle most plane, ether. So you will have some characteristic. How can it capture? We are like a blade of grass; we may be played by the current of that sweet sound, cannot trace our own personality. We may lose us there. But we do not die, the soul is eternal, we are saved. But we are diving; going up and down and played by the current of the sweet sound we are more less qualified than straw, a blade of grass. The sound is such, big and such sweet can play in any way it likes.

So Nāma saṅkīrtana, the Name, the sound which is identical with the absolute goodness or sweetness: how much power that may have? We cannot suppose, or we cannot think of it out. Mahāprabhu says, "Don't neglect that it is sound. But sound which has come which is one and the same with Kṛṣṇa, the sweetness, the goodness, everything there represented to you in a very cheap way. Nothing is required, no money, no physical energy, so many things are not necessary, only genuine source, take the sound sincerely and you will be so enriched. That none can think out so much goodness and development. You also may have it very cheaply but you must do it sincerely, with whole heart. And so whole hearted sincerity that presupposes coming to a proper person, to a sādhū and get it from there.”

So Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana is praised by Mahāprabhu, the inaugurator who came, Rādhā-Govinda combined. His advice is so valuable and so necessary, emergent to us. With that spirit we shall come join this Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana. The most purifying, all fulfilment giving, and liberation negatively affected, and positive attainment that we lose our self in the ocean of joy, of inconceivable sweetness. It takes us there, Mahāprabhu’s kīrtana.

Mahāprabhu says, “Param vijayate śrī-kṛṣṇa, then let it be expanded into this world, mortal world. The world may be benefited infinitely. The highest and the greatest benefit of the whole world, whole jīva in the world may be affected. So without that no other campaign we should accept and go on. This Nāma saṅkīrtana all covering, all comprehensive, all sorts of different types of troubles are all considered. And the release from all sorts of troubles and to put one in his highest position this Nāma saṅkīrtana can only help you, in this Kali-yuga, especially. In all ages, specially in Kali-yuga because all other attempts will be opposed by many other forces, but this Nāma saṅkīrtana cannot be opposed by so many trifle waves. So adopt it exclusively, give you to this and you’ll be gainer of the highest fulfilment of life. No necessity of any other campaign, they are all defective and they are all partial. The most universal and the most capturing and the highest giving things, taking to the highest goal is Nāma saṅkīrtana only can give you, satisfy you, the fulfilment of you and everyone. Of all souls, of all consciousness that are not connected with Kṛṣṇa they may be helped in this way in general.”

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. No other movement is necessary. Exclusively devote yourself to this. And it is all embracing, all fulfilling, you will get, and with least trouble, least energy at the same time, Nāma saṅkīrtana, Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam. Param vijayate, let it flourish in this Kali-yuga, flourish for the welfare of the whole creation, to put them in normal vibration.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. In the last śloka of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam we find,

nāma saṅkīrtanam yasya, sarva pāpa pranāśanam pranāmo duḥkhaśamanas, taṁ namāmi hariṁ param

[“I offer my respectful obeisances unto the Supreme Lord, Hari, the congregational chanting of whose Holy Names destroys all sinful reactions, and the offering of obeisances unto whom relieves all material suffering.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.13.23]

The last śloka of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the conclusion is this: nāma saṅkīrtanam yasya, sarva pāpa. Pāpa means anomaly, undesirable things, bhukti mukti all included, mukti is also pāpa, abnormal; because our natural function is to serve Kṛṣṇa. We do not do that in salvation. Mere salvation does not include our service to Kṛṣṇa so it is also an abnormal position. So something, it is also a sin. To know the duty, the natural duty, and to stand aloof that is, cannot but be sinfulness. So, nāma saṅkīrtanam yasya, sarva pāpa pranāśanam: the Nāma saṅkīrtana of Whom can relieve us from all undesirably, all sinfulness, all filthy characteristics. Pranāmo duḥkhaśamanas, and surrendering to whom that means to get out of all miseries, taṁ namāmi hariṁ param. In the conclusion śloka the Bhāgavata says let us bow down to, nāma saṅkīrtanaṁ yasya, sarva pāpa pranāśanam, pranāmo duḥkhaśamanas, taṁ namāmi hariṁ param. That Bhāgavata stops here. With this śloka, uttering this śloka Bhāgavata stops silent, becomes silent, that great treatise becomes silent. Last word is this Nāma saṅkīrtanam. So how much importance Bhāgavata has given to this Nāma saṅkīrtana?

And Mahāprabhu took it from there, the last production of Vyāsadeva, took it from there and He gave it to the public. “Do this, nothing necessary more. Take this.” The very conclusion of Bhāgavatam, the great giver, spiritual giver of Bhāgavata: Vyāsadeva. “Take this and begin your life in this connection, the most broad and wide idea.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

And we may consider ourselves fortunate that we have come to the verge of such generous, most generous and useful thought, understanding. We have come nearer to touch, to accept, and to go on, and to float ourselves according to our capacity and fortune. We have anyhow after passing so many kinds and types of thinking and different charm of prospect we have left, and we have come to the verge of Nāma saṅkīrtana, the ocean. And we may throw our body in this ocean and begin to swim in the ocean of Nāma saṅkīrtana, the nectar of the nectar ocean. Gaura Haribol. By the grace of our Guru and Vaiṣṇava, it is their property and we are their slave and we have got the audacity to throw our body into this ocean of Nāma saṅkīrtana and go on and swim in the nectarean ocean, ocean of nectar to swim there.

The Rādhā-kuṇḍa madhyama līlā is there also, the highest form of Nāma saṅkīrtana, the swimming in the Rādhā-kuṇḍa, the highest conception there.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. So one day, one śloka, that is finished.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: So in eight days all of them finished. Of course you can comment on more than one śloka.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That came to help the thought contained here.

Devotee: You'd like to hear one more śloka? [Group laughter]

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Next śloka is nāmnām akāri bahudhā, but we'll take that tomorrow. Nāmnām akāri bahudhā nija-sarva-śaktis, but we can take that tomorrow.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: You have already given us a nectarean ocean today.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whole ocean is unlimited. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. The positive side: tomorrow will come the negative, the opposite possibility: that we shall take up tomorrow. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nine thirty?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. [?]

Gaurasundar. Gaurasundar. Gaurasundar. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Dhyusa-varṣiṇī tika [?] perhaps the name of the tika of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Dhyusa varṣiṇī perhaps. He has got the commentary in Sanskrit. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given Sanskrit commentary to the Śikṣāṣṭakam. And also Bengali translation that is a most original representation. And also our Prabhupāda's commentary on this Śikṣāṣṭaka, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Sanskrit and Bengali and Prabhupāda's also commentary on the Śikṣāṣṭaka you may have: go through. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: And your English commentary Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mine? Ha, ha. I am talking at random, not in organized systematic way, commentary. But whatever I am feeling in my heart I am coming out with that. The relativity whatever comes to my mind I give vent to that. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And that is the outcome of all, Prabhupāda, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Mahāprabhu and all other, Rūpa Goswāmī, Sanātana Goswāmī. What I have collected, that is gathered, stored in my house in some way, and coming as gist from everything, it is coming. Transformation by accepting the path of devotion, it, a wholesale transformation of our internal system begins and is done. Gradually the store drawn from the outside world, that vanishes, there is a war inside.

And when Kṛṣṇa conception enters into the heart of any devotee the other thoughts and ideas they gradually have to retire.

praviṣṭaḥ karṇa-randhreṇa, svānām bhāva-saroruham dhunoti śamalam kṛṣṇaḥ, salilasya yathā śarat

[“The sound incarnation of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Soul (i.e. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam), enters into the heart of a self-realised devotee, sits on the lotus flower of his loving relationship, and thus cleanses the dust of material association, such as lust, anger and hankering. Thus it acts like autumnal rains upon pools of muddy water.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.8.5]

As autumn season when appears the dirt of the water vanishes. So when Kṛṣṇa conception enters into ones heart the other conceptions and aspirations of all this world to think gradually they will have to retire leaving the ground in possession of Kṛṣṇa because they cannot stand in the fight, can't stand. When Kṛṣṇa conception in any way real, a drop of Kṛṣṇa consciousness enters into the heart, then all other resources of different types must go and Kṛṣṇa will conquer, take possession of the whole. That is the nature, none can stand in competition, not even other so-called devotions of so many devatas or creeds of different - this Christianity, this Islam, and other things. All conceptions of theism they have to retire leaving the field to Kṛṣṇa conception. It is such, all aggressor or all accept. None can stand and fight with Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the absolute, the sweet, the beauty. The beauty can capture, the charm, the sweetness can defeat the power. Really we aspirer after beauty and sweetness, the mercy, the affection, the prema, self dissipation. To compensate others with one's own energy, the generosity that conquers ultimately everyone. To give, not to take, not to possess, die to live. This has got such a force. And beauty and charm, prema means die to live. Not to live yourself but to give others. You die. Most generous form of life in Kṛṣṇa consciousness: self forgetfulness to the extreme. So beautiful that one loses his own identification and existence also. Self forgetful, totally self forgetful, such a charm is there. Who will stand to fight against Him? Disarmed, everyone is disarmed who comes to fight. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

*śṛṇvatām sva-kathāḥ kṛṣṇaḥ, puṇya-śravaṇa-kīrtanaḥ hr̥dy antaḥ

[“Śrī Kṛṣṇa, as the Supersoul within everyone’s heart and the friend of the truthful, cleanses the desire for material enjoyment from the hearts of those who have developed the urge to hear His messages, which are in themselves virtuous when properly heard and chanted.”][Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.17]

*praviṣṭaḥ karṇa-randhrena, svānām bhāva-saroruham dhunoti śamalam

[“Swiftly does the Lord enter into the hearts of those who with faith constantly hear and chant the glories of His personality.”][Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.8.4]

If in any way He enters anyone’s heart, then no other consequence, but He will take possession surely. Such helpful and benevolent, generous is He and sweet is He.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

We must advance in a proper way. That is sādhū-saṅga, otherwise so many misguidance, possibility of misguidance, imitation. Valuable things have got cheap and extensive imitation to deceive the public. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. So now I retire today.

Gaura Hari bol. Jai om viṣṇupād...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and he gives proof in his behalf.

Garbasthakira hanthara sahara vrata [?] When he comes in the womb of mother, then the elder brother's milk from the breast of the mother stops. He snatches away. Bhumistha kroda dhataka [?] And when he comes out of the womb he occupies the lap of the mother and the elder brother is dispossessed. Yauvane dhana hanthara [?] And when young, grown up, he takes the share of the property, paternal property. Samasti bradi samadi bhau [?] So there is no other greater enemy than the brother.

But that Lakṣmaṇa's behaviour was the ideal of brotherhood. He did everything for the service of the elder brother. Even He went to ignore father for the sake of Rāmacandra. When Rāmacandra going to the forest, leaving, dethroned for Bharata according to the words already given by Daśaratha, His father, Lakṣmaṇa told, "Father is too old. He has lost his sense. He's now guided by the stepmother. We may not care for his vow. You are the natural owner of the throne. And I with this weapon I here control everything to make the smooth path of your throne smooth." Lakṣmaṇa told so much.

And Lakṣmaṇa's adherence to Rāmacandra we find in the greatest degree when He went to banish Sītā Devī in the forest only by the order of Rāmacandra. Sītā did not know that She's going to be banished. She was enticed to the forest Tapovana of Valmiki, "That anyhow You have expressed that You want to see Tapovana once. So Rāmacandra has ordered Me to take You to see Tapovana." In this way Sītā was taken to see Tapovana. And then there Sītā left alone under a tree in the forest and Lakṣmaṇa went to take leave.

"What do You say Lakṣmaṇa?"

"This is the order of My elder brother. You should be abandoned here in the forest."

It is impossible. What is impossible that was possible for Lakṣmaṇa, only to carry out the order blindly of His great elder brother. And Sītā Devī was left alone in the forest under a tree. And then, of course it was divine arrangement, Valmiki's disciples detected Her and took Her there in the āśrama and one cottage was at once arranged for Her comfortable stay there. Valmiki took the charge of seeing all comforts of Sītā Devī there. He knew already that such events coming to happen. He was composing Rāmāyaṇa and going ahead in his divya darśana. In his divya darśana he's seeing the future incidents and he's composing the poems. He knew that now high time that Sītā Devī will come here and She will give birth to two sons here in this Tapovana. All this was known to Valmiki Ṛṣi.

And what was that Valmiki Ṛṣi his previous history? He was a great dacoit and he was converted to a Ṛṣi only by the force of Hari Nāma, Rāma Nāma, experimental way. Devaṛṣi Nārada and Brahmā, when some inspiration came, "The Rāma Nāma is so purifying it can purify to any extent, anyone." For experiment they came and they took up that dacoit. Born in a brāhmaṇa family, most heinous, cruel, murderer, and what more, looted. "If this man can be converted by Rāma Nāma then of course Rāma Nāma greatness, magnanimity will be settled." They made this experiment. And first on the way met him and when he was told, he came to rob them, Brahmā and Nārada, “You take Rāma Nāma. Think of you, what you are doing, all these things.”

“No, no. I won’t hear you, all these things which words have no value in me.”

“Do you think all the activities you are doing in this way that will have no consequence? A bad reaction is waiting for you. Still there is time, what we say, do this and you will be absolved from all your previous misdeeds.”

Then so many things happened, anyhow, “I’m doing a duty. I have got my old father, mother, wife, children, to maintain them I am doing. They will also partake of the evil consequences of my misdeeds. It is done for them, their interest.”

“None will take. It is your responsibility. Go and ask them.” “And you go away in the meantime.”

“No, no. Tie us with the tree so that we may not fly away. And you go and ask and come back.” He went straight to his family and asked everyone. None accepted him.

“I am old.” Father told.

Mother also said, “When you were young it was my duty to maintain you. I did it in some way. But now it is your duty to maintain us like your child. We are old. So you are doing your duty by maintaining, but we won’t take the share of your misdeeds. We did not tell you that you will earn money in any way. We did not do that. Do your duty in a right way. We won’t go to share the consequence of your misdeed.”

Wife also told like that. “It is your duty to maintain me. I am doing my duty here. I won’t go to take the share of your misdeeds.”

Then a change came to his mind, a reaction. He ran to the place Brahmā and Nārada they are tied there as he kept them...

End of 82.04.25.B_82.04.27.A

82.04.27.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...so for fear of his sin the whole water disappeared. Then he came back and related to Brahmā, “Oh. It is such, such magnitude of sinfulness.”

So Brahmā had water in his kamaṇḍalu, he sprinkled on him and now asked him to take the Name of Rāma Rāma. He can't take Rāma Nāma. Then anyhow they asked him that, “The dry branch of a tree, what is that branch, how, living?”

“No. It is mara, dead.”

“Yes: mara. Mara mara you do.”

Mara Mara Mara Rāma Rāma, in this way he has managed to come to take Rāma Nāma. And he became Mahārṣi Valmiki, from the sound.

[sāṅketyaṁ pārihāsyāṁ vā, stobhaṁ helanam eva vā] vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam aśeṣāgha-haraṁ viduḥ

the Harināmāmṛta-vyākaraṇa; when one is playing the mṛdanga drum, using the Names Gaura Nitāi, Gaura Nitāi to represent different drumbeats), or even neglectfully - hela (when we are rising from bed in the morning sometimes, we may neglectfully say Hare Kṛṣṇa; in this way we may cast off our indolence). This is accepted by all the learned scholars of the scriptures.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.2.14]

The Name purified him. The sound, the most subtle thing, it can act over all possible things of gross conception, and also the mental system. Mental system contains so many thoughts and ideas, good or bad, all relating to this mundane world. But Vaikuṇṭha Nāma, Vaikuṇṭha wave: that vibration, that vibration that is created by the sound, with the help of the sound that can purify all grosser appearances in this world. Vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam. Not only lip deep sound; that must have got reference of Vaikuṇṭha. Vaikuṇṭha means that limitation, above limitation. The sound must have its origin, its original conception above limitation. The realm, the plane which is above limitation, immeasurable, that immeasurable force is invited in the form of sound to do away with all the anomalies in this mundane world. Mundane, our mental system or, all bogus, anomalies, it is not normal, proper. All thinking of different free souls, free, different free wills coming, they clash with one another, abnormal. They can be normal only with the help of the most universal vibration. The vibration of the highest universal type, when that comes in this all relative mundane waves they can change them immediately; immediately and most effectively and very highly, high order. So vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam aśeṣāgha-haraṇ viduḥ.

Now today I am requested to say something on the second śloka of Śikṣāṣṭaka. I begin there.

nāmnām akāri bahudhā nija-sarva-śaktis, tatrārpitā niyamitaḥ smaraṇe na kālaḥ etādṛśī tava kṛpā bhagavan mamāpi, durdaivam īdṛśam ihājani nānurāgaḥ

[“O my Lord, Your Holy Name bestows auspiciousness upon all. And You have unlimited Names such as Kṛṣṇa and Govinda by which You reveal Yourself. In Your many Holy Names You have kindly invested all Your transcendental potency. And in chanting these Names, there are no strict rules concerning time or place. Out of Your causeless mercy, You have descended in the form of divine sound, but my great misfortune is that I have no love for Your Holy Name.”] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 2]

This is the second śloka of Mahāprabhu, nāmnām akāri bahudhā; that is the general reading of the śloka. But there is some modified reading also. Nāmnām akāri bahudhā, some say 'bahuthā', nāmnām akāri bahuthā, 'bahuthā' abstract noun, 'bahuthā'. That means; they say that is more grammatical. Some say 'namani akāri bahudhā' bahudhā is retained but nāmnām here 'namani' namani akāri bahudhā nija-sarva-śaktis tatrārpitā.

“You have revealed here, expressed here, inaugurated here, different types of Name. Bahudhā nija-sarva-śaktis tatrārpitā. And all Your strength, Your power, has been allotted therein, placed therein. Though it is eternal, nāmnāmi, the power is already with the Name eternally, but it is said in that way, that fashion. Sarva-śaktis tatrārpitā. That means with the Name already the potency from its beginning it is there, both is eternal, tatrārpitā, sarva-śaktis, all sorts of potencies, energies, tatrārpitā.

Niyamitaḥ smaraṇe na kālaḥ. And there is no time fixed for taking the Name. In any time, in any stage, in any circumstance, you can take the Name. Not that in the morning time, not that after taking bath, or any going in the holy place, no, no condition. Any time, anywhere, in any circumstances you may take, go on with taking the Name. So magnanimous chance You have given, opportunity You have given to all about the Nāma bhajan, the service of the Name. So generous, so magnanimous, Your dispensation. Niyamitaḥ smaraṇe na kālaḥ.

Nāmnām akāri bahudhā nija-sarva-śaktis, tatrārpitā niyamitaḥ smaraṇe na kālaḥ, etādrśī tava kṛpā. So much graceful You are here, tava kṛpā, infinitely gracious here in this Nāma bhajan when You are giving to us.

Etādrśī tava kṛpā bhagavan mamāpi, durdaivam īdrśam ihājani. But still my calamity is of such worst type that I don't find any earnestness, any earnest desire to take the Name. No such faith, no such śraddhā, regard: no tendency in me I find to take the Name. No love, no affection for the Name I find. I am such an unfortunate; I am unfortunate of such a high type, worst type, that I do not find any innate hankering to take the Name. What is to be done?"

This is the second.

"You have given all from Your side to take me up from this mundane relativity. You have so generously, Your attempt is so generous, so magnanimous. But yet I find from my side, some cooperation of course is necessary, something from my side to accept that, to accept Your grace, but I find deaf ear from my part coming to Your call. Your magnanimous call, but from my side, what little is necessary, I can't find that my Lord. Hopeless I am."

So the great hope that was given by the first śloka of Mahāprabhu, the Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtanam, if properly undertaken it may progress step by step in this way, these seven consequences. In a progressive way, step by step; that I told yesterday.

First, cleansing the consciousness: and the second, liberation from the mundane relativity. And the third: positive goodness awakens within our heart, takes to Vṛndāvana. And the fourth: that vidyā-vadhū-jīvanam, under the guidance of the svarūpa-śakti, svarūpa-śakti, Yogamāyā, not Mahāmāyā. Not out carrying but in carrying current, Yogamāyā. The one which is always trying to centralize, to help, we come to vadhū conception. We are potency, unconditional potency to serve Kṛṣṇa. That sort of rasa, that fully connected, connection what gives full connection with the Lord. Then what after attaining that stage what are other consequences come?

That ānandāmbudhi-vardhanam prati-padam pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanam, sarvātma-snapanam: to become a particle in the ocean of joy, and then next, joy is not stale and static but ever new. Ever new, a dynamic thing, and sarvātma-snapanam, and it is purifying to the utmost. So utmost, though we are kept, we are allowed to keep our individual conception, but still we feel all the parts of our existence is becoming purified when we take the Name to the utmost, to the extreme. And also: not only myself but all who are connected with this Nāma saṅkīrtana. All is being purified, mass conversion, mass purification, and purification to the utmost. These are the results.

Now say thesis, antithesis, then when such hope is there, why so much he is under trouble? The difficulty is where? Why do not get the advantage of such a magnanimous sanction of the divine, divinity? Where is the rub? Difficulty must be detected. Here comes to the practical point.

Nāmnām akāri bahudhā nija-sarva-śaktis, tatrārpitā niyamitaḥ smaraṇe na kālaḥ, etādṛśī tava kṛpā. Inestimable grace from Your side, so many opportunities given. But the little, the least attempt from my side to have benefit of this, there is the want. I am so mean, so small, so meagre, so sinful. Etādṛśī tava kṛpā bhagavan mamāpi, durdaivam īdṛśam ihājani nānurāgaḥ.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura in his translation says beautifully, tūhu doyā-sāgar tārayite prāṇī, nām aneka tuwā śikhāoli āṇi' sakala śakati dei nāme tohārā, grahaṇe rākholi nāhi kāla-bicārā śrī-nāmacintāmaṇi tohāri samānā, biśwe bilāoli karuṇā-nidānā tuwā doyā aichan parama udārā, atīsoy manda nātha! bhāga hāmārā nāhi janamalo nāme anurāga mor, bhaktivinoda-citta duḥkhe bibhor

[O Lord, You have brought Your innumerable Holy Names to this world and have taught the chanting of them to the fallen living beings just for their deliverance; therefore You are an ocean of mercy and compassion.

You invest all Your energies in Your Holy Name and on the chanting of Your Holy Name You have not placed any consideration such as time or place.

Your Holy Name, which is like touchstone, is non-different from You. You have distributed Your Holy Name throughout the creation, and that is the essence of Your kindness.

Such is Your great mercy O Lord, but I am extremely unfortunate.

My attraction and love for the Holy Name never came about; therefore the heart of Bhaktivinoda is overwhelmed with sadness.]

[Verse 2 from Bhaktivinoda's Eight Prayers of Divine Instruction, based on Śikṣāṣṭakam]

The least requirement from my side, that I must have some liking, some taste to accept, some earnestness to accept, but there's the lacking. Then, where's the hope?

The next śloka coming; then how to attempt? Of course when we come in the relativity we are trying to take the Name. However formal it may be, may not be, from the core of our heart, but formally we are trying to some form or other. Then by what process we can get the benefit and we can have progress. The third śloka is coming here.

Now we may have to say something in this connection; that though one feels that he has got not the least required minimum to deposit to get the grant, but it is not a hopeless case, hopeless case; why? The very nature of things takes us to that conception. It is really, when the Nāma bhajana, the realization of the grace of the Name, to pray for the grace of the Name, when one begins his life in such a method, or in any form of devotion towards the Lord infinite, he cannot but feel like that. In relativity of infinite he can't find anything in him. That means he's quite emptied, vacated. "I have nothing to give in return. The minimum requirement, that is also absent here." That takes to the conception that, "I have no qualification, completely emptied." Rather, the opposite qualifications are felt in one's heart.

We should not be discouraged with this that we have got no capacity, not the least merit which is required for this Nāma bhajana. But rather that is the natural position of a devotee. But at the same time we must guard ourselves from our insincere conception that we have nothing. There's the enemy. "I have got no least liking for the Lord, no taste for the Lord, cannot have in this." It is all right. But, "I have got some taste, some earnestness, some devotion for the Lord," it is dangerous, that, "I have." When we are going to have some connection with the infinite, we must be emptied, fully emptied. Self abnegation must be complete, as it becomes complete. This attainment in this worldly line: that is the negative side. We must withdraw completely from that. “I have nothing, no qualification that I can be accepted or be utilized in the service of the Lord. Perfectly I’m unfit.” Complete withdrawal of the egoistic world and a capture of the Yogamāyā. Everything is His. A slave has no position, the whole position with the master. So, that is the real qualification. And when you go to assert that, “I have got such and such qualification which may be utilized in that,” there’s the rub. So, Mahāprabhu says, na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi me harau, [krandāmi saubhāgya-bharaṁ prakāśitum vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā]

[“My dear friends, I have not the slightest tinge of love of Godhead within My heart. When you see Me crying in separation, I am just falsely exhibiting a demonstration of My great fortune. Indeed, not seeing the beautiful face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I continue to live My life like an insect, without purpose.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

The standard is there and from that we are to understand the position of the negative side. That is to possess nothing; that is the qualification. And everything His, that is the qualification. To feel that, to conceive that, that is the qualification and that must be sincere. That must not be imitation, there we must be careful. That uttama-adhikārī, the stage of the highest devotee, I must not venture to imitate. There’s the difficulty. So it’s quite natural when one can approach in this line he becomes successful in this life. Self abnegation to the complete and, “All gracefulness is seen on the side of my Lord, I am His.” And this Yogamāyā, her duty is to do this, effect this. Now what we are wanted to accept, the path, how? What process we should try to utilize ourselves for this Nāma bhajana. Then Mahāprabhu comes with His third śloka.

Mainly you couch yourself in this way, tṛṇād api sunīcena. You think yourself that you are meanest of the mean. Even a blade of grass has got its value, but you have not so much value. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has come with his analysis of the meaning. “The straw, it has got its some material value. But in your case you have got no positive value, all negative, bikṛta [?]. A man may not be educated, but a mad man he’s more less; minus, bikṛta. He can think but he can think in an abnormal way his thinking is going.” So, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, bikṛta svabhāvasa, bikṛta cittasya [?]

“My consciousness, I have got some consciousness, some intelligence, some this and that, but that all misdirected. But a blade of grass it has got nothing, no misdirection tendency to go towards opposite direction. So tṛṇād api sunīcena, I am meanest than a blade of grass. A blade of grass can be taken away here, there, by the storm, by the external wave. But for myself I will always be reluctant. In a particular direction if the wave wants to take me I shall try to go towards opposite. So tṛṇād api sunīcena, if really considered, valued, then my position is lower than a blade of grass, with opposite tendency, not to be handled very easily.

Taror api sahiṣṇunā, that taror api sahiṣṇunā. So when we are taking our self in the relativity of the infinite goodness we should think that, “I have got no value but the, some negative value. I shall oppose, if He wants to grace me I shall try to resist it. I am constructed by such element that I will go to suicide. The energy which is left in me, that will try for suicide. He will come to grace, I shall oppose. This is my position. But the blade of grass won’t oppose. I have got such a nasty position.”

You must realize that you are such, and so and so. Tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā. So with this carefulness you will come to accept the goodness of the Absolute, in Name, Nāma bhajana. Taror api sahiṣṇunā. And so you don't think that your way will be very smooth. So many troubles may come from outside, as you feel now. Practically when you go with kīrtana party so many comes, "You monkeys, red faced monkeys." So taror api sahiṣṇunā, these things must come to you, so many. From so many directions, so many forms of hindrances, opposition, that will come and try to affect you, to dissuade you from this path. But taror api sahiṣṇunā.

The example of a tree and that is analysed. If anybody does not pour any water, tree does not say, "Oh. Give some water to me," does not say. Then anyone is coming and disturbing, snatching the leaves, cutting the branches, someone cuts the whole thing; but silent, no opposition.

So, no opposition, you will rather try to see that in this way, by insult or poverty, or any other punishment, unfavourable dealings that are coming, to purify me these things are necessary. With least punishment I am going to be released. Going to be released, taror api sahiṣṇunā. I have connected with the highest object of life, the highest fulfilment of life. But what price I am going to pay for that? What price? If I am confident that I am going to attain the highest fulfilment of life, but any price is sufficient for that? Inconceivable. So taror api sahiṣṇunā. What ever little demands come to be exacted from you, with smiling face you have to accept that, in consideration of your highest goal. If you are really confident, you have faith in your brightest future, then what little price there they want, the nature want through these miscreants, apparently.

Our Gaura Kiśora Bābājī Mahārāja, once, we are told, he's going mādhukari-bhikṣā, and going to his quarter. But as people they come to attack you, they did not spare him also. The boys they are pelting some small bricks and some dust throwing, and he was remarking, "Kṛṣṇa. You are cruelly dealing with me. I shall complain to mother Yaśodā about this." That is his outlook. How harmonized is he? How harmonized, so anything coming, "Oh. Kṛṣṇa. You are there, without Your; in philosophical calculation, without Your will nothing can happen.” But in His concrete form, “You are with these children. You are disturbing me, and I shall do it, I shall teach You the lesson. I know how to deal with You.”

So in that way they are established in their, and they take everything like that. That is our beacon light to adjust with things that apparently unfavourable, a sweet adjustment there.

So, ṭṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā, then amāninā mānadena. Almost finished, ṭṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā. Don't give any opposition, still opposition will come to you, disturb, and you will forebear. You will accept them in such a line. It is finished, but still amāninā mānadena, the pratiṣṭhā is the most subtle and highest enemy of us. So a special dealing has been recommended here with pratiṣṭhā, prestige, position. That is the worst enemy for the devotees of Kṛṣṇa. Pratiṣṭhā takes to māyāvādā that brahman, “I am so 'ham,” not dāso 'ham, not “I am subordinate,” but only says that, “I am. I am a part of the supreme element, I am he, I am that.” Eliminating from his consideration that so big and so small I am under misery suffering so many things, all these are ignored, practical things. So pratiṣṭhā, position, ego, that is the worst enemy and to deal with that specially it is told how to deal; amāninā mānadena. You must not want respect from anybody, from the environment. But at the same time, you must give prestige to the environment, according to their position. You'll show respect, but don't desire any respect from outside. You must be very particular: this is the worst and the hidden enemy. And if you can cross this enemy anyhow, avoid, conquer, then you will be able to enter into the slave area. Slave area of Kṛṣṇa: the wholesale given, wholesale sacrifice area. Then amāninā mānadena: never seek for your position, prestige, from any quarter. At the same time you are required to give honour to one and all, according to your understanding.

Now here is also something. This is a general meaning. Our Guru Mahārāja, when he went to Vṛndāvana, of course he used motorcar. Then one pāṇḍā told in his talk with Guru Mahārāja on some occasion that, “We are Vrajavāsī brāhmaṇa. We can offer our benediction to Goswāmī, [Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī. Dāsa Goswāmī he came from, was born of a śūdra family, but we are brāhmaṇas and we are Vrajavāsī specially. And he himself asked such benediction from us.”

gurau goṣṭhe goṣṭhālayiṣu sujane bhūsuragane svamantre śrī-nāmni vraja-nava-yuva-[dvandva-śaraṇe sadā dambhaṁ hitvā kuru ratim apūrvām atitarā

maye svāntarbhrātaś caṭubhir abhiyāce dhṛta-padaḥ]

[“O mind - my brother! I fall at your feet and implore you: ‘Give up all pride and always taste ecstatic love while remembering the divine guide, the holy abode of Vṛndāvana, the cowherds and milkmaids of Vraja, the loving devotees of the Supreme Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the gods on earth or pure brāhmaṇas, the Gāyatrī mantra, the Holy Names of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and the divine youthful couple of Vraja, Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Govindasundara.’”]
[Manah-śikṣā]

“I want Guru by submission, my praṇāma to all in Vṛndāvana, amāninā mānadena, Guru, all submission to Gurudeva.” Goṣṭhe, the pasture ground where Kṛṣṇa with so many cows and buffaloes He had His līlā. Goṣṭhālayiṣu, and those that are living in this goṣṭhe, goṣṭhe goṣṭhā, the place for the cows. In the day they were moving, wandering in the forest and their property was cow. And wherever there is favourable food for the cows in a particular forest they used to change their houses from one place to another place, suitable for the cow grazing. The grazing ground where they found better, they used to take their houses, moved that side. So sometimes Vṛndāvana, sometimes Nandagram, sometimes Kamavana, in this way Gokula, sometimes Gokula. When Kṛṣṇa came Nanda was in Gokula. Then grown up, then He is found in Nandagram. In this way they moved according to the grazing opportunity for the cows. They used to move their camp. The goṣṭhā, go means cow, ṣṭhā means the place of existence, so goṣṭhā, wherever the cows are sheltered goṣṭhā means. And there the camp of the keeper of the cows generally goes; so goṣṭhe goṣṭhālayiṣu. Sujane means Vaiṣṇava, bhūsuragane means brāhmaṇas. Svamantre śrī-nāmni, in this way, “The Name, the mantra, all, I show my submissive, my obeisances,” Dāsa Goswāmī says.

And thereby they say, “Oh. We are goṣṭhālayi, as well as we are bhūsurā, then we are in a position to give benediction to Dāsa Goswāmī.”

Our Guru Mahārāja hearing this he stopped taking prasādam. We were there. It was in Rādhā- kuṇḍa. “I had to hear this, that Dāsa Goswāmī, the most respected Ācārya, and this fellow who’s under the control of lust, greed, anger, all these things, and he says that he can show his grace to Dāsa Goswāmī. And I am to hear that? Without doing any... opposite action, I won’t eat, take prasādam.”

He’s not taking prasādam, we also can’t take prasādam; the whole camp is fasting.

Then one gentleman, local gentleman who came to know this that whole camp is fasting for this, he managed to take the man to Prabhupāda and he begged to be pardoned. And then Prabhupāda was satisfied and then showed some respect and then he took prasādam. That man took mādhukari from his own house and requested Prabhupāda [?]

At that time some one of us, of the disciples, requested Prabhupāda, “They are all fools, ignorant people. Why do you... are so much affected on his statement? You may ignore.”

Prabhupāda told, “If I would have been an ordinary bābāṇī then if such remarks come then I’d cover my ears and go away. But I am playing the part of an Ācārya. Why I am using this motorcar here? What justification I have got, if I do not oppose such remarks against my Gurudeva, then why?" He repeatedly used this, "Why I am using motorcar here in Vṛndāvana? Had I been a niṣkiñcana bābājī, only a kaupīna, and I, not to be supposed to (.....?) any opposition, to save me I should leave the place and go to some other place. But when I am using, I have taken the pose of Ācārya, the teacher...

82.04.27.C

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...so the example of the servant of the Vaiṣṇava I have accepted, then I can't evade such circumstance. I must face and I must do everything in my power that such things may not go on undetected or unopposed; in this way. So tṛṇād api sunīcena, that has some sort of adjustment, amāninā mānadena, some sort of modification will come in the practical field.

When the ISKCON was attacked and a gun was used there was a general complaint, "Oh. They're tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā? Why they have crossed the advices of the Vaiṣṇava, of Mahāprabhu? How they are Vaiṣṇava? They can't be Vaiṣṇava."

So many complaints came to me. I said, "No they have done rightly." Tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā, amāninā mānadena. This example, it is on the face of the Vaiṣṇava, not a madman. A madman, general ignorant man, they are mad, vikitri kiti [?] they do not know what is good, what is bad. So their consideration has got no value. Whether he's amāninā mānadena, or sunīcena, or sahiṣṇunā, who will come to say? These mad people, ignorant people, they have got any sense that they will come to judge that who is sunīcena, and who is sahiṣṇunā, and who is mānadena?

The standard judgement is there. So we shall think that we are under the side, on the eyes standing in front of the Vaiṣṇava, who are standard thinkers: from their consideration, not from the consideration of ordinary persons. Of course any man may deceive the ordinary people with physical meekness. Only physical meekness, physical sunīc, modesty, a show of modesty is not modesty proper. A show of humiliation is not humiliation proper. It must come from the heart and must come for the real purpose. So everything, sunīcena, sahiṣṇunā, amāninā, mānadena, must be considered by a standard judgement, a standard normal person. Not by the so called ignorant, anyone, these tigers, the elephants, these jackals, there are so many they will come to judge what is humility, and what is audacity, or wickedness, impertinence, all these.

So from the consideration of the Vaiṣṇava: the Deity is going to be molested, the temple is going to be molested, and I shall stand, “Oh. I am sunīc, I am mānadena.” The dog is entering into the temple, “I am mānadena.” This sort of...that normal conception of thing we must have. This sort of anomaly we may not allow in the name of sunīc and mānadena; all these things. Anyone harming a Vaiṣṇava, molesting the temple, “The dog, I shall allow the dog to enter the temple, and I am mānadena, and I am sahiṣṇunā: all these things.”

Not such, the physical type of meaning, but real meaning, normal meaning will be accordingly. That I am sunīc, I am the slave of the slave. With that consciousness if anything comes to molest my master then I go first to sacrifice me, because I am of least importance my sacrifice no loss. So I must go to sacrifice myself to keep the prestige of the Guru, Vaiṣṇava, and my Lord. I am always in the relativity of the conception of my Lord and His family. That must be always with me, that conception, the higher and not impersonal conception. The higher conception relativity always with me, and I am the lowest. So at the cost of the lowest sacrifice I shall go to; there is the conception of honour, the conception of highness and Lord, Lord of Lords. Such conceptions I am in front of, so in consideration of that my dealings should be. So taking this into account we shall have to understand the meaning of trṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā, not physical imitation of it, but practical realization, and there this sort of distinction, amāninā mānadena.

So māna must be given the fame, honour must be given to Vaiṣṇava, and not to māyā. That must be enough. And in the adjustment of Bābājī Mahārāj in the highest stage, there also like some other thing; but madhyama adhikārī Vaiṣṇava, he's to accept things in this way. As our Guru Mahārāja told that, "Had I been in the robe of a bābājī I may walk away from the place. I can't do anything in opposition so I must go away, I must avoid. But when we are in preaching camp, we have taken the responsibility of leading so many towards the domain of the Lord, our adjustment will be like that, madhyama adhikārī."

Opposition: general indifference to the enemy, that is also individual case, but when in a company, in an organized way we are to preach for the Lord, our duty should change. We cannot be indifferent to the enemy. But that does not mean that physically we shall be eager to give physical punishment. It is mentioned, Jīva Goswāmī says, "Vaiṣṇava nindaka, one who is, vaisnava caritya sarva dalpavita [?]

One who is throwing blame over a Vaiṣṇava; then if the king is a Vaiṣṇava then he will give that Vaiṣṇava ninda that corporal punishment. He may banish him from his country, his state, or he may cut his tongue. Vaiṣṇava nindaka jiha ceran [?] That is in scripture and Jīva Goswāmī has mentioned that. He has taken that into account and he has given his decision that if he has got that position and power, if he's a king, then if one repeatedly puts blame toward real Vaiṣṇava the king should give the punishment by cutting his tongue. But it is not for ordinary persons; then there will be a riot. According to one's particular position these things should be taken and the necessary things should be done.

So, Hanumānji is a Vaiṣṇava but he is seen to destroy so many lives. Arjuna and so many others, even Kṛṣṇa, Rāmacandra, They are also seen outwardly at war, so tṛṇād api sunīcena. But Mahāprabhu told not through passing that varṇāśrama and so many stages. He generally mentions about the highest end of life, not passing through so many different stages of varṇāśrama. But from any place, a least place, or anywhere, who has got aspiration for the highest goal, he may adopt such policy in his life; principal, no opposition, "Let all my previous sins finished in this way." But in the case of the insult of the Guru, Vaiṣṇava, all these things, according to his might he will oppose.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, what he said, in the sun?

Aksayānanda Mahārāja: Śrī-kṛṣṇa-kīrtane jadi...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

[Śrī-kṛṣṇa-kīrtane jadi] mānasa tohār, parama jatane tāhi labho adhikār tṛṇādhika hīna, dīna, akiñcana chār, āpane mānobi sadā chārī' ahaṅkār bṛka-sama khamā-guṇa korobi sādhan, pratihimsā tyaji' anye korobi pālan

[“If your mind is always absorbed with great care in chanting the glories of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, then, in that process of Kṛṣṇa kīrtana you will gain mastery over the mind.] [You should give up all false pride and always consider yourself as worthless, destitute, lower and more humble than a blade of grass.] [You should practice forgiveness like that of a tree, and giving up violence toward other living beings, you should protect and maintain them.”] [From verse 3 of Bhaktivinoda’s Eight Prayers of Divine Instruction, based on Śikṣāṣṭakam]

Not only to tolerate the evil doings of others, or the environment, but do something good to them. You are being tortured: in that position also you try to do some good to them. Bṛka-sama khamā-guṇa korobi sādhan, pratihiṁsā tyaji’ anye korobi pālan. As it is mentioned in the case of the tree, one who is cutting the tree he gets the shade of the tree; shade, comfort from the tree, though cutting it. So bṛka-sama khamā-guṇa korobi sādhan, pratihiṁsā tyaji’ anye korobi pālan...

Aksayānanda Mahārāja: Jīban-nirbāhe...

jīban-nirbāhe āne udbega nā dibe, para-upakāre nija-suka pāsaribe hoile-o saba-guṇe guṇī mahāśoy, pratiṣṭhāśā chāri koro amānī hṛdoy kṛṣṇa-adhiṣṭhān sarba-jībe jāni’ sadā, korobi sammān sabe ādare sarbadā

[“In the course of your life, you should never give anxiety to others, but rather do good to them and forget about your own happiness.] [When one has thus become a great and pious soul, because of possessing all good qualities, one should abandon all desires for fame and honour and make one's heart humble.] [Always knowing that Lord Kṛṣṇa resides within all living creatures, one should, with great respect, show honour to all living beings at all times."] [From verse 3 of Bhaktivinoda's Eight Prayers of Divine Instruction, based on Śikṣāṣṭakam]

Then in conclusion he's summarizing the very gist.

dainya, doyā, anye māna, pratiṣṭhā-barjan, [cāri guṇe guṇī hoi', koroha kīrtan]

[“Humility, mercifulness, respect toward others, and the renunciation of desires for fame and honour – one becomes virtuous by possessing these four qualities. In such a state you should sing the glories of the Supreme Lord.”]

These four; dainya – you are meanest of the mean thing. Always be conscious that you are a beggar. “I am a beggar. I want the greatest. I have come to beg the highest thing.” So no disturbance may come, enter into my attempt, dainya. Doyā, and at the same time your attitude should be helpful to the environment, doyā, according to your capacity. Doyā means not to get food only, but instead, in the place of food you'll try and give him prasādam. In this way by Kṛṣṇa Nāma, by educating him to Kṛṣṇa thought then only doyā. Anye māna, according to his position everyone should be given respect for his respective position outside. And pratiṣṭhā-barjan: and not to want any position but the position of the slave of the slave of the Lord. That has been given as guiding instruction toward Nāma bhajana.

sadā hariḥ

If you want to take, chant the Name of Hari, you won't go to lose your energy with trifle things of the world. In prestige, or any gain relative to money, or any physical comfort, don't allow your attention to be disturbed by, for these small acquisitions. You are trying for the greatest thing, so don't lose your energy for the smallest thing. All other things are very small and we must be conscious of that. So don't waste your energy and your valuable time, you have got the chance for an attempt for the highest goal. Be economic and economic consideration is recommended in such a way.

So two *śloka*s finished today. What's the time?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Nine thirty.

Parvat Mahārāja: Ten to ten.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ten to ten. Then should I begin a third or a fourth?

*na dhanam na janam na sundarim, kavitam va jagad-isa kamaye mama
janmani janmaniśvare, bhavatad bhaktir ahaituki tvayi*

["O Lord, I have no desires to accumulate wealth, followers, beautiful women, or salvation. My only prayer is for Your causeless devotional service, birth after birth."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 4]

The nature of your guidance of your energy should take this path; na dhanam na janam na sundarim, kavitam va. Generally in the ordinary sense, na dhanam, “I don’t want any money.” Na janam, “No popularity, manpower I don’t want.” Na dhanam na janam na sundarim, generally the beautiful lady company. Kavitam va, this poetic honour, poetic good name, position of a poet. But it has been deeply dealt with. Dharma, artha, kama, moksha. Our Guru Mahārāja, our Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, formed in this way; na dhanam, Guru Mahārāja said, dharma dhanam, the consideration of duty. Na janam, that is any physical relationship for comfort, stri, putra etc., wife, son, na janam.

Kama, sundarim perhaps kama. Kavitam va, that is moksha, the hearsay, that moksha, mukti, liberation, that has got a very high value, but that is only in words, like poetry. In fact that is all imagination, that mukti, liberation, because ultimately my existence is gone, sāyujya mukti. There is nothing, only black marketing, canvassing of false things.

Jagad-īśa kāmaye, only pray for this: mama janmani janmanīśvare, bhavatād bhaktir ahaitukī tvayi. Causeless adherence to You I pray. That is causeless, without any reward. Natural serving attitude I want.

'Dāsa' kari' vetana more deha prema-dhana. Prema dhana, prema means the affection, the affinity, the love. “I shall serve You and in remuneration, in return, You’ll give more tendency to serve You.” Prema means this, the more energy and tendency, more hankering to serve. So it will be enhanced, the remuneration will come. That it is the [?] means interest will come to be capital: something like that. Money lending business: the interest becomes capital. So I am serving You and if You want to pay something, that capital will be prema. That more tendency, more mad energy it will be enhanced, our tendency to serve will be more and more enhanced. Whatever I do the interest must come into capital. In this way it will march on.

na dhanam na janam na sundarim, kavitam va jagad-īśa kāmaye mama

janmani janmanīśvare, bhavatād bhaktir ahaitukī tvayi

Wherever I am born according to my own karma I aspire only for Your service my Lord: and causeless service, not any other hankering in return. 'Dāsa' kari' vetana more deha prema-dhana. The general temptation on my four sides, of these four classes, dhan, jan, kavitā, sundarīm, for different types, dharma, artha, kāma, mokṣa, scientifically represented. "I may not have any attraction for them, so only towards You. And that is for every..."

paśu-pakhī ho 'ye thāki swarge bā niroye, [taba bhakti rahu bhaktivinoda-hṛdoye]

[“Be my life in heaven or in hell, be it as a bird or a beast, may devotion to You always remain in the heart of Bhaktivinoda.”] [From verse 4 of Bhaktivinoda’s Eight Prayers of Divine Instruction, based on Śikṣāṣṭakam]

“Even I won’t aspire after; You give me liberation and being liberated I will be able to serve You better.” That sort of condition must not be put there. Wherever, according to my own karma: wherever I be, my birth may take place, does not matter. But only, the whole prayer is concentrated only to that prayer of attraction for You. That is my only prayer, attraction for You. Physically wherever I be does not matter. That is the most pure, purest nature of our prayer is this. Paśu-pakhī ho 'ye thāki swarge bā niroye. I may, according to my karma, I may be a beast or a bird, here, there, or I may be even in the hell, it does not matter. But the whole aspiration concentrated to only one thing, taba bhakti rahu, my attraction for Your service; that may not be lost, that may be enhanced. I may have that. The whole prayer is concentrated only on one point, not independent of the external position. Only this is my prayer. This is the purport.

*na dhanam na janam na sundarim, kavitam va jagad-Isa kamaye mama
janmani janmaniśvare, bhavatād bhaktir ahaitukī tvayi*

Ahaitukī bhakti, causeless, natural, quite natural, without any aspiration with it. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. So: almost ten?

Devotee: Ten. Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So four śloka finished today. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Any question, from any quarter? Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Jai Om Viṣṇupāda...

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: We were able to find that book of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura Śikṣāṣṭakam commentary. We got it at Caitanya Maṭh. And Aksayānanda Mahārāja is now in possession of that book. And what is [?] Aksayānanda Mahārāja, you can translate?

Aksayānanda Mahārāja: Bengali is easy but the Sanskrit is difficult, Bengali is not so difficult but the Sanskrit takes some time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. The general health of you all perhaps going well?

Devotees: Yes Mahārāja.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Not so much sickness as in the beginning. The devotees are feeling better. And everyone is getting ready for this parikramā of Nepal.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gurupāda is very eager to do some service there in aggressive way, and you stopped him. “No aggression, but toleration, taror api sahiṣṇunā.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Actually everyone has so many questions to ask you, but we don't want to keep you for so long. You've already given us so much of your mercy by speaking to us for so long.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: At least one may be dealt with now.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: At least one question.

Another devotee: (Bengali?)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: (Bengali?)

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: In the matter of increasing, if a businessman will say that if the interest is always going to be reinvested and made as capital, then when will I ever get chance for enjoying any of the bank balance that's being created?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Life is eternal, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, [kṛṣṇa-nāma-cintāmaṇi, akhila rasera khani, nitya-mukta śuddha-rasa-moy] nāmera bālāi jato, saba lo 'ye hoi hato, tabe mora sukhera udoy

[“The Name of Kṛṣṇa is touchstone, a mine of all devotional mellows, eternally liberated, and the embodiment of pure rasa. When all impediments to the pure chanting of the Holy Name are taken away and destroyed, then my happiness will know its true awakening.”]

[Śrī Nāma-Māhātmya, The Glories of the Holy Name.]

The aspiration of the servant of a devotee is going in this way. Nāmera bālāi jato, saba lo 'ye hoi hato. Bālāi means the enemies of a baby. When the baby has not got some knowledge then so many disease may come to attack the baby. So when Name is in its child-like stage, in the beginning, then the aparādhās, the crimes against Name, offences against Name can come. When grown up, no offence can approach, the Nāma bhajan. But for a beginner so many offences may come. So bālāi means the enemy of the Bala Kṛṣṇa, the bala Name, the less grown Name. Nāmera bālāi jato, saba lo 'ye hoi hato.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says in that sense, “The Name is so beautiful, so gracious, so charming, that I like to die with all the offences along with me and let others enjoy. All possible obstacles, hindrances, offences against the Name is so beautiful, so charming that I want to take them all and die. I may finish me taking that suicidal squad.”

Just as with bombs on the armpit entered they into the ship, [?] the chimney; it may lose him so that suicidal. That began from Japan towards British, and Hitler told that yet we have to learn something from Japan. That was very much appreciated by him, the suicide.

“So I want to finish myself with all the offences carrying and let others enjoy.”

This Vasudeva Datta, “Give all the offences of all the jīvas to me and throw me for the eternal hell.

Then others will, they will be gainer. Give them Kṛṣṇa prema.”

That is a sort of feeling, a highly generous feeling. It does not die. Die to live: that is higher living, attainment of higher life when such wishes come; desires come in us that I want that so much appreciation for the Lord, “Let others have it, and I, as a price of all their sins, I may go down. But it will in all glory it will.” That is a sort of feeling.

From what connection this came?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: We were discussing the capitalist’s viewpoint. The capitalist will consider that investing interest along with capital consistently will mean some growth of wealth but no ability to touch that wealth. So where is the hope for enjoyment?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Enjoyment by self dissipation: from the opposite direction, enjoyment. “Please let others enjoy at my cost.” That is the basis of the highest enjoyment, Kṛṣṇa with others. “Let Kṛṣṇa enjoy with others and I must be the scapegoat.”

Āśliṣya vā pāda-ratām. The last śloka of Mahāprabhu will come to say about that.

And as Nārada came to the gopīs for the feet dust: for the treatment of Kṛṣṇa’s headache, self abnegation to what degree? That is the point of the whole thing. The very life is that, that how much sacrifice is possible? And as much as sacrifice so much the benefit. Sacrifice, die to live. So it is very favourite to me, these Hegel’s words, die to live. Don’t hesitate to give you. He is the highest consumer. You want Him, the highest consumer known to the world, and you are on the face of that. If you can face, so the devotees do not face, to face the different types of consuming consumption there is Rādhārāṇī, Yaśodā and all group. Then so many groups and those that after liberation from this world join, they have got a particular rank. Only they can be recruited in that camp. So there is classification sakhā, nitya-sakhā, prana-sakhā, all these groups according to the quality there.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: So this magnanimous aspect of Mahāprabhu is seen as the equivalency of mādhurya līlā. The Gaura līlā is magnanimity or distribution of the rasa is seen as the equivalent.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Both the parties combined has come to give Their most secret sweetness, as if, to the public; so magnanimous. Bramhava durlabha prem savakari jati [?] What is...

...Brahmā, Śiva, they cannot aspire after. That sort of wealth has been taken to this Earth and it was canvassed from door to door, Śiva viriñcira vāñchita ye dhana jagate phelila dhāli. And very difficult to understand and appreciate how it is possible. I have written two lines in Nityānanda stava.

śrī-kṛṣṇa prema nāmā parama sukha-mayaḥ ko'pyacintyaḥ padārtho yad gandhāt sajjanaughā nigama bahumataṁ mokṣam apyākṣipanti [From Śrī Kīrtana Mañjuṣā, p 16]

Why Nityānanda Prabhu approaching towards the market? No such scholarship, no such power, majesty, and He holds the highest position, that of Balarāma, Saṅkarṣaṇa, etc., next to Kṛṣṇa. Why, what's the reason? Śrī-kṛṣṇa prema nāmā parama sukha-mayaḥ ko'pyacintyaḥ padārtho. There is something highly valuable, wealth, as Kṛṣṇa prema. Yad gandhāt sajjanaughā nigama bahumataṁ mokṣam apyākṣipanti. The really honest persons, if they get a slight scent of that Kṛṣṇa prema, that divine love for Kṛṣṇa, mokṣam apyākṣipanti, nigama bahumataṁ, which has been much praised by the scriptures, Vedic scriptures, that moksa, liberation, he/they also throw out that. Do not care for moksa, which has so much position in the Veda for mukti. Dharma, artha, kāma that is lower, but mukti is considered to be the highest attainment generally in the Vedic conception. But that is also thrown out hatefully.

Such a scent is in Kṛṣṇa prema and who can give that Kṛṣṇa prema, that wealth of the higher order, his position must be higher. So Nityānanda Prabhu's position is higher. Because what He's giving, delivering, that is of the highest value, we can see by calculation here.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. So I take leave. What is my...

namo mahā-vadānyāya kṛṣṇa-prema-pradāya te kṛṣṇāya kṛṣṇa-caitanya-nāmne gaura-tviṣe namaḥ

["I offer my respectful obeisances unto You, O most munificent incarnation! You are the Supreme Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself appearing as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya Mahāprabhu. You have assumed the golden colour of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, and are more magnanimous than any other incarnation, even Kṛṣṇa Himself, because You are bestowing freely what no one else has ever given - pure love of Kṛṣṇa."]

[Śrīla Rūpa Goswāmī]

chaya [?]*

Systematically we began from Guru, to Gaurāṅga. But sometimes it is seen that the boundary of the grace of Gaurāṅga is more extensive, and by His arrangement Guru comes to me, He comes as Guru. So Kṛṣṇa's grace is also like that. First we come in consciousness with Kṛṣṇa, roughly, then, when we enter in a systematic way then He comes as Gurudeva. He sends vartma-pradarśaka and so many Vaiṣṇavas to distribute sukṛti, and gradually we are raised to a particular standard where, guru- pādāśraya, tadasya, gurum evābhigacchet. Not all in a sudden one may come to Guru; underground there are many things. Help from Kṛṣṇa at large, then the systematic life begins. The rough progress stops and the systematic life begins in the spiritual world. Then He sends, He comes in the form of Gurudeva. That is we are introduced to His internal potency. First hazy brahma darśana.

bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām*

["The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema-bhakti) unto Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18. 54]

Parām bhakti labhate, that systematic pure devotion: we are taken to the door of that.

kavi sri caitanya mari kari veni doya [?] kavi ana pai vai vaisnava pada

chaya [?]

By His grace we shall come across the internal departmental local grace more specified form.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Now we shall come to the fifth śloka of Mahāprabhu today, explained by His grace. It begins with,

ayi nanda-tanuja kiṅkaraṁ, patitaṁ mām viṣame bhavāmbudhau kṛpayā tava pāda-paṅkaja-, sthita-dhūlī-saḍṛśaṁ vicintaya

["O son of Nanda Mahārāja, I am Your eternal servant, yet because of my own karma, I have fallen into this terrible ocean of birth and death. Accept this fallen soul and consider me a particle of dust at Your holy lotus feet."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 5]

Everything in His thought, in His conscious area, cintaya. "Please consider me, give me a little spot within Your consideration. I want to enter in the jurisdiction, in the realm of Your consideration, Your look, Your grace, so Your care. I no longer find myself safe within my guardianship, my care. I do not know to take proper care about myself. I invite Your care. Please accept me. Please give me entrance, admission in the realm of Your care. I want to live there. You are my guardian. You are my guardian. I want to live under Your guardianship. Ayi nanda-tanuja, but who are You? We are told about You of different conceptions. But anyhow I have come across to Your beautiful conception of Vṛndāvana."

iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde paraṁ brahma*

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.96]

One spiritual scholar, Raghupati Upādhyāya, when he met Mahāprabhu, near perhaps Mathurā, then there was a discussion and Mahāprabhu’s putting questions and he’s answering. There this śloka occurs. Who is sādhya? Whom we want to have our master? Who will be the final goal of our life where it is placed? Raghupati Upādhyāya came out with this śloka. Śrutim apare smṛtim itare. Generally we find and here in varṇāśrama dharma some are under the guidance of the smṛti, and the higher section they tell that they are under the guidance of the śruti, specially the jñāna mārgis. The karma mārgi who are more engaged with these bodily duties, with a colour of Godliness, they follow smṛti. And those that are out of this physical demand and tries to transcend this life of enjoyment and exploitation, nivṛti mārga, they generally take their guidance from the śruti portion of the Upaniṣad, of the Veda. The higher advices are given in the Upaniṣad, so śruti.

Raghupati Upādhyāya says, “I do not know śruti or smṛti, but I feel a necessity to follow the guidance of my heart. Not so much of brain, but I consider that the real peace which has its connection more with the heart.” Aham iha nandaṁ vande. “My mind is always attracted by Nanda, nandaṁ vande. I do not know, but I have no liking to know who is śruti, who is smṛti, but I find my inner most urge, attraction for Nanda.”

śrutim apare smṛtim itare, bhāratam anye bhajantu bhava-bhītāḥ, aham iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde paraṁ brahma.

“I am seeing the concrete thing here. They say with the conception of brahman, Parabrahman, Paramātmā, but Parabrahman, Kṛṣṇa, is also said by many of those authorities as Parabrahman, and that Parabrahman is crawling on the compound of Nanda. How he has attracted Parabrahman?”

Śukadeva Goswāmī also says in Bhāgavatam [10.8.46]:

nandaḥ kim akarod brahman, śreya evaṁ mahodayam yaśodā ca mahā-bhāgā, papau yasyāḥ stanam hariḥ

[Parīkṣit Mahārāja asks Śukadeva Goswāmī: “O knower of Brahman, you are always merged in the exclusive conscious world. No trace of any mundane objective reference can be found in you, for you are always engaged in the subjective world of spirit. Never is your consciousness thrown towards this objective world of ours. And you say that Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Absolute Truth. I ask one question of you, my master: what duty did Nanda discharge, what sort of realisation did Nanda have that the Absolute Truth is so intimate with him that He appears as Nanda’s son and crawls in his courtyard? He seems to be under Nanda’s clutches. What is this? This is a most wonderful thing. Is it possible? The yogīs, the ṛṣis, the great scholars and penance-makers say that they sometimes have a rare peek into their object of aspiration and realisation, and then they come back suddenly. They can’t keep their attention in that plane for long periods of time. How is it possible that that Supreme Substance sits on the lap of Yaśodā and sucks her breast? If such things are real, if it is at all possible, then why should I not be attracted by that method by which I can have so much intimacy with the highest entity?”]

Parīkṣit Mahārāja says, “You brahma-jñāna, whole time you are merged in exclusive conscious world, no trace of any mundane objective reference found in you. Cent per cent time you are engaged with the subjective world and never your consciousness thrown toward this objective world of us. One question to you my master, nandaḥ kim akarod brahman, śreya evaṁ mahodayam. You say that Kṛṣṇa is Parabrahman, then what duty Nanda did discharge? What sort of realization Nanda got that the Parabrahman is so near to him, so intimate to him, He seems to be under their clutches? What is this? This is wonderful, this is most wonderful thing. Is it possible?”

Nandaḥ kim akarod brahman, yaśodā ca mahā-bhāgā. “The yogīs, the ṛṣis, the great scholars and penance makers, they say they sometimes have a peep, a rare peep into their object of aspiration and realization and comes back suddenly, can’t fix their attention in that plane for some time. And that substance, that thing, how it is possible that Yaśodā having in her lap, is it possible? Then how it is possible? If such things remain in reality then why should I not be attracted by that method?”

Śreya evaṁ mahodayam, yaśodā ca mahā-bhāgā, papau yasyāḥ stanāṁ hariḥ. “So much intimacy with the highest entity: how it may be possible? Is it impossible? But if it is possible at all, why should not we be attracted for that?”

So here also: the similar recourse.

śrutim apare smṛtim itare, bhāratam anye bhajantu bhava-bhītāḥ aham iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde param brahma

[Raghupati Upādhyāya says: “Those who fear rebirth in this world may follow the advice of the Vedic scriptures - others may follow the Mahābhārata - but as for me, I follow Nanda Mahārāja, in whose courtyard the Supreme Absolute Truth plays as a child.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.96]

“I don’t like to be entangled in the subtle discussion and analysis of the śāstric ideas and thought and ontological representation. But what I see here, on the total estimation. Yasyālinde param brahma. I want to surrender myself to Nanda and his party. I want to enlist my name in that group where Nanda is the master, guide.”

So eliminating that, exercising the way, that by exercising our energy we can attain a good destination, or without any faith in our own energy we may try through our consciousness, utilizing our subjective energy only, eliminating this objective temptation, with the experts of that plane to inquire into, ‘where, what will be the solution of life in the higher subjective area?’ Higher subjective area, this jñāna, karma jñāna anārvṛtam. Then nanda-tanuja kiṅkaram: missed the point, anyhow...

Aksayānanda Mahārāja: Śrutim apare smṛtim...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Aksayānanda Mahārāja: You were telling that verse śrutim apare smṛtim itare.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Aham iha nandaṁ vande, then another, nandaḥ kim akarod brahman. I want to, in my concrete understanding, the direct appeal of my heart, in another word my śraddhā, my faith, my common sense about religion, common sense; that is faith, śraddhā. We see the Parabrahman, Parabrahman which is so rare, and that is if I find concrete is so much intimate, so why should I engage myself in wild goose chasing? I shall appeal direct, direct method of teachings. 'I want Parabrahman, I found Parabrahman is so intimately got, and that is example. Then why should I allow myself to run hither and thither?

Some say that your ear is taken away by the kite and I should without touching the ear, whether it is or not, I shall run after the crow. What is this?

I find Parabrahman is here, has kindly come with all His charm here. And His charm is not a secret thing. So many great personages, past personages are being attracted. I find it straight, and I shall go to run after phantasmagoria of the meditationist or the abstractionist, renunciationist? No, I won't. Aham iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde paraṁ brahma, the common sense, the straight understanding.

So ayi nanda-tanuja kiṅkaraṁ, patitaṁ māṁ; we have come up to that standard, then we can ask ayi nanda-tanuja. Kiṅkaraṁ, the Lord of love. Nanda-tanuja, means You are king in the country of love. So I am feeling affection. I appeal to Your affection, nanda-tanuja. Kiṅkaraṁ, patitaṁ māṁ viṣame bhavāmbudhau. I am Your servant. I feel it in myself that I have some connection with You and that is of subordination, patitaṁ, but anyhow I am in adverse circumstances. I feel that there are so many enemies within me and they are trying to take me away from You. I can't place my attention to You, whole of the time, patitaṁ māṁ. At the same time I feel from the inner plane of my heart that You are my master, You are my master, You are all in all in me. My heart won't be satisfied without Your company. I feel it in the inner quarter of my heart. So my appeal to You, but I am under unfavourable circumstances. I am suffering. And without Your grace, Your attention, Your interference, I don't find any relief from my present imprisoned position.

*nanda-tanuja kiṅkaraṁ, patitaṁ mām viṣame bhavāmbudhau kṛpayā
tava pāda-paṅkaja-, sthita-dhūlī-saḍṛśaṁ vicintaya [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 5]*

Here it is said, dhūlī-saḍṛśaṁ vicintaya, I am not eternally connected with You, I can feel, then this separation would have been impossible. Vibhinnāṁśa jīva [?] svāṁśa vibhinnāṁśa [?], I am a part of Your potency. I am not a partial representation of You [?] other incarnations are svāṁśa, partial representation of Himself. But jīva is also partial representation, but not of Him, but His potency, that śakti [?] So it is rather considered as His potency not...

mamaivāṁśo jīva-loke, jīva-bhūtaḥ sanātanaḥ [manaḥ ṣaṣṭhānīndriyāṇi, prakṛti-sthāni karṣati]

[“The soul is a part of Me, as My separate fragmental particle or potency. Although he is eternal, he acquires the mind and five perceptual senses, which are parts of material nature as creations of māyā, My deluding potency.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.7]

...though it is found in that way, he is āṁśa, but [?] so finer analysis have proved that jīva is not svāṁśa, it is vibhinnāṁśa, and what is that vibhinnāṁśa? That is the part of His potency. And jīva comes from taṭasthā-śakti. Kṛṣṇera taṭasthā-śakti, bhedābheda prakāśa, [“The soul comes from the marginal potency.” Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108] So dhūlī, “I am not part and parcel of Your own body, even the ray, but my representation nearer that of material, like a particle of sand, particle of earth, not even of the ray coming out of Your lustre of Your form.” In this way Mahāprabhu representing on our behalf that our petition must be of this type: Patitaṁ mām viṣame bhavāmbudhau, kṛpayā tava pāda-paṅkaja-, sthita-dhūlī-saḍṛśaṁ vicintaya.

I cannot give the intelligence of possessing such fortune that I may consider the inseparable part of Yourself. A separable part; and I also want Your grace and do justice to me. To the other I invoke Your mercy for special grant in my case to accept me in any position, connect me in Your connection. The lowest position, a particle of dust in Your feet, at least this must be sanctioned in my Lord, my faith, this is my prayer.

So Mahāprabhu’s asking us to pray to Kṛṣṇa in such a mild and humble way. Not with any gorgeous and higher demand. This is advised to us; ayi nanda-tanuja, I want nanda-tanuja, I am kiṅkaraṁ, but I am under adverse circumstance, patitaṁ mām viṣame bhavāmbudhau, I want Your grace, invoke Your grace. Kṛpayā tava pāda-paṅkaja-, sthita-dhūlī-saḍṛśaṁ, only consider myself as a particle of dust which is in the sole of Your divine feet. Our prayer should be couched in such way, in a very humiliating way. Then next comes...

Aksayānanda Mahārāja: Nayanaṁ galad-aśru...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

nayanaṁ galad-aśru-dhārayā, vadanam gadgada-ruddhayā girā pulakair nicitaṁ vapuḥ kadā, tava nāma-grahaṇe bhaviṣyati

[“O Lord, when will tears flow from my eyes like waves, and my voice tremble in ecstasy? When will the hairs of my body stand on end while chanting Your Holy Name?”] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 6]

Prayer granted, and he has acquired a position there. Now ambition has got no end, posted there in safe position, again crying, praying, for further promotion. First, only a negligent position, as a dust under the sole of Your divine feet. But when the grant came, the touch of Kṛṣṇa's holy feet came to the dust, the dust was converted with magical wand to something else. And now more demand, higher demand, higher demand automatically comes. What is this? I prayed only to become a dust on the sole of Your feet, but what I feel now within me? The very touch of the feet, I am dust and of the earth and You are Parabrahman. But earth is converted into such great, inconceivable nature, attitude, I wonder. I simply wonder, what is my nature, how it is transferred, changed, transformed? Now I find that my demand is more intense and more higher for higher intimacy.

Nayanam galad-aśru-dhārayā. First this dāśya but now it gets the connection of the touchstone, converted into rāga-mārga. Kṛṣṇa means anurāga, not Nārāyaṇa or Rāmacandra. Kṛṣṇa means He is worshipped by divine love, affection, the king of affection, the centre of affection and love. So when only came in touch of His feet, the whole thing changed. Demand for love and affection, and more intimacy came to grace that servitor. He was raised to such a plane: now his prayer is like that, nayanam galad-aśru-dhārayā. ‘What is this? My eyes are incessantly shedding tears, I can’t check my tears. It is coming out incessantly.’

Vadanam gadgada-ruddhayā girā, and when I try to take Your Name I feel that I am going beyond control. Control - some interference from some other quarter is moving me, disturbing my normal thinking and aspiration. I feel I am in the midst, I am nowhere, I have lost my control, I have become a doll in the hands of some other power or plane. Vadanam gadgada-ruddhayā girā.

nayanaṁ galad-aśru-dhārayā, vadaṇaṁ gadgada-ruddhayā girā, pulaḱair nicitaṁ vapuḥ kadā, tava nāma-graḥaṇe bhaviṣyati.

My hankering, ambition, taking me, trying; arousing me, my aspiration, toward something else. Not only Your connection of a servitor from distant, but come in touch of You, with magical wand I change. My aspiration changes, ambition changes. I see that so many devotees they are engaged in Your service, taking Your Name, their condition is such and such. And I want to - aspiration is raised, I want to be lifted to that position. To that position, I can realize that position far off, but my earnest prayer that I may be raised to that level. Your connection has taken me to - given me such thirst. I am in touch of that plane and my aspiration increased that sort of affection and love that I can be beside myself. More handling and interference of You I like. You play with me as You like in Your own way. Your connection, Your Name, Your feeling, Your remembrance may tackle, may play with me in any way You like. My heart hankers for such interference from Your part.

nayanaṁ galad-aśru-dhārayā, vadaṇaṁ gadgada-ruddhayā girā pulakair nicitaṁ vapuḥ kadā, tava nāma-graḥaṇe bhaviṣyati

When I shall take Your Name, I may take Your Name with such feeling, Your connection with such feelings as these. My previous standard has gone, and my hankering is now for this standard, and I pray that You lift me in that plane of Your affection and love. Then the next,

yugāyitaṁ nimeṣena, cakṣuṣā prāvṛṣāyitaṁ

śūnyāyitaṁ jagat sarvaṁ, govinda-viraheṇa me

["O Govinda! Without You, the world is empty. Tears are flooding my eyes like rain, and a moment seems like forever."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 7]

The devotee thought that if I am raised to that standard my heart will be fulfilled, thirst will be quenched, and I must feel some peace and satisfaction in me. But the development took him to another unexpected plane of life. Unexpected - when that sort of love, that drop, that sort of medicine is given to that hankering patient, the patient cured, will think that he is cured, but he was taken in some dangerous position. What is this? What is this? I was attracted by the charm which is found externally in the devotees, shedding tears incessantly, and when taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa it does not come, sound does not come smoothly, it is checked on the way. And these things attracted me, and sometimes hairs stand on their end. And the whole body the pulaka [?] attracted me. But coming to that plane what are doing, do I find, just the opposite. Yugāyitaṁ nimeṣena, coming in real connection or relativity with infinite, the finite feels hopelessness. No limit of progress, rather, as much as intimately I come in connection with infinite I am becoming hopeless. The more we advance, the more we find unlimited and unlimited becoming hopeless. But we can't leave, can't go back, no possibility of retracing. Only go ahead, this spirit is there - but find the infinite characteristic. We can't leave it, and also become hopeless. Dura suddha prema bandha [?]

The very high type of nectar is just in my front, but I can't get it. But the charm is so much I can't go back, and this entanglement. Yugāyitaṁ nimeṣena. It is there. I am not able to touch it, to get it in my fist. A small span of time thinks, 'Oh, long, long ages went away. I am in want. I am trying to get it, but I can't get, and the time is passing, ages by ages, I am there. Even our time, that is also of infinite character, yugāyitaṁ nimeṣena, cakṣuṣā prāvṛṣāyitaṁ, so many rivers came, got birth from my eyes. Profusely, tears ran down from my eye over the body. But I don't find to reach the position of success.

Śūnyāyitaṁ jagat sarvaṁ, mind is full, fully vacant. I can't find there any trace of my future prospect, no charm for any other thing, that with that I shall try to console this diseased body, no possibility. All authorities eliminated, only I am in the clutch of such hankering of Kṛṣṇa connection, exclusive, śūnyāyitaṁ jagat sarvaṁ. No prospect in any other direction. I find I am fully in the clutches of Kṛṣṇa consciousness and love of Kṛṣṇa. No order making. Śūnyāyitaṁ jagat - govinda- virahaṇa me. Oh. If there is anyone, come to my relief, I am lost. I am lost, my position is such, helpless. If there is anyone, come to my rescue.'

Mahāprabhu says that when we are deeply placed in Kṛṣṇa love we can't leave it. Our satisfaction, our thirst increases, no satisfaction, we are in the midst of such apparently horrible position, helpless position.

Yugāyitaṁ nimeṣena, cakṣuṣā, this is the divya darśana showing the direction of what is the hankering for Kṛṣṇa if awakened in one's mind. When he really comes in Kṛṣṇa connection then his position will be all illuminative, all exclusive, and only whole concentration with Kṛṣṇa, and that is so tasteful but so further, higher conception of Him in the front. And not getting that as much he is going ahead, so finds more and more spread in the front, and he finds himself in such position.

śūnyāyitaṁ jagat sarvaṁ, govinda-virahaṇa me

["O Govinda! Without You, the world is empty. Tears are flooding my eyes like rain, and a moment seems like forever."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 7]

82.04.28.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the highest advice of Mahāprabhu comes to adjust, to help our adjustment in such position. “You are going to be lost there in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. You are a drop, a drop; you are thrown into the ocean. What will be your position? What will be your position? So this advice you accept, it will save you, somewhat. Save you somewhat, if you come this side.”

*āśliṣya vā pāda-ratām pinaṣṭu mām, adarśanān marma-hatām karotu vā yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa
eva nāparaḥ*

[Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8]

The greatest medicine for the devotees. You have come to measure the immeasurable, but always keep this in your mind. This is the principal you will always embrace. When you are out to connect yourself with the infinite love, or give your anything, infinite is His character we must remember. He’s only one to you, but He has many like you. Your only one is He, but He has many to deal with, āśliṣya vā pāda-ratām pinaṣṭu. He may embrace you with much affection and adoration, or you must be prepared for the opposite, the alternative. Pāda-ratām pinaṣṭu mām. You are sticking to His feet and He is trampling down you under His feet, so cruelly. Pāda-ratām pinaṣṭu mām. You have caught hold of His holy feet with much prospect, much aspiration, with whole heart, still you will have to see that He is trampling down you. He does not care for all your attempts and affections. You are giving your best, but that is not a dishonour, and that is dishonoured hatefully, your offerings, āśliṣya vā.

He may embrace you sometimes, and at the same time you'll be prepared that His dealings may be so much cruel to you. He will trample down under His feet all your offerings, yourself, āśliṣya vā pāda-ratāṁ pinaṣtu. His adoration and His negligence, hateful negligence, both must be prepared. Āśliṣya vā pāda-ratāṁ pinaṣtu mām, adarśanān marma-hatāṁ karotu vā. You should be prepared for more adverse circumstances. What is that? His indifference, may not care, when He's giving punishment He's nearer to you. But when He's indifferent to you it is more intolerable. There is no union, 'He's neglecting me so much, He won't like to keep any connection. He does not know me. I am a foreigner, unknown man, indifferent.' That is more intolerable for the devotee. Rather punishment they may accept as boon, but this indifference is more heart rending to them.

Then: another step, higher. What is that? Yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo. He's embracing and adoring another, just on your front, on your face, without caring a little for you. You think that this is mine, my claim, my right, and that is being given to another just on your face. That will be more increasing trouble to you. This is the law of affection, law of love. It cannot tolerate, it is too much to tolerate, but you must be prepared for that, prepared for that from the beginning that this Kṛṣṇa prema means this. Yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, He's autocrat, He's love, He's the love, the prema is such. It is mercy, it is not justice. No law is there and you have selected this to be the highest fortune for you, and you must be prepared for that. The prema is such. Prema - there is no justice in prema, it is free, it may go anywhere and everywhere. The very nature is this. So you can't claim, no claim, no right you will have. The highest thing is of such nature. The rare in this way, very, very rare, and the nature of rarity is such.

Yathā tathā vā - mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ: But from your side unhesitating adherence to that principal, it is required. It is real love and you must be prepared for that. All eventuality, all adverse circumstances, this is the real type of Kṛṣṇa prema, die to live. If you can accommodate all these different stages, good or bad, then you come this side, this side, it is of such nature. Mercy is above law, justice within the law, mercy above law. Prema also above law, but it has got its own law.

So: another parallel śloka of this given by Rūpa Goswāmī.

*viracaya mayi daṇḍaṁ dīnabandho dayāṁ vā, gatiṁ iha na bhavattaḥ kācid anyā mamāsti nipatatu śata-koṭī nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas, tad api
kila payodaḥ stūyate cātakena*

There is a kind of small bird named cātaka. What is the English name I don’t know, cātaka, a small kind of bird. Their nature is that they only drink the water, the rain water, and they never eat any water from the Earth, whether river or fountain or lake or anything. Their very nature is that with their face, with their mouth upward, they are hankering for rain water. Rūpa Goswāmī is taking this example; the devotee’s nature should be like that. Always after, to get, waiting in expectation of the rain water, that Kṛṣṇa love, and no other love.

So, viracaya mayi daṇḍaṁ dīnabandho dayāṁ vā, gatiṁ iha na bhavattaḥ kācid anyā mam. A devotee is praying to the Lord; “You are friend of the fallen, so I have got some hope, viracaya mayi, so You may grant Your grace, gracious hand extend, dīnabandho, viracaya mayi, or You may punish me, severe punishment You may impart to me. Dīnabandho dayāṁ vā, gatiṁ iha na bhavattaḥ kācid anyā mam. I have no other alternative but to be wholly surrendered in Your feet, kācid anyā. How?

*viracaya mayi daṇḍaṁ dīnabandho dayāṁ vā, gatiṁ iha na bhavattaḥ kācid anyā mamāsti nipatatu śata-koṭiṁ nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas, tad api
kila payodaḥ stūyate cātakena*

That bird cātaka, he's always with his eyes fixed up praying for rain water. But rain water may come profusely, not only to fill up his small belly, but the whole body will be sufficient. The rain water may come, or the thunder may come without. Bolt from the blue may come and finish his small body to non-existence quarter. But still, the nature of that bird only to pray exclusively for the rain water and he won't take any water from any place under any circumstances. So our attitude should be toward Kṛṣṇa, independent of His extension of gracious hand toward us, it is our duty.

In this connection one śloka is coming to my memory. When in Kurukṣetra Kṛṣṇa met Rādhārāṇī after long separation, perhaps hundred years separation, outward separation, then They came. Kṛṣṇa coming in connection with Rādhārāṇī, coming near to the gopīs, especially in front of Rādhārāṇī, He found Himself very - that He has committed the great crime, done misdeed, misbehaviour, found Himself coming to the gopīs and remembering their quality of love and surrender, He found Himself the most criminal. And so much so that He was bending His body and going to touch the feet of Rādhārāṇī.

Kiṁ pādānte luṭhasi vimanāḥ. One poet has represented this scene in this way and that poetry, that poem has been collected by Rūpa Goswāmī in his Padyāvalī.

[kiṁ pādānte luṭhasi vimanāḥ svāmino hi svatantrāḥ kiñcit kālaṁ kvacid abhiratas tatra kas te 'parādhaḥ āgas-kāriṇy aham iha yayā jīvitāṁ tvad- viyoge bharṭṛ-prāṇāḥ striya iti nanu tvaṁ mamaivānuneyah]

[“Why have You fallen disconsolate at My feet? The husband is always independent. He may stay for some time, and then He may also go away. What fault is there on Your part? It is I who am the sinner, for I remained alive even when separated from You. The wife should always consider her husband to be her very life and soul. It is I who should apologize to You.”]

Kṛṣṇa coming in touch with the atmosphere of Vṛndāvana, now He’s a king, a paramount king almost in the whole of India, but when He came in connection with the gopīs He found Himself a criminal. And bending His body He was just going to touch the feet, then Rādhārāṇī, coming back, She remarks, kiṁ pādānte luṭhasi vimanāḥ svāmino hi svatantrāḥ. “What is this that You are coming to My feet? It is wonderful, luṭhasi vimanāḥ, and You are unmindful. I see You have lost the balance of Your mind and You are coming to do this thing. Svāmino hi, You are master of the situation. No explanation can be called from You. You are swāmī, You are husband, You are My master. And I am Your maidservant. Svāmino hi svatantrāḥ. And this is the arrangement of the Vedic scriptures.

Svāmino hi svatantrāḥ, kiñcit kālāṁ kvacid abhiratas tatra kas te 'parādhaḥ. For some time You were engaged in some other quarter; what’s the harm? What is the fault in You for that? It does not matter. This right is given to You by the scripture, by the society, kvacid abhiratas tatra kas te 'parādhaḥ, no crime, no sin. Already You are given that liberty by the scriptures and society so You have not committed anything wrong.

Āgas-kāriṇy aham iha yayā jīvitam tvad-viyoge. I am really the criminal, the culprit. The meanness is with Me, the defect is with Me wholly. Why, how? For the separation You are not responsible. Why You consider Yourself that You are faulty, that You have committed wrong? Jīvitam tvad- viyoge. The positive proof that I sustain My life. I am still living. I did not die from the pangs of Your separation. I am showing My face to the world, that I am not faithful to You. The standard of faith which I should have maintained for Your love, I could not. So I am a criminal and You are not so.

Jīvitam tvad-viyoge, bharṭṛ-prāṇāḥ striya iti nanu tvaṁ mamaivānuneyah . It has been written in the scriptures by the saints that the wives, they should be thankful, exclusively devoted to the husband. It has been ordained in the scriptures. Bharṭṛ-prāṇāḥ striya, striya should be bharṭṛ-prāṇāḥ, the women should be devoted exclusively toward their husband, towards their Lord. Tvaṁ mama. So in this meeting I should fall to Your feet and I should beg Your pardon, forgiveness. Beg for Your forgiveness that I have really no love for You. I am maintaining this body and showing My face to society. I am not a proper partner of You. So You please forgive Me. And You are doing the opposite, what is this? Don't do so."

So this should be the ideal of our affection towards Kṛṣṇa. We, the finite, in His connection, with the infinite, we should be of this attitude. That little connection, attention may I have any time. But I will be all attentive toward Him. And there is no other alternative.

Mahāprabhu says ekagra [?] bhakti, exclusive devotion towards Kṛṣṇa, autocrat. The absolute good, the absolute love, is autocrat. And our posing must be of this type, if you want, being so small, if you want so great a thing, then this is not injustice. But our demand should be like this, our prospect, our adjustment, our understanding, must be of this type.

A small incident I - when anyone goes to fight for the country in the battlefield, then no luxury, no room for any luxury, or any other desires may be sanctioned there.

I remember in this connection, when Gandhi formed his non-violent army, one of their soldiers told, so-called soldiers, volunteer, that, “You please arrange for a cup of tea for us.”

“No, no. The water of River [?] That may be supplied to you and no tea. If you are ready, come forth.”

So if we want to connect ourselves with Vṛndāvana, leader of Kṛṣṇa, our attitude should be this:

*tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā, amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ
sadā hariḥ*

[Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

Now we shall come to understand the method recommended by Mahāprabhu. Sahiṣṇunā, not only about the external position in my present life, but the whole life our attitude. No complaint from my side, any complaint from my side should be carefully eliminated. And full independence of the other side. Acceptance and non-acceptance, the risk of that must be taken on our head, and then make progress. Atho va vasra sesagram jitya vadhoksaje [?]

Sometimes you will get and sometimes - so it is a general way. But there are more hopeful prospects for us. In some way or other if we can enter in the group, there is a group of such nature, so everyone is of such nature, and we come together, they will console one another in their own party. So many groups in different rasa, in sākhya rasa, mādhurya rasa, vātsalya rasa, so many of the similar section, similar nature, and they:

[mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā,] bodhayantaḥ parasparam kathayantaś ca mām nityam, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca

["My devotees mix together, talk about Me, and exchange thoughts that give consolation to their hearts. And they live as if this talk about Me is their food. It gives them a high kind of pleasure, and they find that when they talk about Me among themselves, they feel as if they are enjoying My presence."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

aham sarvasya prabhavo, mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate iti matvā bhajante mām, budhā bhāva-samanvitāḥ

["I am Kṛṣṇa, the Sweet Absolute, I am the root cause of the all-comprehensive aspect of the Absolute, the all-permeating aspect of the Absolute, and also the personal aspect of the Absolute - the Master of all potencies, who commands the respect of everyone - Lord Nārāyaṇa of Vaikuṇṭha. The universe of mundane and divine flow, every attempt and movement, the Vedas and allied scriptures which guide everyone's worship - all are initiated by Me alone. Realising this hidden treasure, the virtuous souls who are blessed with fine theistic intellect surpass the standards of duty and non-duty, and embrace the paramount path of love divine, rāga-mārga, and adore Me forever."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.8]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 10.8]

“The scholars come to Me thinking that I am all in all. Everything from Me, I am all in all. With this consciousness they approach Me. Bhāva-samanvitāḥ. And they take the path of sympathy and affection, love. Ahaṁ sarvasya prabhavo, mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate, iti matvā bhajante mām, budhā bhāva-samanvitāḥ.” mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam kathayantaś ca mām nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca

[“My devotees mix together, talk about Me, and exchange thoughts that give consolation to their hearts. And they live as if this talk about Me is their food. It gives them a high kind of pleasure, and they find that when they talk about Me among themselves, they feel as if they are enjoying My presence.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

“Tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca. They mix together and they talk about Me. Talk about Me, interchange of their thoughts, that gives consolation to their hearts and they live as if this is their food, talk about Me. Tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca. High kinds of pleasures and they find when they talk about Me amongst them naturally.”

teṣāṁ satata-yuktānāṁ, bhajatāṁ prīti-pūrvakam dadāmi buddhi-yogaṁ taṁ, yena mām upayānti te

[“To those devotees who are constantly dedicated to Me, and who engage in My service out of their love for Me, I bestow the internal divine inspiration by which they can approach Me and render various intimate services unto Me.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.10]

Teṣām satata-yuktānām. “In this way they go on discussing about Me and feeling as if they are enjoying My presence there in their talk. And also I give some other line of thought to them and when...

teṣām evānukampārtham, aham ajñāna-jarṁ tamaḥ nāśayāmy ātma-bhāva-stho, jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā

[“Out of compassion for them, I, situated within the hearts of all living beings, dispel the darkness of ignorance with the radiance of knowledge.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.11]

“Sometimes in separation also suddenly I appear before them when the feeling is very much acute, then I suddenly appear before them and quench their thirst. That also I do.”

And Mahāprabhu He has also, after giving all these things, then we have got another solace, another very fine and high type of solace to us.

[Kṛṣṇadāsa] Kavirāja Goswāmī has also given that. Bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya, kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite .

[“The wonderful characteristic of divine love of Kṛṣṇa is that although externally, it works like fiery lava, internally it is like sweet nectar that fills the heart with the greatest joy.”][Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.50]

“Don’t be afraid. Outwardly you are expressing, you are feeling a horrible pain of separation, but internally at the same time, simultaneously, you are feeling an unparalleled type of rasa, that is pleasing feeling, pleasure, peace, or joy or ecstasy you are feeling.”

Externally pangs of separation, but internally a satisfaction, it is there maintained, it has been told to us. And from the general example in the world also we can have some experience to keep up our faith in this subtle matter. That Shelly, or someone says that, “Our sweetest songs are those tell of saddest things.”

[The English Romantic poet, Percy Bysshe Shelley, 1792-1822]

When we are reading any epic and there’s separation between the hero and heroine, and very cruel condition, they are so sweet to us, we are shedding tears, and still we cannot leave the book.

The pangs of Sītā Devī, Rāmacandra after banishing Sītā Devī, when we go to read that Rāmacandra is banishing Sītā Devī when She’s with child, uncared for in the forest, and fortunately the forest was that of Valmiki’s āśrama near, and they took Sītā Devī and put Her in a cottage and began to serve Her. So this is very painful, but when we read that story we can’t keep away from that, we go on reading, reading, shedding tears and still reading. So there is some sweetness within the pain. It is possible. So Kṛṣṇa viraha is such.

Bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya, kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite. The special characteristic in Kṛṣṇa prema is this; that externally we feel extreme pain, but internally heart is filled with some extraordinary ecstatic joy. So this is what Mahāprabhu has given to us. As much as we can catch His instructions, the meaning of His instructions, we shall prepare us. This is our fare in the way. Patheyo [?] means fare. What is this, the money necessary to go from one place to another?

Devotee: Passage...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Passage, passage money. This is our passage money to go to Vṛndāvana. And when we are connected, we are acquainted, we are introduced with so many like us, then our joy knows no bounds. Of same nature, of same group, of same thinking and same attitude, we get great solace and consolation from them. So we need not be afraid. Back to God, back to home, that is our home. In spite of all these things we shall think firmly that that is our home, home comforts. And in other places we are all considered to be foreigners. And you see how foreigners, the C.I.Ds are always coming and taking a count. “Who is here, who is there?” No information. So we are not foreigners there. Here we are foreigners. Any man is treating in any way they like. But still, that is the most hopeful and full of the highest prospect and our place of inner satisfaction. We shall aspire after that. We cannot but keep aspiring for our home. What is the real joy, real ecstasy, we are not acquainted with; that is the trouble. As much as we shall go ahead we shall be conscious. The practical feeling we shall have about the nature of that joy, ecstasy, beauty, charm and more encouraged, more, more encouraged.

yad-avadhi mama cetah kṛṣṇa padāravinde nava-nava-rasa-dhāmany udyataṁ rantum āsīt tad-avadhi bata nāri-saṅgame smaryamāne bhavati mukha-vikaraḥ suṣṭhu niṣṭhīvanaṁ ca

["Since I have been engaged in the transcendental loving service of Kṛṣṇa, realising ever-new pleasure in Him, whenever I think of sex-pleasure, I spit at the thought, and my lips curl with distaste."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, dakṣiṇa-vibhāga, 5.39 - quoted from Yamunācārya]

Rūpa Goswāmī says, "As long as I did not come in touch with this Vraja rasa – when the worldly pleasure was of much importance to me: but as soon as I have come in connection with that rasa then if any similar rasa comes in my memory from this mundane world my face becomes disfigured and spit comes on my tongue."

So, we shall think of that.

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā

["One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167]

Raso vai saḥ.

yaṁ labdhvā cāparam lābhaṁ, manyate nādhikaṁ tataḥ yasmin sthito na duḥkhena, guruṇāpi vicāltate

Not so far, even lower position, what the yogīs get, there also it is mentioned. Yam labdhvā cāparam lābham, manyate nādhikam tataḥ . If we get a slight taste of that ecstasy, at once we come to this final understanding there cannot be any pleasure, peace here, that can be comparable with this type of rasa. Yasmin sthito na duḥkhena, guruṇāpi vicāltate. And alternatively if we are settled in that sort of atmosphere of that rasa then no pain of any type can disturb us, cannot affect us in any way, it is of that peculiar rasa. And that rasa is possessing in this way. There is another side also.

[The Lord Himself says: “O, Nārada, wherever My devotees sing My praises I cannot but be present there.”] [Within the purports of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.2.41 & 4.30.35]

This is, we are advised about the dearth and high position; we must be prepared of such. The fact is not so cruel in reality. He says, “Mayi te teṣu cāpy aham. I am always with My devotees.”

[samo 'haṁ sarva-bhūteṣu, na me dveṣyo 'sti na priyaḥ ye bhajanti tu māṁ bhaktyā, mayi te teṣu cāpy ahaṁ]

["I am equally disposed to all souls, therefore no one is My enemy or My friend. Yet, for those who render devotional service unto Me with love, as they are bound by affection for Me, I am similarly bound by the tie of affection for them."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.29]

If such exclusive devotee is in any place He's always, like shadow He's always invisibly moving after him. This is His nature.

ahaṁ bhakta-parārdhīno, hy asvatantra iva dvija sādhubhir grasta-hṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ

[The Lord tells Durvāsā: "I am the slave of My devotees; I have no freedom apart from their will. Because they are completely pure and devoted to Me, My heart is controlled by them, and I reside always in their hearts. I am dependent not only on My devotees, but even on the servants of My devotees. Even the servants of My devotees are dear to Me."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63]

"Oh. Durvāsā. You know Me totally, that I am, though you know that I am independent, but I know I am not independent. I am dependent to My devotees. You may take it, independently dependent to My devotees. This is My nature."

So these are the sayings of the Lord. We must be prepared for anything, unfavourable circumstances. But there are positive examples, He's everywhere.

When I came to this path after finishing my college career, to discourage and to dissuade me from this path, one of my learned nephews he told me, “Kṛṣṇa, the Lord, He's of course there, but He's so far, so far. There are so many stars whose light could not come to this Earth. And the speed of the light is such. Still there are so many stars whose light could not reach this Earth so, so great magnitude, infinite. And if there is any God, has He got any time to think about us? Negligent.”

But I answered intuitively, “But is there any place where He's not present?”

Then he was silenced. Any place where God is not present? Any place, any persons, anything? He's everywhere. What can he say? He was silenced. So He's so far, tad dūre tad v antike, He's the nearest to us.

[tad ejati tan naijati, tad dūre tad v antike / tad antarasya sarvasya, tad u sarvasyāśya bāhyataḥ] [“The Supreme Lord walks and does not walk. He is far away, but He is very near as well. He is within everything, and yet He is outside of everything.”] [Śrī Īśopaniṣad, 5]

At the same time we must think He's the most affectionate, His care to us is most acute and sincere. His sincerity and His care, His affection towards us has got no parallel. At the same time this is also true, so we must not be discouraged.

But still Mahāprabhu has given us warning; “That you are coming to search after Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa is not as a sweet-ball from the market, take and finish. It is not like that. The highest of the highest, you are going to attain that goal, must be prepared for everything.”

But at the same time the devotees will come, “No fear, we are of the same order. We all walk on in a straight line.” So don’t be afraid, the devotees are there. So we are told that more than Kṛṣṇa, His devotees, His servitors are more sympathetic towards us, and the resort of our life and fortune, His devotees. Mad bhaktānām ca ye bhaktās, te me bhaktatamā mataḥ.

[ye me bhakta-janāḥ partha, ne me bhaktaś ca te janāḥ mad bhaktānām ca ye bhaktās, te me bhaktatamā mataḥ]

[“Those who worship Me directly are not real devotees; real devotees are those who are devoted to My devotees.”] [Ādi-Purāṇa]

And He says that, “Who is servant of My servant, they are My real servant.”

In this way, so many things, so sādhū-saṅga, saṅga, the association is the highest valuable thing for us. To make our advance and progress toward infinite, our association - that is all important factor; our guide. We must stick to that, to this conclusion.

'sādhū saṅga,' 'sādhū saṅga,' - sarva śāstre kaya / [lava-mātra sādhū-saṅge sarva-siddhi haya]

[“The verdict of all revealed scriptures is that by even a moment’s association with a pure devotee, one can attain all success.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.54]

So sādhū-saṅga has been given, the good association, the anukūla, favourable association, that is our wealth, our real wealth is there.

What's the time?

Devotee: Ten.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ten, oh ten thirty I have got engagement. I had better stop.

End of 82.04.28.B

82.04.29.A

Parvat Mahārāja: ...this sincerity is under the free will of the jīva?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Cooperation. But really it comes from sukṛti, the grace of the Vaiṣṇava. First, unconscious association, and then conscious association helps, śraddhā, faith, and there cooperation begins, with faith.

Just as a patient by accident fell on the street, unconsciously. Doctor's first help independent of the patient, and consciousness comes, then consulting the patient. "Where is your trouble?" With the help of the free cooperation the treatment goes on. Something like that. Ke?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Akṣayānanda Mahārāja.

(Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja and Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, 01:10 - 03:10 Bengali?)

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...Mañjarī is considered to be the leader of all the mañjarī class, in the camp of Rādhārāṇī. They're younger in age so they have the facility to enter into the room of Rādhā- Govinda where the advanced stage sakhī can't enter. Because these young girls supposed to know much about the advanced līlā. Anyhow they enjoy that confidence. When Rādhā and Govinda They are in solitary position these young girls are allowed. But the advanced staged she friends of Rādhārāṇī they hesitate to go at that time. So when They are combined in private affairs, Rādhārāṇī and Kṛṣṇa, in confidential position, the highest quality of rasa is produced by Their union. And that quality of rasa, that highest quality of rasa can come in connection with the mañjarī, not the sakhī. So Rūpanuga sampradāya means the opportunity of having a taste in the highest quality of the rasa when confidential union of Rādhā-Govinda occurs.

Mahāprabhu recommended this is the highest form of attainment possible ever for the fate of the jīva, rūpānuga. Mādhurya rasa, then in the camp of Rādhārāṇī, then again under the leadership of Śrī Rūpa. So rūpānuga bhajana darpan. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given description, that short idea, the sketch of the type of confidential spiritual service in mādhurya rasa under the leadership of Rūpa Goswāmī.

And here Narottama Ṭhākura he also understands that substantial characteristic of rūpānuga bhajan, so much so that here he's expressing his aspiration: "When my Gurudeva Lokanātha Goswāmī will take me by my hand and will connect to Rūpa. I am giving this new kaiṅkary, this young maidservant to you Rūpa, you take it." His Guru Lokanātha and his aspiration: "When my Guru, he's my Gurudeva, he will connect me, he will take me and give charge of me to Śrī Rūpa?"

So Rūpa's transaction that is higher, mañjarī means higher plan and design and dealings of different services which is unique in the camp of Rādhārāṇī. And most confidential what is not generally aspired even within, under other sakhīs and others. Śrī Rūpa Mañjarī Pada, ones exclusive concentrated attempt, aspiration to enter, to have admission into the camp of Śrī Rūpa, that is expressed here earnestness. Exclusive earnestness to get admission into the camp of Śrī Rūpa.

Śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada sei mora sampada, the characteristic of the aspiration should be like this: śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada sei mora, that is my wealth. My wealth is, I consider, the holy feet of Śrī Rūpa Mañjarī as my only, my wealth. I don't consider anything else as wealth. Sei mora sampada.

Sei mora bhajana-pūjana. Bhajana means internal, sincere presentation towards the high. And pūjana means formal, formal attempt; both formal and, bhajana-pūjana. Bhajana is more internal and sincere, pūjana is more formal and, in the beginning of course attempt is formal, formal respect and internal offering, bhajana-pūjana.

Sei mora prāṇa dhana, that is the source of my life of sustenance. Sei mora abharaṇa, and that is also my ornaments, that is my outer qualifications, my inner and outer existence is there. One should be like that. Sei mora abharaṇa, sei mora jīvanera jīvana, and I also consider that to be the very life of my life, jīvanera jīvana, life of my life; the essence of my essential existence, sei mora jīvanera jīvana.

Sei mora rasa-nidhi, that is the source of all my ecstatic aspiration, rasa-nidhi, of the ocean, the ocean of my ecstatic joy. Sei mora vāñchā-siddhi, the fulfilment of my inner aspiration is there. Sei mora vāñchā-siddhi, sei mora vedera dharama, and I consider that, the Veda has got so much position and hold over the society, but I consider that Veda inspires me only to accept that as the real meaning of the Veda.

Sei vrata, sei tapaḥ sei mora mantra-japa, there is a fashion especially in the female society to do, to accept many vow, vrata, different kinds, savitri vrata. She performed the, Savitri is very famous for her chastity. By her chastity she could save her husband from death. So Savitri, so many good ideals in the ancient ladies, and in that name or any other name to take some vow and continue that, sei vrata. I have no other vow, formal vow I like to take, but that is my all vow, temporary commitment for any particular good action. That is my vow. Sei vrata, sei tapaḥ, so many penances we are told been practised to achieve their desired end. But my penance is only for that. If I do that then I think I have finished all my penances. Sei vrata, sei tapaḥ, sei mora mantra-japa. There are others who engage themselves in japam, in repetition of particular spiritual sound for the attainment of some auspicious end. That is japam, mora mantra-japa. Sei mora dharama-karama: but if there be any other phases of duty and activity then all, Rūpa, her service covers all sorts of engagements either to discover or to serve the holy purposes. All phases I concentrate only for their feet, to achieve the service of their feet. Everything will be,

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati, yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."]

All phases of life, all dealings of life, I want only one point, the service of Rūpa I want. Sei mora dharama-karama.

Anukūla habe vidhi se pade haibe siddhi, now only I want this that the circumstance may be favourable, the [?] the controller of these worldly forces, He may be propitiated with me. And He may make arrangement in favour of my such attainment of life, such attempt of life. If He becomes favourable then my fulfilment will be achieved. Anukūla habe vidhi se pade haibe siddhi, nirakhiba e dui nayane. Then what will be the effect if the administration becomes helpful to me.

Se-rūpa mādhurī-rāśi prāṇa-kuvalaya - śaśī, praphullita, then I will be allowed to have a vision of his beautiful figure, movement and serving attitude. That will come in me. I will be connected rather, with his feet, and his direction, and will do some service under her guidance. Se pade haibe siddhi, nirakhiba e dui nayane, se-rūpa mādhurī-rāśi prāṇa-kuvalaya - śaśī. I'll be allowed to have a vision of his beautiful figure, mādhurī-rāśi prāṇa-kuvalaya - śaśī, and which will be like moon.

Just as moon is the source of energy and beauty of the kumuda, means red lotus floating at night. Generally sun helps the lotus and the moon helps that red flowers that we find in the tank, that is kumuda, which flourishes by the moonlight. And that is of red colour. And the lotus, this lily, that gets energy from the sunlight.

But here is rays from the moon but kuvala is Padma. Praphullita habe niśi-dine. Because he wants, the demand is not only at night or daytime, but both day and night. So this time the moon taken perhaps the principle necessity is night for this mādhurya-rasa. So moon take the night sustaining agency and here also mentioned not kumuda but kuvalaya means a type of lotus, might have meant a particular type. Praphullita habe niśi-dine. That will be encouraged and sustained both day and night by the ray of that beautiful figure, colour, movement of Rūpa Goswāmī. That will inspire me day and night in the service of Kṛṣṇa camp. Praphullita habe niśi-dine.

Then comes another stage, tuyā adarśana ahi garale jarala dehi, as if after attaining this, as if it is my own property. I have attained this. I shudder to lose it again. I may not retain my position here. That apprehension comes. Tuyā adarśana ahi garale jarala dehi, so long I am dispossessed of such association I can't tolerate any longer. After attaining he thinks 'it is my own home. And why I was forced to remain out of my home.' And he's shuddering, 'if I again be separated I couldn't be able to tolerate. Tuyā adarśana ahi garale jarala dehi, your separation like a serpent bit me and I, whole of my life peace is feeling the pain of the serpent poison. And that is your separation. Tuyā adarśana ahi garale jarala dehi. The whole world is feeling the uneasiness of serpent, the snake-bite poison. Tuyā adarśana ahi garale jarala dehi. Cira-dina tāpita jīvana. And for long time I am undergoing this sort of pang of separation of you my lady, lord, lady, master, mistress. Tāpita jīvana. Hā hā prabhu kara dayā deha more pada-chāyā, narottama laila śaraṇa. Now I again come to your feet. Please grant me a permanent service in your camp. Kara dayā deha more pada-chāyā. I am taking refuge under you. I have no other alternative. I fully surrender to you, and you should give me permanent service in your camp. Without that it is not possible to go on with my life [?]"

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...enemy to his own self, treachery, suicide, ātmā-ha [?]

He was working there in the railway at that time and we lived in his quarter. And his wife is also a girl of this Navadvīpa town nearby, very near to Kṛṣṇa Mayee's house, brāhmaṇa family. His father-in-law was also, had much affection for me. He lost his wife, he was not here but lost a child in his or her young age, and she was almost half-mad. And his sober father to save her from madness, for too much lamentation for her child, he took her to me to hear about Bhāgavatam, and these things. And she was very sincerely following my advices at that point, at that time. Then after a long time, few years ago, they came to take initiation from me, old friend. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

And that is my tie, attraction, they’re not allowing me to go to Vṛndāvana.”

But anyhow, Sanātana Goswāmī tore off that affectionate tie and marched towards Vṛndāvana to meet Śrī Caitanya Deva and met Him at Benares when coming back from Vṛndāvana. And for two months Caitanya Deva was detained in Benares to teach the very purpose of the Bhāgavatam and other scriptures. So much so that He asked him to prepare the proper scriptures of the Vaiṣṇava section propounded by Him. This Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, then this Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛtam, Vaiṣṇava-toṣaṇī-tikā in Bhāgavatam, tipanī. Very fine note of highest type given to Bhāgavatam darśana by Sanātana Goswāmī.

We get from his commentary that Vasudeva took his son to Nanda-rajā, but at that time one son and one daughter already there. And Vasudeva’s son entered into the son of Nanda, unconscious of, without the knowledge of Vasudeva. And Vasudeva could see only that daughter and he took the daughter to Mathurā from Vṛndāvana, from Gokula. It is his finding from different śāstra, he has proved that it cannot but be that Nanda had also a son there. And Vasudeva’s son was absorbed by him, by that child.

Baladeva also having rasa līlā. But Sanātana Goswāmī's finding from different siddhānta the Baladeva rasa līlā it is reserved for Kṛṣṇa only. So Baladeva externally He's found to make rasa līlā; at heart He's managing Kṛṣṇa to make the rasa at His heart. These are very fine conclusions of the scriptures, drawn from different scriptures, we get from Sanātana Goswāmī. Baladeva is not making rasa līlā Himself. It is monopoly of Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. But externally we see that He's doing, He's not doing in His heart, He's aloof. In His heart He's making arrangement for Kṛṣṇa, for this rasa-līlā.

Just as Gurudeva, apparently Gurudeva is seen to accept things from the disciples. But really whatever he gets he sends it upward, transparent Guru. And there is opaque Guru. They collect money and consumes themselves and then they are caught. But transparent Guru whatever comes goes upward, and he's clear, always transparent; mediator. He's all-conscious that this is for my Gurudeva, for my Lord, not for mine. I am the mediator. That is the position of real Guru, transparent. Īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ [Īśopaniṣad, 1] He's always settled in such consciousness. Īśāvāsyam, everything for Kṛṣṇa.

And Vaiṣṇava also, but the Vaiṣṇava also does that. Vaiṣṇava he does not want anything for him, everything belongs to Him. But because I am to serve Him, so something for my own keep-up I can take as prasādam, grant from Him. If I do not do that, then also there will be some obstacle, hindrance in the service. I'll be in the wrong path, so, yuktāhāra-vihārasya, [yukta-ceṣṭasya karmasu yukta-svapnāvabodhasya, yogo bhavati duḥkha-hā]

[“For a person who eats, relaxes, and exerts himself in all duties in a regulated way, and who keeps regular hours in proper measure, the practice of yoga gradually becomes the source of dispelling all worldly suffering.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.17]

prāpañcikatayā buddhyā, hari-sambandhi-vastunaḥ mumukṣubhiḥ parityāgo, vairāgyaṁ phalgu kathyate.

That exclusive renunciation, that is bad. The liberationists they adore that thing very much, but devotees, because their life has got some value they want to serve, so to render the proper service whatever is necessary he takes that from the fund of the king. If he does not do so he will be weak. He will not be able to render proper service. Then he will be punishable. So he must take what is necessary to up-keep himself so that he may render maximum service to the Lord. That adjustment we must accept in our life, yuktāhāra-vihārasya, not phālgu-vairāgya. Extreme abnegation is not accepted in Vaiṣṇava school. [?] Proper adjustment. The object of life is to render maximum service, proper service. Brain work, a higher diet. Ordinary physical labour, then this sak, vegetable diet may be necessary to some extent, such adjustment. Of course, a sādhaka when he's trying to enter - and who is settled, whatever he does, that is all right. And who is going to be settled it is direction for them; sādhaka.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and Vidura is absent. Vidura's wife she was taking bath at the time. When she could know that Kṛṣṇa has come in her house, Vidura is absent, she was also a devotee of high type, she forgets herself in her ecstasy that Kṛṣṇa has come here to my house, my husband. She came undressed, naked. She does not know that she has come naked. She does not know that she has come naked. Kṛṣṇa threw His utariya, the sheet to her body. Then anyhow she managed to cover her body and came and whatever she tried to after making Kṛṣṇa to sit in as comfortable position possible. Then she went to find what was in her house that she can feed Kṛṣṇa. So found there is two or three plantains, few plantains, fruits. She took them and she's removing the cover and the fruit is missed, leaving the fruit the cover is put into the mouth of Kṛṣṇa, and Kṛṣṇa He's eating that.

And just at that time Devarṣi Nārada and Vidura, both of them was present there. Nārada says, "What are you doing?"

Vidura says, "What are you doing? The fruit is missed and the cover you are putting." Then Vidura was very much repentant, "What are you doing?"

Then Nārada came to the relief of Vidura's wife. "But that she is dispossessed of her consciousness, so ecstatic joy she has found by the visit of desired wealth. But what is this, why Kṛṣṇa is taking that?" Nārada put the charge to Kṛṣṇa. "She's mad, she's outside herself. She's doing madly something, lost her consciousness. But Kṛṣṇa is all-conscious, why He's swallowing all those covers of plantains so?"

Then Kṛṣṇa answered, "Nārada, neither I am eating the fruit nor the cover. I am accepting her devotion."

Bhāva-grāhī-janārdanaḥ. So what the devotee offers to Him, to the Deity, the material aspect may not be seen acceptable always. But the bhāva, the feeling that arises in the heart of the worshipper, that goes to satisfy the Lord. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jīva Goswāmī has criticized all the grammarians. [?] If not connecting with Kṛṣṇa then [?] means the cry of crows.

Devotee: Crows conversation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] will only create wound, injury. Everything if it is connected with Kṛṣṇa, that is all right. That Bhāgavatam śloka.

na yad vacaś citra-padam harer yaśo, jagat-pavitraṁ pragṇīta karhicit *tad dhvāṅkṣa-tīrthaṁ na tu haṁsa-sevitaṁ, yatrācyutas tatra hi sādhave

'malāḥ*

[“Those words that do not describe the glories of the Lord, who alone can sanctify the atmosphere of the whole universe, are considered to be like unto a place of pilgrimage for crows, and are never resorted to by those situated in transcendental knowledge. The pure and saintly devotees take interest only in topics glorifying the infallible Supreme Lord.”]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.12.51]

tad vāg-visargo janatāgha-samplavo, yasmin prati-ślokaṁ abaddhavyat api nāmāny anantasya yaśo 'ñkitāni yat, śṛṇvanti gāyanti grṇanti sādhavaḥ

[“On the other hand, that literature which is full of descriptions of the transcendental glories of the name, fame, forms, pastimes and so on of the unlimited Supreme Lord is a different creation, full of transcendental words directed toward bringing about a revolution in the impious lives of this world’s misdirected civilization. Such transcendental literatures, even though imperfectly composed, are heard, sung and accepted by purified men who are thoroughly honest.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.12.52]

Whatever is connected with Kṛṣṇa that is all right. Externally, apparently it may seem to be defective, but the subject matter, the object, the real connection with Kṛṣṇa. And what is without connection of Kṛṣṇa apparently it may be very beautiful and very good but that is all impure. There is only one thing, one criterion we are to follow. We are to understand, to realize how it is. Kṛṣṇa connection only, exclusively, Kṛṣṇa connection is beneficial and one thing may be, in all other respects may be good, but if Kṛṣṇa is absent it is all dead thing.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Satyam, śivam, sundaram.

Satyam bhriyat, priyam bhriyat, na bhriyat. When I came to find this śloka then I was perplexed. Then I was a student of a school, class six or seven. Satyam bhriyat. One of our teachers told, satyam bhriyat, say truth always, tell truth always. Priyam bhriyat, and tell what is pleasing; speak truth, speak pleasing, satyam bhriyat. Na bhriyat satyam apriyam, don't tell truth if not pleasing. I got some push there, what is this? If it is unpleasant, truth should not be spoken. Then truth is limited here, it must be pleasing. I had a check.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... This is the real conception of sanātana-dharma. Tell truth, tell pleasing, never tell truth which is not pleasing, and neither you will talk pleasing what is not true. Satyam bhriyat, priyam bhriyat, na bhriyat satyam apriyam. Priyam ca mam etam bhriyat kesa dharma sanatana [?] Unnecessarily don't give any pain to any person, that is the underlying. And also the higher underlying principle is that above truth there is something else, so-called truth. Absolute truth is there. The truth of your conception is not to be followed always. All relative. So try, and real truth is always pleasing at the same time. Sat-cit-ānandam, real truth is inseparably connected with ānandam. Try to find out that. So this formal truth in this world is not truth proper. What we come across generally in the name of truth that is not the real conception of truth.

Rāmacandra followed the line of that moral truth, but Kṛṣṇa did not care for that. He was encouraging Yudhiṣṭhira, "Oh say lie, tell lie to Droṇācārya." Dāsaratha banished Rāmacandra but Vasudeva he did not obey, he did not keep his own word to Kāṁsa. He's stealing Kṛṣṇa to [?] but he was avowed, "That whatever child Devakī will produce I shall take it to you." He was committed already to Kāṁsa but he broke that moral law and took Kṛṣṇa to [?] But on the other hand Rāmacandra had to go to the forest because Dāsaratha could not refuse to his wife whom he already promised that he will give some, whatever she will ask he will sanction. He could not withdraw from his promise. He fainted. So in Kṛṣṇa conception we are taught that ordinary truth which is in vogue in this phenomenal world, that has got not much value. That may be crossed.

*sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ [vraja ahaṁ tvām
sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]*

[“Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

“When this worldly truth and Myself is opposite party, leave the truth, come to Myself. Truth is My creation. I am ānandam.”

That is the supreme position, holds. Truth, cit and sat, they are rather absorbed in ānandam. Ānanda is the real integer, ānandam, harmony, beauty. And they’re [?] the eternal existence and also consciousness of the existence that is subsidiary to ecstasy, to ānandam. Fulfilment, sat-cit-ānandam. Satyam, śivam, sundaram. Satya, śivam as consciousness, that is more important, that has got two phases existence and self-consciousness. But the consciousness hankering something. But in sundaram, in ānandam, it is full in itself. It is already consciousness and existence already presupposed, it is within. And there not full, mere existence is not appreciable. Conscious existence that is also not appreciable. Consciousness means searching for some time. But ānandam, there is existence, consciousness, as well as fulfilment. Reality is for itself.

Gaura Hari bol. Nītāi Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja there is one general statement, what is the meaning?

Neha nānāsti kimcana. [Kāṭha Upaniṣad, part 4, mantra 11]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...Then another line. Neha nānāsti kimcana.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given three...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But all, there is unity, there is harmony underlying everything. Apparently it is separate existence. But internal connection has connected them all into one whole, organic whole. The eye is there, and the nose is there, the feet, nail is there, but they are not separately independent things. They are connected to one organization.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ekatma vṛitiya [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahāprabhu's interpretation to that, He told Sārvabhauma.

I also heard from one professor when I was a college student, neha nānāsti kimcana. If there is not nāna - the Śaṅkarācārya he accepts the meaning in a particular way, neha nānāsti kimcana. Veda says that these polarity, polarity is absent. So only one unit, Brahman, ekatma vṛitiya [?]

But Mahāprabhu says if nāna is not there then how the question arises to say that there is nāna. So plurality is there, diversity is there. And still you are to understand that there is unity behind them. They are not separately independent. That will be the meaning.

So sarvaṁ khalv idaṁ brahma: all what we see that is Brahman. What does it mean?

Śaṅkarācārya says, “Only Brahman and what we see that is non-existent.”

Then Mahāprabhu says, “Partially you are accepting Veda. Sarvaṁ is also there. So you cannot say that there is not sarvaṁ. Sarvaṁ is also to be accepted and Brahman accepted. Nāna is accepted, and it is not nāna, that is also accepted. Both sides should be accepted. If it is not, then no question of coming to say such, to preach. So sarvaṁ khalv idaṁ brahma, neha nānāsti kiṁcana, tat tvam asi, tat also there, tvam also there, otherwise no necessity of giving such statement if it is not existing. Then to whom do we speak?

When I gave such interpretation in Badrinārāyaṇa, a temple, one advocate of Bombay, a Gujarati man, he appreciated very much. He was a follower of Śaṅkara. “What you say we can’t deny this.”

So Mahāprabhu says, “Yes, Śaṅkara has accepted partially.” And the full thing has been accepted by Mahāprabhu [?] Then also, Brahman.

*yato vā imāni bhūtāni jāyante, yena jātāni jīvanti yat prayanty
abhiṣamviśanti, tad brahma tad vijijñāsa*

From which everything is coming, who is sustaining everything, again everything is entering in whom that is Brahman. Mahāprabhu says that this is not nirviśeṣa. There's so many significance in Brahman, everything is coming so He's the source. Then when it has come He's also sustaining. That is also viśiṣṭa, specification, particularity. And again entering and remaining in Him. So [?] and all these [?] this is viśiṣṭa, so not nirviśeṣa, not inert. So many signs of movement it is there.

... Chandrodaya Maṭha, after the departure of Swāmī Mahārāja. He told, "I come with heavy heart. So long we used to come with happy heart, but now with heavy heart." He was reminding me of that day. [?] also, we know that Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja has left this world. We would like to remember his life and activities as much as possible. [?]

About nineteen thirty, nineteen twenty six, or so I met him, I joined Gauḍīya Maṭha and shortly found him. He returned from a preaching tour with Bhāratī Mahārāja at that time. Young and smart, beautiful, jolly, and very firm in his principles, especially towards nāma bhajana. High family also he came from, respectable high family, from Dacca, Mansiranja [?] at present that is within Bangladesa. At that time it was all in British India, Bengal.

Next I saw him, he came with a preaching party from the west, that is west India, western parts of India with Bon Mahārāja, [?], he came. Anyhow some natural friendship grew between us, perhaps of similar high social rank, and similar education, similar simplicity and earnestness, or Kṛṣṇa consciousness, took us together, intimately, gradually. Closer connection with him I had about later part of [nineteen] twenty seven in New Delhi. For a few weeks we were allowed to work together there in New Delhi and intimacy grew more.

Then next, about twenty eight, twenty nine, thirty, twenty nine, or so, he was in Balihati in Bengal in a village Maṭha going on with his nāma bhajana. I requested Prabhupāda, "That he's educated young man. His service may be very useful in present New Delhi preaching affairs. If you allow, I may ask him to come and join me in my activity.” I was then Maṭha commander of New Delhi and through me the Maṭha was founded there in New Delhi.

Prabhupāda gladly gave his consent. “That if you can take him, and engage him in preaching service of Mahāprabhu, then you will do the work of a great, real friend to him.”

And then Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, then Sādhikā Rāmānda [?] Brahmācārī he went to me in New Delhi. And long time we had very intimate friendship, friendly connection we worked together. He had much appreciation for me, and I also had appreciation for him, in his sincere search after Kṛṣṇa consciousness. But his nature was more of a śāstric nature, scriptural nature. What he found to be the advice of the scriptures he tried his best to adhere to that. But about the application of scriptural advices into practical life, as our Guru Mahārāja wanted us to do, there he was little miserly. Tāra madhye sarvva-śreṣṭha nāma-saṅkīrtana.

[bhajanera madhye śreṣṭha nava-vidhā bhakti, `kṛṣṇa-prema,' `kṛṣṇa' dite dhare mahā-śakti tāra madhye sarvva-śreṣṭha nāma-saṅkīrtana, niraparādhe nāma laile pāya prema-dhana]

[“Of all forms of Divine Service, nine forms are superior, which with great potency bestow upon the devotees Love for Kṛṣṇa, and their personal relationship with Him; and of the nine, the best is Nāma-saṅkīrtana. By offencelessly taking the Holy Name, the treasure of Love for the Lord is attained.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.70-1]

It is clear scriptural advice of Mahāprabhu, he tried his best to stick to that. And almost to his last days, pure character, moral, social, educational, from different directions he was a very good man and a very strict, firm in his practice, very sincere, and very jolly. And satisfied under any circumstances always he tried to be.

When there was differences amongst the trustees in some way or other and we could not stay in the mission, I left the mission, he also did at the same time. I went to Vṛndāvana and after staying there for a month I came back here to live permanently by the grace of Nityānanda and Mahāprabhu. And he finally decided to live in Nandagram at that very time. Both retired from the missionary life and I chose this place for the last days of my life and he chose Nandagram. There is one Nandavagicar, little far off from Nandagram towards Yavata, Kadamkandi, Nandavagicar.

He wrote a letter from there to me. I found in his language that he's very much satisfied, full satisfaction he has attained in his present life. It was very conspicuous to me that he's now very happy, fully surrendered. What he searched after he has got that and is fully satisfied, I found from his letter. I was then also here in a rented house, two rupees a month, and living alone, I got his letter. That is not much.

But after a long time, only a few days ago, two or three years ago, suddenly he told, "That in my whole life I had the greatest satisfaction, real satisfaction when I lived in Nandavagicar."

That was nineteen forty, forty or forty one, beginning. So after so many years of his bhajana, he appreciated his, that life, that life of highest satisfaction, Nandavagicar. And I could detect from here that how he's in full satisfaction in his life. I could feel śuddha-sattva, completely surrendered, detached from, and wholly dependent on Kṛṣṇa. The life wholly dependent on Kṛṣṇa's will. No worry, no aims and objects of life, fully vacant, only for Kṛṣṇa to approach, to come to approach fully prepared for that. No prejudice, even the prejudice and thoughts and suggestions for the design of ones own to acquire Kṛṣṇa consciousness, even not that. Fully surrendered. ‘Whatever He likes He may do, I’m prepared for that.’ Such attitude.

Generally we find in scripture the śaraṇāgati, the surrender is the basis, is the foundation on which so many variegated structures may be constructed for the service of Kṛṣṇa. It is generally. But it is also mentioned there, if one had noted, a remarkable thing. That only śaraṇāgati can give everything without taking any form of devotional tendency, inner śaraṇāgati. That reminded me about that type of śaraṇāgati.

It is also mentioned perhaps in my Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam. Śaraṇāgati can give us the highest desired result. Without śravaṇa, kīrtana, smaraṇa, vandana, and so other forms, mere śaraṇāgati. Śaraṇāgati means surrender. There are different types of surrender. The very quality of surrender, if we can examine closely, we may find the element there, even of rasa, different rasa. Highest type of śaraṇāgati is possible in the highest type of rasa service, that is mādhurya rasa. Mādhurya rasa has been accepted to be the, to open up fullest śaraṇāgati. Every atom of ones spiritual body cries for the corresponding atoms of the spiritual body of the Lord, which is not possible in any other rasa.

In Bengali verse of the greatest devotees, [In Jñāna Dāsa’s Vaiṣṇava-padāvalī] prati aṅga lāge kānde prati aṅga mora.

“Every part of my limb, every limb is crying for the corresponding part of the limb of the Lord.”

The śaraṇāgati preparedness for any sort of autocratic service of the Lord. No rhyme, no reason, no room for any aspiration, good, bad, śaraṇāgati. So mere śaraṇāgati proper can satisfy our desired end.

So Bābājī Mahārāja, that idea of surrendered life beginning in Nandagram, Nandavagicar, and he expressed in that letter, “I feel very much happy that I have taken the right course and right position in my life, exclusively given, surrendered at the sweet will of the Lord, I am so.”

And so many years passed, so many nights of Ekādaśī he has kept awake and went on with his nāma bhajana, śāstric bhajana, all these things. He deeply engaged himself in only religious forms of bhajana. But his remark that, “I felt highest blissfulness in my life when I was in Nandavagicar at that time at the beginning of nineteen forty one.”

Śaraṇāgati. He was fond of sākhya rasa though he used to read all types of śāstra, rasa of all types. And he used to hear the kīrtana, the representation, even including those of sahajiyā kīrtana. But they could not make him sahajiyā though he attended sahajiyā school. So firm his faith was in Kṛṣṇa consciousness proper.

yaḥ kaumāra-haraḥ sa eva hi varas tā eva caitra-kṣapās [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 1.78] Mahāprabhu says:

vana dekhi' bhrama haya – ei 'vṛndāvana', śaila dekhi' mane haya – [ei 'govardhana']

[“When Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu passed through the Jhārikhaṇḍa forest, He took it for granted that it was Vṛndāvana. When He passed over the hills, He took it for granted that they were Govardhana.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 17.55]

Whose aim is firmly established, whose earnest, is very sincere for the realization of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, his associations with objectionable things in our consideration cannot attract him in the black way, but gives some contribution towards his own direction.

Mahāprabhu says about Nityānanda Prabhu,

Yadani nityananda dari tatapi brahma kohina tomari [?]

“If Nityānanda Prabhu is seen to visit the house of a wine shop keeper, and seen to enter the house of a prostitute, still you must know for certain that He’s to be, He’s worshipping of Brahmā and Śiva himself. If He goes there, not to take anything, but to give those fallen souls, to deliver them from their present position, He’s going, not to take anything from them.”

So Kṛṣṇa dāsa Bābājī though he mixed, apparently, with the so-called sahajiyā section, but he did not deviate from the principle, real conception of Kṛṣṇa consciousness of the Ācārya of the Gauḍīya Maṭha, what he came to give to us.

Lastly also with firmness he, we see him to stick to his firm faith. And that Nandagram, Param sarovara and there the bhajana kuṭīra of Sanātana Goswāmī, he made his shelter there, final selection. And from the visible world to the invisible, he entered surely in the invisible aspect of Vṛndāvana.

And he told plainly he had much attraction for sākhya rasa. Subala, he’s leader, he’s considered leader, his next guide as Subala, who had some connection with mādhurya rasa. Amongst all the friends of Kṛṣṇa, Subal is considered to be the highest for his intimate connection with mādhurya rasa. So he considered his guide in the form of Subal.

He had a very liberal heart and he used to mix with all the contending parties of Gauḍīya Maṭha at that present. He almost went everywhere. And with his smiling face he used to mix and associate. But still he had some special attraction for some special quarter. He was an intimate friend of mine as I told already. And he had much appreciation specially for my poems, Sanskrit poems. I asked him once, “Why you have got such special affection for me?”

“With your poems, is the cause for that. I’m captured by the ideal, by the language, by the style of your poems.”

He was very strict, and not a man who will by the pressure of the circumstances, who will submit to anyone and everyone, not of that type. That was also one of his characteristics, of his nature. So he used to sing the poems of the Goswāmīns about Kṛṣṇa līlā, not ordinary, selected.

But his affection was so much towards me that he used to chant in the night of Ekādaśī and here, there, everywhere. He preferred to chant the most modern śloka of mine. So in heart-to-heart relation he was very intimate to me. And anyhow, today’s function is also showing something like that. It was not pre-designed. But anyhow I’m entangled with some such function in his connection by divine arrangement, divine arrangement. So our connection was something above the conscious area of our experience, with causeless connection. In many other ways also we had many common things. Sometimes I might have dealt with him in a rough way also. But he did not mind that. His friendship for me was so deep he did not care. Such happenings also took place here. So today I pray to him, whatever wrong I might have done about him he may forgive them all and accept me as his sincere friend, with the help of you all. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

It has been broadly advertised, that if we can sing in praise of the Vaiṣṇava, then we can have higher promotion in the line of devotion. It is easy to praise the songs or poems written about the Supreme Lord. But it is difficult to praise, to be able to praise really the servitors of the Absolute. The possibility of jealousy, matsarata, comes to interfere. “He is a man, I am of similar, same status. Why should I submit to him?” This sort of pratiṣṭhā, egoism, opposes, hinders us, to call a spade a spade, so nirmatsarāṇām satām. [From Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2]

The Lord also says, “If you are My devotee you are not real devotee of Mine. But if you are devotee of My devotee, you are My real devotee.”

The jealousy has got a test there, nirmatsarāṇām satām. We may not have naturally any competitive position in comparison with the Supreme Lord; but a competitive superiority complex possibly comes in the case of a Vaiṣṇava. ‘I can’t submit to them. It is difficult.’ But when we are really captured and conquered by the svarūpa-śakti, Yoga-māyā of Kṛṣṇa, then this realistic view comes within us. And so much so, with the improvement of his own purification, his own progress...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and I am nothing, and it grows infinitely. I am nothing but he’s everything. He’s a Vaiṣṇava, Guru, Vaiṣṇava, they really hold Kṛṣṇa bhakti. They are stockist but I am empty handed, I have nothing. This is the nature of the association of the finite of Infinite. As much as we shall have real approach towards Infinite so much so we cannot but consider us to be the meanest of the mean. The standard, the measurement is in this way in Vaiṣṇava culture. And it is not lip deep but sincere feeling of the inner most heart. Inner most heart.

Kavirāja Goswāmī when he says, purīṣera kīṭa haite muñi sei laghiṣṭha ["I am so mean, lower even than the worm in stool."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.205] this is not mere imitation, it is his heart felt truth.

But some difference in ācārya-abhimāna, that is of another type. That is assertion only for the service of Vaiṣṇava. The sincerity is maintained there. His assertion, not assertion, not selfish assertion, but his assertion is only to save the public and to save the prestige of the Vaiṣṇava in reality. So that is proper adjustment with reality. In two fold senses. To establish the real position of a Vaiṣṇava, and at the same time to save the ordinary person from committing the false attempt or false thought. To save him from that danger, from reaction. So that sort of assertion, that is not egoistic, rather that is sacrifice in the dynamic sense, we are to consider.

So, our Guru Mahārāja in Viśva-Vaiṣṇava-Rāja-Sabhā, he tactfully managed in this way, he asked one of his disciples to speak something in praise of another disciple. Guṇa gana [?] appreciation. And especially who were, his disciples who were little antagonistic. He asked particularly him, "Speak something in praise of your friend." And what for? Try to mark the bright side, the svarūpa, and the apparent side try to ignore. When he asked, "You try to say something in praise of your friend, whom you consider to be your opponent, apparently." Ordered: necessity is the mother of invention, he had to speak something in praise, so he had to dive deep into the bright side of the person and to bring out that. Thereby the Vaiṣṇava they're giving and taking, that being aroused, and the apparent, the māyāic side is ignoring, going down.

So thereby also, just as kīrtana. Kīrtana is powerful why? When I'm requested to speak something I must have to speak. I cannot but utilize my highest, best attention to speak something. I'm to attempt, to assert in the attempt of my best ability to speak something, to gather something. So also in the case of Vaiṣṇava, as in the case of Lord, the Vaiṣṇava. The svarūpa, the inner side, inner aspect, the bright side, and ignore the apparent side, and there you will thrive. There the real relationship amongst them will be roused, will be awakened. So it was his practice for Guru Mahārāja, especial in Viśva-Vaiṣṇava-Rāja-Sabhā. In Mahāprabhu's dhāma, one and same area it has its seat and there his method was such. Try to praise Vaiṣṇava. So to appreciate the nobility of a Vaiṣṇava it is difficult, and if we can do so then we can reach a standard of devotion, dedication, to certain extent.

So it is said, "Who loves Me does not love Me really. But who loves My devotees, My servitors, his love for Me is more real, is true, absolute character."

So the Vaiṣṇava we shall try to appreciate their trait, their conduct, and thereby we can raise the standard of our own life of dedication. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

ye yatha patita haya, tava dayā tata tāya, [tāte āmi supātra dayāra]

[Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Gītamālā, Yāmuna-bhāvāvali, 19]

“Your grace is in accordance to the necessity of those that deserve really. Tāte āmi supātra dayāra.” Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, “In that consideration, I have got some claim. I am fallen of the fallen, the most fallen, so I have got some claim over Your grace.”

That should be the attitude of the servitors, a negative side. Improve the negative side, ‘I am the most deserving, meanest of the mean, poorest of the poor.’ We are to increase, develop our knowledge towards that side, ‘that I am so low, so needy, so mean from all respects.’ That consciousness will draw Him towards you, and not that the mass collected energy, the mass of energy, and neither to know Him, jñāna, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19- 167] that, “I can know You. I can measure You.” That is impossible, wild goose chasing. To try to know Him, Bhāgavata declares that is wild goose chasing. You can never know Him.

Uchatistha das aṅgulaṁ [?] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.9.16, ?]

As much as you reach the boundary of your knowledge, He will be found transcending them. None can bind Him. That was shown in the attempt of Yaśodā. It was shown through Her attempt when She went to bind Kṛṣṇa around His waist, Dāmodara, two fingers less. This is inconceivable. Yaśodā trying to bind the waist of Her child, and the rope She’s taking and when She’s trying to bind only two fingers less. Again She’s adding some rope to that, the same thing is occurring, two fingers less. Again something joining when trying that two fingers.

It is mathematically impossible, naturally, but it is such. The same thing we are to know. We are to think that it is the subjective not objective. These are the examples where we can see the failure of the objective calculation, warning us against the objective calculation. “Don’t go to calculate in the objective process when it is concerned with the transcendental truth.” It is His will. That factor can never be eliminated. That is the real factor. If you approach to calculate about Him, the most realistic thought you must keep in your mind, that it depends on His supreme will, svarāṭ. Artheṣu abhijñāḥ, [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1] these two qualifications. He knows only what is what, and what should be what. It is His monopoly, within His fist. You may conjecture, you may suppose, you send so many alternatives in your mind, but no value. He knows what He will do. And at the same time He’s not under any explanation to anyone, not compelled to give any explanation for His deed.

Artheṣu abhijñāḥ, and svarāṭ. What is what, He only knows the fact, and He's svarāṭ, He's autocrat, absolute. He does not care for the consideration of others. If we approach Him with this sort of mentality and impression we must advance towards that realm. That I am not going, no possibility of placing any demand in Him, no possibility, that I shall put this application, please consider this or that. No possibility. But at the same time we must not forget, that who are really of such temperament, He listens only to the words of that type of devotee. Bhakta-parārdhīno, ahaṁ bhakta-parārdhīno [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63] This also cannot be eliminated. But who is bhakta? Who knows His ways in this way, he's a devotee. He's a devotee. So to become submissive to Him, that is also in other words to keep his own independence. To be submissive to the surrendered soul, that means no submission because he's going to submit to a person who is fully His. So in other words He's always independent.

But He says, "I am subservient. I am work under the direction of My devotee."

But who are the devotees? Who have cent per cent surrendered to Him, to His sweet will. Then in other words He's independent as He is. They have not their independent wishes, as if. But still for the līlā it is designed by Yoga-māyā. In different rāsa we may see as the devotee and the Lord they are going opposite sides.

Just as Kṛṣṇa wants to steal and Yaśodā won't allow Him to steal. And she's giving punishment. Apparently it seems that it is opposite forces are going to opposite direction, but there is Yoga-māyā. In some way or other it is Kṛṣṇa's will to play like that.

Just as the director of a drama he's teaching his men, 'you must say like this and I shall oppose.'

So līlā means that. One point, everything moving to one point so the harmony is not disturbed. This is līlā. Līlā means no reason; which has got no reason, līlā. No reason and rhyme, spontaneous, no explanation for that to anyone. Dynamic existence which is dynamic in character, that is līlā. Not fossil, but just the opposite, that is līlā. And that is the nature of rasa or ānanda, ānanda or rasa, the beauty, the charm, that is such. His nature is such.

And only the trouble with māyā, that disconnected with that original flow, that is māyā. And we are under that potency. Just as the disease like the madness, insanity, is devoid of its own property, its own wealth, that is māyā. Mā yā, what is not that, mryate anyat, separate interest that is the cause.

Dvītiyābhiniveśataḥ syād [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.37] The experts in this department they say that separate interest consciousness, that is the root of all disturbance. Everything is all right, but spirit of separatism, that is responsible for the whole anomaly. Bhayaṁ dvītiyābhiniveśataḥ syād. I can thrive individually, to ignore the collective life, and to try for separate interest. That fine point, that has been told to be responsible for all these disturbances, that fine point. I wanted to seek my own pleasure separating myself from that of collective consideration. Bhayaṁ dvītiyābhiniveśataḥ syād. Īśād apetasya viparyyayo 'smṛtiḥ. The next point, īśād apetasya, deviation from master consideration, that I have got my guardian. First, self interest, and then next, deviation from guardian consciousness, next stage. That I have got my master, I have got my guardian, to come out of that consciousness, the next stage, īśād apetasya. I am my own guardian, separate interest means it comes to such. In collective life common guardian, separate interest, I am my own guardian, īśād apetasya, disturbance in the second layer.

Then, tan-māyayāto. Why it is so? Because I am taṭasthā, marginal, the other side there is māyā. Anyhow that influence has captured my weak decisive faculty, anu-caitanya, satanta. But without my cooperation the māyāic transaction is impossible. So, my consent was necessary, like a minor child. With this consent of the minor the guardian can do anything and everything. Minority, infinitesimal character, that was inherent in me, and so this error. Tan-māyayāto budha ābhajet taṁ. Because Māyā is not independent, She's also, have to work under the guidance of the supreme authority. So don't go to Māyā, but go He who is the master of Māyā. Tan-māyayāto budha ābhajet tam.

Though māyā is coming to take charge of him out of his weak consenting cooperation, but still the budha, means sumeda, they will go for the relief towards the master of māyā and not the māyā. That is the finding of Bhāgavatam. Tan-māyayāto, tasya māyā. Māyā is not the highest entity. Māyā has got also master. So when the reaction came in you for your bad deed, then you are to file appeal to the supreme authority and not to māyā. In Bhagavad-gītā also,

daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī, mama māyā duratyayā / mām eva ye prapadyante, māyām etāṁ taranti te

["This 'trimodal,' supernatural, (alluring) deluding energy of Mine is practically insurmountable. However, those who fully surrender exclusively unto Me can certainly surpass this formidable fantasy."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 7.14]

Māyā is troubling them, misunderstanding. But misunderstanding itself cannot get you relief, cannot give you relief, the cause of misunderstanding. He can only give you relief.

"So don't go to that side, come to Me. By My instruction that māyā will leave you. She's more powerful than yourself, Daivī, and has got higher backing, she has got higher backing. So you must try to seek your relief from the higher office, and not approach direct to māyā. That will not be helpful to you. If a slight backing of Me you can acquire, easily you will be able to get out of that māyā.”

This is the instruction by the higher authorities to us. Misunderstanding is there, but it is not very powerful, it has got not its own support. Not independent, it is also dependent on truth. Truth has got the better constant position and not misunderstanding. So your transaction should be always with the truth, with the positive. And what is positive truth? Sat cit ānandam, that is the characteristic. Unassailable existence, then self consciousness, and then fulfilment. Fulfilment in itself.

In Hegalian philosophy, unassailable existence, that means ‘By Itself and For Itself.’ The other, in the middle the conscious element is suppressed there. Sat cit ānandam, self consciousness. He feels that he is. Stone existence may not feel its own existence. Stone may not know that he’s existing. But soul knows that he has got his existence, caitan. But it is not perfect, with some want, some demand, hankering for some higher life, that is caitan, cit, sat cit ānandam. Ānanda, or rasa, that is beauty, harmony, love. That is the conception of the fullest integer, having existence, consciousness, as well as fulfilment. Not only hankering, not only knowing, but for which to know, which to hanker, that is there, ānandam, sat cit ānandam. Ānandam and sundaram synonymous.

So I saw that some of the European philosophers they have translated this ānandam as beauty. Reality the beautiful and that we find very nearer conception of Kṛṣṇa. If I remember, the philosopher Martineau, who was a very good linguist also, very good, very styled, high styled poet. He has given ‘The Reality the Beautiful,’ the ultimate thing is reality the beautiful, the beauty.

Just as Wordsworth says, eye beauty and ear beauty. In poetry of Wordsworth he's describing about a girl of his dream, perhaps Lucy Gray or someone. He writes there, "She was a village girl. There was a brook, river by the side of their village." He said that, "The jingling sound of the brook contributed to her beauty." That was his version, and many tried to give some interpretation there.

But one Bengali scholar, Harinath De, who was master of thirty two languages in the world, a good scholar but he did not live longer, Harinatha De. He gave the interpretation that 'ear beauty contributed to eye beauty.' His explanation was very taking to me. The ear beauty, the sounds, beautiful sounds helped to his physical beauty of appearance, that girl. That means ear beauty, sweet sound, contributed to eye beauty.

So Reality the Beautiful. The beauty in the broadest sense, eye beauty, ear beauty, nose beauty, touch beauty, that ānandam, rasam, in a generalised way. Rasa, ānanda, sundara, another Upaniṣadic word is satyam śivam sundaram. Śiva means maṅgala. Maṅgala, what is the nature, the criterion of maṅgala? Amaṅgala means mortal. Mortal is amaṅgalam, and immortality is śivam, maṅgalam. Śiva means immortal, that means conscious, soul, soul is immortal. So stone is mortal, but soul is immortal. So soul proper is śiva. But soul we see vulnerable, Supersoul that is sundaram, that beauty. That is concrete reality independent and fullest representation of things. All other partial representation of the Absolute. Satyam śivam sundaram. Sundaram, satisfaction, satisfaction. Soul is dissatisfied, and stone no question of satisfaction, only mere existence. But soul dissatisfied, eternal thing, self consciousness, śivam, meant to enjoy, Mahādeva, Śiva. That is free of mortality, change, eternal. But mere eternity, that is not enough. The rasam, sundaram, that can fill up the gap. So sundaram is the object of our quest. Wherever we go, whatever we do, if it is examined properly, then in every movement it will be detected that we are searching after beauty, after fulfilment, after sundara, after rasam.

[Prahlaḍa Mahārāja says: “Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.31]

Externally, and ignorantly, it may be seen that we're in quest of this and that, money, duty, and that sense pleasure, it is some external and partial examination of things. But if it is examined deeply then it must be found that we are eager, we are eagerly searching only for rasam, sundaram, satisfaction for the fullest, not for partial, temporary so called pleasure. So kāma, artha, dharma, they cannot satisfy our inner hankering. Not only mere liberation of the present hankerings, emancipation of the present flickering hankerings, that is also not the goal. It is found by the scholars. Liberation, that is an artificial life, mere liberation for the negative side. Life must have its fulfilment. Everything has got its fulfilment, its necessary position. It is not meant for nothing. Zero cannot be the conclusion of the world, of the whole, but infinite, not zero. So mere liberation, and to be, to stay only as in long, deep slumber, deep sleep, that is destructive, inconclusive. That cannot be the object of creation or object of our existence.

So the other side must be searched, that cīd-vilāsa. And where we can get that? Here by exploitation, and the opposite, that of dedication. Bhakti, dedication, after surrender to the centre. That separatism - that I told, by separate interest, now to give up that separate interest and to enter into undivided family. Dvītīyābhini, to accept the guardian, the guardian ruled family, to enter in there. That has been advised to us. We are to adjust ourselves to live in a family under the guardianship. And we must not be afraid of the direction of the guardianship, but we shall try to...

That we can understand that the life under a guardian, that is the wholesome and healthy one. We may not be enquirer after awful independence. That independence cannot solve the problems we are faced with. The problems we're in the midst of no doubt. The problem apparently may be thought that by independence it may be solved, but it is wrong. The scripture and mahā-jana they come to our help. No! Independence in the present you may think that independence will give you proper satisfaction, satisfaction of your inner heart, but it is wrong. Really, apparently, what is thought by you, that is your enemy, you want to get out of any circumstantial infringement and if you get freedom you'll be happy. This is wrong. The opposite is rather, true. You should try to live in a joint family. You must be accommodating. You must correct your own nature.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is in a harmonious existence not in a separate existence, harmonious. And to have a life in harmony, what is really necessary, that is self surrender. Surrendering. Surrendering is your friend. And aspiration of independence is your enemy. We are to understand this. Which apparently seems to be our friend, this is independence, no, that is your real enemy, and you must learn how to live together. You cannot separate yourself from the environment, it is not possible. That is death, or that is samādhi, or the infinite slumber. That is no life, that is no the answer, that is no solution. You must live with many. You see that you are a part of the whole, and what's disturbing you, that is your spirit of independence, and you must try to save you from the hands of your friends. God save me from my friends, so-called friends. And surrender can only give you relief, and can get you the real higher life. From inner most heart you will be able to understand that.

[“However, a true devotee on the path of renunciation in devotion (yukta-vairāgya) acts exclusively for My transcendental satisfaction. Abandoning attachment and envy, although accepting sense objects with his controlled senses, he attains full contentment of heart.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.64]

In Gītā, Bhagavad-gītā, Kṛṣṇa has hammered over only this rāga-dveṣa. Apathy and sympathy, those two are your enemies. Apathy for something, and sympathy for something, that is your enemy. Be independent of that, those two enemies. And concentrate you towards your guardian, and think that he's not partial. Guardian is not partial. First consideration you must have that.

[bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram] suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā mām śāntim ṛcchati

["I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshipping object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshipping Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

"I am guardian, but I am friendly to you all. Don't go away from this thought. I am your guardian, but at the same time I am your friend. Don't forget this. That is the danger in your whole life. Suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati. Be optimistic; don't be pessimistic. You are good, and all around is bad, and withdrawal from them, that will give you real bliss; don't be so selfish thinking. That is your environment. They should be relied on. They also have goodness in them, so try to adjust yourself."

tat te 'nukampāṁ [susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtāṁ vipākam hṛd-vāg-vapurbbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk]

["One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8]

And especially with the Guardian, Who is at the bottom of all movement and all creation. Have faith in Him, and through Him you approach your environment. Then it will be all right. In Bhāgavatam it is said, sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ

bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ

[“A person advanced in devotional service sees within everything the soul of souls, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Consequently they always see Kṛṣṇa everywhere and in everything. One who is situated on the topmost platform of devotional service is known as an uttama- bhāgavata.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.45]

The highest position is in such a way, we can get. Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam. Whatever we come across, we must see it in the central interest. Not from provincial or local interest. Go straight to the centre. Bhagavad bhāvam, then ātmanaḥ. You try to see the centre everywhere, and then in connection, or through the centre, you come to approach your environment. First go to the centre, and from centre, your relationship with the centre, and then through centre you come to adjust with your paraphernalia. Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam. What is his relation to the centre, and what is my relation to the centre, the calculation of these two, then by this process, I shall ascertain what will be my connection with him. My connection with everyone, everything, will be calculated through the centre. Whatever I see; “O, who is he to the centre, and who am I to the centre, then what will be my relation with him?” Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam. First his relation with the centre, then ātmanaḥ, accordingly, what will be my relationship with him. This must be calculated from the central interest. Not partial, local interest between them. That will be wrong, and that is the root of all evil. These separate relationships; that is not wholesome. Only go straight to see things through the eye of the interest of the centre, and your relationship with the centre.

sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ / bhūtāni bhagavatī ātmany

Vice versa. What is God's relationship to the things, and what is the things relationship with God, and according to that calculation, you come to adjustment with them, with your environment. You are out of danger. But eliminating the central interest, if you want to mix together to get your local benefit satisfied, eliminating Him, then you will be in danger.

yo mām paśyati sarvatra, sarvaṁ ca mayi paśyati tasyāhaṁ na praṇaśyāmi, sa ca me na praṇaśyati

[“For one who sees Me in everything and everything in Me, I do not remain unseen and he also is not unnoticed by Me: he never sways in his thought of Me.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.30]

*Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ /
bhūtāni bhagavatī ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ* . So, environment is not bad.

*na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, [durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ

We’re suffering from misunderstanding, māyā. And that māyā, misunderstanding should be cleared. We shall try to live anywhere and everywhere. All-loving, if we have that deep vision to see Who is at the bottom of all of us; to find Him. To find Him.

This also comes from Upaniṣad. “Try to find out that your circumstance is full of honey; nectar. Don’t try to see the outer cover only, but your sight must be deep enough to see the real position and you will find that everything is like nectar to you.”

Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ. The clarion call coming from the Veda. “Oh, you sons of nectar, amṛtasya putrāḥ, sons of nectar, you attend, listen to my words. Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya. You are really sons of the nectar lake. Why should you be like poison? You are poisonous unit, now you are all trodden to be units of poison, but your real, innate self, you are a drop of nectar ocean. Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ. Awake, arise! Arise to your self-consciousness that you are a drop of the nectar ocean. Try to realise. Your outer cover, the attachment to the cover, of not only outside, but of you also. All covers here, cover-calculator; dive deep into your own self, and as well as in the existence of your environment. Dive deep, and you will find all nectar, and no poison. Poison is a superficial thing in your conception.”

Na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ. Making much of the cover of things, ignoring the substance within, not giving attention to the substance within. All cover- transaction; that is poisonous.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Any question? Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Any question from any side? Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: The beauty that we see in this world, in relationship to the concept of sundaram, Kṛṣṇa is sundaram, and in this world also we something which we find to be beautiful, so what is the connection?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The beautiful in local interest, that is not beauty proper. We are to see like that. The local interest, and the central interest. Beauty for individual or for provincial, that poison. And we are desirous of independence to enjoy that beauty, local beauty. That is the trap. Beauty means for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Everything is for Itself, everything is meant for Him, then that is the real beauty. The nature of real beauty is there which is attractive to Kṛṣṇa. From the central consideration the beauty should be measured, not for local, and that is the danger. That separate consideration of beauty; beauty means what? Object to be enjoyed. To be enjoyed by whom? If by me, then I am gone. Everything meant for Him, and we are to enjoy beauty like that, if possible, we are all right. Whenever we see any beauty, it must come in our minds, “Oh, Kṛṣṇa will be able to enjoy this very much.” That should be our mentality. Mentality should be centre centred, Kṛṣṇa centred. Whatever, “Oh, it will remind me, at once it will remind me that Kṛṣṇa will enjoy it very much, the tasteful; how Kṛṣṇa has enjoyed this curry, I shall enjoy. Subsidiary, dependent, my position is dependent, how Kṛṣṇa has enjoyed this.”

Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ . Next mine, mine should be, how Kṛṣṇa has enjoyed, it may be enjoyed by Kṛṣṇa very well. I must be Kṛṣṇa centred. Then other centre, by any other person, it is a beauty to be enjoyed by some such than Kṛṣṇa, that is also risky, and that will be poison, what to speak of ones own self. Beauty, everything to be enjoyed by Him, it is meant, it is created, it is sustained, and it is meant for Him. This understanding we must reach, and that is in the deepest position, deepest plane. That is nirguṇa, otherwise, superficial, saguṇa. Get out of the saguṇa, the local waves, waves of local interest, that is also to a family, a village, a country, a section, human section, eliminating the beasts and birds, insects. The circle may increase, but it is limited. So nothing less than Kṛṣṇa, and everything should be connected and seen through His interest. Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ.

Accordingly, what my interest will be there. Not any independent friendship with anyone. Everything on Kṛṣṇa's account. Full negotiation, transaction, and future prospect, everything for the centre, for Kṛṣṇa. So, Absolute good. Percolated through Absolute good, everything will come to me. Absolute good. Then all poison eliminated and nectar, mixed with nectar, that will come to me. So, whatever it may be, must come via Kṛṣṇa to me. Or His bona fide servants. Gurudeva, Vaiṣṇava, whose case or cause is inseparable with Kṛṣṇa, we may rely on them. So, anyhow, that must be percolated through Absolute good. Not vulnerable or limited goodness. Absolute good. Via that, through that; all the transactions between the plurality must be checked and sent as prasādam from the centre. That should be the attitude. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. And that is really sweet, and if we can come to that plane, then we can feel that, otherwise, it is a duty, scriptural advice, and something like that. But if we can reach that plane, then our own soul, our own existence will verify for us. That will stand witness for us. The practical life will stand witness, evidence, that it is the best. And without that we cannot live.

Esaba choḍata parāṇa hārāu. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, “The Vṛndāvana, or whatever I see, where they give so much intensified memory in me about Kṛṣṇa and if these things are taken away from me, I shall lose my existence, my very life. They are sustaining, because they are encouraging me to take to Kṛṣṇa consciousness.” He says that, “Govardhana [?] They’re all encouraging me, helping me, taking me towards Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and in different attitudes.

Govardhanaparvvata yāmunatīra. Rādhākuṇḍata-kuñjakuṭīra. Whatever I see, that reminds me how in a sweet way, taking me towards Kṛṣṇa conception and His līlā, and giving, spreading nectar in my heart. If I am to leave them, then I shall leave my existence. So encouraging, so life giving, so fulfilling my life they are all, everything around me, they’re more than my life. Kusumasarovara, mānasagaṅgā, kalindanandinī vipula-taraṅgā. [?] gokula, govardhana, yāmunatīra. All these things, how sweet contribution they are doing towards me, and taking Kṛṣṇa as if very near to me. By eliminating them I shall die. No existence at all. So beauty there, whatever brings, direct take me at lightning speed towards Kṛṣṇa consciousness, His vilāsa, His relationship, His pastimes with them, that is direct nectar, and that will come in me, that is Vṛindāvana.”

[From the Collection Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja's verses, p 322-323]

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. So friendly, so sweet, so near to us, and so well-wisher of us; quite at home. Sweet, sweet home. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Back to God, back to home, sweet, sweet home.

Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti. In our innate, inner most existence we are a member of that plane. Now we are come out, scattered, our consciousness on the cover. Covers cover, covers cover, so many layers, and dry things. And the substance, the spirit is within. And mind also, eliminating this cover, bodily cover, mental cover, the liberation cover, the Vaikuṇṭha cover, then I may enter into the Vraja, the Vṛndāvana resident in me, if I find I have friend everywhere, that our friends and relatives, they will give me all-pleasing experience, ecstasy. That is what is.

Mahāprabhu came with that news to us. “Oh, you are a child of that soil, why do you suffer here My child, My boys? Why do you suffer? Amṛtasya putrāḥ. You are a son of nectar. You are a child of that soil, and you are suffering so much, coming in the desert? Your home is so resourceful, so sweet and you are running in the desert? What is this? Come with Me. I shall take you to your home, sweet, sweet home. come! Leave this poisonous charm, suicidal charm. This charm, māyā charm, misunderstanding charm, this is suicidal. Leave this apparent charm. This is poisonous. This is like witch, a witch has charmed you here, spellbound. Come along with Me, I shall take you to your home which is so much sweet.”

That is the general call of Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu. “Don't think of being master of so many siddhis, aṇimā, laghimā, vyāpti, I can play with miracles. That is all lower things. Then mukti, then siddhi, then so many obstacles there, your existence will be at stake. The ajagara, there is the yakṣa, the magician. There will be bhīmaruḥ, the karma-kāṇḍa. Come, with the least energy I shall take you from the eastern side to the wealth which is within your heart.”

This is universal, this is most spacious, generous, and sweet, and very intimate, all these things, come home. All well-wishers there around you, mutual. That is the gift of Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: [The question being asked is not heard clearly]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does she say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Did you finish? What’s the question?

Devotee: [Again, the question being asked is not heard clearly] Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is her question? Who can say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja?

Parvat Mahārāja: She says that she can understand that we can see a relationship with the pure devotee, understanding his relationship to Kṛṣṇa. But what about the general masses, the general persons, how can we see their relationship with Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She can understand the relationship of the devotees with Kṛṣṇa, but she can't understand the relationship of the non devotees with Kṛṣṇa? That is her question?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Yes, basically.

Devotee: With herself Mahārāja.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: From her point of view, how she should see.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The relationship with Kṛṣṇa, is just as a disobeying son of a father. Obedient sons and members of the family to the guardian, that is of one type. And those that have revolted against the guardianship, and are seeking their own fortune, and getting trouble, the father's heart, or mother's heart, cries for their welfare. But by their independent action, they are far from his direction and can't help. Gone out of the house and living in another place, and also suffering there, but they can't help, but from the core of their heart, they want that they may come back and remain in the family peaceful life. That should be. Not completely separated from inside, but externally separated and suffering, and that gives some affliction to the heart of the guardian. Something like that.

When they've gone astray from the direction of the guardian and suffering, the guardian is not satisfied, but cannot but try to help him, and sends some of his men in the garb of friendship to dissuade them from their wrong path. In this way the relationship is maintained. But he does not enjoy fear with the freedom, endowed with his existence, he may misuse. To misuse one's free will, that is inherent in every jīva. And Kṛṣṇa does not like to take away the freedom from any conscious unit. Then he's reduced to a stone, and He does not like to punish him permanently in this way. In the time of eternity he has gone astray, he will again come back. So, just as the affectionate guardian, because the son has disobeyed and gone out and joined the enemy camp, still he wants that he may come back, He doesn't like to kill him. Tries to take him back. Such sort of relationship of Kṛṣṇa towards the outgoing children, servants. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: But, in a general way, our relationship to that category is to try to help them to come closer to the centre, to bring them towards the centre, our responsibility to them is to bring them towards the centre.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, and that is by the will of Kṛṣṇa. So, there is gradation, those that are revolting most intensely, they will have far, and less revolting, they will be tackled first. In this way; by groups, by instalments they'll be taken, and the transaction in the infinite. So, no limitation. It is continuing, it is eternally continuing. No finish, because it is infinite.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So you have postponed the batch who were going to Nepal today, it is postponed?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Not until Monday, they can't [?] the coach until Sunday.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Monday. Today is Saturday. Tomorrow is Sunday. Then next, Monday, you're thinking of?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Conveniently you may do.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Things are progressing in that way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But it depends upon the return of Kedar Prabhu, financially, no?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: No, not financially, but because of Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja my own [?] is in question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not your question, but I was told that a batch of twenty five, approximately, is starting to Nepal this morning. But that is cancelled?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: No. Tomorrow morning perhaps, twenty five, and then on Tuesday, no, on Wednesday, the balance are supposed to go to Nepal.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are thinking of going on Wednesday, but that is depending on the return of Kedar Prabhu, your departure?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: No, my departure, Kedar could go directly to Nepal.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [Herr] Schulze [later known as Sadānanda dāsa] asked our Guru Mahārāja, “Generally we do any work, after we have a program one month before, but here at least if you inform me one week before, what to do, it will be convenient for me.”

Then Guru Mahārāja answered, “I get intimation from my master five minutes ago, how can I inform you a week ago?”

So, His will, it is reserved there. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol.

We’re in expectation what direction comes from there. And that is also to do duty, to remain silently in expectation of the order from inside. Outwardly it is no work wasting time.

But that cataka, that bird, “I won’t do anything until I get direction from the higher.”

So, non-cooperation with the mental system, the ego, the tendencies for so many things, for the eyes, for the ears, for the touch, so many calls they are coming, but ignoring them, to watch for the call from above.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

The Name, the Holy Name, the sound representation of the Lord, extended to here. We can easily take recourse to that. Śrī nama cintamani tu hoi samana [?]

And taking the flag of the Nāma-saṅkīrtana we are to do other duties. Nāma-saṅkīrtana, the sound aspect, most benevolent. Even it is said so here and there that the sound Kṛṣṇa, the name Kṛṣṇa is more benevolent than Kṛṣṇa Himself towards the fallen.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

...

What to do? He has given. without His will, nothing can happen. So, He has given. And why? To increase more thirst in our hearts for service. That is His object. He has stolen away - engage yourself again more intensely in the service, to give that He has taken away. Mahā-Bhāgavata, they see like that, what is the purpose of stealing, of Him, to engage us more intensely and deeply, the room created for service. Ha, ha. That we are told by Guru Mahārāja. The infinite vision. Do your duty. Mā phaleṣu kadācana.

[karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana

mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi]

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

That is in the hand of Kṛṣṇa, that is not in your hand, in the hand of Kṛṣṇa. And He likes more eating by stealing. Stealing is His favourite līlā. Not in direct way. The Lord is such. No room of any complaint. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Not only that. There is a story that in Purī, there was one Mādhava dāsa, a renowned sage.

Jagannātha, that is Kṛṣṇa, one night came to him, approached him, "Oh Mādhava, let us go to steal the jack fruits from that particular pāṇḍā's house."

"What do You say my Lord? I don't know what is in Your mind. You shall take me to steal in this dead of night to a pāṇḍā's house, the jack fruits? But what can I do? Whatever You say I must obey."

Then he went. Then Kṛṣṇa climbed up the tree and Mādhava was below, and He snatched one or two jack fruits, and making more noise, He leapt on the ground, so that the pāṇḍā he was roused by the sound and he came to see, and Kṛṣṇa made a jump and fled away, and Mādhava was caught.

Then the man came, “O, you Mādhava dāsa? You are so hypocrite? You show yourself as a saint and a saviour and eat begging, and at night you have come to steal jack fruit?”

“No, no, no, I have not come, Jagannātha took me here”

“You fool! Rogue! Jagannātha came to steal jack fruit from my house! Am I a fool like You?”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... “The utaria is there on the tree. He has left that. Oh, this is of course Jagannātha. How have you stolen that utaria of Jagannātha?”

...

... “That I went to steal jack fruits with Mādhava and the Mādhava has given a good beating and all those beatings causing injury in My back. So I want some medicine to be smeared on My back.” Jagannātha gave.

Then there was a great uproar. “What is this? Jagannātha took? Then he’s a real, very good saint.

But we have given beating then he comes to Mādhava, “forgive me, pardon me,” all these things. “Then Mādhava saw that so much fame has come to me, I should not stay here any longer.” He left Purī and went to Vṛndāvana, unknowingly, there. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... give opposition, and still we can't think that we should stop our activity totally. Attach and then if necessary you should meet together and find out some way how we can approach to discharge our duty towards the people as well as to Swāmī Mahārāja, and Gauḍīya Ācārya, our Guru Mahārāja and Mahāprabhu, etc. Propaganda was taken up first by Guru Mahārāja in an organised way, Bhaktisiddhānta Sarawatī Ṭhākura. His idea was to preach the doctrines of Mahāprabhu in an organised way in India and abroad. And he began his work in a humble way, but anyhow, Swāmī Mahārāja, after his departure did that thing in, not only appreciable, but beyond that, his success we find.

And now ISKCON perhaps likes to monopolise the thing according to their own standard of thinking. But after Swāmī Mahārāja some qualified people dissatisfied with their administration they became indifferent. And so many complaints came to me, as a bona fide well-wisher of ISKCON, with recognition from Swāmī Mahārāja. And when I differed from them they gradually withdrew from my sympathy. And at first I told: "Wait and see how things may come." And I asked them also to, "take steps that these qualified persons may not go away." But they gave deaf ears to my words. Anyhow, some energetic men came to me and asked to interfere into the matter, and I asked them to go on with some work in a relief line, not in conflict with them. But anyhow, it has come in the position of conflict. It's not desired by us but they think it that we should not interfere with their activity. But our conscience does not allow us to do so.

So you are all dissatisfied with their present dealings to go on in your illustrious Gurudeva's way and with some help from me necessary. And so many brilliant workers of the ISKCON as you were, now you are, you have met together to devise some organic, some organised activity. Independent of ISKCON, how you can go on with the activity of our Gurudeva, Mahāprabhu and Swāmī Mahārāja, avoiding the defect you detect in ISKCON. In a more perfect way, harmless way, genuine way, and without, as much as possible, coming in conflict with them. So you consult together and try to find a common basis of organised activity.

I am told that Pramāṇa Swāmī and Viraha Prakāśa Swāmī, they're also invited, and the telegram came that they're coming soon. In the meantime you consult together and try to evolve how. I have no experience of the world's activities, some common sense, but you have practical experience of the activity in the whole of the world. And my moral support is there. I don't like to be entangled practically, coming in the committee, association, but aloof well-wisher and promoter and my good will with you. You consult and important persons may, Bhakti Vijaya Mahārāja, Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja and others also, important persons of high standard. So you may begin your work in a mild way, 'with heart within and God overhead.'

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So you consult and if you have consulted already you may intimate to me, 'that we are thinking that we may begin in this way.' Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, his position is supreme in this sense that he's sannyāsī of, he's an old member and he has got his wholesale connection with Swāmī Mahārāja after sannyāsa, and he has got some respectable position. Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja, he of course already had his very good position, admiral position. But now...

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Disgraced man.

Swāmī B.R. Śrīdhara: But now he's, ha, ha, almost a man in the street.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But with his simplicity, his capital is his simplicity, his adherence to the truth, to his Guru and to Mahāprabhu also, that is his capital. And the strongest personality is Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja, the most firm, and he started independent movement perhaps, in a positive way. Akṣayānanda Mahārāja was passive. Akṣayānanda Mahārāja's attempt was of passive nature, but his, that of active nature. And so Kīrtaṇānanda Mahārāja is very much angry with Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja.

And he says, I am told, "That with boot, by a kick, he will oust him from the fold of ISKCON." So much anger.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Have you considered these things and had any progress?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Aranya Mahārāja is a follower of Akṣayānanda Mahārāja.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He does not want much active life.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A peaceful life he prefers. But Parvat Mahārāja is an energetic man, and he wants a specified duty to do in the line of propagation. Preaching energy he has got, and all round capacity he has got. Anyhow, Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja has been invited here and at the cost of his activity there, the valuable activity he was engaged in there. But he has left and come to consider the basis, the foundation, the ways, how you can move in a body and to produce more, greater result in your way. So now the time is very valuable. We have taken Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja away from his busy field, so we must not lose any time, and consider. A committee is necessary. A committee means President, Secretary, the office holders, and the Ācārya, all these things must be considered. And try to evolve something, and after forming to certain extent you may come to me, I shall hear and if any modification, any suggestion comes from me for modification, then I will speak out, 'that this is my suggestion. You do it yourself. That is my advice.' Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, what do you say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I'm here Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are here!

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have got important position.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: We're only praying for your mercy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And you have got appreciation that the higher conception of Mahāprabhu's theology maybe taken from door to door. Began by Swāmī Mahārāja. Your sincere heart is making more progress than the general ISKCON body towards the truth. This is my conception. So how that sort of realisation, how others may take a share of that. That sort of responsibility what you feel within you, I don't know how far. The true conception, proper conception, I am interested that my Guru Mahārāja came out with the high standard, and that was begun by Swāmī Mahārāja in a very extensive, wonderful extensive way. But the proper realisation of the truth should be distributed to the people. Rādhā-Govinda sevā.

The ISKCON, according to me, are busy with dollar, diplomacy, and very daring action in the name of devotion and dedication. But the brāhmaṇaic way of approaching the truth, that is of higher conception. This dollar and diplomacy, this maybe utilised for the purpose, but the more higher basis must be on brāhmaṇaic, on character, realisation, truthfulness, all these things. That will have real hold over the other theological conceptions. There are so many theological conceptions in the world and we are to deal with them, and that cannot be purchased only by money and grandeur.

A comparative study of theology, the ontological aspect, that must be cultivated, and that must be preached throughout the world. That can stand for long time. By bribing, by bribe, we cannot capture persons for long time, but by distributing satisfaction of their inner hankering in the theological and ontological way.

So that sort of high literature, and reply, answers to their demands, all these things there must be on paper. Some literature and character backing, and the preachers also will be there. Jayatīrtha Mahārāja has proved his capacity as a preacher. But only his weakness for the truth has banished him. Rāmacandra was banished, though He was the real heir of the throne. But something came between and Rāmacandra was banished. So Jayatīrtha Mahārāja he's banished from his throne.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

So, being sympathetic to his position, we shall come up with energy to help him, and at the same time to preach the real conception of the truth theological. That you have understood. You have understood and you have realised, so responsibility with you, and think whether you will try your best to give it to others, and how.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Mahārāja, you spoke of the *brāhmaṇa*ic qualities and tendencies. So generally we take it that that is non-administrative, the kṣatriya is more concerned with administration. So a problem arises that generally the brāhmaṇas now, they come underneath the kṣatriya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The background will be of that type and that will be taken in, in the kṣatriya and vaiśya way.

divalam kṣatriya valam valam brahma va avalam [?]

There was a saying of Viśvāmitra, when he came to fight with Vashya (?) and failed to do that, then he uttered this. So character, the force of character. The monarch attractive nature to the worldly temptation, all these backgrounds are necessary in a preacher. A kṣatriya or vaiśya they may be prey to the worldly temptation, easily. But a *brāhmaṇa*ic characteristic background, that will save us from the temptation we are in the midst of, and we are using for the service of Kṛṣṇa. So that sort of background has some appreciation of character, adherence to the truth, and taking risk of poverty. Just as he did, he preferred renunciation than the enjoyment side, the money and the grandeur, the organisation, he left because he had some faith more for the *brāhmaṇa*ic side.

Adherence to the principals at the cost of anything, that is *brāhmaṇa*ic side. That is more attraction towards consciousness than towards material things. More attracted by the beauty of the consciousness, spiritually, than the vaibhava, the materials that are collected in the name of the service of the Lord. Partiality for the spiritual consciousness, rather than the material grandeur which of course we utilise for the service of the *brāhmaṇa*ic persons. The kṣatriya, vaiśya they're submissive to the *brāhmaṇa*ic school, and the brāhmaṇa should connect with the Vaiṣṇava.

Who are in connection of the service of the personal truth, Vaiṣṇava. A brāhmaṇa has got preference for the spirit than the matter. And the Vaiṣṇava, the spirit is personal and we can come in closer connection of Him by service. Personal conception of the truth and service for Him, these two in Vaiṣṇava. And within the brāhmaṇa there's more attraction towards the spirit than the material properties. Kṣatriya to organise material things under the direction of the brāhmaṇas, to guide the general mass towards spirit, from matter to spirit. And vaiśyas finance giver for that purpose, this varṇāśrama.

Mahāprabhu began from varṇāśrama with Rāmānanda Rāya and meeting varṇāśrama step by step went to the highest position. First began with varṇāśrama, this organised, 'the spirit is above matter.' The quest of life of everyone may be guided towards that. "That neglect matter and appreciate spirit, soul, consciousness." That is systematically done in varṇāśrama, in a group, that was in an army, the navy, the air force, the land force, in that organised way. Like a march from nescience to science, from matter to spirit, a mass movement in varṇāśrama.

Then, Vaiṣṇava, they have more specified clear idea about the spirit, spirit is person, spirit means person, super person. And we are also meagre part of spirit, soul, we are also person and super person, Puruṣa and Puruṣottama. And then the dedication and the question of service comes in, in a real sense. So Vaiṣṇava, and among Vaiṣṇava also there are gradations. Karmibhyaḥ parito hareḥ priyatayā vyaktim yayur jñāninas, tebhyo jñāna-vimukta-bhakti-paramāḥ. Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti.

Premaika- niṣṭhās tataḥ tebhyas tāḥ paśu-pāla-paṅkaja-dṛśas . In this way it is progressing to the highest degree.

[karmibhyaḥ parito hareḥ priyatayā vyaktim yayur jñāninas tebhyo jñāna-vimukta-bhakti-paramāḥ premaika-niṣṭhās tataḥ tebhyas tāḥ paśu-pāla-paṅkaja-dṛśas tābhyo 'pi sā rādhikā preṣṭhā tadvad iyaṁ tadīya-sarasī tām nāśrayet kaḥ kṛtī]

[“There are those in the world who regulate their tendency for exploitation in accordance with the scriptural rules and thereby seek gradual elevation to the spiritual domain. However, superior to them are those wise men who, having given up the tendency to lord over others, attempt to dive deep into the realm of consciousness. But far superior to them are the pure devotees who are free from any mundane ambitions and are liberated from knowledge, not by knowledge, having achieved divine love. They have gained entrance into the land of dedication and are engaged there spontaneously in the Lord’s loving service. Among all devotees, however, the gopīs are the highest, for they have forsaken everyone, including their families, and everything, including the strictures of the Vedas, and have taken complete shelter at the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, accepting Him as their only protection. But among all the gopīs, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī reigns supreme. For Kṛṣṇa left the company of millions of gopīs during the rasa dance to search for Her alone. She is so dear to Śrī Kṛṣṇa that the pond in which She bathes is His very favourite place. Who but a madman would not aspire to render service, under the shelter of superior devotees, in that most exalted of all holy places.”] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 10]

So now we have met, how to form a basis for the propaganda? By literature, and by aural preaching, and some other ways. You are already in practical connection with preaching life, so you do. And I think and you also have to understand that the organisation will be more liberal, like a federal constitution. Preachers may have their independence as much as possible. You may think, you may try how it is. You have got some experience. You are faced with the rigid decision of the committee, and you could not appreciate the decision of the committee existing. Necessarily you find some fault with this committee, administration, so learning something from that, how you can go on with an organised attempt. You are to compensate that.

Or you like, “No, we shall work independently.” What will be your consideration now? “We want to meet together but the necessity and the nature of meeting, putting our heads together, that will be in what way? What is your opinion?” And you may convey to me and I’ll say what I have got to say. On the whole, some sort of unity is necessary to work, that is plain, cooperation, but the cooperation will be of what nature? That you are to think and form. Pramāṇa Swāmī and Viraha Prakāśa they may perhaps come soon. In the meantime you make some advance in the formation of the foundation without losing any time, because you have got value of your time in your activities.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: So perhaps we should go now and meet amongst ourselves?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, you go and meet all in private and consult and come to some sort of resolution and tell it to me. “That we think that for this time we must combine in this way and we’ll go on with our activities.” So Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, and Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja, and Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja, and Aranya Mahārāja, you meet together, perhaps in his room or where it will be convenient, and you freely express your personal opinions and come to some resolution.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] If you like, here also, separately that side or that side or here. I may go in. Wherever it will be convenient for you to talk.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... it shows how the development of śuddha, pure devotion is going up. It began from karma-miśrā-bhakti and it went up to Brahmā. Took it from a brāhmaṇa, wealthy man in Prayag, then to Purī Jagannātha. And it came from there to Indra, and from Indra to Brahmā, karma- miśrā.

Then next, he went to Śiva. When Nārada, whose taken to be the means of this measurement, Devarṣi Nārada is going to Brahmā, his father, Guru, and he's beginning to praise him according to this, a class of śruti, in praise of Brahmā. Brahmā dissatisfied with the praise of Nārada.

This is the nature of the Vaiṣṇava, they can't tolerate their own praise. They know fully well that praise, it is only due to the Supreme. 'We are praised because we have got some sort of connection with that Supreme Entity.' So they do not like, they can't relish their own praise. 'That I am so low. Only in coming in connection with the so high Entity that whatever good position I have got. And if I anyhow take it as my own, then I'll be deprived, my faith will be disturbed. But I am nothing. Everything belongs to my master.' So naturally a Vaiṣṇava won't like, sincerely, any praise in them. 'I know fully, what is good in me, that does not belong to me, that is His.'

So Brahmā, dissatisfied, rebuked Nārada. "What is your decision? You come to praise me? Have I not taught you that I'm nothing. My master is everything. But still, if you want to discriminate about devotion, then I am busy in the relativity of the material world. But Mahādeva, Śiva, he's really to be praised. And we find in the Veda also, Rudra śruti, there is śruti mantra, which is allotted for the praise of Mahādeva. So he's a real devotee. [?] If you want to praise a real Vaiṣṇava go to Kailash, were he is, Mahādeva. Rudra śrutis there are.”

Then Nārada went up and began to sing in praise of Mahādeva. And Mahādeva, he became mad, abruptly and very agitated he came with his pashu.

“You are disturbing us here. You say big things towards me. Don’t you remember that Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa, is there, He’s everywhere. And in His presence you speak so highly about me? That is sin, that is offence. You are doing this and I can’t tolerate this interference in this way.” Then little calmed, they had a talk. Mahādeva told: “Yes, you are out to see the real faithfulness, real devotion, faith, submission towards the highest authority. Still, or course, it is Nārāyaṇa. But I have not a favourable temperament. Sometimes I’m going to speak in favour of Nārāyaṇa and sometimes standing against Him and encourage the demons saying something against Viṣṇu_____ [?]

If you really want [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...in the line of the demon and show some demonic contact with me and I want to oppose. So these are the characteristics [?] In Naimiṣāraṇya you may remember. In this way. Of course, I appreciate Hanumān’s exclusive devotion to Rāmacandra, infallible. And in every way he serves Rāmacandra and still he’s there in Kaliyuvan [?] taking the Name of Rāmacandra. And Rāmacandra has passed away from this globe, but he’s left here and anyhow, painfully he’s passing his days.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Today I remember one lecture of our Guru Mahārāja during Vraja- maṇḍala parikramā, perhaps [nineteen] thirty three, in Koshi [?] or Sheygar [?] in Vṛndāvana, perhaps in Sheygar. He gave a peculiar elevated meaning of Govardhana and his comparison to kīrtaṇa. Govardhana ... but sankha nistha, adherence, sincere adherence to the truth. The dāsyā rasa, not only that adherence, plus something. What is that? The tendency to serve, to be utilised by the interest of the Absolute. To dance in the wave of the nirguṇa vibration, somewhat, dāsyā-rasa. Crossing the equilibrium stage of the lowest order, then entering into the dynamic characteristic of the divine domain, dāsyā-rasa. Mere appreciation is not sufficient, but to be utilised by the principal of appreciation, to accept the wave, and to allow one's freedom merge in that wave, to dance in harmony with the wave. That sort of service, dāsyā-rasa, the land of appreciation, the plane of appreciation. The mere passive appreciation is in the beginning, then active appreciation to do something for the cause. Whatever is wanted from me, to become agent of that power, that is dāsyā-rasa. Whatever is required of me, gladly I like to do that. That is dāsyā-rasa.

Hanumān was of that type a devotee. Prahlāda was a type of śanta-rasa and Hanumān that of dāsyā-rasa. He does not want to know what is what so much. But whatever order comes to him, he with all his faith and might, he wants to go forward to carry out that order, that's dāsyā-rasa. Then Devarṣi Nārada, from Prahlāda he went to Hanumānji. It is described that Hanumān was living in Kaladivan [?] located somewhere in the Himālayas.

From far off Devarṣi Nārada taking the Name of Rāma: "Hare Rāma, Hare Rāma," incessantly.

Hanumān, no sooner the Name entered the ear of Hanumānji, then: "Who has come here approaching this side and making me hear the Name of my Lord, Rāma-Nāma?”

He was so excited that he jumped up and found Devarṣi on the sky and with both hands he embraced Devarṣi Nārada, and shedding tears profusely from the eyes.

Then, “Devarṣi, you have come. It’s as if I am lying in the desert. No remembrance of Rāmacandra. Without food I am dragging on my body anyhow. This is the dispensation of the katrihata [?] I’m passing my days anyhow in a deplorable condition. You have come, you have made me hear my favourite and that loving Name of Rāmacandra.” In this way.

Then there was a talk between them, confidential. Nārada began to praise: “You, Hanumānji, you have created a record of service to Rāmacandra. The whole world is after you, ‘that Hanumān’s service is unparalleled, what you have done.’”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotees: Jaya!

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣak Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: “Hanumān’s service is unparalleled, a record you have created, dāsyē, dāsyē,” to Hanumān. “What have you not done for Rāmacandra? The history is witness for your glorious service record.

So you are very, very fortunate. I have come to have a look, to purify my heart, purify myself, I have come to you.”

Hanumānji says: “Oh, what do you say Devarṣi? I don’t think that you are normally speaking all these things. Yet I am reckoned in the species of the beast, Hanumān, not amongst the human species. And what knowledge I have got, and capacity, and that I will render service to Rāmacandra? What did I do? Of course, by His infinite grace He took some service from this half animal, your Hanumān. But Prabhu has left me here, my master. The whole of Ayodhyā He took with Him except this unfortunate soul. He has left me anyway, some way or other, here in this Kaladivan [?] and I am weeping day and night for the separation, how things were when Rāmacandra was in His incarnation did so much.

Such a master none will have anywhere, so deep affection and so much generosity. And so much indifference to these worldly things, and so much love for His subjects and all creatures. One can never even imagine how profound was His heart. Fortunately we feel in touch with that great incarnation, Rāmacandra, when He came. But I am unfortunate I am left here. He has withdrawn all His real devotees along with Him. They have not to tolerate the separation of His service. But I am lost. Anyhow, I hear that He has again come as Kṛṣṇa and is very favourable to the Pāṇḍavas. He’s friendly to Pāṇḍavas. And the Pāṇḍavas, according to me, I think sometime or other that how fortunate they are, how favourite they are to their Lord, of Rāmacandra Who has come again in the form of Kṛṣṇa. Sometimes I think about the fortune of the Pāṇḍavas, and sometimes think that I shall go to see them with these eyes and how happy they are.”

In this way he began to praise sākhya-rasa. Hanumān is the highest type of dāsyā-rasa and he has got his appreciation for sākhya-rasa, showing that that is superior to his rasa and having some attraction for that rasa. So in this way he’s proving that sākhya-rasa is better than dāsyā-rasa, though Hanumān won’t allow himself to go to sākhya-rasa. It is a peculiar temperament that what is his own, that seems to him to be the best. But still in taṭasthā-vicāra, when in any second he can get aloof, get away from his own relative position, then he can appreciate the higher position of sākhya-rasa. But he himself won't like to have for his own case. Yei rasa, sei sarvottama. He's best fitted there, but, taṭa- stha hañā vicāriḷe, āche tara-tama.

[kintu yāñra yei rasa, sei sarvottama / taṭa-stha hañā vicāriḷe, āche tara-tama]

["It is true that whatever relationship a particular devotee has with the Lord is the best for him; still, when we study all the different methods from a neutral position, we can understand that there are higher and lower degrees of love."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.83]

If it is possible for us to get out of that relative position, then we can have a calculation and thereby we can understand these inferiorities and superiorities that exist within us.

So, from hearing the appreciation of Hanumān [?] Kṛṣṇa is there and appreciated by Hanumān about the fortune of the Pāṇḍavas, Nārada anyhow managed to get out of [?] He went straight to see the Pāṇḍavas.

Hanumān had his unchangeable heart in the service of dāsyā-rasa. Whenever the consideration of dāsyā-rasa comes in, then Hanumān is represented as the ideal servant. Of course, his peculiar service is so famous that sometimes his superiority is supported by some special consideration, which cannot be accommodated in the science of devotion.

Garuḍa is considered to be the servant of Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is considered to be holding a higher position than Rāmacandra in His incarnations. So Garuḍa must have better consideration in dāsyā-rasa. But it is seen that Garuḍa is defeated in the hands of Hanumān, several times.

Of course, once Garuḍa got disappointed in the Rāma Avatāra. When Rāma and Lakṣmaṇa were in the war with Rāvaṇa, Rāma and Lakṣmaṇa, Both of Them were tied down by the snakes, then Brahmā intimated to Them to think about Garuḍa. And by the approach of Garuḍa all the snakes fled away. And Rāmacandra was propitiated, satisfied with Garuḍa's service and asked him to beg a boon, some reward.

And Garuḍa he asked that: "I know that You are my master, Kṛṣṇa, Nārāyaṇa, but You are in another form where Hanumān is Your exclusive servant. But if You are satisfied with my service in the least, I pray, please show the figure of my own beloved Lord Kṛṣṇa."

Then Rāmacandra, "The Hanumān is there, he can't tolerate. Does not matter, I shall manage."

So, Garuḍa, with his wings, he created a temporary shed, and there, Rāmacandra showed Kṛṣṇa Mūrti to Garuḍa.

Of course, Hanumān could understand and he promised, "I shall also take revenge, when my Lord will come as Kṛṣṇa." And Hanumān did. Garuḍa, without the interference of Hanumān, Garuḍa managed, but how? Hanumān took the revenge. That is a serious talk.

Once, Garuḍa was asked by Kṛṣṇa to collect one hundred and eight blue lotus, and Garuḍa went to collect. It may be had from that Kaladiva, in a lake which is very close to Hanumān's place, Kaladiva. Garuḍa is going. Hanumān he knew this and on the way he fell like an old, small monkey, he was there just in the way.

Garuḍa is passing over, but it is not good etiquette to go over, crossing over any living being. So Garuḍa asked the monkey: “Go away from my path. I’m going, I don’t like to jump over.” He’s also flying, “Not to fly over you. You please remove from my path.”

And he was not ordinary monkey but Hanumānji himself, and he had a motive, a design, and he told: “I am an old monkey, no power to remove my limbs. Please go some other zigzag way, or remove me from my position. I can’t move, I’m too old and feel uneasiness.”

Then Garuḍa again requested with some urge: “No, no. You don’t know who I am. You monkey, go away, clear my way, otherwise I shall teach you a lesson.”

“What can I do, I am unable, infirm, I can’t move my limbs. So don’t be angry with me. What can I do?”

Then Garuḍa again threatening, but the same answer Then what to do? Garuḍa: “Then I shall move you from the path.”

“Yes, you may do as you like.”

“I won’t touch you. By the fluttering of my wings I shall move you far away.” “Yes, whatever you like you may do.”

Then Garuḍa began.

Just as now the British have attacked the Falkland Island with a big navy power.

So Garuḍa began to flutter his wings, but he found, “What is this? The fluttering of my wings can remove so many trees and things, but this small monkey can’t be removed. What’s the matter?” Then he saw that not to speak of taking his body away, but even the hairs on the body is not shivering. “What’s the matter?” Then he had to come out with all his force and with his beak he caught him and tried, but all failed.

Then the play of Garuḍa is finished, then Hanumān rose and caught hold of him and put him under his armpit.

“No, no, I have come to collect some blue lotus for my Lord. He wants them. Who are you? You are disturbing me in this way and that way.”

“Yes, yes, I shall manage for that.” But keeping him under the armpit Hanumān went to collect those blue lotus and went to Dvārakā, began his journey towards Dvārakā.

Kṛṣṇa is knowing everything, ha, ha, that such things are going to happen. There is Rukminī and Satyabhāma there. And the Sudarśana He’s watching the gate, the Sudarśana-cakra. The Garuḍa, the Sudarśana, and Devī Satyabhāma, they had some conceit, some sort of pride in their mind, in their respective roles. And it was the will of Kṛṣṇa to give some check to these three.

Now, “Jai Rāma, Jai Rāma,” with this slogan Hanumān is approaching. “Jai Rāma, Sītā Rāma.” Then Kṛṣṇa asked Satyabhāma: “You, Hanumān coming. I am taking the figure of Rāmacandra.

You take the figure of Sītā.” But Satyabhāma could not.

“You can’t do so? Then ask Rukminī.”

Then Rukminī came and she took Sītā’s figure. And what about Satyabhāma? “You go under this throne, hide yourself.”

And the Sudarśana-cakra is there. He’s just revolving near the door as watchman. Hanumān: “Jai Rāma, Jai Rāma.”

“No. I can’t allow you.”

Then Hanumān just extended his finger within and suddenly made it so big that as a ring that cakra lost his movement and became a very tight ring on the finger of Hanumān. With this Garuḍa under the armpit, and in his hand those blue lotus, and that cakra ring, Hanumān is entering. And then Hanumān is there seeing Rukminī as Sītā, Kṛṣṇa like Rāma, Hanumān saw, “My Lord is here.” He began to offer those blue lotus to the feet of Rāmacandra. “Sītā Rāma Sītā Rāma Sītā Rāma.” Then after that: “My Lord, who is moving under the throne? What is this?”

So by Hanumānji, Kṛṣṇa managed to check their pride. But as Kṛṣṇa we are told of higher position than Rāmacandra. But His attendants had some dishonour in the hands of Hanumān. So Hanumān’s dāsyā-rasa is very intensified and famous.

[“Hearing about Kṛṣṇa, chanting Kṛṣṇa’s glories, remembering Kṛṣṇa, serving Kṛṣṇa’s lotus feet, worshipping Kṛṣṇa’s transcendental form, offering prayers to Kṛṣṇa, becoming Kṛṣṇa’s servant, considering Kṛṣṇa as one’s best friend, and surrendering everything to Kṛṣṇa - these nine processes are accepted as pure devotional service.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.23-24]

So Hanumān has occupied the position of the dāsyā-rasa of Rāmacandra.

Sītā Devī and Rādhārāṇī, Their appearance of same type. Rāma, Kṛṣṇa and so many others, They're coming like human way, coming from the father and mother. But Sītā Devī did not come from the womb of the mother.

When Rājārṣi Janaka he was plying the plough, suddenly on the end of that iron instrument, on the plough, Sītā Devī came out from the earth. Sītā Devī suddenly came out from the earth when that plough was handled by Rājārṣi Janaka, suddenly She came. And Janaka took Her to his palace and gave Her to His Queen and Sītā Devī was brought up there, and was given into the hands of Rāmacandra.

Rādhārāṇī also, when Vṛṣabhānu Rāja, the King Vṛṣabhānu went to take bath in a lake he found suddenly that one small girl, so beautiful, just floating on the lotus. The lotus is floating on the lake and there was a small, beautiful girl there. He collected Her and took to his Queen that beautiful girl. So both of Them come not by ordinary way.

Everything is possible. All subjective play, no objective incidents. To understand all these so called anomalies of our reason and understanding with that grand and infinite and widest conception of subjective causal relation. That's not any object, all the objective incidents that are only the show from the subjective area and display. So anything may happen. We have got our experience of puppy brain, we are proud of that and go to explain everything from the law of our meagre experience of the negligent part of the infinite. We are accustomed to deal with things like that. But in the beginning we must bid adieu to all these experiences, līlā-mai [?] Satya-saṅkalpa. In Bible also, "Let there be water." There was water. "Let there be light." There was light. The creation begins, the existence also maintained. It is His will, sattya-saṅkalpa, His will, willing, thinking, feeling. From one cause comes out as three phases to us. His will makes the cause all possible.

Now, we want to come to Sītā Devī. The day before yesterday perhaps was Sītā-naumi, the birthday of Sītā Devī. And Sītā, Her example, Her sacrifice was magnanimous. Of course we may, many of us know the history. Sītā was brought up there. Her father was Rājarṣi Janaka. Janaka, that is just as the name of the king, or the title of the king of a particular state. Janaka means father. The subjects of that state they liked to call their king by the name of their father. So everyone is Janaka, Janaka's son, he's also Janaka. Just as Rāma in the Udaypur [?] Or Saha [?] in the Mohammedan state, everywhere, Saha means king. So Janaka means father, that is king. So Janaka Videha, a state named by Videha.

So Rājarṣi Janaka he was a great saintly man, so much so that Vyāsudeva sent Śukadeva to finish his study from Janaka. And Śukadeva came to Rājarṣi Janaka and got the finishing of his knowledge from him. That is karma-yoga. Śukadeva was more tending towards renunciation.

But Janaka was the type that he could deal with renunciation and participation in the same manner. It is told that Janaka, one hand put into the fire, and other hand put into the soft breast of a lady. He's enjoying or suffering, whatever you may say, both sides he's attending. So it is thought that even what is conceived to be the very lowest, he can connect him with that without incurring any bad connection from that. His position in such a central plane, that from there good and bad both equal to him, he's above that.

So that was the position, like karma-yoga in Bhagavad-gītā. Commit murder, but that may not connect you with the sin of murdering. This is possible. How? If you can connect with the Centre, and if you can allow yourself fully to be handled by the wave of the Supreme Will, only then and there you can show such practices, otherwise not. Nirguṇa, from nirguṇa bhūmikā, if you are placed in such position, such plane, your heart, your object, your aim, your self, then whatever superficially is done by you, that has got no local meaning, ever. Universal value it will always fetch.

So, that was the father of Sītā Devī. Anyhow, for the marriage of Sītā Devī there was a svayaṃvara. Not exactly svayaṃvara, but there was some conditions. Who can fulfil, he will get the girl. What is that? There was some sort of test.

Mahādeva gave his own bow to Janaka and told that: “Who’ll be able to break this bow, he will get Sītā Devī.” That was a conditional marriage and Janaka declared.

And Viśvāmitra, he knew everything. Before this Viśvāmitra went to Ayodhyā and asked Daśaratha, the king, “That there is much disturbance between this Ayodhyā and this Bihar.” There was a forest and that was inhabited by the aborigines, that is the demons, rākṣasas. “They’re causing much disturbance to our sacrifices. So I want your sons Rāmacandra and Lakṣmaṇa to control their disturbance. You must give.”

Daśaratha was so fond of Rāma and Lakṣmaṇa that he could not spare Them, rather, he handed over Bharata and Satrughna in the hands of Viśvāmitra.

Then, taking away from the capital, Viśvāmitra put a question to Bharata and Satrughna. “There are two ways to reach our position, one by only six days and the other by six months. If we can go straight only by six days then we can reach the place, but there is very much disturbance in that way. Then the other way, that is very curved but it will take six months, but the way is safe. Which way would you like to go?”

“Oh, the safe way, that is preferable.”

Then he thought, “Oh, this is not Rāma, neither Lakṣmaṇa.” He went back to King Daśaratha. “You have...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...Rāma and Lakṣmaṇa, and you handed over these two young boys. Don't you know that what is the reaction of this? I can burn your whole capital by my wrath."

Then Daśaratha came with folded palms, "Please forgive me, I have done, because Rāma is most affectionate. By His separation we can't live, so I did, please forgive me."

Anyway, Rāma and Lakṣmaṇa was taken, and on the way, it was put the same question and they said, "No, no, go by the straight way. No difficulty." And he was satisfied and he was taken.

Then there was Tarak rākṣasi and others, group, they came to attack and they were killed.

And then Viśvāmitra knew that Raja Ṛṣi Janaka he has declared the date of Sītā Devī's marriage. "And there is such condition so I want to take you in that assembly."

"Yes, when My father has handed us over in your care, whatever you will say, we shall go."

Then Viśvāmitra took Rāma and Lakṣmaṇa to the assembly. They were sitting in the assembly and there was that great bow sent by Mahādeva, Haradhana. Who will be able to break up that bow, he will get Sītā as his wife.

Previously, Rāvaṇa attempted, stealthily, privately, but he could not; he fled.

Here also so many kings assembled, but what to speak of breaking the bow, they can't lift it, and going to lift it, some are breaking the leg, and hand, in this way.

Then the Raja Ṛṣi Janaka, the father of Sītā, was disappointed, and began to say in the assembly, "What is this! [?] The earth is devoid of any hero? I am to understand this? What sort of hero is living in this country?"

When he began to say like this, Lakṣmaṇa could not tolerate. He came out jumping on the assembly, “What do you say! [?] A hero-less world! My elder brother Rāma is there, and I am to tolerate such a remark? I can break it to pieces, but I don’t like to do that. My well- respected elder brother is there. He can do it.”

Rāma was sitting very gently, meekly sitting there. Then all the eyes went to Rāmacandra. Very sober and serious position Rāma was feeling.

Then some of the representatives of Janaka came to Rāma, approached Rāmacandra, “You can do it! Your posture, Your figure, and Your mental appearance, we can feel or understand that You may be able to do this. But You do not care to approach. So please, we appeal to You, you please try.”

Then Rāmacandra cast His glance to the Ṛṣi, Viśvāmitra, who took Them, as guardian.

Viśvāmitra also, “Yes, You should do that. When You are faced with such incident, I think that You should try.”

Then, getting his sanction, Rāmacandra went ahead. And He held it in His left hand and when He was going to test how, the rope which connecting two ends of the bow, He was drawing the rope and it was broken into two pieces. And there was a great noise, sound.

And anyhow that was finished [?] and Sītā was given in the hands of Rāmacandra. Janaka came to know that they were sons of Raja Daśaratha and he was highly satisfied and Sītā also made arrangements to be sent to Ayodhyā, in his own chariot.

But Paraśurāma, Bhṛgu Nāma [?], he thought that none will be able to do this. He could not tolerate by nature as he came [?] kṣatriya. He was an incarnation of Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa, for a particular purpose, dedicated. He heard that great sound when the bow was broken and he was approaching. And Rāmacandra also in the chariot is going towards back to His home, Ayodhyā.

And on the way, that great, bigger size, tall size Paraśurāma, he stood in the way. “Where do you go?”

“Rāmacandra is going home.”

“Oh. Has He broken that great bow?” “Yes, He has broken.”

“Yes, amongst the kṣatriyas then again heroic rising? I’m still living, this rise I can’t tolerate among the kṣatriya sect. Paraśurāma is still living. I want to measure the strength here. That old rotten bow might have been broken. But can He put the, connect the rope into this bow of mine?”

He extended the bow towards Rāmacandra.

Rāmacandra when challenged, what to do? Then He touched the bow, took. Paraśurāma was astounded, “What was this?”

He took the bow and connected the rope from one end to another. That was very hard thing to do, and He did that, and put the arrow, and then asked, “Where to throw this arrow? What is the aim? Please recommend me?”

The he was nonplussed, perplexed, but he had to give some reply to His challenging words. “You please destroy the path of my going into heaven. You aim that path and break it.” Paraśurāma was very perplexed and astounded. “What is this? I am defeated at the hands of this boy?”

But we are told that when Paraśurāma extended his bow to Rāmacandra, when Rāmacandra touched that bow, his special inspired potency forced Paraśurāma’s śaktyāveśa, that was drawn by Rāmacandra. A bigger dynamo, bigger and a full dynamo, and when a small thing came in contact, that was attracted by this. And so Paraśurāma, from that time, Paraśurāma no longer could he represent the transcendental potency, but as a human being. He was reduced to the capacity of a human being, and so Paraśurāma had to be defeated in the hands of Bhīṣma, his disciple.

So, Sītā Devī was taken home. And then this intimation that made Daśaratha to get his other sons also married in the house of Janaka. So, Meda, Mandaki and others were also married, four sons, and they were taken there.

And then, when the installation time of Rāmacandra came, there was some great catastrophe that Kaikeyi came with her contract with Daśaratha. That obligation he wanted to be satisfied with her, and Rāmacandra had to go to the forest life, when He was just going to occupy the throne. Sītā Devī also followed Śrī Rāmacandra, and fourteen years They had to pass. After thirteen years, that Rāvaṇa carried Her to Laṅkā, and one year She was captive there. And then there was a fight, and Rāvaṇa with all his followers were killed, and Sītā Devī was taken again back to Ayodhyā.

There was also so many things with what our understanding proper. How Sītā Devī could be taken away forcibly by a demon? She's Lakṣmī, She's beloved of Rāmacandra. How is it possible? Transcendental, Their existence is quite transcendental.

Mahāprabhu explained this. [?] The demon cannot see what is transcendental substance, what to speak of stealing, or forcibly carrying. That was all eyewash, only a mere show as in the drama we say, imitation that was only to teach the public, the subjects, They had to play like this. [?] And so many things to be learned here.

Rāmacandra was so sober, so considerate, so indifferent, so courageous, but still His love towards Sītā, affection towards Sītā was so much, that like a child He began to weep for days, nights, and months after months. So much love He had for Sītā.

When Rāvaṇa was killed, Sītā was taken in front of Rāmacandra, a peculiar thing. “I won’t, I can’t take Her. She lived for long time under the clutches of Rāvaṇa. I can’t take Her. Only that I’m not a coward, one who has stolen My wife I want to teach a lesson, so I have fought. I have finished My duty, but I can’t accept Sītā. She must give some test about, some examination pass about Her chastity, for the public.” This attitude was shown by Rāmacandra.

His followers began to weep and cry. “What cruelty to our mother. We can’t tolerate.” Especially Hanumān.

Anyhow, the Absolute order. Then the fire was arranged, and Sītā Devī entered that fire. Then fire was finished, Sītā Devī remaining there intact. No harm, no injury to Her body. The people were astonished to see. And then Sītā was taken by Rāma.

Again, when Rāmacandra, the Bharata is waiting, there is another tale of Bharata. He wanted to get back Rāmacandra on the throne, but Rāmacandra did not come to accept His throne again. Then there was a contract, “That after fourteen years You will come and on Your behalf I shall rule the country, making the wooden shoe of You, putting on the throne, on its behalf, I shall rule the country. That idea.” But after fourteen years Rāmacandra came and occupied the throne.

Rāmacandra had His spies. Raja pashyati karna dhyana. The kings hear by the ear, not by his eyes. By the CID’s. One day, one CID came and Rāma asked him, “What’s the matter? How are things going on in the country?”

The CID said, “It is very difficult to say. Today, I have got the very worst news to say.” “Don’t be afraid, say!”

Then he told, “I saw a quarrel between the wife and husband in an ordinary family of a washer- man. The washer-man is saying to her, to his wife,_____ [?]

‘I won’t maintain you. You lived in another’s house.’ The husband is rebuking the wife. ‘You lived at night in another house, so I won’t maintain you. That henpecked Rāma He may accept Sītā, and maintain that Sītā who lived for one year in the house of Rāvaṇa. Rāma may do it. He’s henpecked. But I won’t do this.”

This was reported to Rāmacandra. Rāmacandra became very serious, asked Lakṣmaṇa. Raja prakriti ranjanath. “Raja, the root meaning of raja is that his duty is to satisfy the subjects, the people. So, when I am king, I have got no independence of my own thinking. I must be guided by the will of My people. So when such objection has been raised about My practice and character, I must have to do something about this. So Lakṣmaṇa, My brother, You have done many things for Me without consideration of right and wrong. I ask you that, this is the matter, I want to leave Sītā. You go and banish Her in the forest. She, some days before proposed to Me that She wants to see the tapovana of Valmiki. So with that plea you take Her to the tapovana, that pure forest of Valmiki, and leave Her there.

Lakṣmaṇa did so. He went to Sita, that, “You wanted to visit in the Valmiki tapovana. Now Rāmacandra has granted that and ordered Me to take You to that place.”

Sītā, She could not apprehend, suddenly, that something, this catastrophe will come. She was rather cheerful, “Yes, take Me there.”

And after taking Her to that forest then Lakṣmaṇa began to shed tears under a tree. “Why Lakṣmaṇa You are crying?”

He told that, “This is the fact.”

“Oh, this is the fact? You have come to banish Me in the forest, amongst these wild animals? And this is the decision of My Lord?”

“Yes, what can I do? This is the order. I am not independent. I have nothing to say, but only I am carrying the order. Please forgive Me.”

“Yes. What could you do? If He has ordered, of course You cannot but obey that.”

Sītā was also pregnant with a child at that time. There in the tapovan was Valmiki Ṛṣi’s āśrama. Lakṣmaṇa went away, Sītā perhaps was sitting under a tree, and some of the disciples of Valmiki came and saw Her there and reported to Valmiki. Valmiki knew everything, because already he had written Rāmāyaṇa, the Rāma-carita. He was waiting for the day, and he came and took Her with much affection and adoration and put Her in a cottage and treated Her like an affectionate daughter. She gave birth to two children, Lava and Kuśa, they grew up there. And an aśvamedha-yajña that was proposed by the Ṛṣis, and Rāmacandra accepted that, without Sītā.

But the Ṛṣis told that, “To perform a yajña, the formal necessity is of a queen by your side.” Rāmacandra told, “No. I won’t be prepared to accept any other wife. It is not possible for Me.” Then how to do? The Ṛṣis came to His relief, “That you can construct a statue of Sītā.”

And a golden Sītā was constructed, and taking that statue in His left, Rāmacandra performed the yajña.

Of course, that news came to Sītā. Sītā also thought that, ‘He’s going to perform yajña so He must have to marry again.’ But when She heard from banishment, ‘That no, He’s not going to marry a second time, that He has prepared My golden figure for the purpose,’ She could not be moved by the affection of Rāmacandra.

Then again there was a yajña, fight between Rāma-Lakṣmaṇa and the sons of Sītā, Lava and Kuśa. They were defeated and Valmiki came and made some peace between the two, and Sītā came and was taken away. Again, Rāmacandra asked Her for another example, another test of her chastity; then Sītā was mortified.

She asked Her mother, the earth, “O mother, please. I can’t tolerate this insult, repeatedly. Please accept Me, take Me in your lap.”

It is told that there was a crack in the earth, and Sītā went in. And Rāmacandra seeing this, He ran into that crack to get Her back, but that was closed before Rāmacandra. Rāmacandra had to come out empty handed. And then of course He knew everything, sober and serious, a king above all, He had to manage, look after the welfare of the people, again went back to the throne.

Very shortly there was another incident by which Lakṣmaṇa, His ever submissive brother, there happened such an occasion, that Lakṣmaṇa was also to be given up. Lakṣmaṇa came in the assembly “Now, King, My elder brother, You have promised that if it happens such and such, You must abandon Me.”

“Yes, My brother. I am under painful necessity to grant You leave forever. You may go.” Lakṣmaṇa went away, entered the River Saroja, then after some days, Lord Rāma, and all the Ayodhyā vāsīs entered the Saroja.

So, Sītā Devī’s life, Lakṣmī Devī, She came to show such ideal for our benefit. The whole life almost full of sorrow and pain, and Her adherence, affinity, and chastity, devotion, abnegation, so many qualities have been there. The women section they can be proud of such ideal. All respects, Sītā Devī’s ideal is immortal here in India, from long time, Sītā Devī. Such selflessness, such affection towards the husband, affinity and purity, and how She could keep Her purity under adverse circumstances, all these things to be learned from Her example, Her unparalleled example. Sītā Devī. Her birthday passed perhaps yesterday. [?] Gaura Hari bol.

Any question from any side? Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Dhīrodāṭṭa. Classification of the heroes. Rāmacandra is dhīrodāṭṭa, sober and generous. Rāmacandra's character is very serious, sober, and mixed with generosity, extreme generosity, dhīrodāṭṭa. And Kṛṣṇa's character type is dhīra-lalita: continued pleasure seeking life, that is Kṛṣṇa's life, dhīra-lalita. Lalita means very tasteful, fascinating life, charming life, playful. And dhīra-udāṭṭa is Bhīma; sober and cruel, rude. Dhīra-śanta, Yudhiṣṭhira; sober and very meek, mild, is Yudhiṣṭhira. Rāmacandra; generous, generosity and sublime, sublime and generous, very, very generous, dhīrodāṭṭa. That attracts much: heart-touching, self-abnegation to the extreme. For the little complaint of a single subject, devotee, ordinary man, He sacrificed to the highest extent. A remark from one man, so many lākhs and crores of men, and a remark from one man, and from an ordinary man, and the maximum sacrifice came from Him. And Sītā Devī's adherence to such husband to the extreme last days, and Rāmacandra's abnegation. Daśaratha had several thousands of queens. Rāmacandra's father Daśaratha had innumerable queens, but Rāmacandra only a single wife. And also He played with Her in such a merciless way.

So, it is possible only for the Lord to set an example here on the earth. That we must not be allowed us to be guided, to be attracted by the so-called ideas of luxury which is very mean; the pleasure of this mundane world. Truth is above all. And we must, that should be the ideal of our life, the beck and call, only truth. We shall try to live a life of a surrendered soul with our eyes fixed on the aim that is truth. We shall live a life for the truth, and not for the amount of pleasure and comfort which may be proposed from this plane. So, these ideals rather help us to select our ways and ideals and go and show us our brilliant future, what way we are to go. These are all trifles. We must trample down under our feet all the prospects proposed by this mundane world. And the truth is truth and we must aspire after, to be subservient to the truth and to the high ideal. And this is nothing, we must trample down. This inspiration we get from the character and the example of Rāmacandra and Sītā Devī. It will elevate our, the standard of our life, and He will supply energy in the back to show substantially that ideal. We shall imbibe energy from such character to our own idea. So, how inestimable goodness we imbibe from such character, we can't measure that. So, we are infinitely indebted to this character of Sītā Devī and Rāmacandra etc. Let Them bless us with Their more good will and grace, that we may pass through the temptations of this world towards the higher goal which we have anyhow come to accept.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Yes, what was your question?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Well, you said that Hanumān was the most intense example of dāśya rasa, so I was wondering that, it seems that generally in the scripture, Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Caitanya-caritāmṛta, for dāśya rasa they mention Raktaka and Citraka, so why don't they mention Hanumān?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is in the relativity of Rāmacandra. When Kṛṣṇa is Rāmacandra, then Hanumān's service and ideal cuts a very bright figure, good, conspicuous figure.

And the līlā of Rāmacandra was such that Hanumān's duty had an important part, role. But Kṛṣṇa when in Vṛndāvana, the Raktaka, Patraka, Citraka, that is only in Vṛndāvana, not in Dvārakā. But here in the midst of so much service coming to him from different quarters, the Raktaka and Citraka are drowned there.

Yaśodā says, "Oh Raktaka, bring some water! Just cleanse this place!" So, Yaśodā's ideal has overshadowed all these characters, small characters, dāśya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya.

From gradually higher, and the higher has subdued the lower type, the vātsalya and the mādhurya having the higher position, and then sākhya rasa. Especially these three are meant in Vṛndāvana. Other rasas are found elsewhere, but this sākhya, this type of sākhya, real type of sākhya, vātsalya and mādhurya are not to be had anywhere else but Vṛndāvana. So beautiful, so intense, so great, never found anywhere.

And Kṛṣṇa, the ideal also should be of that type, as to attract, to draw such type of friendly service, and they are serving, conscious service, it depends on the ideal, and also the paraphernalia, more. Dāsya plus confidence, then comes sākhya. Sākhya is also service. Everything is service. Vātsalya, the whipping of Yaśodā, that is also service. Without serving spirit, none can approach the Absolute, but all service; different type of service. Vātsalya prema, they're also serving. Outwardly, Kṛṣṇa is carrying the wooden shoe of Nanda on His head, but Nanda is serving. He's sending the shoe on His head, that is also a form of service, helping Him to show such a play. Without serving spirit, none can enter that domain of the Absolute. So, friends they're climbing over the shoulder, sometimes giving a slap, Baladeva giving a slap, Yaśodā whipping: all service. We are to understand that. All with a serving mood. [?] "This wretched boy does not know how to go on in his life. I must teach him." That sort of training and teaching, that is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... such sweet development. Servitors may have such position that is only possible in Kṛṣṇa līlā, nara-līlā, nara-vapu tāhāra svarūpa.

He carries a flute in His hand, and His youth is new. He is also an expert dancer. All this is just suitable for His pastimes as a human being."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 21.101]

Of all the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, this humanly pastimes, that is the highest of all, sweetest of all. It is there. Just like ordinary mundane things. Nearest approach of the infinite to the finite. Infinite's nearest approach, extreme approach to finite. The infinite is approaching to finite and in its extreme form, it is in Vṛndāvana, we find. He's playing at the hands of His servitors of different types, in different ways. The extreme approach of the infinite to finite, so most beautiful, most dignified, and most prospect-giving, unique. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Mahārāja, Ayodhyā is in Goloka Vṛndāvana?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, midway. The vātsalya rasa is there. It is not under Vaikuṇṭha. Vaikuṇṭha is hemisphere. Śanta, dāsyā, and half of sākhya, no vātsalya, Lakṣmī Devī has no parents, Nārāyaṇa also no parents, but in Rāmacandra we find parents. Sītā Devī somewhat, but Rāmacandra's vātsalya [?] the service of affection open there. So, then the mādhurya.

Vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 9] Why? Janito, janma līlā heto, for birth, this birth ceremony is added in Mathurā, not in Vaikuṇṭha. So, it is greater, the service of higher type to be found in Mathurā, the rasa. So in the measurement of rasa, Mathurā holds superior position to Vaikuṇṭha, because the rasa is variegated and more intense there to be found. The measurement of high and low, will come according to the rasa, the actual measurement of the ecstasy that can be felt by the servitors.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Do you follow?

So, the nearest approach of the Absolute towards the mundane finite is found in Vṛndāvana, so, Vṛndāvana is so great for us. We may find here, yasya linde para brahma [?]

He's astounding. The yogīs and jñānīs and other seekers, enquirers, they're trying their utmost to find out Him, and He's nowhere. And here He has come down, taking, sucking breast, on the lap, and being whipped, and stealing, and so many displays, He has come. It is inconceivable and untrustable. [Untrustworthy] We cannot put our confidence in that, which cannot put faith in, which is not trustworthy, beyond the reach of our trust.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... extends themselves without caring for any laws or breeding. So also he told that the Kṛṣṇa consciousness will propagate without caring for any law or dīkṣā.

[“The Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa is an attractive feature for many saintly, liberated people. It is the annihilator of all sinful reactions and is so powerful that save for the dumb who cannot chant it, it is readily available to everyone, including the lowest type of man, the caṇḍāla. The Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa is the controller of the opulence of liberation, and it is identical with Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Simply by touching the Holy Name with one’s tongue, immediate effects are produced. Chanting the Holy Name does not depend on initiation, pious activities, or the puraścaryā regulative principles generally observed before initiation. The Holy Name does not wait for all these activities. It is self-sufficient.”]

[Śrīla Rūpa Goswāmī’s Padyāvalī, 29]

Kṛṣṇa Nāma and the mantra pertaining to Kṛṣṇa Nāma has got free access to the world, without considering any caste, creed, qualification. It is of such nature, as Govardhana. No rules and regulations to be followed by the cow species to propagate Them. From this Govardhana idea He came to similar, to extend, the extension. Self extension of Kṛṣṇa consciousness does not care for any external limitation. It can go anywhere and everywhere freely, can go, this rāga-mārga, rāga-pradhana, not viddhi-pradhana. Kṛṣṇa consciousness in itself is more of love than of rules, regulations. Rules regulations, has got to do, nothing much, they have not the duty to do much in this respect of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

In Nārāyaṇa consciousness, to spread, there is more necessity to law and order, rules, regulations, but not in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Unbridled, unbridled, this rāga-mārga, does not care, mercy does not care for any qualification. It is the duty of the justice to seek for qualification, but mercy has got no such limit of its own: does not care. The area of love, love means mercy, where the compensation for the weak section is a natural [?] a natural flow, is always ready, the provision is there to compensate the weak, the unfit. Already it is reckoned. Only one thing, is śraddhā, the free accepting nature, only this is to consider. Laulyam, if you give, He will to you, He won't cast, throw it aside.

Only the recipient if they're little alert of accepting them, laulyam. Tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ

[kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa-bhāvitā matiḥ, kriyatām yadi kuto 'pi labhyate tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate]

[“Pure devotional service to Kṛṣṇa cannot be obtained by performing pious activities even for millions of births. It can be purchased only by paying one price; intense eagerness. Wherever it is available, one must purchase it immediately.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70]

And śraddhā, regard. No question of any qualification, or his previous life, there is one nature. Another thing I found, yesterday night, thinking.

bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ kṣīyante cāśya karmāṇi, mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani

This bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, the meaning should be, I think, That our heart is sealed and the seal will be broken open, bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. Coming in contact with Kṛṣṇa consciousness our sealed heart, the seal is broken and it awakens, it is opened to receive Kṛṣṇa, rasa. Heart's concern with the rasa, ānanda, ecstasy, charm, mādhurya. It is heart not brain. And chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ is concerned with the brain. The heart has been given the most important, the first condition, bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, that is buried, the heart is covered and the heart opens, awakens, to receive raso vai saḥ, akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ.

*ko hyevānyāt kaḥ prāṇyāt yadeṣa ākāśa ānando na syāt eṣa

["Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the embodiment of all ecstatic bliss; He is the reservoir of all pleasure. Having derived ecstasy from Him, the individual souls become blissful. For, who indeed, could breath, who could be alive if this Blissful Lord were not present within the hearts of all souls. He alone bestows ecstasy."] [Taittirīya-Upaniṣad, 2.7]

The positive, to catch the positive good. Heart, hṛdaya, hṛdaya-granthiś, it is tied down, heart is tied down, it is sealed. Kṛṣṇa kīrtana breaks the seal of the heart and the heart awakens to receive dasya rasa [?] ānanda sundara. And then next, in the plane of knowledge, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ and raso 'py asya, paraṁ dṛṣtvā nivartate:

["Although the person of gross corporeal consciousness may avoid sense objects by external renunciation, his eagerness for sense enjoyment remains within. However, inner attachment to sense objects is spontaneously denounced by the person of properly adjusted intelligence, due to his having had a glimpse of the all-attractive beauty of the Supreme Truth."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.59]

First taste, and then suspicion vanishes. After getting the taste, raso 'py asya, and yukta āsīta mat-paraḥ:

[tāni sarvāṇi saṁyamya, yukta āsīta mat-paraḥ vaśe hi yasyendriyāṇi, tasya prajñā pratiṣṭhitā]

["By the practice of perfect devotion to Me, the bhakti-yogīs bring their senses under proper control. One whose senses are controlled is truly intelligent."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.61]

When he gets the taste of the real rasa, the ānandam, ecstasy, then necessarily all doubts are cleared by this practical participation. First getting the taste, heart, when heart is appealed, heart is captured, brain follows. 'Yes, I want this thing. I was searching for this.' The heart will say. 'I was searching for this.' Satisfied, the heart will say. Then the brain will come, will follow, 'Yes, no other doubt, no doubt. This is the highest thing of our search. Dissolve everything.' Then karma will close all workshops. The thing, searching, inner searching, the heart will say, 'I have got.' The brain will say, 'It is the thing. Stop all workshops and adjust accordingly.' This karma, jñāna and hṛdaya, bhakti. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, coming in touch with Kṛṣṇa consciousness the first thing that our heart awakens, hṛdaya-granthiś, bhidyate. Positive, first thing supplied to us positive, to the heart, heart is captured, and brain approves, and then our energising in the opposite directions stops.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

So Kṛṣṇa consciousness that is the wealth of the heart, anurāga, and does not worry with differences amongst the receivers, or amongst the purchasers, or customers for their different qualifications. Govardhana, it goes like the cow species to extend itself without caring for any law, only one, that whether he will accept. 'Yes, he has eagerness to accept, laulyam.' Only one qualification, that laulyam, he wants it really, that he wants it really, that is qualification. 'Do you want this?' 'Yes, it is good, it is tasteful.' 'Yes, you get it.' If the demand, the prayer is genuine, 'All right, no other conditions to be required. Only you want it?' 'Yes, I want it sincerely, you say. Get it.' That is the simple transaction. You want, you have. If you want, you will have. Most simple transaction - Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Fitness, unfitness, these questions are very non-important. Want and have.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Nityānanda Prabhu, those that do not want it, He won't allow them to go away. "No, try to want. I request you." He's going a step further. "I do not want." He won't leave him. Here, Nityānanda Prabhu won't allow if anyone says, "I do not want this." "No, you have to want, you have to desire it. You think. I request you earnestly, you use it and then you will be able to understand, to feel the utility."

Just as the expert merchant will distribute the specimen to the customers. "Oh, no money now. I'm giving, you use, if you feel the value, the utility, then you will purchase. Now I am freely distributing in the market." To capture the market free distribution by the clever merchant. "Take it, take it, no price, no question of price now. First taste and then afterwards."

So Nityānanda, bhaja gaurāṅga:

[bhaja gaurāṅga, kaha gaurāṅga laha gauranger nāma, yei jana gaurāṅga bhaje sei amāra prāna]

ata bhuli nityananda bhumi gauri jai sona padva jana dulai [?]

The attempt, the appeal from the negative side, not aggression. Nityānanda began to cry, falling at the door of the feet of the customers. “Accept, accept this, accept Me. Don’t dismiss Me, don’t drive Me away. What I say, do it. Give your attention towards Gaurāṅga. This is My appeal, nothing else. Some attention towards Gaurāṅga and you’ll be benefited beyond expectation. This is My request to you all.” Shedding tears, and also where necessary He began to roll at the door of the person. “You are suspicious to accept. No, no, no suspicion. I appeal fervently, no suspicion, accept, accept, believe Me, believe Me, accept Gaurāṅga.” In this way Nityānanda Prabhu tried His best, especially these two sides of the Ganges He used to wander, roam and preach about Gaurāṅga. He knows Gaurāṅga.

Just as Baladeva, He’s also seen to perform rasa-līlā. But we have been advised to look at the rasa-līlā of Baladeva in a particular way by Sanātana Goswāmī. Baladeva, externally He’s imitating the rasa-līlā of Kṛṣṇa, but it is not so. At heart He’s arranging rasa-līlā for Kṛṣṇa. Externally He’s seen to imitate the rasa-līlā of Kṛṣṇa, but His nature shows to the experts of this line that He's all dedicated towards Kṛṣṇa otherwise He's not Baladeva. He has got no individual personality for His own enjoyment. Every atom in His body always eager to make arrangements for the enjoyment of Kṛṣṇa, then only He's Baladeva. So Nityānanda Prabhu is also such that every atom of the body of Nityānanda Prabhu conscious, atom means not material, cīnmaya, but is only meant for the service and satisfaction of Gaurāṅga.

So much so, that one day Śacī Devī had a dream that Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma is on the throne and Nityānanda, He's trying to attract Baladeva. "You come down from the throne. Your day's past away. Now My Lord Gaurāṅga He will be installed there on the throne."

But Baladeva fighting, "No, I can't do unto My Lord Kṛṣṇa."

So there is a fight and then Nityānanda was stronger and He took Baladeva down from the throne. "Your day's gone. Now the day for My Master, Gaurāṅga, has come. So You are a trespasser, usurper, so You must come away."

And Baladeva could not successfully fight with Nityānanda Who took Him down.

So Nityānanda's position to Gaurāṅga is such. He has got nothing of His own but His everything is Gaurāṅga. Audārya, just as Baladeva to Kṛṣṇa, so Nityānanda to Gaurāṅga, to distribute most generous way that Vraja prema that is to be distributed to one and all. That was Their campaign and Their aim of incarnation.

bhaja gaurāṅga, kaha gaurāṅga laha gauranger nāma, yei jana gaurāṅga bhaje sei amāra prāna

[“Worship Gaurāṅga, speak of Gaurāṅga, chant Gaurāṅga’s Name. Whoever worships Śrī Gaurāṅga is My life and soul. Come straight to the campaign of Śrī Caitanya and you will safely attain Vṛndāvana.”]

Nityānanda tried His best for the acceptance of Mahāprabhu to the people at large. And what is this? “Come straight to Gaurāṅga and safely you will have Vṛndāvana.” And Navadvīpa is also not less valuable. Vṛndāvana, the same rasa in one type in Vṛndāvana and another type in Navadvīpa. Some have got special attraction for Vṛndāvana līlā and another group they have got special attraction for Navadvīpa līlā and a third group represents both the camps, audārya, more generous. There within the circle and here, the same thing to distribute out of the circle, so more generous.

kṛṣṇa-līlā amṛta-sara, tāra śata śata dhara, daśa-dike vahe yāhā haite, se caitanya-līlā haya, sarovara akṣaya, mano-haṁsa carāha' tahate

[“There is no doubt that we find the highest nectarine taste of rasa in Kṛṣṇa līlā. But what is Gaura līlā? In Gaura līlā, the nectar of Kṛṣṇa līlā is not confined to a limited circle, but is being distributed on all sides. It is just as if from all ten sides of the nectarine lake of Kṛṣṇa līlā hundreds of streams are flowing.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 25.271]

Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī’s conception is this. “Kṛṣṇa is amṛta-sara, yes, the highest nectarean taste we find in Kṛṣṇa līlā no doubt. But what is Gaura līlā? That is just a lake from ten sides, tāra śata śata dhara, daśa-dike, hundreds of streams are coming from that lake of Kṛṣṇa līlā, daśa-dike, on ten sides it is flowing, that amṛta. That nectar in the lake is Kṛṣṇa līlā and that is going out by so many streams on all sides. Kṛṣṇalīlā amṛta-sara, the first class nectar, tāra śata śata dhara, hundreds of currents, of streams, is passing in different directions. Daśa-dike vahe yāhā haite, se gaurāṅga-līlā haya, Śrī Caitanyadeva is such. The different types of Kṛṣṇa līlā, rasa, amṛtam, is spreading from that lake, on all sides it is thrown. So not confined to a limited circle, but it is thrown on all sides that very Kṛṣṇa līlā, Kṛṣṇa. They're tasting sweetness and throwing outside, this Pañca Tattva.

marcay mili asvadana kore evam utpat kore katcha evam [?]

They're looting, the Pañca Tattva is looting that nectar, that honey of Kṛṣṇa līlā and throwing hither, thither on all sides. And others getting that and their life is being fulfilled. Those that have got such aspiration it is so much to them. Otherwise to others it is an abstract imagination, and waste of time, and even going to madness. 'These are mad people.'

udbay halai chilai e nimai pandit gaya haite asiya chalai vibodit [?]

The normal thinking men of the time, of the age, told like that. "This Nimāi Paṇḍit was a good man, a gentleman, but after returning from Gayā He's totally changed. And all the undesirable things here He is handling of many new things He wants to preach here. What is this? He was a good gentleman before He came from Gayā. Now totally changed, a madman. He does not care for the rules, regulations, the customs, the ancient scriptures, only 'Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa and all is Kṛṣṇa.' Abnormal, He was normal but recently He has become abnormal. And of course He was a powerful intellect. What He begins He begins with some great energy, from beginning. When He was a paṇḍit He did not care for the scholarship of so many paṇḍits around, Digvijayī and so many others He defeated without much attempt, simply. But we have lost Him. Now He's another type and does not care for the brāhmaṇas or the ordinary śāstra we follow. A new opinion He has got and is going on. His ways were un-understandable. Śacī Devī, what is this? Nimāi was not such. Now He does not care for us, even no charm for His wife. What is this He has become?”

Then the neighbours coming and advising Śacī Devī. “What do you do? You are a child of a good man, daughter of a gentleman. Your fate is bad. Your only son, so good son Nimāi Paṇḍit He has become mad. What to do? [?] The fact is this that your only boy, so brilliant, has become mad, this is the fact Śacī. Arrange for proper treatment.”

Then Śacī Devī called for the kavirāja, the doctor. And the doctor made arrangements for a small tank, then that was filled up with oil, supposed to be very cooling thing. And Nimāi Paṇḍit was asked to dive His body in that tank. And He did so and He’s sometimes laughing, Nimāi Paṇḍit laughing and also He’s playing in that tank. He’s laughing was not like a normal laugh, laughing and moving in that oil reservoir.

Then Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit suddenly came to visit. “How is Nimāi Paṇḍit?”

Śacī Devī told: “See my misfortune, my Nimāi has become fully mad. And I called for the doctor and he has arranged.”

Śrīvāsa went to see, “What is this?”

“No, no, the neighbours they advised me to do this.”

“You are very gentle lady. Do you not know how to deal with others? What He has got I want that thing, what He has got. Your boy has got Kṛṣṇa prema, and I want that, a drop of that I want. If we live for a little longer time then we shall see much mysterious play of Kṛṣṇa here. If we are allowed to live for few days we shall have the opportunity of seeing much mysterious play of Kṛṣṇa. I want this.” Then Mahāprabhu became sober for the time being and told: “Śrīvāsa, if you also remarked that I am mad, then just now I would have went to the Ganges and finished My life. At least you have understood what I am. That is My solace. Śrīvāsa, at least, if you had said to the public that He’s mad, then I’d have found no man to accept what I have come to deal with, so I must enter into the river, no necessity.”

In this way, the madman.

[“While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self- realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

Night for some is day for others, and what is day for some is night for other’s, awakening. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

bahu ye gaur yangat vikra ya jani dinam asidya dina [?]

They leave their so-called own relatives. They’re also very, he himself becomes very apathetic to any pleasure and runs out of his house, the place of comfort, from tree to tree. And those he leaves, his relatives, they also think themselves very poor and they also cry and shed tears and express much dissatisfaction, and wailing. Dinam asidya dina [?]

Leaves them poor and himself also poor.

“As long as I have not got that for which I am out I am poorest of the poor.”

And whom he has left, by leaving their association, they who thought that they're rich, but when his association was snatched away, then they became poor. Dinam asidya dina [?]

That is the nature. Rādhārāṇī's accusing Kṛṣṇa. “Your nature is such. Whoever has come in connection of You, their condition is very poor, very poor. They can't find satisfaction anywhere. The real wine of their heart is drawn away. Whomever, in any way comes in Your connection, they're undone, they're finished, no prospect anywhere. Madly they will run in search of You. And so many, his friends and relatives, they will cry, they will find themselves very, very poor. So Your touch means to dispossess all of their prospects, all the prospects of their life gone whenever any touch of You anyone has got. He's finished, the enjoyment of his life, the spirit of his life is drawn.”

Shakespeare told, in Macbeth perhaps, when Duncan was murdered: “Duncan was a good man, good king, but when he was murdered,” Shakespeare has written: “The spirit of life is drawn, the spirit of life for everyone. If such a good man may be murdered, then what is the worth of living our life. The life is not worth living. Such a good man he's murdered. In this way, the spirit of life is drawn, to everyone it is drawn. That this is not a place to live for the gentlemen. Such a gentleman is murdered, is there any law? It's anarchy. One must not aspire to live here.”

So coming in connection of Kṛṣṇa consciousness all the prospects ever finished. Dinam asidya [?] Considers themselves meanest of the poorest of the poor. And searching, can't leave searching and thinks, poorest of the poor. That will be their attitude. Only with the help of the sādhus they can sustain their life. They're of equal status, one consoles another. In this way.

This kīrtana, when Mahāprabhu fainted the Name aroused Him. The Name has got miracle touch. Mahāprabhu fainted when He fell into the sea, and for a long time, the whole night, the waves are playing with His body, and ultimately cast on the shore from two miles off. Svarūpa Dāmodara and others searching the whole night. "Where has Prabhu gone?" Some say He jumped into the Yamunā where Kṛṣṇa is having His pastimes in the Yamunā, the moonlit night and He jumped into the Yamunā in the sea and carried away. Searching, searching after, and when the night was almost finished Svarūpa Dāmodara found Him thrown on the sea shore where He jumped two miles off. Then, as usual, they began to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. And Mahāprabhu came to senses, to the external world. Other times a small samādhī, but this time a long samādhī. And Mahāprabhu describing what, where He was engaged in, in Kṛṣṇa līlā. He said that, "In Govardhana some arrangement of Kṛṣṇa līlā. Rādhārāṇī with Her own group came there, and so many things are happening. I was watching from far away. How the jingling, wonderful jingling sound of the ornaments, how the beautiful voice, and what beautiful and charming the atmosphere. I was watching. Suddenly you snatched Me away from that position to here." Began to cry aloud, Mahāprabhu. “I was engaged in seeing that wonderful atmosphere and all the pastimes there in Govardhana. I got it, but My fate could not keep it. You have all forcibly carried Me here in this plane. I have lost it.” Began to wail.

So the Nāma, Kṛṣṇa-Nāma is so forceful anyhow can take away from that deep samādhi also of Mahāprabhu. What peculiar things there in the Nāma, because He came with that Nāma so Nāma has the preference, even than direct participation in the līlā, took Him.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Mahārāja, sometimes people wonder what is the necessity then, the Hari-Nāma has such potency, what is the necessity for formal initiation into chanting the Holy Name?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. The real standard, two things to be considered. One, the goal, highest goal, how valuable the thing and what is the price? The calculation should be according to that. How much is required of you and how valuable is the thing? It is all right, but the poison in you it requires some sort of adjustment to receive that Name, aparādha, aparādha sunyai [?]. So, āmāra durdaiva, nāme nāhi anurāga.

[“sarva-śakti nāme dilā kariyā vibhāga / āmāra durdaiva, — nāme nāhi anurāga!”]

["You have invested Your full potencies in each individual Holy Name, but I am so unfortunate that I have no attachment for chanting Your Holy Names."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 20.19]

Something is necessary from your part. It is all right. Tuwa ada vichena param audarya [?]

He's generous enough to give you without any price, without anything in return. But the cooperation of your free will is necessary. Otherwise you would have got it from previous time automatically. Free cooperation, your freedom is not disturbed, so your free will is to be attracted towards that and to prepare your free will to cooperate with this bargain, these things are necessary, minimum. Minimum these things are required of you. And in comparison to your gain this is nothing. In other aspects the goal is of less importance, the object of our gain is not so high, but the process to gain that is more troublesome. But here, with the least price you get the highest thing. But what is necessary is cooperation of your free will, laulya, śraddhā, otherwise it is nothing to you. If you have got no śraddhā then thousands may be liberated and they get, but it is nothing to you, you are quite in the dark. So śraddhā, something is necessary from you, at minimum that is, "Yes, I want this, I want this." At least sincere earnestness to get the thing. Other things will be managed from that side. This is what we are to think out. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] how? [?] "My apathy towards Name can never be removed. That is my heart Lord, sympathy, I can't find out sympathetic heart to accept. The trouble is there."

So the sādhus come and they may begin their opposition and make him fit and then connects both of them and then the fulfilment comes. So sādhū, Guru, their room or duty with them, gradually. And they're also the agents of the Name. The Name has captured their heart wholly and there, they want also servant. That also comes from the Name. The Name Kṛṣṇa, or Mahāprabhu, the *sādhū*s that come to relieve these ordinary people on their behalf, they're also His agency. He's coming and He's cleansing the heart of them, taking the throne and taking the Deity and asking worship, all these things.

Once, myself and Mādhava Mahārāja, Hayagrīva Brahmachāri, I am a sannyāsī, went to preach in some Padma [?] in some place in Purva Bangal [?] East Bengal. Then we are told that just in the vicinity of the town there were some people who were a little inclined towards this Kṛṣṇa kīrtana etc. We went there and asked them, "We want to go on with lecture on Bhāgavatam, Bhāgavata-pat, and kīrtana."

"Yes, you may come, you may do, and this is the place."

"Yes, we will come. At dusk it may be begun, half an hour after sunset, something." We went there with the party, no arrangement, then what to do? We hired a light from the market with our own money, and also gathered some mats to spread in that place. Then we began to play on mṛdaṅga and karatālas. Then one by one many gentlemen came and took their seat there, and there was saṅkīrtana and then perhaps discourse or something, and saṅkīrtana.

It was finished, then one old man stood up and told: "This is Gauḍīya Maṭha. The whole burden is on them. They have come from so far. We assured them that we shall make arrangements, 'you come and have kīrtana and lecture,' but we all were absent. They came, with their own money they hired the light and the mats, and then one by one we came, but all the burden is on them and nothing to us."

The Gauḍīya Maṭh. So the burden of the sādhū is to cleanse, and that is from Kṛṣṇa's side, so Kṛṣṇa is doing everything. Ha, ha, ha. Because His men, he's cleansing, making arrangements and anyhow taking him in, from his side. He does not want to interfere with the free will, then the jīva will be nowhere, it will be stone, if free will is snatched away it will be stone. Free cooperation, not sacrificing doing away with the freedom of the jīva. Then, what will remain? Nothing, so it is managed in this way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] something like defeat. There was another also. Lakṣmī, Arjuna. While Hanumān was carrying Gangamadhan [?], or Lakṣmaṇa saktise [?], he had a mind to test the heroism of Bharata. So passing over Ayodhyā, Hanumān. And there was some shade on the padukar of Rāmacandra and Bharata could not tolerate that someone is crossing over this padukar of Rāmacandra, so Bharata shot, threw an arrow, and Hanumān fell down, “Jai Rāma,” with the sound of “Jai Rāma.”

Then Bharata, “What? Jai Rāma? He must be a servant of Rāmacandra. What have I done?”

Bharata ran to the place and found Hanumān. Then one day Hanumān was pacified, Bharata got the news and Lakṣmaṇa is in saktise [?] and in sympathy Hanumān thought, how, whether that Bharata can lift this mountain, Hanumān told that, “My health is damaged by your arrow. I can’t take up the hillock. If you manage kindly.” Then of course Bharata with the help of his arrow set up the hillock in the sky and then Hanumān came.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Play, līlāgram [?] Everything is līlā, if we go to measure the līlā by reason, ha, ha, ha, it will be lost, ha, ha. Līlā, that cannot be measured, cannot be challenged, that is līlā. The flow is irregistable and causeless, that is nirguṇa, līlā.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Are you saying irresistible or irregistable?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Irregistable, not registable, not to be registered, can never be registered or opposed, unopposable. Ahaituky apratihatā, it is causeless, we cannot find out any reason, any necessity. It is automatic. Absolute Good does not care for anything because it is Absolute Good, no necessity of caring for anything. So it is irregistrable, it is ahaituky, causeless, no cause. And irresistible also, that unopposable. Its credit is so high, that opposition is not necessary at all. So the stuff is such it is unopposable, no necessity of opposition. The prime cause, the prime wave, the causal wave, does not require any opposition because it is Absolute Good. No question of opposition, but that opposition that is seen, that is also a part of līlā. How?

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet / ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati

[“Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa.”] [Ujjvala-nīlamanī]

Just as the serpent goes by crooked way, so also the līlā, ato hetor ahetoś, sometimes with cause, slight, sometime with no cause. The opposition, the mock fight is there, the līlā, the beauty is enhanced by that. But that is a part of līlā, but other things can never oppose it. That is nirguṇa, in its own nature it is going in a crooked way. But nothing from outside can oppose its flow. So, apratihatā, cannot be overridden, or cannot be stopped, or cannot be checked, the wave cannot be checked or stopped by any other force, it is Absolute. Absolute Good, Absolute Beauty, Absolute Ecstasy, whatever you like to say. Ahaituky apratihatā, ahaituky, no beginning, no cause, and apratihatā, no possibility of change in the future, the past and future both described here. Ahaituky means the history or the nature of the past is given there, ahaituky. Don't go to find the cause, no other cause. It is its own cause. No cause has produced this. Like that Hegel, “By Itself.” And apratihatā, there is no other foreign force can stop it, that is for itself. It is independent, uncheckable, unchangeable by any foreign force. So it is Absolute, otherwise it cannot be Absolute.

apratihatā, yayātmā suprasīdati*

[“The supreme occupation (dharma) for all humanity is that by which men can attain to loving devotional service unto the transcendental Lord. Such devotional service must be unmotivated and uninterrupted to completely satisfy the self.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.6]

We are asked to catch that wave. Sa vai puṁsāṁ paro dharmo. The highest duty of everyone is to accept that wave and to mix with it in the same tune, mix up with the tune of the Absolute wave, and that is bhakti, nirguṇa, beautiful wave, part. Sa vai puṁsāṁ paro dharmo, that causeless wave underground connecting with the Absolute will and your attempt should be to reach to that plane.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja [ahaṁ tvām sarvapāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

[“Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

And, sa vai puṁsāṁ paro dharmo, yato bhaktir adhokṣaje, submission to that plenary movement, to dance with that wave. That is what is necessary. You are all engaged in local interest of different type, a single, or a little family, or a nation, or a globe, all these are local interest, so give up all sorts of local associations and embrace the universal wave, Kṛṣṇa līlā. Mix yourself with Kṛṣṇa līlā. It is already there and you are to adjust yourself with that līlā which is going, nitya-līlā. That is what is necessary after all, with all our different phases of action, knowledge, devotion, whatever you may say. This is the end of your life. The eternal līlā is there, and you are to adjust yourself with that, then everything is finished.

Now in details how that is possible? First śraddhā, tato sādhu-saṅga, all this in this way, passing through these different stages you can find out in the deep that līlā is going and you are to participate there. And there are different divisions also. The wave is not an abstract non-differentiated, but it is differentiated, beautifully decorated, so many things, and according to your taste you can find a place there. And that is the happiest position, that is the goal. Not mere liberation from the negative engagement, that is local engagement, but to participate into the positive movement, that is līlā. This is Vaiṣṇava dharma.

The līlā also of different status, the Nārāyaṇa, the Rāmacandra, the Dvārakeśa, Mathureśa, then Brajeśa. The Supreme most, the deepest līlā every found is Vraja līlā. Why? For such reasons, such reasons. The speciality of Kṛṣṇa conception, that is the sweetest. Why so many things shed in favour of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, generally against Nārāyaṇa consciousness, Rāma consciousness, Dvārakeśa consciousness? Crossing Them we should come to Vraja consciousness. The group that are serving in that plane, their nature is such and such, the most charming. And the sacrifice is also there to the highest point. So the gain, the remuneration is also of the highest degree. In general it is like that. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Eho bāhya āge kaha āra, [“This is superficial; go further.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59] Over the surface apparent things are going on in a particular way. Deeper reading, deeper reading, eho bāhya āge, “go deeper, go deeper.” The deepest is Vraja līlā, and again there, mādhurya-līlā. Rāmānanda Rāya, different layers, and the deepest layer in the service of Rādhārāṇī. Wholesale service of Kṛṣṇa. Negative, positive, in Their highest degree. Rasa-rāja, mahābhāva-dui eka rūpa, Both combined in Mahāprabhu, the greatest consumer and the greatest supplier. Rasa-rāja, the greatest aggression in the highest degree, and Predominated Moiety was also prepared to satisfy in the highest degree. Rasa-rāja, mahābhāva. Inconceivable, inconceivable, only distant ray, we can deal with very distant ray, not to be acquired by intellect.

nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena yam evaiṣa vṛnute [tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

[Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

This grand and most important factor to know the truth we must be kept in mind. That we cannot know Him, but He can make Himself known to us. Then what we are to do? Our capacity, how to invite Him? How to increase the negative side? That is our only wealth should be that, how to attract Him towards us? Yam evaiṣa vṛnute, how I can invite Him, vṛnute, yam evaiṣa vṛnute, how I can have His acceptance? Vṛnute, He will accept me, to make Himself known. Otherwise it is not possible to know Him. Only one way, that when He will come to make Himself known to me I will be able to know, only this path. Then the invitation, the prayer will be of that type. So jñāna-śūnya-bhakti.

*jñāne prayāsam udapāśya namanta eva, [jīvanti san-mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vān-manobhir, ye
prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]*

Try to go down, increase your necessity. “I am so mean, I am so worthless. My need is the greatest. I am in the most want, so I invite Your attention towards me.” Repetition will be like that. Prepare yourself to go down. [?] There is a Bengali proverb: “If you want to become great, straightly, go to think that you are very small.” Consider yourself very, very small, then you will have the chance of becoming great. But if you are puffed up with what you have got at present in your possession, then it's the bar to progress. Try to find your need, your want, analyse you and try to see your need, that you are needy in various ways. And then a general tendency will be created that, “I am needy.” Analyse you and try to know your needy characteristic, dainyam, then from dainyam, ātma nivedana will necessarily come out. “I'm the meanest of the mean, so I want some help, some support. I am so fickle, so unsubstantial, nothing in me if I enquire.” So real invitation will come for the great. Otherwise when you think that, “I have got some peculiar capacity which others may not have,” with this egoistic feeling will be the bar, that will be your enemy. Sincerely if you can analyse yourself you'll see that you are helpless by nature.

["There are innumerable particles of spiritual atoms, which are measured as one ten-thousandth of the upper portion of the hair."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.7.42, purport]

[" 'If we divide the tip of a hair into a hundred parts and then take one of these parts and divide it again into a hundred parts, that very fine division is the size of but one of the numberless living entities. They are all cit-kaṇa, particles of spirit, not matter.']

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.140]

It has been suggested for us to understand our position. That there is one hair, if you cut the hair into a hundred pieces, and again one piece into a hundred pieces, again that piece to a hundred. You are so infinite imaginary position, infinitely small, infinitesimal. So try to realise you, then you will come to the reality. "Oh, I am so small. Then how can I stand without some help from outside?" So your real inner hankering will come for ātma-nivedanam. "I want a support, I want a support. Otherwise I can't stand independently. I am so small." That sincere, intense desire, that will take us to some support, ātma-nivedanam. First dainyam, to find out the real meanness of the self, and necessarily there will come a natural search for some support, ātma-nivedanam. Then gopṛtve varaṇa, and when we get some sort of support, most earnestly to embrace that. "That without You I am nowhere so I can't leave You, gopṛtve varaṇa, and You must protect me."

Avasya rakse krsne visvasye paran [?]

And at the same time what will be favourable to that activity to accept that and what is unfavourable to dismiss that, ṣaḍ-vidhā śaraṇāgatiḥ. Śaraṇāgati itself can give everything, it is mentioned somewhere. In Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam also I have mentioned this. That only śaraṇāgati can fulfil all your desires. Other things will come automatically. You give your full attention to śaraṇāgati. Don't mind anything, and other things will automatically come. You are to look out whether you are true there, may not deviate from that position, that śaraṇāgati. Others, śravaṇa, kīrtana, smaraṇa, all other things cannot but come to a śaraṇāgata, automatically, unconsciously. So only śaraṇāgati can drive away the whole trouble and deliver the highest thing, śaraṇāgati is such. It is graphic, and a very broad and very wide prospect, śaraṇāgati. Śaraṇāgati means, that is to be conscious of one's helplessness. "I am born to be supported and not to give support to anyone. By birth I am such, taṭastha-jīva, no marginal position, no real position. I am such. What I can do? By constitution I am such. I am helpless. So my only support is as a dependent creation. So without support I can't stand, so I don't want false support, but real support."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Service, from śaraṇāgati comes service, and by the grace of the Lord service increases and takes different shapes, friendly, sākhya, vātsalya, etc. And mādhurya-rasa service is the wholesale service, unreserved, wholesale. It has been expressed in a Bengali padāvali (by Jñāna Dāsa in his Vaiṣṇava-padāvali): prati aṅga lāgi kānde, prati aṅga mora.

Only Rādhārāṇī can say so: "That every part of My body, every limb, every atom on My body, is crying for the corresponding atom on the other body."

Prati aṅga lāgi kānde, prati aṅga mora. The Whole is crying for the other Whole.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. It is possible, in some quarters, and we are to conceive from a respectable distance, thinking that it is possible somewhere. And we must group ourselves to that side where so much intense and expansive unity is possible. We may group ourselves to that side. Then we may have best, which cannot be had.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

So it is said, categorically different from the gopīs. Here also in Rāmānanda Rāya: “The service of the gopīs, that is the highest, mādhurya-rasa. And then when Mahāprabhu told: “Any further?” Then came the case of Rādhārāṇī. “Her service, not in quantity but in quality also is superior to those of the gopīs.” It has been mentioned in that way. Not only in quantity or intensity, but quality also is of other type.

śata-koṭi-gopīte nahe kāma-nirvāpaṇa, tāhātei anumāni śrī-rādhikāra guṇa

[“Lord Kṛṣṇa’s transcendental desires for loving exchanges could not be satisfied even in the midst of billions of gopīs. Thus He went searching after Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. Just imagine how transcendently qualified She is!”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.116]

It is mentioned there. And from Jayadeva also we find:

[kaṁsārīr api saṁsāra-, vāsanā-baddha-śṛṅkhalām] rādhām ādhāya hṛdaye, tatyāja vraja-sundarīḥ

[“ ‘Lord Kṛṣṇa, the enemy of Kaṁsa, took Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī within His heart, for He desired to dance with Her. Thus He left the arena of the

rāsa dance and the company of all the other beautiful damsels of Vraja.”] [Gītā-Govinda, 3.1] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.106]

Taking Rādhārāṇī, He left other Vraja gopīs and took Her to some solitary place. So categorically that in quality also some sort of difference, prema-sevā. The gopī love, that is also a high type of love, but again there is superior love which is found in Rādhārāṇī. So leaving all, Kṛṣṇa can accept Her service. There is such possibility. But we should learn to revere that ideal from afar and not try to rush in like fools where angels fear to tread.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

vaikuṇṭhara pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya, [māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya]

[“The earth, water, fire, air and ether of Vaikuṇṭha are all spiritual. Material elements are not found there.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.53]

...

So it is not imagination. Vaikuṇṭhara pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya, māyika bhūtera tathi janma.

Mathematically you can produce this. And all Guru. To live and move within, Guru. “I’m of the worst type, meanest type, and on all sides Guru, all Guru.”

Just as if we’re required to put our foot onto the throne of the Deity, for some service. Suppose the Deity is a little higher, bigger Deity, and for His crown the servitor is required to climb up into the throne. He generally considers that throne is very venerable thing, we can’t retire, even to touch His hand we shall shiver, ‘that I am not qualified to touch the throne.’ But when we are required for the service to put our foot on the throne and to adjust the crown of the Deity, then with what audacity we do that. And when coming down we again cleanse the place and we bow our head to the throne. ‘The throne is of superior position than me, more respectable, more venerable than I am.’

So the whole Vaikuṇṭha, Vṛndāvana, they're of that type. We must be conscious. All Guru. So not a particle of enjoying spirit will be able to come there. So respect, in the first position, respect in Vaikuṇṭha, then affection, love, in Vraja, when it will. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna, must be eliminated outside. It is not imagination. It is reality. It is so much reality that all other things are unreal in comparison to that, in our śraddhā. Everything is unreal and that is only real. And we must try to have that. No imagination.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Hiranyagarbha, he and his friend...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Hiranyagarbha?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He and his friend...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, Nadia.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: And Pandu, they say that, "In Caitanya-Bhāgavata Mahāprabhu says, one day, He says, 'I'm not going to eat in the house of a poor man. I want to eat in a house of a rich man.'"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Master, master, one lākh, lākheśavara. Yes.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Lākheśavara. So then they say, "Mahāprabhu is saying, if you do not chant a lākh..."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The difficulty is that only a part of the advice should not make the molehill, mountain of a molehill.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Mountain out of a molehill.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only that was not the advice of Mahāprabhu. There are so many advices. And all must be taken into account and the importance should be allotted, not only one point of His advice.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lākheśavara, and then by repetition of this sound we can get the Name? How to improve the quality of taking the Name?

ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ [sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ]

[“Because the name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Kṛṣṇa Himself, and on the absolute spiritual platform, Kṛṣṇa’s name, form, qualities, and associates, cannot be appreciated by the material senses. However, when one engages the tongue in chanting the Holy Names of the Lord and tasting the remnants of the Lord’s food, Kṛṣṇa gradually reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee.”]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234]

So the interpretation of that lākha, this lākha Nāma means where the aim must not be missed - that sort of Name. Taking Name and the mind is wandering through the different worlds, different charms

- not that Name. Eka lākha Nāma, when the Name should be taken with the single aim, that is also what lākha means. Anyhow, to come to scientific position. Ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ. Rūpa Goswāmī, and this is, Rūpa Goswāmī cannot be taken away from Mahāprabhu, as well as the scientific blame. Who are taking so many Names, Name, Kṛṣṇa is within the Name, taking Name what is the result? Why not such desired result?

eka kṛṣṇa-nāme yata pāpa hare, pātakī sādhyā nāhi tata pāpa kare

[“No sinner can commit as much sin as one Name of Kṛṣṇa can destroy.”]

One Name is sufficient. Why not that? What is that Name? Vaikunṭha-nāma-grahaṇam aśeṣā [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.2.14] The Name is not a mundane sound. Nāmākṣara bahiraya batu nāma kabu naya [From Jagadānanda Paṇḍita’s Prema-vivarta]. The sound, the physical sound corresponding of the Name, that is not Name proper. Name is cinmoya. Name is Kṛṣṇa Himself. Where is that Name? It is his self deception. These fools want to deceive them. Where I’m taking the Name, where is the Name? Have I got the desired result of the Name with me when I pronounce the Name? Why not? Then there must be some rub.

Sevonmukhe hi jihvādaṁ, we are not sufficiently regardful, so Kṛṣṇa is not with the Name. Only physical Name repetition. Must come to the practical side, practical application, otherwise they will have to turn to be atheist. 'I did so much but I have found nothing.' But to the real process you go, the progress according to the step by step going, you will find and be more encouraged. And those will be able to think it is real. Otherwise those fools will think, 'This is all, I have done many things, but it is all imagination, nothing is there.'

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes. Many of them become atheists.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: We have seen.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What to do? Not in the particular process recommended, that is ignored. And wild goose chasing, some sort of labour making in useless way, then they'll be turned to atheist, reactionary. 'Oh, I have done much, but it is nothing, all may be imagination.' that will be their announcement later on.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes. Our Guru Mahārāja's disciples also, they're saying this now. "For many, many years I was chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa, doing all these things, I got nothing."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So very cheaply they wanted to have that sweet-ball to devour. He taught like that. Without the money to purchase the sweet-ball should be swallowed.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. [?]

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Ten after nine. Nine ten.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nine ten. So some dīkṣā, function. I shall go to take bath now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...service that coming to Him from different quarters. The Raktaka, Citraka are drowned there.

Yaśodā says, “Oh, Raktaka, bring some water. Just cleanse this place.” So Yaśodā’s idea has over- shadowed all these characters, more than.

Dāsyā, sākhyā, vātsalyā, mādhyā. Gradually higher, and the higher has subdued the lower type. The vātsalyā and the mādhyā having the higher position, and then sākhyā rasa. Especially these three are meant in Vṛndāvana. Other rasas are found elsewhere, but this sākhyā, this type of sākhyā, real type of sākhyā, vātsalyā and mādhyā, not to be had anywhere else but Vṛndāvana. So beautiful, so intense, so great, never found anywhere.

And Kṛṣṇa, the ideal also should be of that type, as to attract, to draw such type of friendly service, and this filial service, and consort service, it depends on the ideal, and also the paraphernalia. Dāśya plus confidence, then comes sākhya. Sākhya is also service. Everything is service. Vātsalya, the whipping of Yaśodā, that is also service. Without serving spirit, none can approach the Absolute, but all service; but different type of service. Vātsalya prema, they're also serving. Outwardly, Kṛṣṇa is carrying the wooden shoe of Nanda on His head, but Nanda is serving. He's sending the shoe on His head, that is also a form of service, helping Him to show such a play. Without serving spirit none can enter that domain of the Absolute. So friends they're climbing over the shoulder, sometimes giving a slap, Baladeva giving a slap, Yaśodā whipping, all service. We are to understand that, all serving. Kalyana kamana [?]

"This wretched boy does not know how to go on in His life. I must teach Him."

That sort of training and teaching, that is in the spirit of service. But service has got so many beautiful and sweet forms. It is being shown in Vṛndāvana, sweet. Service may have such sweet development. Servitors may have such position, that is only possible in Kṛṣṇa līlā, nara-līlā.

kṛṣṇera yateka khelā, sarvottama nara-līlā, nara-vapu tāhāra svarūpa

He carries a flute in His hand, and His youth is new. He is also an expert dancer. All this is just suitable for His pastimes as a human being."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 21.101]

Of all the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, this humanly pastime, that is the highest of all, sweetest of all. It is there. Just like ordinary mundane thing. Nearest approach of the Infinite to finite, Infinite's nearest approach, extreme approach to finite. The Infinite is approaching to finite, and in its extreme form it is in Vṛndāvana, we find. He's playing at the hands of His servitors of different type in different ways. The extreme approach of the Infinite to finite. So most beautiful. Ha, ha. Most beautiful, most dignified, and most prospect giving, unique. It is unique. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Mahārāja, Ayodhyā is in Goloka Vṛndāvana?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, midway. The vātsalya rasa is there. It's not under Vaikuṇṭha. Vaikuṇṭha is hemisphere: śanta, dāsya, and half of sākhya, no vātsalya. Lakṣmī Devī has no parents, Nārāyaṇa also no parents. But in Rāmacandra we find parents. Sītā Devī somewhat. But Rāmacandra, vātsalya, Kausalya and others who had affection, the service of affection open there, so half. Then the mādhurya.

vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī [tatrāpi rāsotsavād vṛndāraṇyam udāra-pāṇi-ramaṇāt tatrāpi govardhanaḥ rādhā-kunḍam ihāpi gokula-pateḥ premāmṛtāplāvanāt kuryād asya virājato giri-taṭe sevām vivekī na kaḥ]

[“The holy place known as Mathurā is spiritually superior to Vaikuṇṭha, the transcendental world, because the Lord appeared there. Superior to Mathurā-purī is the transcendental forest of Vṛndāvana because of Kṛṣṇa's rāsa-līlā pastimes. And superior to the forest of Vṛndāvana is Govardhana Hill, for it was raised by the divine hand of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and was the site of His various loving pastimes. And, above all, the super-excellent Śrī Rādhā-kunḍa stands supreme, for it is over-flooded with the ambrosial nectarean prema of the Lord of Gokula, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Where, then, is that intelligent person who is unwilling to serve this divine Rādhā-kuṇḍa, which is situated at the foot of Govardhana Hill?”]

[Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 9]

Why? Janito, janma-līlā, nito. For this birth ceremony is added in Mathurā not in Vaikuṇṭha so it is greater. The service of higher type to be found in Mathurā, the rasa. So in the measurement of rasa, Mathurā holds superior position to Vaikuṇṭha because the rasa is variegated and more intense there to be found. The measurement of high and low, will come according to the rasa, the actual measurement of the ecstasy which can be felt by the servitors. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Do you follow? So, the nearest approach of the Absolute towards the mundane finite is found in Vṛndāvana, so Vṛndāvana is so great for us. We may find here, yasyālinde paraṁ brahma [Caitanya- caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.96] He's astounding the yogīs and the jñānīs and the other seekers, enquirers, they are trying their utmost to find out Him, and He's nowhere. And here He has come down, taking, sucking breast, on the lap, and being whipped, and stealing, and so many displays, He has come. It is inconceivable and untrustworthy. We cannot put confidence, we cannot put faith in, which is not trustworthy, beyond the reach of our trust.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In general, local people, I'm giving my consent, deal with them. Responsibility I'm transferring to your hand.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes, I understand that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Special cases you may send here.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So I have one letter to Your Divine Grace, from Mukundamālā Vilāsa.

To His Divine Grace Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja. Dear Gurudeva, please accept my humble obeisances. I hope that you are well. We're always praying for your good health and long life by the Grace of The Lord. Only by pleasing you can we hope to please Kṛṣṇa. For without your mercy we are lost. We are working on publishing a book of your lectures, and this is the only solace in our lives, as we are living in separation from Your Divine Grace, here in New Gupta Govardhana. I hope that by your mercy we can arrange for a first class publication to be brought out. This will be of great value to devotees around the world who are desperate for a deeper understanding of devotional service and Kṛṣṇa. Please bless us that we may be able to successfully serve you in this way, and always remember your instructions on spiritual life.

śravaṇa-maṅgalaṁ śrīmad-ātataṁ, bhuvi grṇanti ye bhūridā janāḥ]

["O Kṛṣṇa, the nectar of Your words and the narrations of Your pastimes give life to us, who are always suffering in this material world. This nectar is broadcast all over the world by great souls, and it removes all sinful reactions. It is all-auspicious and filled with spiritual power. Those who spread this message of Godhead are certainly doing the greatest relief work for human society and are the most magnanimous welfare workers."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.31.9]

You are distributing the real life giving nectar of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. So we think you are doing the highest relief work for the welfare of all fallen souls. Please inspire us to taste and distribute this nectar so that the whole world may be nectarised. Just as Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī says:

punaḥ yadi kona kṣaṇa, kayāya kṛṣṇa daraśana, tabe sei ghaṭī-kṣaṇa-pala diyā mālya-candana, nānā ratna-ābharaṇa, alaṅkṛta karimu sakala
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.38]

We want to worship and propitiate time with garlands and candana so that time will stand still and allow you to stay with us forever so we can taste the Śrīla Śrīdhara nectar of your Hari kathā and bask in the rays of your lotus feet eternally. Always praying for your mercy, I hope to remain your humble servant. Mukundamālā Vilāsa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, [?]

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: ...isn't the bhakti-latā-bīja, isn't that conceptual, is that bīja conceptual, a conception?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhakti-latā-bīja means that mantram, yes, is given with good will and sowed. The Kṛṣṇa conception in seed, the instruction in seed it comes, vaidhi, about the reality.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So therefore their...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Materially, it is his own bhajan. But Gurudeva gives by the grace, by the desire of Kṛṣṇa, what is supplied from Kṛṣṇa's side, and he gives that, the Kṛṣṇa idea, Kṛṣṇa conception, in very meagre way, means, concise. Most concise form Kṛṣṇa conception what is given, a living thing, and then what is nurtured and that will develop.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So then there may be different qualities of bīja, according to the person who's holding the conception.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, according to the Kṛṣṇa's arrangement. The seed Kṛṣṇa, giving Gurudeva, then mādhurya rasa, vātsalya rasa, the seed coming. Gradually it will be clear that what type of. Kṛṣṇa also of different type, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, Svayaṁ-Prakāśa, Svayaṁ-Vilāsa, Prabhāva, Vaibhava. Vasudeva conception of Kṛṣṇa, Vṛndāvana conception, Vṛndāvana also different conception of Kṛṣṇa. Then parakīya there must be in Vṛndāvana, the parakīya, the Kṛṣṇa, worldly Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa in worldly consciousness, nara-līlā.

[gope-veśa, veṇu-kara nava kiśora, nata-vara, nara līlāra haya anurūpa]*

[“Lord Kṛṣṇa has many pastimes, of which His pastimes as a human being are the best. His form as a human being is the Supreme Transcendental Form. In this form, He is a cowherd boy. He carries a flute in His hand, and His youth is new. He is also an expert dancer. All this is just suitable for His pastimes as a human being.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 21.101]

That human complex, Kṛṣṇa Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, human complex, and that is also parakīya, not rightful enjoyer, as if thieving, stealing. General eating, not satisfactory to Him, rather eating by stealing He's more satisfied. That is His nature. His own things, actually everything belongs to Him, but that does not please Him.

“I’m eating something which belongs to others. I’m stealing and eating.”

That sort of, not only human but wicked human play. The part of a wicked part He wants to play. Very tasteful to Him. That is, that gives the highest possible satisfaction to the devotees, some way or other.

Yaśodā consciousness, “Some say that He’s not my son. What is this? No. They do not know, He’s my child. But they say, ‘Oh, He has got some supernatural position. The Garga Ṛṣi came, Vasudeva sent, some say He’s Vasudeva’s son,’ How, what do they say? He’s my son.” That makes Yaśodā’s affection rise to higher extent, higher standard. “If He does not be my son, then what will be my fate if He leaves me? How can I live then? Without thinking that He’s my son how can I go on with my life?”

So this enhances, that vātsalya rasa is pushed into very rarity. ‘I may lose.’ The concentration, more concentration. And Rādhārāṇī’s position if the worst, most helpless, wholly given, uncertain position, wholly given, wholesale gift, but the gift to whom, He’s uncertain. But can’t withdraw...

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So when Kṛṣṇa says:

["Think of Me, serve Me, worship Me, offer your very self unto Me, and surely you will reach Me.

Sincerely, this is My promise to you because you are My dear friend.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.65] He means to think of Him in a particular way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. Man-manā bhava mad-bhakto, mad-yājī māṁ, that is of lower stage. They have attained the highest stage, and here, ‘come by this way.’ This is recommendatory for devotee, ‘come by this way.’

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: They’re very happy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And they’re in trouble, eh? The whole day in this hot season they will have to remain in that bus, a tedious journey, but there mostly, gradually will be cooler.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes. But they’re going... Yes. So that will enliven them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. And another bus is to come tomorrow morning.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes. I hate. This material existence makes me little hateful that I'm living here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: But it's also part of Kṛṣṇa's plan.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

paśu pakhī ho 'ye thāki svarge vā niroye [taba bhakti rahu bhaktivinoda-hṛdoye]

["Be my life in heaven or hell, be it as a bird or a beast, may devotion to You always remain in the heart of Bhaktivinoda."] [Gītāvalī, Śikṣāṣṭakam, 4.7, from The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Thākura, page 136, ISKCON Press, 1980]

"Either in heaven or in hell, wherever He chooses to place me, that does not matter. But only my concentrated prayer will be that my adherence to You, faith to You, may not be disturbed my Lord. The whole concentration of the prayer will be that my submissive relation to You, the prayer, to this prayer only, and nothing else. Others, whatever it may be, but Your sweet will is going. But only this much, the minimum, that Your connection I can't, admit to be cut off. Only that least demand, nothing else. Everything left on You, at Your sweet will."

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: That is the śuddha bhakta, his prayer.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śuddha bhakta. Not even that, “Liberate me. Keep me along with You. No, no condition, no condition, only one prayer, a thread, only a thread connection with You. Others, as You like. I’m fully at Your disposal, fully at Your disposal. Only minimum request that a connecting thread, that I cannot tolerate to be severed, then I’m gone.” Gaura Hari. “Demand will be minimum to You, most minimum. Without that I won’t live. Other things at Your pleasure. You have every right, every right to excise Your power on me. I am Your eternal slave. You have every demand You can take from me.” Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: I was just reading about Indra and Viśvarūpa, in the Bhāgavatam, the sixth canto. And there it is said that the devas, when there’s some very distressful condition, then they pray to Kṛṣṇa to relieve them. They become very devoted at that time, and pray for some relief. But our Guru Mahārāja was writing that the śuddha bhakta he will not pray to Kṛṣṇa like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śuddha bhakta, won’t pray for anything, but only his connection of a slave. Ke?

Devotee: Nadiyā Prabhu.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Jayatīrtha Mahārāja’s Nadiyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How Jayatīrtha Mahārāja is doing? He’s doing well?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He's doing pūjā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Pūjā, Govardhana Girirāja pūjā.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dhyāna puṇyadhi yatnam.

[Sanātana Goswāmī says: “Let ecstasy in the service of the Divine Name be victorious. If somehow we can come in contact with that sound, nāma rūpam murāreḥ, then all our other activities will be paralysed; we will have no necessity of performing any other activity. Our many variegated duties will have no importance to us at all if we can achieve the service of the Divine Name of Kṛṣṇa.”]

[Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, 1.1.9]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Where is Bhāratī Mahārāja?

Devotee: Bhāratī Mahārāja is not here yet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Is he here, there, or?

Devotee: We haven't seen him. I saw him at maṅgala-āratī time but I haven't seen him after that.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Mahārāja, also, in preparing this book, you told once we can make division, sambandha, abhidheya, prayojana. So I think I can understand sambandha jñāna. You speak of the world of exploitation, and topics of that nature. But abhidheya jñāna I don't understand how to distinguish.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sambandha jñāna, what do you mean by that?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: As an example, when you speak of the world of exploitation, that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Exploitation, renunciation, and dedication, three planes of life.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes. That...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And calculative dedication and spontaneous dedication. In the land of dedication two compartments. In the Vaikuṇṭha, calculative, and above, spontaneous, automatic, in Goloka. That Kṛṣṇa is there, Nārāyaṇa is here. In the land of renunciation, Virajā, Brahmaloḥa. Buddhists Virajā, Śaṅkara Brahmaloḥa. And here, Bhūr, Bhuvah, Svah, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka. Different planes of exploitation, and this in details.

And abhidheya, the karma, jñāna, yoga, bhakti, viddhi bhakti, rāga bhakti, ‘means to end.’ Abhidheya means ‘means to end,’ abhidheya. And prayojana, that is the goal, destination. That is devata, a position, we get the facility of exploiting others, good position in this world, higher position. And then that liberation, that sāyujya. And then śanta rasa, śanta, dāsyā, and very meagre sākhya in the calculative area, in the lower hemisphere of Vaikuṇṭha. And the higher, the spontaneous, full five, śanta, dāsyā, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya. And the highest is that parakīya...

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Aranya Mahārāja ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And then from there...

...

Kṛṣṇa, from Kṛṣṇa it is kāṛṣṇa. Kāṛṣṇi means son of Kṛṣṇa, Pradyumna. Pradyumna is named by kāṛṣṇi. But kāṛṣṇa means Vaiṣṇava, Kṛṣṇa bhakta, devotees of Kṛṣṇa. One who’s connected with Kṛṣṇa is kāṛṣṇa. And the Vaiṣṇava is connected with Viṣṇu, Vaiṣṇava, kāṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: You have given in Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta, kāṛṣṇa saṅga ulasam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Might be.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa kāṛṣṇa saṅga ulasam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe. Kṛṣṇa kāṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: And there was one letter you have heard from Mukundamālā Prabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Through Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja just now perhaps.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. So, Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja is going earlier perhaps than your letter. Ha, ha. Should encourage him, he has written that is all good.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I'll send a reply with him.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: ...that I mentioned before, with regard to dīkṣā. I do not think that they can come to India. Not possible for all of them to come.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So you are to make arrangement amongst you.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Hari Nāma. [?]

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Sometimes our Guru Mahārāja he would chant on the beads, and give a name, and his representative could hold a yajña, and distribute the beads, and the name, to the initiate.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He would sent by post.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Big case, he did so, we found our Guru Mahārāja only once, a man, a big man in Dacca, he was dying. They're against in the beginning, but later on submitted and asked Hari Nāma from Guru Mahārāja. And it was managed through phone. Only one record we saw.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Phone?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Through phone. Through phone he gave Hari

Nāma.

Guru Mahārāja did. Counted beads, sent, and delegated person will deliver.

In special case some arrangements may be made. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He also used to, he also had this fire agni-hotra yajña for Hari Nāma.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may be done through delegation.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: But generally here for Hari Nāma there's no fire sacrifice, only for the Gāyatrī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Yajña only for the [?] For Nāma is wide, grace, widely gracious, Hari Nāma. Does not care for anything else, any formality, much of formality. Most extensive [?] distribution, self distribution is Nāma, through Name. Kalau tu nāma- mātreṇa pūjyate bhagavān hariḥ. Simply by the Name the Hari is satisfied. His special grant for the Kali-yuga people because the circumstance is too much adverse, so His grace is more extended to the fallen. Kalau tu nāma-mātreṇa pūjyate bhagavān hariḥ.

[dvāparīyair janair viṣṇuḥ pañcarātraś ca kevalam kalau tu nāma-mātreṇa pūjyate bhagavān hariḥ]

["In Dvāpara-yuga, Lord Viṣṇu is exclusively worshipped by the people according to the principles of Deity worship delineated in the Pañcarātra scripture, but in Kali-yuga, the Supreme Lord Hari is worshipped only by the chanting of His Holy Name."] [From Śrīla Madhvācārya's commentary on Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad]

If you take Nāma. But one thing must be present, that śraddhā. Śraddhā, that is a sort of faith. All others neglected, disregarded, but only faith. When you take Name everything is done. Everything is done. All these formalities only to help Nāma bhajan, this dīkṣā, the yajña, to encourage us, our heart, to create confidence all these things are done, to give some strength to the mind. 'Oh, yes. Something done.' Otherwise so easily we get the highest thing it is difficult to believe. So some grandeur is also shown to promote his confidence towards śraddhā, mantram.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: In that Vṛndāvana mandeer, Kṛṣṇa-Balarāma mandeer, our Guru Mahārāja he had some brāhmaṇas come and perform an extensive yajña. And at the same time, we, his disciples, were doing Hari Nāma saṅkīrtana. Then later he wrote in his book, one of his purports of Bhāgavata, he wrote, "Actually, the saṅkīrtana was enough, but just so the people of Vṛndāvana would recognise we had this big yajña."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. Yes. 'Something is done.' Ha, ha, ha, ha. In yajña or any other performance the sound is always leading. The mantram is there, the sound, and the Name in the mantram. If the Name is taken, Nārāyaṇa taken and Śiva, Kali, is put in that mantram it is just gone to the opposite side. So Name is all in all, in the mantram, in the yajñam, the mantram, the sound help, help of the sound is imperative. It cannot be avoided. Whatever we do, sound can go alone. But if you do other things the help of sound is indispensable, the mantram. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, also Swāmī Mahārāja would change the names at Hari Nāma. He would change the devotee's name at Hari Nāma. But here you don't do that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because here names are almost already connected with devata, and there it is absent, so in the beginning he changes the name and connects it with Viṣṇu dāśya.

In Mahāprabhu's līlā we find so many names which is not connected with Vaiṣṇava dāśa. There was one Kalidāśa, who was the cousin, no, who was the uncle of Raghunātha dāśa. He was a great devotee. His speciality was to enquire and find any Vaiṣṇava and take his ucchiṣṭham, Kalidāśa. And that Kalidāśa went to Purī once, and when Mahāprabhu entered the temple of Jagannātha, just before He washed His feet. And that water was collected in a pit. And strict instruction was given to Govinda that none can touch that water, the feet water of Mahāprabhu. But once Kalidāśa went there, and when Mahāprabhu is washing His feet, he put his folded palms, and took. Again, twice he took, just in front of Mahāprabhu, and when thrice, "No further. Stop here." But if a bird could not use that water it was so restricted by Mahāprabhu. "None should come." Only Vaiṣṇavas with some plea they will touch anyhow, "How? What is the utility?" With this plea they took it on their head. But Kalidāśa, Mahāprabhu He could not restrain Kalidāśa. One, two, three, handfuls he took that feet water on His presence, on His nose. Kalidāśa. But his name was Kalidāśa it is mentioned.

Not so much importance was given that time. But our Guru Mahārāja of course he changed the name of the disciples to mean that the...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...suffered so much from the hands of his own dear father. So what his father, mother, and other friends in this world, that is exposed there. The father is trying his best to kill the son, because he's a devotee of Viṣṇu. This is his fault, the only such. The only such, though disinterested life, leaving here is not possible. All connected with some mundane purpose. The combination of a family, father, son, wife, and others, all others had some relation, mala fide object combined together. A gang of guṇḍā, they have got also some rules and regulations of their life.

I have written one stotram of Prabhupāda. There I mentioned, vātsalyaṁ yac ca pitro jagati bahumataṁ kaitavaṁ kevalaṁ tat dāmpatyaṁ dasyutaiva svajana-gaṇa-kṛtā bandhutā vañcaneti vaikuṇṭhasneha-mūrtteḥ pada-nakha-kiraṇair yasya sandarśito 'smi yatrāsau tatra śighraṁ kṛpaṇa-nayana he niyatāṁ kiṅkaro 'yam

[“Parental affection, so highly esteemed in the world, is a colossal hoax (as an obstacle to Hari- bhakti); socially recognized pure matrimonial love is nothing but dacoitry (in that it plunders away both the husband’s and the wife’s eagerness for the chance to acquire the treasure of love unadulterated by the superficiality of familial prejudice); and common friendship is merely deception: I have gleaned these thoughts from the rays of light that emanate from the toenails of the holy feet of that great personality, the embodiment of supramundane affection. O Dīna-nayana, wherever that great soul may be, please quickly take this servitor there.”]
[Śrī Śrī Dayita Dāsa Daśakam, 3]

[Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, p 203]

After the departure of our Guru Mahārāja I wrote those stanzas. The meaning is, vātsalyaṁ yac ca pitro, material love, affection, which we see, we get from the parents, jagati bahumataṁ, so much praised in this world to be the genuine affection. Kaitavaṁ kevalaṁ tat, that is nothing but deception, deceiving, kaitavaṁ kevalaṁ tat. Dāmpatyaṁ dasyutaiva, and the conjugal love shows nothing but, dasyu means duty.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Robbery.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Robbery. Dāmpatyaṁ dasyutaiva. Svajana-gaṇa-kṛtā bandhutā vañcaneti, and whatever affectionate feelings are shown by the mere relatives in the body connection, that is all deception, cheating. It was seen by whose, by the ray of whose nails of feet, pada-nakha-kiraṇair yasya san, by the ray of the nail of the feet, of whom, that is Guru Mahārāja. It was seen, shown to us. Yasya, yatrāsau tatra śighraṁ, Oh my miser eye, take me straight and quickly, to that place where he has gone, where he's living. Tatra śighraṁ kṛpaṇa-nayana he niyatām kiṅkaro 'yam. Take this servant, servitor, to that place. Why you do not take me quickly, dealing miserly? Take me."

So all these:

gurur na sa syāt sva jano na sa syāt, pitā na sa syāj jananī na sā syāt daivaṁ na tat syān na patiś ca sa syān, na mocayed yaḥ samupeta mṛtyum

[Rṣabhadeva says: "Even a spiritual master, relative, parent, husband, or demigod who cannot save us from repeated birth and death should be abandoned at once."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.5.18]

Those cannot give me relief from this mortal life. Always changing my position, can't stay even for a second in a particular position, always shift, compelled to shift position every second. And these who cannot save me, na mocayed yaḥ samupeta mṛtyum, the mṛtyu, the death is devouring me, and who cannot release me from that greatest danger, then what sort of friend he is? What sort of utility I can get from him? So who can deliver me from this dangerous position of every second, he's my friend. I must seek help from him who can relieve me from my highest danger. I must take shelter under him, seek sympathy of him. That is natural, who can keep me, who can give shelter to me. I'm being devoured every second by the eternal time, kāla. Eternal time, the representation of death is devouring everything. My very existence is at stake, and who can protect me, sustain me, he's my friend. I must take to him.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi
Gaura Hari bol.

In the southern part, many devotees are seeing Nṛsiṃhadeva, not so much here. Only one Vighraha there, nearby Kṛṣṇanaga, Nṛsiṃhadeva.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura while he lived there in Svarūpa Ganga, he marked that early morning, one breeze, or wind, comes from Nṛsiṃha temple towards Māyāpur Yoga-pīṭha. Every day he marked. "Why at this time some wind passes?" Then by concentration he could detect that Nṛsiṃhadeva goes to attend the maṅgala-āratī, that morning āratī of Śrī Gaurāṅga in Yoga-pīṭha. Nṛsiṃhadeva attends every day, and that is the indication that the wind, He passes there. That was his finding.

These are all, adjustment in the spiritual heart. Nṛsiṃhadeva. Nṛsiṃhadeva, our hope and solace, that He's very favourable to do away with the hindrances and any opposition that comes to deviate us from the path of devotion. A general help comes from His grace. And it was very clear in Prahlāda Mahārāja, His nature. Nṛsiṃha, He's in Vaikuṇṭha. Nārāyaṇa is in the centre, and on His four sides, Vāsudeva, Saṅkarṣaṇa, Pradyumna and Aniruddha. And again, five of each, so all together, six in every side, six into four, twenty four Viṣṇu Avatāras in Vaikuṇṭha on all sides of Nārāyaṇa. Nṛsiṃhadeva is there. And Nṛsiṃhadeva's special care for the devotees, to do away with their hindrances that come in the way. Nṛsiṃhadeva. And Prahlāda's case has been traced by Jīva Goswāmī how he began his life of devotion. And it is an example to the great poem of Bhagavad-gītā.

["O son of Pṛthā, low-born persons of degraded lineage, women, merchants, or labourers - they also attain the supreme destination by taking full refuge in Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.32]

In Bhagavad-gītā, mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya. "Oh Arjuna, those that may come to Me, adopting a mean connection, vy apa, apa means mean. Vy apa means viśeṣa apa, very mean, very lower, very lower type of connection. Even one begins, anyone comes to My connection adopting very, very lower type. Te 'pi yānti parām gatim. They will also, are taken to the highest position. Mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya, vy apa āśritya. Accepting Me, or taking shelter in Me, in a very, very, mean way connection. Ye 'pi syuḥ pāpa-yonayaḥ. Because their origin is of that type, the very filthy company they leave. Striyo vaiśyās tathā. They may be women, they may be this ordinary trader, striyo vaiśyās tathā śūdrās, or the lowest labour class. Te 'pi yānti parām gatim. They can achieve to the highest, purest level."

This example, Jīva Goswāmī has accepted this Prahlāda Mahārāja's story, that in the beginning the Prahlāda was born, we may not commit any offence against Prahlāda Mahārāja.

Devotee: Puṣpa [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Jaya Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. That Prahlāda Mahārāja in his very previous life before he has come to be a devotee. He was born in a very lower family. And there was a temple by the side of his house, of Nṛsiṃhadeva, in a broken condition, he was there. Sometimes someone used to come at noon and offer something, and almost deserted. There was a compound, and Prahlāda in his previous life he took a girl in that compound. And before that he cleansed a place in that compound, and took a girl and enjoyed her. But he cleansed the place, and that was this Nṛsiṃha Caturdasi, and Nṛsiṃhadeva was satisfied with him.

Neglecting, or ignoring his purpose, his bad motive, Nṛsiṃhadeva took only the good, the bright side, “That he has cleansed My compound in this auspicious time.”

So His grace came to that gentleman. In that deed the connection came, and that grew, developed, gradually. And Prahlāda was taken towards Nṛsiṃhadeva. And now we get the present Prahlāda Mahārāja. He gave the example of a śuddha bhakta. But the beginning was such. Mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya, ye 'pi syuḥ pāpa-yonayaḥ. He came from that sort of clan and did such a thing, but that he cleansed the place and went here. With that connection the first relationship came, and that took him there, so:

*mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya, ye 'pi syuḥ pāpa-yonayaḥ, striyo vaiśyās
tathā śūdrās*

“I have got so much purifying capacity that the other side, the worth of the other side may not be considered at all. Any connection, any slight connection, that can purify.”

It's so high, so pure, so benevolent. And our prospect with that encouragement.

mām hi pārtha vyapāśritya, ye 'pi syuḥ pāpa-yonayaḥ striyo vaiśyās tathā śūdrās, te 'pi yānti parām gatim kiṁ punar brāhmaṇāḥ puṇyā, bhaktā rājarṣayas tathā anityam asukhaṁ lokam, imaṁ prāpya bhajasva mām

[“So who can doubt that the pure devotee brāhmaṇas and kṣatriyas will achieve that supreme goal? Therefore, surely engage in My devotional service, since you have attained this temporary and miserable human body after wandering throughout many births.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.33]

“What to speak of the higher classes, the brāhmaṇas, the kṣatriyas, who have got some good behaviour, good custom, good life devotee.”

kiṁ punar brāhmaṇāḥ puṇyā, bhaktā rājarṣayas tathā anityam asukhaṁ lokam, imaṁ prāpya bhajasva mām

“You are in the midst of this uncertain and unhappy atmosphere. Anyhow connect with Me and attain the highest position. It is straight.” Kṛṣṇa says. Kṛṣṇa putting the thing straightly. “Wherever you are you in the midst of uncertainty, anityam, and asukhaṁ, unhappy atmosphere. Anyhow get some connection with Me, and ameliorate, improve your fate. Direct call. I am such and such. You are such and such. This is the fact. You have got your prospect. It does not matter whatever lower level you are staying at present, does not matter. But the matter is that My connection is all important. And that must be sincerely accepted, not insincerely. Sincere connection of Mine will give you immense, you cannot expect so much.”

So Nṛsiṁhadeva and Prahlāda, and you all know the Nṛsiṁhadeva and Prahlāda, the history. When he was tortured to the extreme by his own guardian. None could come to his relief. But Nṛsiṁhadeva came, in the most trying moment. So He’s there. He’s everywhere. He’s all conscious of our different stages. Only when our demand is very acute, very intense, He appears here.

In some way He’s existing. Other things are all flickering, no stability. It is all vanishing, passing, but within, the spirit, that is constant. And our inner factor is also constant. And the world outside, the inner substance is constant, and due constant must meet. And this atomic constant substance, when he comes in connection with Infinite constant substance, he’s rather astounded to find the resources. Not only the grandeur, power, but that of affection and love. We are concerned with that aspect of the outside. Inner constant substance is attracting everything towards Him.

Just as the sun attracts the planets, the planet earth attracts so many things. So attraction is a general quality of things. Attraction, the most universal, and most original quality we find here, attraction. And this attraction is physical we find here on the surface, but the inner attraction that is living, and that is love, that is affection. When physical attraction endowed with life, living attraction, that attraction, this is the attraction existing from the physical thing. One physical thing attracts another physical. But when one's soul, the spiritual substance attracts another spiritual substance, that is love, that is affection.

And the greatest dynamo of attraction is Kṛṣṇa. And His attraction is infinitely greater, which is not possible for us to tolerate. So our Ācāryas say that, "You'll not be able to deal direct with that dynamo. You please bring back to that, every group, so many types of attraction. And there the original reacting devotees are around Him. And you put yourself in the back of the greater attraction giving persons, behind Nanda, Yaśodā, Śrīdam, Sudam, Rādhārāṇī, etc. Don't go direct. You won't be able to tolerate. That sort of attraction will be nonplussed. Don't face yourself, the direct. So Vaiṣṇava kiṅkarāḥ, be Vaiṣṇava kiṅkarāḥ. That will be most for you."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Attraction living attraction, personified. Everything is person. Living means person. The attraction personified, and the attraction is He in the highest form, He's beauty, He's charm, beauty. The real representation of the centre of attraction is that of beauty, not of pomp and power.

Ostentatiously it may be seen that power attracts us, grandeur, pomp, attracts us. But no, that is of general type. But higher, deeper attraction, is that of beauty. And beauty, love, charm, and the real attraction that is not only selfless but self giving. Self giving, the generosity can attract us more, not selfishness. One who is generous, who is generous he distributes himself for others, eh? That is generous. But generosity attracts, that self giving. The centre of attraction, beauty means self giving, charm means self giving, self distributing principle. And that attracts us, most. The plane is of such type. All gives himself for the other's interest. So self dedication, self sacrifice, self distribution, and that is spontaneous, that is the realm of love. Love means self giving, and that can attract us most, and not aggrandisement or exploitation what we find here. Another world. And we can come in touch of that if we like, if we have sincere regard, if we have earnest prayer, that maybe found. It is there. It is not non scientific, ultimately. But our position, abnormal position, has made this natural attainment far away, distant.

[“Who am I? Why do the threefold miseries always give me trouble? If I do not know this, how can I be benefited?”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.102]

This question of Sanātana Goswāmī, general question. “Who am I? Why I am troubled by these different types of misery? Ihā nāhi jāni -- ‘kemane hita haya.’ I do not know how I can get relief.”

Mahāprabhu answered, jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa.’ “The Kṛṣṇa is there. All love Lord is there. All goodness, absolute good is there. And everything has got some sort of connection with Him. Jīva has got also subordinate connection with Him, but he’s unconscious of his connection with his great guardian. And that is at the root of all his troubles.

Just as a madman, only his brain should be connected with his previous life. Everything stopped immediately. All his misery stopped immediately. His consciousness has come out of his own friendly circle. Only he’ll be connected to his previous memory. A slight difference, then he’ll find everything is all right. Home, quite home, sweet home. The problem is like this. The home is all right, and he’s also a proper factor to live in home. Only disconnected, passed, his memory is - self consciousness passed away from his own interest of home. And all these methods to take him back only means that. Only 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa.’ kṛṣṇa bhuli sei jīva anādi-bahirmukha, ataeva [māyā tāre deya saṁsāra dukḥa]

[“The jīva souls are the marginal potency of the Lord. Though in reality they are servants of Kṛṣṇa, from time immemorial, they have been engaged in misconception, as exploiting agents.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.117]

Anyhow to take to Kṛṣṇa consciousness. It is not necessary that the rockets and atom bombs, all these things will be prepared, and the Himālaya should be cast into the ocean, and the ocean will be dried. No, nothing is necessary, only do that. Only Kṛṣṇa consciousness connect the soul, the party, with Kṛṣṇa. It is already there, infinitely full. But it will draw us from this physical surface, this body consciousness, go to soul consciousness. And when we're taken to Kṛṣṇa consciousness automatically without soul through the body we cannot connect. But if soul connection is vague, body is also utilised, body will do the service, and the pūjā, so many things, prasāda sevā. But meaning to go to the soul, and from soul to Supersoul. The relief will come in that way. The connection must have all these exertions on the surface, must have connection through faith, towards that soul and Supersoul plane. To go, must be willingness to go deep to the soul and Supersoul area.

For this we are doing, we are recommended to do many things, this arcan, this kīrtana, the writing, all these, but object is to dive deep into the level, into the plane of soul, Supersoul. It must, all these activities must promote us to that subtle conception of our existence, and of the world. And the subtle conception there is also so many differentiation. The Paravyoma, the service conception, and Paravyoma, then Goloka, and Kṛṣṇa, all these things, details, we are to hear and go on.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

So many troubles may come. Does not matter. We have got our perseverance. If we're true to our self, everything will vanish, if we're true to our self. That is the first thing necessary, we shall be sincere in our quest.

He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

Circumstances, outer circumstances, or environment, that is in the hand of Kṛṣṇa. He may change any moment. Any moment, foe may be your friend, and friend may be foe. But our more concern, real concern with my self. Na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati. May come some disturbance on my way, but I must be sincere in my quest of Kṛṣṇa. That is my capital. And none will be able to frustrate me because He’s there. I’m working under His eye. I have come for Him. And He’s omniscient, omnipotent, all, everything, and no error in His sight. Only the error is possible for my sight. I’m responsible for my error. I only must be careful for my own defect, then everything will be all right.

“That is na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati. “I guarantee it. I’m guarantee for that.” Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the Brahmo Party. Rabindranatha and Rabindranatha’s eldest brother was Dvijendra [?]. He was first friend to Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. Perhaps of equal age. And he had very intimate relation with the Brahmo Section. So the Brahmo Section seeing his scholarship tried their best to draw him towards them, for preaching. But Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura had to come back from mixing with them, gradually. And in Dinajpur he gave his Bhāgavata speech, first booklet we find that, and there it was final that he won’t accept this Brahmo School. Brahmo School cannot expect any support from him any longer. He came to a Vaiṣṇava, in Vaiṣṇava Section.

And Christians also had much expectation from him. Ha, ha. He was a student of Scottish Church College. And that gentleman, that, the Principal, he also loved him very much. And I, we find there, “You have a great future.” Encouraging. But gradually he came out, as the greatest pro-pounder of Vaiṣṇava faith, Mahāprabhu.

In his Rūpānuga-Bhajana-Darpaṇa he has given out the very heart sentiment [?] And his learning, or his conception, in Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava philosophy is so deep that our Guru Mahārāja could not see him separate from Rādhārāṇī. After finishing the Caitanya-caritāmṛta commentary he has written there.

“Both, Gadādhara and Svarūpa Dāmodara, two friends, they’re always going on with their bhajan in this Navadvīpa-Dhāma. Sometimes underground, sometimes over the surface.”

Sri gaure chayre moihe maje kahe aprakṛta parisada pada [?]

Praka hoiliya sele sri gaura kṛṣṇa devī aprakāsa katha yata yatha [?]

Not to be given, not to express it to anyone and everyone. The most secret thing what I say here, mention here. One is Gadādhara and one Svarūpa Dāmodara, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and Gaura Kīśora Bābājī. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura was considered as Gadādhara, representation of Rādhārāṇī. And Svarūpa Dāmodara he was, represented in him, in his heart as Gaura Kīśora Bābājī Mahārāja.

Infinite, he’s always searching after infinite. Infinite is also giving His connection with that, anywhere and everywhere, here and there. They’re also earnestly trying to contact with Infinite. And in the case of the Infinite, the corresponding phase we also see. Infinite is also earnest to show Him to His devotee in different ways, here and there. The corresponding action reaction. Both parties earnest, but still that hide and seek play. Ha, ha, ha. Hiding and seeking.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

That search, devotee's search, always for Kṛṣṇa, kāṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa and His paraphernalia. The whole heart captured by that. All other, bhukti, mukti area eliminated. The bhukti, the area of exploitation, the area of renunciation, both left behind. And in the area service, dedication, they're moving here and there in different parts, adopting different functions in the dedication line.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Hari Charan [?]

They're already active, in your Board. And another, to be added to that Board of Ācārya. And who else? Who of you will have courage to approach to that sort of service? Eh?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: That's Bhāratī Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Collect courage.

Parvat Mahārāja: Once you said that when there is a special, higher seed, that should be planted.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course.

Parvat Mahārāja: And that was planted in our heart as the Absolute Truth.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, and common sense is also that. The soil is needed. The good seed, better seed should be given the chance for the best production. That is common sense. And I found in Hari-bhakti-vilāsa some other form. There in the varṇāśrama case it is mentioned. Everyone can give initiation to his own clan, kṣatriya to the kṣatriya, vaiśya to the vaiśya, śūdra to the śūdra. But when a Guru of higher section is available, they must not venture to capture the land. When brāhmaṇa Ācārya, a real brāhmaṇa Ācārya, real devotion, when real devotees are available, lower devotees should not venture to capture the land, and give his seed. This sort of consideration we should have in our mind. It is mentioned there in Hari-bhakti-vilāsa. But still, may not be barren, land should not be non productive. Whatever little production we can give that should also be looked out for. Mahāprabhu. Though there is gradation, difference in the quality, still, in good faith, whatever I got, with that I must help those that I shall come across, that sincerely.

yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa [āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei thāñi pābe mora saṅga]

[“Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad-gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a Guru and liberate everyone in the land. If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

Whomever I shall find, of course, not hypocritically, only the help in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that sincerity must be present. Otherwise not to make trade in the name of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, to seek power and position, men and money, all these things. But to help those aching heart by taking them in connection of Kṛṣṇa, to help them to get out of the misery they’re suffering from. That sort of good will must be in the action motive, that sincerity, to help them.

Jīve dayā nāme ruci kṛṣṇa sevān [?]

The madhyama adbhikārī will have such īśvare prema.

īśvare tad-adhīneṣu, bālīṣeṣu dviṣatsu ca [prema-maitrī-kṛpopekṣa, yaḥ karoti sa madhyamaḥ]

[“The devotee in the intermediate stage of devotional service is called a madhyama-adbhikārī. He loves the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is a sincere friend to all the devotees of the Lord, shows mercy to the innocent and disregards the envious.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.46]

Bālīṣeṣu kṛpa. Jīva dayā means not by distributing food and clothing, but real dayā is to take him up to the truth. That is dayā, kindness proper, to release him from the imprisonment of falsehood, his ignorance. To help everyone to come out of ignorance, and at the same time to be connected with the positive highest good. That sort of sincere feeling should be within us, and that is the qualification of an Ācārya.

ācinoti yaḥ śāstrārtham, [ācāre sthāpayaty api svayam ācarate yasmā, ācāryas tena kīrtitaḥ]

[“An Ācārya is one who fully understands the conclusions of the revealed scriptures. His own behaviour reflects his deep realisation, and thus he is a living example of divine precept. He is therefore known as an Ācārya, or one who teaches the meaning of the scriptures both by word and deed.”] [Vāyu Purāṇa]

Who can collect the very gist of the meaning from the śāstra, ācāre sthāpayaty api, and who can place others in that sort of, ācāre means conduct, recommended by the scriptures. Svayam ācarate, and himself also accepts those practices for him. Ācāryas tena kīrtitaḥ, for this one should be given the upādhi, the position of an Ācārya, recognition of an Ācārya post. Who can collect gist from the scripture, the purpose of the scripture, and who practices them himself, and who is eager to propagate, to extend that sort of practice and knowledge to others. He can be Ācārya.

In Bhagavad-gītā [4.34] the lakṣaṇa of Ācārya, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ, who will have some knowledge as well as some experience of the thing. What I’m going to give to others, must have some real experience of the thing, not only book knowledge. Above book knowledge, scriptural knowledge must have some realisation about the truth recommended by the scripture. So jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ.

Śābde pare ca niṣṇātam, in Bhāgavatam, [11.3.21]. Śābde, in the scripture, as well as pare, the purpose of the scripture, both have some position.

And in Upaniṣad, [Muṇḍaka, 1.2.12], śrotriyaṁ brahma niṣṭham, who has got knowledge of the śruti, and at the same time, brahma niṣṭham, who has real conduct, character, that he's established in the advice of the śruti. He's qualified to carry out the tidings of the Veda and mahā-jana, Guru, towards the public for their benefit, to drive away the nescience from their conception and to put them in proper scientific thought.

Not this present scientific exploitation and suicidal advancement, that in a second they can do away with the whole world. To save the people from mortality to immortal, and not to mortalise the whole world in a second. Hare Kṛṣṇa. They're only concerned with the mortal aspect of the world.

But the immortal soul is very near, we are to declare at every place this. Soul is immortal, and the Supreme Entity, that is more than that, and it is very near, and we have made Him distant. And by this process we can come to see that He's very near, and He's all in all. He's the designer and He has destined us, designed and destined we are by Him. All in all. All in all. The most intimate friend, the greatest guardian, and love, power, everything in full, and still He's our friend. Still He's our friend, most affectionate friend. Who possesses the whole power of the universe, He's very friendly to us. This short thing we are to - Who is at the command of the whole universe He's friendly to us and very near, He's living very near. Only we shall try to mind Him. And in conception of Him, of His conception, so long we have got, there is some developed aspect, and the friendly aspect, the affectionate aspect, that holds the supreme position. And Mahāprabhu came with that.

And in Gītā, Bhāgavata, śāstra, and any other scripture also if we try to find the meaning deeply, then we shall find that, 'Yes, He's friend. He's our beloved, and thereby we shall get our highest destination, coming to this conception that He's our friend, most intimate friend.' That is the highest achievement that we can have and we can expect. So this, all of you must know. No dread, no fear. You fear, only when concentrated in the mundane aspect of you and the outside. But you try to find what is your deeper fate, deeper self, and his connection with the deepest Absolute.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mercury, Budha. Śani, Saturn, and Br̥haspati, [?] Sun, Moon, _____ [?] Budha Mercury, Br̥haspati, [?] Sukra is Venus, Śani Saturn. And there is Rahu Ketu, the Rahu. Rahu means which envelopes the Sun, Moon, and stars, that possibility. That is also existing eternally, what is called shadow. But shadow is after all a part of consciousness, it is an idea. So it has got its spiritual representation like a part of consciousness. Everything of our experience that is a part of consciousness, so it is spirit. It has got existence in the conscious world. Rahu Ketu, effective, has got some characteristic, that consciousness.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So now we may close our class. [?] Oh, again connecting, so late, connecting so late.

Aranya Mahārāja: Better late than never.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Ke?

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Any question? I'm too tired, talking so much beyond my capacity. So only one question I shall try to deal, then go to bed, to lay down flat. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Parvat Mahārāja: What is the one thing that will please Your Divine Grace the most that we, your sannyāsa disciples do?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? What is it?

Parvat Mahārāja: What is the one thing that will please Your Divine Grace the most to be done by us, your sannyāsa disciples?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That to understand my Guru Mahārāja's sayings and to distribute it to the public. Mahāprabhu is also:

yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa, [āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei thāñi

pābe mora saṅga]

[“Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad-gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a Guru and liberate everyone in the land. If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association.”]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

Only one thing for a sannyāsī. Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa only for preaching purpose. And sannyāsa means a form for the spiritual teacher of the public. And that must be in the line of Mahāprabhu, in Bhāgavatam, Gītā, Bhāgavatam, Mahāprabhu, Guru Mahārāja, Swāmī Mahārāja. So to know śravaṇa, kīrtana, to receive and to distribute, the current within, living. To hear and to give, to receive and to give, to hear and to speak. That will keep the current, dynamic character. Service.

Hearing without the service, when it is distributed to others, for their purpose I’m hearing. Not only that I like it most. That is also a part of that. I like it most, I appreciate it most, so I want to distribute it to others, my friends, all. And it will help me to hear more attentively, this distribution, the necessity. The necessity of distribution will increase my attempt, the intensity of my attempt to hear, more closely, more accurately. Both cooperating, one helping the other, śravaṇa, kīrtana. Kīrtana presupposes śravaṇa, and śravaṇa also has got demand to give it to others, to give others chance of śravaṇa, their listening.

Ṛṣi ṛṇī, there are so many ṛṇīs, ṛṇī means loan. To the physical father the loan is paid off by producing one child, pitṛi ṛṇī. Putra upara udhara [?] By giving birth to a son one can get relief from the loan from his father. He’s taken here and he’s brought up, and he also gives something at that time, to the line, pitṛi ṛṇī. And ṛṣi ṛṇī, we utilise the knowledge which is kept here by the predecessors. We can improve us by their help what they have left for us for our learning, and to give to the posterity that thing, we can get relief of that. That Guru ṛṇī, our loan to Guru, we can pay off by keeping disciples here. ‘I got, and I also give it to others.’ Does not make arrangement that is maybe continued, my gratitude for my predecessors. Because they managed to give us, I got, I think myself very fortunate I have got these things through them. And it is impending also on me that I should help that line continue, and thereby I can get, pay off the loan of the upper house. So ṛṣi ṛṇī, pitṛi ṛṇī, and bhūta ṛṇī. We get so much help from the environment and by making gift also we can pay off that what we get from the environment to do that to others.

Devarṣi, deva ṛṇī, deva ṛṇī means that supernatural, the water, that rain, the sun, we’re getting so many things from them. Devarṣi, deva ṛṇī, by yajña, performing sacrifice, connecting them, to send some energy towards the invisible world to help them. Yajña, yajña adhuma [?] contributes for the higher principles that are existing. Deva ṛṇī, devarṣi, bhūta, āpta, āpta sajan, the mere relatives. From them also we get many things, and to help them to certain extent.

*[devarṣi-bhūtāpta-nṛṇāṁ piṭṛṇāṁ, na kiṅkaro nāyam ṛṇī ca rājan
sarvātmanā yaḥ śaraṇaṁ śaraṇyaṁ, gato mukundaṁ parihṛtya kartam]*

[“Anyone who has taken shelter at the lotus feet of Mukunda, the giver of liberation, giving up all kinds of obligation, and has taken to the path in all seriousness, owes neither duties nor obligations to the demigods, sages, general living entities, family members, humankind or forefathers.”]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.41]

So when we’re born, brought up, we have some debt, and to clear those debts. So here we get such valuable thing from the Guru Mahārāja and it requires when he gives it he has got aspiration that his things will continue. He has given me, not to stop there, it is not his real desire. Of course if we're fit, but when we cannot give, deliver the thing rightly, then it is not desirable that in his name some sham things will be distributed, what does not belong to him properly. In his name we shall give tampered, adulterated: in the name of Guru if I give my own things, adulterated things, then that will be offence. What we have got from him, if we can give that thing to purify the atmosphere, the world, the jīva, that is desirable. That is desirable.

So the sannyāsī, sannyāsa, it is meant mostly for the position of an Ācārya. People will think that they have come to relieve us from the bad effects of the mortal world. We'll get something eternal which he'll give us of eternal value. And what to speak of, what to say, if we can give him the highest type of eternal truth. Sannyāsī. Sannyāsa means vākya daṇḍa, kāya daṇḍa, mano daṇḍa, tridaṇḍa. One who has punished his speech, word, and thought. Thought, word, and deed, three things have been punished for their engagement with this mundane mortal world, and engaged them for the service of Kṛṣṇa. They're punished and they're given engagement in the service of Kṛṣṇa. So they should be utilised only in the service in the distribution of the nectar, the immortal nectar. That will be the main function of a sannyāsī. Some may do by books, some may do by speeches, some may do by engaging persons, to a proper person, man. In any way, various ways we may utilise us in the service. The relief work. The relief work in the mundane world. It is not very easy thing to snatch out them from the charm of this mundane world.

Then there is so many proposals in the name of religion through comparative study and eliminating everything take them to the Bhāgavata conception of theism that's given by Mahāprabhu, that Kṛṣṇa consciousness. In the service of Kṛṣṇa consciousness to reach the acme, the highest position, what is given to us as Rādhā-dāsyā, Rādhā-kīṅkarā, Rādhā [?] We have understood this much, and as much as possible to place it before others, other souls. In the mentioned.

*yam kam api vraja-kule vrsabhanujayah- preksya sva-paksa-padavim anuruddhyamanam - [sadyas tad ista-ghatanena krtarthayantim- devim

[?] of Lalitā Devī it is

["I offer pranama unto the supremely charming Sri Lalita-devi, the treasure house of all good qualities. Upon seeing any young maiden anywhere in Vraja and discerning that she is inclined towards her priya-sakhi Srimati Radhika, Lalita immediately tells Radha that She must accept this person in Her own party (sva-paksa). Radha obeys Lalita, who thus fulfils that maiden's desires."]

[Lalitāṣṭakam,7]

Lalitā Devī is out and whoever she's meeting, requesting, "Oh, join us, join our party. Why not, why do you not join our party? We can't see you amongst us. What's the matter? Yam kam api vraja- kule vrsabhanujayah-, preksya sva-paksa-padavim. Come to our party. Don't go to another party. Sadyas tad ista-ghatanena krtartha. Yes I want admission. Yes, here's my signature, go. Yam kam api vraja-kule vrsabhanujayah-, preksya sva-paksa-padavim anuruddhyamanam - sadyas tad ista- ghatanena krtarthayantim. Then and there her application is admitted. Krtarthayantim-, devim gunaih sulalitam lalitam namami. With such in the service of the camp of Rādhārāṇī qualified from all standpoints. We bow down to their feet personally."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Who is here?

Devotee: Badrinārāyaṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Badrinārāyaṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja, how can your gṛhasṭha devotees satisfy you?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. A gṛhasṭha also can do anything and everything, especially Vaiṣṇava sevā is the principal thing of the gṛhasṭha. And Advaita Prabhu he was a gṛhasṭha. He preached. So many, Śrīvāsa, Śrīnivāsa Ācārya, then Biracandra Prabhu, they're all gṛhasṭha. But anyhow Nityānanda Prabhu became gṛhasṭha to mix with the gṛhasṭha easily and to preach them, no other organised. Anyhow to cultivate about Kṛṣṇa and His devotees, that is mainly necessary. But a gṛhasṭha, ordinarily it is meant that they'll serve the sannyāsīns, in Vaiṣṇava sevā. Even in varṇāśrama it is also like that, the gṛhasṭha they're the main āśrama, they're supporting the brahmacārīns. Brahmacārī will come and beg food from the gṛhasṭha. Then brahmacārī is a stage of training by the help of the society. Then when he becomes gṛhasṭha he's to clear off that loan, what as brahmacārī he drew from the society, and now to do duty to the society, gṛhasṭha. Gṛhasṭha means an āśrama on which the sannyāsīns also come and take rest in their house and go on preaching, and they get alms from the gṛhasṭha.

So gṛhasṭha, and especially in the Mahāprabhu's Avatāra the gṛhasṭha all mostly paramahansa Vaiṣṇava. There the depth of their devotion for Mahāprabhu knows no bounds, anomalous gṛhasṭha. And they may pose themselves in some way or other.

There was Govinda Gosh for whom Mahāprabhu installed Gopīnāthaji. In some occasion this incident came. "Who will be the son [?] of Govinda Ghosh?” Gopīnātha, He gave a dream that, “I shall do the duty of your son. I shall make your son [?]” That is still continuing here in that way. The son, the filial affection to serve Kṛṣṇa, vātsalya rasam. In various ways to have engagement in the service of Kṛṣṇa, grhastha.

Śrīvāsa Prabhu, he was a very poor man, so much so, that some days he had to fast, without money, without food. Mahāprabhu asked one day Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita, “Why Śrīvāsa, you’re a brāhmaṇa, here is order in favour of the brāhmaṇas that they can beg for their - begging - the occupation of a beggar he may accept, an honourable occupation for a brāhmaṇa, live and beg. And why do you fast? Why do you not go out for begging?”

Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita told, “No, no. I won’t go to beg. No. I shall wait. If my Lord sends something to me I shall eat, otherwise shall fast. And one, two, three, in this way, one, two, three. If three days continuous Lord does not send anything for our food I shall straight enter into the Ganges water.”

Then Mahāprabhu told, “Śrīvāsa, you have got so much faith in your Master.”

Yo yacsenna maham mahan [?]

“From hence you may not have any want. Your things will go on rightly.”

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Parahaṁsa-varam-paramārtha-patim.
Parahaṁsa means paramahaṁsa, the highest stage of the sannyāsī.
Sannyāsī has got four stages, kuṭicaka, bahudaka, haṁsa, paramahaṁsa, the four stages.

Kuṭicaka, who lives in a cottage. Kuṭicaka, the life in a cottage, a secluded life in cottage.

Then bahudaka means variety of water, he takes that, he does not live in one particular place but he wanders through different places. The life of pracāra, preaching life, bahudaka.

Haṁsa, the third stage of a sannyāsī should be that of the type of haṁsa. The haṁsa, when the milk and water mixed together, the haṁsa he can take out the milk leaving aside the water. So the sannyāsī of the third stage, the stage of haṁsa means he's roaming anywhere, everywhere, but he's accepting the good, rejecting the bad. That capacity he has got. When he reaches that stage he may be named as haṁsa.

Then highest stage is paramahaṁsa. That means wherever he'll go and with whatever he mixes, but he can't deviate, or he won't deviate from his stage of a saha-grāhī, that who can accept the good from the bad. Always established in that mentality, in that stage of mind, which cannot be drawn towards the filthy thing. He's always in good mentality. That is paramahaṁsa.

So here, Parahaṁsa-varam, "You are the best amongst all paramahaṁsa. Paramārtha-patim, and you are the king, the master, the controller, of money, means, which is, paramārtha means spiritual wealth.

You are master of spiritual wealth, paramārtha-patim. Patit-oddharaṇe kṛta-veśa-yatim. Though you have nothing to be attained, you have attained everything, you are master of everything, lord of everything, still you have accepted this veśa, the role, of a yati sannyāsī. Not to acquire anything but, paramārtha-patim, patit-oddharaṇe kṛta-veśa-yatim, you have taken this role only to help others, to release others from this world of māyā, from the illusory energy. You have begun relief work, and for that purpose you have accepted this role of a sannyāsī though you are above the sannyāsa. And sannyāsīns, so many of high order they're worshipping you, serving you. Paramārtha-patim, patit-oddharaṇe kṛta-veśa-yatim, yati-rāja-gaṇaiḥ. The best of the yati sannyāsīns, pari-sevya-padaṁ, they're worshipping your divine feet. And you have accepted it only to raise the fallen from this ocean of māyā. You have accepted though you are above the position of a sannyāsī. That is the meaning of the passage.

paraḥaṁsa-varaṁ-paramārtha-patim, patit-oddharaṇe kṛta-veśa-yatim yati-rāja-gaṇaiḥ-pari-sevya-padaṁ, praṇamāmi sadā prabhupāda-padam

[“O Śrīla Prabhupāda, all the great mahā-bhagavat devotees are surpassed by you, because you are the storehouse-keeper of life's highest wealth, pure love for Lord Kṛṣṇa. Simply to rescue the fallen souls, you accepted the outer garb of a renunciate. Hence, your divine lotus feet are adorable in every respect by the greatest stalwart sannyāsīs. I eternally offer my obeisances unto that wonderful effulgence that emanates from the lotus toe tips of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura.”]

[Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja's Śrī-Śrī-Prabhupāda-padma-stavakaḥ, 10]

And such prabhupāda-padam I always show my obeisance to. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nītāi Gaura Hari bol.

Mahāprabhu also took the role of a yati sannyāsī, but is He a sannyāsī? He has taken that role only to deliver others He has accepted that. He began His activity as grhastha, but people had some difficulty to accept Him as Ācārya. So this He planned - of course līlā is nitya, still, it ran in this way.

He saw that they will think, ‘Oh. The man, [?] He’s the son of our aunt, Śacī. How can he be so great?’

So He took sannyāsa, showed that, “I have no affinity in the worldly sense, for the worldly achievement.”

So man in general they should show some respect of the world teachers to Him, and He accepted that dress of a sannyāsī. He had no necessity for His own purpose, but only for the necessity of the people at large He took that role.

So our Guru Mahārāja also took the role of a sannyāsī Ācārya to help others in the relief work from māyā. Patit-oddharaṇe kṛta-veśa-yatim. “You have only externally accepted that dress, formally.

Materially you had no necessity to have that dress for your own sādhana, but only to help others you have accepted that role.”

Varṇāśrama, varṇa and āśrama, sannyāsa is also an āśrama. Varṇāśrama otita [?] Vaiṣṇava generally he’s beyond varṇāśrama, but sometimes they come within varṇāśrama to help others.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Narahari Sarakāra Ṭhākura, he had no recognition for Mahāprabhu’s sannyāsa līlā. “I don’t care for that. This is Your hypocrisy.” Narahari Sarakāra Ṭhākura said, “This is Your hypocrisy Kṛṣṇa. Where have You got this colour? This colour and the colour of Your cloth?”

Gopi nama kuca kunkumena kiran gitan vasarano [?]

“You are that notorious hunter of the gopīs, and You have now become a sādhū, and got Your dress red. Where have You got this redness? So it is drawn I understand it is drawn from the kunkum which You collected from the gopīs. I this way, strongly, I won’t have any recognition of You as a sannyāsī. I can’t rely You.” That is his renowned realisation of Kṛṣṇa līlā. “Kṛṣṇa līlā, no deviation from that. I won’t see You that.”

Just as Śacī Devī, “I won’t see You as sannyāsī my child Nimāi. You are my child.”

Yaśodā won’t accept Kṛṣṇa that He’s a kṣatriya. “They say You are also doing. What can I do? But I don’t believe that. You are my son. You are my child. They say, and You are also showing that You are King, all these things. I don’t admit. You are my datṛi [?] I whipped You so much and You cried. I whipped and You cried helplessly. You are that boy to me. But my fate, my misfortune that I have to see all these things, You are King far away, You are so and so. And I am that helpless gopī.”

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Mahārāja, who does Kṛṣṇa think that He is?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa, all His devotees they think of Him in some particular way. How does Kṛṣṇa think of Himself?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Think of Himself?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. He thinks Himself in different stages in different way. All different ways He can think at one time. Yogapat [?] Simultaneously He's a son of Yaśodā, son of Devakī, then the King of Dvārakā. And so many, śānta, dāsyā, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, He's represented in various sections. He says, sarvataḥ pāṇi-pādaṁ tat, sarvato 'kṣi-śiro-mukham sarvataḥ śrutimal loke, sarvam āvṛtya tiṣṭhati

["Everywhere are His hands and legs, His eyes, heads and faces, and He has ears everywhere. In this way the Supersoul exists, pervading everything."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.14]

At one time He can keep all these engagements simultaneously. But there is gradation.

There is a story - Rūpa Goswāmī has given an example, in Bhakti- rasāmṛta-sindu perhaps. That Kṛṣṇa is at the top, summit of a Govardhana. From there He sees that Baladeva with other friends are playing in a pasture ground. From there He saw that Yaśodā with all her helping hands preparing busily for the food and other things for Kṛṣṇa. Sākhya, vātsalya. And also He's seeing the dāsyā rasa they're also very busy to make arrangements under the direction of Yaśodā. So dāsyā, sākhya, and the sakhās are playing with Baladeva there. Vātsalya and mādhurya.

And he says that, "Chandrāvalī with her group, she's approaching to a particular appointed place to meet Kṛṣṇa."

And also sometimes he saw that Rādhārāṇī with Her group, She's also coming to the appointed place to be united with Kṛṣṇa, the group he sees. All the places of attraction of different groups represented together. Seeing this, seeing this, but Rūpa Goswāmī has proved us to see, invited us to see, that He's seeing everything but His eye is being attracted towards Rādhārāṇī. He's surveying all these things but eye attending, attracted always to that Rādhārāṇī's group. There the comparative study has been given by one śloka in Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindu.

"I cannot control the eye. The eye automatically tending towards that particular group: charmed."

So śanta, dāsyā, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, Kṛṣṇa, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, He's displayed in such a way, and this should be expanded because He's all in all, the whole thing within Him. So He's attending everything, but distributively, not same, not one. The particularisation there, vaiśiṣṭha, we must have to follow, that in this way He's everywhere.

“I am everywhere, I am nowhere. Everything in Me, nothing in Me.” But mayi te teṣu cāpy aham.

[samo 'haṁ sarva-bhūteṣu, na me dveṣyo 'sti na priyaḥ ye bhajanti tu māṁ bhaktyā, mayi te teṣu cāpy aham]

[“I am equally disposed to all souls, therefore no one is My enemy or My friend. Yet, for those who render devotional service unto Me with love, as they are bound by affection for Me, I am similarly bound by the tie of affection for them.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.29]

In the worldly conception His position, “I’m everywhere, I’m nowhere. Everything in Me, nothing in Me.” But in the svarūpa-śakti department, mayi te teṣu cāpy aham. “I can’t withdraw from them. And they can’t also withdraw from Me.”

Ahaṁ bhakta-parārdhīno, hy asvatantra [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63]
What is Gītā? Mayi te teṣu cāpy aham. What is the beginning?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mayi te teṣu cāpy aham. Ye bhajanti tu māṁ bhaktyā, mayi te teṣu cāpy aham. “There I can’t withdraw.”

So the classification of His existence to be traced differently. In the māyāic world that also distribution will be there, and in the svarūpa-śakti also there is also distribution. He’s everywhere, He’s Infinite. And He has to accommodate with all the finites. What to do? It is impossible for us to imagine. Still, such is the way, we may think to certain extent. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

And that Rūpa Goswāmī has represented His realness, position, that in the summit, from the summit of the Govardhana, all the different types of servitors represented under His condition. But he says that His eyes are unconsciously moving always towards that attraction: comparative study of attraction.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So how did you see that darśana of Gaura-Gadādhara?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Oh, that place is very special and very auspicious.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very auspicious.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: I like that place very much. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very much. Just as the Kṛṣṇa's attention towards Rādhārāṇī's group from Govardhana summit. So in all the area of Navadvīpa that attracts you most?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Achar. Hari Charan told you. Yes. That place I like very much.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura-Gadādhara.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: You've been to that place, very sweet place.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, no. Your example is somewhere else.

_____ [?] That Rādhārāṇī says, "I saw in a portrait a figure, very beautiful. So beautiful that I have surrendered Myself to that figure. Then I heard the sweet Name of Kṛṣṇa, and so sweet it seemed to Me that I have surrendered to the Name. Whose Name is Kṛṣṇa, I have surrendered to Him. Then another gentleman He plays the flute, and so sweet the sound I have surrendered. So I have surrendered in three places. Now it is not possible, anyone surrendering in three places, can get any satisfaction. So the conclusion is that now only death can solve My problem."

So wherever you are going the Dhāma is attracting you. But everything is one and same. The flute man, the portrait man, and also the main man, all one. [?] Ha, ha.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol.

Our Guru Mahārāja, when he was asked, after preparing the prasādam offered to him, and one asking, "What curry has been the best?" He generally used to say that, "Every one is better than every one."

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That was his answer. Ha, ha, ha, ha.

This is required of us. He told that ordinary sahajiyā they say, 'Rūpa Goswāmī is a bigger Vaiṣṇava and Jīva Goswāmī of lower type.'

But he told that, "They do not know them. Everyone is perfect in his own type, and we are to accept that." Jīva Goswāmī he's playing a part, Rūpa Goswāmī is playing another part. They're full in their own position. So they're all parśada bhakta. Jīva Goswāmī is not a sādhaka he's siddha, he's in perfect position. Rūpa Goswāmī he's also in perfect position and he shows that 'Sanātana Goswāmī is my Gurudeva.' But both of them...

And I'm told that Sanātana Goswāmī has mentioned somewhere, I do not know the place, perhaps in tipanī of Bhāgavatam. "I want to be rāgānugā or rūpānuga."

Anurāga bhajan, that Rūpa Goswāmī holds the supreme position by the ordination of Mahāprabhu. One is expert in one department. And Sanātana Goswāmī in sambandha tattva. In this way. And Dāsa Goswāmī Raghunātha who considers himself to be the disciple of Rūpa and Sanātana, he holds the supreme position, that śabda nirnaya, the highest fulfilment of our life, he's the Ācārya of that position.

So we should not go to differentiate too much about the devotees of Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

...sometimes reads taror api sahiṣṇunā: what’s the difference, and what is the original [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Two forms are seen, but taror iva means just like in the tree, and taror api, even more than the tree. This will be the meaning, tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api, that more than taro, more than the tree, sahiṣṇunā, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ. Like tree or more than tree. Whatever it may be does not matter, but taror api means more intense, more than tree, forbearing, tolerant more than tree. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ke?

...Vigraha, that is in Koladwīpa. And that was installed by a disciple of Gadādhara Paṇḍita whose name was Vaninātha. And Vaninātha's disciple was one Nayanānanda and he has composed a very sweet song. I do not know much of his other songs but one song is very heart capturing.

Nayanānanda bani sei sei sakhale jani sakha bosa dine [?]

Kali go tini gara sara jaga jana dharana karana mara hudur [?]

The great demon Kālī has devoured the whole world. All the worldly people they're devoured by the giant demon Kālī. Kali go tini de [?] The ignorance of Kālī. Ignorance which comes in Kālī-kāla over-floods everything, inundated all persons in ignorance. Kali go is a dreadful ignorance. Not only ignorance but dreadful ignorance. Kali go tini has devoured the whole population. Kali go tini gara sara jaga jana dharana kara mara hudur [?] And no mention of any religious, or any duty, nothing of the kind.

Hasa bana cintamani bidi niday bani godarvara daya thakura [?]

But anyhow most wonderful thing astoundingly some fortune came to the people. Hasa bana cintāmaṇi. Without any exertion the people at large they got an extraordinary fortune. Hasa bana cintāmaṇi bidi niday bani. Cintāmaṇi, a kind of jewel, whatever we can think it can deliver it to us, that is cintāmaṇi. Whatever cinta, we may think, whatever we shall think to get from it, it will supply. That is cintāmaṇi, a particular gem. So Hasa bana cintamani, without any exertion the people at large they got suddenly one gem. Bidi niday bani. The great management, or administration, has supplied such a gem, bidi niday. Who? What is bidi? Godarvara daya thakura. The most benevolent God Gauracandra. Brahmā ordained to supply that wonderful gem Gauracandra, godarvara daya thakura. Inestimable grace, kindness, emits from Him.

Baida bhai gaura guṇa kahe nina jaya [?]

What is that, Your gem, that Gaura, the cintāmaṇi? Gaura guṇa kahe nina jaya. We cannot overestimate, we cannot give any estimation of His quality, of His qualifications, kahe nina jaya, beyond our description, kahe nina jaya.

Tata sata ramana kata sata ramana bara niya oh nahi pai [?]

What to speak of myself, many a Brahmā the creator, many Indra and others, this Anantadeva and Śeṣa, hundred heads chanting in praise of Nārāyaṇa, hundred headed, four headed.

Tata sata ramana kata sata ramana bara niya oh nahi pai [?]

They cannot have any fathom, any measure of that high, wonderful qualification, that ocean of qualification. Bara niya oh nahi pai. None can give a proper description of what sort of grace that Gaura came with, bara niya oh nahi pai.

Cari veda sara dara sana pari sei deli gauranga nahi bhaje [?]

Now his inner opinion coming from his heart. Who has mastered all the Vedas and other revealed scriptures, but he does not come to understand, to appreciate what Gaura is, everything. Everything useless. Cari veda, the four Veda, R̥g, Yajur, Sāma, Atharva, what they contain. Sara dara sana pari. This nyāya, vaiśeṣika, karma-mimāṃsa, uttara-mimāṃsa, Śaṅkara, Patañjali, all these spiritual logics. Sei deli gauranga nahi bhaje. But he does not come to this conclusion that Gaurāṅga should be revered. He should be respected. He should be accepted as our Master.

Cari veda sara dara sana pari sei deli gauranga nahi bhaje [?]

Vasa tara dayan naya nahi vihina jane daya pani andre jīva kaje [?]

The most striking portion is here. Vasa tara dayan, I say that he has only laboured uselessly in the study of the Veda and the Darśana if he does not come to understand, to realise, that what Gaurāṅga has given it is the best. Here is the fulfilment of our life. If he cannot appreciate this Gaurāṅga then all his studies only useless labour. Gaurāṅga nahi bhaje, vasa tara dayā naya nahi vihinā jana dayā paṇi andre jīva kaje . Here's the stroke. One who has got no eye, what is the necessity of a looking glass to him? He does not know the standpoint how to judge things. The standpoint we may get from Gaurāṅga. Otherwise superficial study, the whole Veda, all these things.

nāhaṁ vedair na tapasā, na dānena na cejyayā [śakya evaṁ-vidho draṣṭuṁ, dṛṣṭavān asi yaṁ mama bhaktyā tv ananyayā śakya, ahaṁ evaṁ-vidho 'rjjuna jñātuṁ draṣṭuṁ ca tattvena, praveṣṭuṁ ca parantapa]

["O Arjuna, conqueror of the enemy, although in this form of Mine I am practically impossible to be seen by all other methods, the pure devotees, by their exclusive devotion unto Me, are capable of actually knowing Me, seeing Me, and entering into My divine pastimes."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 11.53-4]

"If I am missed."

So dayā paṇi andre jīva kaje, he has got no eye to appreciate, to see, to look at. Then what is the necessity of the dayā paṇi that he will, he can show the mirror, the anything. Or in the microscope if there's no eye. Just as my position, telescope, microscope, nothing can help me because eyesight wanting. So dayā paṇi andre jīva kaje. Veda bhidyate kichu na janata. On the other hand, he has not even studied, or does not know the name of the Veda and Purāṇa and other things, on the other hand.

Veda bhidyate kichu na janata sei yadi gauranga yani sar [?]

But he comes to this conclusion that Gaurāṅga is all in all, he's the highest giver.

Nayananda bani sei sei sakale jane sarva siddhi kala [?]

Then this servant Nayananda he gives this out to the world that he knows everything.

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."]

Tad vijñātam tad eva brahma. He knows everything, if he knows Gaurāṅga. If he can appreciate Gaurāṅga he has finished everything in his previous life. No love means necessarily no education in his present stage. In Bhāgavatam also similar.

[aho bata śva-paco 'to garīyān, yaj-jihvāgre vartate nāma tubhyam] tepus tapas te juhuvuḥ sasnur āryā, brahmānūcur nāma grṇanti ye te

[“Oh, how glorious are they whose tongues are chanting Your holy name! Even if born in the families of dog-eaters, such persons are worshipping. Persons who chant the holy name of Your Lordship must have executed all kinds of austerities and fire sacrifices and achieved all the good manners of the Āryans. To be chanting the holy name of Your Lordship, they must have bathed at holy places of pilgrimage, studied the Vedas and fulfilled everything required.”]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.33.7]

Who has now come to the stage to appreciate Nāma bhajan, they have already finished all these necessary things in their previous birth. Tepus tapas te, great penance they have made in previous birth, tapas te. Juhuvuḥ, and this sacrifice in the fire that are done by him already. Yoga sasnur, they take bath in the different holy tank, or a lake, or river, that also finished by him in his previous life, sasnur. Āryā, how to deal with, how to live with all these manners and behaviour and practice, conduct, all these we do not find in him, or very lower type. No, no. All these higher types of practices finished in his previous life. Brahmānūcur, we don't see him to chant the Vedic mantram. Oh, that is finished, far off, in his previous life. Nāma grṇanti ye, then only he has got faith in the Name of You. Who has got his faith practical in the Name, Nāma bhajan of the Lord, he has finished all other apparent practices of religious life in his previous life. Something like that.

Yadi gauranga nahi badi [?]

Veda bhidyate kichu na janata sei yadi gauranga yani sar, nayananda bani sei [?]

He says, making statement, dani sei sei sakale yani. He knows everything, perfectly, sarva siddhi kara phale. And what are the necessary things of him, bhukti, mukti, for different position of service. Everything within his fist, whole thing within his fist, who has got the grace of Gaurāṅga.”

This song sung by Nayanānanda who was the disciple of Vaninātha whose Gurudeva was Gadādhara Paṇḍita. And Vaninātha had installed Gaura-Gadādhara, in suppressed mādhurya-rasa, here in Gaura līlā.

Just the other day I told that when Kṛṣṇa-Balarāma, Gaura-Nitāi, Gaura-Nitāi mostly in sākhya rasa...

...just in the sight of Rādhārāṇī, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. And when that very Kṛṣṇa in that very place in the sight of the gopīs He's Prabhāva-Prakāśa, not Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. This...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That Kṛṣṇa is only Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. And when that very Kṛṣṇa, only then and there, standing by the side of so many gopīs, two gopīs one Kṛṣṇa in the middle, two gopīs as in rasa, that Kṛṣṇa not Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. Svayaṁ-Bhagavān is only Who is on the right side of Rādhārāṇī. Other Kṛṣṇa, Prakāśa Mūrti. That is, Prakāśa, Prabhāva-Prakāśa, Prakāśa two kinds, Prabhāva-Vilāsa, Prabhāva central, and Vaibhava extended self. So Prabhāva-Prakāśa, Prakāśa and Vilāsa, first two groups. Prakāśa, same thing appeared. And Vilāsa, His playful expression, Vilāsa. Prakāśa again divided into two, Prabhāva and Vaibhava. Prabhāva means central, and Vaibhava means extended, from that. So Prabhāva-Prakāśa when in the side of the gopīs. And Vaibhava-Prakāśa, not there, it is, Balarāma is Vaibhava-Prakāśa, and two-handed Kṛṣṇa in Mathurā Vaibhava-Prakāśa. And Vilāsa, four-handed Kṛṣṇa in Mathurā, Prakāśa, He's Prabhāva-Vilāsa. And Vaibhava-Vilāsa, all other extensions of Kṛṣṇa. In this way it has been dealt. In Caitanya-caritāmṛta we find and also in the Rūpa Goswāmī we find, the gradation, the conception of Kṛṣṇa in differentiation in this way.

So according to the paraphernalia, the place, His mentality, Kṛṣṇa's mentality, attitude, comes down to that stage, we are to think. So different posing in vātsalya rasa, sākhya rasa, śanta rasa, dāsyā rasa, His attitude will be similar, corresponding to the servitor, the cooperation like that. So these have been given to us in very subtle things, but still we are to know to certain extent that this may be, this is possible. Kṛṣṇa is one, and whole, but still there is yei rasa, sei sarvottama.

[kintu yāñra yei rasa, sei sarvottama / taṭa-stha hañā vicārile, āche tara-tama]

["It is true that whatever relationship a particular devotee has with the Lord is the best for him; still, when we study all the different methods from a neutral position, we can understand that there are higher and lower degrees of love."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.83]

Yaśodā won't say that His rasa is not full, something lacking, she won't admit. 'This is the highest thing.' She will think.

The sakhās, the friends, they enjoy the play company, they think that, 'We are the highest obtainer, we obtain most. This is the highest which we get from His company, graceful company.'

Yei rasa, sei sarvottama. In the taṭa-stha hañā vicāṛile, he will draw from any relative position and come to calculate the absolute position, that consideration, then we shall find that there is small and great, scanty and sufficient. It is there.

Sometimes when there is clash between them, and which side wins, it is tested there, we can say, that which side is getting the better hand, who is defeated and who are [?]

_____ [?] say that Russia is the most powerful. Some say America is the most powerful. It will be decided when they come into clash.

So when different rasa comes into clash, then it is decided whose side is greater, which side.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Gradation everywhere. When Hanumān went with that [?] to see Kṛṣṇa in Dvārakā, "Jai Rāma Jai Rāma" Kṛṣṇa took the figure of Rāmacandra and asked Satyabhāmā to take the appearance of Sītā. She could not. Then He asked Rukmiṇī, "Oh, you take the appearance of Sītā." Rukmiṇī could do. Then where to put Satyabhāmā? "You go just under the throne." And Hanumān came, "Jai Rāma Jai Rāma.” He saw that, “Yes, Rāma is there, Sītā is there.” With the [?] that blue lotus he worshipped Rāma and Sītā there. So Rukmiṇī and Satyabhāmā here, Rukmiṇī has been shown superior to Satyabhāmā. Yes?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: I wanted to know why Satyabhāmā would not take the figure of Sītā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why Satyabhāmā could not take?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes, or would not.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Would not? It is seen that Rukmiṇī had that special power, special capacity, special position, she took the appearance of Sītā. And Satyabhāmā had some similarity, some [?] of Rādhārāṇī. It may be thought that she did not like to take position of Sītā. It may be thought. Without she had reverent nature of Rādhārāṇī. In Lalitā-Mādhava it has been covered, that Satyabhāmā was transformed - Rādhārāṇī was transformed in Dvārakā līlā as Satyabhāmā. Chandrāvalī, Rukmiṇī. And Jāmbavatī, Lalitā. In this way it has been described. That representation not full, as Kṛṣṇa in Dvārakā is not full, as He is in Vṛndāvana, so the śakti, the potency, they’re also of such type. The sentiment, Rādhārāṇī is more sentimental. Chandrāvalī is more intelligent. But in Vṛndāvana sentiment has its best appreciation, best value, in Vṛndāvana līlā. Not so much of intelligence as much as transaction of the heart, heart giving, not much stress in the intelligence. In Dvārakā līlā perhaps intelligence has got best position than the sentiment. So it may be transformed in that way. Rādhārāṇī, er, Satyabhāmā had more sentimental dealings we find, in the major portion in her. And Rukmiṇī, she’s sober, considerate, in her dealings with everything, everyone.

So what has, in the highest plane, what has the most appreciable in the lower class of play, they have no appreciation of the similar type, the difference. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So private life and public life. Private life is higher, public life is lower. They who are the most qualified in the assistance of public life, and what is most favourable in helping private life, may be different.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: But here we see Gadādhara Prabhu and there we see Gadādhara Prabhu, so naturally we become attracted.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gadādhara, Gaura-Gadādhara.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: 16:00 - 18:57, Bengali [?] Sanātana Goswāmī took Kṛṣṇa to Mathurā, and from there he took again back to Vṛndāvana. He did not allow Kṛṣṇa to go out of Mathurā. In Bṛhat- Bhāgavatāmṛta he sees.

But Rūpa Goswāmī he took, he connected the Vṛndāvana līlā with Dvārakā līlā, that they were transferred there in Dvārakā līlā, the Vṛndāvana Queens are so. What's the, where's the adjustment?

Prabhupāda answered, "Then why it has been told adhokṣaja? Adhokṣaja, it is reserved. Adhokṣaja means that everything, if we can understand, we can keep within our fist, then how it will be adhokṣaja?" That was his answer. Acintya.

acintyāḥ khalu ye bhāvā na tāṁs tarkeṇa yojayet [prakṛtibhyaḥ param yacca tad-acintyasya lakṣam]

["That which is inconceivable can never be understood through the logic and reason of the mind.

The very symptom that something is inconceivable is that it is beyond logical comprehension."] [Skandha Purāṇa] & [Mahābharata, Bhiṣma Parva, 5.22] & [C-c, Ādi-līlā, 5.41, purport]

His sweet will. His sweet will. We must leave everything up to that. Everything we must know, we must capture. Then His existence not transcending me? So jñāne prayāsam [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3], don't go bother yourself uselessly to know anything and everything about Him. Submit, and you will know that partial instalment according to the, to your serving necessity, it will be given to you. Don't go to devour the Infinite, being a finite. That attempt is not desirable. That is waste of energy. Not only wasted but that is detrimental to your cause, that you want to devour the whole thing, to put it in your belly, within your belly. Then there, that much, unconsciously you come to think that is limited. Otherwise how can I know, be bold enough to know to the finish? I want to know more and more, more and more. This tendency with you proves that you want to finish Him. So you can finish only māyā to certain extent, and not adhokṣaja Kṛṣṇa in any way. Your bad hankering for knowledge, that is a disqualification in you. Not by that path you can really make any progress. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyaḥ.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

[“One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone’s heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him.”] [Kaṭha Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

That must come from that side. You should only try encourage your negative side. “I’m so low. I’m so mean. I’m the most needy.” In that way, that must be sincere, not any show. The sincere progress is in our realising that I am the most needy, and most wretched, most mean. That is the way we should try to walk on. So jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā, hatefully banish. Namanta eva, jīvanti san-mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām. Whatever comes through the mouths of the devotees I must try to catch, from the positive direction that it is coming to me. The knowledge is coming to me out of its own accord, Kṛṣṇa kathā. Only I shall expect, to welcome, to invite that, automatically coming [?] Freely coming to me. Not by labouring I shall try to know everything about Him. Jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva, jīvanti. Whenever, in what form of life it may come, ‘yes, He’ll give, I shall take.’ And not I shall vex Him, disturb Him, ‘that You make Yourself known to me what You are.’

Namanta eva, jīvanti san-mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām, sthāne sthitāḥ.

Wherever he's placed does not matter. Not even human species also, he may be in the bird or beast. That does not matter. The Hanumān is not in human form, the Garuḍa is not human form, but they have got much.

Sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vān-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām.

“Really, they have access to enter into My domain, enter My heart.”

śreyah sṛtiṁ bhaktim udasya te vibho, [kliśyanti ye kevala-bodha-labdhaye teṣāṁ asau kleśala eva śiṣyate, nānyad yathā sthūla-tuṣāvaghātinām]

[“My dear Lord, devotional service unto You is the only auspicious path. If one gives it up simply for speculative knowledge or the understanding that these living beings are spirit souls and the material world is false, he undergoes a great deal of trouble. He only gains troublesome and inauspicious activities. His endeavours are like beating a husk that is already devoid of rice. One's labour becomes fruitless.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.4] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.22]

“The real, śreyah sṛtiṁ bhaktim, the real path to Me is through devotion, through service. Bhaktim udasya te vibho, kliśyanti ye kevala-bodha-labdhaye. Leaving the path of service, those that are very eager to know Me, to finish, bhaktim udasya, abandoning that path of service, śreyah sṛtiṁ bhaktim udasya te vibho, kliśyanti, labours much, takes much pain, bodha-labdhaye, to have the conception about Me, estimation about Me, kevala-bodha-labdhaye. Teṣāṁ asau kleśala eva śiṣyate. That is only, the pain is the only reward, kleśala [?] the pain is its own reward. If one, leaving the path of service, wants to know Me. That sort of curiosity, he wants to know Us. But what for?

You are My servant. He does not try to go that side to give the fulfilment of My satisfaction of Mine, but to know Me, very eager to know Me, who am I. But not the real thing that he's to satisfy Me. I am that ānandam, ecstasy. That is My highest part, and he must come to add to that. He must search for Kṛṣṇa saṁtoṣa. But without caring, that abstract knowledge, curiosity, is very much energy there.

They're self deceivers. Kliśyanti ye kevala-bodha-labdhaye, teṣām asau kleśala eva śiṣyate, nānyad yathā sthūla-tuṣāvaghātinām. How? The example is given that if one - the paddy should be unhusked, then the rice will come. But only the cover of the rice, that [?] only the cover, if that is husked, husking the [?] that is the mere cover of the rice. Rice is already not there, only the cover side of the paddy is there and they're husking only that. That mere trying to attempt for knowledge, to know about Me, this is like that paddy cover husking, not the paddy husking. The paddy, the rice is the real thing which we want, not the cover. So kevala-bodha-labdhaye, teṣām asau kleśala eva śiṣyate, nānyad yathā. Those who are husking the cover of the paddy their labour is fruitless, fruitless labour, pain is its only reward. So when the Infinite wants to know the finite his labour is wasted there. Whatever you get you try to utilise you in your duty to satisfy Me, ānandam, that is real thing, sukha."

That is one. Then another. There are four ślokas in Bhāgavatam condemning jñāna. Another, *naiṣkarmyam apy acyuta-bhāva-varjitaṁ, na śobhate jñānam alaṁ nirañjanam kutaḥ punaḥ śaśvad abhadram īśvare, na cārpitaṁ karma

yad apy akāraṇam*

very beginning and transient by nature, if they are not utilised for the devotional service of the Lord?”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.5.12]

Naiṣkarmyam paramam siddhim, naiṣkarmya. It is very dishonourable, the idea, that we shall labour and live. If I have to live I must labour. Without labour I can't live, very dishonourable. So the ancient scholars they wanted to find some place, position, that without labour we can live. Without pain we can live easily. To find out that stage they went to discover, or to invent some position. Naiṣkarmyam.

And sometimes it got much appreciation in the society, that without labour. Now, labour trouble the capitalists are feeling, so this computer and so many machines are used in place of so many manual labour. Manual labour has been so impertinent that the capitalists want to eliminate manual labourers.

So the ancient scholars they were sometimes very busy to discover a social position for the whole jīva that without labour how can, naiṣkarma, without karma, without diligence how can they live. Then they came to the conclusion that ātmārāma, that complete withdrawal, this Buddha, Śaṅkara, they came to their relief, that there is a stage, just in our sound sleep, if we can reach that samādhi stage, no labour, still we can live happily, no trouble there, naiṣkarmya.

But in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says, Śukadeva says, “Yes, naiṣkarmya is also found here.”

śrīmad-bhāgavatam purāṇam amalaṁ yad vaiṣṇavānām priyaṁ yasmin pāramahaṁsyam ekam amalaṁ jñānaṁ paraṁ gīyate tatra jñāna-virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ tac chr̥ṇvan su-paṭhan vicāraṇa paro bhaktyā vimucyen naraḥ

["Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the spotless Purāṇa. It is especially dear to the Vaiṣṇavas; it has knowledge that is especially appreciated by the paramahāṁsas. When carefully studied, heard, and understood again and again, it opens the door to pure devotion through which one never returns to the bondage of illusion."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.13.18]

Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam gave a new form of naiṣkarmya, no work. Work is painful you say. Work is dissipating. Labour means this mortal, that is the injury, the wastage of energy labour means.

"Oh, I am giving you an ideal of life where no dissipation. No dissipation. You will labour without any dissipation. How?" Jñāna-virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ. They say, "A new type of naiṣkarmya we have discovered, or invented, jñāna-virāga-bhakti. Jñāna-virāga, these two took Buddha and Śaṅkara to samādhi. But Bhāgavata School says, "No, no. You must not be captivated by that lair. At the cost of your own individual prospect to purchase naiṣkarmya, labour less life, that in samādhi you'll be nowhere. So for whom you're going to purchase that sort of naiṣkarmya in samādhi it is suicide. But we are giving you the labour-less, the painless labour. And that is the labour of love in rāga-mārga. You do. In Bhāgavatam it is in ātmā, ātmā is eternal. In the eternal plane you may keep your own individuality and you will labour but ātmā is eternal, above mortality, no pain in the labour. But you can retain your own identity, own position, and a greater form of life.

Our Guru Mahārāja used to say that [?] that when the cow shed is burned then the cows they come out, and they sometimes see a red cloud in the sky they seem to be afraid of the red cloud.

So Guru Mahārāja told that these Buddistic and the Śaṅkara School they're afraid like this of the red cloud. They think that our energising in the spiritual life, in the after life, after emancipation, there is also this pain of labour. Labour of love, labour, that will give ānandam, as much as you will energise you will get ānandam. And no dissipation because it is eternal plane. You are eternal. Everything is in the eternal plane, no dissipation, and you can retain your life, a pleasant life, a fruitful life, a life of fulfilment, a life of progress. Everything you may have without any dissipation as you are afraid of in this mortal world. So Bhāgavat naiṣkarmya. Naiṣkarmya means out of that labour, no dissipation, labour means dissipation. So without dissipation, playfully you can live, and no reaction towards death. Jñāna-virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ.

[dharmah projjhita-kaitavo 'tra paramo nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ vedyaṁ vāstavam atra vastu śivadaṁ tāpa-trayonmūlanam] śrīmad-bhāgavate mahā-muni-kṛte kiṁ vā parair īśvaraḥ sadyo hṛdy avarudhyate 'tra kṛtibhiḥ śuśrūṣubhis tat-kṣaṇāt

[“Completely rejecting all religious activities which are materially motivated, this Bhāgavata- Purāṇa propounds the highest truth, which is understandable by those devotees who are fully pure in heart. The highest truth is reality distinguished from illusion for the welfare of all. Such truth uproots the threefold miseries. This beautiful Bhāgavatam, compiled by the great sage Vyāsadeva (in his maturity), is sufficient in itself for God realisation. What is the need of any other scripture? As soon as one attentively and submissively hears the message of Bhāgavatam, by this culture of knowledge the Supreme Lord is established within his heart.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2]

So I came from here, naiṣkarmyam paramam suddhim, naiṣkarmya, that sort of, that is no labour. Service of the Lord is no labour. It is gain. It is the giver, sustainer. That is no labour, no dissipation, but it sustains more, life giving. Labour, service, pure service means life giving, not life taking, not vitality killing, but vitality supplying. Opposite, labour, in the eternal, especially in the Goloka area, the labour of love. Without labour they will think they’re fasting. Making labour, making service, ‘Yes, we’re well fed.’

Service is feeding. Service is not dissipating, killing. So our attempt should not be too much for knowledge, knowing everything, but how to utilise me in the highest function, that is service, jñāne proper. Śreyah sṛtiṁ.

*naiṣkarmyam apy acyuta-bhāva-varjitam, na śobhate jñānam alam nirañjanam kutaḥ punaḥ śaśvad abhadram īśvare, na cārpitaṁ karma
yad apy akāraṇam*

[“Knowledge of self-realisation, even though free from all material affinity, does not look well if devoid of a conception of the Infallible (God). What, then, is the use of fruitive activities, which are naturally painful from the very beginning and transient by nature, if they are not utilised for the devotional service of the Lord?”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.5.12]

What to think, so much renowned, appreciated by many scholars, that naiṣkarmya, that has no place in Bhāgavata School. What to allow the elevationists, the proposals of the elevationists in the mundane world, that has no place at all. Even that naiṣkarmya is discarded, it is contemptibly thrown out, this naiṣkarmya, which is found to have so much respect from the higher leaders like Buddha, Śaṅkara, etc, Jain, etc.

So service, service, service, don't be afraid that service is dissipating. Service is life giving, it is feeding you properly, service. Die to live. Die to live. You must have such courage to die for Kṛṣṇa and you'll see that you'll come with glorious colours. So exert yourself for the service, that is the main thing. There is another śloka also I don't remember. The jñāna, to know, futile. I can't make Him object of my knowledge.

He's adhokṣaja, our Guru Mahārāja told in that way. “Why this difference between the representation of Sanātana Goswāmī and Rūpa Goswāmī?

They're one and the same, but this apparent reason, He's adhokṣaja. Why? Don't try to understand anything, to bring to your, within your understanding everything, then it will be māyā. (With His own shell, all our reference?) He's unknown and unknowable. The faith will help you to die, while living.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Cauliflower. Cabbage. Prabhupāda's plan was that there will be a farm where these vegetables will be produced. Where we all go to the foreign, because the foreigners have captured the summit of the civilisation. That must be taken. The flag of present civilisation must be snatched from their hand.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Hari bol!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the flag of Mahāprabhu should be given.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Gaura prema ānanda. Hari Hari bol!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That once one High Court Judge, he was a very religious man, according to varṇāśrama dharma, (Sa Gulash Banerjee?). He's out to attend High Court, he's a Justice.

And some old lady, brāhmaṇa lady, suddenly came out from her house and prayed to him, "Are you a brāhmaṇa's son my child. Are you a brāhmaṇa?"

“Yes, I am a brāhmaṇa.”

“There is my Śālagrāma. I have found none to offer some bhogam to that Śālagrāma. That is fasting. So if you’re a brāhmaṇa please come and worship my Śālagrāma. Otherwise I won’t be able to take food. Śālagrāma fasting then I shall have to fast. I don’t find any brāhmaṇa.”

So he was a very religious habited man. He went in, and tells, “A pure cloth I want mother.” And she gave. And the High Court uniform he left there, and taking that cloth he worshipped the Śālagrāma and everything.

And when he was going out the old lady came to dress him. “Who are you my child?” “I am a Justice in High Court.”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So they come to praise Mahāprabhu. ‘He came for the unity of Hindu Moslem, Mahāprabhu came.’ Underestimation, a deplorable underestimation, and that equates to offence. Hare Kṛṣṇa. [?] Akṣayānanda Mahārāja is silent, dumbfound.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Dumbfound, a club on my head.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. He found something, that is new something. Do you think like that? Only hear and hear.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: If I can hear then I can speak nicely, if I can hear nicely.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just as Mahāprabhu did, and just before Sārvabhauma. For seven days Sārvabhauma is explaining and explaining. And Mahāprabhu dumbfound sitting on the front.

Then the doubt came to Sārvabhauma, “What is this? I am labouring my utmost to make Him understand. The boy can’t understand, can’t appreciate my high level explanation of Vedānta which can never be found anywhere, so deep explanation. But it also may not be possible. His very figure shows that He’s a brilliant student, brilliant genius. What is this?” Then he could not stand and came down to ask Him, “What I say, do you understand? Silently You pass simply hearing, submissive hearing. But do You to understand?”

“Yes I understand the original, but I can’t follow your explanation.”

Then a bolt from the blue came to Sārvabhauma. “What does He say, what He means to say? He can understand the original sūtra is clear but He cannot understand my explanation? I am wrong, my explanation is wrong, in other words. He has so much courage that He can say so.” Anyhow taking patience, “Then can You explain to me the original sūtra?”

“Yes, if you order Me, I may try.” Then He began to give the original, the explanation of the original Vedānta sūtra.

Sārvabhauma, anyhow he was a good scholar, he could understand, “Yes, transcending the conception of Śaṅkara He’s soaring high, and keeping the Veda pramāṇa intact He’s giving a new explanation.” Then he was perplexed.

Then anyhow he saw, he had some eight sort of explanations of this ātmārāma śloka in Bhāgavata.

Mahāprabhu came with Bhāgavatam, “The Bhāgavata in the Vedānta should be interpreted in the line of Bhāgavata.”

artho 'yaṁ brahma sūtrānām, bhāratārtha-vinirṇayaḥ gāyatrī bhāṣya [rūpo 'sau, vedārthaḥ paribrahmhitah]

[“Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam represents the real purport of Vedānta-sūtra. And although it is very difficult to draw out the real purpose of the one hundred thousand verse epic Mahābhārata, the great history of the world, Śrīmad Bhāgavatam has come to give its real meaning. The mother of all Vedic knowledge is the Gāyatrī mantra. Śrīmad Bhāgavatam gives the gist of Gāyatrī in a very full-fledged way. And the supplementary truths of the Vedas are also found within Śrīmad Bhāgavatam.”] [Garuḍa Purāṇa]

Brahma sūtra artha must go towards the line of Bhāgavatam.

nigama-kalpa-taror galitaṁ phalaṁ, [śuka-mukhād amṛta-drava-saṁyutam pibata bhāgavataṁ rasam ālayam, muhur aho rasikā bhuvi bhāvukāḥ]

[“O expert and thoughtful men, relish Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the mature fruit of the desire tree of Vedic literatures. It emanated from the lips of Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī. Therefore this fruit has become even more tasteful, although its nectarean juice was already relishable for all, including liberated souls.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.3]

Then Sārvabhauma came out with this.

ātmārāmāś ca munayo, nirgranthā apy urukrame [kurvanty ahaitukīm bhaktim, ittham-bhūta guṇo hariḥ]

[“Those sages who, being merged in the bliss of the spirit soul, are totally free from the binding knot of mental images - they too engage in the unmotivated service of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the performer of marvellous deeds. This is but one of the qualities of the Supreme Lord Hari, who charms the entire world.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.7.10]

He prepared eightfold meanings of that particular śloka. And he explained that contributing something towards the interpretation of Mahāprabhu. Then still as a courtesy he again asked, “Are you satisfied with the explanation of this śloka? Can you do it?” Sārvabhauma thought, ‘no human genius can explain more than I have done.’

Then Mahāprabhu indicated, “If you ask Me, I may try.” “Yes, what You know, You do.”

Then leaving his eight forms of explanation Mahāprabhu gave eighteen forms of explanation, original. Then Sārvabhauma nonplussed, benumbed, lost himself.

Devotees: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anyhow, then Sārvabhauma, when Sārvabhauma was besides himself, fully dispossessed of him, then Mahāprabhu showed His transcendental view. Then Sārvabhauma fainted. After that he anyhow awoke and then he saw that sannyāsī is sitting very modestly on his side.

And, “I may go now. You please give Me leave I shall go.” “Yes.”

And saying this He went away. This is Sārvabhauma. Hare Kṛṣṇa. He’s sitting silent. Gaura Hari bol.

Parvat Mahārāja: Because you’re not Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Your explanations are like Mahāprabhu’s and then therefore we’re in the position of being dumbfounded.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Or even less.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now, not going to enter into any discussion, time is up.

Devotees: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi...

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: We are energizing by hearing your words, but we are afraid that you are de-energizing by our association.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi. [?] says, the two principles of life unavoidable: to preserve and to propagate. First to preserve, the principle of self preservation. So we cannot avoid this. Propagation may be avoided. But self preservation, to take food, that can never be avoided this principle of life. To solve that most original principle of life, that is prasāda sevā. The most unavoidable engagement in our life, to maintain. That the only problem is self preservation and that self preservation that should be solved, prasāda sevā. The first principle, the unavoidable, the single principle of life, that must be solved. And only by taking prasādam we can solve that problem of feeding ourselves. Otherwise we will be under reaction, eating and being eaten. But if we want to get out of that action-reaction we can eat without being eaten in future, then prasāda sevā.

Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa-bhakti).”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

Only by serving that prasādam we can get out of all our entanglements with the material world.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Someone did come? Ah, possibly Tīrthapāda dāsa from Calcutta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From Calcutta? No fresh news?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Not to our knowledge. Not as far as we know. Didn't meet him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You were far away than myself. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, is there a place where the pastime of Lord Caitanya delivering Jagāi and Mādhāi, is that place known, where that pastime took place?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, that is not located. The proper location has not been discussed till now. But there is a bathing ghāṭa on the Ganges known as Mādhāi's ghāṭa where after they were relieved, Mādhāi, repentant for his past activity, wanted to do service of the Vaiṣṇavas, devotees, that come to take bath in the Ganges. So he took over himself the duty of cleansing the ghāṭa. And he was seen often with a spade in his hand, for cleansing the ghāṭa for the public to come and to take bath comfortably. When the two Germans came with, no, one Englishman came with [Bhakti Saranga] Goswāmī Mahārāja, there was a meeting in Bagh Bazaar lecture hall. And one notable, renowned theosophist Hiranidatta, he was invited to preside over the meeting, and he told there that, “When I was a student of City College, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he delivered a lecture there. And there he mentioned that those days are not far off when the westerners will come and join in the saṅkīrtana party of Gaura-Nityānanda, all these things. And I see that after so many years that has begun to be fruitful.”

In that occasion he related one story. At that time there was another incident. That Goswāmī Mahārāja got a Vasudeva Mūrti in some park in England. One day, he has got nothing, pauper-less, no money. That he will put one pence into the box then the gas will come then cooking will be possible, but not a penny, not even a pence in the hand. Early morning and went to the nearest park and there he’s chanting mahā-mantra on the mālā. And penniless stage in the foreign country but he’s awaiting for the assistance of Kṛṣṇa, how it may come. It is not possible that he will fast there, but how Kṛṣṇa comes to his relief at least he’s watching and taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa.

Suddenly he found that in a earthen vessel perhaps there is earth and some coming out. “What is this?” Removing the earth he found a small Mūrti. He took it, a small four-handed Deity, he took it and came home. And according to Caitanya-caritāmṛta the signs, the astra, śaṅkha, cakra, gadā, padma, in which hand what weapon. So according to the weapons as arranged it is He’s Vasudeva Mūrti. Then he cleansed and put in a good proper place.

Then suddenly one maidservant who used to cleanse the place etc. “Oh Prabhuji, please look at this whether it is a useful paper or an ordinary paper.”

He took it, the cheque of Yajavara [?] Mahārāja for a hundred pounds. Then he took it to the nearest bank.

He told, “Yes, the cheque is in your person but your identification is necessary.” But suddenly I found a newspaper and he gave lecture and with Zetland on the chair saw he the photo of that meeting and, “Oh, it is here you can see. And I am speaking and the meeting here.”

Then that Vasudeva Mūrti was taken by Goswāmī Mahārāja. And that was also mentioned in the meeting and that Hirandatta, he was a theosophist. He told a story that when in Africa there was a campaign of archaeological department and some parts of some relics were collected. And they are trying to adjust the report. ‘What are they, in what age, in what Mūrti?’ In this way, final report is necessary. But a particular part of a Mūrti is not available. So the head of the department he cannot give the report, final report. Waiting, waiting, if anywhere it is available then he will put there and see and then he may give report. Anyhow it is delayed long time.

Then the head of the department thought, ‘When it is not available, what to do. I cannot delay any longer. Tomorrow morning I must have to give the final report. He’s lying having a dream. ‘The necessary part you may inquire into Rome in particular place.’ Then he rose up and inquired and there the remaining part was preserved, in some museum. And he brought them, connected.

So that Hirandatta told, “That many things in the invisible world, there are many things which we cannot believe in. It is possible, it is recorded. So the Vasudeva Mūrti coming, going, in the invisible world, there are many things. We may not depend on our physical senses, everything. So the flash may come to any earnest inquirer.”

It is not impossible for a fortunate soul to have direct experience of the līlā. It is possible. We are floating in a particular degree. Our eyes, nose, touch, everything, ear, in a particular plane it is fixed. The world is infinite and of different type and quality. Everything is possible.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura had experience of such flash several times when he was to discover this birthplace of Mahāprabhu, at that time and many other times he has written that, we find in his writings. [?]

When they're quarrelling what is the real birthplace of Mahāprabhu, “Pracin Māyāpur, this is Yoga-pīṭha.” The Goswāmīns they used to say, “No, where Mahāprabhu is, this is the birthplace.”

So some say that this Hari Tala that is the place where Jagāi and Mādhāi were delivered. When I came here, then some sahajiyā parties used to come here in Hari Tala. Because they say Hari śakta men they're very much orthodox and it was thought that they, Jagāi and Mādhāi must have come, sprung from them because that Charan dāsa, the founder of Samaj Vari, when he came this side his mṛdaṅga was broken by these brāhmaṇas here. So they thought that is the worst place from where Jagāi and Mādhāi came. And Nityānanda Prabhu when they came...

...for us to oppose that Mahāprabhu's Janmotsava will be in Māyāpur side who our worst enemy they wanted to create Jagāi and Mādhāi also here in Hari Tala. But it does not have recognition from the public. Anything may be. Śrauta-panthā, we are followers of śrauta-panthā, arpta vakra [?] not the experience of the ordinary people, who have got nothing to do with the religious matter. They are very earnest to show - “Here is Mahāprabhu's birthplace, there is Mahāprabhu's birthplace.” But who are they? What sort of interest they have got in the birthplace of Mahāprabhu? Then those that are earnest for Mahāprabhu, and His īlā, and His advices, they have got no value, no meaning?

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura who is so much devoted to Mahāprabhu we see through his writings and practices, then in his quest of the birthplace of Mahāprabhu, no response. Only these ordinary people who are engaged cent per cent in other matters, they will be the authority of locating where is the birthplace of Mahāprabhu?

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

The [Herr] Schulze, [Sadānanda dāsa], after mixing for some time with the sahajiyā came to conclusion. “Oh, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura was he told that a spiritual Māyāpur. And this ordinary Māyāpur may be located somewhere else. Very good. A spiritual and ordinary, two places of Māyāpur, birthplace of Mahāprabhu.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Māyāpur, birthplace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...Professor Nixon. But who are they? [?] “Who is the lady bābājī?” [?] “Who is the lady bābājī with you?”

You have kaupīna. Who is the lady?”

“Ah, she has come from a very respectable family. Her brother is a Pleader in Kṛṣṇanagar court.” “Yes, yes. Then of course no harm.”

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Who was that Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nixon, Professor Nixon. He was in the first great war, he was an Englishman, a professor. But as a volunteer he came to fight from the French camp against the Germans. Anyhow he found that his plane is hit and it is broken and it will fall on the German land.

“At that time,” I heard it from him that, “At that time I told that if there is any God let Him save me in this position. I am hopeless. Then the rest of my time of life I shall devote for Him.”

He told, “Then I fainted. And when I got my sense I found I am in the French hospital. And I was cured. And that memory was very fresh in my mind. I came out, straight to England, and asked the churchman, the padre,” what is the name? Priest, “I want to devote my whole time for the search of God. How can you help me? They gave some sort of program, you may do this prayer or this thing. No, I want to see God in this life.”

Then some of them advised, “You want to have practical connection with God, it is not mentioned in our process. Then you go rather to India. And there we are told, there are many yogīs who can have communion with God.”

So he came to India. And anyhow he met, at that time in the Luknow University he came to Vṛndāvana and in that place he was roaming and trying to find out some yogī. But anyhow the Vice- Principal of the Luknow University was a gentleman, and his wife, she was much devoted to Gaura- Nityānanda. Anyhow this gentleman came in connection of her. And she could convince him in the līlā of Gaura- Nityānanda, Mahāprabhu. He was more or less impressed, and instead of going to the yogī and others he became rather a Vaiṣṇava and began to study all the scriptures. And he had more deeper faith and ultimately he took sannyāsa from someone at that place.

His name was Swāmī Kṛṣṇa Prema, a good lecturer, and also he had an āśrama in Almora in UP. He founded an āśrama there and from there he used to preach about Nitāi-Gaura. But he could not tolerate the scrutinizing that the siddhānta etc. acar, vicar of Gauḍīya Maṭha. But ordinary public he could capture. He was good lecturer also in different meetings, ordinary meetings of the Hindu Sabhā. He was invited and he used to go and deliver lecture, Swāmī Kṛṣṇa Prema. Then he died. We are told he left two or three disciples also maybe in Almora āśrama. I don't know further about him, because he had no real affinity for Gauḍīya Maṭha; ordinary, some sahajiyā type. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Who was the bābājī with the lady?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: The lady bābājī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The lady was in household life. Her husband was the Vice Principal of Lucknow University. But lady must have been initiated by any particular bābājī. The lady had no mātāji life, but ordinary, she was in the family life. She was not much famous, but anyhow she came to fame only through this action, otherwise she was unknown. Might have been an educated lady, but she lived in home with her husband. And husband was the Vice Principal of the Lucknow University.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There, without chair?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: I have a good view of your lotus feet from here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No disciples here?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: No disciples.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No disciples, then you are free. Absolute position, no relative.

Nirupādhi, our Guru Mahārāja told once. Guru Mahārāja was in a canvas chair when I met in Māyāpur first. Another, one of his disciples who supplied the money for the construction of the temple that was opened that year, he's sitting on the floor.

Then one gentleman, "Oh, that Madana Bābū is sitting on the floor. Give some mat or something."

Then Guru Mahārāja told, "That Madana Bābū is nirupādhi Vaiṣṇava, and I am sopādhika so I have got necessity of a chair."

I thought nirupādhi is higher. As much I was hearing their talk the nirupādhi is higher, upādhi that is lower. But he says that, "I am upādhika and he's nirupādhika." What is the meaning; nirupādhika Vaiṣṇava? And upādhika, "I am an Ācārya. I cannot take seat in the ordinary place, some respectable position I must, I shall have to accept. I am Guru, they are śiṣya, all relative. But I am Kṛṣṇa dāsa. No relative position here, anywhere I may take my seat.”

Nirupādhika, no circumstantial necessity, nirupādhika, circumstantial necessity, relative necessity. But of course this is upādhi in the nirupādhika realm, not in the mundane. There also respectable difference. At heart every Vaiṣṇava thinks that, ‘I am the worst still, I am the meanest of the mean.’ Still, the hierarchy is there and they’re to accept that.

Others won’t allow him to do, to go on according to his sweet will. “No, no, you must have such position. We can’t allow you to come in our layer.”

Relative is not bad. Relative here is bad. But there is also relative. But the difference that here at heart we want superior position, but there the opposite, at heart they want lower position, to serve. That is the difference. Those that are living in connection with the Infinite, their conception will be such, and such, seeking to the lowest position. That is great.

“I want to serve everyone.” That should be the temperament. “I am the servant. I shall serve everyone.” Just opposite here, “I am monarch of all I survey. I want to be a monarch of all I survey.” The general tendency of a soul is here like this, “Want to be monarch, everything under my command.” But there, sincerely the opposite. “I want to serve all.” That peculiarity is there. Service is so much appreciated, practically, not theoretically, not abstract: service. By serving we thrive. That is the sincere nature there. We can thrive only by service. So as much as it may be extended, expansive, we’ll be so much benefited. Sincere hankering for that service, sevā.

tad viddhi praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā [upadekṣyanti te jñānam, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ]

["You will be able to attain all this knowledge by satisfying the enlightened spiritual master with prostrate obeisances, relevant enquiry, and sincere service. Great souls who are most expert in scriptural knowledge and endowed with direct realisation of the Supreme Absolute Truth will teach you that divine knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34]

Otherwise you cannot meet, you cannot come in contact with that higher substance. So our Guru Mahārāja laid stress in the training of service, than counting the beads. That serving spirit is necessary in counting the beads also, it is universal, sevonmukhe, so:

ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam [eva sphuraty adaḥ]

["Therefore the material senses cannot appreciate Kṛṣṇa's holy name, form, qualities, and pastimes. When a conditioned soul is awakened to Kṛṣṇa consciousness and renders service by using his tongue to chant the Lord's holy name and taste the remnants of the Lord's food, the tongue is purified, and one gradually comes to understand who Kṛṣṇa really is. In other words, the holy name of Kṛṣṇa can never be grasped by the material senses. Only by rendering devotional service, beginning with vibrating the Lord's glories upon the tongue, can one realise Kṛṣṇa, for He will reveal Himself directly to the sincere soul"] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindu, 1.2.234]

The very key to spiritual life is to acquire the tendency to serve. That is innate. You must discover that, serving, which is found in innermost part of our existence, that of service. And He will come of His own accord to have a touch with you, then you can have Him. The scientific explanation of the position, adhokṣaja, only you can come in contact with Him when He desires it; otherwise not. And to invite Him, to attract Him to come to you, the only attitude is that of service. Whatever you do does not matter. Innumerable forms of devotion. There is mentioned thousands. Rūpa Goswāmī has given summary, sixty four. Then again in Bhāgavatam we find śravaṇam, kīrtanam, nine. Mahāprabhu again gave five, and one, Nāma saṅkīrtana. But serving attitude, sevonmukhatā, that must be present everywhere.

Otherwise no connection with the transcendental; you will turn to be atheist. “O, I tried my best, lives together I have tried to acquire, to get Him in my fist, but I failed. Oh, that is all false, no God.”

Mill, that philosopher Mill, even the last moment of his death he told, “No, I don’t find any God. Oh you priest, whatever you say, I can’t find and put faith in any God.” The philosopher Mill. Hume, Mill, Locke, they are the old atheist class.

And from Descartes, we are told the father of modern philosophy is one Mr. Descartes. He started with this theory, that a formula, “I doubt. Start with this.” He challenged the atheist class. “Oh, whatever you say, I doubt. I say there is God, you may say ‘I doubt.’ In gentle way you may say, ‘I doubt.’ Then, the doubter must be there. That was starting point. Whether the doubter is there or not you say. With this formula he started theistic philosophy. If there is no doubter then what I say God is established. The doubter is there really then at least he exists and what is he? Now you come to argue that something is and what will be the characteristic of that something which is? In this way he started, Descartes. He was told the father of modern philosophy.

Then one came Berkeley, he was the extremist. "Only idea and nothing matters. You say, whatever you will state, it is only your idea. And you cannot know whether anything is existing or not, you can't know. Everything is idea, this chair, the house, the tree, all your idea and nothing beyond." The extremist idealist, Berkeley.

And the fight began. That Johnson was a very - linguist or something like that, Johnsonian style, big bombastic words he used, Johnson, Johnsonian style. He had a discussion with Berkeley and he could not defeat Berkeley. Whatever he said, "Well, this is your idea, you exist and whatever you state, this is your idea, and not beyond that." So he was very much excited, and leaving Berkeley he's going and he kicked a chair very excitedly. "Here I refute Mr. Berkeley with a kick." He broke a chair in his angry mood and says, "Here I refute Berkeley. The thing is there, it is broken. Berkeley will come, this is also your idea."

Then came Kant, they took idealist as well as the materialist, and effected some compromise, the German philosopher Kant. His critique was very much adored by the philosophers, German Kant.

Then came Hegel. According to me, Hegel he rises above. His philosophy is revolutionary. I read in a magazine several years ago that Hegel and Marx they are contemporary. But Marx, he preached his philosophy, no students. Where Hegel was delivering lectures, not only class filled up, but even the streets the students standing heard his lectures. Hegel had so much command in his time. And now the atheist they stand around the Marx. They say, "Marx was before his time. He did not get in his lifetime any recognition. But after his death he's being appreciated so much." They say like that.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. The waves of nature. Satya, Tretā, Dvāpara, Kali. The joint effect of the karma of the soul produces such variegated condition. It comes of its own accord, the resultant of the karma of the common jīva produces some environment. Satya, Tretā, Dvāpara, inevitable, and they are to pass, this is also inevitable. Kali can't, Satya cannot stand, Kali cannot stand here. This is evolving.

karma mayam loka, buddhi mayam loka, karma mayam loka, eloka kiyata karma mayaloka kiyata [?] That has got its dissipation. [?]

In our sober moment we want to have a comfortable, easy life, we take to karma, labour. We should labour and earn something and thereby we shall try to live a comfortable, easy life.

_____ [?] To get out of the misery, and sukhaya ca, to get some comfort, generally in our moral way we take to sincere labour, labour and live.

Pasye parkha vibhadya [?] Then for this purpose they have a conjugal life, and then finds in no time that whatever we are acquiring that is passing away, and I am to make some extra labour, more and more. Whatever is acquired for my comfort that is going away, vanishing. So no end, and not only that, a reaction coming for the separation. From the separation a reaction coming and also giving pain to me. In this way we find that there cannot be peace in this mundane life.

karmanām pariṇāmitvād, ā-virincyād amaṅgalam [vipścin naśvaram paśyed, adṛṣṭam api dṛṣṭa-vat]

[“An intelligent person should see that any material activity is subject to constant transformation and that even on the planet of Lord Brahmā there is thus simply unhappiness. Indeed, a wise man can understand that just as all that he has seen is temporary, similarly, all things within the universe have a beginning and an end.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.19.18]

Bhāgavata says in a very commanding voice, karmaṇām pariṇāt, karmadhito loko, what you can acquire by your labour that is sure to perish. So up to Brahmā, what of you, the master of the whole brahmāṇḍa who is in the relativity of the whole of the mortal world, the master of the mortal area, he's also, karmaṇām pariṇāmitvād, ā-virincyād amaṅgalam, he's also a prey to reaction, to misery, what about you? So don't go that far. Karmaṇām pariṇāmitvād, ā-virincyād amaṅgalam.

Then comes Mahādeva, independent of this material force. But that is not sufficient. That is just liberated stage, primary stage of liberation, that is not safe, that is taṭasthā śakti, the master of this material potency, not a safe position.

You are to accept the position of a servant on the upper layer. And you can enter deep and deep into the serving area you will be more and more safe. And don't think that service and labour here to acquire enjoyment, are of same type, of same nature. That is pleasing, and this is painful, to labour here is painful, and there to labour that is pleasing. This difference you are to experience, you are to know certainly, and when you get experience of that then you are safe. You won't come here.

[na tad bhāsayate sūryo, na śaśāṅko na pāvakaḥ]

yad gatvā na nivartante, tad dhāma paramaṁ mama

["My supreme holy abode is that place which the surrendered souls reach, never to return again to this deathly plane. Upon going there, one never returns to this material world. Neither sun, nor moon, nor fire - nothing can illuminate that all-illuminating supreme abode."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.6]

If you can enter successfully into the land of in carrying current, the current is going towards the centre, towards the centre, and that is gentle, that is pure, not aggressive, but humiliating, and your life will be vitality giving. And fulfilment, at every step you will find you are making progress in the way of your fulfilment. Svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ.

*na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ
andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-dāmnī baddhāḥ*

[Prahlaḍa Mahārāja says: “Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.31]

The real interest, the way of your real interest to approach towards the centre, you will be able to know it for yourself, guarantee. Your experience will be your guarantee that you are passing in a way of pure fulfilment of your life. Yad gatvā na nivartante, tad dhāma paramaṁ mama. It is paramaṁ. It is very favourite, it is very pleasing, it is very friendly. You will be able to understand your own, it is sweet. Service is sweet and enjoyment is enemy. Enjoyment is enemy and service is friend. And liberation from the enjoyment, that is uncertain position of Śiva, Śivaloka. Three things we are to understand.

And then everything has got its gross and light stages. Karma also gross, karma, tama guṇa, raja guṇa, sattva guṇa, but it is after all exploitation. Sattva guṇa also exploitation in this world. Viśuddha-sattva, that is Vasudeva, that is Vaikuṇṭha. Ordinary sattva means rajas, tama, mixed. That is here in (my quarter?), higher satyaloka, mahar, jana, like that. And renunciation takes us to the marginal, uncertain position. Either we must come in contact with this current or that current. When we go we can enter the in carrying current, centre carrying current we are saved, we are healthy, we are in a hopeful position. This is the main thing of sambandha jñāna. It will help our abhidheya, our practices of devotional activities in general. Whether I take saṅkīrtana Mahāprabhu says.

sādhū saṅga, nāma-kīrtana, bhāgavat-śravaṇa / mathurā-vāsa, śrī-mūrttira śraddhāya sevana sakala-sādhana-śreṣṭha ei pañca aṅga / kṛṣṇa-prema janmāya ei pañcera alpa saṅga

[“One should associate with devotees, chant the holy name of the Lord, hear Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, reside at Mathurā, and worship the Deity with faith and veneration.”] [“These five limbs of devotional service are the best of all. Even a slight performance of these five awakens love for Kṛṣṇa.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.128-129]

A slight connection of these sādhana can give you that divine love, in a position to give you divine love. But sādhū saṅga means sādhū sevā, sādhū saṅga. Nāma kīrtana means sevonmukhe kīrtana. Bhāgavat śravaṇa means that sevonmukhe.

Ādau arpita pasyat kriyeta, I am hearing Hari kathā, Bhāgavatam, whatever. Who will be the receiver, who will get it? My master, not myself. What benefit I shall derive from the Bhāgavata śravaṇa that will go to my master. I am not the party, my master is the party. I am his domestic animal-like thing. He’s fed and he labours but the product goes to the master, the owner, and not the animal. So Śrīdhara Swāmī particularizes here.

adau pumsa pita visnu bhakti senam alaksana [?] And, adau arpita pasyat kriyeta [?]

You must give a bond in your mind that whatever I shall acquire that will go to my master. I am not the owner. I am not the party. With this attitude if we can approach the śravaṇa, the kīrtana, and any other forms of devotion, then it will be devotion. Otherwise it will be karma or jñāna, anything else. So we must be particular here about the nature of our performance of devotional activities. Tat paratvena nirmalam.

[sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam / hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate]

Devaṛṣi Nārada also says in his definition about bhakti, sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, the upādhi means cover, there are so many covers. Ātmā is within, so many covers. This buddhi yoga, this mental, this vitality, so many, this body, so many covers. Kosh, ānanda māyā kosha, prana māyā kosha, mano māyā kosha, vijñāna māyā kosha [?] Sarvopādhi, it must be independent of all the covers of our self, present self. Vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam. And the purity will depend as much as it is, the tendency is uncontaminated by the interest of these covers. Not only that, tat paratvena, how much it is dedicated towards the centre. Tat means centre, Kṛṣṇa, absolute. How much it is interested for that. So the purity of the action will be measured only by this criterion. Sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam / hr̥ṣīkena hr̥ṣīkeśa-sevanam bhaktir ucyate. The pure devotion, its definition is such. Tat paratvena nirmalam, hr̥ṣīkena hr̥ṣīkeśa. Whatever outwardly you do by hand, or do by eye, or do by ear, through any channel, or by mind, or by anything else you acquire, but it must be meant for the satisfaction of the centre, not by any agency living in the cover. Sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam. This has been quoted when Rūpa Goswāmī gave his definition.

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam bhaktir uttamā

Kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam, culture of Kṛṣṇa in any way. In any way you can take with Him and culture. You speak about Him, you hear about Him, you do some service about Him. Whatever you do does not matter. But it must be anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyam, the fleeting desires that comes any time and every time without rhyme or reason, anyābhilāṣ, then karma, jñāna. Karma is systemic, moral, God touching activity. And jñāna, which encourages us to be aloof, to be free from the material contact, mortal or material contact of the atmosphere, renunciation of everything undesirable. These are all negative engagements. Kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam, but that must be independent of all these interests, no representation of the cover be maintained there, be heard there. Anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyam, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam. They’re only cover. Ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam.

Then says there is another thing important in the last. Try to withdraw from the camp of those who are set to oppose, in the opposition party. A party is trying to satisfy Kṛṣṇa. And for competition some opposite camp is necessary to make the service more intense. So try to avoid the opposition camp and try to follow the direct service camp. Elimination is necessary there also. When to enter that Vaikuṇṭha area you are to eliminate all these things, anyābhilāṣ, karma, jñāna. And when entered there, there also you be careful that you may not be led in the opposition party. The direct service party, the direct current, try to keep in that side. This warning also given by Rūpa Goswāmī.

Ānukūlyena not pratikūlyena. Śiśupāla, Kaṁsa, they're also connected with Kṛṣṇa līlā, but that is not desirable for us. We shall try to enter into the positive service party, not indirect camp. This is śuddha bhakti. Rūpa Goswāmī gave us warning. In Bhāgavatam it is generally mentioned that these, Kamat, gupa, dvesat, bhayat kamsa, dvesat chadya dvayonipa [?]

Any connection accepting about Kṛṣṇa we can get out of this mundane world. It is true. But any connection whether fear, or jealousy, or general lust for Him, enjoying Kṛṣṇa, His rūpa, etc., that can give you relief from this mundane world. But in the upper stage there is consideration of good or bad from these. Kiraṇārkopamā-juṣoḥ. It has been told in the scriptures many times that the demons killed by Kṛṣṇa they also get mukti, but that mukti and the mukti of a devotee is not one and the same. They come to Brahmaloka. Kiraṇārkopamā-juṣoḥ. Sūrya and his ray. This bhaya, dvesa, kama [?] etc., in connection of Kṛṣṇa and when Kṛṣṇa kills them, to be killed by Kṛṣṇa have some advantage. But up to Brahmaloka, no further. But His service takes us higher, higher than that place.

aikyāt, kiraṇārkopamā-juṣoḥ*

[“Where it has been stated that the Lord’s enemies and devotees attain the same destination, this refers to the ultimate oneness of Brahman and Lord Kṛṣṇa. This may be understood by the example of the sun and the sunshine, in which Brahman is like the sunshine and Kṛṣṇa Himself is like the sun.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.36]

Yad arīṇāṁ means for the enemies. Priyāṇāṁ ca, about their own devotees. Prāpyam ekam ivoditam. Their gain is almost one and the same, it is said in many places of śāstra. Come in any connection with Kṛṣṇa and you’ll get salvation. That ekam ivoditam, just similar, it is roughly stated. But scrutinizingly if you go to understand their gain then you will find there is a great difference; one going to Brahmaloka, that kiraṇ, what is ray of the sun, and another entering the domain of the sun. kiraṇārkopamā-juṣoḥ. In this way we are to adjust.

So ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam bhaktir uttamā, giving warning. Try to side the positive line of service, and not go to the other camp who are posted in the opposition party. Your inner temperament will be such. So sevonmukhatā and this ānukūla, that should be our guide always, we shall keep in mind. The straight way, not this party, that party, these subsidiary parties, the main party, the main road, straight, we shall go, try to go.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, in Bhāgavata, naṣṭa-prāyeṣu abhadreṣu.

Sridhara Maharaja:

naṣṭa-prāyeṣu abhadreṣu, nityaṁ bhāgavata-sevayā bhagavatya uttama-śloke, bhaktir bhavati naiṣṭhikī

[“By regular attendance in classes on the Bhāgavatam and by rendering of service to the pure devotee, all that is troublesome to the heart is almost completely destroyed, and loving service unto the Personality of Godhead, who is praised with transcendental songs, is established as an irrevocable fact.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.18]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So why does it say prāya?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Naṣṭa-prāyeṣu abhadreṣu, that is when anartha, undesirable things within us, that will be almost finished, naṣṭa-prāyeṣu, that almost finished. Then you will try to connect with this; after that, niṣṭhā, bhavati naiṣṭhikī. You will have your position firm. Naṣṭa-prāyeṣu abhadreṣu, almost finished, the undesirable element in you, then you will try to fix you. Bhaktir bhavati naiṣṭhikī.

ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo’ tha bhajana-kriyā tato’ nartha-nivṛttiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā [rucis tataḥ athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyañcati sādhakānām ayaṁ premṇaḥ prādurbhāve bhavet kramah]

Niṣṭhā means nairantarya, the continuation of Kṛṣṇa consciousness untampered by any other desire or conception. Always in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that is niṣṭhā. Then the real ruci, or the real taste will come, not before that. When a continuance of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, then ruci. But before that when other desires also are present in my mind, then ruci for Kṛṣṇa, that may be adulterated, something not reliable. But when the continuance of Kṛṣṇa consciousness in you for twenty-four hours, then if you find any taste for Kṛṣṇa, that is genuine and reliable ruci. Athāśakti, then it will be more intensified and it will come in the stage of āśakti. Āśakti means if you suddenly it becomes little faint you will feel uneasiness, 'Oh, long time Kṛṣṇa consciousness is absent in me.' Āśakti. Tato bhāva, after that the real contact and the bhāva bhakti. And there is a regular description that when you attain to bhāva bhakti such symptoms and signs will be patent in you.

Again coming and in this way they're carrying sands.

Then Hanumān and others they saw that these small creatures going, passing through the legs. "Sometimes we may place foot and they'll be crushed to death. So they're making hindrances rather, no practical service, but they're opposing our natural work." So Hanumān in his excitement took it and gave it a thrashing, and perhaps it was going to die.

Then Rāmacandra came to his relief, and with His soft hand He's massaging that creature, and it came to senses, and He asked Hanumān, "You are doing in you own way, and he's a small creature, you also allow him to do in his own way."

[14:00 - 17:06, Bengali (?) conversation]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] The Rabindranatha, world poet, famous Rabindranatha, he has written that, “Oh my death, you are so intimate to me as Kṛṣṇa. Śyāma samal [?] The heart’s worshipping God. The very fulfilment we get from Kṛṣṇa consciousness whole engagement of all our existence we get from Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the wholesale engagement of our hankering in Kṛṣṇa.” He says, “When one is infirm and old, death is like Kṛṣṇa to him. Moronde tomara syama samal.”

This is blaspheme, Kṛṣṇa is so low, as death. But anyhow he has used this word, and infirmity comes, the pains of different types attack, made him think, “Death, take me, you are my intimate friend. You take me away. I can’t tolerate the pangs of the different diseases of this body. You are my Kṛṣṇa. Death, you are my Kṛṣṇa Nāma.” It is his poetry. Blaspheme.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Gandhi also gave his appreciation for this poetry. “We want to embrace another standpoint.

Embrace death for the country. Want to die, to welcome death, for a particular cause.” But this is annihilation. It is destructive, not constructive.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: A kind of śūnyavādi.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Die to live. That is another thing. But here, Mahāprabhu says, sanātana, deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa yadi pāiye, koṭi-deha kṣaṇeke tabe chāḍite pāiye

[“My dear Sanātana,” He said: “If I could attain Kṛṣṇa by committing suicide, I would certainly give up millions of bodies without a moments hesitation.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.55]

“If only by welcoming death I can get Kṛṣṇa, then crores of times I want to die in a second. Deha- tyāge kṛṣṇa yadi pāiye. It is tamo dharma. This wealth, gift, body is not a great wealth that in change of it I shall get Kṛṣṇa. What is this? It is a negligible thing, a nasty thing. And I want to get Kṛṣṇa in change of this body, this nasty body, what is this? From infinite, immemorial time I dying and I’m born, I’m being born and die, born and die. This is the most nasty, the cheapest thing in the world, and by this I shall get Kṛṣṇa?”

This is very mundane feeling. Only by bhajan, not by death.

So when Prabhupāda was in the south, one gentleman came to ask about the position of a devotee who is very well admired in the south, Kanapa [?] He’s known as the greatest devotee of Śiva in that part. And what was his dealings for which he’s so much appreciated?

That once in a small hill there was some Śiva linga. And this Kanapa he comes, apa means father. Kana, ana, kana, some brother or ana, kana, [?] He comes from the ādivāsī, aborigine group, and he was known as a devotee of Śiva. Once, he had gone to that Śiva linga, that Vighraha of Śiva, not linga but Śiva Mūrti, and he suddenly found that blood oozing from one eye of that Mūrti.

And there was some deva vāṇī, divine sound came. “You give your own eye to the Mūrti.”

And he did so. Then he took out his own eye and put anyhow into that Mūrti. Then found that another eye also from it blood oozing. So same way he took his other eye. Then he'll become anda [?] blind. So with his shoe, with the feet, with his shoe on his foot he located the position, touched and located the position and then the next eye [?]

Then Śiva was very much pleased and he got his vision again. From that test he has got so much good name of a great devotee of Śiva.

Then when this was placed to our Guru Mahārāja he told, “This is tamasic bhakti. Not higher devotion but very lower. Without concerning the body, tamasic. By exchange of our physical thing, whatever we acquire, devotion, that is of lower. Because this body is not a very good thing. The mind, the intelligence, the ātmā, that should be given. This is nothing.

Here also one thing happened. In this Guru Kuñja, there was a paṇḍita perhaps half mad. He was an educated paṇḍita but some crack in the brain perhaps. When his Guru was there, he was a well read man, Gour Govinda name, he was a paṇḍita scholar, and also he was Guru of the Gauḍīya School. Here Guru Kuñja, his Maṭha. Then that gentleman suddenly came to see his Guru, and anyhow put his, by the finger he rooted out his eye and placed with blood on the foot of the Guru, suddenly. Guru could not understand that he may do such. In a lightening speed he took out the eye. The Guru was infuriated. “What is this? This blood and the eye, this is very nasty thing placed here.” Immediately Guru left that Maṭha and went to Vṛndāvana. That is Gour Govinda. Such happenings, incident happened here about forty years ago or so we’re told.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That Rāmacandra wanted to give his eye to the Deity, to Devī, and Devī came and held his hand. “No. The kamala locan, the one lotus is missing. One hundred and eight was His promise but one missing. And that was stolen by Devī to test Rāmacandra. “And when I have promised that I shall worship with one hundred and eight, but I find that it is one less, then my promise, my sankalpa, that will be falsified. So Lakṣmaṇa, they say that my eye is just like a lotus, then I fill up the gap with my eye.” Whenever he’s going to do that Devī came and held his hand, “No, no. I have stolen to test you. Your object will be fulfilled. [?] will go. I am now on your side, come to your side.” Kamala locan.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the train [?] “Kṛṣṇa is very proud, so much proud. He says, ‘I am all in all. Everything in Me. I am over all.’ Most proud, naughty person.”

_____ [?]

Hegel says, “Everything is for Itself. By Itself and for Itself.” Everything is for Him, not for any other thing. If for any other thing then that will be the absolute. Reality must have these two qualities in Him: He's His own cause, and He exists only to fulfil His own purpose, not to fulfil the purpose of any other, not subordinate position. [?] Plainly, it is plain, simple.

He says, "I am all in all." Only Kṛṣṇa has said that. In Gītā, in Bhāgavatam, He has said, explicitly that, "I am all in all." And nowhere it is, we can trace of such bold statement that, "I am all in all. Give up everything. Come to Me. No reaction, no lamentation." Only in Gītā and Bhāgavatam Krishnamurti only says, "His announcement, and no other."

So Hegel says, "I am for Myself. Everything for Me. And I'm not for anything. This is My position. I'm Absolute. Infinite means My position is such that I'm all in all. What can I do? You Arjuna, at least you think you are My friend. I won't cheat you, at least, you're My friend. What shall we say? I am everything."

*man-manā bhava mad-bhakto, mad-yājī māṁ namaskuru mam evaiṣyasi
satyaṁ te, pratijāne priyo 'si me*

["Think of Me, serve Me, worship Me, offer your very self unto Me, and surely you will reach Me.

Sincerely, this is My promise to you because you are My dear friend."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.65]

"I promise this to you, pratijāne priyo 'si me, you are My favourite friend. I won't deceive you at least."

*man-manā bhava mad-bhakto, mad-yājī māṁ namaskuru mam evaiṣyasi
satyaṁ te, pratijāne priyo 'si me*

“What shall I say more? I promise you that I’m everything. You come to Me.”

So clearly, so boldly, who has asserted in this world’s literature that, “I am everything. I am all. I am above all.” What to say? His position is such. Absolute. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So Rūpa Goswāmī says, “Don’t go to have a look to that Śrī Mūrti Mūrti Vighraha. Then it will be difficult for you to go away from that snare, and to engage yourself in the pleasure of your family and friends.”

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: ...all right?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [36:18 - 36:42, ?] You want to talk about his proposed university, is it?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Yes, if possible. I don't want to trouble you with my crazy scheme, but I need your, some council from you, Your Divine Grace, your blessing. Because Śrīla Prabhupāda many times talked to us about the idea of this varṇāśrama college. And also there's a conversation between Your Divine Grace and Śrīla Prabhupāda concerning this varṇāśrama college, and specifically this Planetarium. On places of Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛtam, your idea about the Planetarium that was to be developed in conjunction with the varṇāśrama college. We have that on one transcript of a tape between yourself and our Śrīla Prabhupāda. So in pursuance of that idea we want to found this university. Actually we want Your Divine Grace to be listed as the Founder for this university. One name we thought was Mahāprabhu University. That was one suggestion, but any suggestion that you have will be better. Anyway, the idea was to have three campuses. One in Navadvīpa, one in Purī, and one in Bangalore. This one in Navadvīpa ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why Bangalore?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Bangalore, because it's climate and place is very nice for the, for those who are more interested in the climate.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For the climate.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: And Navadvīpa more for those who're interested in theism proper. Here we thought to have the campus called Centre For Theistic Studies, and the different colleges would be there within the campus. One would be School of Gauḍīya Siddhānta, and that would teach Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛtam, and all śāstras, and would oversee the translation and the printing of the collective works of all of the great Ācāryas.

Then one college would be there for Sanskrit learning, for teaching Sanskrit, Bengali, and related things like pūjā and so forth.

Then one college will be for comparative theism, comparative philosophy and theism, teaching different theistic and philosophic perspectives and showing our philosophy in light of that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Our Guru Mahārāja began only matrices standard, Bhaktivinoda Institute. And Bana Mahārāja began a university. But sometimes we hear that his very life is challenged, at stake.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Yes. We don't want to admit any outside students. Our students will only be serious Vaiṣṇavas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To collect, in the name of education, to collect the scholars, and there from to recruit devotees, that was the idea of our Guru Mahārāja. He also started a toḷ, a Sanskrit line, in ancient line, and also an English school. But mainly, ordinary people come and they want to go in their own line, and sometimes create disturbance to the religious institute. Still, a few persons may be recruited from that school for the devotional affairs. That is the general result we are...

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: We think that we can recruit serious students from all over the world.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What to speak of - the Ramakrishna Mission whose duty is to serve the people at large, they're also being eliminated from the public interest, being attacked. So liberal they are only to help the people for their own mundane benefit, they're also sometimes taught a good lesson by the students.

Then there is [?] Rabi Tagore. He criticised the scholar, that is the one science and art. As long as science was excluded, some peace. But science and art, two combined, now the professors and the orthodox followers of Rabindranatha, they're suffering at their hand.

So you are to approach with the education - education they want free, but that education won't come to help you much. There are many who may go against you. So very carefully you are to handle with all these. The whole people at large, your field, still, by all means we should try, but fully knowing well that what I'm going to build with my own hand, that will come against me. With this knowledge we're to tackle all these things. Because our heart and aspiration may be that we shall capture the whole world. But still we should not forget that koṭiṣv api mahā-mune.

[muktānām api siddhānām nārāyaṇa-parāyaṇa sudurlabhaḥ praśāntātmā koṭiṣv api mahā-mune]

["O great sage, among many millions who are liberated and perfect in knowledge of liberation, one may be a devotee of Lord Nārāyaṇa, or Kṛṣṇa. Such devotees, who are fully peaceful, are extremely rare."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.14. 5] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.150]

A true devotee can be had very, very rarely. With this object in our mind we shall approach to capture the whole.

Generally when you come in contact with education, the student's community they're more atheistic. They will form a committee and will go against you. They'll approach the government and try to draw the benefit, this monetary benefit from you, and they'll try to go on against you, to suppress you. That will be the nature. It has been seen in...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...especially those educated. Ordinary mass is more innocent, more receiving attitude. But so called education, that is a more heinous poison, and they will come to attack you, organised way. Fully prepared for that you are, you will have to create and to nurture.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kuliya pasandhi [?] Do you know? [?] The student's community everywhere and nowadays also. When no hope the students are excited, in any country, students. So at the time of Mahāprabhu the paliya pasandhi [?] The student's community stood against Mahāprabhu, paliya pasandhi, and these expressions have been used for the [?] means students. So student's community is a dangerous thing.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: We were thinking only to recruit students of a theistic temperament, when possible.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To tackle them, we shall try to tackle them, and should not be afraid but must be careful. Carefully you must deal with them. We must not be afraid and fly away, we don't say like that, but most carefully we shall have to tackle those student class, most dangerous.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh! To control them, the rising ambition.

Devotee: Mahārāja [?]

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Yes. We're not thinking to run a school for the local guṇḍā students, but we're thinking to bring some top classes from outside India especially.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Wherever you'll find devotional temperament, so [?] Then when the atheistic students they will see that, "The so call theistic students they're getting so much facility on our face," they'll come to attack.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Achar. Ha, ha, ha. Then the theistic students will be fighting against the atheistic students. Ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Then this Jyoti Bosh, the Mukhamantri [?] Chief Minister of Bengal, he wants to change the education wholesale. The Apa Sanskriti, Vaidic Sankrti, the ancient Sanskriti culture, all rotten. And old type means this is all evil. The new culture of [?] must be reinstated here. This is all Apa Sanskriti, all bad culture, mean culture, lower culture.

Anyhow they say that if you site here and standing you'll see, but you'll have to fight that most cautiously, with all caution.

Swāmī Mahārāja has introduced Gurukula system, that may be a little better.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: There's a difficulty in the Gurukula system, so far that when...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Good students does not count.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Not only...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you give some scientific facility the scholars will be there. Otherwise the ordinary, those that cannot collect their food, they will join Gurukula.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes. In India that's true.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: And in the west our young students there's no continuing secondary education for them, so they return to become men in the street.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Of course...

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: This is one one the main reasons that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you open college here and you recruit students from other countries then that will be another trouble. "Oh, here they're giving education to all foreigners. And we're sightseers?" So many troubles may come. Still, we shall try of course.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Nimāi was telling me that you wanted a Lord Caitanya University.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. I'm too small, to want that. Nimāi is wanting.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: If you're too small to want it, then what to speak of me.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: It may be his wishful thinking.

Devotees: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] He wants to do the whole thing at once. In Purī you have procured a big plot. You want to establish college there. Then here also whenever you have come across this spacious wide land you want to establish college. Where to begin first?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Our Guru Mahārāja also had big plans.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very wide, yes, planning. That is good sign.

Aranya Mahārāja: That is American mentality, everything big.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: American mentality, to capture the whole world.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: World, one state. America's policy was one state world, after second world war. One state world, then there will be no quarrel. One state world, ruled from one throne.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Quantity and quality. Connotation and denotation. Connotation increases denotation decreases. Denotation increases connotation decreases. So this fact we are to keep in mind. If we want to deal with the highest quality we shall have to be satisfied with less quantity. And if we want to deal with the greatest denotation, quantity, then necessarily the quality is to be sacrificed.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: But, Mahārāja, in consideration of the audience you may have to select a particular quality for distribution.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. According to gradation, hmm? Distribution, gradation. Formerly they had many. Jñānī more less. And devotee further, more less.

manuṣyāṇāṁ sahasreṣu, kaścid yatati siddhaye yatatām api siddhānām, kaścin māṁ vetti tattvataḥ

[“Out of countless souls, some may have reached the human form of life, and among many thousands of human beings, some endeavour to attain direct perception of the individual soul and the Supersoul; and among many thousands of such aspirants who have attained to seeing the soul and the Supersoul, only a few receive actual perception of Me, Śyāmasundara.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.3]

bahūnām janmanām ante, jñānavān mām prapadyate vāsudevaḥ sarvam iti, sa mahātmā sudurlabhaḥ

[“After many, many births and deaths, one who is actually in knowledge surrenders unto Me, knowing Me to be the cause of all causes and all that is. Such a great soul is very rare.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.19]

Many gave a proposal to our Guru Mahārāja, “You please be a little liberal. That is smoking and other things, eating, fish eating, smoking, then all will come under your flag. Be a little liberal. Don’t be so rigid, that these fasting, this vegetarianism, then this intoxication elimination, all these things are very troublesome for us. So if you be a little liberal then all will come under you.”

But he could not. “The restrictions are there. You must prove yourself fit by accepting these practices, and then come.”

Enemy outside, that is better than enemy inside. Hare Kṛṣṇa. We shall try to make friends more in number, no difference there. But purity must be kept at any cost, purity of purpose, purity in practice. As much as possible it must be kept, the ideal. The ideal of the banner of the pure ideal must be held fast in hand. That is very rare in the world, the purity of purpose, the high ideal.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Then what was the idea of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura and the non vegetarian youth hostel? He said in one place, “You can arrange non vegetarian food to be served.” At this youth hostel.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, Swāmī Mahārāja?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: No. Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What did he say?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: About arranging non vegetarian food.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He told that, “Those that are not vegetarian, they should be also given shelter in the Maṭha compound, and some nearby hostel we shall contract to supply food to them, in our compound. Those that are vegetarian they should be given prasādam from the Maṭha. And those who are non vegetarian they’ll also be accommodated in the Maṭha compound, and arrangement should be made with a nearby hostel, they will come with non vegetarian dishes to serve them within the Maṭha.”

I told that there will be a bad name of the Mission.

“No, no. Thousands births ago I have thought it fully. We must be of Vaikuṇṭha, unconditional. So our behaviour, conduct, must be unconditional for the service of Mahāprabhu. That is, whatever is necessary we shall be prepared for that, expectants, Vaikuṇṭha. Without any prejudice we shall come out to serve Mahāprabhu.”

Aranya Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja, then is it possible that someone who’s a non vegetarian, is it possible for him to get Hari-Nāma, to be given Hari-Nāma?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally it is not possible, we should think, but if we can expect that very soon he may give up that bad habit, with this idea he may be given Hari-Nāma. That with the confidence that very soon he'll be free from that. Because with prasādam, he must take prasāda. And non vegetarian that may not be offered to the Lord, so when he's taking non vegetarian not taking prasādam. So medicine is there but diet is not proper. Something like that, non vegetarian.

Vegetarian, non vegetarian, there are non vegetarian also, Jaimini, Jain, and others. There are vegetarian, so many. So many animals are also vegetarian. But vegetarianism, that is not everything. To take prasāda that is.

yajña-śiṣṭāśinaḥ santo, mucyante sarva-[kilbiṣaiḥ bhuñjate te tv agham pāpā, ye pacanty ātma-kāraṇāt]

[“Virtuous souls are liberated from all sins arising from the five different kinds of violence towards all living entities, by accepting the remnants of foodstuffs from the five great sacrifices offered to the universal demigods. But miscreants who prepare food for their own gratification simply partake of sin.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.13]

We shall take only prasādam. And what can be prasādam? Which is offered to Nārāyaṇa. It is written there these things may be offered to Nārāyaṇa. So the animal food cannot be offered to Nārāyaṇa, so we can't take that. And some other vegetable also, the onions, and something like that may not be offered to Nārāyaṇa. We must not take that. This is the - we shall take prasādam. Avasesa, yajña yajña avasesa, [?] prasādam. Whatever we shall take that must be connected with Absolute. Otherwise we'll be bound down, action reaction.

Begin in one place, and gradually take up and go on doing. But planning and not beginning, I don't want that. Begin work in some place and gradually it may be extended.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Yes. We thought that here in Navadvīpa was the best place to begin...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, and also, your England centre that must have attention. You have your place there, and now outside they have got one centre, you have arranged for them a centre outside. That must be developed with much attention. Or do you think that the main centre will come within your clutches, eh?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: It's hard to say. It may be in due course of time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But anyhow at present your England centre that was very important there you must give some attention. Or your centre in England, or South Africa, those four should be strengthened, so attention should be given to that place first. And then in India in one place, preferably in Navadvīpa, then Purī. That is my opinion.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: As far as Navadvīpa is concerned, what about in proximity of this land that Hari Charan mentioned to you?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I prefer that Madhyadvīpa where there is no

Maṭha yet. Madhyadwīpa is empty, left. In all other places there are Maṭhas but in Madhyadwīpa no Maṭha. And still it is very convenient place, in the Calcutta and Navadwīpa, the short cut. That will be a very good place. Then next I think it will be that Vidyānagara, where Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya had his notable Sanskrit College of nyāya śāstra. And another place to commemorate where Nimāi Paṇḍita studied from His master, Gaṅgā dāsa. Gaṅgā dāsa was the professor and Nimāi studied. That is on the other side of the Ganges. Nimāi Paṇḍita where He got His education from Gaṅgā dāsa.

Devotee: Māyāpur.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To commemorate...

Devotees: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is, within a mile from Māyāpur, Yoga-pīṭha. That Gaṅgānagara, that place is known as Gaṅgānagara.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Modadrumadwīpa, Godrumadwīpa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No Godruma, that is Gaṅgānagara, maybe in the part of Rudradwīpa or something, Gaṅgānagara.

[21:47 - 22:03, ?]

...Mukunda-sanjay, that is not located properly. So in commemoration of these, either Mahāprabhu's teaching, or Mahāprabhu's studying, reading or teaching. Or Sārvabhauma Paṇḍita, some connection. If you open a college in the mood of Sārvabhauma, general appreciation you may have, that Sārvabhauma. Vidyāvācaspati, he was Guru of Sanātana, and brother of Sārvabhauma. The place is also preserved there. You can have a look.

So university, Navadvīpa, or anywhere which may be suitable, but preferably all these places. For a Maṭha in Madhyadvīpa, and for educational institute this Sārvabhauma and Mahāprabhu's concern, education, to commemorate.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: In Madhyadvīpa that Nṛsiṃha Poli.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nṛsiṃha Poli is under Godruma, that side. This side Madhyadvīpa, just on the, continuing on this eastern banks of the Ganges, went this side, southern side extension, Madhyadvīpa.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, Jīva Goswāmī sat sandarbha [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He put up in Rādhā-Dāmodara. Sometimes in the beginning in the āśrama of Rūpa Goswāmī, and next, Rādhā-Dāmodara.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Śyāmānanda Prabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śyāmānanda Prabhu met him perhaps in Rādhā-Dāmodara, because at that time Rūpa Goswāmī was not present, and Rūpa Goswāmī's last bhajan-kuṭīra, as well as samādhi, is in Rādhā-Dāmodara. So it seems that in his old age Rūpa Goswāmī was under the care of Jīva Goswāmī so his bhajan-kuṭīra is there. And just in front there is samādhi of Rūpa Goswāmī. So in his last days Rūpa Goswāmī, he was in charge of Jīva Goswāmī in Rādhā-Dāmodara. And Śyāmānanda took his dīkṣā from Rādhā-Dāmodara.

And Swāmī Mahārāja was also, translated Bhāgavatam from Rādhā-Dāmodara, though Gītā and Back to Godhead came from Calcutta, but Bhāgavatam came from Rādhā-Dāmodara.

“Eho bāhya āge kaha āra.” [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59] What is first attraction, then go deeper. Second attraction, go deeper. Further attraction carried by first attraction. “This is good. Oh, this is better. This is best.”

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Still I can't help but think that this position behind your own Maṭha will be good at least for a small Maṭha. If you'll allow me at least to get three bigas of land and make one small Maṭha for Govardhana, I can at least maintain one small space here. College we'll put in some other place in Calcutta, any place, but if you'll allow me some place nearby Your Divine Grace, otherwise my future is very dim. If I have to be so far as Madhyadwīpa I may forget about...

Devotee: [?]

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: I'm a lazy man.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Devotee: [?]

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: A small Maṭha should be allowed here.

Aranya Mahārāja: We'll take one aeroplane to fly from Madhyadwīpa...

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: A small Maṭha, bhajan-kuṭīra...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Helicopter rather, from this roof it will go.

Devotee: fifteen, ten, twenty minutes in rikshaw.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: For big Maṭha all the disciples can stay there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And for a motorcar, in a car, how many minutes work?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Car? Five minutes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Five minutes. This Madhyadwīpa project, five minutes.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Over the bridge?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have not seen the place?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: No.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: We'll develop [?] at least to build a bhajan-kuṭīra and small temple here. At least I need one small, three bhigas of land, and just a bhajan-kuṭīra and one temple of Girirāja. He has to allow me at least this much, to be just nearby.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He wants a credit note. Gupta Govardhana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The cat is out of the bag. He wants a place in Gupta Govardhana for his Girirāja.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: As a Dāsa Goswāmī Maṭha, Gupta Govardhana Mandeer. Just a small place only [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is not small, that is [?]

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: I'll only take four bhigas, I'll take half a bhiga, one kata [?] I'll take.

I shouldn't be on his property, some distance away from his property. I can worship his property from a distance.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Aranya Mahārāja: Just like Haridāsa Ṭhākura, he did not stay in Purī, but stayed just in the sight of the cakra. So he just wants to be able to see the cakra of your temple.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Udistiti haya ninda laksan [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotees: [?]

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: I think you'll have to accept Madhyadwīpa for now and pray for his mercy at some later date.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: I don't think that I'll be able to sustain myself. I don't know if it's possible for me to live so far away as Madhyadwīpa. Staying outside is one thing, but coming here to Navadwīpa and staying so far away as Madhyadwīpa, the idea is not appealing to me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is smaraṇarca and this is pāda-sevanam. But Lakṣmī Devī here. She could not get entrance into rasa, Lakṣmī Devī. High command. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Pāda-sevanam.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: That is, that's smaraṇam, Kumāras, Madhyadwīpa.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Satya Ṛṣi. Naimiṣāraṇya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura said that Sūta Goswāmī he spoke to the sages of Naimiṣāraṇya about Mahāprabhu, about Gaurāṅga.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Naimiṣāraṇya. And the līlā of Mahāprabhu was so intense that Mahādeva he was perplexed and left his own carrier, Nandi, and he took the swan, the carrier of Brahmā and ran towards the līlā ground. Chari korova pancanam chari visasan hamsa vahana [?] He lost his power of discrimination. Anyhow the Brahmā's vahana was near, he captured that and ran to see the līlā is going away, will pass away, he ran.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: No one but Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has presented such information, or pastimes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. It was in Bhakti-ratnākara. Bhakti-ratnākara is the first book that gave information about the līlā. Caitanya-Bhāgavat first, first book is Caitanya-Bhāgavat about Mahāprabhu. Then came Caitanya-caritāmṛta, then Caitanya-maṅgala. In Sanskrit also Murārī Gupta, most original. And then Śivānanda Sen's son, Kavi Karṇapūra, original literature. Murārī Gupta, Kavi Karṇapūra, in Sanskrit. And in Bengali, Caitanya-Bhāgavat, then Caitanya-maṅgala, caritāmṛta. Then more than a hundred years after, that Bhakti-ratnākara. Then there is one Narottama-vilāsa, afterwards. Then Advaita-maṅgala. There are so many books have written about. But the most authentic is Caitanya-caritāmṛta. Then there is one Gaura-candrodaya in Sanskrit, written in Orissa, one scholar in Oriya scholar, Caitanya, Gaura-candrodaya. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: But Mahārāja, my point is that Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he was here shortly. He was here only a few years ago, and still he's delivering original information about the pastimes of Caitanya Mahāprabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. He came to that level of experience. Sometimes he was graciously shown that līlā. Our earnest hankering can take us to that plane, take us nearer there.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura in his dream he's wandering in the sky taking Hari-Nāma. There is a court in the Yāmarāja quarter, he saw. Yāmarāja sitting with Brahmā, Nārada, and others, to discuss a point.

api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ sādhur eva sa mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ

["If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all non-devotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30]

"Whatever be his practices, but if he's exclusively given to Myself, he should be considered as pure devotee, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ. And whatever he's doing that is cent percent right."

Then,

kṣipram bhavati dharmātmā, [śaśvac-chāntim nigacchati kaunteya pratijānīhi, na me bhaktaḥ pranaśyati]

["He soon becomes righteous (dharmātmā) and attains lasting peace. O son of Kuntī, declare it boldly that My devotee never perishes."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.31]

The next passage, "Very soon he will be a man of good practice, dharmātmā, dutiful." Now the question comes. "Bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ, what is this ananya-bhajan?"

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja [ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

That is ananya-bhajan. Again he will be dharmātmā very soon. How to adjust?

kṣipram bhavati dharmātmā, śaśvac-chāntiṁ nigacchati kaunteya pratijānīhi, na me bhaktaḥ pranaśyati

"My devotees are never doomed, you go and promise to the public."

Then how to adjust that after he became ananya-bhāḥ, that he gave up all sorts of duties and surrendered to Kṛṣṇa, then ananya-bhajan. Then kṣipram bhavati, again he will be a dutiful man. How to adjust? What is the purpose behind when Kṛṣṇa delivered this śloka, this advice.”

Then someone saw Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura there, he’s walking on the sky, as if, taking Hari-Nāma. And then one suggested, “Oh, we may refer this to that devotee. He’ll be able to give real meaning here.”

Then Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura was intimated and he went there. Then he was asked, “That what will be the adjustment? One, he’s ananya-bhāḥ, he has left all sorts of duties and surrendered to Kṛṣṇa, that is ananya-bhāḥ, bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ. Again in no time he will be seen that he’s very dutiful, dharma, svadharma means varṇāśrama dharma. How we can adjust?”

Then Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he told, kṣipram bhavati dharmātmā, śaśvac-chāntiṁ nigacchati, mantavyaḥ kavi. “Who will be able to form that opinion, who will have faith that this ananya-bhāḥ, the exclusively devoted person, sādhur eva sa mantavyaḥ, he’s really a sādhur, a pure man. Who can think that, he’ll be dharmātmā. Not that ananya-bhajana man, but who will consider him to be pure, he will be seen in no time very dutiful in his life, dharmātmā.”

In this way, I have in my Gītā I have done. I also say, api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ sādhur eva sa mantavyaḥ, [samyag vyavasito hi saḥ]

[“If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all non-devotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life.”]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30]

Try to attend it, sādhur eva sa mantavyaḥ, he should be thought to be reckoned certainly as sādhu, honest man. [?] Is it? How it is possible that he should be considered an honest man, sudurācāro? Sādhur eva sa mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ. Who's remarking, who's giving such remark, what he says that is all right. The man who's giving this remark, mantavyaḥ, the conclusion, that one who's a surrendered soul to Kṛṣṇa, whatever be his external practices, he should be thought to be of the purest type. Then, a little for, sādhur eva sa mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ, the answer to that, that his remark is well considered. What he says that is true cent percent. Then comes, kṣipram bhavati dharmātmā. And who can give remark in such a way, he will be purified very soon.

End of 82.05.11.B

82.05.11.C_05.12.A_05.12.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...mantavyaḥ kavi, who is he? He means who remarks in such a way, he will get the benefit, of being dharmātmā. So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's is kept here. Otherwise ananya- bhāk, means who has given all sorts of formalities or duties, then to say ananya-bhāk, how can he again dharmātmā, dutiful? Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So Mahārāja, you said that some of your God-brothers objected to your explanation in Gītā. What was their objection?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: In Gītā, your Gītā, this api cet sudurācāro.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some objection?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By whom?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Your God-brothers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are they?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. I don't know who they are.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yājñvara Mahārāja, he told, “If you give explanation in such way then all, in the name of ananya-bhāḥ, they will go on with malpractices. That is a very hidden meaning. You should not express that to the public. Api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām, sādhur eva, he may a worst debauch in the outer life, but if he's ananya-bhāḥ, he's a surrendered soul, sādhur eva sa mantavyaḥ, he'll be considered as the really honest man. Then everyone says, “Oh, I am ananya-bhāḥ and will go on with their debauchery. So don't express in such a way, explicitly.”

*api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ sādhuḥ eva sa
mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ*

["If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all non-devotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30]

"The underlying meaning is this. Who has surrender to Me, I have accepted him as My own. And as I have got right over everything I am not a trespasser, so My own man may not be considered to be a trespasser anywhere. This is the underlying meaning."

"Mayātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai, He's my own, and the whole thing that is My own."

*[martyo yadā tyakta-samasta-karmā, niveditātmā vicikīrṣito me
tadāmṛtatvaṁ pratipadyamāno, mayātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai]*

["One who is subjected to birth and death attains immortality when they give up all material activities, dedicates their life to the execution of My order, and acts according to My directions. In this way, they become fit to enjoy the spiritual bliss derived from exchanging loving mellows with Me."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.29.34]

“And who is inspired, ananya-bhāk, who works by inspiration from Me, he may not be considered as a trespasser. Anything he can enjoy on My behalf if he’s really a surrendered soul. He should be considered as Mine. In My property he has got free access. The underlying meaning will go to this side, this plane.”

So Yājñavara Mahārāja came to put objections. “Don’t be so wide in your meaning. Then the people at large, taking the name of ananya-bhajana, they will go on, ‘Oh, I am Vaiṣṇava, acyuta-gotra, I am one amongst Kṛṣṇa’s own men. What is His property that is mine. I can enjoy everything.’ That sort of thought may come.”

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So how do we recognise ananya-bhāva?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The trouble is just there. Mere professing that I am ananya, that won’t do. Ha, ha, ha. Ananya-bhāk, but real ananya-bhāk won’t say that, “I am ananya-bhāk.” “I can’t be ananya-bhāk,” that will be his understanding, inner feeling. “What to speak of ananya-bhāk, it’s not a very little thing. I can’t be ananya-bhāk, I have not attained that stage. It is very difficult. Rather I am going away from it.” That will be his version.

Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Rādhārāṇī Herself says: “The people say they connect Me with Kṛṣṇa, kalankini [?] I have got illicit connection with Kṛṣṇa. But My grief is this that I cannot be so, I could not be so. That is My trouble. I have no objection to come in bad name in connection with Kṛṣṇa but what they say it is all false. I could not be from My heart for Kṛṣṇa, that wholesale I am His, I can’t do it. That is the trouble. I am not afraid that they will connect me with Kṛṣṇa in this way, I am not afraid of that. But My internal trouble is this, that I could not become such. And falsely they're saying so. I have no objection to be so, but I can't become so."

That will be, opposite tendency will come.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

*api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ sādhuḥ eva sa
mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ*

["If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all nondevotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30]

"The fact is that one who has accepted Me exclusively, he has got no taste in other things, so really he's not durācāra. Internally he's always connected with Me. External life he's indifferent, so what he's doing, that is not him doing."

[yasya nāhaṅkṛto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate] hatvāpi sa imāḥ

lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate

[“He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) - even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer’s consequences.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.17]

If one may kill thousands of brahmāṇḍas, destroy thousands of brahmāṇḍas, he does not do anything. He’s in that plane, nirguṇa plane. Nirguṇa plane, good or bad in the calculation of this world is absent there. This is all good, the wave, nirguṇa. The lying, and the speaking truth, truth means a relative thing. This is not true. This is relatively true in the plane, proposed by some society.

“This is mine. This is yours.” What value this thing has got?

When I’m stealing some flower, “Oh, why do you steal my flower?” But what is the guarantee that flower belongs to you? This is all bogus conceptions, different stages of conceptions of bogus conceptual life.

The man who has got possession of a land, the zamindar will say: “No, no, I have got real possession. I have allowed you to sit here and possess it.”

Then the king will come: “Oh, this is my land, and your position is only relative.”

In this way, the morality stands on only this conception, “This is mine, this is yours.” But everything is false. So all the transactions of this morality, “he’s stealing, he’s doing this, that,” all false.

'dvaite bhadṛābhadrā-jñāna, saba-'manodharma', 'ei bhāla, ei manda',-ei saba 'bhrama'

["In the material world, conceptions of good and bad are all mental concoctions. Therefore, saying, 'This is good, this is bad,' is a mistake."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.176]

So the deepest plane, the deepest wave of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, it is moving, and so many particles are dancing, so many jīva, and that dance is the absolute dance.

*sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ [śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvām
sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]*

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

So everything belongs to Kṛṣṇa and for His satisfaction anything and everything can be done. This only principle followed by them without caring of the so many relative demands and breach of that in different false planes. So that nirguṇa, this calculation of this ascribed false ownership, that can't be applied there. "This is mine, this is yours. The king says this is mine. The possessor says this is mine." But all these claims have no value in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

naiva tasya kṛtenārtho, nākṛteneha kaścana

na cāsya sarvva-bhūteṣu, kaścid artha-vyapāśrayaḥ

["In this world, a self-realised person who rejoices in the soul does not accrue piety by the performance of actions, nor does he incur sin by abstaining from duties. Amongst all living entities, from the highest life-forms of the planet of Lord Brahmā down to the world of immobile organisms, he never depends on anyone for any personal demand whatsoever."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.18]

That is another thing, that maybe goes on. The Parāśara, he's crossing a river. A lady was in charge of the boat, and when the boat was let loose, came in the middle of the river perhaps, then Parāśara suddenly had some propensity, charm for the lady. And he proposed and she accepted, they united and there the birth of Vedavyāsa. Now this attitude of Parāśara, he's already a man of higher control of senses. But janma, the birth of Vyāsadeva created a necessity in a particular stage in him and suddenly he was caught by the lust for the time being and united with that lady and from there came Vedavyāsa. So universal will. Parāśara is not to be accused. He's not the party to that. He's an instrument. We should not consider this an event of lustfulness and accuse Parāśara for his immoral action. He was inspired by some demand, will, and overpowered by the force of nirguṇa will of Kṛṣṇa and things were done.

So Kṛṣṇa says in Gītā, "Not the action, but the background of the action, that is to be considered, that is to be examined, not the action. The motive underlying the action, that is, whether friend or foe, that is to be considered, the āśakti, not the karma. But the purpose, that is the culprit."

Draupadī had five husbands, not of her own accord, but she had to accept the trouble as duty. That is not pleasure. So Draupadī should not be held responsible. It cannot be said that she's going to many husbands. She can't be held responsible.

tara mandara duita atma manca kanyas mari nityam maha pada kanasnam [?]

So it is said in the śāstra that this Draupadī, Kuntī and so many ladies that are seen to be unchaste, apparently, but if you take their name you will be purified. So there is such type of activity. The internal meaning, the purpose, that should be considered, analysed, and the judgement should be given accordingly. Not by the external action.

*api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ sādhu eva sa
mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ*

[“If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all non-devotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life.”]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30]

The higher principle he’s following, not your ordinary law on the surface. But some higher law he’s following and ordinary law is crossed. You may think him a culprit but from the higher law consideration will say that if you can appreciate that law breaking you will be lifted.

ājñajaiva guṇān doṣān, mayādiṣṭān api svakān dharmmān samtyajya yaḥ sarvvān, myām bhajet sa ca sattamaḥ

[“In the scriptures of religion, I, the Supreme Lord, have instructed men of all statuses of life in their duties. Duly comprehending the purificatory virtue of executing those prescribed duties as well as the vice of neglecting them, one who abandons all allegiance to such dutifulness in order to engage in My devotional service is the best of honest men (sādhū).”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.11.32]

“In the śāstra I have ordered. The rules in the śāstra came from My direction, order. But if there’s anyone can be found that’s crossing those rules already given in the śāstra, coming to satisfy Me, he should be considered a better devotee.”

The loyalty, crossing the laws of the king, it may be possible to show. Sometimes even crossing the laws of the country one may show his loyalty to the king if necessary.

So here, God is above law when we consider. Kṛṣṇa is above law. Law means for us, but that may not be applied in His case, He’s Absolute. So when one has come in connection really with the Absolute he cannot but ignore the laws which are meant for the ordinary people, he may not care so much for that. But all in all is He because He’s so. He Himself breaks law and perhaps He likes those most that are ready to break law for Him, they’re favourite. Taking risk, who are ready to take risk for His service, the consequence of breaking the law. Ha, ha, ha. The whole Vraja līlā is like that, ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā bhejur mukunda-padavīm, svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā.

[āsā maho caraṇa-renu-juṣāṁ aham syām, vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām yā dustyajam svajanam ārya-patham ca hitvā, bhejur mukunda-padavīm śrutibhir vimṛgyām]

[“The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61]

“Beyond one’s own interest consideration, individual or local interest consideration is sacrificed, of any type. Self-sacrifice to this degree that his own particular interest consideration is sacrificed into fire. Then you come to take birth in Vṛndāvana, not before. All your prospects, risk everything with all your prospects. No other prospect than Myself. I cannot tolerate the presence of a second entity in your heart. That with some consideration you’ll come to Me? My relation with you is conditional? Unconditional sacrifice of the so-called interest of you, the prospect, everything, then you come to meet in Vṛndāvana. I am alone there. I can’t tolerate any other interest in the heart of My devotee, only one interest and that is Me.”

Gaura Hari bol! Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So the Christians, they have this conception of a jealous God. That He will not tolerate anyone other being worshipped Him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That's good, so much it is good. Adam and Eve were śaraṇāgatas and they tasted the fruit of the tree of knowledge. That is self consideration, calculation of self interest, separate interest. And they fell and they were forced to the life of labour and live. Before that, surrendered, no problem in life. A general surmise there. And then to particularise what should be the characteristic of that God, in what rasa we approach. The mādhurya-rasa is the ...

There came some questions from the Christian Priests to Prabhupāda, "That mādhurya-rasa is also within us." In the Middle Ages there was a fashion amongst the Christians to consider Christ as bridegroom. There are some parables also there. The Christ is considered as bridegroom. "So the mādhurya-rasa as you say, consort rasa, is also within Christianity." Their question was of this type.

But Prabhupāda told: "That is with His Son, with His devotee, something like, not with God. But your conception of your God is as Father, as Ghost and as Son. Guru, Son means Guru, the deliverer, God as Son, God as Father and God as the Ghost. The Ghost is perhaps considered to be of highest position and if it so then it goes to brahmavāda, nirviśeṣa." Do you follow?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: God as Ghost, God as Father means creator, and God as Son, that Guru. And God as Ghost perhaps He holds the supreme position over the Father conception and the Son conception or Guru conception, then it vanishes to nirviśeṣa brahman, this Trinity.

In Germany, once I was told that in a drama they had to show the figure of the God. In some higher position, in a balcony, they put a figure of grave nature with grey beard. He's commanding from there in a drama.

They show like that, God the Father. But sonhood, consorhood, not fatherhood of Godhead, and grey bearded grown up, man figure as God.

But from the consideration of rasa, or ānanda, ecstasy, He should be centre of all different rasa, the consorhood, the sonhood. Parents are also servitors, all servitors. He must be in the centre, not in any extremity of the whole. He's not over the whole but He must be in the centre. The conception here is like this, that God is in the centre. Of all approaches the approach for rasa, that is the supreme of the intensity of rasa to be considered and He must be at the centre of all sorts of rasa, ānandam, ānandam brahmaṇo vidvān.

[yato vācho nivarttante, aprāpya manasā saha

ānandam brahmaṇo vidvān, na vibhethi kutaścaneti]

[“As one gets subjective realisation of the transcendental blissful aspect of the Supreme Divinity, he sheds fear completely for all time. Such a realised man of wisdom is freed totally from negative thoughts. Having his thoughts fully attentive to the All-Blissful Divinity, he is spared from such torture. Such is the secret doctrine.”] [Taittirīya-Upaniṣad, 11.9.1]

The ānanda, or rasa, or fulfilment and charm, or beauty, that is the most precious thing ever discovered. And the full representation of the highest type of that rasa should be considered as the highest Absolute which can attract everyone. Not by power, not by force, but by charm. The centre of attraction, that is Kṛṣṇa, that should be considered as the highest existence, the attraction, that is by beauty, by charm, by love, by generosity. And not by coercion and force, that possible, then freedom is gone. Keeping freedom all sides to attract them, organise and give cohesion, that is possible only by beauty. And all rasa represented there. In this way you are to approach towards the centre, then it comes to Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So Dhira Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja is staying? You are not starting today? It is final? Then all right, we can wait. They're coming and then taking final decision.

But how to satisfy the thirst of our Bhaktivijāya Tīrtha Mahārāja? He's very hungry, he can't tolerate, he wants something immediately, some immediate spiritual food.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.
Mahāprabhu says,

krsne karuna ce bala nanda nahi vachai nama dite dhyana sacaram [?]

How sweet and encouraging. Mahāprabhu says: "Sanātana, Kṛṣṇa is an ocean of mercy, of kindness, generosity. And it is not necessary for Him to distinguish who is bad, who is good, no necessity. So ample the capital, all may be over flooded. So He's not very particular to examine who is good and who is bad. No time, no necessity."

Krsne karuna ce, enough kindness, bala nanda nahi vachai, He's not very particular to select who is good, who is bad. Nama dite dhyana sacaram, and we find that without demand from the party He gives Himself, distributes Himself, eager to distribute Himself.

And we can catch Mahāprabhu, “You are such Kṛṣṇa, You are that Kṛṣṇa Who has come without our asking for Your favour. Door to door You are running, requesting us to accept You. That Kṛṣṇa is You.”

krsne karuna ce bala nanda nahi vachai nama dite dhyana sacaram [?]

Believe this, there is such attitude of Kṛṣṇa. “You say, ‘I won’t take.’ No, no, you take Me.” There is another department of Kṛṣṇa. From door to door He goes and says, requests: “Take Me, accept Me. Don’t banish.”

karuna ce bala nanda nahi vachai [?]

Not He’s very eager to distinguish to whom He will distribute Himself, no. Anyhow that reply is going. Nityānanda Prabhu. “Accept Kṛṣṇa, accept Mahāprabhu, accept Kṛṣṇa.” There is a department, such nature of Kṛṣṇa there is. Sometimes we find Him like that, and that is an eternal department.

krsne karuna ce bala nanda nahi vachai nama dite dhyana sacaram [?]

So, how Mahāprabhu is giving estimation of Kṛṣṇa. Broad, generous, but at the same time you’ll see He’s miser only in my case. I can’t have a bit taste of Him. But I see that the whole place around inundated. But only in my case what is.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

All this is peculiar. So acintya bhedābheda. Nimāi going? Nimāi is very fond of using this term anywhere and everywhere, acintya bhedābheda, not understandable. When particularly we want to reach into some conclusion, there is some trouble, acintya. No conclusion can be final about Him, acintya bhedābheda.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! My health is not well today. Then I want to close here.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: How would you express the term śrauta-vādi in English?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrauta-vāda. There it is mentioned that there is some connection with the word and the meaning, the sound echoing the sense. Some think there is some scientific relationship between the sound and the meaning. In the basis it has come in such way. That is the opinion of Pāṇinī. Śrauta, the sound automatically aims to hitch to a particular meaning, has got some inseparable connection. The mental plane, the thought, and the physical, unconscious of us there is some independent connection in scientific way. There is a section of the grammarians, or nirukta-vādis, that is sound experts, śabda. Just as in Vaikuṇṭha Nāma, vaikuṇṭha nāma, nāma nāma avid [?]

Kṛṣṇa Nāma and Kṛṣṇa is avid, inseparably connected. In Vaikuṇṭha they say, here in the phenomenal world also, there is some such apparent thing. It is not anarchical. A particular group says like that, śrauta-vādi.

Then as Mahāprabhu told: “Every word meaning to Kṛṣṇa.” In vyākaraṇa also, in grammar also when He began explain to every word, to every vyatu is a potency of Kṛṣṇa, so has a connection.

Madhvācārya also says: “mukta pragraha mṛti,” and “yahat satya yahat satya.” All these classifications, every word, every meaning if not forced to take another direction will go direct to Kṛṣṇa. His potency, everything connected with Him.

Kalidāsa says in Raghuvamśa, in beginning passage, bhagatha viva samprikto bhagat pritibutay jagatat pitaro vande parvati paramesvaro [?]

Bhag atha, word and meaning, bhagatha viva samprikto. This Pārvatī, Parameśvara, Śiva and His potency, Pārvatī. How they’re connected naturally, just as bhag and atha, its word and its meaning, bhagatha viva samprikto. So I bow down to them, I show my obeisance to them, bhagatha viva samprikto, bhagat pritibutay, so that I may have command, a free flow over both word and meaning...

End of 82.05.11.C_05.12.A_05.12.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...those that are the parents of this world, pārvatī parameśvaro, Pārvatī and Parameśvara, Mahādeva. Three meanings here, pārvatī par, or pārvatī pati, and rameśvaro, rameśvaro means Nārāyaṇa. Then, vivasam prikto pārvatī parameśvaro [?] Viva, vi means bird, va mana vati [?] One who goes on the back of the bird, that is Brahmā, haṁsa-vahana. So vivasam prikto viva yukto parvati pa [?] and, brahma visnu maheśvar [?]

Then on the, that Pārvatī and Parameśvara, one. Parvati pa rameśvaro, Brahmā, Śiva, Hariha and then brahma visnu maheśvar. Three kinds of meaning given by Madrinatha [?] the great commentator of Kalidāsa. Just as there is relationship between the word and the meaning, so Śiva and Śiva is artha and Pārvatī is the form, the word, outer cover, and the substance within is Śiva, Mahādeva. In this way, srotavād, Some natural connection between the word and the sound, the sound and the meaning, one produces the other. The mental principle produces a particular sound. Just as a sound between the sent, the booming shots replied, boom is heard, from the meaning the word is formed.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

...

... Swāmī Mahārāja [?] reply is prepared? Ready?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Encouraging?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I hope so. I'll let you hear it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Purī Mahārāja proposes and disposes, proposal and disposal. One going up and coming down, wave, suggestion and acceptance.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. All is līlā.

naiva tasya kṛtenārtho, nākṛteneha kaścana

na cāsyā sarvva-bhūteṣu, kaścid artha-vyapāśrayaḥ

["In this world, a self-realised person who rejoices in the soul does not accrue piety by the performance of actions, nor does he incur sin by abstaining from duties. Amongst all living entities, from the highest life-forms of the planet of Lord Brahmā down to the world of immobile organisms, he never depends on anyone for any personal demand whatsoever."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.18]

Any wave welcomed, all the waves welcome. They can read the deeper meaning.

ṛte 'rtham yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani tad vidyād ātmano māyām, yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ

["O Brahmā, whatever appears to be of any value, if it is without relation to Me, has no reality.

Know it as My illusory energy, that reflection which appears to be in darkness."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.34]

Bhāgavata says what is the conception of māyā, 'rtham ṛte yat pratīyeta, what seems to be, not right reading, the rtha, ārtheṣv abhijñāḥ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1] The meaning, the purpose of every incident known to Him. So many events harmonised together, it is serving Him. But localised interest, there is a clash. Imperial and provincial, universal and local interest clashing. Ārtheṣv abhijñāḥ, He only can know for which every straw is moving, this side or that side, He's the only knower. Ārtheṣv abhijñāḥ, what is the purpose that a grass by the wind is bent this side and not that side. He knows. All these movements taken together in harmony goes to Him. Ārtheṣv abhijñāḥ svarāṭ. He's not responsible to anyone, ārtheṣv abhijñāḥ.

And ṛte 'rtham yat pratīyeta, that universal meaning of everything, every event, incident, even the movement of a straw, all purposeful, all meaningful to the Absolute. They're contributing towards the Absolute satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. 'Rtham ṛte yat pratīyeta, that is the real meaning, the meaning of this word, the meaning of that phrase, all these, but rtha is universal. What is the meaning? Ārtheṣv abhijñāḥ. 'Rtham ṛte. What is the real purpose of every movement, that is one, advaya, universal absolute, absolute current going towards the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. But that reading is not possible for the superficial jīva, so the real meaning of everything he cannot read, cannot conceive. He has some meaning but it is a different superficial reading, that is māyā. I am reading the earthquake, or the storm, or anything, we are reading from our local interest. This is māyā and at the basis of this so many we are doing. Local interest, from local, leaving that:

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja [ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

[“Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

Give up local interest and identify yourself with universal interest, that current, that plane. Rte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, what we feel, what we read without the real meaning, that is wrong reading, wrong reading of the environment. That is māyā. Rte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, what seems to us. That universal purpose we miss and from local interest we read, “Oh, this is for this purpose, that is for this purpose,” this local reading. Rte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, what is conceived, what we feel, what we trust, what we believe, not only belief also, what we believe, not in consonance with the universal reading, that is māyā. Rte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani, in the interest of ātma, Kṛṣṇa.

atma dehi saraihi paramatmani [?]

Ātmā means not jīvātmā, here ātmā means, sarva-vedānta-sāraṁ yad, brahmātmakatva-lakṣaṇam.

[ādi-madhyāvasāneṣu, vairāgyākhyāna-saṁyutam hari-līlā-kathā-vrātā-, mṛtānandita-sat-suram sarva-vedānta-sāraṁ yad, brahmātmakatva-lakṣaṇam vastv advitīyaṁ

tan-niṣṭhaṁ, kaivalyaika-prayojanam]

[“From beginning to end, the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is full of narrations that encourage renunciation of material life, as well as nectarine accounts of Lord Hari’s transcendental pastimes, which give ecstasy to the saintly devotees and demigods. This Bhāgavatam is the essence of all Vedānta philosophy because its subject matter is the Absolute Truth, which, while non-different from the spirit soul, is the ultimate reality, one without a second. The goal of this literature is exclusive devotional service unto that Supreme Truth.”] [Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam, 12.13.11-12]

Ātmā means Paramātmā.

[vadanti tat tattva-vidas, tattvaṁ yaj jñānam advayam] brahmeti paramātmēti, bhagavān iti śabdyate]

[“Learned transcendentalists who know the Absolute Truth call this non-dual substance Brahman, Paramātmā or Bhagavān.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.11]

That universal representation of the Absolute of three phases. Na pratīyeta cātmani, in the interest of the Paramātmā, of the Absolute, that conception does not come. But from the standpoint of local interest we find that. And if we go to read from the universal interest we don’t find that, no hint. From śrauta-vicara, that comes from Vaikuṇṭha. That shows that now everything meant for Kṛṣṇa. Our disease, local interest conception disease is cured, removed. We like to be one with the Kṛṣṇa interest.

ṛte 'rtham yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani tad vidyād ātmano māyām, [yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ]

["O Brahmā, whatever appears to be of any value, if it is without relation to Me, has no reality.

Know it as My illusory energy, that reflection which appears to be in darkness."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.34]

That feeling, that conception, you know as māyā, mā — yā, what is not, it is apparent but not real. What is not real that is māyā, mā — yā, what I think it is not so. Māyā, means mā no, yā means what, 'what is not,' it seems to mean, apparently, but the fact is not such. That is māyā. Another meaning of māyā: miyate anu yayati maya [?] Infinite interest we eliminate and we see things by measuring by our interest. We measure everything only through the standpoint angle of vision of our selfish interest. Everything we measure, "Oh, this is not from infinite standpoint." But everything we meet, "Oh, this is such." According to our interest we measure everything ignoring its infinite representation and position and duty, service. That is māyā.

ṛte 'rtham yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani tad vidyād ātmano māyām, yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ

The light and darkness, the absence of truth that is not truth. Yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ, ābhāso, light, and tamaḥ, darkness, ignorance, mistake, error, it is not so.

rte 'rtham yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani tad vidyād ātmano māyām, yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ

yathā mahānti bhūtāni, bhūteṣūccāvaceṣv anu praviṣṭāny apraviṣṭāni, tathā teṣu na teṣv aham

[“O Brahmā, please know that the universal elements enter into the cosmos and at the same time do not enter into the cosmos; similarly, I Myself also exist within everything created, and at the same time I am outside of everything.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.35]

Catuḥ-ślokī of Bhāgavata.

aham evāsam evāgre, nānyad yat sad-asat param paścād ahaṁ yad etac ca, yo 'vaśiṣyeta so 'smy aham

[“Brahmā, it is I, the Personality of Godhead, who was existing before the creation, when there was nothing but Myself. Nor was there the material nature, the cause of this creation. The ontological, catuḥ-ślokī, that is the ontological basis of the whole Bhāgavata theory of Bhāgavata-Purāṇa, these four ślokaś [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.33-36] are the ontological baśis.

[“O my Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, son of Vasudeva, O all pervading Personality of Godhead, I offer my respectful obeisances unto You. I meditate upon Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa because He is the Absolute Truth and the primeval cause of all causes of the creation, sustenance and destruction of the manifested universes. He is directly and indirectly conscious of all manifestations, and He is independent because there is no other cause beyond Him. It is He only who first imparted the Vedic knowledge unto the heart of Brahmājī, the original living being. By Him even the great sages and demigods are placed into illusion, as one is bewildered by the illusory representations of water seen in fire, or land seen on water. Only because of Him do the material universes, temporarily manifested by the reactions of the three modes of nature, appear factual, although they are unreal. I therefore meditate upon Him, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Who is eternally existent in the transcendental abode, which is forever free from the illusory representations of the material world. I meditate upon Him, for He is the Absolute Truth.”]

naiva tasya kṛtenārtho, nākṛteneha kaścana

[“In this world, a self-realised person who rejoices in the soul does not accrue piety by the performance of actions, nor does he incur sin by abstaining from duties. Amongst all living entities, from the highest life-forms of the planet of Lord Brahmā down to the world of immobile organisms, he never depends on anyone for any personal demand whatsoever.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.18]

So in uttama-adhikāra, no pracar cesta [?]

No attempt for any propaganda, only in madhyama-adhikāra, that from this mal conception to take all to right conception, from improper to proper conception. And the function will go on accordingly, sambandha-jñāna.

siddhānta baliyā citte nā kara alasa, ihā haite kṛṣṇa lāge sudṛḍha mānasa

[“A sincere student should not neglect the discussion of such conclusions (regarding the Absolute Truth in the revealed scriptures), considering them controversial, for such discussions strengthen the mind. Thus one's mind becomes attached to Śrī Kṛṣṇa.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 2.117]

To engage us more earnestly towards the service sometimes hearing is necessary. But hearing for hearing, that is luxury. Hearing for engagement, that is proper hearing.

“Oh, bring a glass of water.” He’s sitting.

“Have you heard?” “Yes, I have heard.” Ha, ha, ha, ha.

“Bring me a glass of water.” Sitting tight. Ha, ha, ha, ha. “I have heard.”

Ha, ha, ha, ha. That sort of hearing won’t do. Ha, ha, ha. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

And there is also one saying amongst the sahajiyā class. “Gurudeva asked for a glass of water, but I am engaged in Hari-Nāma. ‘No, Gurudeva, I’m engaged in Hari-Nāma.’”

This is self-deception. The importance, the degree, the urgency, should be considered. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Bhajana, that is service, in higher degree present in Gurudeva. Not so much by serving him I can partake in high quality of kīrtana that comes in me and may improve the quality of my bhajana. So sādhū-saṅga nāma-kīrtana. Nāma-kīrtana has been recommended but not without the association of the sādhū, sādhū-saṅga. Saṅga means sevā. Sādhū means a higher, superior quality sādhū. And saṅga means only to keep the bodies together? No. The saṅga of the high, that means it is possible only through serving attitude, saṅga can be. Not by opposite dealing, neither by idle sitting. Saṅga means sat-saṅga, ṣaḍ-vidha.

dadāti pratigṛhṇāti guhyam ākhyāti pṛcchatī bhukte bhojayate caiva ṣaḍ-vidhaṁ prīti lakṣaṇam

[“Offering gifts in charity; accepting gifts in charity; revealing one’s mind in confidence; enquiring confidentially; accepting prasāda; and offering prasāda are the six symptoms of love shared by one devotee and another.”] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛtam, 4]

These six kinds of association with the sādhū, dadāti pratigṛhṇāti guhyam. Higher association means only with serving attitude. Otherwise no saṅga. Just as lower association means exploitation, enjoyment. We may sit idle but still it will be enjoyment. And higher must mean a serving link and thereby my quality of serving will be increased.

tāte kṛṣṇa bhaje kare gurura sevana, māyā-jāla chuṭe, pāya kṛṣṇera caraṇa

[“If the conditioned soul engages in the service of the Lord and simultaneously carries out the orders of his spiritual master and serves him, he can get out of the clutches of māyā and become eligible for shelter at Kṛṣṇa’s lotus feet.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.25]

So sādhū-saṅga is the most important, sādhū-sevā. Gauḍīya Maṭha gives stress there, sādhū-saṅga, service of the sādhū. Whatever you do by his command, it will connect you surely with the higher conception of the Absolute, sādhū-saṅga. Whatever you do with his connection if it is ordered by him.

So that I have experience, Parvat Mahārāja, leaving the order engagement of Gurudeva went to see Badrinārāyaṇa and he was punished. So to tour the holy places, that also may be punishable action. Sādhū-saṅga, without sādhū-saṅga we cannot connect with the higher level. So even taking Name may not be Vaikuṇṭha Name.

[ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ] sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ

[“Because the name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Kṛṣṇa Himself, and on the absolute spiritual platform, Kṛṣṇa’s name, form, qualities, and associates, cannot be appreciated by the material senses. However, when one engages the tongue in chanting the Holy Names of the Lord and tasting the remnants of the Lord’s food, Kṛṣṇa gradually reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee.”]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234]

So learn, try to acquire a serving attitude and if you apply to Nāma-bhajana or any bhajana it will help you. A universal necessity, sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ, jihvādau means in tongue, nāmādi, nāma, rūpa, guṇa, līlā. Nāmādi means nāma, rūpa, guṇa, līlā. Jihvādau, name in the lip, jihvā, tongue, sevonmukhe hi jihvādau, nāma. Rūpa in the eye, guṇa in the mind, līlā, in the heart, that will come down to you. Your other aspects will be connected with that Vaikunṭha tattva. So sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ, so not only increasing the number, the quantity, but the quality cannot be ignored in every action to be real devotion, bhakti, sevonmukhe. And sevā presupposes surrender, and all this presupposes sādhū-saṅga.

kṛṣṇa-bhakti-janma-mūla haya 'sādhū-saṅga', [kṛṣṇa-prema janme, tenho punar mukhya aṅga]

[“The root cause of devotional service to Lord Kṛṣṇa is association with advanced devotees. Even when one’s dormant love for Kṛṣṇa awakens, association with devotees is still most essential.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.83]

It originates from the association of a sādhū, anyhow, in sukṛti, ajñāta, jñāta, or śraddhā, or sādhū-saṅga, from the positive direction it can come to us. So we must be thankful to that positive source. The Lord is there but through His agency He’s coming, so His agents should be welcomed and dealt with properly. Sādhū, śāstra, whatever we can collect, our energy we should devote towards sādhū and śāstra, sādhū and śāstra, those two friends, everywhere, everywhere.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Once Prabhupāda told me, “What is service and what is karma?” To give impression, to me he told.

“If the sādhū has said, has ordered, ‘Take flower.’ And when taking flower he says, 'No, take water.'"

"No, you have already ordered to bring a flower, accept this."

Then that will be karma. Which was ordered first, and next, "No, give me water." Then if it is said, "You ordered to bring flower, please accept this."

To thrust on his previous desire, to thrust on him again, that will be karma. He's free and any moment when he told a little after he has rejected that and he has ordered another thing. So to follow the past, that will be karma. Always expectant for the immediate need, what is that?

In a battlefield if the General orders the army, "March this side." Then he looked with telescope and saw that circumstances have changed. "No, go this side."

"Oh, you have already ordered to go this way."

Ha, ha, ha, ha. That won't do. Ha, ha. He's free always, the Gurudeva, or the sādhū, their order should be taken in such way. "What he told first I must stick to that?" No, living and independent, in this.

That [Herr] Schulze [Sadānanda dāsa] asked our Guru Mahārāja: "At least one week before I want the program where to go, what to do."

"But I get order only five minutes ago. How can I inform you like that?"

So it is not a dead thing. For the beginners of course dead orders are there. Just as to a boy it is given, ABC, that is one stage, ABC, go on ABC. Then when necessity of writing, not everything repeated, it maybe that every moment and second new thing. "Oh, dictate, take dictation." Then only that repeatedly following, loving the ABC, that won't do. So in the beginning do these things, this thing that thing. But when he'll come in connection of the living thing he'll be expectant in such a way and do accordingly. The new order will come and we are to follow that with our alertness.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Who was the most famous siddha-bābājī in Vṛndāvana, I had a chance to stay for few days in Vṛndāvana, I wanted to see that gentleman. He was the most respected siddha-bābājī of Vṛndāvana.

But Prabhupāda told that, “He’s kaniṣṭha-adhikarī.”

It was written in Gauḍīya. After circumambulation of Vraja maṇḍala he remarked, “That Ramakrishnadāsa Bābājī, kaniṣṭha-adhikarī. He’s copying only what has been given to be the practices of a sādhū, of a student. He’s following the stereo type direction. So, take Name, mādhukarī, and fasting, and reading Bhāgavatam, formal things. What has been recommended for the beginners. Not coming in contact with the living things, mahara [?], just a training period. The Army and the Police in a training period they’re asked to do something repeatedly. “Do this, do this, do this.” Rehearsal, something, so he engages himself in that, kaniṣṭha-adhikarī, he does not know the spirit, cannot come in connection with the living matter. But a preparatory life of a devotee repeatedly going on with that, kaniṣṭha-adhikarī.”

Anyhow I want to see him. Two or three days, in the evening I saw he’s there. He could know that I’m coming from Gauḍīya Maṭh. I sat there silently. They did not speak anything to me. We are rather enemy to them. And I also went there and tried my best to read him. I saw that so many disciples and others that respect him, two, three, four, sitting by his side. Then Nṛsiṁha-caturdaśī day, carried reading from Bhāgavata and hearing, and sometimes dictating this or that. I continued my watch over his movements, activities. I am watching him and sometimes as if I am casting my glance to Guru Mahārāja. “He’s such.” “He’s such.”

After two or three days I came with this estimation that this man is trying his best to go up. And Guru Mahārāja has come down from there and has got a living program for him to fulfil the purpose. With this conclusion I came out. He’s trying his best from this plane to go up. But our Guru Mahārāja he has come down with some order, some plan, “Do this.” So some positive thing he has come to give to the world. He does not belong to this world, has come from other world with some order. “Go and do this.” And this man is trying his best from his own position what has been recommended in the scripture, what we can read about Rūpa, Sanātana and others. And accordingly to get some idea and try to practice that, theoretically practising. “This has been recommended. Let me practice all these things. And then I’ll get my desired result, in this way.”

And so I thought that, “This is the kaniṣṭha-adhikarī, Guru Mahārāja told, kaniṣṭha-adhikarī.”

And to work under the direction of Gurudeva or sādhū that are already a member in that plane, that will give desired and living result. Not theoretical but practical, highly improving, the difference is there. Practical necessity.

Soldiers sometimes are ordered to do ordinary things. Not fighting but spade work, these other things, to clear the jungle, to do this thing that thing. When marching against the enemy whatever duty comes in front they’re to do that. It is practical, living thing. Not mock fight but real fight, and there, not mock fight but something preparatory to fight, that has also got great value of fighting, more than the fighting in a mock fight in a preparatory training period. The training period fighting is, when soldiers are for fighting necessary to do some other work, that is clearing the jungle, making the path etc, that will fetch more value than when they're practising fighting in a peaceful circumstance.

So when under the guidance of a real Ācārya, whatever we do, that will benefit more. The cooking, the cow-keeping, the other things will keep more value than Bhāgavata study. It is possible. It is possible that it his doing and to help in his activity that will fetch some higher thing for me. By his coin I shall be paid. Not these gross things, not by paddy or wheat but by gold I'll be paid. If I'm rendering personal service to Gurudeva, of course, Gurudeva's position that is all important, that must be real, not a shame or imitating Guru. If that is a genuine sādhū, genuine Gurudeva, then to cleanse his stools and urine that will fetch more than worshipping the Deity, because that has got practical connection. And this is kaniṣṭha-adhikarī, this is only mahara [?] rehearsal like thing in the kaniṣṭha-adhikarī. We are to understand it as these things, these things.

Īśvara Purī, he was above this arcana, sannyāsī...

End of 82.05.12.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...then Īśvara Purī by his own hand he cleansed his stools etc.

[Īśvara-purī gosāñi kare śrīpāda-sevana], svahaste karena mala-mūtrādi mārjana

["Īśvara Purī, the spiritual master of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, performed service to Mādhavendra Purī, cleaning up his stool and urine with his own hand."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 8.28]

For Mādhavendra Purī, Īśvara Purī did this. But he's above this arcana kāṇḍa, worshipping the Deity, he has passed that stage.

arcayam eva haraye, pūjām yaḥ śraddhāyehate na tad-bhakteṣu cānyeṣu, sa bhaktaḥ prākṛtaḥ smṛtaḥ

["A devotee who faithfully worships the Deity, but does not properly respect the Vaiṣṇavas or the people in general is called a materialistic devotee, and is considered to be in the lowest position of devotional service."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.47]

Apparently with garland, with chandan, with flowers, offering bhoga, arcana, that is, I'm not going to minimise, to undermine that. That is necessary. But to serve Guru, Vaiṣṇava, in a practical way, that will fetch more value. Madhyama adhikārī will try for that. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Svahaste karena mala- mūtrādi mārjana. And he's Guru of Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu took mantram from Īśvara Purī, and Īśvara Purī's practice was such that when his Guru was disappearing, at that time he did with his own hands. It has been praised like anything, by the devotees. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So approach a thing from a lower stage and to be connected in the real service should be distinction, and we must know that.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.
Nītāi Gaura Hari bol. Nītāi Gaura Hari bol. Nītāi Gaura Hari bol.

The elephant devotee, the Gajarāja, in his previous life, there was a long fight between one elephant and one crocodile, or in some kalpa with the crocodile and tortoise. Anyhow there was a fight, perhaps for a long time a fight. The elephant was tired, because in the water, that is the natural place for the crocodile, and the elephant he tries to take up to the land, and he's taking in the water. A long fight. The elephant was disappointed and began to cry. "O Lord, please protect me, save me."

And Kṛṣṇa went and cut off the crocodile, re-leaved this devotee, elephant.

We are given to understand, who is this elephant. In his previous life, he was a king, in Southern India, Andhradesh. And he, when he was engaged in worshipping his own Deity, at that time some information came to him that Mahārṣi Agastya has come here as a guest.

He thought that, "I am engaged in serving my Deity, worshipping my Deity. I should not leave this and go out to receive Agastya." So, and also, "Agastya is a devotee and a yogī of higher type. If he's displeased, then he may do much mischief in the kingdom."

So knowingly, he represent himself as he had not heard, in this way, stabdha, stabdhi buta. As if he can't hear, he posed in such a way that he can't hear. Then he finished his worship and then came out, saw Agastya. "Oh." The necessary deception, make arrangements, all these things.

Because he was in that mood at that time, stabdhi buta, he was imitating a stage of body which is not attending outside things, stabdhi buta. Not smart, not attending outside, that is the general attitude of an elephant. So, for this crime, the next birth he had to become that elephant. But he was a devotee, he was saved, but it is mentioned that he had to become elephant in his next birth, because he played the part of an elephant at that time, when it was required that he should leave the arcana and go and receive the devotee. He should have left the arcana of the Deity and gone to receive the devotee. The deity is here in the doll, and the deity is there. Doll conception, that is Deity conception and there is Deity in the heart of the devotee, but that is higher conception.

When I came to Gauḍīya Maṭha, I was from Calcutta from my quarter I was visiting. I asked one brahmacārī, “The Śrī Mūrti of Mahāprabhu in a very living posture, it is Dāru Mūrti or [?] or what is it?”

He got excited and told, “Sākṣāt Mahāprabhu; Mahāprabhu Himself. Don’t take it as wood or earth or anything. Mahāprabhu Himself is there.”

I put a question: “If Mahāprabhu Himself is there, then who will be best among you, your Gurudeva, why he’s not here with Mahāprabhu? He’s staying on the first floor in another room and Mahāprabhu Himself is left here in the outer room? What’s the cause?”

Then he was a little calm, seeing this naughty question. He came to try to make me understand that he’s also in the near of Mahāprabhu there. “In his heart, there is Mahāprabhu. Here is also Mahāprabhu, and there in heart he’s also living by the side of Mahāprabhu. But the Mahāprabhu within his heart is superior than Mahāprabhu here, for the others.”

I got some clue. “Yes, it may be.” I was silenced. So,

tomara hrdoye sada govinda-visrama, govinda kahena, bhakta seva ram [mora vaisnava parana]

[“Your heart is always the resting place of Lord Govinda, and Lord Govinda says the Vaiṣṇavas are always in My heart.”] [From Narottama dasa Ṭhākura's Prarthana] [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 3.40]

So īśvare tad-adhīn, prākṛta bhakta. Arcayam eva haraye, pūjām yaḥ śraddhāyehate, the beginner, the primary bhakta, he has reverence more for a Deity. And not for Vaiṣṇava, so much. Because he thinks, "He is a man. And there may be some devotion, that is also in me, I am also worshipping the Deity." Arcayam eva haraye, pūjām yaḥ śraddhāyehate, na tad-bhakteṣu. But not so much particular about the devotees. Sa bhaktaḥ prākṛtaḥ smṛtaḥ. He's more accustomed with the material aspect of things.

īśvare tad-adhīneṣu, bālīṣeṣu dviṣatsu ca prema-maitri-kṛpopekṣa, yaḥ karoti sa madhyamaḥ

["The devotee in the intermediate stage of devotional service is called a madhyama-adhikārī. He loves the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is a sincere friend to all the devotees of the Lord, shows mercy to the innocent and disregards the envious."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.46]

But a higher, middle class, īśvare prema, and in His devotee the friendship, īśvare tad-adhīneṣu, prema-maitri. And kṛpa, ordinary mass, he will show kindness by talking about the Lord, and who is unfriendly, he will be indifferent to him. So, when we have got particular care for the devotee, here there's the living presence of the Lord. Not so much acute in the Deity, but here in the heart of a devotee there is more valuable representation. When we'll be able to appreciate, we will come to the middle class. That cetan, the nearest approach towards the Lord, when we will find in the conscious area, the Vaikuṇṭha, the nearer.

Rāmānuja says, para, vyūha, vaibhava, antaryāmī, and arcana. These five expressions of the Lord. Para, Nārāyaṇa. Vyūha, on His sides to help His activity. Vaibhava, Matsya, Kūrma, that come down here. Antaryāmī, in every heart. And arca, the lowest extension of Him in the material world. And from there He recruits towards, from matter, through matter, He recruits them to the highest conscious area, viśuddha-sattva area.

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. There is a question why Rūpa, Sanātana, the bhajan and arcana, there is some distinction, bhajan and arcana. Rūpa, Sanātana installed also, but they are not of the lower type of devotee. Arcayam eva haraye. They dealt with higher things, but they also installed Govinda, Madana Mohan, Gopīnātha.

That question came to Prabhupāda. “They are engaged in bhajan not in arcana. We should understand the difference between arcana and bhajan. Arcana of a lower type, bhajan direct, sākṣāt. They are not seeing the arca, the symbol of Mahāprabhu, symbol of Kṛṣṇa, but directly in contact. No barrier between, in the same plane, in Vṛndāvana their dealings are all living.

Madana Mohana says, “Sanātana, I can’t eat what you offer without salt.”

“Oh, You want me to feed You salt, You have come only for that? All right, you say, some salt.” “No, no, Sanātana, I can’t eat without a little ghee.”

“Then why have You come to a beggar? You had good feeding there. Why did You come here to trouble me? Where shall I get ghee and these things?”

In this way, the transaction is going. Hare Kṛṣṇa. What’s the time?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Nine twenty two.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Then Mahārāja, the question of why they established the arcana when they are already in bhajan? What was replied in that way?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Was ordered by Mahāprabhu, “Do these services there.” Four or five things was ordered to Sanātana Goswāmī. Śrī Mūrti pūjā, prakāśa, śāstra, tīrtha-uddhāra, sadācāra pravartana.

kṛṣṇa-bhakti, kṛṣṇaprema-sevā-pravartana / luṭṭa-tīrtha-uddhāra, āra vairāgya-śikṣaṇa

[“You will also have to explain Kṛṣṇa’s devotional service, establish centres for cultivation of love of Kṛṣṇa, excavate lost places of pilgrimage, and teach people how to adopt the renounced order.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.80]

These four things were ordered by Mahāprabhu to Sanātana to do this. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, you once told the story, how after you took Gāyatrī initiation there was some question asked to you as to what was the difference before you took and afterwards.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow what you say.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Bengali (?) [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vasudeva Prabhu asked me, “What you were, and now what you are?” I told, “I was a brāhmaṇa, now I have become a Vaiṣṇava.”

He cut his tongue with the tip. “No, you are on the path of becoming servant of the Vaiṣṇava. You have begun, you are given admission to become the servant of a Vaiṣṇava. So to become Vaiṣṇava is not so easy, it is high and high. And you were a brāhmaṇa in the consideration of the body consideration, generally, but now you are given, you have been given admission to work in the path of becoming a servant of a Vaiṣṇava, daiva brāhmaṇa. And bodily consideration is asura brāhmaṇa, considered only by body, ‘I am brāhmaṇa,’ that is.

yasyātma-buddhiḥ kuṇape tri-dhātuke, sva-dhīḥ kalatrādiṣu bhauma ijya-dhīḥ yat-tīrtha-buddhiḥ salile na karhicij, janeṣv abhijñeṣu sa eva go-kharaḥ

[“One who identifies his self as the inert body composed of mucus, bile and air, who assumes his wife and family are permanently his own, who thinks an earthen image or the land of his birth is worshippingable, or who sees a place of pilgrimage as merely the water there, but who never identifies himself with, feels kinship with, worships or even visits those who are wise in spiritual truth — such a person is no better than a cow or an ass.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.84.13]

Who identifies himself with the body, he’s not a normal sādhū. I’m not the body. Of course it is mentioned in the scriptures, here and there, and he admitted that there has also been some recognition but if not antagonistic to Vaiṣṇava. But when opposing Vaiṣṇava, then he should be considered to be asura. Otherwise, some recognition there, bhosura kula, in the line of bhosura.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitai Gaura Hari bol! Nitai Gaura Hari bol. Nitai Gaura Hari bol.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, could you describe the details of the birth of Kṛṣṇa, the appearance, the actual birth of Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. On the whole, it is something like imitation; what we conceive by our material senses, it is nothing of that type. A spiritual body, coming, showing, imitating the physical birth. This is an imitation, show, all spiritual, just like a drama, a play.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Kṛṣṇa appeared as a child with four arms, helmet? Kṛṣṇa appeared in full ornament, with four arms as a baby?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. When He came out, at that time they did not note, but when their eyes were attracted to Him first, they found four arms and with so many ornaments. And by His will, that iron gate was opened, and the Yamunā in the rainy season, that was shallow, one jackal showing the path through that flooded Yamunā, and Vasudeva walking through the water of the Yamunā. All this is impossible from the physical standpoint, material standpoint. So, His will is like that. Physically, materially, all these things inconceivable, impossible. And then when he came back, the gate was again closed as previous. So all supernatural. Supernatural things were done there. Not any particular material process that He came. Still, imitating material process as far as possible.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: We have a painting, even within ISKCON, that seems to misrepresent Bhāgavatam that full, mature Viṣṇu form is shown, and baby at the feet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Sometimes in the painting, in the picture, it's shown that the Viṣṇu Mūrti, fully grown, and then a baby Kṛṣṇa, at the same time, in the picture represented, it seems to be wrong. Vidagdha-Mādhava says.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: The mature Viṣṇu form, rather than the four-armed baby form.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He thinks that the [?] should be in the form of a baby, not full grown Viṣṇu. Is that correct or not?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But when Vasudeva saw on the side of Devakī, he saw Him as four handed full grown Viṣṇu with ornaments, all decorated, and began His praise with hymns. And also in that Viṣṇu Mūrti, He advised Vasudeva, “Do this, and this, and this, and this.” Then He became prākṛta sisu [?] ordinary baby. When Vasudeva first saw, he saw catur-bhuja Viṣṇu. Then He gave some advice to Vasudeva, and finishing His advice He became as an ordinary child, and Vasudeva carried out His orders, took Him, the child, to Nandalaya, Gokula.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, doesn’t Viśvanātha Cakravartī comment that two Kṛṣṇas appeared at the same time?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, in Yaśodā, in Yaśodā, one Kṛṣṇa, and one male baby, and one female baby, by the side of Yaśodā. Vasudeva could not detect that. Vasudeva as soon as he placed according to the previous advice the baby nearby Yaśodā, Yaśodā’s baby absorbed this Vasudeva baby. And Vasudeva only saw the female baby and he took her and gave her by the side of Devakī and then everything was closed as it was previously.

Then intimation went to the gatekeepers, the watchmen, they then came into consciousness and they heard that the newborn baby is crying. They gave information to Kaṁsa at once.

Kaṁsa came, and he found that is this is a girl. “Then why this is so? A male child must be born to kill me. Then what is this? The gods also speak lies? What is this?”

Asked Vasudeva, “Give explanation why this girl, what should I do? You see it with your own eyes.”

Then anyhow, he took the girl, and as he did previously, he with the legs he took by hand and thrust on the stone. And the girl slipped from his hand and went up in the sky and told, “Who will kill you, He’s growing in Gokula.” With these words she disappeared. Astabhuja Mūrti. Katyayana, astabhuja Mūrti, she disappeared. Then what to do? Kāṁsa, then he engaged many spies to find out the newborn babies, wherever to be found in Vṛndāvana.

The first, Pūtanā, she went and did her service and that was the effect, in this way. Agha, Baka and others they’re privately engaged in trying to kill Kṛṣṇa and they’re all failures.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! So I like to stop here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was a grhastha, but he had a certificate from Mahāprabhu, that he was master of his senses to the extreme degree.

Once a brāhmaṇa named Pradyumna Miśra came to Mahāprabhu and asked that, “I would like to hear Kṛṣṇa kathā from Your lips.”

Mahāprabhu told, “I do not know any Kṛṣṇa kathā, but Rāmānanda knows. You go to him and hear about Kṛṣṇa. Take My name, then perhaps he will talk with you. You are a brāhmaṇa, he’s a śūdra by caste.”

So, he was hesitating, but what to do? He went, and he saw, sat for some time there, and came back and reported to Mahāprabhu.

Mahāprabhu asked, “Have you heard Kṛṣṇa kathā from him?” “No.”

“Why?”

“I saw him engaged in some matter which is not very well, so I sat for some time and came back.” “What did you see?”

He saw, he’s giving training to some deva-dāsīs. Deva-dāsī means who are generally devoted to Jagannātha, from their young age they do not marry. And sometimes their character also may not be good, generally. They are known as deva-dāsīs. So Rāmānanda was seen to train the deva-dāsīs in a very objectionable way.

“How the deva-dāsīs will go before Jagannātha and dance and chant. Seeing how their posture, gestures, their look enticing, all these things. And so much so, for such training, he touches their private parts also. So, seeing all these things, I had no regard for him, and waited for some time, saw him busily in that matter, I came away.”

“Don’t undermine Rāmānanda. He’s master of his senses. He has not a tinge of lust in Him. Even we feel trouble for sense disturbance within us, but Rāmānanda has got no such trouble. But Rāmānanda has no such trouble. Only such stage can be attained we know through śāstra, scripture, the Bhāgavata.” Mahāprabhu came to say.

vikrīḍitaṁ vraja-vadhūbhir idam ca viṣṇoḥ, śraddhānvito 'nuśṛṇuyād atha varṇayed yaḥ bhaktiṁ parām bhagavati pratilabhya kāmaṁ, hṛd-rogam āśv apahinoty acireṇa dhīraḥ

[“One who hears with firm faith the supra-mundane amorous affairs of Lord Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs, as described by a pure devotee of the Lord, soon becomes freed from mundane lust and achieves divine love of Kṛṣṇa.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.39] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 5.48]

From the scripture only we can understand that such stage can be attained, it is possible to be above the sense pleasure of the mundane.

[sarvajña munira vākya — śāstra-‘paramāṇa’] āmā-sabā jīvera haya śāstra-dvārā ‘jñāna’

[“The Vedic literatures composed by the omniscient Mahāmuni Vyāsadeva are evidence of all spiritual existence. Only through these revealed scriptures can all conditioned souls attain knowledge.”]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.353]

“Direct experience,” Mahāprabhu says, “But only through scripture, we can know that there is a stage when a man may be above all these difficulties, all these gross attachments. Bodily he may be engaged, but his heart may be elsewhere, the man may be elsewhere, it is possible, vikṛīḍitaṁ.”

And only one Rāmānanda, he’s of such type. There may not be Rāmānandas in big numbers. Only one Rāmānanda, he has got such stage he has acquired, because he’s well-versed in that feeling, that sentiment, that realization which is necessary in the service of Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs. His heart is completely dedicated for the cause of Kṛṣṇa. No selfish existence, no existence of any self interest there. All Kṛṣṇa consciousness, all Kṛṣṇa’s satisfaction. Whatever it may be, He is doing it for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. Wholly emptied, vacant, and devoted to the cause of Kṛṣṇa līlā. So don’t think ill of him, again go there.”

Then Pradyumna Miśra again went there.

And Rāmānanda began, “Oh, in that day, I could not oblige you. You have come to hear Kṛṣṇa kathā, how fortunate I am.”

In this way he began. And in the morning he began, and it came to be afternoon, but still he’s mad in talking about Kṛṣṇa. He does not know, no bathing, no feeding, nothing of the type. He’s madly going on with Kṛṣṇa kathā. Then when it was very, very late, his servants came, twice, thrice, in this way, to ask him to take bath, and to take food, and anyhow he had to leave the talk and go on.

Then Pradyumna Miśra came, “Yes I have heard, my heart is full hearing Kṛṣṇa kathā from Raya Rāmānanda.”

[‘bhakti’, ‘prema’, ‘tattva’ kahe rāye kari’ ‘vaktā’] āpani pradyumna-miśra-saha haya ‘śrotā’

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 5.85]

He Himself heard from Rāmānanda, Mahāprabhu, and Pradyumna Miśra also. He said to hear from Rāmānanda Rāya. “Rāmānanda, he knows what is Kṛṣṇa.”

Mahāprabhu told that, “What I have heard from Rāmānanda I taught that to Rūpa, Sanātana. I got it from Rāmānanda Rāya.”

It is also mentioned that Mahāprabhu He took dīkṣā in general from Īśvara Purī. For preaching purpose He took sannyāsa from Keśava Bhāratī. And for entrance into Vraja līlā He had His dīkṣā from Rāmānanda Rāya. He used to give respect to Rāmānanda Rāya. Rāmānanda Rāya did not think, of course none of them, neither Keśava Bhāratī, nor Īśvara Purī, nor Rāmānanda Rāya, they thought themselves as Guru. But it is seen that Mahāprabhu is dealing with Rāmānanda Rāya with some respect. Respectful dealings with Rāmānanda Rāya. It is mentioned also in their talk.

sakhī vinā ei līlā puṣṭa nāhi haya, sakhī līlā vistāriyā, sakhī āsvādaya

[“Without the gopīs, these pastimes between Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa cannot be nourished. Only by their cooperation are such pastimes broadcast. It is their business to taste the mellows.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.203]

If one wants to enter into this Vraja rasa, then it is required that he will go to a sakhī in mādhurya rasa. They’re masters of the situation. The whole storehouse of this mādhurya līlā is in the hand of the sakhīs, they can give it to others. So guru rūpa sakhī in mādhurya rasa, the Guru is seen in the form and the spirit of a sakhī of Rādhārāṇī. And Rāmānanda Rāya was Viśākhā Sakhī, and Mahāprabhu says in the last, kibā vipra, kibā nyāsī, śūdra kene naya, / yei kṛṣṇa-tattva vettā sei guru haya.

["Whether a person is a brāhmaṇa, a sannyāsī, or a śūdra, if he knows the science of Kṛṣṇa, he is to be accepted as Guru."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.128]

Here is a hint.

"Why do you shrink away, that I am learning so much from you? You, yei kṛṣṇa-tattva vettā, you are well versed in the affairs of Kṛṣṇa, so you are Guru. I am hearing from you...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...who is the master of that store house of Kṛṣṇa līlā, who can distribute it, he's Guru, in this line; no doubt. No doubt. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

That famous talk began on the banks of Godāvarī. Godāvarī; go means in the ordinary sense water. Da means, "who can give water." Vari, vara, one of the main sources of giving water. Go means indriya, go means Veda. So, we can come to this word Govinda, go-indriya, our senses, vinda, to gain; the fulfilment of our senses is found in whom? He's Govinda. Then Govinda means, Go means Veda, Śruti. By studying the Śruti, whom we can find, vinda te. Gobhir, śrutibhir yad vinda te govinda. We can get whom?

upanisad purusam pricar vede samste rame avit vidyam veda vidya [?]

The object of Veda is who? He's Govinda. We get Him from the Vedas. And the fulfilment of our all senses is Govinda. So, Go Śruti, the real conception of the Śruti is given where? Go-dā-varī. Go means Veda da. Who has given the real representation of the Veda, the best amongst them, Godāvarī.

We may take. Godāvarī. And who, where it was given the highest fulfilment of the senses, of all the senses of jīva, the proper and the fullest engagement of all the senses of jīva.

That was announced there in that bank, Godāvarī. Your senses are not to be rejected; but they have got their fulfilment with Kṛṣṇa. If you can give up the spirit of exploitation and renunciation, those tendencies are a bar to approach Kṛṣṇa so to approach properly towards Kṛṣṇa, then you will have the utilization of all your senses to the fullest extent that was dealt on the Godāvarī bank.

There Mahāprabhu began in a very general and comprehensive way, the approach for us.

[prabhu kahe,] — “paḍa śloka sādhyera nirṇaya” [rāya kahe, — “sva-dharmācaraṇe viṣṇu-bhakti haya”]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu ordered Rāmānanda Rāya, “Recite a verse from the revealed scriptures concerning the ultimate goal of life.”]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.57]

“Sādhya, what is the end of our life? What is the destination of our life? Please say and with quotations from scriptures, paḍa śloka. Not only I want your simple statements, but the evidence, paḍa śloka. Why? Sādhya nirṇaya, to determine what is our object of life? The goal of our life, the destination, I want to know from you.”

rāya kahe, — “sva-dharmācaraṇe viṣṇu-bhakti haya”

The answer came, “If you discharge your own duty, with the sense of discharging your duty, not expecting anything in return, svadharma means varṇāśrama dharma, where you have come by previous karma, you are posted in some position. And fitting to your present position, what duty you have got, you are to discharge them, but only one condition, without anything, any remuneration.

phala kanka badcit, varṇāśrama dharma phala kanka badcit niskama [?]

Without any particular mundane aim, if you go on with your duties that have been asked by varṇāśrama dharma for you to do, you can get Viṣṇu bhakti. Then here, Rāya Rāmānanda says that, “Viṣṇu bhakti is the object of us, that is the destination. That our adherence to Him who pervades everywhere, viṣṇuḥ yaḥ idaṁ viṣṇuḥ vyāpnotīti, who is permeating everywhere He’s present, Vasudeva, Viṣṇu. He’s everywhere, everything is in Him and He is everywhere, viṣṇuḥ yaḥ idaṁ viṣṇuḥ vyāpnotīti. From the local interest to embrace the general interest, and that must come to the level of Viṣṇu consciousness, varṇāśrama. Thereby, the Viṣṇu bhakti, our adherence to Viṣṇu, our allegiance, obedience, submission to the internal spirit, that is everywhere. To connect with Him, and to go accordingly, that is our object of life. Not to live a phenomenal life but spiritual, deeper plane pertaining to a deeper plane, more subtle. We should connect our duties with that.”

“Eho bāhya āge kaha āra.” [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59] Of course, it may be thought that theistic life proper begins from here, giving up the special, local purpose, and for a universal purpose to look at the all-pervading spirit and attain His closer company and to do duties, what is already ordered, the program in Veda and Upaniṣad. Eho bāhya, this is superficial, go deeper.”

[prabhu kahe, — “eho bāhya, āge kaha āra” rāya kahe, “kṛṣṇe karmārpaṇa — sarva-sādhya-sāra”

[The Lord replied, “This is external. You had better tell Me of some other means.”

[Rāmānanda replied, “To offer the results of one’s activities to Kṛṣṇa is the essence of all perfection.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59]

Rāya kahe, “kṛṣṇe karmārpaṇa — sarva-sādhya-sāra.” In varṇāśrama dharma it is a fashion, generally they are acquainted with the external activity, and they do not care even to give up the fruit of their action. But still if they do, but they have no direct consciousness of Viṣṇu or Kṛṣṇa. They perform Durgā pūjā, the śrāddha, so many practices, and finally it is connected they may find some look, some overlook.

Ete tat karma phalam sri krsnaya samurtita samustu [?]

They may or may not know this connection, this link of his work with Kṛṣṇa, but anyhow, the link is there. They know or they do not know. But better will be to have direct consciousness that Kṛṣṇa is the authority. And whatever I'm doing in varṇāśrama, or socially, or whatever, all must be given, the result must be given to Kṛṣṇa. With this consciousness if we do, all social, and spiritual, and national, and this physical, body concern, whatever we do, if with the connection of Kṛṣṇa we can do it, then we can approach towards the goal, our fulfilment of life."

Then Mahāprabhu, "Eho bāhya, āge kaha āra." Then Rāmānanda Rāya came with new light.

*sarva-dharmān parityajya, [mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvāṁ
sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]*

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

"We must be particular with the object of life, not so much conscious of the activity. The object of our life will be more; more attention to the object, and less importance to the form of activity. Whether I'm a kṣatriya, I'm a king, or I'm a brāhmaṇa, or I'm a śūdra, does not matter. I have got this sort of duty, I have got this sort of duty, I have got this sort of duty. That does not matter very much. We must have no attachment for that. The king leaving his kingdom, may take to brāhmaṇaic, vānaprastha, tyāga, tapasya, japa. Śūdra leaving his occupation he may be a beggar and taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa. The brāhmaṇa he may give up his yajña, this fire sacrifice, etc, and he may be a beggar, or anywhere, if he gets any good company. So we are to be particular for the aim and non-particular to the form of his duty. Sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja. Wherever exclusively devote oneself for the cause, ignoring his present paraphernalia, and duty.”

Mahāprabhu said, “Eho bāhya, āge kaha āra. This is also superficial, go ahead, deeper.” Then jñāna miśrā bhakti.

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām

[“The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema-bhakti) unto Me.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54]

Now he has come to the stage of identifying himself with spirit above matter. He’s a soul with nothing to do with this mundane world, so any loss or gain in this mundane world is of no use to him. He’s spirit and his prospect in the spiritual world, in the world of soul, the world of consciousness, and nothing to do with this material world, whether it is laudable or blameable. Brahma-bhūtaḥ, he has already established, settled, in the consciousness that he’s soul proper, and nothing to do with matter, brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, so some sort of satisfaction he feels within, ātmārāmā.

ātmārāmāś ca munayo, [nirgranthā apy urukrame kurvanty ahaitukīṁ bhaktim, ittham-bhūta guṇo hariḥ]

[“Those sages who, being merged in the bliss of the spirit soul, are totally free from the binding knot of mental images - they too engage in the unmotivated service of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the performer of marvellous deeds. This is but one of the qualities of the Supreme Lord Hari, who charms the entire world.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.7.10]

He's content, self contented. Na śocati na kāṅkṣati. Neither to mourn, nor to aspire. Something gone so mourning? No, this is nothing, matter. Something coming, not cheerful, because it is matter, unnecessary and unessential. Mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām. True bhakti, true types of bhakti, that is spiritual devotion, sevā, service. Serving attitude now gets the pure character. It is in the spiritual plane, not mixed with mundane aspiration. Mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām, bhaktiṁ labhate. Higher type of service now he comes to, he gets the opportunity to do, to practice, mad bhaktiṁ.”

“Eho bāhya, āge kaha āra. This is also superficial. He's on the verge. He has not some substantial touch. He has not entered the domain, but he's just waiting in the marginal position, at the door. He may get, but he has not got. His indirect forces, negative forces are finished, but still he's at the door. He has not entered. He may get, may not get also. Mad-bhaktiṁ, mad parām bhaktiṁ labhate. Not mundane, but from here if he gets anything he will get pure; but he will have to get. He's at the door.”

Then he says, Rāmānanda Rāya,

jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā namanta eva, jīvanti san-mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vān-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām

[“Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes (kathā), which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

A difficult thing, to cross the charm of knowledge. It is a very difficult thing, that I shall know, I want to understand, and then I shall do. The calculation, and the suspect, underlying suspicion is there. What I shall do, I want to know it fully. Then I shall get out with my capital. Jñāne prayāsam udapāśya. I want to know. The ego, the “I” is very strong, and he wants to have the account of loss and gain. He’s the master. The key is in his hands, he has kept the key in his hands.

“I want to test, I want to know. My benefit I know well.”

So he’s the master, not the servant. From the position of a master he’s making inquiry. Jñāne prayāsam udapāśya. If you at all want to enter into the domain, everything is superior to you. None will care to come to you with some explanation that you are their master, so they must give explanation to you.

“Yes your gain, no loss, your gain is this. You are a separate entity. In your account there must not be any loss. You are an independent personality, independent entity. You stand with your head erect”

Jñāne prayāsam. That won’t do. You are to go to be a slave, not a master hand. So that sort of mentality is necessary. You must bow down your head. Not that with your head erect you will march over. Everything there is superior in quality than you are. So, you are to enter into that land, that plane.

vaikuṇṭhara pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya [māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya]

Even the earth, the water, whatever is there, whatever you’ll find, they’re of higher materials than you yourself are of. All Guru, and you are disciple. All master, you are servant. You are going to enter the land what is all master. So, namanta eva, you will have to submit. That will be your real qualification. What will be ordered to you, you are to do that. Not to exercise your brain so much there. Brain has no room. They are all more brainy than you. So, no brain is necessary, only hand is necessary. Menial labour is necessary there. Brain there is enough.

So you are to enter that land if you like. A land of slavery to you. So jñāne prayāsam udapāśya, ud- apāśya, hatefully you are to dismiss your brain, and taking only your heart you are to approach, enter that land.

Udapāśya, namanta eva. I have come here, all masters, all godly, I am only like a mosquito. That Brahmā in Dvārakā. Namanta eva, jīvanti. And not only for the time being; that for the time being you will accept that attitude and you will finish your work you will come back. No. From here your life will be such continuously. Eternal life you will have to accept such.

Jīvanti san-mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām. Of course you may expect to be educated about this line, how it is good, how it is great, how it is useful to you. You will be allowed paripraśna, honest inquiry. San-mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām. They’re your friends. They’ll come to help you, to make you understand that this is beautiful, this is good, this is the best form of life. The friends will come. They are sympathetic, not non-sympathetic, bhavadīya-vārtām.

Sthāne sthitāḥ, if your aspiration is such, your want, your demand is such, your external position is negligible. That is not to be given more value, but your aspiration, your hankering, the purity of your purpose, that has got real consideration here, not your present position. The recruitment from that side will consider the purity of your purpose, not your present position in the capacity so much.

Bhavadīya-vārtām, sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatām tanu-vān-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām. Apparently it seems that you are going to be a slave, but the object, the result is opposite. Ajita-jita, if you can accept such an attitude of surrender and slavery, that Ajita who can never be conquered, He is conquered in this process. The friends will come and say to you, the sādhus, san- mukharitām bhavadīya-vārtām. They will come and make you understand, “You become a slave.” But He likes very much His slaves. He’s master of slaves, He sometimes wants to become slave to His slave. This is the key to success. The highest gain we can get through this path. This attitude. Ajita, Who can never be conquered, never be achieved, He becomes jita, He becomes conquered through this process.”

Mahāprabhu told, “Yes, it is. Ajita is being jita. By surrendering we capture. It is a plane, I admit, it is the plane of love divine, that by giving we can get. As much as we risk, to give ourselves, so much highly we can have demand on that unconquerable infinite.” Mahāprabhu said, “I accept that here it begins, śuddha bhakti.” Then, āge kaha āra, [go further].

Then this really śuddha bhakti, it develops in a crude form, general way, then more developed it must take the shape of śanta, dāsya, sākhyā, vātsalya, mādhyā. Then came śanta rasa. First nistha, this is śanta rasa, such adherence, such type of adherence, nistha. I cannot withdraw me from such consciousness and submissive attitude towards the truth. The nistha, continuous submission, and forever.

Śanta rasa, that develops into dāsyā rasa, wanting to do some service. Not only sitting, showing my loyalty to the authority, but I want to be utilized by them, awaiting their order, they may give me some engagement, I may consider myself fortunate. Such deep entrance, want to be utilized anyway, dāsyā rasa.

Then sākhya. Dāsyā, this developed, and the confidence added to the servitors, confidence, then it comes little superior. Servant, but confidential, as generally with old servants, they are faithful. Confidential stage is added to the service, then it becomes sākhya rasa. Dāsyā, sākhya, first nistha adherence, submission, then, to be utilized for His satisfaction, then confidential utilization, then it comes to friendly service, sākhya rasa.

In Vaikuṇṭha, in calculative devotion, dedication only śanta, dāsyā, and half of sākhya, is seen in Vaikuṇṭha, where the Lord is Nārāyaṇa. Not full confidence is possible there. Awe, reverence, grandeur, splendour, pomp, apprehension, and all these vanish due to more confidence. The object of our worship, or love, also changes in another way.

Then from Vaikuṇṭha we feel attraction for something like Ayodhyā, Rāmacandra, where dāsyā, śanta, dāsyā, and sākhya with Vibhisana and Sugriva, the sākhya rasa, and also vātsalya rasa. Vātsalya rasa, the confidence is developed to a peculiar position where the servitors they think themselves promoted to such a plane or position that they want to take care of the object of their veneration very strongly. The filial service, filial affection, that is also service, though apparently it seems that they're master of the situation, and they're controlling the boy and sometimes chastising, sometimes giving punishment. But it is superficially if we can enter into the depth of that service, we shall find that it is all incomparable love interest. For the interest of their object of veneration, object of love, that is a peculiar type. The punishment and the rebuke are also seen on the surface superficially, but underground, full of interest for the welfare of the object of their service, so much. It is a peculiar type, vātsalya. And vātsalya a very light type we see in Ayodhyā, so it is ignored almost.

[“The holy place known as Mathurā is spiritually superior to Vaikuṇṭha, the transcendental world, because the Lord appeared there. Superior to Mathurā-purī is the transcendental forest of Vṛndāvana because of Kṛṣṇa’s rāsa-līlā pastimes. And superior to the forest of Vṛndāvana is Govardhana Hill, for it was raised by the divine hand of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and was the site of His various loving pastimes. And, above all, the super-excellent Śrī Rādhā-kuṇḍa stands supreme, for it is over-flooded with the ambrosial nectarean prema of the Lord of Gokula, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Where, then, is that intelligent person who is unwilling to serve this divine Rādhā-kuṇḍa, which is situated at the foot of Govardhana Hill?”] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 9]

Rūpa Goswāmī took his leap from Vaikuṇṭha, in one stride to Mathurā. It is here that everything is available in a very clear and substantial way. So madhu-purī, to Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. From Vaikuṇṭha, by one stride he has come to Kṛṣṇa conception.

But Sanātana Goswāmī has filled up the gap, that on the way there is Ayodhyā, and there we find vātsalya, sākhya, vātsalya.

But Rūpa Goswāmī goes to Mathurā at once. Here you come and it is well traceable, sākhya, vātsalya, you will find. So, he has shown how sākhya rasa service there.

He’s playing, you know, playing with Him. Sometimes climbing over His shoulder, sometimes giving a slap perhaps. In this way they’re mixing with Him. That they can do. But the heart is full of service of a peculiar type. That is the criterion. Perhaps they may give up their life a thousand times to take a thorn out of His sole. A thousand times they can sacrifice them for the slight satisfaction of their friend. In that way we shall come to honour them. If you consider them as thousand times more valuable than their own life. In this way.

In vātsalya rasa also, the criterion should be from that side, that for the slight interest of the object of their veneration, they can give their life crores of times or so. So much affection is there.

And then from vātsalya it goes to mādhurya rasa, the all-comprehensive rasa, which includes śanta, nistha, dāsyā, the service also, the friendly confidant, and the vātsalya rasa to feed and to look after, to take care, as if the object of veneration, object of our service may not know how to go on. We have to make arrangements for His interests in all respects. But sometimes when difference comes, sometimes stricture also. All these things and the wholesale dedication for His satisfaction by every atom of our existence, the mādhurya rasa, which includes all rasas, and that also untold.

Then again more enhanced when it is couched in the form of parakīya. From the side of the gopīs, they risk everything for the service. And from the side of Kṛṣṇa, two forms, one very rare connection in parakīya, not obligation of anything. It may happen, or may not happen, the union may happen or may not happen. Very rare. So, that is rare, that becomes sweet. And another thing, we are told, just as ordinary feeding is not palatable to Him. He takes food by stealing. When He takes food by stealing, that is more tasteful to Him. This art if we can follow, so that may be applied in the case of the parakīya rasa.

“I’m deceiving the party and I’m getting. I’m stealing the property of someone.” That sort of posing becomes more tasteful to the subjective party.

And for the dedicated party, they risk everything, their good name, their society, their future, and even the dictation of the religious scriptures, the wholesale risk.

One time when we were in Madras, for the temple, the Raja of Jaipur, he gave some money, and I was in Bombay. That was sent to Calcutta, Head Office. Then, five thousand rupees; first instalment one thousand rupees work was done by someone, sending some worker from the centre. Then myself and Mādhava Mahārāja was sent to Madras...

End of 82.05.13.B

82.05.13.C_82.05.14.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... then we got some direction, we heard that the king will come very soon to Madras. So to show him some work and then to get the next instalment we wanted to raise the construction to some extent further when the king may be told that, “Your money has been spent. Now the next instalment is necessary.”

For that, we incurred a debt, actually took a loan. That is, bricks and other things on loan we took and showed construction to some higher level. And we wrote it to Guru Mahārāja, and we had apprehension that Guru Mahārāja will chastise us, “Why have you made loan?”

But instead of that we got appreciation to this effect that, “You have risked your future also in the service of Kṛṣṇa. You have made loan. That means you are to pay off the loan. So you have engaged your future energy also in the service of Kṛṣṇa. You must have to collect money and to pay off the loan.”

So risk, service with risk, the future. The gopīs, they consciously lost their future, risked their future. “Naraka, it may be, we do not obey our superior persons and the directions of the Vedas. We’re in immoral connection. Whatever we do is not approved by the society, nor we are told by the religious books, so our future is dark.” Still, they could not but serve

*vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī tatrāpi rāsotsavād vṛndāraṇyam udāra-

[“The holy place known as Mathurā is spiritually superior to Vaikuṇṭha, the transcendental world, because the Lord appeared there. Where, then, is that intelligent person who is unwilling to serve this divine Rādhā-kunḍa, which is situated at the foot of Govardhana Hill?”][Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 9]

Janito means vātsalya-rasa, then mādhurya-rasa in Vṛndāvana. Rādhā-kunḍam ihāpi gokula-pateḥ premāmṛtāplāvanāt, in mādhurya-rasa also three groups shown. One Vṛndāvana in general, then selected group in Govardhana, and the highest group in Rādhā-kunḍa. All these things have been shown in Rāya Rāmānanda and Mahāprabhu.

Eho bāhya āge kaha āra [Madhya-līlā, 8.59]

Sākhya rasa, uttama āge kaha āra, vātsalya rasa, sarva-sādhya-sāra
[Madhya-līlā, 8.74]

Eho uttama āge kaha āra, mādhurya rasa, eho sadvottam, kichu āge āra
[Madhya-līlā, 8.76]

Then the type of service rendered by Rādhārāṇī in mādhurya-rasa, eho sadvottam, categorically different. Rādhām ādhāya hṛdaye tatyāja vraja sundariḥ. “The whole group can be cancelled only for one person.” [Gītā Govinda, 3.1]

[kaṁsārir api saṁsāra-, vāsanā-baddha-śṛṅkhalām rādhām ādhāya hṛdaye, tatyāja vraja-sundarīḥ]

[“ ‘Lord Kṛṣṇa, the enemy of Kaṁsa, took Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī within His heart, for He desired to dance with Her. Thus He left the arena of the rāsa dance and the company of all the other beautiful damsels of Vraja.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.106]

How peculiar type of service may come from there. And Svayaṁ-rūpa only by the side of Rādhārāṇī, only the very Kṛṣṇa in the very spot, in that very play. But in the side of the other gopīs that is prakāśa, prābhava-prakāśa not Svayaṁ-rūpa.

In this sort, but we are in such a low position and big things we are pronouncing. That does not look well. So showing our highest reverence to this highest idea we should stop the Rāmānanda-saṁvāda.

Then the last thing came: “Can you think anything more than this?”

Then Rāmānanda came: “You asked me to quote scripture whatever I shall say. But here I won’t be able to quote scripture from anywhere. But I have got a new feeling in me and if You like to know that I can give it to

You.”

[“Alas, before We met there was an initial attachment between Us brought about by an exchange of glances. In this way attachment evolved. That attachment has gradually begun to grow, and there is no limit to it. Now, that attachment has become a natural sequence between Ourselves. It is not that it is due to Kṛṣṇa, the enjoyer, nor is it due to Me, for I am the enjoyed. It is not like that. This attachment was made possible by mutual meeting. This mutual exchange of attraction is known as manobhāva, or Cupid. Kṛṣṇa’s mind and My mind have merged together. Now, during this time of separation, it is very difficult to explain these loving affairs. My dear friend, Kṛṣṇa might have forgotten all these things. However, you can understand and bring this message to Him, but during Our first meeting there was no messenger between Us, nor did I request anyone to see Him. Indeed, Cupid’s five arrows were Our via media. Now, during this separation, that attraction has increased to another ecstatic state. My dear friend, please act as a messenger on My behalf because if one is in love with a beautiful person, this is the consequence.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8. 194]

In this way, one song prepared by Rāmānanda himself, he came out with this. “Whether it will be pleasing, it will be tasteful to You I do not know. But I think in my mind that there is a stage which is better than this, this Rādhā-Govinda līlā, it seems to me. Where Both combined, the Positive, Negative, combined, mixed, no individual consciousness clear. And by combination of that One is searching Another. Forgetfulness of Their own Self. But the searching of the other party is very strong, intense there. This seems to me, the union in separation. They're so intense in Their errand, in Their search, it is so intense that even They have no consciousness whether They have got it or not. Just as Rādhārāṇī's sometimes in prema-vaicittya, just Kṛṣṇa is there on Her front, "If I lose Him," that feeling is so much that as if She has lost Him, prema-vaicittya. They're together but the apprehension that One may lose the Other makes the position intolerably painful.

Aniṣṭā-saṅkīni bandhu-hṛdayāni bhavanti hi, the mere relatives they're always alert, "Whether my son has got any accident." The mother thinks: "Oh, my son is out, is he in the accident?" Aniṣṭā- saṅkīni, that is the symptom of the deep love. Wherever anything: "Oh, my interest is hampered or not?"

So in this way, and it came to give hint to the Avatāra of Mahāprabhu, Both combined and as if unconscious of Their separate existence and One is searching Another, combined, ātmānusandhāna, kṛṣṇānusandhāna. Kṛṣṇa Himself is overflowed by the feelings of Rādhārāṇī. So deep embracing from both sides and One is lost in the Other."

And Mahāprabhu put His thumb on the mouth of Rāmānanda Rāya. "No further, no further. Rasa- rāja, mahābhāva-dui eka rūpa."

Then after this Rāmānanda told:

pahile dekhilun tomāra sannyaṣi-svarūpa, ebe tomā dekhi muṇi śyāma-gopa-rūpa tomāra sammukhe dekhi kāñcana-pañcālikā, tānra gaura-kāntye tomāra sarva aṅga dhākā

"You sannyāsī, Mahāprabhu, one problem I have faced just now. First I saw You as a sannyāsī, a respectable, beautiful young sannyāsī. But now I see You as Kṛṣṇa Himself, śyāma-gopa-rūpa, that Śyāmasundara in the garb of the gopa kumāra. And also I see something else. Another golden doll on Your side and Her lustre, the golden lustre has covered You. Pahile dekhilun tomāra sannyāsi- svarūpa, but śyāma-gopa-rūpa, tomāra sammukhe dekhi kāñcana-pañcālikā, a golden girl figure statue has showed that golden lustre has covered You. Tāñra gaura-kāntyē tomāra sarva aṅga ḍhākā, now what's the event? "Oh, you are cent per cent devotee so wherever you cast your glance you only see Kṛṣṇa and nothing else. You see Them, the object of your interest is represented everywhere you cast your glance."

“My Lord, don’t deceive me in such a way. When You have come here so graciously to purify this mean person, then now You play with diplomacy it does not look well. I won’t hear what You say. But come out with Your real position Who You are with Your real nature, come out. I won’t be deceived in such a way. I am not a man of such type. You can’t deceive me. Please come out with Your true acquaintance as You are.”

Then Mahāprabhu said: lilo kahi para bhakti bara para [?]

“By the dint of your loving devotion you can know everything in this world. Nothing can be concealed from your loving premāñjana-cchurita-bhakti-vilocanena, to your loving eye, nothing can be concealed.”

Then Mahāprabhu came out:

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8. 287]

“What you see Me externally to be of yellow, golden colour, it is not so. It is by the touch of the colour of Rādhārāṇī. And whom Rādhārāṇī can touch, and closely accept? Gopendra-suta vinā tenho nā sparśe anya-jana, She will never come to touch or welcome only by accept that govendra-suta, govendra-nandam. So now you understand who I am. Gopendra-suta vina tenho na sparse anya-jana . Rasa-rāja, mahābhāva- dui eka rūpa.

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8. 282]

Rasa-rāja, that ecstasy Himself, and Mahābhāva, Who can appreciate, Who can feel, taste that highest rasa. Dui eka rūpa, see how They mingle together.”

[“Upon seeing this form, Rāmānanda Rāya almost lost consciousness in transcendental bliss.

Unable to remain standing, he fell to the ground.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8. 283] Rāmānanda fell flat on the floor, could not keep up his senses.

Then by the touch of His hand Mahāprabhu again brought him to his senses, sannyāsīra veṣa dekhi' vismita haila mana, then Rāmānanda came to such stage of consciousness as previously he saw that the sannyāsī is sitting just before him.

Then after a little pause Mahāprabhu said: "I shall go now, you remain, I'm going." Then afterwards some other talks and Mahāprabhu told that, "As long as I live I want your company."

Rāmānanda also told: "Yes, I must go to Your divine feet to live for the rest of my life."

Then Rāmānanda made arrangements with the king and came to Purī. And Mahāprabhu, for almost two years He wandered about the holy places of Southern India and the Western India and He came to Purī and gradually They met.

And after this, Mahāprabhu went to Vṛndāvana through Bengal. Six years passed, and Advaita Prabhu almost gave leave to Mahāprabhu: "All līlā finished, the first part, the Nāma-saṅkīrtana." Then this 'Rādhārāṇī's tasting' about Kṛṣṇa prema, that remained, for twelve years it continued. And Svarūpa Dāmodara who is Lalitā, and Rāmānanda Rāya who is Viśākhā, they were the most important company of Mahāprabhu for twelve years. And there are so many things about the deep feelings in the divine love has been given out which was never found in the history of the world. How intense love can produce corresponding things on the surface, that was shown by Rādhārāṇī, and later shown by Mahāprabhu, which is never even expressed in any scripture. That was shown, the intensity of Kṛṣṇa prema, how it can produce in the effect in this mundane world to our view, wonderful, astounding things. In these two places only. The mādhurya-rasa in its acme is Rādhārāṇī. Here also Rādhārāṇī, there also Rādhārāṇī.

gahila bahila dandi satta bara diti utavisay [?]

So many symptoms, within a minute, coming in a room and going out, coming, going, coming, going, restlessness. And taking seat, standing, taking seat, standing, restlessness. How the heart is captured by something charming. These things, many things which are inconceivable, many things were shown, that how intense, and how peculiar, and how purifying, how risky, all these things. It is possible.

That Dr Dina Sen [?] an ordinary scholar, he wrote: “That in Indian religious history there are so many chaste ladies example, ideal.” That Satī, who could not tolerate the abuse by the father (Dakṣa) to her husband (Śiva), she left her life immediately. Sāvitṛī, who by her pure penances brought back her dead husband (Satyavān) back to life. Then Ramayanti (?), then so many, Kuntī, Draupadī, so many ladies, their pure life. But Dina Sen says: “When, by the door of Brahma-vaivarta-Purāṇa, Rādhārāṇī’s ideal entered into the religious literature all other ideals became pale, all became pale.”

So intensified affinity towards the loving service of so much intensity can never be imagined. And that is possible. That is not only poetry. It was shown by Mahāprabhu in His practices also, how the Kṛṣṇa prema can play a man like a doll. And sometimes His legs and hands entered into His body. Inconceivable all these things. And the joints are disconnected and He would appear as a man of longer type, as only the skin and nerves were perhaps connected but dislocated and of longer type. And there were many things. Sometimes His whole body is white, no sense, only very slowly the breath is coming, or not coming, cannot be traced. In this way so many things unconsciously.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...appreciated Him formally, but now, I cannot but appreciate Śrī Caitanyadeva. We thought that Śrī Caitanyadeva was the downfall of Orissa empire. But there was a custom in Orissa of human sacrifice, young men, in almost every temple that bad custom. Only by the influence of Śrī Caitanyadeva Orissa has been absolved from that bad practice. But one objection: why do you confine Him in Bengal? Gauḍīya, what is this? Caitanya, you say, Gaur, you say, Nimāi, you say. But Gaur means Bengal and Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, what is this? To confine Him only in a province, Gauḍīya Maṭha, Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava dharma. I can't adjust here.

Devotee: What should be the answer to that Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is generally given...

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: so Vṛndāvana does not mean a particular province, or a particular town, or particular forest. It has got its broad meaning there. So also Navadvīpa and Bengal may be taken into that sense. If we can understand Navadvīpa Dhāma, then Navadvīpa Dhāma is situated in a particular province, it may have such dignity also.

Devotee: Gaura maṇḍala bhūmi is the same as Mathurā maṇḍala.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vraja maṇḍala, śrī gaura maṇḍala bhūmi, Gaura maṇḍala. From the word gour comes the word Gaura, gour means miṣṭi, sweet. Then the sweet plane is sweet. So it may be given the synonym as gour, representing miṣṭi, the sweetness. Gaura maṇḍala, the sweet land, and no sweetness elsewhere other than Vṛndāvana and Navadvīpa. But Vṛndāvana is mostly confined in a particular group but Navadvīpa that sweetness is being distributed. People come to know, “Yes, it is sweet.” They get the chance of appreciation, of tasting, and declaring, “Yes, it is sweet.” But there (in Vṛndāvana), even Lakṣmī cannot purchase a ticket. Lakṣmī Devī, the goddess of wealth, she cannot purchase a ticket to enter into rasa.

Parvat Mahārāja: So this is the actual land of nectar.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: People at least they come to understand that there is nectar, the public, the nectar, due to the public, they can understand. And that is within the harem. But then again, Both combined, Both the highest interested parties combined to give it to them to others. That is unique thing. And Rāmānanda’s highest conception, forgetfulness, the Two became two in Vṛndāvana.

Svarūpa Dāmodara said: “In the eternity that Vṛndāvana is previous and Navadvīpa līlā is after, we can’t say that. Combined sometimes, sometimes separated. When separated They’re doing this Dvāparā, and in Kali They’re combined doing this, Both eternal.” No summer, no winter, no rainy season can be said that to be the beginning, here’s the beginning. So it is eternally in a cyclic order. So Svarūpa Dāmodara said: caitanyākhyam prakṛtam adhunā tad-dvayam caikyam āptam . Rādhā-bhāva- dyuti-suvalitam naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam .

rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau caitanyākhyam prakāṣam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam

[“I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the Predominating and Predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord’s internal pleasure-giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.5]

In ancient times They divided Themselves for particular līlā but They’re One, ekātmānāv, api bhuvi purā in some ancient time They divided Themselves and showed Their pastimes. Deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau, caitanyākhyam prakāṣam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ, again Both of Them are combined. Rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam, the Potency and the owner of the Potency very closely embraced.

Rāga nayana-bhaṅge bhela, anudina bāḍhala, avadhi nā gela, nā so ramaṇa, nā hāma ramaṇī,

Not actually, the Predominating and the Predominated tendency is present, mixed. But an extraordinary ecstatic feeling is there. And Kṛṣṇa is overpowered by the Potency and He Himself is searching after something, Him, kṛṣṇasya ātmānusandhana. The influence of Rādhārāṇī over Kṛṣṇa has transformed Kṛṣṇa into a devotee and He’s searching for Himself. Sweetness is tasting itself and becoming mad. Living sweetness, not dead, that is sweetness living, endowed with life, tasting Himself and becoming mad. I refer to Prema Dhāma deva stotram that Mahāprabhu is the ultimate source, what is the proof? He’s tasting Himself and dancing, dancing.

[ātma-siddha-sāva līla-pūrṇa-saukhya-lakṣaṇaṁ svānubhāva-matta-nṛtya-kīrtanātmavantaṁ advayaika-lakṣya-pūrṇa-tattva-tat-parātparam prema-dhāma-devam-eva naumi gaura-sundaram]

[“The highest conception of the Absolute Truth must also be the highest form of ānanda, ecstasy. Mahāprabhu’s dancing indicates that He is full of ecstasy, and His kīrtana is distribution of that rasa. So, if we scientifically search out who Mahāprabhu is, we cannot but find that He is the Ultimate Reality. He is mad in tasting His Own internal nectar, and His dancing is the outcome of His transcendental ecstasy. And He is chanting, distributing that to others. So, studying quite closely the character of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, we cannot but think that He is the Supreme Absolute Truth, in Its fullest, and most dynamic expression.”]
[Prema Dhāma deva stotram, 66]

Atma tithi atmanusad sahajana vivarjana prayojana. He’s tasting Himself and dancing, saukhyam, the happiness, or ecstasy, or ānandam, or beauty, or whatever it may be, He’s tasting Himself, feeling Himself and dancing in madness. Too much ecstatic joy, feeling. And kīrtana, that is distributing that ecstasy to others. The ultimate sweetness, ānandam, that no other thing He will taste, eat, and will express His happiness. He’s tasting Himself and that makes Him dance atma tithi. And when kīrtana, that is Self-distribution. So the Absolute must have this sign, artha tithi and artha nama. Sahajana vivarjana prayojana avatara. Not static but dynamic, sāva līla, dynamic ecstasy, what symptom it must possess? It is seen in Mahāprabhu, the dynamic ecstasy. He’s feeling Himself and distributing Himself to outside. So that is found in Mahāprabhu by kīrtana and by dancing. Dancing in the internal satisfaction and kīrtana to distribute it to others, main thing.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, once you told about the form of Lord Jagannātha, that how He got this form and why. Baladeva and Subhadra also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Dwārakā līlā it occurred.

Devotee: Would you please tell us about that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We are told that once, there was a general conception in Dwārakā, especially amongst the queens. “That we get Kṛṣṇa but absent minded. Not full Kṛṣṇa we get.” Some sort of general feeling amongst them. Then they came to know that He has some previous very sweet connection with Vṛndāvana and the gopīs also, they heard something. Then they were searching for some opportunity to know how He was living in Vṛndāvana with the gopīs, whether we may have any clue, any description of that sort of pastimes of Him in His childhood.

Then once, Rohinī was there, she had experience of Vṛndāvana. And she, although in vātsalya-rasa, heard many things about Kṛṣṇa līlā with the gopīs. And Rohinī and some other, anyhow, meeting her privately the queens requested Rohinī: “Please describe, relate about Kṛṣṇa’s mādhurya-līlā in Vṛndāvana. You know all these things.”

And Rohinī she could not avoid and she began talking at noon-time or something. And Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma were taking rest nearby. So when Rohinī was describing Vṛndāvana līlā, Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma anyhow They came to know that...

End of 82.05.13.C_82.05.14.A

82.05.14.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...being related, thinking of that Vṛndāvana, and They're feeling the gopīs, all these things, there began some great change in the feeling of Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma, and also in Their body. Just as Mahāprabhu showed, sometimes He fell, He's seen falling at the gate of Jagannātha; His hands and legs entered into His body. So such physical change is possible according to some particular feeling of ecstasy. And They were undergoing such transformation, Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma, and perhaps Subhadrā was there, and seeing Them in that way, She also had some sort of sympathetic transformation, internally that feeling came, and externally, She was also transformed.

Devotee: Was Subhadrā also in Vṛndāvana, Mahārāja, with Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No.

Devotee: She was born in Mathurā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From Mathurā, Dvārakā, maybe.

Devotee: Was it due to their inability that Kṛṣṇa of Dvārakā could not really become the Kṛṣṇa of Vṛndāvana, Vraja-nandana?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inability? For the cause of such disfigure?

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't remember that. But anyhow, the Vṛndāvana statement, that was going on, and They were feeling that somewhat, They were remembering that Vṛndāvana līlā, and such a change came in Their body. And it was they perhaps in any way, this Rohiṇī group, they could trace that They're in there, awake, and suddenly stopped. And They were there, that formation remained.

Then again, I can't remember it systematically, then again They got unconscious and there was Kṛṣṇa in Nava Vṛndāvana, or some Vṛndāvana. There in Dvārakā, Brahmā created for Them. And Kṛṣṇa, though He was awake, but He could not come out from that sort of mentality, that trance. So He was managed to be taken to that Vṛndāvana, and there He saw in His trance that Baladeva was only there, and others eliminated. He saw Baladeva, 'then it is Vṛndāvana.' And Rohiṇī perhaps might have been taken there, and all dolls there. And going there He found that, 'I am in Vṛndāvana, so.'

And the queens they're following from the distance to see what things, how things occur. Kṛṣṇa went and found that Baladeva is there, and Śrīdham, Sudama they're also there. In another part the gopīs are there. And in one part there is Rādhārāṇī standing, and She welcomed. He embraced Rādhārāṇī. At that time Satyabhāmā she was standing far off, and some figure, appearance came in her. Anyhow, when He's in that temperament, then Baladeva went there, and then Rohiṇī. Anyhow, gradually in slow process He was taken in. Here the abrupt stopping caused such thing. And then gradual process His mentality again taken to Dvārakā. This sort of tale is there. And that Dvārakā and Vṛndāvana mixed in Jagannātha. Mainly in Dvārakā, but there the posing of Vṛndāvana also present there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Infinite forms of līlā. What we can trace, or know? But something like that. That is satisfaction. In Garga saṁhitā also we find that in Dvārakā there was arrangement of rasa līlā. The queens, they heard that in Vṛndāvana there was rasa līlā, that is wonderful thing. And when on some occasion the whole Vṛndāvana party was invited there, then privately, the queens came to Kṛṣṇa and requested Him that, “The gopīs are come, if You kindly show the rasa līlā to us, this is our earnest desire, from long time.”

Then Kṛṣṇa told, “The gopīs are there. I have no objection if they’re ready.”

Then they came to request the gopīs, and anyhow they gave their consent, and the rasa līlā was arranged. And when it was performed they were all visitors. After it was finished they were astonished and came to the camp of the gopīs to express, “What we have seen it is most wonderful. We can’t conceive even all these things.”

Then there is a statement of Rādhārāṇī. “What have we seen? This is nothing. This is nothing. This is a dead representation almost. Where is that Yamunā? Where is that [?] kadamba vṛkṣa, that Mayo, that Hari, all these things? There, that is a natural stage, and that was performed there in our young age. This is nothing, a mockery, what you have expressed.”

Then they said, “Oh, if this is of such a lower order, then of how superior quality of līlā was there, I can’t conceive in this way.”

So, Vṛndāvana it might psychological thing. This sudden attraction for Vṛndāvana līlā, that rasa, when that was again suddenly stopped, some change in the physical plane. Though not physical, but so to say, it might have disfigured the external plane. When there is this earthquake, the internal movement disfigures the surface, something like that. The internal disturbance that was created suddenly by the recollection of Vṛndāvana līlā, that created a great disaster in the superficial appearance, and that was stopped, and that in standstill, and that has been pictured and shown in Jagannātha. In Dvārakā and Vṛndāvana, the distinction; sudden stop of the tasting of Vṛndāvana līlā, causes such disaster in the prime God. Sudden stop. So, the higher prospect if suddenly stopped, then the reaction comes. So it is a reactionary stage of Dvārakā and Vṛndāvana, Vraja maṇḍala. Svayaṁ- Bhagavān, Svayaṁ- Prakāśa and Prabhāva-Vilāsa, Vaibhava-Vilāsa of Kṛṣṇa. Rasābhāsa, something like that. In higher ecstasy also, rasābhāsa is possible. The clash into the different rasa, the clash in different waves. Different waves of different rasa, and the sudden clash. One thing is going in a motion, train is going, car is going, if suddenly there is a check, brake, then there is a disorder in the carriage, or the car, something like that. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Posing, in different type of posing.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Ādau yad dvāro 'plavate, sindhuḥ pārer apauruṣaṁ [Garga saṁhitā]

They say that Jagannātha Mūrti it is there from the very conception, from the most ancient times.

So every līlā of the Lord is eternal. Every part of the Infinite is eternal.

I was told, in Mahābhārata, just in the beginning there is Dhṛtarāṣṭra līlā, where Dhṛtarāṣṭra is wailing, so many incidents. “I knew that there will be defeat of my party. I knew, when this incident happened, when this incident took place, I was disappointed then.”

The main incidents of Mahābhārata is mentioned there. He was told that is in the very beginning of Mahābhārata.

Then he asked the paṇḍita, “Why, how in the very beginning of Mahābhārata, it can be?” He told that, “This is nitya, eternal.”

So the end and the beginning, end of the līlā and the beginning of the līlā, it cannot be differentiated extremely. It is in cyclic order. That is a very difficult thing to understand, to adjust. Eternal. Everywhere beginning, everywhere end.

In Māyā’s Essay, “Everywhere there is centre, nowhere circumference.”

Infinite means nowhere circumference, and everywhere there is centre. So everywhere beginning, everywhere nitya līlā. And all coexistent at the same time. Every līlā is co-existent.

Kavirāja Goswāmī has represented in a particular way, that morning, every time there is morning, now here, now there; in this way. So, like sun it is moving, Kṛṣṇa līlā, the childhood, the birth here, then next it is extended to another brahmāṇḍa. It is there. Every līlā another brahmāṇḍa.

[aiche kṛṣṇera līlā-maṇḍala caudda-manvantare] brahmāṇḍa-maṇḍala vyāpi’ krame krame phire

[“Just as there is an orbit of the sun, there is an orbit of Kṛṣṇa’s pastimes, which are manifested one after the other. During the lifetime of fourteen Manus, this orbit expands through all the universes, and gradually it returns. Thus Kṛṣṇa moves with His pastimes through all the universes, one after another.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.391]

Just like sun. But that is in one aspect; another aspect. In Goloka also it is nitya, every līlā is nitya. That is reflected here in reflection is revolving, so the morning, the sunrise may be traced now here, then here, then here, in this way it is, but it is always present sun ray, and sunset is always present. Here or there, question of space. But in Goloka, in the central place it is all there. In the heart of the devotees, when the devotee remembers about a līlā, he’s now remembering Vraja līlā, now remembering Dvārakā līlā. But it is not true what is reflected in the heart of a devotee? That is also true. In this way it is coexistent and it is continuing always. Every part of līlā is being always present, coexistent. Succession and coexistence; both harmonized. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, is Guru paramparā also līlā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course, it is a līlā of Kṛṣṇa; māyā, everything included in līlā, from His standpoint. His sweet will. His independence withdrawn, not complaint.

Mayā tatam idaṁ sarvaṁ [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.4] “Everything in me, nothing in Me. I am everywhere, I am nowhere.”

If we come within this, everything will come within this conception.

So He can interfere with the free will of jīva, and He does not do. That is also there. He’s within, He can control, He may not control. This sort of conception we shall have to indent.

Mahāprabhu says that here's the difference from this Hegelian Philosophy, and Aurovinda. The māyā is not a necessary part. By Kṛṣṇa's will māyā may be finished, and again may be created.

koṭi-kāmadhenu-patira chāgi yaiche mare, ṣaḍ-aiśvarya-pati kṛṣṇera māyā kibā kare?

[“If a person possessing millions of wish-fulfilling cows loses one she-goat, he does not consider the loss. Kṛṣṇa owns all six opulences in full. If the entire material energy is destroyed, what does He lose?”]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 15.179]

He can make or mar. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written perhaps in Tattva-sūtra, that by His will even the existence of jīva soul may be finished, effaced. But generally that is not the case, but the Absolute Power is with Him. Designed and destined. The expression that svarūpa-śakti is there; of course in that we can't say that God can commit suicide. That is inconsistency in our thought; but still, independence He enjoys fully. And He commits suicide in Brahmaloka, in deep slumber.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, sometimes you describe that Kṛṣṇa's līlās are flowing in ten different directions.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

kṛṣṇa-līlā amṛta-sara, tāra śata śata dhara, daśa-dike vahe yāhā haite, se caitanya-līlā haya, sarovara akṣaya, mano-haṁsa carāha' tahate

[“There is no doubt that we find the highest nectarine taste of rasa in Kṛṣṇa līlā. But what is Gaura līlā? In Gaura līlā, the nectar of Kṛṣṇa līlā is not confined to a limited circle, but is being distributed on all sides. It is just as if from all ten sides of the nectarine lake of Kṛṣṇa līlā hundreds of streams are flowing.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 25.271]

bhakta-gaṇa, śuna mora dainya-vacana [tomā-sabāra pada-dhūli, aṅge vibhūṣaṇa kari', kichu muṇi karoṇ nivedana]

[“With all humility, I submit myself to the lotus feet of all of you devotees, taking the dust from your feet as my bodily ornaments. Now, my dear devotees, please hear one thing more from me.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 25.272]

Infinite sweetness. Caitanya līlā means from Caitanya. Whatever is within, whatever is coming from Him, all high nectar of Kṛṣṇa līlā, nothing else. Caitanya līlā means the centre from which Kṛṣṇa līlā in different forms oozing from all sides, oozing from every pore. Nothing but Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa līlā, or Vraja līlā combined there, śata śata, coming out for the public, coming out to help the public. Kṛṣṇa līlā is distributing, voluntary distribution of Kṛṣṇa līlā of different nectarine tastes coming from the stand, that is Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu has got no separate existence. But that līlā, nāma, rūpa, guṇa, līlā, of Kṛṣṇa, Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa, Rādhā, or Yaśodā, all these all relative, if one is there the others must be there. All correlative system. So Kṛṣṇa līlā means Kṛṣṇa with His group. Even the Vṛndāvana, the water, the forest, the animals, the birds, all included Kṛṣṇa līlā, Vraja līlā. And that is coming from Caitanya, nothing else. That is in self distributing nature, Kṛṣṇa, Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, self-distributing nature. Whatever is coming that is all Kṛṣṇa. Even in His childhood, when one could not trace anything of Kṛṣṇa, but it was there. And in different way He was helping to create the background of distributing Kṛṣṇa līlā to others.

Kṛṣṇa-nāma dhare kata bala [From The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 59-61] [And from, Collection of verses quoted by Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, 253]

The sound Kṛṣṇa is over-flooding. Sound Kṛṣṇa, rūpa, Kṛṣṇa. These four specialities of Kṛṣṇa, Rūpa Goswāmī has given. Every jīva has got fifty kinds of qualities. Then, seven selected devatā, they have got fifty five, and little in intense form, those qualities. In Nārāyaṇa we find in full sixty qualities, what is not found in jīva. And in Kṛṣṇa, four more, sixty four. And those four are rūpa mādhyura, then veṇu mādhyura, līlā mādhyura, parikara mādhyura. These four is not found even in Nārāyaṇa. Rūpa Goswāmī has given us to understand the speciality of Kṛṣṇa līlā in this way.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, Vasudeva Kṛṣṇa, sixty two?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is only in Vṛndāvana. Vasudeva Kṛṣṇa has no flute, and not rūpa. Even Dvārakā Kṛṣṇa, He's also charmed to find Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa. It is mentioned, rūpa mādhyura in Vṛndāvana, so rūpa mādhyura. Śabda mādhyura, rūpa, śabda, rūpa, then parikara, Vraja maṇḍala parikara, and līlā. Līlā karora vadi [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, when Vasudeva took Devakī-nandana to Vṛndāvana, then He merged into Nanda- nandana. And when Akrūra was bringing Kṛṣṇa...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then Nanda-nandana gone underground, He disappeared, and, krsno 'nyo yadu sambhuto [yah purnah so 'styatah parah vrndavanam parityajya sa kvacit naiva gacchati]

[The Kṛṣṇa known as Yadu-kumara is Vasudeva Kṛṣṇa. He is different from the Kṛṣṇa who is the son of Nanda Mahārāja. Yadu-kumara manifests His pastimes in the cities of Dvārakā and Mathurā, but Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the son of Nanda Mahārāja never at any time leaves Vṛndāvana, even for a moment.]

[Laghu-Bhāgavatāmṛta, Purva-khanda, 165] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 7.42]

Just to Govinda-nandana, vrndavanam parityajya sa kvacit naiva

gacchati. He can't avoid Vṛndāvana, nitya līlā, but suppressed. Sometimes the gopīs went in dream, or in some such occasion, abruptly, and disappeared. But not for ordinary mundane, this līlā, prapañca līlā.

Devotee: Then when Akrūra was taking Kṛṣṇa to Mathurā, how did that Vasudeva Kṛṣṇa come out?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vasudeva Kṛṣṇa went there to Mathurā.

Devotee: Yes. But They merged together when he brought. How did They separate? [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Merged?

Devotee: Brahmā-kunḍa Mahārāja that when Akrūra went to take the bath [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: After that place Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa went.

Devotee: Yes. And then when he went to take bath in...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Yamunā, then they came back and Vasudeva went away. Vasudeva went to Mathurā and Nanda-nandana went back to Vṛndāvana. Yes, you may say so. But when they are going, and the gopīs are opposing, “I, we won’t allow you to go.” They’re just falling on the front of the chariot. “We can’t allow you to go, leaving us.” A very pathetic scene. But did Kṛṣṇa go, ignoring them up to Akrūra ghāṭ? He was there. He was there.

Once, I heard from Parvat Mahārāja, he asked Prabhupāda, that when after the rasa līlā finished, Kṛṣṇa suddenly found, detected that Rādhārāṇī is not here. Then the charm of rasa līlā vanished, He went away to find where did Rādhārāṇī go. Then after some time He could find Rādhārāṇī, and then He was taking Her alone. And then Rādhārāṇī told that, “I can’t walk any more. If You like to go anywhere, You’ll have to carry Me.” Then, suddenly He disappeared.

Then, Parvat Mahārāja told, “I asked Guru Mahārāja why Kṛṣṇa disappeared, and why Rādhārāṇī _____ [?] and She began to repent, “Why I asked Him to carry Me? Now the reaction He has left Me here.”

Then Parvat Mahārāja asked here, to our Guru Mahārāja, “Why Kṛṣṇa left Rādhārāṇī, dishonoured Her? What’s the cause?”

Our Guru Mahārāja he was very much excited. “What is bhakti here? Any trace of bhakti here you find? You come to ask this question? Do you find any devotion here?” In this way he was chastised. No answer.

So, then I tried to see, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, how he has given interpretation here? I found that Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written here that to enjoy the stage of Rādhārāṇī when She was left alone in the forest, to enjoy that symptoms and sentiments of Rādhārāṇī in that stage, Kṛṣṇa disappeared. And again He came, He appeared. So, for some purpose, for some līlā, He may show that He’s apart, but He cannot go apart. He was there in another form, to watch how Rādhārāṇī behaves in that lonely place when She’s left alone. He was there. So, Kṛṣṇa can’t go anywhere, crossing this fine quality of attraction of such intensity. It is not possible.

So, Prabhupāda's opinion, he's not ready to hear that the slight possibility of dishonour to Rādhārāṇī. They are prejudice, partial to the śakti within the Lalitā section. Going to chastise Kṛṣṇa. Always supporting the cause of Rādhārāṇī, always, continuous support towards Rādhārāṇī. And sometimes if necessary, going to chastise Kṛṣṇa. "You are wrong, You have done wrong. She's all right." This is their spirit. So, Prabhupāda is not ready to hear a slight dishonour concerning Rādhārāṇī. "No bhakti. We won't hear that."

And I also traced once, perhaps Prabhupāda ordered one gentleman to sing this song.

*1 āmi to' svānanda-sukhada-bāsī, [rādhikā-mādhava-caraṇa-dāsī

[1) I am a resident of Svānanda-sukha-kuñja and a maidservant of the lotus feet of Rādhikā and Mādhava.

- 1 At the union of the Divine Couple I rejoice, and in Their separation I die in anguish.

I never look at the place where Candrāvalī and her friends stay.
Whenever I see such a place it reminds me of Candrāvalī's gopī friend Śaibyā.

- 2 I feel pain in my heart when I catch sight of Candrāvalī's girl-friends, for they are opposed to Rādhā.
- 3 Candrāvalī wants to take away Rādhā's Lord Hari, thus covering the grove of Rādhikā with the darkness of gloom.
- 4 I never look at the faces of those who are opposed to Śrī Rādhā and Govinda's joyous union.
- 5 Nor do I find any pleasure in conversing with those who are opposed to Rādhā.

[Bhakti-pratikūla-bhāva Varjanāṅgikāra, renunciation of conduct averse to pure devotion, song 4.] [From Śaraṇāgati by Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's song. There it is mentioned, rādhikā-kuñja āṇdhāra kori, loite cāhe se rādhāra hari. This is my very Śaibyā and the sakhī of Candrāvalī, Śaibyā and Padya. Āmi to' svānanda-sukhada-bāsī. I am in the group of Rādhārāṇī. I can't tolerate the sight of the sakhīs of the other camp. Sakhī-sthalī nāhi heri nayane, dekhile śaibyāke paraye mane. Rādhikā-kuñja āṇdhāra kori. Always they're busy to entice Kṛṣṇa from our camp to their camp, so I can't tolerate."

So I saw Prabhupāda is sitting in a canvas chair, and the song is sung there. The song was sung once and then repeated again. But whenever in the course of that song, this statement came, rādhikā- kuñja āndhāra kori, Prabhupāda got a shock. In this way, his body had a jerk in this way. I noticed it. Again when the song was repeated, he's patiently hearing Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's song, there are so many things very covetable, but whenever that point again came, rādhikā-kuñja āndhāra kori, he had a shock. As if some arrow thrown from that side and he's coming in this way. Can't tolerate. Not ready to tolerate any dishonour in the camp of Rādhārāṇī. They are such trained, or not trained, but eternally they have got such formation of their mind, or sentiment, or whatever it is, can't tolerate. That I found. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is a particular darśana, estimation, that Kṛṣṇa can never go from the relativity of Vṛndāvana. It is impossible for that Kṛṣṇa who is Svayaṁ Bhagavān. Svayaṁ Bhagavān, and Svayaṁ Prakāśa. What to speak; Svayaṁ Bhagavān is only on the side of Rādhārāṇī and when He comes to the side of another gopī He becomes Prabhāva Prakāśa, not Svayaṁ Bhagavān. What to speak of in another place, and other stage. Svayaṁ Bhagavān is only whenever He's in relation with Śrī Rādhikā. Svayaṁ Bhagavān and Svayaṁ Prakāśa. Svayaṁ Bhagavān, Svayaṁ Rūpa; then Prakāśa, Vilāsa. Prabhāva Prakāśa, Vaibhava Prakāśa. Prabhāva Vilāsa, Vaibhava Vilāsa. In this way, it is classified, His līlā and His attitude towards different parties. And that is the fine representation we are to understand. And thereby we can measure what is what. When He comes away from Rādhārāṇī for any other engagement He's no longer Svayaṁ Bhagavān, Svayaṁ Rūpa. What is this?

Hare Kṛṣṇa Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

So the relative position when He's with the sākhya rasa, when He's with Baladeva, sākhya mixed with vātsalya, mainly sākhya, mixed with vātsalya. Nīṭai Gaurāṅga, Kṛṣṇa Balarāma, there Kṛṣṇa is not Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, Svayaṁ Rūpa, there is sākhya, vātsalya. When Subal and Kṛṣṇa tinge of mādhurya and sākhya. And Baladeva vātsalya and sākhya there. When at the side of other gopīs, He does not maintain Svayaṁ Rūpa. This should be. Among His group His attitude is such. One, but the question of His attitude, His feeling, His sentiment, His dealing nature and attitude to be considered. That temperament, the question of temperament.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Then Mahārāja, with Balarāma and Subal and Yaśodā Mayī is not Kṛṣṇa, Svayaṁ Rūpa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some common, no. Vātsalya.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: He is Prakāśa. Only when He's with Radharani it is ...?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Svayaṁ Rūpa. Even amongst the, by the same place, only by the side of Rādhārāṇī Svayaṁ Rūpa, and Svayaṁ Prakāśa, two gopīs, one Kṛṣṇa. In this way, but there He's not Svayaṁ Rūpa, but Svayaṁ Prakāśa. In this way the distribution of His attention in this way. Fullest conception and fullest absorption, extortion, the attraction. The attractive in His fullest form, the attractor also in fullest form, to cope in the same level. According to the attraction, the degree of attraction, the attracted is also present. Intensity. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

[Vāsudeva Gosh has said: “If Mahāprabhu had not appeared then how could we sustain our lives? How could we live? What type of ecstatic rasa has He imbibed that we have been able to have a little taste? Without this our lives would be impossible. Who else could take us to the acme of realisation of the position of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She holds the highest position. She is the greatest victim to the consuming capacity of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. She stands as the greatest sacrifice before Kṛṣṇa’s infinite consuming power. Rasarāja-Mahābhava - the rasa is there, and She is the drawer of that rasa from the storehouse. She has such negative capacity that She can draw out the rasa to the highest degree both in quality and quantity.”]

There is a, Nimāi, Prabodhānanda Sarasvatī, ekta śloka the Sanskrit tika [?]

ko vanadadibhih vṛndāvana līlām rādhā [?]

In this way, as if one is the translation of the other. Vasu Ghosh original in Bengali and Prabodhānanda Sarasvatī in Sanskrit, same, equal.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Mahāprabhu when in His samādhī and falling in the sea, when that kumbha kṛtī in the Jagannātha, and coming back to senses, then He’s giving, relating a description of His experience in the samādhī, and they all pertaining to this mādhurya rasa.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is in Caitanya-caritāmṛta. When He's coming out of the swoon, then He's relating, "I went there, I saw all these things, but you are..."

Kola ha kori amar ke darine [?]

In His deep trance, He had experience of that Vraja līlā, He has expressed that. And they're going to imitate those things, these sahajiyā. They're going to imitate that by their imagination, and mundane mind, imagination, they're going to get touch of that līlā. Even some ordinary scholar told the Kṛṣṇa līlā is aprākṛta, if we can trace it from the description of Caitanya-caritāmṛta. He has described the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, even jala-keli, but in such a way that we cannot take our mind full of lust there. He has kept up the purity of the līlā in His description, when Kṛṣṇa with the sakhīs are going on with play in the tank, in the Yamunā. The transcendental characteristic has been maintained there. So what Mahāprabhu in His deep trance, He could experience, He could see the līlā, He has given out.

That is nitya līlā, and we shall, should be prepared, the higher we are to reach to have experience, slightest experience of that higher and higher pastimes, not any mundane thing. We must be ready to pay for that. And for that only our Guru Mahārāja came. Pūjāla rāgapāṭha. Don't go. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread. That is the highest, mind it. That is the highest, so; step by step; don't omit any step. Then you'll be nowhere. You will be all-mindful to every step and automatically that will take there. Don't try to run very hurriedly, never. Try to keep down, back, and it will forcibly take you there, natural. They will take you there. You can't go there. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyaḥ [Kāṭha Upaniṣad, 1.2.23]. And that is true all the way, yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyaḥ. Your acceptance will come from the higher quarter, and then you should go, and don't try to trespass, then you are gone.

Gaura Hari.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura also he's describing that,

*gāite govinda-nām, upajilo bhāva-grām, dekhilām jamunāra kūle [bṛṣabhānu-sutā-saṅge, śyāma-naṭa-bara raṅge, bāṇśarī bājāya nīpa-

["Upon singing the holy name of Govinda, various ecstasies arose within me. I saw Lord Śyāmasundar, the best of dancing actors, standing on the banks of the Yamunā in the company of the daughter of Mahārāja Vṛṣabhānu. He was playing His flute with great delight at the foot of a kadamba tree."] [From Gītāvalī, 7b, The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 140]

That means he also was in a trance.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sometimes, yes, a trance. That eka graha nistha [?] That is the fullest, full faith takes us nearer, not wavering faith, not intellectual faith, faith helped by intellect, spontaneous faith, it is there. When all other things disappear, “come, come,” when only faith remains of that degree it is possible to have a flash. We must surrender, ātma-nivedana, self surrendering to the cause. According to that it may be effected. Hesitation, intellectual calculation, then affinity towards similar things, all these things will draw from backside. Perfect faith, not only in Him, but His paraphernalia; Śrī Guru. Unflinching faith, that can make us fit. Just as the air is heavy, it goes down. Air is light, it goes up, automatically goes up, when light.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. [14:17 - 15:27, Bengali (?) conversation]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ātmārāma means the enjoyer of the own self ecstasy. But svānanda-simhāsana-labdha-dīkṣāḥ.

[advaita-vīthī-pathikair upāsyāḥ, svānanda-simhāsana-labdha-dīkṣāḥ haṭhena kenāpi vyaṁ śaṭhena, dāsī-kṛtā gopa-vadhū-viṭena]

[“Although I am worshipping by the wanderers on the path of monism, and although I have received initiation into ascending the great throne of self-satisfaction, I have been forcibly converted into a maidservant by some deceitful paramour of the gopīs.”]

[Śrī Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura, from Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, 7.20]

“I have got my position in that layer, that we can draw ecstasy, we can feel, we can enjoy the happiness, the ecstasy that is in our own self, ātmā, svānanda-simhāsana. But suddenly, some force came down, and handled me in such a way, haṭhena, sudden attack. Śaṭhe, in a deceitful, playful attitude, suddenly some higher power came down and made me a play doll in His hand. Dāsī-kṛtā gopa-vadhū-viṭena. And that power, that entity is connected with gopa-vadhū. That feeling, that knowledge suddenly came from where I don't know and handled me and I was helpless in His hand. Haṭhe, suddenly, causeless, and then śaṭhena, and very playfully. Not came direct and took me, not that. Dāsī-kṛtā gopa-vadhū-viṭena. And He's not other than He whose skilful hands played with the gopīs. That sort of tendency I could trace in the force that played with me in such a way, gopa-vadhū- viṭena."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. And when he was going to Vṛndāvana, then also, api cet sudurācāro, [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30] that stage also sudden attack, but anyhow, he repulsed and paid the price of that fall. By making his two eyes blind, he paid off the penance, repentance, and went to Vṛndāvana.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Kṛṣṇa came and took him by his hand.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hand was playing, and also he challenged. "You are going externally, but can You go from my heart?" Of course He can go, but the bhakta, the devotee has so much indulgence by the grace of Kṛṣṇa that he can challenge Kṛṣṇa also. "Can You leave me? Can you go away from my heart? I think I am a blind man, can't see. You are playing in various ways with me. I am blind. It is very easy for You. Sometimes touching my hand, sometimes running, sometimes laughing, sometimes do this and that."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. But this is all folly to a disbeliever.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Mahārāja, was Jayadeva even before Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Perhaps. Jayadeva's time is twelfth century, and Bilvamaṅgala perhaps previous, eighth century or so. Jayadeva. We are told that Jayadeva's standard is greater, higher than Bilvamaṅgala, because his attention was more towards Rādhārāṇī.

[rādhe, rādhe], dehi pada-pallavam udāram [Gita Govinda, 10.7] ["Kṛṣṇa wants the feet-dust of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī."]

Came from him, that famous line. He was not venturing, not bold enough to write, how can he write this? But ultimately he had to submit to the inner flow of his own heart. What came to his heart, that was accepted by Kṛṣṇa, and that is higher type truth. He could not write by his own hand, but Kṛṣṇa came in the form of Jayadeva and wrote it there. "Yes, I am such. You Jayadeva you hesitate, but the victory of love is so much, so great."

ahaṁ bhakta-parārdhīno, hy asvatantra iva dvija [sādhubhir grasta-hṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ]

[The Lord tells Durvāsā: "I am the slave of My devotees; I have no freedom apart from their will. Because they are completely pure and devoted to Me, My heart is controlled by them, and I reside always in their hearts. I am dependent not only on My devotees, but even on the servants of My devotees. Even the servants of My devotees are dear to Me."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63]

"The ordinary devotees also I go to serve, and what about Rādhārāṇī. I think it My fortune if I get such confidential service.”

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Talking very high words. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

So, Prabhupāda told, “We are śuddha śakta. We are śakta, not Vaiṣṇava, but not viddha śakta, but śuddha śakta. We have concern with Kṛṣṇa, because our Mistress Rādhārāṇī, She has got connection with Him, so we want Him, not otherwise.” This is the clear statement.

Once in Rādhā-Kuṇḍa, the Bharatpur Diwan, he came with his family and his family is lying around Rādhā-Kuṇḍa, measuring, in this way, parikramā, circumambulation.

Then Paramānanda Prabhu, an old disciple of Prabhupāda, he came to intimate to Prabhupāda, “They also have great respect for Rādhārāṇī, circumambulating this Rādhā-Kuṇḍa in such a way. Lying and measuring, and then again lying and some mark, in this way, by lying they are making parikramā.”

Prabhupāda told, “Yes, but their angle of vision and our angle of vision about Rādhā-Kuṇḍa and Rādhārāṇī is different.” And he came to say, “They have got recognition of Kṛṣṇa. They revere Kṛṣṇa and because Rādhārāṇī is favourite of Kṛṣṇa, so they also have reverence for Rādhā-Kuṇḍa. But ours the opposite. Our concern is with Rādhārāṇī. And because She wants Kṛṣṇa, so we have to connect with Him, not otherwise.”

So, Rādhārāṇī anga jyoti gatha jīva [?] She has Her figure, and the lustre, and the atomic jīva that comes out of the lustre of Rādhārāṇī, the reflection comes from there, even outside. But who has got the possibility of getting fortune of the, they whose origin is from that type of lustring, unit of the lustre, that is emanating from Rādhārāṇī, their nature should be like that. They know only Her. Only Her, and also Her concern also. Her duty, Her necessity, all these, they are ready to serve, but never eliminating Her. And that is the highest achievement of the Gauḍīya, that is Mahāprabhu's party as announced by Dāsa Goswāmī. What is that? Bakārināpi. Āśābharair.

When our Prabhupāda he used to explain, he began to explain this śloka, his figure was something else, became full of emotion. His face would be red.

āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ kathañcit, kālo mayātigamitaḥ kila sāmprataṁ hi tvaṁ cet kṛpaṁ mayi vidhāsyasi naiva kiṁ me, prānair vrajema ca varoru bakārināpi?

[“O Varoru my beautiful, most magnanimous Goddess, my heart is flooded with an ocean of nectarean hopes. I have somehow been passing time until now eagerly longing for Your grace, which is an ocean of ever cherished nectar. If still You do not bestow Your mercy on me then of what use to me are my life, the land of Vraja, or even Śrī Kṛṣṇa who without You, is simply a mighty hero, the destroyer of demoniac forces like Baka.”] [Vilāpa-kuṣumāñjali, 102]

The extreme risk. “If we do not get Your favour, I don’t want all these things. I want You and You only. And with You, Your paraphernalia. And eliminating You, to get independent relationship with any other thing, it is impossible in my life. You must be first and then others. What to speak of any other thing, even Kṛṣṇa, without You, a separate connection with Kṛṣṇa, we can never aspire, think aspire, we can imagine to aspire. First You, and then any other.”

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura

nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ manum api śacī-putram atra svarūpaṁ rūpaṁ tasyāgrajam uru-purīm māthurīm goṣṭavāṭīm rādhā-kunḍaṁ giri-varam aho rādhikā-mādhavāśāṁ prāpto yasya prathita-kṛpayā śrī gurum taṁ nato 'smi

["I am fully indebted to Śrī Gurudeva. Why? He has given me so many things. He has given me the highest conception of the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa, the highest form of sound which contains the highest form of thought, aspiration, ideal, everything. And next he has given me the mantra. I only aspire after one thing. I cherish the hope that one day I may be welcomed into the plane where Rādhikā and Mādhava are in Their glory, sitting and playing."] [This is found in Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī's prayer to his Guru.]

All these I have been given from a particular source, my whole obeisance there. Where I have got these hopes, this prospect, the ideal is the man. A man should be valued by his ideal, not by other paraphernalia. The ideal, the purity of ideal, that is what is necessary most for us. Where should we go?

What will be the candle that will attract me towards the road? That ideal, that conception. One who has got the highest ideal, he's the richest man, he's the richest. And the poorest man is he who in spite of all these things desired ordinary things, but poor in idea, no conception of his own goal, destination.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Mahārāja, Rūpa Goswāmī also has an effulgence off his body? [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: So, the living entity can be from the rays of their effulgence also [?] The ones who come from the effulgence of Rūpa Goswāmī they only know Rūpa Goswāmī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: May be, especially, rūpānuga, they will be rūpānuga classed there, ranked there. With earnestness to look after the order of Rūpa Goswāmī, and he's towards Lalitā, in this way it is going there. And our highest gain is only there. Not by our connection with Rādhārāṇī, or of Lalitā Devī, but Rūpānuga Sampradāya, that means that our highest attainment is in his connection because, not only that, in his connection, but whoever has got that connection, they are the highest leader. Because Rādhā dāsyā has been told to be the highest attainment. Why? What quality and quantity Rādhārāṇī can draw rasa from Kṛṣṇa, that quality and quantity can never be found anywhere. So, if you array just behind Rādhārāṇī, you'll be able not only of quantity, but of the highest quality of rasa, you'll be allowed to taste. Because no other person can draw such high rasa from Kṛṣṇa, of high quality, the fullest, highest type is drawn from Kṛṣṇa. He gives Himself fully and wholly and deeply. So if you are in his group then you can have a taste of that sort of rasa. So also in Rādhārāṇī's camp, where Kṛṣṇa is, and when Kṛṣṇa and Rādhā, They are in very solitary pastimes, secluded, the grown-up sakhīs, they can't venture to enter the room and help the pastimes. The young, they are sent there. So the leader of that young group, that can enter where Both are very closely connected when the sakhīs also do not venture to go, and there will be interruption. But the rūpa upadeśa, the mañjarī can go due to their young age. And that sort of rasa only can be had through the mañjarī, what we cannot get even through the sakhī, rādhā-madana-mohanau.

jayatām suratau paṅgor mama manda-mater gatī mat-sarvasvapadāmbhojau rādhā-madana-mohanau

[Glory to the all-merciful Rādhā and Madana-mohana! I am lame and ill advised, yet They are my directors, and Their lotus feet are everything to me.] [Sambandhādhideva Praṇāma]

When only Rādhā Madana-mohana, no other sakhī there. In Their private meeting also the mañjarīs are allowed. So what sort of rasa the mañjarīs can come in touch, the sakhīs also cannot expect to have taste of that. So to serve through the mañjarīs that will be very, very profitable. Very, very profitable, parisevan. Because that type, that quality rasa is never found anywhere, when They're very privately, intimately connected, close, in that stage.

So rūpānuga, to become rūpānuga. Even Sanātana Goswāmī who is Guru of Rūpa Goswāmī, from formal consideration, he has also written somewhere, "That rūpānuga vicar we want to appreciate."

So our Guru Mahārāja, he was always, rūpānuga, rūpānuga, rūpānuga, rūpānuga. Rāgānugā and then rūpānuga, particular. Generally rāgānugā, and then particularly rūpānuga, that is our parichay, our identification, our acquaintance, our identification. That is our natural, our nature. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Rūpānuga-bhajana-darpaṇa, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, rūpānuga hoite sei dhay. He runs to get admission under the management, administration of Rūpa Goswāmī. Who? Who runs, he has got such aspiration. Rūpānuga hoite sei dhay. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. He runs there to become enlisted in the group of Rūpa, who has got such sort of prospect.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. I want to close here. I'm tired. I began long before. Gaura Hari. [?] Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Opposition by laughing. What you say that is impossible and ridiculous.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

*yathā yathā gaura padāravinde, vindeta bhaktim kṛta puṇya rāśiḥ tathā

[Prabodhānanda Saraswatī Ṭhākura says: “As much as we devote ourselves to the lotus feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, we will automatically achieve the nectarine service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana. An investment in Navadvīpa Dhāma will automatically take one to Vṛndāvana. How one will be carried there will be unknown to him. But those who have good fortune invest everything in the service of Gaurāṅga. If they do that, they will find that everything has automatically been offered to the divine feet of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She will accept them in Her confidential service and give them engagement, saying: “Oh, you have a good recommendation from Navadvīpa; I immediately appoint you to this service.”] [Caitanya-candrāmṛta, 88]

As much as you surrender to Śrī Gaurāṅga, to the holy feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, safely you'll find yourself in the service of Rādhā-Govinda. Don't approach directly. There may be some difficulty. But begin here, it will take you there safely. And if you want to go to the holy feet of Gaurāṅga, then try to have the grace of Nityānanda Prabhu. He's in charge of distributing Gaurāṅga.

Mahāprabhu asked Him, “Go to Bengal. You are very important. Without You, none have such tenacity as to take them, give them faith in Kṛṣṇa. They are very wicked and apathetic to Kṛṣṇa conception. Without You, none will be able to do.”

He came here, and simply He took up to preach about Gaurāṅga, not so much about Kṛṣṇa. He was ordered to preach Kṛṣṇa conception, but He began preaching Gaura conception.

bhaja gaurāṅga, kaha gaurāṅga laha gauranger nāma, yei jana gaurāṅga bhaje sei amāra prāna

[“Worship Gaurāṅga, speak of Gaurāṅga, chant Gaurāṅga’s Name. Whoever worships Śrī Gaurāṅga is My life and soul. Come straight to the campaign of Śrī Caitanya and you will safely attain Vṛndāvana.”]

*[yena bhaje tāre bale danta tṛṇa dhari, āmāre kiniyā laha bala gaura-

[“The compassionate Nityānanda Prabhu most humbly approached those who did not feel any loving appreciation for Śrī Gaurāṅga due to their false pride and hard heartedness. Not to hurt their pride, He took a few blades of grass between His teeth as a token of humility and appealed to them saying, “O dear friend, try to understand that your own highest good is Gaura Hari. You can attain the greatest fortune of your life if you connect to Him with love and devotion. Please take His Holy Name, even if only once, and chant it from the core of your heart. With devotional faith speak about His glories and share your relish with other devotees. Sincerely pray for His grace, for you will surely receive great spiritual benefit. I am your most well wishing friend. If you can please take My advice and act accordingly then you can own Me forever.”] [Locana dāsa Ṭhākura]

[A Collection of ślokaś, 608]

That is, the appealing nature is such. “You take the Name of Gaurāṅga.”

There was one Gadādhara, dāsa Gadādhara, he went to Kazi, approached Kazi, one Kazi was a representing judge of the Muslim administration. He approached Kazi.

“For what you have come?”

“I have come to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa. You take Kṛṣṇa, you say!” “Why should I take Kṛṣṇa’s name? Why? We have got...”

“O, you have taken already Kṛṣṇa.” He began to dance. “Again you take.” In this way. “Anyhow, take the Name of Kṛṣṇa.”

Bhāvānanda also described his coming. “That the chariot is going and the kīrtana around. I stood by the side. Tamal Kṛṣṇa approached me. “What is this?”

“Oh! You don’t know, you have not heard?” “No”

“Have you heard the Name of Kṛṣṇa?” “Who is Kṛṣṇa?”

“The Gītā?” “What is Gita?”

In this way, whatever he said, ISKCON?, the Prabhupāda? “No.”

“Then have you heard of India?” “Yes, India I have heard.”

“Yes, in India there was the God incarnate Kṛṣṇa, and the...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: “They’re dancing and chanting the Name of Kṛṣṇa in a group. Suddenly I lost my sense and entered their group. And when, they’re also dancing, I am dancing, then I am, I was senseless, I fell down and lost consciousness. Then when I woke, I came back to sense, then they’re pouring water into my eyes and mouth. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Yes, I came, I was converted.”

yathā yathā gaura padāravinde, [vindeta bhaktim kṛta puṇya rāśiḥ tathā tathot sarpatī hr̥dy akasmāt, rādhā padāmbhoja sudhāmbhu-rāśiḥ]

[Prabodhānanda Saraswatī Ṭhākura says: “As much as we devote ourselves to the lotus feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, we will automatically achieve the nectarine service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana. An investment in Navadvīpa Dhāma will automatically take one to Vṛndāvana. How one will be carried there will be unknown to him. But those who have good fortune invest everything in the service of Gaurāṅga. If they do that, they will find that everything has automatically been offered to the divine feet of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She will accept them in Her confidential service and give them engagement, saying: “Oh, you have a good recommendation from Navadvīpa; I immediately appoint you to this service.”] [Caitanya-candrāmṛta, 88]

It is safe for us to try to get mercy, or the grace of Mahāprabhu, than approaching direct to Vṛndāvana, Rādhārāṇī. That is too high. But if we go through Śrī Gaurāṅga Deva, very easily we can go safely, we can go to that stage. So our direct approach should be Nityānanda and Gaurāṅga, because from Nitāi we approach Gaurāṅga. To have the grace of Gaurāṅga that means to have the grace of Both, Rādhā-Govinda. That has been recommended to us by the stalwarts of the sampradāya. Yathā yathā gaura padāravinde, vindeta bhaktim kṛta puṇya rāśiḥ, tathā tathot sarpati hṛdy akasmāt. Spontaneous. Rādhā padāmbhoja sudhāmbhu-rāśiḥ.

There was one Mr. Grouse [?] who wrote a book about Gaura. [?]

While circumambulation of Vṛndāvana. And there is a śloka, very fervent in its sentiment about_____ [?] The Grouse [?] has mentioned this from writings of Prabodhānanda, Guru of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī. The brāhmaṇas came from south. Very beautiful, very sweet his verses.

yasyā kadāpi vasanāñcala khelanottha, dhanyāti dhanya pavanena kṛtārtha māmī yogīndra durgama gatiḥ madhusūdano'pi, tasyā namo'stu vṛṣabhānu bhuvo diśe'pi

[Prabodhānanda Saraswatī says: “From a reverential distance with full adoration I offer my obeisances unto the daughter of King Vṛṣabhānu, Śrī Rādhikā. Once a gentle gust of wind wafted the sweet scent of Her clothing towards Kṛṣṇa, the supreme beautiful God, making Him feel so blessedly fulfilled that He immediately embraced that fragrance to His heart.”]

He says, “Let us show our obeisance to the direction in which the Vṛṣabhānu, the father of Rādhārāṇī, his state was, let us, wherever we are, let us show our obeisance to that direction in which the state of the father of Rādhārāṇī is, so far. Vṛṣabhānu bhuvo diśe'pi. In that direction, so far, so far, from that direction. Not to that place even, to that direction we shall - so high, so unapproachable, so connectible also. Anyhow connect you with that, the most dignified, our position, our place. From far away you are, but that does not matter. That direction you select and show your obeisance. Vṛṣabhānu bhuvo, vṛṣabhānu bhu, Vṛṣabhānu, father of Rādhārāṇī, his bhu, his āśrama, his palace, and in which direction that is, you show your praṇāma to that. Vṛṣabhānu bhuvo diśe'pi. Why I'm saying so, vṛṣabhānu bhu, making so much about that direction? Then here why I say so."

Yasyā kadāpi vasanāñcala khelanottha, dhanyāti dhanya pavanena kṛtārtha mānī, yogīndra durgama gatiḥ madhusūdana. Do you know Madhusūdana? Have you heard His Name? Eh? The Madhusūdana? He's famous, Madhusūdana, do you know about Him, and what did He do? Who is Madhusūdana? Yogīndra durgama gatiḥ. Whose ways and movement is unapproachable by the great yogīs. The yogī siddha they have got much influence and credit amongst the sādhus. And who are the leaders of those yogīs, they try to reach their mind to the feet of that Madhusūdana, but fail. Yogīndra durgama gatiḥ. The religious stalwarts who commands the respect of the whole religious world, they try their best to put their attention to the Holy Feet of that Madhusūdana, but fails. Slight touch, or not touch, come back, fall back, that Madhusūdana. Now understand what is Madhusūdana. Eh? Then, what is that Madhusūdana? Your Madhusūdana, do you know? What is His aspiration again, that Madhusūdana, who is the aspiration, the rare aspiration of the great yogīs, and that Madhusūdana what did He do? Will you hear from me?

yasyā kadāpi vasanāñcala khelanottha, dhanyāti dhanya pavanena kṛtārtha mānī

That Madhusūdāna, He thanked His stars, thanked His stars, “That I have got such a fortune, such a fortune.”

What fortune? That was He got some breeze touching His body. A sort of breeze touched His body and He thought Himself that He has, His whole life has got fulfilment. He has got fulfilment. And what is that breeze? Where does it come from? Yasyā kadāpi vasanāñcala khelanottha. Sometimes in some negligent moment the fluttering of the cloth of Rādhārāṇī, that fluttering, there was some breeze, that wind, and that wind touched the body of your Madhusūdāna, and Madhusūdāna was nowhere. He forgot Himself in ecstasy. Do you know who is He, who is that, whose wind of fluttering has satisfied Madhusūdāna to His full belly, to be so?

Yasyā kadāpi vasanāñcala khelanottha, dhanyāti dhanya pavanena kṛtārtha mānī, yogīndra durgama gatiḥ madhusūdano. And She's that Vṛṣabhānu-nandini, Śrī Rādhā. Her position is such, to Madhusūdāna Himself. What to speak of others. And you must not, you can't approach direct to Her. It is not possible for you.

Once one gentleman in Gauḍīya Maṭha while singing in kīrtana he gave some extra qualification, ‘Bhuvana Mohini Rādhe.’

Prabhupāda was very much excited to hear. “Bhuvana Mohini, what is that? Bhuvana Mohini is Māyā Bhuvana Mohini. And She's Bhuvana Mohana Mohini, one who can enchant the whole creation, She can enchant Him. That is Her position. She does not come to enchant the ordinary persons here. But Who can enchant the whole of the world, by His charm, He's captured by Her charm. Her position is such.”

Don't approach directly. So at least through Gaurāṅga.

yathā yathā gaura padāravinde, vindeta bhaktim kṛta puṇya rāśiḥ tathā

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Mahārāja, was it written by the same Prabodhānanda Saraswatī Ṭhākura?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is Rādhā-rasa-sudhānidhi, one book, another Vṛndāvana-sataka, another Navadwīpa-sataka. Prabodhānanda Saraswatī who had his seat in Kamavan, Śrī Kuṇḍa. In Kamavan there is Śrī Kuṇḍa, He generally used to live there.

When Kavirāja Goswāmī he was ordered to produce this Caitanya-caritāmṛta, he went to the senior Vaiṣṇavas to get their sympathy, mercy. He went to Prabodhānanda also.

But, “Yes, I have got every sympathy with this book, your book will be very good, very much adorable. But one condition; you won’t mention my name.”

So it is, we don’t find his name in Caitanya-caritāmṛta. It is told perhaps in Bhakti-ratnākara.

Unassuming, he did not want that his name will be admired, praised.

“So don’t mention my name, but I give my blessing to you, your book will be very much, of very high order.”

Prabodhānanda Saraswatī, he was the previous Gurudeva of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

I represented in a very peculiar way the meaning of this śloka.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Yes Mahārāja, in the sweetest way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

I cannot but remember that Prabhupāda wanted me to go to the West, and very heartedly perhaps. Otherwise how it is possible that you come, and through Swāmī Mahārāja? And Prabhupāda also appreciated, my siddhānta of course was first given by him, anyhow he had some appreciation.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. It is impossible. Swāmī Mahārāja's success in the preaching of the West about Mahāprabhu that is also some impossible. And that you all come to me, and my words will be recorded, this is also impossible.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: That you are so kind as to allow us to come here and record you is your impossible mercy on us. It is impossible that we should get such mercy.

Parvat Mahārāja: It is the will of the Lord that the impossible becomes possible.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whatever it be, of course. Impossible may be possible, by His will. It is wonderful. God works wonders. Adbutakrāma. Urukrāma, adbutakrāma, that of wonderful strides. His every step shows wonders, He's such.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: And you wrote, mahad-adbhuta śakti...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahad-adbhuta-pāvana-śakti-padaṁ [From Śrī Śrī Prabhupāda-padma-stavakaḥ, 11] Yes. One Giri Govinda Govardhana, who is no more, I heard from that, Giri Mahārāja, who came yesterday, he told this, "That you have written mahad-adbhuta-pāvana-śakti-padaṁ, that has come reality by the preaching of Swāmī Mahārāja. That how so many from far away, and engaged in different types of thoughts, quite drawn towards Mahāprabhu and His teachings. It is really the strange of the strange."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nītāi Gaura Hari bol.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Jai Gaurāṅga. Jai Gaurāṅga.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Tīrtha Mahārāja says "Jai Gaurāṅga."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where it is mentioned that Rāmānanda Rāya, Pratāparudra, Mahāprabhu, _____ [?] So he has also left everything, a kingdom.

Two letters came yesterday. Anything new thing to be known? Some disciples letters? They're in Nepal?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Two letters from disciples who are in Nepal. Not much new to report except, anyway not much new report really. We had some discussion yesterday evening though, amongst ourselves, about our preaching activities, and perhaps later on Akṣayānanda Mahārāja and the other sannyāsīs can give some report to your Divine Grace about that.

...

... a Barrister. When Aurovinda was absconder, then the Barrister, Norton, he was a very famous Barrister, he used to read so many magazines and literature, and wherever any spirited writing is found, "Here is Mr. Gosh. In this writing, trace, this is, he's here in his speech, in his thought.

...

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: ...should be high.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the beginning do you want quantity? More quantity to fight with them, or no, no competition?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But, a pure movement we are starting with all sincerity of our spiritual conscience, to help the people in a pure method.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, that is more important, and that will also defeat them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. They may do as they like, but you will, as Bhāratī Mahārāja told, some standard, some minimum standard, that when disciple will accept such and such conditions, they may be accepted. Suppose they may practice their food habit and other things for some time, and then they may be allowed to take Hari-Nāma, in this way.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: What about from the point of the Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, there's some verses there about this one year test between the Guru and the disciple.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: One-year waiting period.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is not possible always, but in a general you must do like that. But in the field of competition that may not be judicious always. You are to use your discretion, and go on. Your sincere discretion, not all in the same standard, but there should be some special judgement in special case. With some exception, the general tenor will be such, with some exception with the special. One year or six months. It is also mentioned when a real Guru is available, then no time should be lost. It is also mentioned in Hari-bhakti-vilāsa. No time, auspicious, inauspicious, no time should be lost. It is also mentioned. Only when the chance occurs, the availability of a mahā-jana. So, anyhow, start and you will learn, and you will go on, practical, with this good will.

Then Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, not to confine yourself in that cell. You will have to come out, and go forward for preaching.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. It looks like it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. You are the senior-most sannyāsī, is it?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: And the worst example. The senior-most, and the worst example.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Worst example, why?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Because I'm in a cell.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So, Jayatīrtha Mahārāja's present move is responsible for this? Eh?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: I'm creating havoc everywhere.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are creating havoc. Your movement is giving birth to a new institution, Mahā-maṇḍala. Mahā-maṇḍala means Mahā-sabhā, the great association, movement, that Mahā-maṇḍala. Mahā-saṅga.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Mahā-maṇḍala is very nice, I think, very sweet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It's an ancient type of name, Sanskrit, Mahā-maṇḍala.

Parvat Mahārāja: No money problems, how can the money problem be solved for expanding widely.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So the brāhmaṇic temperament perhaps is approaching towards him, that without money. Perhaps you have seen much, how the dollar can help the preaching, and without dollar, what is the real principle of preaching? Who preaches? The money or anything else? Soul preaches to soul. Swāmī Mahārāja did not go with any money in his hand. Mahāprabhu and other Ācāryas in previous India, They did not preach with the help of money.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inner necessity. I have tasted it, it seems very sweet, it tastes very sweet, I must give it to my friend. They're suffering. I have got the medicine. I'm cured. I found that I'm cured by using this medicine. I must help others also to be cured using this medicine. This spirit, preaching. The Lord, He wants me to preach without grandeur. If you get money, use money. No money, go on working. Go on working from door to door, as it may come. The first batch of preachers, they did not use money, but walking door to door, began their activity, distribution of love. Only to work in a particular layer, that can bring a response.

This Gandhi gentleman established British government with so much force he went to oppose the British Government with some fifty, seventy five followers marched towards Dandi in Gujarat, sea shore, to prepare salt, breaking the law of the country. Very simple, going to fight the British, walking. A batch walking, half-clad, half-fed, they're marching towards a place to begin the fight against British Government, organized and worldwide power. And there he began, a very simple incident began to prepare salt without tax, law breaking. And gradually that flow spread in the whole of India, and different quarters from different parts, went to do the same thing. And the great movement came out of the surface.

... question of plane, the degree of internal energy we devote. That can create a movement. The quality, the purity of purpose. The earnestness of the activity, there's the real capital, not money.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, but our Guru Mahārāja he inaugurated this principle of organisation. Sango śakti kalau yuge. [“In this age of Kali, if the Holy Name is chanted congregationally, the combined efforts will be fruitful.”] And so, the middle path, not so much binding, and still, some sort of association, voluntary association. That has been recommended by their conversation, mutual conversation. And I think that is good. And if in future you find a necessity of forming any sabhā, any centre, you will do it. But now, voluntary association.

No one will be afraid of any commitment, free association. Then after working in this way, if you feel that there should be a strong centre, then you may do that. Otherwise, individually they will be unregistered basis, when in a group the association is voluntary. At present this has been planned. And I think that will be good. Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahāprabhu's civilization?

Vijaya Tīrth Mahārāja: Yes. You said that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, all Kṛṣṇa consciousness. He's love and beauty. This must have predominance, real beauty and love. No selfishness, no exploitation. Beauty is the exploiter. None to exploit the beauty. Beauty is the master, controlling, the controlling principle is beauty. No exploitation. That is, how can it be conceived. Whenever there is beauty we think that is to be exploited, but beauty is the exploiting agent.

Prema means sacrifice for others. So, we should not mean in this that sacrifice is to be exploited by me. There is sacrifice, it is laudable. But sacrifice for whom? Who is the recipient of the sacrifice? Our party? No. We are the group of those that sacrifice themselves. That is Mahābhāva's party, negative party, predominated party, predominated party. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

To admit that love means sacrifice, the underlying principle of love is sacrifice, but sacrifice for whom? Who is the beneficiary? Love is beneficiary. Contribution to the centre by all, but none to draw energy from there. Die to live. So with this spirit, we should combine and work for love and beauty. The beauty will be victorious in the world. The love will be victorious in the world. The banner of love will flutter, that we want to see, and we shall sacrifice our all to see that the banner of love divine will flutter over the world. And a particle of that will be able to keep peace, distribute peace to all directions. Sacrifice to work out peace for others. Soldiers devotee their, give their life, but the beneficiary are their country men. They are giving their life, dedicating everything, the fighting soldiers, they are finished, but the beneficiary in future is their countrymen.

So general peace may come, and the brāhmaṇa section in varṇāśrama they're of poor... /...society... / of the kṣatriya.../ money so that the country will be... / The money hoarded underground, the country is poor. The black marketing, hoarding of money, then the ordinary people, they have to suffer. But if the money can flow, then the people may not suffer much. So, there was some section who are representing the sacrifice and they're holding honourable position. So others, the subordinate section, they cannot amass money for underground purpose. So the general flow in the society, the money, a small quantity, if it is flowing properly, the people will enjoy peace. So the standard, the brāhmaṇic section, the honour, the honourable position is that of poverty, material poverty, and giving preference to the spiritual inquiry. And Vaiṣṇava must be above that. They will be more sacrificing, and more accurate in their quest of consciousness, and that is, that reaching to Kṛṣṇa consciousness that is Vṛndāvana, Vraja. The standard of sacrifice is unlimited there. At the risk of everything. That standard of sacrifice.

["Even a small beginning in this devotional service cannot go in vain, nor can any loss be suffered. The most insignificant practice of such devotional service saves one from the all-devouring fear of repeated birth and death in this world."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.40]

If that principle is enthroned, is crowned, then automatically other adjustment, peaceful adjustment is inevitable for the public. If Kṛṣṇa consciousness proper can have the seat on the throne above all other, the politics, the social society, social law, all subservient to Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vṛndāvana, the ideal of Vṛndāvana above all. The idea of Mahāprabhu's līlā above all. And the theistic comparison, how theism reaches to its highest zenith, that step by step, that should be explained, and thought out, and accepted, and preached. The highest goal is such. So, where you are engaging yourself, what sort of benefit you are expecting? _____ [?] The death in one side. You scientific civilization are boasting so much. You are proud of this, but death is awaiting, whether atomic, or any natural death. You can't cross the death.

The boast of heraldry, the pomp. of power,

And all that beauty, that mundane beauty, all that wealth e'er gave, But awaits alike the inevitable hour; The path of glory leads but to the grave.

[Elegy written in a country churchyard. 1751] [Thomas Gray, 1716-71, English poet]

The greatest danger you do not care to solve. You say you are big thinkers, you are great men, you are to command the respect of the society, but the general inevitable problem for everyone here, for every atom here is death. What is your contribution for the solution of the greatest danger which is waiting to devour everyone of us. No scientist, and no insect, virus, all included. What is your solution? Any step have you taken to solve that universal danger? What you are doing that is only exploitation, encouraging lower life, as reaction. You are exploiting the nature, and everyone who is deriving the benefit will have to pay with interest to the farthing. To every action, equal and opposite reaction. It is your statement. And what have you done to solve that? So, you are endangering the fate of the world by your fascinating proposal of apparent comfort. What is this? Avoiding the greatest inevitable danger, common danger, so your life is useless. Useless, only offering mal engagement. So, in one sense you are traitor of the society. So come with courage to face and solve the real problem, the common problem, and the most dangerous problem. Otherwise you leave the field, go away. Leave it to us.

We shall prove, viśvam purna sukhāyate, the whole world is an abode of perfect happiness. You shall have to dive deep into the plane of soul. not this body or mind, to dive deep to find reality. It is within us. It is not a foreign thing. Not to get by loan. It is within us, within everyone, even in the insect, even in the tree. The vitality, and within the vitality, the person, the soul, the party is there. All this is non party. The plane of soul. Eliminate both physical and mental encasement, and find out your own self. And there you'll find the key, the clue, to the proper world worth living, and solution there.

The hints given by many mahā-janas, the great personages in every sect, more or less, to somewhat. But our claim is that India, in Gītā and Bhāgavata has given the fullest conception of the spiritual world. We call you all. We are not imaginationist. We are most practical thinkers. We don't avoid any greater problem, that, "Oh, it cannot be solved." Not belonging to that party, that easily wants to take prestige and fame. We don't classify ourselves with those hoaxing people. Come and see whether the plane of reality can be found or not. You are not required to spare less energy in your campaign, but take our program and try, and it is already there, where you are. Who are you? What is the real nature of the world? All is hoax, in Bible, in Koran, in Veda, in any other language, any other scripture, the hope and hint has been given about the life of reality, all this is hoax? And what charm you have given? Only to the self-deceivers, dragging them into the country of loan, debt. "Every action has an equal and opposite reaction." A divine civilization, civilization divine, that should be drawn out in this plane. Where from the path has been suggested, we are to try in that, and it is not unreasonable, not madness. You come. Reason also can be applied there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Mahāprabhu's solution, [From Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20. 127-136], He told, "You are poor, we see, but there is a happy solution. The wealth is underground in your own room. Just try to have it.

If you approach from the south side, that karma, dakṣiṇe mārṅa, the give and take method, then whatever you'll do, some reaction will come and that will capture and disturb you. And you will be fascinated only in that, you will have no time to reach to the position of the solution proper.

If you approach from the western side, that is yoga: by utilising subtle forces of nature, to attain some supernatural mystic power. To be the master of subtle power. That will act on you and enchant you to take away your attention from the desired goal. Your own activity in the wrong direction, that will create obstacle in your achievement.

And if you approach from the north side, that grand brahmāsmi, Vedāntic, misinterpreted Vedānta, nyāya śāstra, then you will enter into eternal samādhi. That ajagare, the great python will swallow you up. Your existence will be nowhere, so who will you come to enjoy the peace of getting the wealth?

Only if you approach from the eastern side, with the help of devotion, easily you will get the wealth. That pūrva-dike, the sunrise direction, the light-giving direction. The light not prepared by our own hand, but the light with the source of all light, that is revealed truth. Light extended from a quarter that is not known to us. So revealed knowledge, bhakti, adopt that, and approach to find out real wealth within you. Easily you will find that, and you will find in the beginning your own self which is most wonderful.

*āścaryavat paśyati kaścid enam, [āścaryavad vadati tathaiva cānyaḥ

[“Some see the soul as astonishing, some describe him as astonishing, and some hear of him as astonishing, while others, even after hearing about him, cannot understand him at all.”][Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29]

Your own self is of wonderful type. You will be ashamed that being so much valuable in my own self, how I can be carried away by the bogus charm of this material world, mundane world. How was it possible?

Agatana batana kuti rsi māyā [?] The māyā has got such enchanting power, that my own self is so wonderful, so valuable and drawn me where? Like Ajāmila, born in a brāhmaṇa family of good practices, drawn to a girl in the house of the very nasty practices, wine, then so many filthy things, all these things. Like that, I am a soul, ātmārāma. Ātmārāma, those that can find peace within himself, not to go to any foreign part. The peace which is within me, that has been admired by the spiritual stalwarts so much, and that myself has come in connection with mortal and nasty, rotten things, how? Most wonderful. I am deceived. Then from ātmā to Paramātmā, Vasudeva, Nārāyaṇa, Kṛṣṇa, what more progress in that line, it is not unscientific, it is really scientific, vijñāna.

jñānam te' ham sa-vijñānam, idaṁ vakṣyāmy aśeṣataḥ yaj jñātvā neha bhūyo 'nyaj, jñātavyam avaśiṣyate

[“Now I shall fully describe to you, with the taste of the flavour of My divine sweetness, this knowledge of My grand majestic splendour and opulences. After knowing all this, absolutely nothing will remain for you to know, being situated on this beautiful, joyful, and victorious path.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 7.2]

“Arjuna, now I come to say to you about, jñānam te' ham sa-vijñānam, knowledge with scientific characteristic. That is not only ātmā but its potency, this a and not a, ātmā and anātmā, the mind, the indriya, the saguṇa, non-ātmā. The direct and indirect approach towards the reality I'm coming to explain before you. Attentively listen to. Jñānam te' ham sa-vijñānam. What is this? There is Myself, and My potency. Jīva is My marginal potency, which is filling up all these material worlds. If jīva śakti, if the jīva potency withdrawn, then everything is stone. Who is caring to know himself or exploitation? All this fighting tendency of exploitation will stop if the marginal potency, jīva, is withdrawn from matter, all dead. Yayedam dhāryate jagat.

[apareyam itas tv anyāṁ, prakṛtiṁ viddhi me parām jīva-bhūtāṁ mahā-bāho, yayedam dhāryate jagat]

["O mighty hero, Arjuna, this worldly nature known as external, is inferior. But distinct from this nature, you should know My marginal potency, comprised of the individual souls, to be superior. This world is accepted by this superior conscious potency as an object of exploitation for sense enjoyment, by the agency of each individual's fruit-hunting actions and reactions. The divine world emanates from My internal potency and the mundane world from My external potency. The potency of the living beings is known as marginal, on account of their medial adaptability - they may choose to reside either in the mundane plane or the divine."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 7.5]

Who has entered into this material consciousness and has made it a moving thing, dhāryate jagat. So jñānam te' ham sa-vijñānam, come to know properly in a scientific method. We won't back away for the lack of giving proper explanation to you. So jñāna, then prajñāna, vijñāna prajñāna, more higher conception of the finer world, it is there, it is real. And this is unreal, what you are trying your utmost to make it stand as real, that is unreal. And what is unreal?

*yā niśā sarva-bhūtānām, tasyām jāgarti saṁyamī yasyām jāgrati
bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ*

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self- realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

“You are sleeping over your real interest, real truth, and you are awake on your part of self deception.”

So, we must establish ourselves in such plane, and we'll try our best to extend it to others. That will be, we must have faith. Our own faith, that will be extended; to preach means this.

“I sincerely have faith in this, and I relish to the utmost. I find my future prospect also here. And because I feel it is very tasteful and very useful, so I have come to extend, to distribute to you my friends. It is already tasted by me, and it is wholesome, and I want to give it to you. What? Not anything, but the very principle of life, according to which you'll take your steps further, forward, the principle of life, the standpoint of your life, the angle of vision within you. We have come to guide you according to the guidance of our Gurudeva. We've already found that we have got something and so I have come to you also. Take it, get it, and you'll be wealthy. You'll be satisfied in your life, successful, you'll be on the path of the proper fulfilment of your life. As a friend we have come, we have approached by the order of our superior.”

In this way we are to approach, with God consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. And how God consciousness ultimately merges in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ. To prove it dexterously, skilfully, step by step. Akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ. What is Kṛṣṇa consciousness? Kṛṣṇa consciousness; Rūpa Goswāmī has given the scientific definition. Rasa cannot be avoided, we are after rasa, everyone, every unit, the smallest unit of the world, always hankering after rasa, happiness, ecstasy. And akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ, all possible stages of rasa is personified, that is Kṛṣṇa. You try to understand how is it? What is the rasa, and what is its nature, and how a comparison can be drawn in rasa? In this way, step by step, you'll have to come to Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. It is not a tale, from the ancient Indian scriptures, that Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is not the object of a tale, but fact. And we have come out to face with the right fact, real fact. And we shall try our best to bring it out on your front, how it can be a fact? Kṛṣṇa is a fact, it is reality, and with this process we...

“Reality is For Itself,” and “Die to live.” Die to live. Have to pay, to pay for the goal, and it is in this way, and you will feel it is not a hoax. When you will progress in the way you will feel.

bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo viraktir, anyatra caiṣa trika eka-kālah prapadyamānasya yathāśnataḥ syus, tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo 'nughāsam

[“As with every mouthful an eater feels the threefold effects of his satisfaction, his stomach being filled, and his hunger being dispelled, in the same way when a surrendered soul serves the Lord he realises devotion of three natures simultaneously: devotion in love, the personal appearance of the Lord who is the abode of love, and detachment from all other things.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.42]

“By every step you will go forward, you will feel these three things, tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo.

Your hankering in general is being diminished. ‘I want this, that, everything, still, not appeased my hunger.’ But you will feel that your hunger is being appeased.

And what already you took, that they’ll give you proper relief, they’re taking leave from you automatically, that our trade won’t go any longer here, they will all withdraw.

And your natural inclination towards the movement forward, that will automatically get increment, increased acceleration. The acceleration you will find in your progress.

These three things you will feel practically. Come and take what we say.”

In this way you are to approach one and all. And leaving the result to the Lord. We are only agents. We are working because He ordered. We shall remember what is bhakti proper. What I shall do, the wage what I shall get, it must not come to me, it will go to my Master. Adau arpyeta paścād kriyeta. Whatever benefit I draw from my activity, that won't come to me. I am an agent. It will go to the Proprietor, to my Master, Kṛṣṇa. With this idea if we move, then it will be bhakti proper. Otherwise it will be karma-kāṇḍa, otherwise it will be fruit-hunting, the result of the karma I want to enjoy for myself. The result will go to my Master. I am His servant. I am working under His order. I am His slave. I am not the proprietor. I am not the proper person to be the recipient of the fruit of energy. The Master of the energy is the Supreme Lord. And all the products of the energy must go to Him. It must not be tampered with on the way. This should be the attitude of every worker. Then it will be bhakti proper. We are not the recipient. The recipient is He. We must be always conscious...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the beneficiary is He. I'm not the beneficiary, a selfless worker.

karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana

mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi

[“I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties.] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

A great warning. Because the fruit of the action, you are not the beneficiary, so why should you work, take so much trouble to work? Never! That is the most heinous curse, because I'm not the beneficiary so I'll not work. So, selfless activity, that is also of a lower order, but Godly activity, for the satisfaction of the Supreme Lord we shall work. That is bhakti and there is also gradation: viddhi-bhakti, rāga-bhakti, a big division, calculative and spontaneous. And the master is not a constitutional king, but He's autocrat. That is the highest conception of our sacrifice. To work for an autocrat, what degree of selflessness and courage is required? And what type of faith is required, to work for an autocrat? Despot, liar, who is up to anything, not only that, His normal position is such, not a temporary temperament of Him, but His eternal inner nature is such. And we are to sacrifice for Him, because He's the Absolute good and beauty and love. Such faith; selflessness to what degree? If we can accept Kṛṣṇa consciousness as our highest ideal, how much sacrifice is necessary? And sacrifice means life. Die to live! So no loss but gain, by sacrifice, by giving our hearts out.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So, in many ways, in direct approach, approach by the books; then by saṅkīrtana, so many aspects by which we can approach the souls. By helping them, we can help us. We can help our own fortune, own fate, by helping in this way to others. Kīrtana has been accepted as the means to the end, also. Not only that the others will be benefited, but as a reaction of that, I will be benefited infinitely.

Mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi. “Because you are required to work for Me, so you will stop work? Don’t go to that dangerous reaction. Then you will be doomed. Mā te akarmaṇi 'stv saṅgo. No attachment for strike, stop-work. Because you cannot thrive by your work so you stop it, no. That is a dangerous vacuum. Don’t jump there in the eternal vacuum. But work for Me, and you’ll thrive there most.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. So much so, sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja [ahaṁ tvām sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

[“Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

“My position is such. I’m your guardian, your friend, everything. Your goal of life is in Me.

Believe it Arjuna, at least I must not deceive you, you are My friend, you can take it for certain.”

man-manā bhava mad-bhakto, mad-yājī mām namaskuru mam evaiṣyasi satyaṁ te, pratijāne priyo 'si me ["Think of Me, serve Me, worship Me, offer your very self unto Me, and surely you will reach Me.

Sincerely, this is My promise to you because you are My dear friend.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 18.65]

“My dear friend, I am pratijāne, I promise on oath. I am speaking to you that I am everything. You try to come to Me. I am the goal, I am the fulfilment of the life of you, not only you, but everyone. This is My position. What can I do? From the Absolute calculation, My position is such. At least you are My intimate friend, I won’t deceive you, you can believe Me. I promise that I am such and such.”

How shamelessly Kṛṣṇa is expressing Himself. Because of our defect, He has come to plead for Himself, so much, for our benefit. A record is kept there in Gītā for our guidance.

Then what about Mahāprabhu? Kṛṣṇa Himself came as Mahāprabhu to preach Himself. He came as His own canvasser, with a group and took even Rādhārāṇī along with Him.

“If necessary, I shall show you how charming position you have got in service, how beautiful the service can be; the other half, how dignified that may be. You come along with Me.”

And that Baladeva came as Nityānanda to canvass for Him, Themselves.
The Vṛndāvana has come canvass itself in Navadvīpa.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

So more indebted to the canvasser, than the party real. We're connected more intimately and we are thankful to the canvasser first, and especially when He Himself has come to canvass. How beautiful, how magnanimous, how sacrificing, what sort of love divine there?

Nītāi Gaura Hari bol.

Parvat Mahārāja: Now you are canvassing for the canvasser.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nītāi Gaura Hari bol. We do not know. We came to seek something good.

And Mahāprabhu proposed that, "Try to find if anything good in Me."

I have got some charm there, that yes, it is very charming, very beautiful, very taking. Then, who can distribute such things of satisfaction to my inner heart? I searched and anyhow I found my master, that he's canvassing exclusively for Mahāprabhu, and very strongly. And surcharged with infinite energy to work on account of Śrī Gaurāṅga. How, with what intensity the great dynamo. And then I tried to offer myself to take me in his shelter and following his order as much as I could. And now also I find that I am still in his shelter, and doing some sort of duty, as asked, ordered by him. In this way passing my days, trying to have the core of his advice from different scriptures, the Gītā, the Bhāgavatam, and other scriptures. Trying to find the corroboration what Mahāprabhu told, and our Gurudeva told, from deep, to deeper thinking, and gradually getting some satisfaction. Otherwise, if I don't say that I'm not getting anything, then I should do something wrong about Gurudeva and his paraphernalia. No other ideas can draw my attention towards their proposal. Rather I am getting firm faith day by day in this, in the teachings of Mahāprabhu, Vyāsadeva, the Vraja līlā, all these things in a stronger position we find. But this is infinite, so we must be satisfied with what little I can get from it. At the same time I feel that this sort of light must be extended to others also, in my good faith. So, I am passing my days.

So Pramāṇa Swāmī and Viraha Prakāśa Swāmī has reached here, their response to your call, that is a good omen. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

We're not going to do anything bad, but to our conception the holiest thing, that our purpose is of holiest type ever we can conceive. So we must go forward with this program to do good to others, to do best to others, at the same time to get it our own self. What can be more holy engagement than this in the world? The holiest engagement, with the blessing of the Lord, Nityānanda and Śrī Gaurāṅga.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. It is Their duty, Their department. Preaching is the department of Śrī Gaurāṅga and Nityānanda, mainly. So Their blessings in Navadvīpa Dhāma, and absolving us from all offences, They may utilize us. This is our prayer to them. Aparādha-bhañjan-pāṭ. Forgive all our previous offences, and engage us in the service to spread Kṛṣṇa consciousness and Gaurāṅga consciousness at the same time. Kṛṣṇa consciousness and Gaura consciousness.

Enjoyer, enjoyed and Yoga-māyā. The mutual conation [?], trinity, Bhāgavata trinity. In the Bible, trinity; God the Ghost, God the Father, God the Son, or Guru.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Hlādinī, sandhīnī, saṁvīt. Saṁvīt representing Kṛṣṇa, sandhīnī Baladeva, and hlādinī Rādhārāṇī. The three springs of all this līlā, positive or negative side, direct or indirect. Artheṣu abhijñāḥ svarāṭ, satyaṁ param [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1]

I'm told that [?] has given interpretation that satyaṁ in Bhāgavatam has been meant as Gandhi soil [?] So, he has got his conception about the truth. Truth, the inevitable incidence, the flow. Truth, the inevitable flow.

But what for, this flow? And who can command, who can stop, or conduct it any other way? Hare Kṛṣṇa. The providence, the inevitable flow of incidence, that is truth; the providence, the destiny.

Gaura Hari bol. Satyam, śivam, sundaram. If sundaram is taken away from the inevitable flow, it is meaningless, fulfilment. Raso vai saḥ.

satyam bhriyat, priyam bhriyat, na bhriyat satyam apriyam [?]

priyam ca mam etam bhriyat esa dharma sanatana [?]

Satyam bhriyat. Speak the truth. Don't tell lie. Priyam bhriyat. At the same time you should be mindful not to be eager to give delivery to unpleasant truth. Na bhriyat satyam apriyam. Priyam ca mam etam bhriyat. And that does not mean that you will speak all lies because it is pleasing. Don't do that. Esa dharma sanatana. But satyam bhriyat, priyam bhriyat. Satya, this condition, I shall speak truth: but there should be any condition? Must be priya, otherwise I shall not, unnecessarily I shall not say that. Then, what is priya, what is the position of priya? Priya means tasteful, pleasing. Truth is not pleasing. What is that element of pleasing? Satyam, that is above truth. That is of the mercy character. Truth is justice, something like justice, truth. But pleasing, that is in the category of mercy, above justice. It is possible. Something more than truth. Something more than the naked truth, that sympathy, that mercy, that grace, that love, that charm, beauty. Without that, truth will be rigid law, non-tasteful.

And generally, ultimately, that will come to non-differentiated Brahman conception. Līlā means beautiful, life-giving, love. Without love līlā is useless. That is māyā. So we can have the conception of mercy above justice. We can have some positive conception of the ultimate reality, how He is, how well-wisher He is. We're sinner.

Krsne karunacay bala nandan adi bachay navagichay sacharan [?]

For which Nityānanda Prabhu approaches from door to door and appeals to His utmost. "Accept the truth, Accept what is beauty, because mercy is there."

We may not deserve, but still there is hope if the land of mercy is there. Crossing our preservation it may come to me. How hopeful to the needy. This is prema. Being aggrieved, being opposed, still Nityānanda Prabhu is distributing to Jagāi, Mādhāi. So what is mercy? He's going to give him His own welfare, but being opposed and damaged, still He's giving. Then how hopeful? The existence of mercy is above truth. And this is what is love Divine. This is what is sundaram. This is what is this charm, fascination, attraction, from the Absolute realm. Spontaneous, automatic, and that is the prime, at the root of everything. Good will at the basis of everything.

So Swāmī Mahārāja while America he got some apprehension of going away. He told, I heard, "That if I die, don't be discouraged. You will think of your grandfather. Your grandfather is there. You don't be discouraged. Go on with your work, you'll go on vigorously with your propaganda. Your grandfather is there."

So that mercy is there, the grace is there, in different forms. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

"Go to the church weekly once, or go to the mosque five times, or think of the God thrice in the day at least."

No. Always. Emergency. During war the emergent arrangement, emergency, or something like that. So, Mahāprabhu, His advice came like that, emergency. "Always think of Kṛṣṇa. Ki bhojane, while you are eating. Ki sarane, you are sleeping, you are lying. Ki bhajane [?] while you are awake.

_____ [?] Day and night always think you are in danger. Emergent position. Any moment the death can take you away from this position. So, consider it as emergency, and go on with Kṛṣṇa culture, Kṛṣṇa cultivation, kṛṣṇānuśīlana. By hook or by crook, try to keep up, floating on Kṛṣṇa consciousness, continuous Kṛṣṇa consciousness.” And in the south also when He’s going on preaching tour.

yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa, āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa [kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga]

[“Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad-gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a Guru and liberate everyone in the land. If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association.”]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

“Whomever you meet, speak about Kṛṣṇa. My request, My order to you all, save so many suffering souls. They’re in danger. Help them! They are drowning in ignorance, illusion. Try to rescue them from this drowning position as much as you can. Rescue, rescue the drowning. Āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa. Take risk! Jump in the ocean, take the man out of the drowning position in ignorance, illusion. To light from darkness, drag him, try to drag him from darkness to light. Āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa. Don’t. There is, the fire intimation went to the authority, they referred it to the headquarters, and then the order came, then to extinguish the fire. So this is a mockery. Āmāra ājñāya guru hañā. I’m giving order for the relief work of all drowning in the ocean of māyā. Go on, relief work, relief work.”

Once while in Madras Maṭha, I went to see the Education Minister for a letter. “I shall go to your province, your district, for preaching, I want a recommendation letter.”

He told, “Swāmīji, they’re all Tamil speaking, they do not know English, or your Bengali, or Sanskrit. Then what will you do? First you read Tamil, you learn Tamil, and then you can go.”

I replied, “That suppose I’m going by the road and found in the Tamilian country, and found a boy is drowning in the tank. Should I go to learn Tamil, and then communicate with the persons? Or anyhow I shall try my best by gesture, posture, ‘The man is drowning! The boy is drowning! Rescue him!’ What should be the position, what should we do?”

“You are so extreme.”

“Yes. With so much urgency, it is emergent. We see things something like that. That anyhow Kṛṣṇa consciousness may be injected through some mediator. There may be some Englishmen, or Hindu going to give some impression, everywhere, give some impression.”

So Mahāprabhu has issued an order, yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa. Emergency. He has pronounced emergency. “Whomever you find, talk about Kṛṣṇa. Āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa. Don’t wait for any certificate of the authority. I am issuing general certificate for you all.”

Devotees: [Group laughter] Gaura Hari bol. Gaura-premānanda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...necessary, dharma, artha, kāma, they're coming in a flow, and they pursue the ideal. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Any thought, the communistic thought, not begun by money, but gradually it came to work in the world. Because it appealed to a particular plane in the heart of so many, and they came and worked together.

So Kṛṣṇa consciousness is not a very easy thing to accept by the people in general. But still, we shall try our best to distribute it to others, and the result we shall leave in His hands. But we must utilize our utmost offensive for offensive. We find in the environment, the offensive activity of māyā, in various forms. If we are passive, then sometimes we may be loser. So often, we also may attack the environment which is attacking so many souls with aggression. So, kīrtana means offensive for offensive. Meditation, that is passive attempt, not aggressive, but also aggressive in the thought world. But in the phenomenal world kīrtana is aggressive. Go on chanting of the Name of Kṛṣṇa, creating a peculiar holy vibration in the ether. That will go on with his activity in that plane, and it will carry to the memory of many, who have got the sound. In this way, it will serve in this mundane world; it will do good to the soul, anyhow. The beginners of good things, in the beginning they may not have help from outside. But by their action they may draw the attention of the public, and men and money may come to work under his direction. In many phases of life we have experience of such happenings, incidents. So whatever capital I have got, I must begin with that. Others, we should leave for the above, the discretion of the above. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Parvat Mahārāja: I have a doubt, a question, because I have observed that the meetings we have been having, I see that there is a little problem. But it's still very little but it can become difficult. And that is that I observe that there are two types of sannyāsīs. One is of the introverted, more inclusive and non-expansive type, and few are very extroverted, all-expansive, and all-including type. So, the tendency in these meetings, or in general, is that the exclusive, introverted type withdraws, and the all-expansive, extroverted types dominate the scene. We heard this also happened in the GBC meeting, that maybe two or three take over and establish the mood and the pace. So how can this be avoided?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I want... Who is there?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Mādhava Purī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mādhava Purī Mahārāja. And you?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Badrinārāyaṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Badrinārāyaṇa. And here is Pramāṇa Swāmī.

Badrinārāyaṇa: And Nimāi.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nimāi, [?]

Nimāi: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, the basis of the association is not a rigid, or registered board with all rules. It is voluntary association. If in future it is seen, difference, then there may be a different group, really. And it is not compulsory, none is going to compel anyone, “You must preach and go on.”

Some may in a grand style he may preach, and some in a poor brāhmaṇic style, according to his...

Amongst my God-brothers, Mādhava Mahārāja, Keśava Mahārāja, they preached in such a style that they get much men, money, Maṭhas. But I’m satisfied only with one. In my own way, some book, some poem, fasting, according to my nature and capacity I’m going on.

We can’t avoid this. So the basis is not rigid, it is a slack thing. Anyone may withdraw, anyone may stop preaching, or slowly, as according to his capacity. But those that love grandeur, splendour, according to their nature, they will go on. And in future, separation may come, does not matter, but the separation will be easy. Not that when it is a difference of opinion from the committee he’ll be expelled and all the acquired property will be taken over.

So, or any other solution if you can give, we may consider, that in this way we may form the basis. What is your suggestion? It is a voluntary association, not a very strong law, or any fixed program. In general we shall preach according to our capacity. We were combined before, we have got nothing. We are beginning preaching, and there is another big organized body that will try to crush us. So, if we combine, however small, we have got some position to approach the public. We have got our association, we are doing in this way, we have got difference with that GBC for such and such. Not only myself, not that I'm the only culprit, but there are so many good persons, they're also of the same opinion. In this way, there is some facility from the association. You can take in your place another one or two preachers to your field, to make them understand what is the matter. In this way, mutual cooperation, voluntary cooperation, not any force, not any forced demand, voluntary, mutual.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Mahārāja, perhaps something like this would also work, that if those who were of the dominating mentality would be conscious of their tendency, and try and check it in some way so that the others might be drawn in to a discussion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I did not want to go to the foreign country, so I was told, "Ease-lover." I was called ease-lover.

Nimāi: So what [?] Mahārāja is saying that he doesn't want to suffer, we don't want to suffer.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Don't want to suffer; then?

Devotee: That's the problem.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You don't like to suffer.

*rāja-vidyā rāja-guḥyaṁ, pavitrām idam uttamam pratyakṣāvagamaṁ

It is perfectly pure, and although beyond the purview of sense perception, it is the object of direct perception (by those senses which are eagerly disposed towards devotional service, bhakti). It is the efficacy of all religion, joyfully accessible, and completely devoid of mundane nature.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.2]

That word susukhaṁ; we will find pleasure of course. It is the taste pleasing, all other bitter. But there is some disease in the tongue, boils, attack of boils, jaundice, and so sugar candy tastes bitter, but sugar candy is the medicine to remove this jaundice. And when that jaundice is removed, that sugar candy will taste very, very sweet.

disease is gradually destroyed at the root.”]

[Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 7]

This Name, the Kṛṣṇa kathā now bitter and non-pleasing. But if we apply this non-pleasing medicine for some time, the boils will be removed and it will be found very, very sweet, raso vai saḥ.

[“For those in whose hearts the bud of true devotional feeling (bhāva-bhakti) has sprouted, these feelings follow: 1-They feel forbearance and tolerance, and with serenity of mind (kṣānti), they remain undisturbed, whatever be the circumstances; 2-They don’t like to waste any time, and are eager to utilise their time in the remembrance and devotional service of the Lord (avyārtha-kālatā); 3- They are detached from mundane, material things and the objects of the senses (virakti); 4-They are humble and completely free from pride and false prestige (nirabhimānitā); 5-They live in full hope of receiving the Lord’s mercy with firm faith that Bhagavān will be attained (āśābandha); 6-They are always eager and anxious to serve (samutkaṇṭhā); 7-They always taste nectar when taking the Holy Name of the Lord (nāma-gāne-ruciḥ); 8-They have a natural inclination for the recital of the attributes of the Lord and love to tell of the Divine Qualities of the Lord (tad-guṇākhyāne āsaktiḥ); and 9-They love to live in the Holy Abode of the Lord where the Lord lived, e.g. Mathurā, Vṛndāvana, Navadvīpa, etc. (tad-vasati-sthale prītiḥ). These nine are called anubhāva, subordinate signs of ecstatic love.”] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.13.11 & 1.3.25-26]

[Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 18.7-8] & [Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism, part two, p 385]

When that ruci, ruci bhāva will appear within us, it will be very, very sweet, the sweet taste will begin to dawn. Dawn of love, prema, with us, that will be seen, raso vai saḥ. Only that is rasa. others are all virasa, tasteless. Only His taste, others tasteless. We are to realize that little thing.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari. You are the proof, evidence, that God is. He's our fulfilment. You should be, you should stand as evidence to the public. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Mādhava Mahārāja: So Mahārāja, they are arguing that Prabhupāda wanted everyone to work under the GBC, but we are not doing that, so therefore anything we do is unauthorized.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And authorized from the greater circle. GBC committee resolution is recommendatory, but the general sayings of him, go and preach about Kṛṣṇa, general call. But to facilitate that, he appointed some gentlemen. That does not mean that he has given everything within their whimsical fist. At present that dollars, diplomacy, despotism, in the name of devotion and dedication, and divinity. God is within their fist, Kṛṣṇa; and they think like that. But that is the opposite, they will have to think.

So much pride: "Whatever we view, we'll dictate, and that cannot but be the opinion of Guru and Gaurāṅga, Kṛṣṇa." So, limited narrow views. So much so, "Don't go beyond our Guru Mahārāja's books. His Guru, other Goswāmīs, no. Don't go."

What is this? The natural advice should be, "Read others to support what is written by our Gurudeva. By extensive study. Food, that what our Guru Mahārāja has said, to support that. Our expansion is necessary.

"But don't touch any other body, but just what is given by Gurudeva.

Then, you won't be able to maintain your solidarity."

This is defeatist mentality. So they're all minors, not majors, all minors.

"If you go and read others, even the book of our Gurudeva's Gurudeva, then we are under." What is this? All minors, no majors.

At the same time, "We are God's representative; whatever we shall do, that is the truth." These two things cannot go together.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is not a dead thing, it is a progressive, living thing. Hare Kṛṣṇa. If committee is the absolute, then why you have come from other creed? From Christianity, the church must have its highest authority, the Pope one side, for the Catholic, the Divine succession; this is the insinuation. And for the Protestant there must be some committee, that must have the authority from ancient time. So how you have left that, ignored that, and come to Swāmī Mahārāja? Everywhere there is some such committee or highest authority, and their decision must be accepted in that creed. So why have you come, left everything and come to Swāmī Mahārāja's teachings? So, the necessity of independent selection, the possibility is always there. I am to seek my own benefit, so freedom is there, comparative study in religion is there, so dharma,

*sarva-dharmān parityajya, [mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvām
sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]*

[“Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

This clarion call it is there; broad infinite path be taken within the committee. We have seen their committee; it is a general thing, but not all-exhaustive, generally. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Parvat Mahārāja: What should be then the main purposes of the sannyāsīs meeting in the committee?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mutual cooperation according to their might. If anyone thinks that he will do some help by combined attempt, and if anyone says, “No, I do not like to entangle me in a committee, I shall go on in my own way.” We are not forcing him, but if one wants to go to a preaching life, then mutual cooperation will help. One is helping another, two, three, each is going to a particular zone. And they are also coming in his zone. In this way, by combination, we shall get more strength against such a big institution. A combined effort will be more effective. So I say, and they also find there is some facility of combined attempts.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Jayatīrtha Mahārāja engaged in Giridhari arcana?

Parvat Mahārāja: He’s doing a television film for sending to the disciples, everywhere, with Bhāratī Mahārāja for South Africa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right, so Bhāratī Mahārāja, Jayatīrtha Mahārāja and Sudhīr Goswāmī Mahārāja.

Devotees: He is writing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He is secretary.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Parvat Mahārāja is afraid to enter the committee?

Parvata Mahārāja: I am observing these tendencies and I'm bringing them to you, because I believe that the committee, it's only existing is because of you. So you are the unifying energy, force, consciousness, harmonizing, all-encompassing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mutual help.

Parvata Mahārāja: Because some devotees, I observe they're a little afraid because of previous experience with GBC, so a little afraid of committees, and they feel that maybe...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is not a rigid committee to command, but this is recommendatory in its nature, voluntary cooperation.

Parvata Mahārāja: We feel that maybe we all can cooperate as individual preachers as the need arises. We are all God-brothers, so we can search each other and give shelter to each other, then what is the need of a formal committee? That's the question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For mutual discussion, and to inform the recommendatory rules, that, "If you do this, it would be better." Everyone's suggestion should be sought, and that will be tried to put into practice, if it may be beneficial. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Those that are afraid of the committee may not enter, it is not compulsory; optional. "Because I am recommending, so everyone should enter." Don't say like that.

From the beginning I wanted that only a selected few they may begin with this, and others will follow in future. So if there is any apprehension, those that are in propaganda, or eager to propagate, it will be helpful for them. But those that love secluded life, they may not enter, if they do not feel any urge within for preaching. For preaching purpose it will be helpful, and those that do not feel much urge for preaching within, they may not enter into the committee, immediately, wait for future. Anyhow, service is necessary, preaching is also a good service.

Nimāi: Mahārāja, if anyone feels the urge to preach independently without entering the committee?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Independent preaching, of course, not going to force them, but we think that if we combine, it will be helpful for us. By mutual cooperation it will be more effective, preaching, that is our aim and experience.

Nimāi: But if anybody has any organizing capacity to go on preaching independently even?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anyone may be independent any time from the committee. If he feels the committee is not helping me, no facility I get; then he may gradually withdraw. But on the whole it is thought that by cooperation it will be helpful, more helpful than alone in the present situation.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Especially for new publishing of books.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Suppose there is a press, common press; that may help their preaching by publishing books. And in the managing also, mentioning their propaganda, all these things, it will be helpful.

Parvat Mahārāja: My suggestion on the beginning was that we should unite around the preaching. That should be our active union, that we all want to preach the sampradāya books, and that is our common interest, the message, the philosophy. And Prabhupāda, our Guru Mahārāja said, “Books are the basis, preaching is the essence, purity is the force, and utility is the principle.” So my question is, the principle of utility behind a formal committee, and the higher utility behind a preaching committee, like a printing book committee, like editorial committee, like a trust, a book trust.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. There will be also, the press work, the book printing, then book selling, all this we'll include.

Nimāi: Anyhow, you are to find loving unity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As far as possible, to publish books, to work in the press, that is also preaching, part of preaching; doing his duty. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Gurudeva, if I want to make daily progress in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, I want to feel that every day, I am becoming more Kṛṣṇa conscious, so how to do that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So by serving, service, we can make progress by service. Whatever we do, but servicing temperament must be behind, namanta eva. [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3] Increasing the feeling of our negative characteristic, that we are helpless, we are needy, and attracting Kṛṣṇa's attention to ones own self. "I am the most needy." Sincere feeling of helplessness, and invoking His Grace. Externally we may engage ourselves in any sort of practices, but the internal temperament must be like this; then only we shall approach. Otherwise, other things, this kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā, they will make ourselves their own prey. Or renunciation, yoga vibhūti, or that samādhi, eternal rest, these are the enemies of Kṛṣṇa bhakti. Bhoga, tyāga, enjoyment and renunciation, mainly these two enemies of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa realization. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Mādhava Mahārāja: So does that mean that one should try to increase his service every day if he wants to feel himself advancing?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Service means submission, submissive nature, to increase the intensity of submission in ones nature. That is preparedness for membership in that subtle-most and inner-most plane of life. To connect with that plane, nirguṇa, the saguṇa and the nirguṇa. The nirguṇa, the Māyāvādī salvationists, they say the cessation of enjoyment, that is nirguṇa. But Vaiṣṇavas say that nirguṇa that is positive, that is not the summation of all negation. Not that. It's a positive, a dynamic flow of love and service. It is in the innermost plane. Just as ether, air, and then this water, earth, the finest ether, so, the Kṛṣṇa consciousness is like ether, the most original and comprehensive plane, finest. And our soul can connect, have connection with that plane, and can work as a member in that plane. So, we shall withdraw from all these covers; this body, mind, this intelligence, reason applied in this world, everything, and dive deep into that plane, and we find that our soul is there. There located. It is focused outside. So, that position can be had only by eliminating our charm, attraction for the outer covers and to go in. That process is known as service, sevonmukhe hi jihvādau [Padma-Purāṇa & Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindu, 1.2.234 & 2.109]

“I am not for myself. Does not belong to me. I have got my guardian, my master, I am only dependent existence. In this way, in plain words, I am slave, I have not got independent personality or proprietorship. He's the proprietor. I am His slave. I do not belong to me. I have no personality. I am not the party real. Party is He. I'm subservient.” This sort of realization can take us nearer to that plane of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Vṛndāvana, Vraja. More and more dependent nature. “I cannot live independently, or with so many that are rebels. Those that have a life of harmony, I want to mix, and to become one of them in that plane, and go on serving there.”

And service, it is loving service; labour of love, that is very pleasing, very, very pleasing, which comparison can never be experienced anywhere.

Such sort of pleasure, ecstasy we may feel in that cultivation, exercise of our spiritual power. Just as the sandalwood, as much as it is pressed, so the good scent comes out, emits. The gold, as much as it is burned in fire, it comes with brighter and brighter colour. So by sacrifice, die to live, that process we can have better and better identification of our own self and prospect also. Sevonmukhe hi, that is die to live as you are. Dissolve your ego, wholesale, and you'll find that there is a spark of soul, and you are that thing, and that spark is a member of that plane, the ultimate plane of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. We can thrive, we can live there, thrive there. That is roughly, sevonmukhe hi jihvādau.

We are to cultivate the Name, we can take, we can give to others, help others to take, through the sound also. Anyhow to culture, ānuśīlana, kṛṣṇānuśīlana, cultivation about Kṛṣṇa, and that not only conscious, but that will be serving attitude. "That I am His. I am not separate entity. My entity is dependent. Without Him, I cannot live independently." With some such thought we are to advance towards that.

Ama bahita ami [?] "I do not belong to my own self. I am His property, just like an animal. Animal may have its proprietor. I am also like that." Vikri tasya yatha pasu [?] Jīva Goswāmī gives quotation, that just as an animal belongs to his proprietor, he has got no independent interest or personality, but personality, the proprietorship with the man, and he may play with the animal as he likes; my position is like that. I am a doll of play in the hand of Kṛṣṇa and His own. This sort of life is to be sought and realized. In anyway, by the help of sound, by the help of colour, by the help of touch, by the help of ear, by taste, totalitarian war. I want to avoid the present surface, where I am awake, and to enter into deep, and deeper, deeper, totalitarian, using all our means.

*śrotavyādīni rājendra nṛṇāṃ santi sahasraśaḥ apaśyatām ātma-tattvaṃ

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...all our senses we should apply in inviting Kṛṣṇa and avoiding the present. Just as a ship makes advancement, eliminating the water by its side, and going on by pushing the water on its side back, pushing on. So wherever we are in the midst of we shall push them back and enter into to, from subtle to subtler region. From material consciousness towards pure consciousness, and Nārāyaṇa consciousness, and ultimately Kṛṣṇa consciousness. It is possible by our cultivation of Kṛṣṇa, in all means. Taking prasādam, then this arcanam, then this Name, preaching, all these things, reading, serving Vaiṣṇava, in various means we may engage to earn that affinity, that real affinity, tendency, earnestness towards what we have got conception of from Guru and books, Bhāgavatam, Nītāi, etc. The culture which is given, if it is touching to my heart, I want to earn that jewel of my heart, for which my heart hankers. Total advance towards that, by all means. Even in dream also we shall try to have a dream of that type.

Nahi laya koti laya [?] Rūpa, Sanātana, when they were cultivating this Kṛṣṇa consciousness in such way it is described in Caitanya-caritāmṛta. Avasar nahi laya koti laya [?] Not a very smallest point of time was spared otherwise, continued niṣṭhā. Niṣṭhā means nairantarya, continuous attempt to approach towards Kṛṣṇa consciousness. When it is continuous without any gap, then it comes to the stage of niṣṭhā. Then the ruci, the real taste proper will come next, after the continued mentality about Kṛṣṇa we may have. Niṣṭhā means continuous, no gap, always thinking about Kṛṣṇa. Then the ruci, that is taste, will come, real taste, pure taste, not false imitating taste. Then āśakti, then bhāva. In this way the progress from the out towards to the inner world, it will come.

Mādhava Mahārāja: So Mahārāja, I've been doing those things very imperfectly for about eleven years, as a devotee, but I still feel that I'm not making any progress.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Don't think that you have not made any progress. The test will be, suppose if you leave this, what will be your position? The challenge to you; one day you don't take Name, you don't talk about Kṛṣṇa, you engage yourself in other things. Can you do that?

Mādhava Mahārāja: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, from the indirect.

*bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo viraktir, anyatra [caiṣa trika eka-kālaḥ prapadyamānasya yathāśnataḥ syus, tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo
'nughāsam]*

[“As with every mouthful an eater feels the threefold effects of his satisfaction, his stomach being filled, and his hunger being dispelled, in the same way when a surrendered soul serves the Lord he realises

devotion of three natures simultaneously: devotion in love, the personal appearance of the Lord who is the abode of love, and detachment from all other things.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.42]

Withdrawal from other topics, this is a measuring process also, from the negative side. Positive side, it cannot be measured. From the negative side, if you’re asked to separate yourself from Kṛṣṇa consciousness, or if there is another topic of the worldly type, some political, social, or other, it won’t be tasteful to you, you will come away from that, and that is the sign of progress.

Mādhava Mahārāja: But Mahārāja, even as a boy, before I joined Kṛṣṇa consciousness, I was tending toward God, always I was interested in God, never other things.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That I know, that was a raw thing, and it is getting systematized. It is more valuable.

Mādhava Mahārāja: But I want to make definite more progress, positive progress. Now I’m doing so many scientific things, systematic things, so one should make some...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Once, three brahmacārīns was wandering before our Guru Mahārāja, and Guru Mahārāja could understand that they want to say something to him, but they can’t. Then Guru Mahārāja himself asked, “I think you want to say something to me, but you hesitate?”

“Yes. We came to say something to you.” “You say what you want to say, say.”

“So long we have come, we have joined in the mission, but we don’t find any progress.” “But is it? Are you saying this truly? Are you true when you say this?”

“Yes, as much as we can know sincerely, we feel that we could not making any progress.”

“All right, go, you’re all right. If you could think that you have got something, then there was danger. If you say that, “I have got Kṛṣṇa bhakti; Kṛṣṇa bhakti is such.” The finite says that, “I have captured a portion of the infinite within me.” That is dangerous. But, “I can’t leave Him, I can’t go back, but I have got nothing in my fist.” That is all right. He was in relativity of Kṛṣṇa.

Badrinārāyaṇa: I think he means Mahārāja that he’s not making as much progress as he’d like to make.

Parvat Mahārāja: He’d like to make more progress than he’s doing presently.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You see...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Faster.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the measurement from the negative side. Positive side, no measurement possible. Mahāprabhu Himself says, “Not a bit, not a drop of the divine love I have got within Me.”

na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi me harau, [krandāmi saubhāgya-bharam prakāśitum vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: “My dear friends, I have not the slightest tinge of love of Godhead within My heart. When you see Me crying in separation, I am just falsely exhibiting a demonstration of My great fortune. Indeed, not seeing the beautiful face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I continue to live My life like an insect, without purpose.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

“Then why You are crying, weeping, shedding tears so much?”

“Oh, you don’t know. I want to show to the people I have got that divine love. Only to get this name to deceive the people, I’m showing so much tears, shedding so much tears.”

“Why do You say so?”

Vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān. “It is a positive proof that I have got not a single drop of Kṛṣṇa prema, divine love. Why? Why I could not die without that? Why I am fostering My life? I’m dragging My life in Me without having that great thing? This is positive proof that I have no love. If I had a speck, a drop of love, then by separation, we should not have lived.”

That is His idea. One cannot live without Kṛṣṇa. “So I’m living, so this is the proof that I have no love.”

Do you follow?

Mādhava Mahārāja: Yes. So you're saying progress means to give up material things, this is [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Others will see others progress, but he himself cannot feel any progress. Taṭasthā. Only this test, if I'm asked to leave all these things, can I do that? If the answer comes in the negative, "No, I can't, I can't leave this company, these books, these activities, taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa, I can't totally give it up." Then of course, I have got something by the grace of my Gurudeva, _____ [?] because I cannot leave them. I have got some attachment, some attachment about the purity, about the divinity, some sort of conception. Otherwise if I'm asked to give them up just in this moment I can't do that. I can't withdraw myself from the present condition. So I have got some taste for this, indirectly we may calculate. But Kṛṣṇa is not such a thing that we'll have in the front talk with Him, and this; inform my grievances to Him, all these things. That is not possible in such position, that is very, very high.

Badrinārāyaṇa: What happened to those three brahmacārīs?

Parvat Mahārāja: The three brahmacārīs that talked to Bhaktisiddhānta, what happened to them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "You are all right, you may go, no apprehension, you are all right."

Parvat Mahārāja: They advanced further?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. They remained up to death.

"I have got it," it is most dangerous, "I have got Kṛṣṇa prema." "I have not got, but I can't leave. I can't leave this sort of life." Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Narottama Ṭhākura says in so many songs, “Mahāprabhu came with such a flood of divine love. All, animals, leaves, trees, they got it, but only with the exception of me. Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu, have distributed it so extensively, but my unfortunate self, that is out of His mercy.”

Narottama Ṭhākura, in many of his songs he has mentioned like that.

Narottama dasi kaya [?] ami keval baki raya dandi [?]

“With the single exception of myself, all delivered in general, inundated with the divine love, the whole country I see, with the single exception of this offensive soul.”

This is the feeling, a type, the finites dealing with infinite. This is the necessary nature, can never assert that I have got. Because the uncertain position, freedom is on that side, and you are taking shelter with. You may be eliminated, driven any moment. Such is our position, we may be driven away.

By right, if you want to establish any right, no right. But by affection we can have many things. Not a matter of right, but through serving affection. By serving we get an affection from the opposite side, and that is our property. That faith, that śraddhā, that is property, no claim, no claim can be established, externally, legally. Affection is above law, above justice, the mercy, the mercy plane. It is such in nature. Not legal document, but in possession by love may possess everything, but no document can force. That is the relation of the negative and positive.

The aggressor and the aggressed; predominating and predominated. The negative right. Negative has got a right; positive cannot stand independent. The positive is aggressive and negative passive. But passive existence is also a kind of existence, a type of assertion, but not which imitates the nature, the demand of the positive. Not that qualification, it is otherwise, a different nature; a property of a different nature. That is where the affection, the love, that goes in that line. We can't establish any right over anyone's affection. It is always independent. We can't force affection. It is spontaneous. We can't demand and force to exact any affection, physically, but by service we can draw affection. Affection is there. By serving we can acquire affection of anyone and everyone. Not by demand, not by law. It is such a land, free land, free love. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So that is the land of beauty, mercy, love divinity, affection, charm, not under justice, under law. Still they hold the supreme position. In Dvārakā in married life, some obligation, some influence of law, that is not very laudable, nor very tasteful. In Vṛndāvana it is free, so the highest play of love there possible. No obligation, or anything of the sort.

Do you follow? Very abstruse. Abstract. Still, it is holding the highest position according to the Bhāgavata, and Mahāprabhu, and the devotees. Freedom. Love only exists in the land of freedom. Never obligation of law. It does not care for any force, or any law, or any obligation. It is free; then it is love, _____ [?] Above obligation. As much as above all these laws, so much the intensity, the representation of love. It is a very peculiar substance, commanding everything, even Kṛṣṇa. The Autocrat, the Despot, He's also controlled by love. What to speak of others. There's no other way to control Him, but He can be controlled only through love. Love is so powerful, and so independent, so free, and so pure. It does not care for anything for its existence, independent. Charm, beauty; it's going of itself. Gaura Hari. Who is, our Jayatīrtha Mahārāja?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Tīrtha. Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja.

Parvat Mahārāja: Bhāratī Mahārāja also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He has also come. Only with the exception of Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, Swāmī. Swāmī Mahārāja.

Parvat Mahārāja: Aranya Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Aranya Mahārāja also, they are engaged there, in the garden?

Parvat Mahārāja: The ploughman came, so they're ploughing the fields, and Akṣayānanda Mahārāja is feeling very tired and exhausted this morning.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Aranya Mahārāja is supervising the ploughing.

Parvat Mahārāja: Two ox teams came.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja: Bhāratī Mahārāja and myself were making a video to show that when he goes to South Africa in a few days. So, I introduced him to the devotees in South Africa on the video. And also I'd like to bring that machine upstairs for a few minutes and request Your Divine Grace perhaps to say a few words of blessings to the devotees now in our society, if it would be possible. I don't want to impose.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I have got my sympathy for your independent preaching. It is already known to everyone.

Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja: We may leave it at that? That's all right.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. What is video proper, we will speak here, and your words and photo, that will be in a ...

Parvat Mahārāja: Television. It's like a tape; like we are taping your voice, so we tape your voice and your image.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And your figure, image, and it will be reproduced there?

Parvat Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Television is something all right?

Parvat Mahārāja: No. The television is where the film is shown.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Suppose I phone from here to Africa? And anything that, when I am making phone, they will see my photo?

Devotees: Yes.

Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja: No, that is not possible. Not on a telephone, not yet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is making the phone, his figure is also there: television, something like that.

Parvat Mahārāja: This is like an instantaneous film. We film you and after finish, we can see the film. Electronic.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is localised. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja: Yes, localised. This tape would then have to be transmitted over one big antenna, broadcasting for other people to see it on their televisions.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Let Guru Gaurāṅga help in that way.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So our Mādhava Purī Mahārāja, he's in a fix. He says, "I don't find Kṛṣṇa, and also, I can't leave Kṛṣṇa, where I am."

Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja: I'm very sympathetic. I'm in the same position. But you can give us Kṛṣṇa. You can please kindly do so.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

*kṛṣṇa se tomāra, kṛṣṇa dite pāro, tomāra śakati āche [āmi to' kāṅgāla,
'kṛṣṇa' 'kṛṣṇa' boli', dhāi tava pāche pāche]*

[“Kṛṣṇa is yours, therefore you are able to give Him to others. This is certainly within your power. I am indeed wretched and fallen, simply running after you crying “Kṛṣṇa! Kṛṣṇa!”]

[From Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Ohe! Vaiṣṇava Ṭhākura, 4] This is going upwards.

Nabyadi visva mate [?] This line. There is a saying of Kālidāsa, the great Sanskrit poet. He was a very clever and a good poet. There was a king in the Karnata state, near Bombay. He was very fond of paṇḍitas and poets, but he has his court paṇḍita, one man by the name Hala. He was very clever. He did not allow any paṇḍita to meet the king. If the king appreciates the scholars, then he's benevolent, he gives many gifts to them. So, he guards. And he was very afraid of Kālidāsa.

“If Kālidāsa can enter in any way, then he will capture the whole state. The king will be so much enchanted by his poetry.”

But one day Kālidāsa went there. His appearance was not very capturing. He went there, that, “I'm a brāhmaṇa boy, I can't eat, I'm very, very poor. If you allow me to go to the king and you plead on my behalf that he gives some [?], some continuous help, then I can live. Otherwise I shall die without food.”

“Oh, you are so poor boy.” “Yes.”

“You are a brāhmaṇa you say?” “Yes.”

“Do you know any Sanskrit?” “Very little.”

“Oh, little. Can you compose any poems in praise of the king? Then it will be very easy for me to get some grant for you from the state.”

“Yes I can, I don't think whether it will satisfy you or not.” “Just try. Give me some specimen.”

Then Kālidāsa composed a poem.

utistha tishta bho rajan mukam prakadaya asvattha arodhite navare kuku chavoituhi chavoituhi [?] “What is the meaning? Utistha tishta bho rajan.

“O king, wake up from the bed. Mukam praka.

Wash your face, your mouth. Prakadaya asvattha. It is all right Sanskrit. But what is this ta? Oh, take it in hand at present. Arodhite navare kuku. The ta must be put here, a part of a word. That must be put there, the kukuta it will be. But there is no [?] so it has been replaced here.”

He’s laughing in his heart, and “Yes, yes.”

“Then, navare kuku chavoituhi chavoituhi. What is the meaning of this expression?”

“Chavoituhi chavoituhi, cha-vai-tu-hi, it is only to fill up the gap. No meaning. So, the three parts I have composed anyhow, but the fourth part, no word came, so, these words twice repeated, chavoituhi chavoituhi, [?] filled up only.”

“Yes, yes.” He thought that if I can represent such a fool, then my dignity will be increased. So, he took him to the king. And when Kālidāsa met, just, he presented before the king, he began his own poems, ready made poems.

sriman natha tavananu bhagavati vani [?] In this way, [?]

And then that man was benumbed, “O! Kālidāsa! No other gentleman. He has anyhow entered.

What to do? Raja, he’s happy like anything, he’s pleased.”

“O! Such poem I have never heard till now, though I have got extensive study of so many ancient poetry. But such type of poetry I have never heard.”

The meaning is, sriman natha tavanane bhagavati vane nale nrityate [?]

“O my Lord, in your tongue the goddess of learning is dancing madly.

Sriman natha tavanane bhagavati vane nale nrityate. The mad dancing of the goddess of learning in your tongue.

Nale nrityate, tad dvista kamalasana gata vati [?] The goddess of wealth, Lakṣmī Devī, she came hearing that that goddess of learning is dancing there. The Lakṣmī Devī came, the goddess of wealth. Tad dvista kamalasana gata vati.

Laulapi vadagani [?] Her name is famous that she's very cañcalā, she does not stay in one place for a long time. She is very fickle, that is, money does not stand anywhere for some long time, she goes away. So, Kamala, Lakṣmī Devī, the goddess of wealth, she's notorious for her quickly leaving the place, for leaving any place quickly. That is laula. But vadagani, but she's tied down by your qualities. I came to see the dance of the learning, both learning and wealth that is within you, it is captured by you.

Labdha badha gunē [?] By your quality she's tied. Guṇa means quality, guṇa means also rope. She's tied, and she can't leave you. So both learning and aiśvarya, wealth, under your command permanently.

Tad dvista kamalasana gata vati. Kirtis chanda kalinda kuṇḍa kuṇḍa kṣiro dhanīro praman [?]

Hearing this, the kirti, the fame, the fame means kirti, that can be compared with successively these things. Chanda, it can be compared with the moon, but some say that moon has got some black spot so I reject, chanda kuṇḍa.

Then kunda pushpa is very white, very pure type it may be compared. No. Some sort of defect there.

Kumuda. Then this red lily. Then also some defect, may be rejected, that in daytime it becomes pale.

Kuṇḍa kuṇḍa kṣiro dhanīro pramana. And it may be compared with kṣīra-sumudra, the ocean of milk.

Karsa lambha vidhim vilambha carita [?] It may be compared, your fame, your glory, that may be compared with these things successively. Crossing the ocean she has started, but she does not stop, by the fear that Lakṣmī is tied down here, and Saraswatī madly dancing, so she also may be caught here, so kīrti is running, crossing the sea towards the different directions for fear of being tied down here. Kīrti means yaśa, fame. As much as it is going away, so much it is very extensive, it is laudable, it is desirable, the fame has gone beyond the ocean, your fame.” In this way.

For which I began this śloka? What point I came to this śloka? What was the point of our discussion before?

Devotees: Mādhava Purī Maharaja he cannot find Kṛṣṇa. But he cannot leave Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He’s in a fix. He can’t...what is the point of similarity? He’s not satisfied, he can’t leave also, from this point I came, to this point? Neither stay, eh?

Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja: We said that only your mercy could give us Kṛṣṇa. [?] discuss. You began to give us your mercy in the form of this discussion.

Parvat Mahārāja: About the poor boy that went to present himself to the king to ask for some...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ksiro dhaniro pramana, that point.

*kṛṣṇa se tomāra, kṛṣṇa dite pāro, tomāra śakati āche āmi to' kāṅgāla,
'kṛṣṇa' 'kṛṣṇa' boli', dhāi tava pāche pāche*

[“Kṛṣṇa is yours, therefore you are able to give Him to others. This is certainly within your power. I am indeed wretched and fallen, simply running after you crying “Kṛṣṇa! Kṛṣṇa!”]

[From Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Ohe! Vaiṣṇava Ṭhākura, 4]

Kirtis chanda kalinda kuṇḍa kuṇḍa kśiro, karsa lambha vidhim [?]

May be of certain similarity. I forgot the link.

That kirti, the fame is running away for fear of being of bondage, for fear of bondage, kirti is going away, flying away, running away. So, it is going up without limit, running up. Kṛṣṇa se tomāra, kṛṣṇa dite pāro. He says that, “My Guru, he can, he's in a position to give Kṛṣṇa.”

That Guru says, “My Guru can give me Kṛṣṇa.”

He says, “My Guru in paramparā, it is running towards up, running. I have got nothing. My property all belongs to my Gurudeva.”

He will say in his turn, “I have nothing in my possession. It is the property of my Gurudeva.”

In this way, the telescopic system, everyone enhancing, and through that telescopic system it is coming here. That sun is there and telescopic system coming to us. This glass is in possession of this figure. No, the next glass is in possession. They're reflecting; they're conscious they're given reflection coming down in succession.

Everyone thinks, "No no, I have nothing. But my Gurudeva, there I can see it is there."

In the next layer, he can trace. In this way this is transparent Guru paramparā. Through them it comes enhanced vision. Self-abnegation, self-surrender, through that. That is the transparent characteristic, and through that passes to the sun is where, but it is coming here, in the reflection it can catch. So, Guru paramparā is a telescopic system that can show, but everyone says it is wonderfully found.

"That no, no, I have got nothing, but I see, here it is, there it is, my Gurudeva, through the Vaiṣṇava I can see clearly, there is Kṛṣṇa. But my position is very poor, and my faith is very bad."

This is the peculiar line for the finite to approach the infinite. For the negative to connect with the positive, no assertion is possible, the right is there. No right given extensively, not ostentatiously, no right. But a right through affection, it is meant like that. Not physical right or anything, but a reflection. And that is not a gross, but to the fine heart it is very tangible. It is very tangible to a fine heart, that susceptible heart, tangible. In others, they cannot find its existence anywhere. But the fine estimate can catch, that such sort of existence is, and this is the highest type of existence. This sort of existence is of the highest type. So subtle, so fickle, so independent, so free, so expanding, so embracing. Such things remain in the world. Kṛṣṇa consciousness and there other, His paraphernalia, the svarūpa śakti; it is such. It is there, but not detectable so easily. So independent its existence. They are maintaining in this world, everything, but nothing. So command in its own existence it has got; appearing, non-appearing, withdrawing. A sweet will, so free, so...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahāprabhu suddenly found as if He's Kṛṣṇa Mūrti and lost Himself, and crying aloud, "What I have seen, please show Me once more. I can't stand. My heart breaking. My friends, once more show Me that sweet, sweetest appearance. I can't live without that."

["O Arjuna, conqueror of the enemy, although in this form of Mine I am practically impossible to be seen by all other methods, the pure devotees, by their exclusive devotion unto Me, are capable of actually knowing Me, seeing Me, and entering into My divine pastimes."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 11.53-54]

"No way I am approached, but only exclusive devotion Arjuna."

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. We are not satisfied with ordinary things which are available in the nature. We have tied our prospects with something so high, so rare, so dear.

adau aprasasi sadjyam jita bhavo kase mahim [?] Our campaign is so adventurous, if we are successful we have got the highest thing. Unsuccessful, then our prospect, whole future, whole life gone. Gone. With this risk we have come, to search for the most precious thing, we must remember, not go back. Hmm? Kṛṣṇānusandhāna. Brahma-jijñāsā in Vedānta.

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati [yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati]

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."]

If that is known, everything is known. With this temptation we have come. Yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam tad eva brahma. In Vedānta also, brahma-jijñāsā. Try to have experience about the root of everything, then everything will be at your command, your hand. So kṛṣṇānusandhāna. What is that Brahman, that Brahman, Paramātmā, all these stale things? Kṛṣṇa is the very gist of them. Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Everything in His monopoly. So, Kṛṣṇa search after Kṛṣṇa. He's such, He's autocrat, He's a thief. He's a cheat.

Mahāprabhu one day in Navadvīpa, He was taking the name of “Gopī, gopī, gopī.”

One gentleman, this so-called educated class of that time, “You Paṇḍita, Nimāi Paṇḍita, why do You take the name of gopī, gopī, gopī? That is not found in any śāstra. But You may take the name of Kṛṣṇa. We have found the name of Kṛṣṇa in some scripture, and some sort of good effect may be expected thereby. But why do You take the name of gopī, gopī, gopī? It is out of all scripture. Are You mad? Why do You still do? Wasting Your time. You are a brilliant scholar. What is Your degradation, deplorable degradation.”

And Mahāprabhu He was removed. “Who will take the name of Kṛṣṇa he's a traitor. How He has treated with the gopīs. How, with how sincere love they approached Him and He was so cruel, a debauch, left them and went away and they're crying. Who will take the name of Kṛṣṇa? You have come to make Me, to canvas Me for the party of Kṛṣṇa. I shall teach you a lesson.”

So with a rod Mahāprabhu.

And that man told, “He's stark mad. Nimāi Paṇḍita is finished. He's totally mad.” He went away running amongst his own group, “Nimāi Paṇḍita came to strike me with a bamboo stick. We must have to teach Him a good lesson.” This Kṛṣṇananda Gambadhi's [?] party, the tantric party.

So, Mahāprabhu says, “Don't take the name of Kṛṣṇa. He's very cruel, treacherous. He gives hope to His servitors, then flies away. Don't go that side. We shall rather worship the gopīs, who can give but cannot come back. Who can approach towards, but they don't know, they do not know to come back, retrace. We must worship them.”

Gaura Hari bol. So here I stop. With the praise of the gopīs we stop.
Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...nirmatsara, selflessness means that, to admit that He's all in all. Even my existence can be effaced by His sweet will. Though eternal I'm told, the soul is sanātana, etc, but His, the Absolute Will can efface me. Kṛta dāsa, slave, the master can murder the slave.

mārobi rākhobi yo icchā tohārā, [nitya-dāsa prati tuwā adhikārā]

["Slay me or protect me as You wish, for You are the master of Your eternal servant."] [The Songs Of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 13]

As much as you'll be able to realize your position of helplessness, so much you are enriching yourself from the real standpoint. You have got, you are acquiring a position there. Just the opposite, no vanity will be allowed there, all humility. Humility has got a value there, because [?] we think that we are within the negative, not positive. No right, but all right only in His sweet will, that is prema, love, His grace. Our existence on that aspect of the reality.

The śakti, the female has got its importance in one way, and not that she will go to imitate the right of the male. There is our failure. And male has got his own way of attitude. So, predominating and predominated. If we want to assert our predominating self then we must, we're to come in connection with māyā, the illusory energy. There we are puruṣa. But if we want to approach that taṭasthā then we are not puruṣa, we are of female type, dependent type, śakti. In consideration with Him, śakti, in consideration with māyā, we are śaktimān puruṣa, exploiter, enjoyer. So there, to be enjoyed. If we seek our relationship with the upper, the upper existence, we are to be enjoyed, we are to be handled. Subjective existence is there, that side. And here, we come to exploit, to assert, then we are in connection with māyā we can do, and we are suffering from the reaction. Here puruṣa, and there śakti. In the relativity of the higher we are śakti, potency. And here in the illusory world we can assert we are puruṣa, we are enjoyer, but this is false and reactionary.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So try to develop the attitude of your potent potency characteristic. As much as you will be able to do that you will have value on the higher realm. Submissive. By submission, praṇipāta, paripraśna, sevā, you may be allowed to enter into that domain, otherwise not. Sevā, you are to be utilized by them, that higher interest of the higher land, higher plane, then only are you allowed. No exploitation for the jīva soul is possible in that land, the country of Paramātmā, and even above. Kṛṣṇa.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: There's an endeavour of the prāyas of the Māyāvādī by jñāna. The false endeavour to understand by knowledge, of the Māyāvādī. Now that is one type of endeavour.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They cannot enter into that domain. They're showing their feats only here within this mundane world up to Satyaloka. Then in Brahmaloḥa they merges, finished, they cannot pass through Brahmaloḥa towards Vaikuṇṭha, with that idea, so 'ham', "I am a part of the highest entity." That idea detains them in Brahmaloḥa, never upward. But dāso 'ham, then you'll be allowed to enter into the higher realm. So nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2]

[“Completely rejecting all religious activities which are materially motivated, this Bhāgavata- Purāṇa propounds the highest truth, which is understandable by those devotees who are fully pure in heart. The highest truth is reality distinguished from illusion for the welfare of all. Such truth uproots the threefold miseries. This beautiful Bhāgavatam, compiled by the great sage Vyāsadeva (in his maturity), is sufficient in itself for God realisation. What is the need of any other scripture? As soon as one attentively and submissively hears the message of Bhāgavatam, by this culture of knowledge the Supreme Lord is established within his heart.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2]

These are the commendations.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: So Mahārāja, what is the endeavour of the sādhak. The sādhaka, in vaidhi bhakti, what is that endeavour which he feels to try and understand?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As recommended in the śāstra and by the sādhū he's to follow that program. Then gradually he will find himself, that he's in the proper soil and he's gaining some ground, and that will encourage him to continue his attempt towards that, upper realm. When ruci will come, up to ruci he's to undergo some program recommended by the sādhū and śāstra, by that help, śravaṇa-daśā. Śravaṇa-daśā, varaṇa-daśā, up to āpana-daśā, he'll take trouble of sādhana. Up to śravaṇa-daśā, varaṇa-daśā, and sādhana-daśā, ah, when āpana-daśā, the plane of āpana-daśā, that self realization will begin, then he himself will stand guarantee for his own activities. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Āpana-daśā, he will feel himself, bhāva bhakti. Then he won't be taken away from that position. "No, I'm realizing a novel type of ecstasy, in bhāva bhakti." From ruci also, ruci, āśakti, bhāva.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

"Higher things we can acquire by service." Main thing is that, sacrifice and have. Pay, pay for it. Not paying in terms of money and other things, but paying in terms of your own self. Surrender and have. Give and get.

Bon Mahārāja: I'm bankrupt.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Give and get. As you can give, you can get similar things.

[Bhagavad-gītā, 4.11]

Bon Mahārāja: We're going to ask you for a loan Guru Mahārāja.

Come out with your little thing, your little capital come out with your little capital. You will get His in that return.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Bon Mahārāja says he's bankrupt.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is a good sign to be bankrupt here, then he will seek some shelter, he's seeking. If he's really bankrupt then he's seeking a shelter sincerely.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: He would like to arrange a loan from you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A loan? Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. This is all loan, the activity. I am also in the loan, reaction. We continue the business in loan from Gurudeva. A business of loan, negative side business, all on loan. Ha, ha, ha. Bearer of Mahāprabhu.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For māyā, illusion, it is difficult for us to digest, this truth. That I am small, I don't like to digest this, to accept this. There's the rub. That is, my inner, evil tendency to capture others right. To understand what is freedom, we're really accustomed to think that I can encroach over the freedom of others, of the environment. That is the disease.

And reaction, “Otherwise I shall commit suicide, that is, enter the tomb, samādhi. If I cannot exercise my freedom on the environment, on outside, then rather I shall enter into tomb, grave. But I won't accept slavery, serving attitude to the environment. To become a servant we're frightened. Exploiting unit I want to be, but not a serving unit, that I shall give my freedom to another superior hand.”

There we shrink, and that is the innate defect. Freedom means to exercise right over the environment, that we understand by freedom. Why should you not accept service for the environment? Why? We think there we'll be reduced to minimum position. But that is the healthy, the health for us to do for others, to become a servant. There we can thrive, by serving the environment and especially the Lord of the whole. We think that we are dying; if we accept service then we are dying. That temperament, false temperament has grown in us. And that is a foreign element entered into view proper. It is a bitter pill to swallow. Ha, ha, ha. So what is service proper? That Hegelian philosophy, Die to Live. Dissolve yourself, your ego as it is at present. Dissolve, mercilessly, mercilessly dissolve your ego, die. Die means dissolve, mercilessly. Throw yourself into the fire. You will come out with bright self. Learn to die, as you are, that mental concocted body or something, energy. Take the name of the Lord and die. So,

[tomāra icchāya mora icchā miśāilo] bhakativinoda āja āpane bhulilo

["My will has become merged with Your will. From this day forward Bhaktivinoda has completely forgotten himself."] [Second Principle of Surrender: Ātma-Nivedana, 4.8]

Forget yourself as you are at present. As you find your proper self there, that does not die. Death is ordained for our existence and that part of ours, give it to the death. And who, what does not die, that will remain.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. But Mahāprabhu has discussed this physical death.

sanātana, deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa yadi pāiye, koṭi-deha kṣaṇeke tabe chāḍite pāriye, [deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa nā paī, pāiye bhajane, kṛṣṇa-prāptyera upāya kona nāhi 'bhakti' vine]

["My dear Sanātana," He said: "If I could attain Kṛṣṇa by committing suicide, I would certainly give up millions of bodies without a moments hesitation."] ["You should know that one cannot attain Kṛṣṇa simply by giving up the body. Kṛṣṇa is attainable by devotional service. There is no other means to attain Him."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.55-56]

"I'm ready to die crores, millions of times in a second, but that is nothing, that is tamasic, very lower, lower bait, this physical death. The mental death is necessary, mental death, not only physical death. Real death, a mental death, wholesale."

Then also I may get the taṭasthā stage.

But He says, "Die or not die, go on cultivating Kṛṣṇa consciousness with the company of a sādhū, of a Kṛṣṇa devotee, a devotee of Kṛṣṇa, go on. That internal wealth, try to accumulate, wherever it is possible, kriyatām yadi kuto 'pi labhyate."

[kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa-bhāvitā matiḥ, kriyatām yadi kuto 'pi labhyate tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate]

The internal capital, it can be had only from the sādhū. Wherever you get it, with any price, you try to secure that, innermost wealth. But mere physical or mental death can't reach you in that higher stage. You have to dive deep into Kṛṣṇa consciousness. So whenever and wherever you find such strong attachment for Kṛṣṇa, try to secure it from him at any price. That will be the best utilization of our life and energy, to purchase the higher things. And that is also at the sacrifice of the higher type of thing within you, innermost hankering by surrendering your innermost existence, transaction. The encasement, physical encasement, mental encasement of different types. Bhūr, Bhuvah, Svah, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satya, this gross to finer encasement. There are many types, many varieties, not only that, the Virajā, Brahmaloka, Vaikuṇṭha, so many subtle. Even consciousness has got its gross portion in Vaikuṇṭha.

More subtle within you that Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Our dedication is intense to its highest capacity, and dedication to the Autocrat. Dedication to the Autocrat, not to a constitutional king, where is justice, but dedication to Kṛṣṇa, to the Autocrat. Anything can happen. The highest degree of dedication is necessary there, and the gain is also similar. As much as you can risk, so much you can expect to gain.

That is Mahāprabhu's direction, "Don't be miser, so surrender yourself to the Autocrat, the Absolute Good, and you will be the best gainer." That is His recommendation. "Don't be too much calculative, and miser. If you find a proper place, give yourself totally. Totally."

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Ātmā-nikṣepaḥ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ātmā-nikṣepaḥ. [?] in a proper place. Kṛṣṇa is the greatest bidder.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Greatest?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bidder, bid, highest bid in auction. He will pay most, Kṛṣṇa, so much price, none can pay. Ha, ha. He can pay so much. He's the highest capitalist. Whimsical. Prodigious.

And none can venture to come by Her except Vrajendra-nandana. Mahābhāva svarūpini, the sacrifice at its zenith is there, mahābhāva svarūpa, the highest standard ever, of eternally, is there represented. No such sacrifice, or self giving, self surrendering, beyond all standard ever known to the world, of scriptures. As Lakṣmī Devī has no place near Kṛṣṇa, so Nārāyaṇa also cannot approach towards Rādhārāṇī, what to speak of others. Ha, ha, ha. And not even Dvārakeśa or Mathureśa, not even Gopeśa.

In Bhāgavatam in every point there is presence of Rādhārāṇī because that is the goal. We must be fully conscious of that fact, that whatever we do, whatever I possess, on behalf of Him. I have got no proprietorship in myself. I'm only an agent. We must be conscious. Whatever I do, I gain, I lose, that will go to my Master. That consciousness must be at the basis. Then we can conquer the whole world. I am not a conqueror. What I'm doing, I'm doing on behalf of my Master, of my Lord. That consciousness must be at the bottom of all the attempts. That is ācārya abhimāna. What’s the time?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Seven thirty five.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Seven thirty five. Gaura Hari bol.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, if the Ācārya accepts disciples, if the Ācārya sees that some of his disciples have fallen away and completely lost faith and become atheist. Then that connection is automatically stopped between the Guru and the śiṣya?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who has left Guru?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Temporarily it may be seen, temporarily that is suspension, something like, for some offence then suspension. May not be stopped eternally.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Another thing which is hard to understand is, to what degree is the Ācārya responsible for the karma of his śiṣyas?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, somewhat. That depends on the position of the Ācārya. Who is doing wholly on behalf of Kṛṣṇa he may not be affected.

But, when, once Prabhupāda gave sannyāsa to one disciple, our Guru Mahārāja, but he could not keep. Prabhupāda was so much disturbed and he began to cry, a peculiar sentiment appealing to Mahāprabhu.

“Why have You given me this inspiration? If You have not given me power to protect a disciple from the hands of māyā, I gave him sannyāsa and he could not keep it, māyā snatched him, then why have You given me such inspiration? Then I resign to You my post.”

For some time he cried and he suffered with such mentality, it was shown.

“When You have not given me such little power that I can protect a man from the clutches of māyā, I have already given sannyāsa but he could not keep. So I have no power. I’m helpless. I won’t do this service. Then take me off, for some time.”

But of course that was adjusted very soon. Such feeling, such reaction, also comes in the mind of an Ācārya when his disciple goes away, leaving his connection. He feels in his heart so much for him that reaction. “I am unqualified. I am unqualified.” And that sort of reaction keeps him pure from the misdeed of the disciple. His sincerity in the service of disciple, nothing can approach to contaminate him.

Śiṣya not for wealth, or not for any other purpose that we make disciples, but only recruitment for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Eternal recruitment, to make him fit, pure, for the service of the Supreme Lord. That should be the purpose, not for his own mean benefit of any type.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, it seems that most persons in the western world they may come because of some small faith. And what they’ve heard about Kṛṣṇa they’re not fully understanding...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Though śravaṇa-daśā, then varaṇa-daśā. First śravaṇa-daśā, he should be educated sufficiently and then he’ll be accepted in the group. Otherwise he, half understanding he may leave, then the reaction will come in the fame, in the name, of the Ācārya. He'll be paid in his own coin. But still...

Bhāratī Mahārāja: What reaction is that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The reaction? The bad name. If once he became disciple then left him and then he's doing many bad deeds, the name of the Ācārya will be affected thereby. So he'll try his best. But sometimes in the campaign there may be something wrong, right or wrong. By remembering the Infinite Grace of Nityānanda Prabhu, something is given up, after some suspension he may again return, he will have to return one day or other. With this hope you may do. He will have good will, then that will be effective one, in a day or, not in a day, but afterwards.

[“Even a small beginning in this devotional service cannot go in vain, nor can any loss be suffered. The most insignificant practice of such devotional service saves one from the all-devouring fear of repeated birth and death in this world.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.40]

The knowledge of that eternal characteristic that is not lost. It may be again covered for some time but will again awake. Other transient things they come up and go down, but this is of eternal character. This will stand, and in course of time it will gather ground again and permanently. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: How do we adjust the understanding that Caitanya Mahāprabhu He instructed that, or it was insinuated that the Ācārya in Kali-yuga should not take many śiṣyas?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That depends upon the capacity of the person. Many means how many, how great army a General can lead. That depends upon the capacity of the General.

So here Prabhupāda told, “One man he can manage a kingdom, an empire, but still he may find sufficient for his own activity. Another man, he cannot manage his family of five or six men. He finds no time beyond that.”

So it depends, bho śiṣya mahāramba, it depends upon the personality of the man in Ācārya. Man is the gold for that. Rank is but the guinea stamp. Man is the gold for that. Ācārya, uttama adhikārī Ācārya, madhyama adhikārī, in different grade. So Ācārya may be of different power and position. So for the junior class of Ācārya they should not make many disciples, that the opinion of the disciples will guide him. He will guide the disciples, that should be the normal thing. But the opinions of the disciples are guiding the Ācārya, he’s weak. So a weak man must not engage himself in a big [?] then he’ll be lost there. In that sense it has been told.

Devotee: Mahārāja, an Ācārya he may decide that, “I have already given enough dīkṣā, I should stop now, or I should diminish.”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, of course, he’ll be tied, but if he ties them with the toe of his own Gurudeva then he’s clear. Otherwise he’ll be responsible. The responsibility will come to him, but if he makes the way clear to his own Gurudeva then he may remain such side.

He may appeal to his Gurudeva, “I have connected with him, connected them with you, you please take care. I have recruited on your behalf.”

If he’s clear in his heart, in his temperament, then he won’t have to suffer. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: What can be done when the disciples are preaching? And they are making, repeating...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everything is good if it’s in a proper line.

Devotee: But if the Ācārya, their Guru Mahārāja is not accepting new men, and they’re preaching, what they do?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? Guru Mahārāja?

Devotee: [Varāha Prakāśa Mahārāja?] The Guru doesn’t want to accept any more śiṣya, but the disciple of this Ācārya they are preaching, they are recruiting new men...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So what does he say?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: [?]

That suppose the Ācārya has no more interest in giving dīkṣā, then his śiṣyas, what will they do? In their preaching they will recruit more men naturally, so where should those men be guided?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, that ṛtvik. His men who are recruiting for him, they're taking more in number and asking the Ācārya, "You must give dīkṣā to them."

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yes, but he's not interested.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But he's not - then in that case he may transfer them to another Ācārya whom he can trust, "Just go to that Ācārya. I like him, I recommend him for your Ācārya-ship." In this way he may guide, "Go to that gentleman."

That when Madhan's mother came to me for dīkṣā, he got Hari-Nāma from our Guru Mahārāja, but for dīkṣā she came to me. At that time I did not begin to give dīkṣā, that mentality. So I sent her to Goswāmī Mahārāja in whom I had confidence. And so many I sent from here to there, "Go there. I have faith there. You may go. I recommend him."

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, what is lacking is this śravaṇa-daśā. The śravaṇa-daśā seems to be lacking the most to properly educate the newcomer. It's very difficult.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course. Of course. So sometimes if anyone has sufficient time, or not sufficient time he may engage others as assistants to make him, to facilitate his śravaṇa for his satisfaction. If he has got no sufficient time and energy a recruit may be appointed, vartma-pradarśaka-guru, in whom he has got confidence. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Our Guru Mahārāja he wrote that, “In the final days of the Spiritual Master he may take to nirjana-bhajana, and turn over all the preaching to his disciples.”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may not be in all cases. There are some of such temperament want to ‘die in harness.’ That was the word of [Bhakti Saranga] Goswāmī Mahārāja, the Founder of Gauḍīya.

Bana Mahārāja requested him, “We have done preaching service enough, let us enter into the cave of nirjana-bhajana.”

Goswāmī Mahārāja refused hatefully. “I want to die in harness.” That was his... But Bana Mahārāja was flickering...

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Die in the saddle.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...sometimes he enters into the cottage of bhajana, and sometimes comes out with a reaction. That is his temperament.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa is taping everything.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh! Ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: Sarva tat pranita dharma tat [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, so in some personalities the tendency to preach it is always there, it cannot be avoided.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, that goṣṭhyānandī type, there is a peculiar type, special type. Whatever, a sincere case, whatever he finds sweet, at once without taking it himself extends to others. “Oh, take it.” A laudable nature. Must be sincere in his dealing. All right.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: So when it is seen that the Ācārya is apparently suffering some reactions, is it the Ācārya’s fault or the śiṣya’s fault? Because from what you’ve said just now it seems hard to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Suffering, suffering from what?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Suffering from some, perhaps external illness, or mental illness, or internal worries, headache.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is, a particular case should be examined.

Devotee: In general case?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Once our Guru Mahārāja he said, “Because I’ve accepted some nonsense disciples,” he said, “Sometimes I have to suffer for that.”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is the bright side, to have estimation for the Ācārya on the part of the disciples, bright side, general. Generally bright side is that. But particular case should be examined and a remark should be made. Not in all cases.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: According to his capacity, according to his purity of purpose, sincerity. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

When Kṛṣṇa was here there was some, another Vasudeva, arose in Assam side. “I am Vasudeva. He’s not.”

Devotees: Paṇḍraka.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: “Paṇḍraka, what is it.” Then Kṛṣṇa had to face that problem. “Yes, come. Who is proper Vasudeva I shall show you.”

Devotee: Mahārāja, Viraha Prakāśa Mahārāja is asking that, “When Prabhupāda was still present among us, sometimes he has seen that when he was sick, he was ill, he won’t stop giving dīkṣā.”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That should be thought as physical unfitness and their desirability of the heir, some hindrance, some opposition in the fate of the so-called disciples. It should be looked at like that, that some hindrances on the fate of the disciples, for this, this has been created. This unfavourable environment has been created, to stop his dīkṣā. We should take in that way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Our Guru Mahārāja said, “That for preaching purposes, for propaganda of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that sometimes risk had to be taken in accepting someone who is not properly fit. But later by the mercy of the Spiritual Master they may become properly qualified.”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may be, no harm, no inconsistency there. The small capital what still remains with him, you may think, “In a proper fashion if I give him, thrive,” and my Gurudeva’s line will be gloriously extended. So whatever small left for me I may give this to him, for the interest of his Gurudeva and his learning.”

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja, how many disciples did Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura initiate?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That we don’t know. Maybe a thousand, something like that.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura maybe about a hundred. Prabhupāda two, three thousand, maybe, more than a thousand. And Gaura Kīśora Bābājī Mahārāja, one or two.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: And Mahāprabhu, initiated disciples?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Initiated disciples, perhaps one, or two. And Lokanātha Goswāmī’s disciple initiated only Narottama. And Narottama’s disciples perhaps near a million. The whole of Manipur received the grace of Narottama Ṭhākura. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, there's one practical question. As in the case of Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja, we find that some of our God-brothers re-initiated his disciples, gave dīkṣā again, re-initiations took place. For example, Bhāvānanda Mahārāja, Svarūpa Dāmodara, and Bhagavān Mahārāja, Rāmeśvara...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may be done considering the acceptance of his Gurudeva. If a person goes through him, and goes through A.B.C or X, who may be accepted by his Gurudeva. With this internal understanding he may do that. "I shall take him to my Gurudeva." But he feels, "No." He'll be satisfied if he goes through that disciple," then he won't go. But he thinks that, "If I take him to my Gurudeva he'll likely accept." That should be the inner adjustment. "He was mishandling and I'm handling properly, so my Gurudeva was dissatisfied with me."

Bhāratī Mahārāja: But the śiṣyas were not dissatisfied. They were preached to in a different way.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Forcibly manipulated.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Forcibly, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They will have to give explanation there.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With this inner adjustment they will have to do that, whether He's being satisfied with this work.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: It is very painful to the śiṣya and Guru.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course it is painful, it is very, very painful. Like cattle they're dealing with the human sentiments, pure sentiments, like gos on the ship.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yes, cattle.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, cattle. They're being dealt with like cattle that belongs to the committee, not any sentiment between human heart. He's being ignored, he's being smashed, the connection from heart to heart, and from soul to soul. But by a tank, the tank is crushing this infantry. By tank crushing the infantry. It's something like that.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: So now, personally, how do we relate to those persons who have done that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's doing, in the consideration of humanity, and also a case of devotion, they'll have to incur a very grave situation. It is not a play, to play with the hearts and playing with the sentiments of the people, like a military campaign. So I told, the dollar, diplomacy, and despotism, in the name of devotion, dedication, and divinity. It is going on like that. This is my conception. The play of dollar, and diplomacy, and despotism, in the name of devotion, dedication, and divinity. Three D's, in the name of three D's. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread.

Devotees: [?]

Devotee: In the worst case is a disciple can reject his own Guru.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who have got some sense, some appreciation about the fine feeling and sentiment of devotion, they cannot crush like it is demonic, a demonic attempt. Ignoring for persons soul, soul connection, they're going to committee connection. The computer is taking the position of the human soft heart.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: So Mahārāja, these persons are our God-brothers, but personally I don't feel any necessity in the future to even associate with them in any way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I think sincere men will not associate. That is a dangerous, heinous attempt in humanity. What to speak of in the religious world.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: For example, Bhakti Svarūpa Dāmodara Mahārāja will come here in a month or so to visit you, because he still thinks that he has done nothing wrong. He has re-initiated the disciples, some disciples, and he will come and visit you as if he has done nothing wrong. And when he sees...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] He came to me?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: He will come, soon he will come here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. He may come?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He may come. But that is heinous.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: And he will act with us as if he has done nothing wrong. Then?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may be his discretion, his realisation. But I differ fully from that.

I'm really, realistically I'm afraid to see their face, who are a party to that demonic activity. Heartless people. The other day by the order of Swāmī Mahārāja and that gentleman established a connection with them. And for some plea they're rudely severing that connection of divine sentiment. And they will be dealt like that.

Devotee: [?] As you sow you shall reap.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm. They have no appreciation of soft dealing. It seems to me that I told that to crush the infantry with the help of the tank. Just as America threw atom bomb to the innocent people. The victory of machine over the humanity, human hearts, human feeling. Fight direct fighting, that is, that may be accepted. Who has come to fight, fight with him. But innocent man they're engaged here and there and they're crushed by some machinery efficiency. There must be some reaction.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: America will get that reaction.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They'll see, they'll say, that for greater benefit we are bound to do this sort of things for higher, greater benefit. But the qualitative judgement should be there. This human civilisation, at the cost of the vegetable and mineral and animal living, by force of their machine and scientific knowledge they're robbing them, and their reaction must come. The law of karma won't allow them to get scot free.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, in which case somebody can reject his Guru?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is less objectionable, personal dealings. “I can’t put my faith on him for such and such reason.” It is a simple case.

Devotee:

guror apy avaliptasya, [kāryākāryam ajānataḥ utpatha-prathipannasya, parityāgo vidhīyate]

[“A guru who is addicted to sensual pleasure and polluted by vice, who is ignorant and who has no power to discriminate between right and wrong, or who is not on the path of śuddha-bhakti must be abandoned.”]
[Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad, 179.25]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! A simple case. But forcible conversion like the Mohammedans, “There is a sword, and here is Koran. Accept Koran or be beheaded.” And, trṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ

[“One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa.”][Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

This sort of maxim is being ridiculed and laughed at, by such attempt, in the name of future collective goodness. “There’s gangrene.” They’ll say, “There’s gangrene in the left hand, it must be cut off.” Cruelly. To cut off one thing, and then to chew that thing, that cut off limb to chew, and devour, what is that thing? Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: So now that we're going to different parts...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Cutting the limbs of Jayatīrtha, the Rāmeśvara and Bhagavān, no, they're eating that meat.

Parvat Mahārāja: Bhāvānanda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhāvānanda.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: All of them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're chewing and eating the meat of his limbs.

Parvat Mahārāja: Here he comes.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: He has just come in.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Parvat Mahārāja: Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja.

Devotees: No limbs. Limbless.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Govinda Mahārāja [?] Ha, ha, ha, ha. Extreme opinion. I'm always for that. I'm notorious commentator.

Devotees: [Group laughter] Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Acyutānanda and Narsing [?] Kavirāja has remarked in my favour, I'm severe commentator. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. [?]

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Eight fifteen, eight twenty.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eight twenty. So no more.

Devotee: One last question Guru Mahārāja. When the Guru can reject the disciple?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sufficient reason there should be, fare warning. A gentleman like treatment may be expected in every case. When too intolerant it should be rejected, not very easily, when it will set a bad example to others. They're segregated to - when any patient is considered to be so much contagious that will be dangerous to other patients of the room, he should be removed, like that. When his association will cause much damage to others, other disciples, then in that case, helplessly, he's to be removed for the good of others.

Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja: As I came late I should get chance to ask one question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah? One question?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: He said he deserves one question because he came late.

Parvat Mahārāja: He came at the end.

End of 82.05.18.B

82.05.18.C

Bhakti Vijaya Tīrtha Mahārāja: ...Caitanya-caritāmṛta, it mentions that Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī wears the tilaka of good fortune, saubhāgya-tilaka, tilaka of good fortune on Her forehead.

[saubhāgya-tilaka cāru-lalāṭe ujjala, prema-vaicittya — ratna, hṛdaya — tarala]

["The tilaka of good fortune is on Her beautiful broad forehead. Her various loving affairs are a gem, and Her heart is the locket."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, 8.176]

I wanted some explanation about the tilaka marking in general that all Vaiṣṇavas wear, and especially about this particular tilaka marking that Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī wears.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I do not know what type of tilaka She has on Her forehead, but I see the meaning, I read the meaning there. Saubhāgya-tilaka cāru-lalāṭe ujjvala. That tilaka means generally Śrī Mandeer, on his forehead there is the temple of Kṛṣṇa. She considers that to be Her highest fortune. That in his fate, in his fortune, the Kṛṣṇa temple is there, in his fortune. In Her brain She may mean the temple of Kṛṣṇa, or She considers that Her highest fortune, good emblem, auspicious sign, in his fate, fortune. Fortune, Her whole ambition and fortune consisting in Kṛṣṇa consciousness of the highest type. Nothing She wants in Her fortune. In this way it may be interpreted. Saubhāgya-tilaka, and it is considered by others also that She has, She's the owner of the highest fortune, by that insignia, or sign. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Saubhāgya-tilaka, Her body is ornamented with all different types of Kṛṣṇa consciousness and Her forehead is the token for fortune, and there also all Her ambition is with Kṛṣṇa. She's fated for that. That is the symptom, purpose of the symptom.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Now I close. Gaura Hari bol.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Jaya Om Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahansa

Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...

...

[Jaya Śrī Kṛṣṇa-Caitanya, Prabhu Nityānanda,]

Śrī Advaita, Gadādhara, Śrīvāsādi Gaura-bhakta-vṛnda.

The Pañca Tattva, after pronouncing this Name of Pañca Tattva, you are to count bead, following this mālikā.

Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa, Hare Hare, Hare Rāma, Hare Rāma, Rāma Rāma, Hare Hare.

The Hari-Nāma mahā-mantra. [?]

Now, I'm coming with the process of taking the Name. This Name is found in Kali-santaraṇa Upaniṣad, as well as in Agni Purāṇa and Brahmāṇḍa Purāṇa [?] In almanac also the scholars they have mentioned this Name as only [?] Only Name of address, and no prayer, no appeal with that. Now, this is given to us by Mahāprabhu as a general recommendation for the fallen souls, for all, qualified, non qualified. Only the minimum demand is śraddhā.

And also we find from Padma Purāṇa there are ten kinds of offences we shall try to avoid that.

And they're, first, the abusing the Vaiṣṇava, the sādhū. Sādhū means Vaiṣṇava. All other worshippers of demigods not considered as sādhū, saint. Saint, they've got no ambition of their life but only to have their lovely connection, or service with the Absolute.

And the second is also similar, śāstra ninda, blaming the śāstra, scriptures, of course that are concerned with praising the greatness, the nobility of Kṛṣṇa, and not of other gods.

Then third is to consider Guru as human being, though so many human symptoms are found there, still, according to my sincerity, to meet Godhead, he comes down to meet my hunger. And He represents Himself in Guru, and we are to look at him like that, that he's the agent, the representation of the Lord. It has been advised for us in general way.

And the fourth is other gods, demigods, including Śiva, Śakti, and others, the Sun god, the other gods, they're all, not to be considered equal or greater than Nārāyaṇa or Kṛṣṇa, Viṣṇu. They're under Him and got engagements from Him to discharge their duties.

Fifth, not to go on with the help of dictionary to find diverse meanings in the words of the Name. The Name is that highest person incarnate by His own free will. He's inseparably, should be dealt with Him as He is in His sound form, Vaikuṇṭha sabhā. Differentiated from, different from mundane sabhā that can be produced by the body, the tongue, and the lips. This is spiritual, coming down from the spiritual world. And controlling our body it comes to express itself. Dance in the tongue, Vaikuṇṭha sabhā, Nāma, Nāma, Nāma [?], inseparably connected with the Nāma whom it means.

Then, the sixth, nama balad papa buddhir [?], we're given to understand that one Name is sufficient to clear all the sins one can commit. So with this idea if we go on indulging committing many sins and use one Name to cleanse the sin, the dirt, with this spirit if we take the Name it will be simply an offence to the Name, and not Name proper.

Then, asraddha-dhano nama dharma [?], to give Name to anyone and everyone, only with the greed of becoming an Ācārya, then it will be an offence. Without sanction from above if one runs to become an Ācārya, to get name and fame with this mundane purpose, then that is an offence.

Then, anya subha-kriyas saman [?], to consider the Name, it is of course good, but there are other good things also, one can wander the holy places, one can make gift, one can make penances. So many other purifying processes. Name is also one of them. If we go to undermine, taking the Name in such an order then we commit offence against Name. Nothing, no other process of purification can be in the same rank with taking the Name. The Name can give the Nāmi, the Lord in wholesale, but others some partial success in this mundane world. So no other process of purification, achievement of higher life may be considered of equal position with Name. It is supreme, and none can come up to, closer to it.

Then, too much affinity towards body and bodily wealth. Then the Name will, if properly, unbiased way we'll take the Name, the Name will create some change into our mentality, our mental system. The transformation will come. But if we carefully try to avoid that transformation within us and stick to our present life too much, addiction, then that is an offence against the Name. To invite Him and not to take care properly about Him, that sort of offence.

Then the last, and the tenth, not to accept Name as a foreign thing. He's my friend. I'll be quite at home with Him. Very soothing and friendly connection I'm going to attain by the realisation of the Name. Back to God, back to home, and never to any foreign country, foreign stage of life, which may not prove sympathetic to me. Not such, but all sympathetic, all friendly, all loving, all affection, all good, all beauty, all charm. All, in every way, the most desirable end of life I'm going to attain. With this spirit we must take the Name.

There are four nāmābhāsa which can give salvation but not the service of the Lord. That is sāṅketyaṁ, parihāsyā, stobha and helanam.

Sāṅketyaṁ, in the case of Ajāmila, first he began, he's chanting the Name of Nārāyaṇa in connection with his son that was playing. But in the meantime taking the Name within a second that attitude was changed.

"This boy Nārāyaṇa what he'll be able to do with these fearful figures of the agents of Yāmarāja?" Then the connection took him to the Vaiṣṇava Nārāyaṇa memory, and at once four servants of Nārāyaṇa came down on the surface of his consciousness. And he found a long discussion between the Yāmadūtas and the Viṣṇudūtas. And when that was finished, Yāmadūtas, they're agents of the, to punish the sinners of the mundane, they were convinced by the Viṣṇudūtas that, "His jurisdiction has changed, he's no longer under the justice of Yāmarāja in mundane affinity connection. But he's taken the Name of Nārāyaṇa, somehow, now whatever is to be done about him, it will come from the court of Nārāyaṇa and not from you, your camp." And they went away.

This is nāmābhāsa, in connection, not by any śraddhā, from Guru, purposely he went to take the Name, but by accident it came to flash in his mind for his previous life's sukṛti, that nāmābhāsa. That got him salvation. When he woke up from the coma stage he remembered all his past activities, had some repentance, at once went to Haridwar, and began taking the Name of Nārāyaṇa. And when sufficient portion came, last time, those four Viṣṇudūtas came down with a chariot and took him to the conscious spiritual domain, Nāma, this sāṅketya.

Parihāsyā, if one's cutting jokes, takes the Name of Hare, Hare, or Huray Kṛṣṇa, he's ridiculing you in the street, they may have nāmābhāsa, anyone, if connected with his previous sukṛti. Parihāsyā.

Stobha, to use it with some other, er...

Devotee: Intention.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... sign, that in the case of, stobha, sometimes nāmābhāsa. Jīva Goswāmī has taken the advantage in Harināmāmṛta-vyākaraṇa [?] symbol, in the tal, when he's playing the mṛdaṅga, "Gaura Nitāi, Gaura Nitāi," using as symbol, may be nāmābhāsa.

And hela, sometimes when negligently we are coming out of sleep sometimes we may take, "Hare Kṛṣṇa," in this way we may cast off our indolence. Hela. Neglectfully.

"Haram, haram." In the case of a boar one Mohammedan chanted, "This is haram, haram." But anyhow for his previous sukṛti it became nāmābhāsa. In this way.

But we should try to take the positive line. We shall think to get the advantage of serving Viṣṇu and Vaiṣṇava, Kṛṣṇa and kāṛṣṇa. With this sort of attitude however much possible we shall go on, with some positive thinking take the Name - this nāmābhāsa means.

And the process of counting from the bigger bead to the smaller, and again to return in that very way, and not to cross the giant mālā which is named as Sumeru. The giant mālā in the middle of big and small, that must not be crossed when we're counting. From the big we shall come to the smallest, and again we shall go back in that line to the big, in this way.

And it must not be kept fasting. Daily we must - Swāmī Mahārāja has recommended sixteen beads counting...

Devotee: Rounds.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...counting, we shall try to keep up that standard. And as much as we can increase the number so much it is the better. In this way the Name should be taken.

As for dīkṣā I shall have to consider it. By phone, of course it is a precedent, but by tape I shall have to think, and pray, and to get permission, then I shall do it, next time when you come.

...

... delegating my power to you. On my behalf you go on with dīkṣā. But if anyone is not satisfied, then he may be taken here, or as you recommend by tape I shall consider it for future, not now, immediately.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. When you will come in a number you can take him or her along with you, bearing the cost of his coming. Or by a phone connection. If that is not possible then in the tape dīkṣā that I shall have to take time and to ask permission from the up, upper world. And then I can say. Gaura Hari bol.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

End of 82.05.18.C

82.05.18.E

Devotee: We were wondering that different personalities they try to associate in the material sense according to their likings. And we find that also when it comes to the association in the matter of bhajana, or service, then also there is tendency to group, to look for a specific quality.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In a general sense we are to ascertain the right of the finite and the infinite, that must be adjusted. In the case of free will also. Absolute is absolutely free. And this is infinitesimal so its freedom is also like that. As finite is adjustable with infinite, so every attribute and part of finite will be similarly adjusted with that of infinite. This should be our guiding sense.

Do you follow, in a general way?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That must be adjusted, of inner infinite is adjusting finite within its scope. Bhedābheda, acintya bhedābheda, common and difference, and that is not within the scope of human thinking. Do you follow? Acintya, bhedābheda. It is not possible to capture by our brain, according to our Guru Mahārāja, puppy brain. That is adhokṣaja, jñāne prayāsam udapāsyā [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3] So we're requested not to make much of our, of the vanity of our consciousness, that we can include everything within the consciousness. So namanta eva, try to give regard to the infinite, than to try to capture the infinite within your brain. That will be futile attempt. Just as physically it is not possible to capture the infinite for the finite, so also consciously it is also impossible to capture the infinite within its fist. So we must be prepared with that sort of adjustment with the infinite.

*bahūnāṁ janmanām ante, jñānavān mām prapadyate vāsudevaḥ
sarvam [iti, sa mahātmā sudurlabhaḥ]*

[“After many, many births and deaths, one who is actually in knowledge surrenders unto Me, knowing Me to be the cause of all causes and all that is. Such a great soul is very rare.”][Bhagavad-gītā, 7.19]

He’s all in all. With this idea one should surrender. And after long, long, ages and births, a jñānī comes to such conclusion. Namanta eva, that of submission, the road of submission, surrender, that you accept. The knowledge must be subservient to devotedness, not more than that. Śuddha, to admit the importance of the pure devotion, that means that knowledge is futile, can’t do anything. With this data and basis only the pure devotion comes to take its position, rest. Otherwise that devotion is not devotion proper, it is saguṇa, this illusory devotion in this mundane world.

Devotee: This cultivation of knowledge?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. True devotion, bahūnāṁ janmanām ante.

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, [mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām]

[“The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema-bhakti) unto Me.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54]

This sort of adjustment final with the mundane world, world of exploitation. Mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām. Then only he can be eligible for the acceptance of para bhakti, pure devotion, śuddha bhakti, ananya bhakti, kevala bhakti.

Not by jñāna, not by exploiting energy, nor by knowing faculty, but by serving attitude, yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

[“One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone’s heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him.”] [Kaṭha Upaniṣad, 1.2.23]& [Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

Whomever He will accept, he can know Him, that much. So to attract His attention, only devotion is necessary, devotedness, that can attract Him.

His freedom, and then He will come to know you, about Himself. Not by the dint of your power you can know Him. If He likes to know, Him to you, you can know Him that much. So the method of direct approaching by knowing faculty is useless. Only you are to attract Him, His attention, so that He comes to make Himself known to you. That is the policy, otherwise not, pure knowledge is possible about Him. Adhokṣaja, transcendental, means this, beyond the jurisdiction of our knowing faculty.

Who is there?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Bhāratī Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhāratī Mahārāja. Do you follow?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I have followed long ago. We must be alert on this point, always. We'll have to be acquainted with the line of demarcation, between knowledge and pure devotion. The fight will be with the so-called jñānī, that is Śāṅkara School. You must be well versed here in this point. Our main enemy will be the Śāṅkarite who says that jñāna is everything, even above bhakti, devotion. And in Bhagavad-gītā their weapon is only in one place.

teṣāṁ satata-yuktānāṁ, bhajatāṁ prīti-pūrvakam dadāmi buddhi-yogaṁ taṁ, yena mām upayānti te

["To those devotees who are constantly dedicated to Me, and who engage in My service out of their love for Me, I bestow the internal divine inspiration by which they can approach Me and render various intimate services unto Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.10]

teṣām evānukampārtham, aham ajñāna-jaṁ tamaḥ nāśayāmy ātma-bhāva-stho, jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā

["Out of compassion for them, I, situated within the hearts of all living beings, dispel the darkness of ignorance with the radiance of knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.11]

So I have given interpretation to take it in another, higher way. This jñāna means jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā, that is to make Himself explicit in the heart of the devotees, they're suffering from the pangs of separation. There He expresses Himself. It is meaning that, jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā, after devotion.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, there always seems to be an inner struggle. A struggle within as to come to know the infinite, say for example sambandha jñāna, to understand properly what is sambandha jñāna there seems to be no limit.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, sambandha jñāna, but sambandha jñāna will come according to His sweet will. Sambandha jñāna is not independent of His will. He will bring you to know that, "I am such and such to you." Otherwise not, it does not depend on you. "Who I am to you?" That also within His jurisdiction, almost everything. It's not within your fist. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas. He maintains the subjective character always. You are object to Him. That you must not forget. A super subjective characteristic He has got. You are an object.

upadraṣṭānumantā ca, bhartā bhoktā maheśvaraḥ [paramātmēti cāpy ukto, dehe 'smin puruṣaḥ paraḥ]

[“Within this same body (distinct from the soul) the Supreme Person or Parama Puruṣa is present as the soul’s intimate witness, sanctioner, supporter, guardian, and Lord. He is known as the Supersoul.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 13.23]

Superiority in His side, in all matters. You are only dependent, an atom.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: It seems that we’re very helpless.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, of course, and the realisation of your helplessness, that is your capital. “I’m helpless.” If sincere, then you’re seeking for some shelter. And from there you can come properly in His connection, when you are sincerely after seeking your shelter. Then you come across Him. And when you can stand independently it is a luxury to enquire about Him, not necessity.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Luxury?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? Something like that.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Amusement.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Knowledge of luxury, a fashion, an ornament, something like. But inner dire necessity you will feel for a shelter because you are helpless in all respects, then your contact with Him will be proper and real. Otherwise all like luxury.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Like a false decoration.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A show for pratiṣṭhā, that I can know anything and everything, to get position and fame, prestige, in this world, that is any achievement in this world. Or ultimately to merge in the ocean of consciousness, at most.

Nirmat-sarāṇām satām [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2] Nirmatsara, selflessness means that, to admit that He's all in all. Even my existence can be effaced by His sweet will, though eternal I'm told, the soul is sanātana etc. But He's, the absolute which can efface me. Kṛta dāsa, slave, the master can murder the slave.

mārobi rākhobi yo icchā tohārā, [nitya-dāsa prati tuwā adhikārā]

[“Slay me or protect me as You wish, for You are the master of Your eternal servant.”] [From The Songs Of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 13]

“You can keep it, You can do away with me. This is Your right, constitutional. I am quite dependent. You can make and mar with my fortune anything You please.”

As much as you'll be able to realise your position of helplessness, so much you are enriching yourself from the real standpoint, you are acquiring a position there. Just the opposite, no vanity will be allowed there. All humility. Humility has got value there, because [?] we are within the negative, not positive, no right. But all right only in His sweet will. That is prema, love, His grace. Our existence on that aspect of the reality.

The śakti, the female has got its importance in one way, and not that she will go to imitate the right of the male. There is her failure. A male has got its own way, of attitude. So predominating and predominated.

If we want to assert our predominating self then we are to come in connection with māyā, the illusory energy. There we are puruṣa. But if we want to approach that taṭasthā then we are not puruṣa, we are of female type, dependent type, śakti. In consideration with Him, śakti. And in consideration with māyā we are śaktimān, puruṣa, exploiter, enjoyer. And there, to be enjoyed. If we seek our relationship with the upper, upper existence, we are to be enjoyed, we are to be handled. Subjective existence is there, that side. And here we come to exploit, to assert, then we're in connection with māyā, we can do, and we're suffering from the reaction. They're puruṣa, and they're śakti, in the relativity of the higher we are śakti, potency. And here in the illusory world we can assert, we're puruṣa, we're enjoyer. But it is false and reactionary.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So try to develop the attitude of your potency characteristic. As much as you'll be able to do that you will have value on the higher realm. By submission, praṇipāta, paripraśna, sevā, you may be allowed to enter into that domain, otherwise not. Sevā, you are to be utilised by them, the interest of the higher land, higher plane, then only you are allowed. No exploitation for the jīva soul is possible in that land, the country of Paramātmā, and even above. Eh? Kṛṣṇa. Eh?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: There's an endeavour of the prāyas of the Māyāvādī by jñāna. The false endeavour to understand by knowledge, of the Māyāvādī. Now that is one type of endeavour.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They cannot enter into that domain. They're showing their feats only here within this mundane world up to Satyāloka. Then in Brahmaloka they merges, finished, they cannot pass through Brahmaloka towards Vaikuṇṭha, with that idea, so 'ham', "I am a part of the highest entity." That idea detains them in Brahmaloka, never upward. But dāso 'ham', then you'll be allowed to enter into the higher realm. So nirmat-sarāṇām satām [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2]

moksabhi sandabhi api asta [?]

[“Completely rejecting all religious activities which are materially motivated, this Bhāgavata- Purāṇa propounds the highest truth, which is understandable by those devotees who are fully pure in heart. The highest truth is reality distinguished from illusion for the welfare of all. Such truth uproots the threefold miseries. This beautiful Bhāgavatam, compiled by the great sage Vyāsadeva (in his maturity), is sufficient in itself for God realisation. What is the need of any other scripture? As soon as one attentively and submissively hears the message of Bhāgavatam, by this culture of knowledge the Supreme Lord is established within his heart.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2]

These are the commendations.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: So Mahārāja, what is the endeavour of the sādhak. The sādhaka, in vaidhi bhakti, what is that endeavour which he feels to try and understand?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As recommended in the śāstra and by the sādhū he's to follow that program. Then gradually he will find himself, that he's in the proper soil and he's gaining some ground, and that will encourage him to continue his attempt towards that, upper realm. When ruci will come, up to ruci he's to undergo some program recommended by the sādhū and śāstra, by that help, śravaṇa-daśā. Śravaṇa-daśā, varaṇa-daśā, up to āpana-daśā, he'll take trouble of sādhana. Up to śravaṇa-daśā, varaṇa-daśā, and sādhana-daśā, ah, when āpana-daśā, the plane of āpana-daśā, that self realization will begin, then he himself will stand guarantee for his own activities. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Āpana-daśā, he will feel himself, bhāva bhakti. Then he won't be taken away from that position. “No, I'm realizing a novel type of ecstasy, in bhāva bhakti.” From ruci also, ruci, āśakti, bhāva.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

“Higher things we can acquire by service.” Main thing is that, sacrifice and have. Pay, pay for it. Not paying in terms of money and other things, but paying in terms of your own self. Surrender and have. Give and get.

Bana Mahārāja: I'm bankrupt.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Give and get. As you can give, you can get similar things.

[Bhagavad-gītā, 4.11]

Bana Mahārāja: We're going to ask you for a loan Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mama vartmānuvartante, manuṣyāḥ pārtha sarvaśaḥ. “Because there is none beyond Me, so anyone praying for some trifle thing I am also giving trifle. But it is finished, they're again in want, but this is a play. But who are serious, wants Me, and they also have to pay for that, however little, but his whole self he gives him whole. He gets Me whole. As he gives so he gets.”

Come out with your little thing, your little capital come out with your little capital. You will get His in that return.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Bana Mahārāja says he's bankrupt.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is a good sign to be bankrupt here, then he will seek some shelter, he's seeking. If he's really bankrupt then he's seeking a shelter sincerely.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: He would like to arrange a loan from you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A loan? Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. This is all loan, the activity. I am also in the loan, reaction. We are continuing the business in loan from Gurudeva. A business of loan, negative side business, all on loan. Ha, ha, ha. Bearer of Mahāprabhu.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Bana Mahārāja: Mahārāja, then, one has independence to associate, one has the independence, or the right to choose his association according to his own liking, right. Then, according to that liking one will look for that association according to his own specific taste, or rasa, hmm?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The liking is not ignored, but the decision in the hand of the authority. Liking is consulted. Liking sometimes may be defective. So liking has got importance but that is limited. Everything is limited in jīva because he’s limited. No absolute power in his hand, because he’s vulnerable. Anu means small, infinitesimal, that is there is vulnerability. So under guardian, to live under guardian, that is safe for him. Otherwise whatever small freedom he has got he’s misusing. And we’re the witness. No absolute right in any respect may be with jīva, all relative.

End of 82.05.18.E

82.05.18.F

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Freedom is there but that is partial. I'm not free to interfere with the freedom of others in the environment. So my freedom is little, partial, meagre, negligible. But still, I have got something, because I'm a part of the whole. Anu caitanya, consciousness is also so, not full consciousness, so everything, partial representation, and anu, very meagre, slight. Everything is slight with us.

[The following text is also within the transcript dated 82.05.16.C_82.05.18.A]

And māyā, or illusion, it is difficult for us to digest this truth. "I am small." I don't like to digest this, to accept this. There's the rub. That is, my inner, evil tendency to capture others right. To understand what is freedom we're really accustomed to think that I can encroach over the freedom of others of the environment. That is the disease.

And reaction, "Otherwise I shall commit suicide, that is, enter the tomb, samādhi. If I cannot exercise my freedom on the environment, on outside, then rather I shall enter into tomb, grave. But I won't accept slavery, serving attitude to the environment. To become a servant we're frightened. Exploiting unit I want to be, but not a serving unit, that I shall give my freedom to another superior hand."

There we shrink, and that is the innate defect. Freedom means to exercise right over the environment, that we understand by freedom. Why should you not accept service for the environment? Why? We think there we'll be reduced to minimum position. But that is the healthy, the health for us to do for others, to become a servant. There we can thrive, by serving the environment and especially the Lord of the whole. We think that we are dying; if we accept service then we are dying. That temperament, false temperament has grown in us. And that is a foreign element entered into view proper. It is a bitter pill to swallow. Ha, ha, ha. So what is service proper? That Hegelian philosophy, Die to Live. Dissolve yourself, your ego as it is at present. Dissolve, mercilessly, mercilessly dissolve your ego, die. Die means dissolve, mercilessly. Throw yourself into the fire. You will come out with bright self. Learn to die, as you are, that mental concocted body or something, energy. Take the name of the Lord and die. So,

[tomāra icchāya mora icchā miśāilo] bhaktivinoda āja āpane bhulilo

["My will has become merged with Your will. From this day forward Bhaktivinoda has completely forgotten himself."] [Second Principle of Surrender: Ātma-Nivedana, 4.8]

Forget yourself as you are at present. As you find your proper self there, that does not die. Death is ordained for our existence and that part of ours, give it to the death. And who, what does not die, that will remain.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. But Mahāprabhu has discussed this physical death.

sanātana, deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa yadi pāiye, koṭi-deha kṣaṇeke tabe chāḍite pāiye, [deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa nā paī, pāiye bhajane, kṛṣṇa-prāptyera upāya kona nāhi 'bhakti' vine]

["My dear Sanātana," He said: "If I could attain Kṛṣṇa by committing suicide, I would certainly give up millions of bodies without a moments hesitation."] ["You should know that one cannot attain Kṛṣṇa simply by giving up the body. Kṛṣṇa is attainable by devotional service. There is no other means to attain Him."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.55-56]

“I’m ready to die crores, millions of times in a second, but that is nothing, that is tamasic, very lower, lower bait, this physical death. The mental death is necessary, mental death, not only physical death. Real death, a mental death, wholesale.”

Then also I may get the taṭasthā stage.

But He says, “Die or not die, go on cultivating Kṛṣṇa consciousness with the company of a sādhū, of a Kṛṣṇa devotee, a devotee of Kṛṣṇa, go on. That internal wealth, try to accumulate, wherever it is possible, kriyatām yadi kuto 'pi labhyate.”

[kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa-bhāvitā matiḥ, kriyatām yadi kuto 'pi labhyate tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate]

[“Pure devotional service to Kṛṣṇa cannot be obtained by performing pious activities even for millions of births. It can be purchased only by paying one price; intense eagerness. Wherever it is available, one must purchase it immediately.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70]

The internal capital, it can be had only from the sādhū. Wherever you get it, with any price, you try to secure that, innermost wealth. But mere physical or mental death can’t reach you in that higher stage. You have to dive deep into Kṛṣṇa consciousness. So whenever and wherever you find such strong attachment for Kṛṣṇa, try to secure it from him at any price. That will be the best utilization of our life and energy, to purchase the higher things. And that is also at the sacrifice of the higher type of thing within you, innermost hankering by surrendering your innermost existence, transaction. The encasement, physical encasement, mental encasement of different types. Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satya, this gross to finer encasement. There are many types, many varieties, not only that, the Virajā, Brahmaloḥa, Vaiḥuṇṭha, so many subtle. Even consciousness has got its gross portion in Vaiḥuṇṭha.

More subtle within you that Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Our dedication is intense to its highest capacity, and dedication to the Autocrat. Dedication to the Autocrat, not to a constitutional king, where is justice, but dedication to Kṛṣṇa, to the Autocrat. Anything can happen. The highest degree of dedication is necessary there, and the gain is also similar. As much as you can risk, so much you can expect to gain.

That is Mahāprabhu's direction, "Don't be miser, so surrender yourself to the Autocrat, the Absolute Good, and you will be the best gainer." That is His recommendation. "Don't be too much calculative, and miser. If you find a proper place, give yourself totally. Totally."

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Ātmā-nikṣepaḥ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ātmā-nikṣepaḥ. [?] in a proper place. Kṛṣṇa is the greatest bidder.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Greatest?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bidder, bid, highest bid in auction. He will pay most, Kṛṣṇa, so much price, none can pay. Ha, ha. He can pay so much. He's the highest capitalist. Whimsical. Prodigal.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

[“Actually My body does not have a fair complexion. It only appears so because it has touched the body of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. However, She does not touch anyone but the son of Nanda Mahārāja.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.287]

The highest giver, highest dedicator is Rādhārāṇī. And none can venture to come by Her except Vrajendra-nandana. Mahābhāva svarūpini, the sacrifice at its zenith is there, mahābhāva svarūpa, the highest standard ever, of eternally, is there represented. No such sacrifice, or self giving, self surrendering, beyond all standard ever known to the world, of scriptures. As Lakṣmī Devī has no place near Kṛṣṇa, so Nārāyaṇa also cannot approach towards Rādhārāṇī, what to speak of others. Ha, ha, ha. And not even Dvārakeśa or Mathureśa, not even Gopeśa.

ta vatya samata radha kutin pein paila brahmata rasa cari [?]

They are all equal. [?] All equal, all the gopīs of equal rank. In rasa some fine jealousy came in, arose in the mind of Rādhārāṇī. And after playing Her superiority in this dancing, chanting, all these things, suddenly She disappeared. After conquering, defeating the common gopīs She disappeared suddenly. And Kṛṣṇa suddenly found Himself vacant. All the source of His energy coming from that one point and that is being played there. But when that very vitality is drawn away then He found Himself laid up. And searching after Her, He can’t find, then He left stealthily the company of the gopīs in search of Rādhārāṇī.

radha-madhai sitaie tuta jada braja sundari [?]

Jayadeva says, braja-sundari, so many, one side Rādhārāṇī on one side. They're abandoned and out for searching Her.

Rāmānanda Rāya saṁvāda also says, a categorical difference, not similar, something qualitative difference there in the service, loving service of gopī and Rādhārāṇī. That is admitted there, and in rasa, and in Jayadeva there. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Pratipadam anubhūtam apyālabdhā-abhidheya. Madhura-rasadhī-rādhā-pādapadmaṁ prapadye.

I have got a poem.

yadamiya-mahimā-śrī bhāgavatyaṁ kathāyaṁ pratipadam anubhūtam apyālabdhā-abhidheya [tadakhila-rasa-mūrteḥ śyāma-līlāvalamvaṁ madhura-rasadhī-rādhā-pādapadmaṁ prapadye]

["It is She, whose unlimited nectarean glories, qualities, beauty and love for Kṛṣṇa have always been deeply felt and recognised throughout the whole Bhāgavatam at every step of its ultimate meaning and purport of all descriptions. Yet, out of feelings of awe and reverence, and to protect Her high honour, Her Name has not even been mentioned by Śrīla Śukadeva Gosvāmī in the Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam. She therefore remains mystically unavailable as the most confidential, ultimate objective of life. She is the shelter and promoter of all divine pastimes (līlā) of Kṛṣṇa, Who is the personification of all beauty and bliss (rasa). I offer my most respectful obeisances unto the lotus feet of Śrī Rādhikā, who is the unlimited ocean of all conjugal ecstasy or mellows (mādhurya-rasa)."]

[Śrī Rādhikā Praṇāma] [Śrī Bhakti Rakṣaka Bhajana Madhuri, p 31-2]

In Bhāgavatam in every point there is presence of Rādhārāṇī because that is the goal. That is the conclusion to be established in Bhāgavatam by so many tales, so many stories of devotion, all these things. The highest aim of Bhāgavatam to establish Rādhā dāsyam, that everywhere it is meant, it is all preparatory towards that. But still Her name is not mentioned anywhere in Bhāgavatam. Apyālabdhā-abhidheya. Everywhere, every word is used only to prove Her noblest position, but still no name is expressively used there. Pratipadam anubhūtam apyālabdhā-abhidheya. Yadamiya- mahimā-śrī bhāgavatyaṁ kathāyāṁ, pratipadam anubhūtam apyālabdhā-abhidheya. Tadakhila-rasa- mūrteḥ śyāma-līlāvalamvaṁ. So akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ, akhila-rasa, all sorts of ecstasy combined is Kṛṣṇa, and the main avalamvaṁ, the main support of that rasāmṛta-murtiḥ, akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ, is Rādhikā. Rādhā-pādapadmaṁ. Tadakhila-rasa-mūrteḥ śyāma-līlāvalamvaṁ. The only support of that līlā of Śyāma. Mādhurya rasa, the source of all mādhurya rasa, the fountain of mādhurya rasa. Ei rādhā-pādapadmaṁ prapadye. I surrender myself to the holy feet of that Rādhārāṇī, who is only, who is the support, the gist, all in all, of the whole life of akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ of Him who consists Himself all sorts of high rasa, ecstasy. Giving support to Him, only support.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Pratiṣṭhā, ācārya abhimāna, from the position of the Ācārya we want to capture the minds of so many. But we must be conscious of Śrīdhara Swāmī's interpretation of ordinary definition of bhakti. Adau arpyeta paścād kriyeta. We must be fully conscious of that fact, that whatever we do, whatever I possess, on behalf of Him. I have got no proprietorship in myself. I'm only an agent. We must be conscious. Whatever I do, I gain, I lose, that will go to my Master. That consciousness must be at the basis. Then we can conquer the whole world. I am not a conqueror. What I'm doing, I'm doing on behalf of my Master, of my Lord. That consciousness must be at the bottom of all the attempts. That is ācārya abhimāna. He wants to conquer the whole world, does not matter. All may come under Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and through this figure may be, but this figure is not his own property. That is a property of his master. That consciousness must be there.

[The following text is also within the transcript dated 82.05.18.B

Then there is justification, ācārya abhimāna. "I do not care that Śaṅkara School. I do not care the Rāmānuja, Madhva Schools. I care for Gauḍīya School, Mahāprabhu's School. I'm representing them. I'm ready to fight will all and to get victory. Absolute victory I want over everywhere." Does not matter, but on His behalf, that basis, we must be careful, very much. Fully awake there, that (brought to the pi?), it must be submitted there. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa, Hare Hare, Hare Rāma, Hare Rāma, Rāma Rāma, Hare Hare.

What's the time?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Seven thirty five.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Seven thirty five. Gaura Hari bol.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, if the Ācārya accepts disciples, if the Ācārya sees that some of his disciples have fallen away and completely lost faith and become atheist. Then that connection is automatically stopped between the Guru and the śiṣya?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who has left Guru?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Temporarily it may be seen, temporarily that is suspension, something like, for some offence then suspension. May not be stopped eternally.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Another thing which is hard to understand is, to what degree is the Ācārya responsible for the karma of his śiṣyas?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, somewhat. That depends on the position of the Ācārya. Who is doing wholly on behalf of Kṛṣṇa he may not be affected.

But, when, once Prabhupāda gave sannyāsa to one disciple, our Guru Mahārāja, but he could not keep. Prabhupāda was so much disturbed and he began to cry, a peculiar sentiment appealing to Mahāprabhu.

“Why have You given me this inspiration? If You have not given me power to protect a disciple from the hands of māyā, I gave him sannyāsa and he could not keep it, māyā snatched him, then why have You given me such inspiration? Then I resign to You my post.”

For some time he cried and he suffered with such mentality, it was shown.

“When You have not given me such little power that I can protect a man from the clutches of māyā, I have already given sannyāsa but he could not keep. So I have no power. I’m helpless. I won’t do this service. Then take me off, for some time.”

But of course that was adjusted very soon. Such feeling, such reaction, also comes in the mind of an Ācārya when his disciple goes away, leaving his connection. He feels in his heart so much for him that reaction. “I am unqualified. I am unqualified.” And that sort of reaction keeps him pure from the misdeed of the disciple. His sincerity in the service of disciple, nothing can approach to contaminate him.

Śiṣya not for wealth, or not for any other purpose that we make disciples, but only recruitment for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Eternal recruitment, to make him fit, pure, for the service of the Supreme Lord. That should be the purpose, not for his own mean benefit of any type.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: May I ask a question Mahārāja? Sometimes we're told Gadādhara Paṇḍita is Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, sometimes Lalitā Sakhī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, Lalitā Sakhī is Svarūpa Dāmodara, sometimes Rukmiṇī, both combined. And Rādhārāṇī, that gist, taken by Mahāprabhu, so empty Rādhārāṇī, plus Rukmiṇī, Gadādhara Paṇḍita. And that also partial representation, bhāva and kānti. The bhāva aspect Gadādhara Paṇḍita, and the kānti, the lustre aspect Gadādhara dāsa. And nature of Rukmiṇī, Rādhārāṇī is extracted by Mahāprabhu, that bhāva, and Rukmiṇī was added to that empty pot, that is Gadādhara. Tolerating spirit of Rukmiṇī, consideration, considerate and toleration, and consideration of Rukmiṇī. That mind non opposing, submissive, and inner attitude is that of Rādhārāṇī. But that is already given to Śrī Caitanyadeva, the very gist. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: The other day was Gaṅgā dāsa Goswāmīni's appearance. Is she connected with Gadādhara Paṇḍita, some connection, śiṣya?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Gaṅgā Mātā Goswāmīni.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: May come from her, his line. By nature the diagnosis coming expressibly or privately. The nature will justify, that what type of nature is there and that is the monopoly of Gadādhara Paṇḍita, or such and such. In this way we are to judge where from this has come here, must have come from that very source because that is the only source of that particular nature. In this way to be seen. Our śikṣā guru paramparā is also in that line. Just as in Vṛndāvana, śrīpāda dhara — jāni mādhavendra-purīra ‘sambandha.’

[kintu tomāra prema dekhi’ mane anumāni / mādhavendra-purīra ‘sambandha’ dhara — jāni]

[“Upon seeing your ecstatic love, I can just imagine that you must have some relationship with Mādhavendra Purī. This is My understanding.”]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 17.172]

Mahāprabhu told that Sānoḍiyā brāhmaṇa, “You must have some connection with Mādhavendra Purī otherwise this thing can never be detected anywhere.”

In this way the succession to be traced everywhere in the Vaiṣṇava School, as well as in Guru paramparā also. That is the sure diagnosis.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi
Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

You heard that yesterday evening they’re coming here and some boys threw a big piece on the head of Daśaratha Sūta.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. A small piece he told.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Small piece, not any wound.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Not to wound but to insult. Yeah, unfortunate. I was disturbed, much disturbed when I heard that. Rough element is there, certainly there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: [?] If we don't tell them anything then they will abuse again.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, even Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura apparently they tried to abuse him. He came with a party here we were told, in Navadvīpa. So what to speak of us small, low people.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Perhaps a book was thrown against him.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: A brick.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A book, in the meeting, Paramatola meeting. The paṇḍitas they made some conspiracy, the attack and perhaps although it is private, a book was thrown on his body.

And Keśava Mahārāja took him anyhow within a house, and the householder told, “No, they will attack my house, you go away.” Anyhow with folded palms, entreating him for some time.

Then one closed horse cart was taken in and he was put there. And he was just like Rāmānuja, he had to put white cloth, and red cloth to be transferred to someone. In this way he had to pass to Māyāpur, Paramatola.

And others, the Goswāmī Mahārāja he was caught hold of and taken to Parama, and he was also asserting himself boldly, and they also told, “We shall sacrifice you, just on the face of Parama.”

Then another was attacked, Kuñja Bābu played, that Tīrtha Mahārāja was kīrtana, kīrtana.

Then four fought with the flag stick, Bon Mahārāja, and one Bankim Bābu, and one Caitanya dāsa, and another, they with the flag stick began to fight with them, another fled.

And this Purī Mahārāja, Kalna Purī Mahārāja and Mukunda Prabhu they are wounded on the head, blood oozed. In this way some clash was here in the Paramatola.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Where were you at the time Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I didn't join at that time. I joined Gauḍīya fourth year, twenty six. And this was perhaps twenty four. Twenty six I joined, or twenty five, something like that. Twenty five perhaps. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

[10:07 - 13:35 ?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, if a person chants Kṛṣṇa Nāma, how can he understand that he is getting free from nāmābhāsa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When serving tendency will arise in him, a little taste in him. Then nāmābhāsa mukti, he's crossing the abscissa, mukti means abscissa, margin, and the devotion, serving tendency, that is to enter into the positive land, that is, entering into devotion after mukti.

muktānām api siddhānām nārāyaṇa-parāyaṇa / sudurlabhaḥ praśāntātmā koṭiṣv api mahā-mune

["O great sage, among many millions who are liberated and perfect in knowledge of liberation, one may be a devotee of Lord Nārāyaṇa, or Kṛṣṇa. Such devotees, who are fully peaceful, are extremely rare."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.14.5] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.150]

Positive participation in the serving plane, that is bhakti. And mukti, that non attachment towards exploiting land, land of exploitation, no attachment, that is mukti.

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati [samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām]

[“The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema-bhakti) unto Me.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54]

Neither desire for this world, if any loss then no reaction. He’s in the verge. Brahma-bhūtaḥ, he has identified himself with pure consciousness, “That I’m a child of the conscious soil, consciousness.” And this withdrawal complete from the exploiting vision, conception of the world, sense experience world, both physical, mental, complete withdrawal. Brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā. Finds peace in himself because independent of the misery, of the mundane world, the mortal world, independent of mortality, so peace, prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati, and no loss, no gain, above that feeling.

Mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām. “Then My real bhakti, para bhakti, higher bhakti, pure bhakti, now he can be a candidate for that, para bhakti. And this bhakti, Kali bhakti, Kṛṣṇa bhakti, already mixed type is saguṇa, not nirguṇa bhakti, not bhakti proper, mixed. Proper bhakti that is ananya bhakti, exclusive, kevala bhakti. That is possible only when one has withdrawn himself from the charm of the whole of this mundane world, mortal world. Then if any devotion awakens in one’s heart for Me that is para bhakti, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām.”

Association: otherwise the ruci, sometimes what we find in the midst of other aspirations, that is not ruci proper. Proper ruci is to be traced after niṣṭhā. Niṣṭhā means continued association with Kṛṣṇa, twenty-four hours living in the relativity of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Then ruci, that will be safe.

Or here, now and then peeping, some ruci, that is not ruci proper. After niṣṭhā when the ruci will come, that is reliable, ruci proper.

So, anartha-nivṛtti, ādaḥ śraddhā, tataḥ sādhu-saṅga, tha bhajana-kriyā, third, tato' nārtha- nivṛtṭiḥ, four, then tato niṣṭhā, fifth stage niṣṭhā, the continued company, not for a second detached. Then the real taste for that is known as ruci. And āśakti, when the intensity will be less and more, and a little less he will shudder, "Oh, I have no loss or memory." Then it becomes āśakti. Then the bhāva bhakti, the second stage will appear. This is sādhana bhakti. Then bhāva bhakti, ruci, āśakti, bhāva. Śraddhā, sādhu-saṅga, bhajana-kriyā, anartha nivṛtti, sādhana bhakti, niṣṭhā, ruci, āśakti, bhāva. Then prema bhakti. Sneha, mana, pranaya, rāga, anurāga, bhāva, mahābhāva.

Gaura Sundara. Gaura Sundara. Gaura Sundara.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: But Mahārāja, later a devotee may also think that, 'I have still so many anarthas.' If he has attained ruci and higher stage, he may be still thinking, although he's above that, he may still think, 'I have so many anarthas.' Out of humility...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Humility up to the last point he may think that, 'No ruci I have got.' Because finite coming in connection with infinite, he can never be satisfied that I have got something. It is infinite, so much. 'I have nothing.' Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nītāi Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: One news, this boy, I gave him the name Dayal Nitāi, this boy Asoka.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. He's doing well?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, fine, a good boy, much service.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And no trace of Chaudari [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No, nothing. Mahārāja, many times, or sometimes before you had mentioned that eka lākha nāma means that like lākha, the one goal, but...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, also told, aiming at the quality, not the quantity. Quantity is not enough. Even that can produce some disease. Only physical attempt, eliminating the mental growth, the natural growth towards Vaikuṇṭha. Mere physical attempt that will bring reaction and some disease. One may be mad, one may have some other defect. That is to bring the transcendental to serve the mundane. That is impossible. His mental position is mundane and attempting for transcendental, this is saka murkhi [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Then who has told this?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sevā, sevonmukhe hi.

tad viddhi pranipātena, paripraśnena sevayā [upadekṣyanti te jñānaṁ, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ]

[“You will be able to attain all this knowledge by satisfying the enlightened spiritual master with prostrate obeisances, relevant enquiry, and sincere service. Great souls who are most expert in scriptural knowledge and endowed with direct realisation of the Supreme Absolute Truth will teach you that divine knowledge.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34]

For Itself. I want Him, to serve, to become His, not that He will be mine here as I am, He’ll come to serve me, my mundane ego.

So Rāmacandra He beheaded that śūdra Sambuka for his penances. The justification is there. Keeping himself in the plane of śūdra, in the mortal plane, by the force of penance he wants to get higher powers, higher achievement. The object was low and he tried for high achievement. That was beheaded. And that will bring disaster into this plane, and the reaction to him also, so no good. He beheaded that śūdraka. A śūdra was making penances of a high intensity.

So the justification from there. Aim should be high, realization may be lower. That will gradually vanish. That is natural growth. Bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ, that is all important. Sudurācāro, that is negligible, that will vanish in no time. But the aim, the ideal, that is all-important factor.

[api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāḥ sādhuḥ eva sa mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ]

[“If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all non-devotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life.”]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30]

The one who has attained such highest idea, anyhow, then these lower defects of this mundane plane cannot tie him down. You are not to mind that. The ideal, to get the highest ideal, that is all important thing in ones life. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And that means, to get that ideal, that is to understand that He's for Himself, I am for Him, not that He's for me. That will be secondary and long after, when he says, "He's for me." Generally 'I'm for Him,' then I can be allowed to enter into that domain.

And there is a position when the devotee says, "No, He's for me," madīya. Tadīya, "I'm for Him," then madīya, in Rādhārāṇī's stage, "No, He's Mine. I'm His and He's Mine. I am His," higher, "He's Mine. My responsibility alone to serve Him alone. The whole responsibility is on Me to serve Him, to satisfy Him." That is the highest principle. "The whole responsibility to satisfy Him is on My head, on My shoulder." This is most acute conception of the service. "And they have come to help Me because I can't do, but the responsibility is Mine, to satisfy Him, not of any other." The whole burden to take on Her shoulders. "All fault due to any disturbance, the whole fault, responsibility is Mine, not others." Approach in this way. "None to be blamed if any dissatisfaction. The whole responsibility is Mine. But they help, kindly they do to help to discharge My duty." Whole burden.

pūjāla rāgapaṭha gaurava bāṅge [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

["The path of divine love is worshipping to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."]

Badrinārāyaṇa: So Mahārāja, why did Mahāprabhu say like that then, why did He say would only take prasāda in the house of someone who chants one lākh?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is also there, because everyone came to invite Him, there was a fashion, everyone, two, three, four, five, coming and the same time. “Please accept invitation, take food in my house.” Then Mahāprabhu imposed the tax. “At least one lākh of Name, take, I shall take food in his house.” License fee. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura many times mentioned, sometimes madhyama adhikārī, chanting one lākh of rounds and sometimes two lākhs, three lākhs, he mentioned it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Exclusively given to that stage, they cannot but.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: It’s not just counting, it’s simply absorption, it must be absorption.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Automatic.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Constant.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We, it takes eight hours for one lākh. And when it becomes spontaneous to them then four hours is sufficient, or five hours, for one lākh.

Suppose one takes three lākhs, then what is the result? He will enter into the serving company. The result of taking three lākhs of Name, that means siddhi. And what is that siddhi, you will have to enter into the domain of service. Only taking Hari Nāma is not enough. In Vṛndāvana all the gopīs only they are taking Hari Nāma and doing no service for Kṛṣṇa? Yaśodā, all the friends, not that they are taking Hari Nāma always, no time to serve Kṛṣṇa. The end is service. The Name will encourage us that so our real aim should be in the serving spirit. Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva. It will come automatically if we are in serving mood.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: That's a wonderful example, 'the gopīs are not just taking Kṛṣṇa Nāma.'

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They will enter their hand into the bead bag. "I'm taking, if there will be any intimation comes that is necessary for Kṛṣṇa..."

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: "No, I'm engaged."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "I'm engaged busily."

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: "I am a sādhū." Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Śrīdhara Mahārāja, what is the mood of chanting? In what mood should we chant?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mood, that is the trouble. The mood of service. And what is that service? That self-abnegation, plus God searching, Kṛṣṇa searching, Kṛṣṇa searching mood. Kāhāṇ kṛṣṇa prāna nātha vrajendra-nandana.

[kāhāṇ mora prāna nātha muralī-vadana, kāhāṇ karoṇ kāhāṇ pāṇ vrajendra-nandana]

Athāto brahma-jijñāsā. Where is He? How is He? How can I reach near Him? In this way, that should be the mood. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Athāto brahma-jijñāsā, kṛṣṇānusandhāna, quest after Kṛṣṇa, searching Kṛṣṇa, where is He?

A flash may come, suddenly, and will take out the gist of life with that. And one will find himself totally empty, and will be mad to have association.

“That the very gist of my life is drawn by that experience, supernatural. I cannot maintain my existence without coming in association with that sort of transcendental experience. It is very difficult for me to go on with this haggard life, this tasteless life.”

Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana, a kolaha, heno kalo tumi sa kolaha kori [?] The Name is also tasteless to Him at that time, kolaha kori.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Commotion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: “My attention gave up, by some, not rowdyism proper but...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Commotion, like a commotion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Commotion, some roaring, kolaha, disorganized loud cry, kolaha, purposeless noise, high, loud noise, purposeless. That is kolaha.

They’re chanting the Name of Kṛṣṇa and they are not of our type, Svarūpa Dāmodara and others. And that is kolaho, tasteless noise to Mahāprabhu. He was having such experience there. Such beautiful and charming experience He was having in His transcendental trance.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One gentleman, some years back, came to me, his brother always takes, Rādhe, Rādhe. "What my elder brother always taking the Name Rādhe, Rādhe. Rādhārāṇī does not feel any disturbance? If anyone calls me always by the name I feel most disgusted to him, always.” So his complaint was, “My brother is always chanting Rādhe, Rādhe. But if there is any real Rādhe then will not She feel disturbed, always taking name?” Hare Kṛṣṇa. The noise, Rādhe, Rādhe.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. No men to say monkey, or to throw brickbats.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Stones. Just tell Rādhe, Rādhe.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rādhe, Rādhe. The pāṇḍās are money makers and they’re guṇḍās there. They will teach lesson to those atheists, Ārya Samāj, all these, communists led. They’re sufficiently strong to teach them a lesson because they make much money with these Rādhe, Rādhe party.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. We should engage the pāṇḍās to console the communists.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. But here, money making is this _____ [?] weaving. Weaving is mostly money making business here. And not tīrtha darśana as by pāṇḍā in Navadvīpa. If the pāṇḍā group here would have been created that they will make much money showing the tīrtha, then these guṇḍās would be taught lesson. What is necessary we are getting very easily here, the necessary environment of a sādhaka.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: ...carrying the tridaṇḍa, it's a general thing, general question. Some say it should be carried ten years, twelve years, fifteen-years, is there a particular...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: . [?] whether one is unable due to his health, then he may take it off.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yeah. I see. Otherwise a certain number of years?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No definite number of years, disability. And also one thing may be conceived, when he has given tridaṇḍa to many, then they're carrying the tridaṇḍa, he may not do. Considered as paramahansa, not under varṇāśrama, sannyāsa, above sannyāsa, hansa, paramahansa stage, the highest stage of the sannyāsa. Kuṭicaka, bahudaka, hansa, paramahansa. Paramahansa stage he may not carry. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Paramatola, there is that big Kālī temple underneath that big banyan tree and down there they sacrifice in goats, all the time. So I was wondering, what is their position on the Dhāma? I saw that they put the goat on the thing, chanted some mantra and one shot; very disturbing to the heart.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: “This land was under our control, fully. And Nimāi Paṇḍita came and he came to disturb us. We are continuing from eternity this business, killing, not only killing, but also sometimes human body sacrifice.”

Devotee: In Navadvīpa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. In tantric there are many [?] Not only animals but human beings were also sacrificed like that. But when Nimāi Paṇḍita came and preached Vaiṣṇavism, they are dispossessed, gradually. Still in parts of Midnapor near the Ganges valley this killing human boys are still going on, privately here and there by the Capalies [?], extreme śakta. And also in parts of Orissa [?] it was current, this narapoli [?] system. And so we found in the [?] in U.P there is also this custom of sacrificing boys.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Which place, U.P?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: U.P near Micapor [?] and somewhat. It was out in newspaper. One gentleman in high office he went to a hotel. That hotel was very famous for preparing a very tasteful meat. So many...

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Then one gentleman when taking meat in the hotel, a government officer of high order, he got a finger. Then he told that, "I'm sick. Please manage to send the dish to my quarter." And that was taken to his quarter by a servant and they intimated the police and the hotel was surrounded and searched. And it was found that the boys are taken to Brindacal [?] and they're sacrificed and those flesh taken and served here. Some twenty years back or so.

Devotee: There was one place in New York, one restaurant in New York they found out that they were serving babies flesh.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're very fond of tasting the meat. But on the whole, according to the stage of the growth of spiritual knowledge, the conception of God comes to that level. Because they cannot do but take meat, so the śāstra and the sādhū is sent to that lowest level. Only when they find any advantage, any chance, they try to take them up from that position. It is managed in that spirit.

loke vyavāyāmiṣa-madya-sevānityastu jantor-nahi tatra codanā [vyavasthitis-teṣu vivāha-yajña-surāgrahairasu nivṛttiriṣṭhā]

[“Everyone is naturally inclined to have sex, eat meat and drink wine. There is no need for the scripture to encourage these things. The scriptures do, however, give concessions for people who are determined to do these things. The scriptures therefore grant a license to enjoy sex by allowing sexual intercourse with one’s lawfully wedded wife at the proper time of the month. They grant a license to eat meat to those who perform a certain kind of sacrifice, and a license to drink wine to those who perform the Sautramaṇi sacrifice. The purpose of granting these licences for sense gratification is only to restrict these activities and to encourage people to give them up altogether. The real intention of the Vedic injunctions regarding sex, meat-eating, and wine-drinking is to make a person abstain from these activities.”] [Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam, 11.5.11]

The śāstra does not say that you have to do this. But because he cannot leave his animal habit, so the śāstra comes down to that position and mix with them. “Don’t eat so much, and eat some small quantity, and not always but now and then.” In this way they are trying to take him up.

Nahi tatra codanā. Śāstra does not say that you will have to do this. But because they cannot help them but doing that, their mentality and their habit is so low. What to do? By God’s will the scripture and the sādhū of that class is sent down to that position in order to recruit from that most deplorable and lowest position, to save the person. So they say, “And do, if you eat human flesh, do under these circumstance. If you are to drink wine, do under this circumstance. If you can't help, you must accompany women, do under these circumstance." So they come down to save the people, to uplift them, they had to come down.

And ordinary people they think that, "Our śāstra and the higher śāstra are one, all of equal state." They come to fight. But really from one quarter it is coming, one place. and the idea is this, to uplift the fallen, to go to that extent, to the lowest position, in the form of śāstra, and also sādhū of that type. But the object is that gradually to take them up, mixing with them. That is said in Bhāgavatam.

Loke vyavāyāmiṣa-madya-sevānityastu jantor-nahi tatra codanā. Not ordered that you must do this but because you cannot but, cannot help but do that, in such position, to recommend something, not so much, but with some restraint. In this way they advise and gradually they take them up. That is the purpose of śāstra.

Nahi tatra codanā, vyavasthitis-teṣu vivāha-yajña-surāgrahairasu nivr̥t̥tirīṣṭhā. The object of scripture is to take them up from that fallen stage, gradually, with good will the śāstra holds. But these people they think, "This is śāstra of one type, and that is also a śāstra, we must fight with them, they're are of equal value." But on the whole it is not of equal value.

Rte tesu bhutan rte tistha ma phala [?]

One says, "I'm giving dictation that do this, do this, animal sacrifice, all these things. I'm forced to do only to help this fallen state. But it does not mean that I am giving order, as it has got no equal value with the higher śāstra, nivr̥tti-mārga, not equal to nivr̥tti-mārga, of no competition. But it is of lower type and there is higher type, nivr̥tti-mārga. Those that can avoid all these things, they're of higher type. This is tamasic, rajarsic, sattvic, in this way the development is there. In the tamasa śāstra, many people, they will be mad in all these, this violence, and drinking, all these things, and they will say, 'We're also following śāstra. Your śāstra, my śāstra is different. So I'm doing according to śāstra. What's the harm here? It is mine and yours of indifference and ahimsā, non violence.'

And Ramakrishna Mission says, "All, everything is equal."

And Buddhist they came against this killing of animals and reaction, "We don't care for all the śāstra. If Veda is making provision for this, throw off your Veda, we don't care. We don't want any violence. In the name of religion you will go on with violent temperament, we don't have any recognition for such feature, whether it is Veda or anything else, we don't care."

When Śaṅkarācārya came, he under the garb of the Veda, he encouraged all these different types. "Whatever you do, but this is all false. Only according to your... only the nirviśeṣa Brahman, that is true and this is all false. Adopt any one of them, sattvic, rajasic, tamasic." This division Śaṅkara recognized. "Nārāyaṇa upāsanā is sattvic, this Brahman rajasic, and Śiva upāsanā this is tamasic, Devī, all these things, tamasic. But after all it is false, everything is false, and that Brahman is all in all."

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, in Vedic scripture, or allied scripture, is there any mention of this Christianity creed, in scripture?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, I don't find it.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Of the symptoms of it, the lakṣaṇa of Christianity may have been mentioned, perhaps. Although not directly mentioned. Because they also say that they can eat meat and they can drink. The modern Christians, they all do these things. They say this is part of our religion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They are in with the Muslims, no transmigration of soul, birth and rebirth. And also they're of the opinion that only the human beings have souls and the animals they have no souls. "So no himsā, no violence, that is the underlying thing. They have got no souls." That is a dangerous thing, misconception.

How a person like Christ can say the animals they are crying, but they have got no soul. You can sacrifice and you can eat. How it is possible, I can't think. He's so non violent at his heart, how he can allow a suffering animal to be sacrificed for the eating purpose. I can't follow.

With the Mohammedans it may be, they're very rude people. They're using force for conversion, all these things, very cruel, very rude in their habits.

But Christ was very mild, mild temperament. If you give a slap on this cheek, I will produce another. Then how he could overlook when an animal is cut, then he's showing his pain, crying aloud, how he can ignore. I can't understand.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Anyhow Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has harmonized that they preached in a locality where it was necessarily...

parokṣa-vādo vedo 'yaṁ, bālānām anuśāsanam [karma-mokṣāya karmāṇi, vidhatte hy agadaṁ yathā]

[“Childish and foolish people are attached to materialistic, fruitive activities, although the actual goal of life is to become free from such activities. Therefore, the Vedic injunctions indirectly lead one to the path of ultimate liberation by first prescribing fruitive religious activities, just as a father promises his child candy so that the child will take his medicine.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.44]

...that the whole thing should not be delivered there in that locality, that section, not possible, so they have not expressed the whole truth, partial. ‘They have got no soul,’ because it may be impossible that without animal food they can go on.

But at the same time it is mentioned in Bible that John, before Christ, he lived on only fig, fig and honey, John. It was translated wrongly. Without fig something was mentioned there, that John lived on honey and locust. But latterly it was found that that Hebrew word means, that locust as well as fig, the forest fig, so a ripe fig, big fig, that may be a kind of food. So then latterly it was interpreted on honey and fig, a fruit, jungle. We have got that fig tree here. Like fig that may be fig and honey. But it was, in the beginning, locust, a class of flying insect, he used to live on insect and honey.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Ahiṁsā. But in Gītā, it is mentioned, is given the solution universally.

yajñārthāt karmaṇo 'nyatra, loko 'yaṁ karma-bandhanaḥ [tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara]

[“Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death.

Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa-bhakti).”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

Whatever you do, connect it with infinite. First try to connect with infinite and then gradually you will be in a position to read the waves of infinite and improve yourself accordingly. Anyhow begin in the name of God. Whatever conception is possible of the God at present with you, begin in the name of God. And that God conception will be widened, gradually. Everything without hiṁsā cannot go.

ahastāni sahasānām, apadāni catuṣpadām [laghuni tatra mahatām, jīvo jīvasya jīvanam]

[“Those who are devoid of hands are prey for those who have hands; those devoid of legs are prey for the four-legged. The weak are the subsistence of the strong, and the general rule holds that one living being is food for another.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.13.47]

Even if we eat vegetables that is also hiṁsā, that is also violence to certain extent, but less intensity. But that is also violence to eat something to keep us our body, to kill that vegetable. So only to get rid of that problem is to do it with the consciousness of the infinite. “For Itself,” connecting with His universal līlā, come in contact with that wave, try to find that plane where everything is for the best. “Die to live,” the slogan for the nature of movement is “Die to live,” connect with that wave. Every death is for higher birth. Die to live, connect with that wave, try.

Gaura Hari bol. Who is looking after the cooking affairs there? [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Deviation. It is of course enervating plane, depleting the paraphernalia. The environment is always trying to destroy the spiritual thing, envelop. Ignorance is always trying to cover light. So it is necessary that now and then the light will have to come in the land of darkness. Evaṁ prakṛti-vaicitryād, pāraparyeṇa.

*evaṁ prakṛti-vaicitryād bhidyante matayo nṛṇāṁ pāraparyeṇa keṣāñcit

[“Thus, due to the great variety of desires and natures among human beings, there are many different theistic philosophies of life, which are handed down through tradition, custom and disciplic succession. There are other teachers who directly support atheistic viewpoints.”][Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.8]

Always there is a tendency to be enveloped by darkness, then always will be covered by darkness, ignorance. This is the plane for that. So it will deviate. Still we shall try hard to stick to the principles advised. And for that Manu says, sadbhir, adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ, vidvadbhiḥ, sadbhir, adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ.

*vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ
hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata*

[Manu-saṁhitā, 2.1] & [Loving Search For The Lost Servant, p 11]

Three qualities, vidvadbhiḥ, who has got substantial knowledge in the revealed scripture, first condition, to maintain it in tact, deep knowledge in the revealed scriptures, vidvadbhiḥ. And sadbhir, and that must be followed by the saints, and what type of saints? Adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ, those that are free from any attraction of this world, this wealth, name, fame, all these things, adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ. Who are independent from these three, kanak, kāmīnī, pratiṣṭhā, the attraction for senses, money, and fame. Such saints can maintain the standard, and deep knowledge in scripture, as well as non attraction to the worldly temptation. Such saint can maintain the truth here in this world. It will always tend towards degradation, the angle of life, darkness, ignorance. Its necessity is going down. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. It's very hard to maintain, so nirapekṣa, independent of all these temptations they can only maintain the standard. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, Śrīla Rūpa Goswāmī he talks about pure devotee not having any propensity in his heart to criticize others. So how to get this propensity ourselves?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? What does he say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: In Upadeśāmṛta there's one: a śuddha bhakta, the nindā-śūnya...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nindādi-śūnya-hṛdam īpsita-saṅga-labdhyā.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, so how to get that quality? He's asking.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: May be of the highest type, and that should be in our view, and we shall rather try to keep company with the next lower, madhyama adhikārī. This is the symptom of the highest. Just before that, what is the stanza?

kṛṣṇeti yasya giri taṁ manasādriyeta dīkṣāsti cet praṇatibhiś ca bhajantam īśam śuśrūṣayā bhajana-vijñam ananyam anya- nindādiśūnya-hṛdam īpsita-saṅga-labdhyā

[“One should mentally honour the devotee who chants the Holy Name of Lord Kṛṣṇa, one should offer humble obeisances to the devotee who has undergone spiritual initiation (dīkṣā) and is engaged in worshipping the Deity, and one should associate with and faithfully serve that pure devotee who is advanced in undeviated devotional service and whose heart is completely devoid of the propensity to criticise others.”] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 5]

When you come across such a type of devotee, then we shall do anything for him, prepared to do anything for his rare, valuable company, īpsita-saṅga-labdhyā. Kṛṣṇeti yasya giri taṁ manasādriyeta. Where is sincere name of Kṛṣṇa, not imitation, or any wilful name, nāmāparādha, nāmābhāsa, but real name in his lips we hear a single time. Kṛṣṇeti yasya giri taṁ manasādriyeta. If we find any name, or anyhow, or any name in anyone's lips we should adore him mentally, and not methodically, mentally. Dīkṣāsti cet praṇatibhiś ca. Then if he's connected with the higher Vaiṣṇava chain, then we shall bow down our head to him, not otherwise. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he has added some note here.

saṅga-doṣa-śūnya, dīkṣitādīkṣita, [jadi tava nāma gāya mānase ādara, karibo tāhāre jāni' nija-jana tāya]

[“Within my mind I will honour and consider as most dear one who avoids the fault of bad association and sings Your Holy Name, be he formally initiated or not.”] [Saraṇāgati, 5.1][From Gosai Publishers' Upadeśāmṛta, p 72-73]

Anyone in whose lip we shall find the name of Kṛṣṇa, if he's not in association with the known bad company, then only we shall adore him in our mind, mentally, not physically. Saṅga-doṣa-śūnya. But if he's connected with any bad company, bad company whom we know that they have got some mal practices and some other desire, organized way, then we won't care for him, taking the name.

Just as Nitāi-Gaura Rādhē-Śyāma. Nitāi-Gaura Rādhē-Śyāma, of course these names are well and good, but this Rāma dāsa party they use Nitāi-Gaura rather Nitāi Rādhā Gaura Śyāma. With this object they use that name. So associated with that party who have got such misconception, so if we hear Nitāi-Gaura from them we won't care, we shall try to avoid. Not mentally also we shall adore it.

And then when one has got dīkṣā, that is acceptance from the real party of Kṛṣṇa, devotion, devotional party of Kṛṣṇa, accepted by dīkṣā, then we shall bow down, that he has got real connection of Kṛṣṇa. Dīkṣitādīkṣita, jadi tava nāma gāya, mānase ādara. Dīkṣāsti cet praṇatibhiś ca. Dīkṣā means the connection with sad guru. Then we shall show our physical honour to him, not only mental but physical also.

Praṇatibhiś ca bhajantam īśam, śuśrūṣayā bhajana. And who is regularly engaged in attempting continued bhajana, niṣṭhā, always he's trying to keep us Kṛṣṇa consciousness, then we shall go and try to serve him. Who is cent per cent engaged, however deep it may be, but niṣṭhā, continuous, sincere attempt to keep up Kṛṣṇa consciousness, we shall go and serve him.

But when we have, fortunately, darśana of the highest type who does not care for good or bad in this world but always fully, deeply engaged in the name of Kṛṣṇa and drinking the nectar, if we have got the fortune of meeting such a person, then whatever will be possible for me we shall try to give everything and to try to satisfy him. Nindādi-śūnya-hṛdam īpsita-saṅga-labdhyā. Everything we shall do for him. With utmost energy we shall try to serve him.

Devotee: Yes.

Devotee: Mahārāja, how to pray?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As much as possible giving our attention to the direction of Guru, Gaurāṅga and Kṛṣṇa, as much as we can conceive. We shall collect all our energy to devote for the satisfaction of Guru, Gaurāṅga and Kṛṣṇa. As much as we can collect we shall try to sacrifice, to engage that in the service of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, including Guru, Gaurāṅga, Rādhā-Govinda, His full līlā. That should be our sincere attempt. And try to know what is Kṛṣṇa consciousness, wherever it will be possible, through the scriptures, from the lips of the sādhus. We must be sincere to our own attempt. That is what is primary necessity.

[“O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

We should not deceive our own self, none can deceive us. He’s everywhere and He will come to our relief wherever necessary, caitya guru. By the direction caitya guru, come to mahanta guru. And mahanta guru also helps the caitya guru, they’re following the common path, mutual help.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, śikṣā Guru and dīkṣā Guru are both mahanta Guru: is it correct?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Mahanta Guru. But dīkṣā Guru means he takes perhaps more care for the disciples, obligation is more. And śikṣā Guru a little passive. But sometimes when dīkṣā Guru is absent, dīkṣā Guru, then śikṣā Guru may take place. Dīkṣā, when one can understand that dīkṣā is not a form, or only embodiment of few words, but it has got a real meaning, the life is there, then śikṣā Guru and dīkṣā Guru [?] But when he's particular for the form, then dīkṣā Guru has got more importance. But as much as he can get out of the form of words towards the meaning, then his view becomes broad and wide. He'll find śikṣā Guru, dīkṣā Guru, wherever is Kṛṣṇa consciousness he's Guru. In Bhāgavatam it is _____ avadhūta it is mentioned.

[?] Guru, twenty four Gurus of the

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. When we have twenty four Gurus, everywhere one may see Guru. Everywhere it is possible. Everything is giving instruction to me to advance towards service of Kṛṣṇa. The whole paraphernalia, the whole environment, is Guru. In Vṛndāvana it is so. In Navadvīpa consciousness, Vṛndāvana consciousness, everything will excite me to go and serve Kṛṣṇa, Gaura, then we're really in Vṛndāvana.

yat kincha tena gurumakhi katam go gosthe samam hitat [?] sadva nanda mayam mukunda dyaitam lila anukulam param [?] sadvam mayam vandate [?]

They all try to excite me to serve Kṛṣṇa. They're Guru. Guru becomes identified everywhere. And also concentrated in some place, in mādhurya rasa the Rādhārāṇī, in vātsalya rasa Nanda, Yaśodā, in friendly circle this Sudam, Śrīdam, in every rasa emitting the dynamo from where the power is coming out. Ke?

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, a story is there about when Kṛṣṇa had a headache and He wanted the best of the Vaiṣṇavas to get rid of the headache. Did the gopīs go to hell when they gave their dust?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What's he say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I don't know what he says.

Badrinārāyaṇa: He says, "In the story of ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, that I understand.

Badrinārāyaṇa: "Did the gopīs go to hell when they gave the dust?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That is a very, very high position, and we shall try to understand that position. Die to live. What type of death they were ready to incur, of what degree? Die to live. That is the highest conception of the order of die to live. They wanted to efface themselves for the service of Kṛṣṇa, and effacement was not possible. Rather, they came out with the highest brightness.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

That is story to us, wholly story, not to suit any practical purpose within us, we shall think, keep it in our mind.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Badrinārāyaṇa: If one is trying to become more humble, what helps the most?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Self analysis, and also to study the life of those where we find humility in their life, humility. To understand what is humility it is not some external posture and gesture, but it is the development of the heart, and of ones own consciousness. It is a natural thing. One who is in the relativity of a big thing, he can only have conception of his own very small. So to be natural, the humble person must have conception of a very big object of experience. As much as he will come to have a conception of a bigger thing, he cannot but think himself very smaller and smaller, in the relativity. So that is not a thing which we can apply by tactics. It is a natural - when unfolded, our heart will be unfolded to receive the infinite grace of Kṛṣṇa.

Then in that connection it will see that 'I am the humble of the humble, smallest of the small, meanest of the mean. I'm so helpless.' In fact, he has come in contact with the ocean of mercy of Kṛṣṇa. 'Like a straw I'm moving in the ocean. The līlā is so powerful, so sweet, and I'm like a straw. I'm dancing there in the līlā of Kṛṣṇa. I have no power to assert.'

And then there's another side also, extended by Yogamāyā, that abhimāna. They're in that position commanding the party, doing this thing, that thing, that is another thing, delegated by Yogamāyā in the service of Kṛṣṇa, so many, so called ego. Activated by that position they have got their peculiar function to discharge duties, sometimes they're asserting themselves. That is all lent by svarūpa śakti, Yogamāyā. And that is imparted to one who is selfless, who has nothing of his own. And that element if it is utilised to suit their purpose of service there. Who are fully empty, that is filled up with nectar, and managed to get some service from them there.

There are soldiers given dress, weapons, everything, from the military department, and make them useful to suit the purpose. So everything is given by Yogamāyā there, svarūpa śakti, to utilise them in the service of Kṛṣṇa. Not anything, any qualification carried from here. And our soul is only suitable to receive those dresses or garments: suitability is there. And the dress, and the attitude, is supplied from above, svarūpa śakti. And the taṭasthā śakti jīva he has got the suitability to accept that particular form of service.

Just as here also in this mundane world he's given the body by māyā, the mental system, mental ego, supplied by māyā, for the suitability [?] possibility, adaptability, within the soul. And all these things begin by māyā and they're working within garments and weapons of māyā in this world. This is foreign to him, not in the element of the soul, but adaptability, or suitability, something within. And accordingly this injurious help has been given and he's utilised as an agent of māyā here. So also that side, just the opposite, of the taṭasthā jīva.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

The dacoits are recruited and engaged in the government service. Ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So nearly ten?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ten to ten.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, perhaps you mentioned once that you did not see him sing or dance. Chanting and dancing, very little he did that, we're told.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We did not see him, never to dance, we can't conceive even that he's dancing. And also we did not see him chanting, singing.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: In the saṅkīrtana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Saṅkīrtana, but always engaged in Hari kathā, delivering lectures, and ordinary discourse of Hari kathā, and dictating articles, and most enthusiastically and intense.

I found him once when he's dictating to our Professor Sanyal about the Harmonist. He began to publish in English by the name of Harmonist, a monthly paper. He was expressing Sajjana-toṣaṇa and harmony are synonymous. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he published Sajjana-toṣaṇī in Bengali. And Prabhupāda's every work is connected with Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, must have some touch or other with Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. So Harmonist, the name Sajjana-toṣaṇī and harmony are synonymous, he was expressing to Sanyal. But so surcharged with feeling I found him that I found his face just like a kind of lotus, that is red and white, mixed. Kokonada [?] in Sanskrit it is known, red and white mixed. I found his face just like that type of lotus.

Sometimes the poets they compare beautiful faces with lotus. But I had that experience, practically in that time, a beautiful, a particular kind of lotus I found in his face, kokana [?] a reddish lotus [?]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. While talking about Rādhārāṇī almost went to be fainted. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Generally all his lectures used to culminate in the praise of Rādhārāṇī. That we marked. That he has come from that party, full place in that party. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

I heard him say in Rādhāṣṭamī day, “The best day in the year has come today, best day.” Clearly he told, “The best day.” Vṛṣabhānu sepi [?] He became outside himself when he was talking about Rādhārāṇī.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Everything is there to represent in Him in its best reality. But he was seen to lose himself totally when he was talking about Rādhārāṇī, he’d lost himself. That was his attitude, in his mind, he’s lost, when talking about Her.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Keep up the standard. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. [?] Sometimes chanting this side, that side, that is too much. But come in this plane, take your position, here you’ll be safe. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. That is too much for us, audacity, too much audacity to tackle all these higher sentiments of the Lord there.

I heard once when I was in Delhi, oh, not, in a book, Mohamed Ali [?] though followers of Gandhi for some time they’re orthodox Muslims, especially Mohamed Ali [?] was a scholar. When in Bombay I got a book of Mohamed Ali [?] giving some conception about Islam. I read it for preaching purpose. I found whenever he’s taking the name of Mohamed he says, “Peace be unto him.” Whenever he’s compelled to take the name of Mohamed only there is “May peace be unto him.” Whenever he mentions the name of Mohamed, “Peace be unto him.” By taking name I may not have the audacity of disturbing him, drive his attention towards me.” Or something like apology.

So with us also, feelingly sometimes talking very high but we should try to keep our position_____ [?] going this side, that side, but our safe position is the kuñja of Nitāi Gaura, we’re quite safe. Under the benevolent guidance of Nitāi Gaura we’re quite safe. Mahā-Mahā-vadanyāya avatāra. When under Their gaze we’re quite safe. Otherwise, so many ambitions, so much ambition, so much risky, to reach towards high ontological aspect, that may create some anomaly, pratiṣṭhā, or any other thing may attack, high position.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, that śreyaḥ kairava candrikā vitarāṇam [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1], is that that white lotus of...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Kairava means this red which is...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Opening the moon.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is related to the moon, their sustenance from the moonlight, this kairava.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Not white lotus.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the lotus gets sustenance from the sun, daytime.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So that moon lotus is red.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, red, śreyaḥ kairava. There's two kinds, one white one red, two types of that kumud. Really the red are called kumud, and the white called kalhara [?], another name, kalhara, that is white kumud. Both flourish at night, one red type, another white type.

White is kalhara and red type is kumud. Candrikā vitaraṇam, the moonlight sustains the kumud, red lotus, night lotus. What is the English of kumud? Red lotus, or night lotus?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Just lotus I think.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is lily, difference between lily and lotus?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: A lily is a little different I think. Yes, lily is slightly different, smaller.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Different, what may be different, smaller?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Smaller and different type. But that kairava refers to red lotus?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Red lotus, yes. They're connecting with the moon, the red lotus.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So that prayer, kairava candrikā vitaraṇam...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, the Name enlivens the heart. The Holy Name, the influence of the Name supplies the vitality to the life lotus of our heart, our awakening of our heart, or soul. Soul may be compared with the lotus, that night lotus. And the Name as moon, and moon sends his ray to the kairava and enlivens.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: It opens.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Opens. Candrikā vitaraṇam, candrikā means vitality, supplies vitality, sustenance, vitality. And then vidyā-vadhū-jīvanam, the next step comes that when it grows a little by the help of that moonlight it comes in the garb of the serving in mādhurya rasa, emit, vidyā-vadhū-jīvanam, vadhū, that wholesale dedication. Mādhurya rasa means wholesale dedication, the type of wholesale dedication, vidyā-vadhū-jīvanam. It is seen to grow in the light of service of the wholesale dedication, vidyā-vadhū-jīvanam. Ānandāmbudhi-varḍhanam, gradually it finds itself in the midst of the ocean of joy, and that is increasing and increasing, ever increasing ocean of joy. Ānandāmbudhi-varḍhanam prati-padam pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanam. The ocean that is filled with increasing novelty every second, with new novelty it is coming, not stagnant. Ānandāmbudhi-varḍhanam prati-padam pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanam. Sarvātmāśnapanam, and purifying, wholesale, wholesale purifying, concerning his own and also many others that are outside. Wholesale purifying, the Name, in and out.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. So you are to look after your guest.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes Mahārāja, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now I ...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Jaya Om Viṣṇu-Pāda
Paramahansa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: ... Brahma-saṁhitā we've got, there's one verse, uvāca puratas tasmai, tasya divya sarasvatī kāma-kṛṣṇāya govinda, he gopī-jana ity api vallabhāya priyā vahner, mantram te dāsyati priyam

[“Then the Divine Vibration of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Divyā Sarasvatī, said to Brahmā as he was seeing darkness all around, “O Brahmā, klīṁ kṛṣṇāya govindāya gopī-jana- vallabhāya svāhā, this mantra will bring about the fulfilment of all your cherished desires.”][Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, 24]

That Sarasvatī, the Divine Consort of the Supreme Lord, She gave Lord Brahmā this mantra, this klīṁ kṛṣṇāya govindāya, etc. But the question was, this Sarasvatī, Divyā Sarasvatī, what is Her identity? What is Her position? Is She the same Goddess, Vag, Vag Devī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vag Devī in Her real self She's [?] consort of Nārāyaṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lakṣmī and Sarasvatī, knowledge and aiśvarya, resources, two potencies of Nārāyaṇa. But Sarasvatī, that is the vocal resources, the sound, sound resource, śabda, [?] In the instrumentality of extending ones own self from thought, from inner nature, through sound. Through aural instruments, it came to Brahmā. [?] And Kṛṣṇa, object of worship, attainment. So Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, the supremacy of the beauty has got recognition over the power and grandeur. It is admitted here.

Nārāyaṇa is supposed to be the cause of the whole existence, conscious, unconscious. He's imparting this truth, that mantram, that you search for that. The object of our search is of such nature. So this is to prove that, kṛṣṇas tu bhagavān svayaṁ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.28], as in Bhāgavatam.

nārāyaṇas tvaṁ na hi sarva-dehinām, ātmāsy adhīśākhila-loka-sākṣī [nārāyaṇo 'ngaṁ nara-bhū-jalāyanāt, tac cāpi satyaṁ na tavaiva māyā]

[“Are You not the original Nārāyaṇa, O supreme controller, since You are the Soul of every embodied being and the eternal witness of all created realms? Indeed, Lord Nārāyaṇa is Your expansion, and He is called Nārāyaṇa because He is the generating source of the primeval water of the universe. He is real, not a product of Your illusory Māyā.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.14]

In that way. Still Brahmā [?] “Who are you [?] Such is Your temperament. I do not care for anybody, but Your dress is such [?] I can know easily my Master Nārāyaṇa.”

But Brahmā, at last he came to conclusion, “That You are greater than Nārāyaṇa.” And he was empowered by this mantram from Nārāyaṇa.

We find the clue, without His will we cannot know Himself. So here in this method it was extended to Brahmā through Sarasvatī, “That this is your mantram, your mind attempt here and you will thrive. You will know more about it. Gānat trāyate mantra. If you mind it, attend it, you’ll be relieved from your present position. You will have progress. Life is progress. This will help you in the right line, your progress. The object of the world is such, the destination is of such nature. You may mind it, you may think of it.”

Yena purā sarasvatī, pracoditā yena purā sarasvatī. Where is it in Bhāgavatam? Pracoditā yena purā sarasvatī.

[pracoditā yena purā sarasvatī, vitanvatājasya satīm smṛtiṁ hṛdi svalakṣaṇā prādurabhūt kilāsyataḥ, sa me ṛṣīṇām ṛṣabhaḥ prasīdatām]

[“May the Lord, who in the beginning of the creation amplified the potent knowledge of Brahmā from within his heart and inspired him with full knowledge of creation and of His own Self, and who appeared to be generated from the mouth of Brahmā, be pleased with me.”][Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.4.22]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura writes,

[bhakti badha jaha ho'te, se bidyar mastakete, padaghata koro' akaitaba] sarasvati krsna-priya, krsna-bhakti ta'r hiya, binoder sei se baibhava

[“Among all the obstacles to devotion, this mundane knowledge is certainly the foremost. You must sincerely kick it out, dear mind, for the real understanding is that Mother Sarasvati, the Goddess of learning, is very dear to Lord Kṛṣṇa, and devotion to Him is her very heart. This very devotion is indeed the sanctifying grace of Bhaktivinoda.”]

In reality, all words, all sound, have their foundation in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, like any other things. And there is also the outer aspect. The same word apparently may take us to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and others to world consciousness, same word.

Just in front of the chariot in Purī, what Mahāprabhu chanted, and danced, an ordinary śloka, the ordinary pastimes of a young man and a youthful lady. He’s chanting madly that when dancing in the front of chariot. None can understand it. Sei ślokerā artha jāne sabe ekā svarūpa.

[sabe ekā svarūpa gosāñi ślokerā artha jāne / ślokānurūpa pada prabhuke karāna āsvādane]

[“Only Svarūpa Dāmodara Gosvāmī knew the purpose for which the Lord recited that verse. According to the Lord’s attitude, he used to quote other verses to enable the Lord to relish mellows.”][Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 1.76]

Only Svarūpa Dāmodara could realise the meaning of that śloka [?]

End of 82.06.08.B_82.06.10.A

82.06.10.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] So every word really meant for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Everything, if deeply perceived to its true aspect. But due to misunderstanding we're on the cover and see something else, in relation to our personal satisfaction, or extended selfishness, contrary [?] according to our understanding and our nature. He's for Himself. So words are also serving Him, all words, but we can't understand. There is the rub.

īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, [yat kiñca jagatyāṁ jagat tena tyaktena bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam]

[“Everything animate or inanimate that is within the universe is controlled and owned by the Lord. One should therefore accept only those things necessary for himself, which are set aside as his quota, and one should not accept other things, knowing well to whom they belong.”] [Śrī Īśopaniṣad, 1]

He's for Himself, that is reality. And local interest is the cause of reading it in different ways. Absolutely it is for His satisfaction, His working. We are misreading them on our different accounts, for selfishness, individual or group, that is the solution.

Here the Saraswatī from Nārāyaṇa is coming to Brahmā, the creator of this Earth, to give him some internal principles. That ultimately everything is connected, but you are also still in want of realization.

That is this, keep it in your own heart and go on cultivating this Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and you will improve. Brahmā the creator, he's also a post-holder, a creator...

na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir na śaṅkaraḥ

na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr naivātmā ca yathā bhavān

[“Neither Brahmā nor Śīva are as dear to Me as you; My elder brother Saṅkarṣaṇa is not as dear to Me as you, nor even Lakṣmī Devī. Even My own Self is not as dear to Me as you.”][Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15]

...how the gradation goes, [?] beginning from Brahmā, going up to the gopīs, this line. Brahmā the creator of this world was given by Nārāyaṇa whose representative he was in this world of perverted reflections. “Keep it in your mind, this is the goal.”

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Today this lady, Anurādhā, she was telling me this morning that Swāmī Mahārāja went to Dallas and the big scientific scholars were all gathered there. And they challenged him, so big figure. Swāmī Mahārāja was smaller figure there. “You don’t have faith in all the science exhibitions and other things.”

Swāmī Mahārāja in course of his lecture told, “I shall beat you with my shoes, and then you will be able to realize. And the shoes of intellectual strike, stick. Shoes, that is negligible, the shoes may be negligible words of intellectual bumble. I shall beat you. Then you will come to your senses, what is what.”

And also he told in that respect that, “The real preacher he will have such attitude, that I do not know much, but my Gurudeva, God, is on my back.

I'm only an agent and the proprietor is always on my head. With this consciousness a preacher should begin his work. That, he's on my back. I may not know, but I have my Gurudeva."

Just as Swāmī Mahārāja told when he thought he may not live long, "If I disappear, if I die, don't care, but your grandfather is there, you think of that. Your grandfather will be at your back."

So the real preacher should always have, and will get the supply from above.

Rāmānuja and a Śāṅkara Paṇḍita met in a discussion, more than a fortnight, continuous. And at last Rāmānuja found himself helpless in that fight and came to Varadarāja temple.

"I am nothing, I am a culprit in the sampradāya. I cannot keep up the dignity of the sampradāya, can't keep. I'm so mean. What shall I do?"

Then he got some inspiration from the temple, and the next day when he went to take his seat in the house, and that Śāṅkara Paṇḍita gentleman came and fell at his feet.

"Yesterday what you told me I have realized that verse. Then that is true. So I have got my faith back. For two weeks continuously going on discussing, discussing."

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: What was that man's name?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't remember. I found it in an English book in Madras, Rāmānuja.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He was a Śāṅkarite?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śāṅkarite. He submitted at last. His previous argument, by the divine will, came to take the victory, not any new argument was necessary, by His will.

So with heart within and God overhead, we shall approach. We are finite, but infinite is there. Everywhere, at every position, every time, we must be conscious that we are finite, but the infinite is there. And through my Guru paramparā we are in favourable position, they will side with us.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi
Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi.

Brahma-saṁhitā is considered to support the views of Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanya Deva so closely and intimately that some say that this was written by Mahāprabhu Himself.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has quoted this, he told, “If it is so, then we think ourself much more blessed, because we do not find any book of siddhānta direct from Mahāprabhu. He has only taken from Bhāgavatam, here, there, and only eight *śloka*s He has given. But if Brahma-saṁhitā might have been written by Śrī Caitanya Deva this is all well, all good. But it is not so. Jīva Goswāmī has mentioned that this is a chapter from original book Brahma-saṁhitā which has got hundred chapters, consist of hundred chapters, and this is only one chapter.”

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Yad yadaya sata dhukha sangita [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. This is the fifth chapter, it is mentioned?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I think yes, we're told.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: There was another question he had, that general thing. Saraswatī sometimes considered the wife of Lord Brahmā. And understood Lord Brahmā he was alone at that time. So she from Vaikuṇṭha gave this mantra. And then his wife Saraswatī appeared later, perhaps? This question came.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may not be the same Saraswatī. The extension. When Saraswatī came direct from Nārāyaṇa to Brahmā, and by the will of Nārāyaṇa that same Saraswatī came out of Brahmā for the public, as originally willed by Nārāyaṇa. It may be taken in such a way. Ordinary people say this Saraswatī is subservient to Brahmā. That may be the outer aspect. And real Saraswatī cannot but be the direct potency of Nārāyaṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Another question came, that sometimes its said that Saraswatī is opposed to Lakṣmī. What's the bother?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Subtle. Lakṣmī is the potency, offers comfort. But Saraswatī is the potency and Lakṣmī giving comfort position. But Saraswatī which is coming out of Nārāyaṇa, always meant for the help of others. So if Lakṣmī collects energy from Nārāyaṇa, so-called, but Saraswatī taking energy from Him and spreading it out. So little antagonistic. One is in-carrying, another out- carrying. Saraswatī is always out-carrying. She has not in-carrying service, always out-carrying.

And Lakṣmī Devī she may not like, “That I’m collecting energy and she’s export and import.” Import against the export, so they may have some feeling of so-called apparent apathy, the in-carrying and the out-carrying potency of Nārāyaṇa. Lakṣmī she also has out-carrying to certain extent, still in-carrying. Whereas Saraswatī has no in-carrying, she’s only exporting. Sound exporting. To us sound may import, but to Nārāyaṇa no import necessary, always export through sound, śabda- brahman, the external sound.

Within sound everything. Air also, ether, the cause of the plane of sound is the finer, and extensive, and covering everything within it, in and out. Ether is in and out. Where is earth, there is ether, but where is only ether may not be earth, or water.

*yathā mahānti bhūtāni, bhūteṣūccāvaceṣv anu praviṣṭāny apraviṣṭāni,
tathā teṣu na teṣv aham*

[“O Brahmā, please know that the universal elements enter into the cosmos and at the same time do not enter into the cosmos; similarly, I also exist within everything and at the same time I am outside everything.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.35]

Saraswatī out-carrying, the sound coming for the benefit of the environment. And Lakṣmī Devī is trying to give comfort to Nārāyaṇa, eternally. Potency of different type. If we want to differentiate then it will be like this, sound, sound coming from... and Lakṣmī, sustainer, little antagonistic.

Rādhārāṇī She's sometimes very disgusted with that flute. "You give Your flute to Me. The flute is the cause of all disturbance." So there was a conspiracy, "You must take out the flute from Kṛṣṇa," amongst the gopīs. "That disturbs us most. The sound most disturbing. Always tries to disposes us of our own self. So flute is our enemy." Something like that. The flute, the sound.

The Lakṣmī class, the gopīs they're also feeling disturbance, disgusted with the sound, some animistic position. "This is the root of all disturbance in our heart. We don't care so much for You, not afraid of You, but afraid of Your flute, the sound." So sweet, everything upset, by the sound everything upset. A little antagonistic there also.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

That is distributing, flute. I have also written in the meaning of Gāyatrī. gāyatrī muralīṣṭa-kīrttana-dhanaṁ rādhāpadaṁ dhīmahi.

In Gāyatrī it is reflection of the flute, the sound of the flute of Kṛṣṇa, the sweet sound, which can not only release us from all engagements, undesirable, but it helps us to engage in the accurate, proper service of the Lord. Positive and negative, two functions, the sound, the Gāyatrī, gānat, trāyate, by singing, the naming of which we get emancipation, liberation. But liberation has got the positive side, to have a definite engagement in the service of Kṛṣṇa, self-determination. Svarūpena vyavaṣṭhiḥ, it takes us to the svarūpa, our proper function of the soul, in its innermost respect. Gāyatrī muralī, that muralī of Kṛṣṇa and the Gāyatrī, a perverted reflection here. Kīrttana-dhanaṁ, Mahāprabhu's kīrtana also to that effect. The flute of Kṛṣṇa, the saṅkīrtana of Mahāprabhu, the Gāyatrī in Veda, all, their aim is all equal, interconnected. Gāyatrī muralīṣṭa-kīrttana-dhanaṁ. One in the highest positive, another in the middle, another in the lower position. Rādhāpadam dhīmahī.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: In the Anubhāṣya perhaps, mention of the different types of sannyāsī titles. In the title Saraswatī it is mentioned, expert in śāstra, and also we were puzzled it mentioned śāstriya sangit, that the sannyāsī would engage in śāstriya sangit for a kind of meditation. Is that in the Śāṅkara School or possible in the Vaiṣṇava School also? But we don't find that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't come across such thought. It is mentioned where?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Anubhāṣya perhaps.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prabhupāda's? Where?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. In Madhya-līlā he's given explanation of the different names of the sannyāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: These ten names.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, ten names. Bharatī, Aranya...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Saraswatī, should have some connection with sangit. And only they have got the title of Saraswatī.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: That was one of the apparent qualities. I did not understand that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But we did not find any such qualification in our Guru Mahārāja.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I know that. Not a trace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No tinge, no trace. Once a group photo was taken when Prabhupāda was young and they were all singing. And Prabhupāda was asked at least to open his mouth, ah, in this way the photo was taken. "They all are singing so you must open your lips." There was one group photo.

Vyāsadeva was residing on the banks of the river Saraswatī. Śuka madhya parama śakti.

And there he also taught Bhāgavatam to Śukadeva. Nārada also came there and gave the ten principles of Bhāgavatam there on banks of Saraswatī River. Nārada came, taught the principle of Bhāgavatam, and Vedavyāsa also he taught Śukadeva Bhāgavatam, two sittings there. A third sitting in Śukatal [?] where Śukadeva was speaker. Fourth sitting in Naimiṣāranya. Sūta Goswāmī was the speaker. And after four sittings Vyāsadeva [?] he got it in the present edition only three introductory *śloka*s, he gave it to the market, the present Bhāgavatam, after four sittings. First Nārada and Vyāsa, second Vyāsa and Śuka both in Saraswatī, Badarikāśrama, and third in Śukatal, and fourth in Naimiṣāranya. And then these three introductory *śloka*s, written by Vyāsadeva. Janmādy asya [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1], nigama-kalpa-taror [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.3], dharmah projjhita- kaitavo [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2]. With that introduction Vyasadeva published, gave it to the public.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Nārada-Vyāsa first.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nārada-Vyāsa; Vyāsa-Śuka. Pitur dvaiva, pitur dvaipāyanād aham.

Adhītavān dvāparādaḥ, pitur dvaipāyanād aham. Śukadeva says.

[idaṁ bhāgavatam nāma, purāṇam brahma-sammitam adhītavān dvāparādaḥ, pitur dvaipāyanād aham]

[“At the end of Dvāpara-yuga, I studied this Mahā-Purāṇa Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam from my father, Śrī Kṛṣṇa-Dvaipāyana Vyāsa. I conceive that to be the highest standard of education and you are the fittest man to receive it. Therefore I shall deliver it to you.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.8]

“What I have read from my dear father I shall speak to you here now, give delivery. Because I conceive, I find that you are mahā-pauruṣiko, you are searching after the highest end of life. So here's a proper place, and I should inaugurate what I read, thinking, representing the highest principle of our life. I shall deliver now to you this here today."

tad ahaṁ te 'bhidhāsyāmi, mahā-pauruṣiko bhavān [yasya śraddadhatām āśu, syān mukunde matiḥ satī]

["That very Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam I shall recite before you because you are the most sincere devotee of Lord Kṛṣṇa. One who gives full attention and respect to hearing Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam achieves unflinching faith in the Supreme Lord, the giver of salvation."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.10]

"You are really the receiver of what is known as the highest end of life, mahā-pauruṣiko, the highest end of life that can be accepted by the great high thinking soul. So I shall deal with that."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa līlā, nara līlā, that human pastimes of the highest type of the Lord, human pastimes, that is the highest. Prākṛta, aprākṛta, when the proprietor plays the part of a thief, peculiar. If we can adjust with that then no further solution is necessary, all is solved. If we can understand that if proprietor may be like play the part of a thief, who is the absolute owner, proprietor, He's playing the part of a thief, if we can follow this, understand this, then everything is solved. Nothing remains to be solved.

Our Guru Mahārāja told once, vairāgya sesya agresya [?]

"Nārāyaṇa He has got indifference, vairāgya. Vairāgya means indifference, abnegation. He has got abnegation to such a degree, everything belongs to Him but we can't find the master, the owner. Such abnegation He has got, that we can't find the real owner of the property. He's so careless about His own. Here also, He's dealing with things as a thief, being the proprietor. He's more advanced, not only abnegation, but also approaching in the surface like a thief."

One gentleman told another thing, "Because He's a thief so we have got some consolation. We may not have to invite any thief. In rainy season the storm, walled up house, everything, all protection, but the dignified thief, he won't care for all these sorts of protection. He will come, enter into the house of His own interest."

So we have erected so many boundary lines, protecting lines, that God consciousness may not enter into our heart. We are trying our best not to allow Him to enter in our heart. But only He enters as a thief. "Oh, because He enters as a thief we are saved. Otherwise wakefully we can't allow God consciousness to enter in. But because He's thief, we are saved. Otherwise we have no other alternative of being saved. So He's thief in His own home. So self-abnegation to the extreme."

Ha, ha, not only that, by taking something without notice of Yaśodā He's being whipped, mercilessly, and crying lovingly, "I won't do it again My mother. Please forgive Me."

_____ [?] One who is conscious that everything belongs to Him, unconditionally, and He's playing such part. What sort of ecstasy He will feel in His heart? What is the matter? Yasyālinde param brahma.

*[śrutim apare smṛtim itare, bhāratam anye bhajantu bhava-bhītāḥ aham
iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde param brahma]*

[Raghupati Upādhyāya says: "Those who fear rebirth in this world may follow the advice of the Vedic scriptures - others may follow the Mahābhārata - but as for me, I follow Nanda Mahārāja, in whose courtyard the Supreme Absolute Truth plays as a child.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.96]

“I want this type of God, no other God I want. Play as a thief being the proprietor, so humble, so homely. I want this, I want that God, no other type of God I want.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Then Parīkṣit Mahārāja told, “What’s the matter? The yogī, ṛṣi, scholars, saints, they’re trying their utmost to reach to God conception. But they think this is very far off, it is very high, it is most abstract, it cannot be done. And if any way we come in touch automatically, immediately we are thrust down. Such valuable and rare thing. And that Yaśodā, is suckling her breast to that parambrahma. What’s the fun? And He’s crawling on the compound of Nanda Mahārāja, what is the matter? What sort of sādhana is there? They have attained such position and what is the means to such end, that anurāga, sādhana, way of love. Only bhakti, unconditional surrender, that can have such achievement towards the unknown and unknowable, unapproachable. And that can be approached in such a way, such a peculiar means is there. And what is that? That is prema, that is love, that is devotion, that is surrender.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, in that in-going and out-coming, in which you spoke of Lakṣmī serving and Saraswatī distributing, so then we think about mādhurya and audārya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, yes.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Would there be any...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, mādhurya, audārya. Saraswatī is more akin to audārya, and mādhurya the predominance of Lakṣmī. Lakṣmī of course of lower order potency, but still the line, it is recruiting. Saraswatī is recruiting officer, recruiting department, audārya, mainly representing that side, Saraswatī.

So Mahāprabhu came to tackle with the śāstra paṇḍita, śāstra, the scriptures, vidya. And their sustainance, vidya, paṇḍita, and that is milk, milkmaid. Milk is the most sustaining type. So gopa, go means Veda, go means this cow section. Go means indriya, Govinda. Go is the fulfilment of all our senses, who is the real product of the Veda, and who is a cow-keeper.

Ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Go, śruti, the most innocent life, as if their life is only for others, milk, and helping to the other society, go, humble and helping, ideal. Śruti, passive instruction, helping. And go indriya, Govinda. Govinda, all our senses may have fulfilment in Him. The corresponding side is there, and then there is no harm. Otherwise sensualism is to take us to the hell, kāma-andhatamaḥ.

[ataeva kāma-preme bahuta antara, kāma--andhatamaḥ, prema--nirmmala bhāskara]

[“There is a gulf of difference between lust and love; lust is dense darkness, love is the brightest sun.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171]

But if it's properly directed towards Him, that is just the opposite of sensualism which is the meanest, kāma--andhatamaḥ, prema--nirmmala bhāskara. The senses are not created for nothing. They have got their fulfilment. But real inner pure holy fulfilment is with Kṛṣṇa. And the opposite is so much filthy. Govinda.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja, when Śukadeva Goswāmī was born, didn't he take off, didn't he leave his father right away, immediately?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Different kalpa is there. In one kalpa it is like that, that Śukadeva did not want to come out of the womb because...

End of 82.06.10.B

82.06.10.C

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...he thought, 'I won't come out.' Long time passed. Then he arranged with the vidhatta [?] the administrating authorities, "That for a single second the māyā should be taken away." [?] come out. And that was done and Śukadeva came out and ran towards the forest.

Another kalpa also represented, that Śukadeva came when Vyāsadeva was working with yajña katha. That time something happened and Śukadeva came out.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Talked with the parrot?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In another story when Mahādeva was talking about Kṛṣṇa to his wife Devī Durgā, when Durgā Devī slept while attending the talk of Mahādeva she slept. And one bird, Śuka pakhi, he was hearing also, listening.

And he was regularly, Mahādeva now and then asking, "Do you hear?"

"Yes." And the bird was continuing that 'yes.' Though Durgā slept but bird is continuing hearing. And Śiva went on, but at last Śiva found out [?] then he chased the bird, and bird fled. Then sometime, some place, he managed to enter within the womb of a woman, Śuka. And then by any function it came out, as man, Śuka.

So many tales are told about Śuka.

Badrinārāyaṇa: So which Śuka ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If we, different kalpa...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Kalpa veda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But we're concerned with the gist, not the story so much.

How Vyāsadeva came, when Parāśara was going to cross a river, a lady was conducting the boat. Suddenly Parāśara felt attraction for the girl, and Vyāsadeva came. So we are to know not to particularise all these things. In nirguṇa plane [?] The inner mischief making tendency is absent in nirguṇa. Whatever may be the outward waves, but it is free from all selfish mischief making tendency. It is all right. No selfish end. Universal Will, that is sweet.

Draupadī had five husbands, rather, we're told, "If we think of them we're purified." Why? We must look to the inner aspect of things, not the outer, the inner aspect of things. Why?

To commit suicide, that is most sinful. But to sacrifice the body for some higher cause, that is laudable. So motive is all in all. External things, to kill one's body, suicide, that is the most heinous thing. But to sacrifice for a good cause the body, same body sacrifice, that is very admirable. So the internal motive, not only selfless, but Godly. Selflessness, that is the negative side is accepted. And then that God inviting tendency, that is the positive. That is pure, everything pure like anything.

That is the standard. What is the standard of purity? The standard of highest purity, that which is sacrificing and giving himself, that is serving towards the centre, central good. That is the criterion of purity. What is the criterion of purity? Not any external show, but the inner tendency to sacrifice for the central good. That is the criterion of purity. So accordingly the purity and impurity should be traced.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Not by the phenomenal appearance of the thing. Nitya Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, in this Brahma-saṁhitā, one other thing. In the English translation of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura's purport it says, "Brahmā thought thus within himself. By the recollection of Kāma Gāyatrī it seems to me that I am the eternal maidservant of Kṛṣṇa." So Lord Brahmā's realisation of being a maidservant we don't find much more information.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. Yes, that gopī. Kṛṣṇa means gopī jana vallabha. He's unapproachable even to Lakṣmī and others, only approachable to the gopīs, gopī abhimāna. So if we want to have His service to the fullest extent, then we are to have, acquire the posing of our inner self as gopī, gopī vallabha. Highest attainment only is possible in that sort of inner adjustment, the highest attainment can be achieved, and nowhere else.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Does Lord Brahmā have?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, inner Brahmā, the inner man, inner person. Brahmā the creator, any man if he discharges his duty of varṇāśrama for a hundred births, he's eligible to get the position of Brahmā.

svadharma-niṣṭhaḥ śata-janmabhiḥ pumān, viriñcatām eti [tataḥ param

*hi mām avyākṛtaṁ bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ, padaṁ yathāhaṁ
vibudhāḥ kalātyaye]*

[“A person who executes his occupational duty properly for one hundred births becomes qualified to occupy the post of Brahmā, and if he becomes more qualified, he can approach Lord Śiva. A person who is directly surrendered to Lord Kṛṣṇa or Viṣṇu in unalloyed devotional service is immediately promoted to the spiritual planets. Lord Śiva and other demigods attain these planets after the destruction of this material world.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.24.29]

He’s qualified candidate for Brahmā. So Brahmā is a jīva, and his inner self, inner soul, if he wants to attain the highest grace, service of Kṛṣṇa, he’s to come. What to speak of us. Even Brahmā, he’s also advised, “If you want the closest connection of the service of Kṛṣṇa then you are to think your inner self as such. You’re to find out your inner self with such qualifications.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written in Kṛṣṇa-saṁhitā, “Externally you always bring the duty of a king, of this or that, but internally she may think herself, his soul, as a gopī, and engaged in the service of Kṛṣṇa in such and such way. And externally, that is mentally, he may pose in some other way.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

One is an Ācārya and internally he may be a gopī in the camp of Rādhārāṇī, he's there in that pose, and externally Ācārya working.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. [?]

82.06.14.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... “Maybe He'll be satisfied with us and give us the boon that we can have the son of Nanda as our husband.”

That is their prayer, the gopīs. They're already there, but still, this is the aprākṛta, means prākṛta vat, they're dealing jñāna-sunya-bhakti, they're not conscious of their own position. Yogamāyā has made such arrangement. They think themselves quite helpless ordinary human beings, and even lower than varṇāśrama or the jungle girls. That is their understanding of their own position. So they're doing, taking the help of all the gods and saints of many places, but only this to mark, that they all want service of Kṛṣṇa, nothing else. That is the criterion. But otherwise they're helpless there, not ordinary standard even of morality.

“We're lower cast, lower habit, lower people, but we want Kṛṣṇa, none else. Sādhus, the tīrtha, they are all bigger, holier position they hold. We are very mean position holding.”

Ke?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Badrinārāyaṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Badrinārāyaṇa prabhu.

No room there to his preaching life but he had a press. And Caitanya-caritāmṛta, and other things he was publishing alone, independently, with a press, he can't stay without a press, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī. Press is his weapon, which is so much precious in the jurisdiction of the karmī and the jñānī. They may have their importance in their own jurisdiction, but in ananya bhakti they have not much influence.

The bhakti is everything, and the whole capacity is a full thing, it does not depend on any other thing. Bhaktyā sañjātayā [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31], the absolute purity of the highest type. Dedication cannot have any dirt of exploitation and renunciation. Renunciation and exploitation they're self-condemned. What purification they will contribute? They're self-condemned, exploitation and renunciation. And the normal thing should be adherence and allegiance to the Absolute. And the highest stage of allegiance to the Absolute in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, complete surrender without any consideration.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

bhaktim kanim karma yoga jñāna sei sa sādhana utitaca bhava [?]

krsna bhakti vina para vicha naraba [?]

Whatever small contribution they can make that also depending on the grace of bhakti. But bhakti does not care for anything else. She's perfect in Herself. We are to realize this fact. And it should be couched in such a way that that should be clear in everyone's heart.

The vairāgya, jñāna and vairāgya, independently they cannot exist.

vāsudeve bhagavati bhakti-yogaḥ prayojitaḥ janayaty āśu vairāgyaṁ jñānaṁ ca yad ahaitukam

["If somehow with the help of the scriptures and His agents, the devotees or saints, we can develop our devotion, bhakti, then, the proper knowledge and proper apathy towards worldly substances will follow us."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.7]

A laboured vairāgya and jñāna, that has got no value. Only the after effect of bhakti, they follow jñāna and vairāgya, that has got some position. And without bhakti the independent position, both the knowledge and the indifference cannot have, no position. The negative side, without the help, backing of the positive, negative can't stand. In that way. Some meaning they will have, vairāgya must have some meaning, the knowledge must have some truth, reality for backing. Otherwise knowledge about false knowledge has no value, false calculation has no value. And mere independence that also deceive us from positive nectar. So it has got no value. But when we get something, positive thing, bhakti, service, then also the necessary abnegation and indifference to other things, that has got value. And the knowledge which can help us to the service, that has got some value, but independently they have got no value of their own. We are to understand the real position of bhakti, jñāna, vairāgya, karma and all these things. What is their respective position?

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Yes, [Ragunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī. Bhakti rasa.

But Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi’s bhakti is not vairāgya yug, externally. There smoking, and the hairs are also well-cut, well-dressed, and well-smeared with sweet scented oil. And the bedding also is very royal style.

Gadādhara had suspicion, “What type of Vaiṣṇava is he? And Mukunda has taken me to show this type of Vaiṣṇava.”

Then Mukunda put a test and the bomb burst, exploded.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: There's one verse in Ādi-līlā, Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Vīrabhadra Gosai mahāśākhā, and mahā mūla-stambha.

[Śrī-vīrabhadra gosāñi — skandha-mahāśākhā, tāñra upaśākhā yata, asaṅkhyā tāra lekhā]

["After Nityānanda Prabhu, the greatest branch is Vīrabhadra Gosāñi, who also has innumerable branches and sub-branches. It is not possible to describe them all."] [Ādi-līlā, 11.8]

It is described that,

[adyāpi yāñhāra] kṛpā-mahimā ha-ite, caitanya-nityānanda gāya sakala jagate

["It is by the glorious mercy of Śrī Vīrabhadra Gosāñi that people all over the world now have the chance to chant the names of Caitanya and Nityānanda."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 11.11]

"The whole world can now chant Gaura-Nitāi's Name by the mercy of Vīrabhadra Gosai." But we don't hear, have much knowledge of Vīrabhadra Gosai.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vīrabhadra Gosai was very liberal. Nityānanda

Prabhu was liberal and His son Vīrabhadra, he was more liberal even than Nityānanda.

It is told that he converted so many Buddhists, Nathanerry, and from that time the smārta school used to look at the Vaiṣṇava section, “They’re Nathanerry sampradāya, a section, a gathering of Natha and nerry.” Vicu, vicuni. Buddhists, vicu’s, they’re always shaved head. And vicuni also, ladies also, they’re all head shaved. So they’re commonly known as Nathanerry. Natha means shaved heads and nerry means female shaved heads. [?] At one time he converted twelve hundred Natha and thirteen hundred nerry from the Buddhistic School. And that was considered in the sampradāya to be very liberal.

When Kavirāja Goswāmī giving respect to Nityānanda and Vīrabhadra in a very modest way he’s approaching towards that. Because he’s considered to be Aniruddha, Viṣṇu, or some Avatāra. So his acceptance cannot be challenged. He can purify but he showed such a generous and magnanimous extension of his grace that, sakala jagate, high or low, everyone got the grace and entrance into the sampradāya by the magnanimous attempt of Vīrabhadra Goswāmī. Viracandra, Vīrabhadra, by two names he’s known. Sakala jagate gāya.

Among all the world, they say that, “We’re Vaiṣṇava by the grace of Vīrabhadra, extended the circle of the Vaiṣṇava sampradāya very generously.” The hint is towards that. “Low or high, he was not very particular about that, he’d convert. But he has that special strength, capacity, so we can’t say from outside that he has taken in so many unqualified. He can make qualified, he’s endowed with such power.” So this is hint to that. Sakala jagate gāya. The whole world, today’s whole world is singing about Nityānanda and Gaurāṅga by his grace. The denotation was increased.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: The other day I was asking you about the ten sannyāsī names. I found that comment regarding Sarasvatī. It seems to be a general thing.

_____ [?]

And also for Aranya, it gives a very general, that who wants to go to Nandakarana.

_____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śaṅkara should also give recognition to Nandakarana which is a name. That is also nothing.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. The definitions are given in this...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is somewhat explanation. But Śaṅkara sannyāsa does not mean the attainment of heavenly life. He's merging into Brahman. So how this sort of interpretation will come to encourage the sannyāsīns? It is suicidal.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, that I was wondering, why such explanation was given?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Sarasvatī interpretation may be tenable to certain extent. And also from our standpoint every meaning is tenable because we believe in the Vaikunṭha, cid-vilasa, there the [?] Vṛndāvana, Vṛndāranya, and the song is kīrtana, Kṛṣṇa flute, everything can have positive meaning from our side. But how Śaṅkara School will justify? Their only aim is nirviśeṣa brahman, renunciation, the highest point of renunciation. So that may not be very encouraging. But this may be hinted on, that one who's Aranya he likes to have his cultivation in a jungle. Sarasvatī, who generally is well versed in education, in such meaning, giri, who's firm in his determination. In this way the interpretation should be given rather.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, general nature.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A general nature, but not the aim. The aim there is zero.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Plus here we have Kiśora Aranya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhakti Kiśora Aranya, Vṛndāranya, not Naimiṣāranya but Vṛndāranya, Kiśora Aranya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...devotion of Kṛṣṇa. It is not complete in itself, to indent something from foreign country. So it is imperfect. So that is not necessary. It is all round perfect, not dependent on any.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: It seems to be not well understood by many, subtle point.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is another.

Bhakti [?] karma, yoga, jñāna, sesa saṅge [?] kṛṣṇa bhakti [?]

There's another stanza. Bhakti is independent but what little result they gives to us, that with the help of bhakti only, backing of bhakti only. Otherwise they are all neuter gender, they can't give anything. Whatever small thing they can contribute that is only by the presupposed support of bhakti, karma, jñāna, yoga, etc. But bhakti she's independent, she does not care for any other consideration to anyone else outside her jurisdiction.

And that gentleman told, he was M.A. and also M.A., B.A., both law and this M.A., B.A., he has got, he was manager of Kṛṣṇanagar Raja State. _____ [?] A very sound and educated man, respected. He told me that once he came to the press, the Bhāgavata press, and Prabhupāda was reading the proof of a particular portion of Caitanya-caritāmṛta where it is mentioned about the Vṛndāvana līlā when Kṛṣṇa has gone to Mathurā and Lalitā Devī as representative of the gopīs approached Kṛṣṇa in Mathurā. And she's describing the position of Rādhārāṇī there and chastising Kṛṣṇa. Some poetry perhaps written by Prabhupāda himself and he was seeing the proof of that portion which was in the press.

That Rāma Gopāla Bābū he told me, "I looked at his face and saw so many impressions coming in his face and going away, different types, and he's suppressing them. Automatically so many sentiments and feelings are trying to come out on his face, but Prabhupāda is trying his utmost to suppress. But I noticed this in his face and I became his devotee, disciple." That was the scene which took him to his feet. "Such feelings are coming on the face when he's correcting the proofs of Caitanya-caritāmṛta that part. And he's trying his best to suppress, in the environment unfavourable, public. And Rāma Gopāla Bābū told, “We found what he has written in that song,

[In his book, Śaraṇāgati, Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has explained the Nāmaṣṭakam, eight prayers in glorification of the Holy Name, written by Rūpa Goswāmī. The whole thing is described there very beautifully.

He writes: "My heart is just like a desert, hot with the rays of the sun. This is my internal mental condition. The desire for mortal things cannot satisfy me because by nature they are death producing. And not one or two, but thousands of such death-producing desires have taken shelter in my mind. So, my subconscious region is always burning. This is my condition.

But somehow, by the grace of the sādhū and guru, the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa with its infinite prospect has entered through the holes of my ears and reached the plane of my heart. And there, with some peculiar hope, with infinite, auspicious possibilities, it touched my heart with a new kind of nectar.

"New hope is aroused by that sound. Then by force, it comes from the heart towards the tongue. Not that by the endeavour of my tongue I am producing that sound - no. What came from the heart of a saint through my ear, entered my heart, and that forcibly appeared upon my tongue, and began to dance. That is the Holy Name proper. It descends from above. It cannot be produced by the material form of this tongue. Its source is above.

And through an agent of the Absolute it comes through the ear to the heart. From the heart it gathers some sympathy, then the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa forcibly appears upon the tongue, and begins to dance. With great force it comes to the end of the tongue, and that sweet sound begins its dancing.

The real effects of the Divine Name have been described here. If it is a living and real Name, the voice will be choked up, there will be shivering in the body, and the legs will be unable to stand. Sometimes tears will flow in a current on the body, and one's hairs will stand on end.

Sometimes changes of colour will be found in the body, and we will be unable to find any trace of the mind or consciousness. We may fall in a swoon, the whole body and mind will appear as if it is being attacked, shivering, and influenced in different ways. Apparently it may seem that so many troubles are created in the body and the mind, but the real heart is overflowing with a particular kind of strange, sweet juice.

Sometimes he thinks, I am in an ocean of nectar. My whole existence is within an ocean of nectarine liquid. I am beside myself. I can't understand where I am. Where am I? What is this? What is all about me? It has almost made me mad. Am I a madman? Where is my past experience, my seriousness, my gravity, where are they? What am I?

I have been converted wholesale by a foreign thing. I am a doll in the hands of a great force, which is also so affectionate to me. I can't ascertain how it is possible that by my faith I have entered this great, unknown environment, unexperienced before.

And at last I find that I am captivated. My entire being, within and without, has been captured by a particular sweet force. I can't help being prey to such a sweet power. I can't give any proper description of this. I came to take shelter under Him and accept Him as my guardian; now at His hand I am being dealt with in such a merciless and despotic way. Still, I feel that everything is very pleasing, beyond my experience. What is this?

I can't resist any more. I am fully captured. Let my fate go anywhere. I can't come out. I am a captive in the hand of a sweet friend; my whole independence is gone. There is no way left to me but to surrender. I am unable to describe my real position. I find that He's an autocrat. Whatever

He likes to do, He will do. Since it is not possible for me to give any resistance, I must surrender. Let me also cooperate with whatever He is pleased to do. Otherwise, what can I do? I am helpless.

Sometimes I find that the sweetness of the Name is condensed like a blossoming flower, and very wonderful streams of sweet current are flowing from it. The Holy Name contains so many sweet variegated forms of current within Him, and He is wonderfully expressing Himself in different ways. Sometimes He emanates a peculiar type of colour and figure, and disappears.”]

All these developments we could trace in his face. Sometimes thrilling sensation, hairs are standing and sometimes sweat, sometimes his voice is going to be checked, sometimes coming with more vigour. In this way he began Kṛṣṇa kathā.

“You have come to hear about Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa kathā you want to hear from me?” In this way he began, Kṛṣṇa kathā, Kṛṣṇa kathā.

Devotee: What about Akṣayānanda, Guru Mahārāja, that’s Māyāvādī name?

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: [?] Mahārāja said, “Maybe Akṣayānanda is a Māyāvādī name. But I told that Māyāvādī ānanda is kṣa because, [ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayy asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ]

āruhya kṛcchreṇa param padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho [nādrta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ]

[Someone may say that aside from devotees, who always seek shelter at the Lord's lotus feet, there are those who are not devotees but who have accepted different processes for attaining salvation. What happens to them? In answer to this question, Lord Brahmā and the other demigods said:]

“O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. They fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they have no regard for Your lotus feet.”[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Akṣa means no dissipation, akṣa. Kṣa means injury or dissipation. So where there is no dissipation, that is meant to enjoy, who is above death, akṣa, above mortality, akṣa, that sort of idea, akṣa.

And the Māyāvādī campaign brahman, whether there is any ānanda or not, that is undetectable. Whoever reaches there loses his feeling. When come back here they say that, “Yes, I was quite o.k.” Because no trouble of this world, no worry of this world. In sound sleep, what sort of ānanda? That the worry is stopped of this world. Any engagement in this mundane world, mortal world, is always dissipating our energy. So it is some uneasy position. But when in sound sleep, no consciousness about the connection of the fire which is devouring every second something from our body, mind, everything. That is above worry, but no positive ānanda.

But this is ānanda, sat-cit-ānanda, ānanda positive. And that is akṣa which has got no death, dissipation, change, change maybe but vilāsa. So Akṣayānanda, undisturbed ānanda.

Ānanda. Ānanda Champu.

Nitya sukha boda tana anante tasmad idam jagad asesa asat [?]

svarupam svatnava asta duhkha duhkham [?] In Brahma-saṁhitā where is the mention of ānanda?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja:

ānanda-cinmaya-rasa-pratibhāvitābhis, tābhir ya eva nija-rūpatayā kalābhiḥ [goloka eva nivasaty akhilātma-bhūto, govindam ādi-puruṣaṁ tam ahaṁ bhajāmi]

[“I worship Govinda, the primeval Lord, residing in His own realm, Goloka, with Rādhā, resembling His own spiritual figure, the embodiment of the ecstatic potency possessed of the sixty- four artistic activities, in the company of Her confidantes (sakhīs), embodiments of the extensions of Her bodily form, permeated and vitalized by His ever-blissful spiritual rasa.”][Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, 37]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So ānanda is personal, ānanda, that is personal, but the ānanda is person. Ānanda cid gana mūrti, ānandamaya mūrti. Ānanda is beauty, charm, love. Without that no ānanda proper is possible. Ānanda has been translated by the western philosophers as some reality the beautiful, ānandam, reality the beautiful. Ānanda is prema. It is above justice, cit. Cit consideration, the land of law, ānanda is above law. No want, opulence, so no sufferer there, ānanda, above law.

The plane of ānanda does not require help of any law to distribute Himself, no want. Above calculation. Calculation is in the cit bhumika, in the area of consciousness, calculation, and above calculation we locate ānandam. It is opulence, nectar opulence, sat-cit-ānanda.

And that is satyam, śivam, sundaram, that here comes beauty. Satyam, śivam, śiva means meant to enjoy cit, cetan, consciousness is above death. Death can have within its jurisdiction only the matter. But pure consciousness that is eternal substance. But there is calculation, law from there to master over material world. But it can't enter into the domain of ānanda and sundar. Law is not applied in that light. Sundar can attract anyone and everyone, irrespective of any difference between them; low or high. Only sincere hankering, that is qualification. We want it, that's all. I want it sincerely, that's all qualification, no other. If you want it, just take it. Only qualification to want it sincerely. So, no want. The highest conception of our attainment is infinite, no want. And that is love, that is beauty and that is ānanda. Satyam, śivam, śiva means [?] maṅgalam, that is above mortality, mortality is amaṅgal, death. Above mortality consciousness, that is śiva. Satyam, śivam and sundaram. Next higher layer is sundaram. Then sat, cit, then śiva, then ānandam. Proper transcendental world. Raso vai saḥ, rasam, raso vai saḥ, the ecstasy, sweetness, sweet.

Devotee: How can one increase his faith in chanting the Holy Name?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With the association of the sādhū who is engaged in Nāma bhajana. By the help of the association of the Nāma, that is a sādhū who is engaged in Nāma bhajana, who has faith in Nāma bhajana. And also the book which recommend for Nāma bhajana. Sādhū-śāstra.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. How is your staff?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Staff? [?] All are well Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What about the serpent, what measure have you taken?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Well, we had requested the boys to get that carbolic acid but they bought many things and forgot the acid.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is the only remedy for the serpent of any type. He'll never come where the scent of acid will reach. You can keep carbolic acid in a bottle, opening the cork, the scent will spread in the room and no serpent will enter.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Do you have to sprinkle some in the doorway?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is doorway and surrounding the room also. Because we have got some practical experience, the serpent enters the cow house, and if we keep in a bottle, small bottle, little acid, open cork, then no serpent enters.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Bhakti yoga and bhakti proper. Bhakti yoga, is that also bhakti proper, the same thing, or is there a distinction, finer?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhakti yoga, that is a rough estimation, no difference there. Bhakti yoga. The basis is clear in bhakti yoga, differentiating from jñāna yoga, karma yoga. The both, jñāna yoga, karma is not anti party of bhakti. But jñāna always comes to challenge bhakti, “I am superior.” So here the jñāna and bhakti, two parties, and the decision is given in favour of bhakti, unconditional, cleared. These two parties, akṣara, akṣaram, avyaktaṁ paryupāsate

[“However, those who fully control their senses, adopt the vision of equality towards everything, engage in deeds for the welfare of all beings, and engage in the worship of the indefinable, formless, attribute less, never increasing, never decreasing, all-pervading, and eternal impersonal aspect of the Absolute - they can also approach Me. That is, they attain to My personal dazzling Brahman effulgence.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 12.3-4]

These two parties, yukta-tamo mataḥ...

yoginām api sarveṣāṁ, mad-gatenāntar-ātmanā śraddhāvān bhajate yo

[“Among all types of yogīs, the most elevated of all is the devotee who has full faith in the authoritative pure devotional scriptures, and who adores Me with all his heart by hearing and singing My divine glories, rendering all services unto Me. Certainly this is My opinion.”][Bhagavad-gītā, 6.47?, or 12.2?]

“And they will also come to Me, leaving that type.” That is the purpose. That is very easy and that is very, even the interpretation, kleśo 'dhika-taras teṣām, avyaktāsakta-cetasām [avyaktā hi gatir duḥkham, dehavadbhir avāpyate]

[“Persons whose minds are attached to the impersonal Brahman undergo excessive tribulation, because for embodied souls, the means and end of impersonalism is attained in an unhappy way.”][Bhagavad-gītā, 12.5]

We can interpret here that is misleading, kleśo 'dhika-taras teṣām, avyakta. The ordinary karmī or yogī, the jñānīs, they get more fame.

kleśo 'dhika-taras teṣām, avyaktāsakta-cetasām avyaktā hi gatir duḥkham, dehavadbhir avāpyate

Who has got figure, for them, to attain non-differentiated thing, it is much painful. But they say, dehavadbhir; means deyātmā buddhibhir, the jñānī school, dehavadbhir, [?] it is not mentioned, dehavadbhih, originally who has got a figure, how he can cooperate with non- figure, nirviśeṣa, that should be the purpose. Dehavadbhih. Jīva has his own figure, spiritual. How it is possible for him to deal with this non-differentiated? Avyaktā hi gatiḥ duḥkhaḥ, dehavadbhir avāpyate. The owner of spiritual body, how he can cooperate with this? Kleśo 'dhika-taras teṣāṃ, that is misguidance, misleading. Only in the name of goodness they are entrapped by a superior mania. Gatiḥ duḥkhaḥ, duḥkhaḥ eva duḥkhaḥ, it is, there is no blissfulness, that is all painfulness there, avyaktā hi gatiḥ duḥkhaḥ. Because sometimes they are engaged in deep slumber, again when they rise they will have to come down here. So practically no end. Only a long period of deep slumber. Again when they rise, they will have to come, and rising is inevitable in course of time.

ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, [tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ āruhya kṛcchreṇa param padam tataḥ, patanty adho 'nāḍṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ]

(Someone may say that aside from Vaiṣṇavas, who always seek shelter at the Lord's lotus feet, there are those who are not Vaiṣṇavas but who have accepted different processes for attaining salvation. What happens to them? In answer to this question, Lord Brahmā and the other demigods said:)

["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

Thinks themselves to be very, very liberated, vimukta-māninas. Tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha- buddhayaḥ. Mis conclusion about You, and that is the root of their doom, destruction. Aviśuddha- buddhayaḥ, miscalculation. Tvayi asta-bhāvād, because there is some hindrance between, misunderstanding between You and him. Tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ. Because they misconceive You so there is a barrier of understanding between they and You. What is the result, consequence? Āruhya kṛcchreṇa param̐ padam̐, that original graphic fundamental misconception is there, so with much labour they come to the highest position of this world, that Brahmaloḥka, brahmāsmi, again they will have to depart. Āruhya kṛcchreṇa, with much pain they climbed up to the highest position of this world, the last verge of, the climax of this world. Āruhya kṛcchreṇa param̐ padam̐ tataḥ, patanty adho . They will have to come back in a circular way, that up-down, because they cannot have any understanding crossing the abscissa towards the other domain. Āruhya kṛcchreṇa param̐ padam̐ . He gets up to the last limit of this world, much pain. Param̐ padam̐ tataḥ, patanty adho . Why? He cannot adore the higher existence so no other alternative but to come back in the current. Aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ, āruhya kṛcchreṇa param̐ padam̐ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādr̥ta- yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ .

So in the discourse of Rāmānanda Rāya and Mahāprabhu,

‘mukti, bhukti vāñche yei, kāhāñ duñhāra gati?’ [‘sthāvara-deha, deva-deha yaiche avasthiti’]

[“And what is the destination of those who desire liberation and those who desire sense gratification?” Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu asked. Rāmānanda Rāya replied, “Those who attempt to merge into the existence of the Supreme Lord will have to accept a body like that of a tree. And those who are overly inclined toward sense gratification will attain the bodies of demigods.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.257]

Those who hanker after enjoyment or salvation, what is their real goal? Deva-deha sthāvara avasthiti'. One gets the post of a demigod, another the sthāvara-deha, that is the Himālaya, or the earth, or the moon, something, sthāvara means material.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Tree.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tree, they have come, because their non-consciousness is their only goal. “So be a Himālaya, you may go on unconscious for ages together, sthāvara-deha.”

So reaction, these are demigods or something, higher gods, but the salvationists, they have to go down. Because they want rest only, and the rest is only to be had in the sthāvara-deha, no transaction, no movement, no dynamic character. Sthāvara-deha, “You may sleep there.”

Devotee: [?]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In bhakti yoga, that is mentioned more, the internal aspect, not mentioned particularly.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Then bhakti yoga more of sādhana or vaidhi side. Just to oppose jñāna and karma and others.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The basis of śuddha bhakti is there.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. So when Kṛṣṇa says,

[“In My opinion, of all types of yogīs, the most elevated of all is he who surrenders his heart to Me and serves Me in devotion with sincere, internal faith.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.47]

...that is just to argue, to establish bhakti.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhakti yoga. But that is, more representation of bhakti is here in Nava Mūrdha, raja vidya, raja vidya [?] Api cet sudurācāro [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30], and aham sarvasya prabhavo, mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.8] exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life.”]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30]

[aham sarvasya prabhavo, mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate iti matvā bhajante mām, budhā bhāva-samanvitāḥ]

[“I am Kṛṣṇa, the Sweet Absolute, I am the root cause of the all-comprehensive aspect of the Absolute, the all-permeating aspect of the Absolute, and also the personal aspect of the Absolute - the Master of all potencies, who commands the respect of everyone - Lord Nārāyaṇa of Vaikuṇṭha. The universe of mundane and divine flow, every attempt and movement, the Vedas and allied scriptures which guide everyone's worship - all are initiated by Me alone. Realising this hidden treasure, the virtuous souls who are blessed with fine theistic intellect surpass the standards of duty and non-duty, and embrace the paramount path of love divine, rāga-mārga, and adore Me forever.”][Bhagavad-gītā, 10.8]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Otherwise if we think it is a process of purification, then that becomes karma-kāṇḍa. ‘It is a process I will do and I will get purification,’ it may be karma-kāṇḍa thought, danger.

O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61]

Where are they, that so cheaply they are going to distribute the imitation articles in the name of higher. The worst enemy of Swāmī Mahārāja and our Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and Mahāprabhu, and also towards Kṛṣṇa. Some other materials [?] That is the complaint against those sahajiyā fellows by our Guru Mahārāja. They're giving delivery of the ordinary lust in the name of love, those treacherous persons, traitors to the society, and school of Mahāprabhu.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

What's the time? Ten past nine. News finished today. Argentina surrendered to British. And Israel also was captured almost. Beirut the capitol of Lebanon, the fight going on there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

All Kṛṣṇa's will, that is our solace. Sometimes He's distributing, sometimes He's stopping the distribution, and sometimes showing some cheap thing, in the name, imitation. In a broader view everything His will. It is our test.

Just as Śaṅkarācārya was ordered by Nārāyaṇa, lokan madvi mukam kuru [?]

“The cheap, the purchasers who wants things very cheap, don't allow them towards, show the door of śuddha bhakti. Take them off to Māyāvādī. Segregate them. My real devotee they should be left alone to go on peacefully in their way of, to serve Me. And those rowdies coming within the group of devotion, the demons, they'll cause disturbance and hamper the progress of the genuine party.”

So also these agents of Satan they have come to preach lust in the name of love divine. Because the cheap purchaser class may be taken away in that camp, the sahajiyā section, just like Māyāvādī. Māyāvādī was separated to help the real devotees, so real anurāga mārgi they will be helped, that these imitation persons may take away those very cheaply want to have that Vraja love, love divine in Vṛndāvana, cheaply purchasers. They will take lust and go away, the same things of life, same law, just Māyāvādī.

Mahādeva has ordered, “That take these disturbing elements from the camp of the Vaiṣṇava and allow the Vaiṣṇava to go on in their worship in a peaceful way, take off.”

Mayavad [?] And the order was, lokan madvi mukam kuru [?] [?]

“That the continuance of this māyāic line may not be stopped, be informed. So this sahajiyā vāda is also like that. The disturbing element in the name of Me, they think, ‘Oh, by lust we can get that divine love.’”

[ataeva kāma-preme bahuta antara] kāma - andha-tamaḥ, prema - nirmala bhāskara

[“Therefore love and lust are quite different. Lust is like dense darkness, but love is like the bright sun.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171]

Just as sun and deep darkness, so prema and kāma, love and lust, the opposite. But these fellows going on with lust trying to capture Kṛṣṇa. What is so high, so, so high. It is already shown step by step where to go. In Rāmānanda Rāya discussion, and also in Bhāgavatam how Uddhava, the greatest devotee ever known in the society, he aspires after to be a shrub and a creeper so that the holy feet dust of the gopīs may automatically come on his head. He aspires after the birth of a creeper in Vṛndāvana. Who? Uddhava, whom Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself says that,

“You are more than My life, so favourite, so dear you are to Me. Even not Brahmā, not Śiva, not Baladeva, not Lakṣmī. Even I have got greater love for you than My own Self.”

That Uddhava says the position of the gopīs is plain. And these fellows they’re slave of the senses, and they have got the audacity of approaching that thing.

Scriptures, and those that are well established in the meaning of the scripture. Prabhupāda went to give a return visit to his former friend. And he heard that he's upstairs and attending that Bhāgavatam, and he went there and gave his respect to Bhāgavatam and immediately came down.

His friend also, a child friend in the early age, he also came down, "There is Bhāgavatam explanation, you will come."

"But our Gurudeva has advised us not to attend that rasa līlā of Bhāgavatam. That would be offence, so I have come down."

For ordinary person, to [?] the crow puts his beak, so the highest thing is there in the rasa līlā, and that man who is a slave of senses, he's distributing in his commentary. What he knows?

He's giving delivery only to lust. And that is an offence to hear all these things, and to deal with all these things. That is above. To aspire after, after reaching to that place any day in the future.

What Uddhava he aspires, "That I want to have a life of a creeper to get feet dust from those damsels." Then what are they? We are to consider the position of Brahmā, Śiva, Baladeva, Lakṣmī Devī, Kṛṣṇa's friend Uddhava and Uddhava's aspiration for that. Then, this is so easy, eh?

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Our sampradāya is śikṣā guru sampradāya.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. If we want to represent that then we must present some scriptural reference.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So what would be the best reference in this case?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is the reference I quoted, that Uddhava.

This is the gradation. Where is Uddhava? And Uddhava says such things of the gopīs and where are they? Have we come to the same level of Brahmā, or Śīva, or what to speak of Baladeva? Who is devotee? Am I a Vaiṣṇava proper? Vaiṣṇavism is dignified.

Kṛṣṇa bhakta, anurāga bhakta, and the gopīs are at the head of all the others. So the location we must try to find out what is what, according to śāstra, the śāstra says this.

These nine are called anubhāva, subordinate signs of ecstatic love.”] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.13.11 & 1.3.25-26]

These should be the symptoms of that person. Then prema bhakti, then sneha, pranaya, mana, rāga, anurāga, bhāva, mahābhāva, going on up, up. Anartha nivṛtti, then niṣṭhā, then ruci, then āśakti, then bhāva. Bhāva is blossom, and then prema bhakti, fruit. And there is sneha, mana, pranaya, different division of different level rasa and the development and the result. The signs are given, and the symptoms are already mentioned in the scripture. Only mere lip deep statement cannot make anyone into a position of a Vaiṣṇava.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, I read that Rūpa Goswāmī was working in Vṛndāvana, translating books, then one Ballava Bhaṭṭa told him that, “I will correct your books.” And Jīva Goswāmī was enraged.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not, “I’ll correct your books,” but, “What are you writing?” “I’m writing all these things, you may see.”

“Oh, there is some grammatical mistakes, even technical.”

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: “Yes, you may correct it.”

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Edit.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then he corrected.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But it was already seen by Jīva Goswāmī. When Ballava, after correction he went to take bath in Yamunā. Jīva Goswāmī with a pot in hand to fetch some water, with this plea, he followed. And on the way he took that Ballava.

“What are the corrections you made there? I want to know.”

“Yes, he wrote this, but this is not correct grammatically, or something, so I have corrected it.” Then he put the question. “Why is it not correct? It is there in this and that way, that way?”

So he came to senses. “Yes, what you say that is all right. Then it was right. I have committed mistake.”

Then after taking his bath came to the āśrama and told Rūpa, “I wanted to correct one place but now I find that I was wrong. What you wrote that was right. And who is this young boy living in your āśrama? He’s very intelligent. [?]”

“Yes, maybe, maybe, rather he’s my disciple, or something, my dependent.” “He’s a very intelligent genius. He corrected me. All right.” Then he went away. Rūpa Goswāmī called for Jīva. “What have you done?”

“I did this, this.”

“You must leave this āśrama. You have got vanity to establish your scholarship here. I don’t like this.”

Then what to do? He had to go away.

And then this was spread and Sanātana Goswāmī he came to understand. And he was generally wandering through the whole Braja maṇḍala and he went to that Jīva ghāṭa and there the locality he was given to understand that one beautiful young boy he’s here and his austerity is too much. After a day or two he comes once to take something, mādhukarī, and always engaged in his bhajana and has grown very thin, does not take as much necessary for his health. Sanātana Goswāmī he could understand that must be Jīva. He went to him.

“What is this? Getting so thin, you don’t take food what is necessary to keep up the health, what are you doing?”

Jīva of course wept, “I have no charm in my body or health. I’m rejected by my Gurudeva Śrī Rūpa Prabhu, so I’m passing my days here.”

“All right. But take as much necessary to keep up your life. Don’t go to commit suicide.”

In this way, then he went to Rūpa. “You Rūpa, what have you understood the real purport of Mahāprabhu’s teachings?” Jīva daya mana ruci vaisnava sevan [?] “Jive daya, is it jive daya? But the jīva is dying there, you don’t mind it?” In this way, giving some hint he went away.

But Rūpa Goswāmī’s Guru was Sanātana. He thought that, “What is this hint? Jive daya, Jīva is dying there.” So he sent men to comfort Jīva. [?] called him up. And this is the story.

And there is another story, one Digvijayī came, and he challenged Rūpa, Sanātana. “Give your sign, that you’re afraid to discuss with me, or come and discuss.”

Then Rūpa, Sanātana they gave their signature. “No, we’re not fit to discuss with you, we don’t think ourselves fit.”

Then he was told that Rūpa, Sanātana, big Paṇḍitas who are just getting signatures of Rūpa, Sanātana he’s satisfied, going away. Then another gentleman who was another Paṇḍita, though young, but he’s a very good scholar. “Without conquering him you cannot get the name that you have conquered them all.”

“All right, let us see.” His Guru - he heard that he’s the disciple of these two. “Oh, that’s nothing then? I shall show the signature of their Guru and he must give the signature.”

Then he came, and, “Oh, Jīva, you have got a very good name amongst the scholars here, but not perhaps so much as your Gurus, Rūpa, Sanātana. I have come here with this challenge that if any Paṇḍita is here, must have discussion with me and defeat me, or you may give your signature to me. Your Gurudevas they took their [?]. You see their signature and sign.”

We are told that Jīva Goswāmī, “Where is the signature of my Gurudevas, Rūpa, Sanātana?” “Here it is.”

He tore it.

“What audacity [?]”

“No, no, you don’t understand why they gave signature. You have got no capacity to understand. Now first come, I am giving challenge to you, come to defeat me, and then you will be able to know why they gave their signature.”

Then of course what to do. The discussion began and he was defeated by Jīva Goswāmī.

And then he told, “Now you try to understand what type of persons they are, my Gurudevas. They hate this sort of discussion, the dry discussion of the scriptures. Scriptures not meant only for this. They invite us to give us the highest thing. And you are misusing this. And they thought to waste time to discuss the śāstra with a person like you, you have come out of name and fame, not for the purpose of śāstra, why should they go? Then you have come to make me understand. They are scholars and who are given to devotion of Kṛṣṇa, does not care for the pratiṣṭhā, name and fame. Pratiṣṭhā, they hate it. Only to teach you this, otherwise you will commit Vaiṣṇava aparādhā and go to hell. So to save you I had to come to discussion with you, in this way.”

This was the nature of, this Jīva Goswāmī nature was our Gurudeva.
*Dharaṇī-tala-kīrtita-jīva-kavim. [raghu-rūpa-sanātana-kīrti-dharaṇī,

[“O Śrīla Prabhupāda, your intense magnitude of devotion allows you a glorious position within that intimate group of Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa, Śrīla Sanātana, and Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī. Your happy and elevated philosophical conceptions have crowned and seated you along with that esteemed personality, Śrīla Jīva Gosvāmī, on this Earth planet. And you share a friendly relationship with Śrī Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Gosvāmī and Śrī Narottama dāsa, as dear to them as their very own lives. I eternally offer my respects to that charming effulgence that decorates the radiant lotus toe-tips of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura Prabhupāda.”]
[Śrī Śrī Prabhupāda-padma-stavakaḥ, 7]

I have written it there.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Wonderful.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: “You come fight with me and you will understand who are Rūpa, Sanātana, our Guru, who are they? You will be able to realize. Otherwise you will be sahajiyā, a copy, imitating. They’re so great, so high, so noble. Only to show it to the world I am coming to fight with anyone and everyone, all the scholars of the world I vowed. Only to show the dignified position of my Gurudeva, Rūpa, Sanātana, Mahāprabhu. If that is my egoism, does not matter, I don’t care for that. But for the good of the world I want to establish the real position of my Gurudeva and Mahāprabhu, how high, how noble that is. I do not hanker for my own fame or name. Whether I am an egoistic man, ego hunter, pratiṣṭhā hunter, all these things, I don't care for it. Anyhow I want to establish the greatness, the great difference of Kṛṣṇa prema and Mahāprabhu and Rūpa, Sanātana, our Gurudeva. Not like so many sheep and dogs and cats, hovering in the way."

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. The Gauḍīya Maṭha has been posed in this temperament, go and fight and establish the position of Rūpa, Sanātana, and Mahāprabhu, the love, the Braja love, the divine love of the Braja, how high they are, how noble that. So die, that is your, welcome death to spread this glory. As long as you don't die you go on working in this way, the magnified position of your Guru, Vaiṣṇava, etc. Mahāprabhu and Vṛndāvana. That Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa how in śāstra it has been different, the gradation has been given.

Ignoring all these things, only imitating, taking the white cloth on the [?] and one kaupīna and one, some few words, "I have got everything." Fools!

Markaṭa vairāgya, Mahāprabhu, imitation. The markaṭa means the monkey. Monkey without any cloth, and also taking generally vegetables. And when it will get, or sometimes it does not get, has to fast, but that is not, this monkey imitation is not the sādhū. Internal development in the roaming line, that is all important thing. What is your experiment, imitation with new help?

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. What is the time?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Quarter to ten.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, then I close here. Ten thirty I have got some function. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: All right. We'll take your leave. Jaya Om Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahansa Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] that we have one consolation for you, who has got this type migraine, they are very brainy fellow.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: We know that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You know?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: In your case we know.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Two doctors told me. That who have got migraine. Napoleon had such headaches, bad time. That another doctor told me that Napoleon he saw that, "My normal beat was fifty five. When my health was very good, done exercise, all these things, good health in college life, that our beat was fifty five, very slow.”

Then when a good doctor came here, Raymond perhaps, civil servant, I quoted him that this is my nature - so slow.

He told that, “Napoleon had thirty five and so, and he could sleep a good sleep on the horseback within five minutes. On the horseback within five minutes he had a good sleep. But he has got some headache.”

And it is told now that Napoleon was caught when he had headache, he had no sense, and he was defeated and captured when he was in headache. Otherwise he was invincible. The new research is that of Napoleon. That he had headache, monthly ones, and he was almost dead, he had to pass three days. And anyhow they managed to know that and that time attacked and captured him.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. I thought that my beat was so low, and it meant that I practised yoga in my childhood also after this thread ceremony, thirteen, I used to generally in sundar we have some prāṇāyāma, all these things and I practised yoga to certain extent. In ordinary time, when I laboured hard, after that I took, learned to take the wind to utmost capacity and then to keep it for some time. Take time, four, and sixteen, to keep up. And by thirty-two to exhale. In this way. Generally when I was very much tired I used that practice. [?]

And to give time the wind to be spread all through the body it is possible and keeping some time then slowly to get it out. That is prāṇāyāma. Generally one fourth [?] take times to keep up and two times slowly to take it out. That is the nature of prāṇāyāma. There is another process also but it is little dangerous. One may get [?] There is another, to keep it outside, to give up as much as you can, to give up the wind away, and then to keep up, and then again to take.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

But that has nothing to do with Kṛṣṇa bhajana. If they come in sādhū saṅga, connect sādhū saṅga and then come to this side, that may help the body or the mind to some extent. Their scope is in the body and mind. Bhakti is something else, that is śaraṇāgati. Without śaraṇāgati no yoga, no jñāna, no this, nothing of the type. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

[“One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone’s heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him.”]

[Kāṭha Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

It is His sweet will and His sweet will to be disturbed, to be conquered. The most autocratic sweet will take us in our side, śaraṇāgati. Otherwise no other process to attract Him, bhakti.

Muktaham ekaha grahyam, maha yoge na tapasa, nidhanam nida cintaya [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa.

_____ [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Jñāna sunya bhakti. Jñāna, yoga, these are all obstacles, or opposition party. It is for the elevation, lower, apparently thinks that their renunciation is after elevation. Paramātmā. Vasudeva. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Mahāprabhu's kṛpā, grace of Gaurāṅga.

One thing, have you sent that thirty page, practised by Śrī Gaurāṅga?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Rādhā combined, inaugurated by Gaurāṅga.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ah. You had told by Lord Caitanya Deva, by Śrī Caitanya Deva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Caitanya Deva, Who is none but Śrī Rādhā and Govinda combined.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: All right. I can add it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So inaugurated by Him. Who is He? Kṛṣṇa and Rādhā combined. That is the very life, dignity, life, and promise of our fate, fortune. Where does it come from? Who says? The Guru, Kṛṣṇa, and recommended by whom? He Himself, by Kṛṣṇa Himself. More, something added by Rādhārāṇī.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: All right, I will add it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That is the reality. We can't cross that, then we will be, ingratitude, ungrateful. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yesterday we had some discussion on the Yuga Avatāras, and I found in Bhāgavatam the different names for different yugas and the colour. But then I found also in Amṛta-pravāha-bhāṣya, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given that the white, the sukla Avatāra, is also Devahuti Kapiladeva, Devahuti putra Kapila. But in Bhāgavata, in the eleventh ekadasa skanda that Kapiladeva is not mentioned there. Still I was wondering...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] I was told that Haṁsa Avatāra.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes Haṁsa. There is Haṁsa, Pṛśni-garba.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] That is, I heard, Hayagrīva.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: But in the red incarnation there is a yajña, they're giving yajña.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yajña was recommended in Tretā-yuga, by Haṁsa, that Hayagrīva. What is mentioned in the Jīva Goswāmī's commentary?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I don't have that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We are to find that Jīva Goswāmī quotations are all available.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. I looked in Laghu-Bhāgavatāmṛta but it's not given in detail there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam clearly it is. Catuh vahu krte taram rakta varna so [?]

There must be mention by Jīva Goswāmī, or Baladeva, Cakravartī.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, some mention. I'll find it out.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As much I remembered there is Haṁsa, and Hayagrīva, and Dvāpara of course this Kṛṣṇa, though in the last stage, arcana.

...

19th, June, 1982. A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Devotion is its own cause. It is a positive thing, negative, that cover, our covering element, the adulteration, that will disappear. As much as bhakti will develop, the adulterating coating, that will be slackened and gradually that will disappear. [?]

The internal capturing and outward demanders are eliminated. The dirt is cleared. _____ [?]

Again the object is more and more acute. And freedom comes accordingly. A faithful officer of a king, he enjoys more freedom, not expert. Expert officers also enjoy freedom, but the faithful staff enjoys more freedom. So according to the exclusivity of the faith, other demands are slackened. Ke?

Devotees: Mādhava Purī Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

naṣṭa-prāyeṣu abhadreṣu, nityam [bhāgavata-sevayā bhagavatya uttama-śloke, bhaktir bhavati naiṣṭhikī]

[“By regular attendance in classes on the Bhāgavatam and by rendering of service to the pure devotee, all that is troublesome to the heart is almost completely destroyed, and loving service unto the Personality of Godhead, who is praised with transcendental songs, is established as an irrevocable fact.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.18]

That is sādhana bhakti.

ādaṁ śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā tato' nartha-nivṛttiḥ [syāt tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyudañcati sādhakānām ayaṁ premṇaḥ prādurbhāve bhavet kramaḥ]

["In the beginning there must be faith. Then one becomes interested in associating with pure devotees. Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16]

In this stage, naṣṭa-prāyeṣu abhadreṣu, nityaṁ bhāgavata-sevayā. Both the Bhāgavata grantha, scripture, as well as Bhāgavata devotee, by their service it is purified. Their influence, inspiration, comes to this new soul and purifies, prepares the ground for service of Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: What is the significance of prāya here?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nearly, almost.

Devotee: Why is it saying almost?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Almost. When almost the undesirable things disappear, then we may call it niṣṭhā, naiṣṭhikī bhakti, when almost undesirable element vanished we may call it as he has got niṣṭhā. But when they are there profusely and we show some inclination towards devotion, that may not be reckoned, not reliable. But reliable when the major portion has been, the time and energy devoted for service of Kṛṣṇa, and some little remnants, that may be ignored. We may not make much of that.

Devotee: Mahārāja, in one way it is nityam bhāgavata-sevayā, but the naṣṭa-prāyeṣu, when nityam bhāgavata-sevayā, why not completely eliminated all the detrimental things in the heart?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The present is being utilized, almost fully, but the past deeds are there, they're in store in very subtle form, they must be cleared. Then wholesale conversion.

So, kutam, bījam, phalonmuka, [?] There a different kinds, kuta, bīja, phalonmuka, aprārabda. Karma is divided into two, mainly, prārabda and aprārabda. Prārabda attached to be finished in this body. Aprārabda which is reserved for future life. And aprārabda also subdivided in these kutam, bījam, phalonmukam. Phalonmuka, what is ripe in the next chance they will demand for their satisfaction, phalonmukha, sprouting. And bīja, a seed, can be detected. And kuta, indistinguishable, undetectable position, what is there we can't ascertain. That is kuta. Kūṭastho 'kṣara ucyate [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.16] That is the part of akṣara in the saṁskāra of prakṛti, a part, akṣara. [?] Gradually they will have to be brushed aside. They have to be finished gradually, however undetectable or subtle it may be. When Kṛṣṇa bhakti captures ones heart it is sure that they will have to go out. It will gain ground surely, late or early.

Na me bhaktaḥ praṇaśyati [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.31] “When once anyone have connection with Me, he is sure to be saved. Guaranteed.”

nehābhikrama-nāśo 'sti, pratyavāyo na vidyate svalpam apy asya dharmasya, trāyate mahato bhayāt

[“Even a small beginning in this devotional service cannot go in vain, nor can any loss be suffered. The most insignificant practice of such devotional service saves one from the all-devouring fear of repeated birth and death in this world.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.40]

That is nitya, Kṛṣṇa bhakti, ekāntyeko viśiṣyate.

brāhmaṇānāṁ sahasrebhyaḥ satra-yājī viśiṣyate satra-yājī-sahasrebhyaḥ sarvva-vedānta-pāragāḥ sarvva-vedānta-vit-koṭi yā viṣṇubhakto viśiṣyate [vaiṣṇavānāṁ sahasrebhyaḥ ekāntyeko viśiṣyate]

[“Among many thousands of brāhmaṇas, a yajñika brāhmaṇa is best. Among thousands of yajñika brāhmaṇas, one who fully knows Vedānta is best. Among millions of knowers of Vedānta, one who is a devotee of Viṣṇu is best. And among thousands of devotees of Viṣṇu, one who is an unalloyed Vaiṣṇava is best.”] [Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 10.117]

A personal conception, that is the enjoyer, that is for itself, He's for Himself, that conception, not inner substance infusing form, or magnitude, not that. And the gist of life is to enjoy and He's the finest body of enjoyment. Viṣṇubhakto viśiṣyate. Sarvva-vedānta-vit-koṭi yā viṣṇubhakto viśiṣyate. Not only the conception that ultimate reality is pure consciousness, that won't do. But the enjoying right must be seen in Him. Then He's not Brahman, Parabrahman, Vasudeva, Puruṣottama. Viṣṇubhakto viśiṣyate. Then viṣṇubhakto sahasrebhyaḥ ekāntyeko viśiṣyate. The consideration, jñāna left out, and wholesale influence over the jīva of the Lord is approved, is accepted, is understood, accepted and followed, ekāntyeko viśiṣyate. That is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Viṣṇu bhakta, Vaikuṇṭha, calculative devotion, and automatic is Kṛṣṇa bhakta, anurāga.

[?] What have captured me in the world of enjoyment, that must have a touch of the originality, original cause. I should be dealt in that way in the association of the highest entity. [?] The highest captivation force we find here in dhāma patya, in the conjugal life. So, to attain the ideal of that, all-comprehensive, capturing of all possible services from us, that should be the highest.

prati aṅga lāgi kānde, prati aṅga mora [From Vaiṣṇava-padāvali - Anthology of Vaiṣṇava Songs] This Jñāna dāsa, "That every atom of my formation is crying for the corresponding atom of my Lord, to serve. That is the highest conception of our ideal."

In mādhurya rasa it is possible. Twenty-four hours engagement and wholesale engagement, is only possible in mādhurya rasa. It is given by Mahāprabhu, and also in Guru paramparā, and the mantram also. All our mantram, more or less, aiming to that end, wholesale dedication. And we should not shrink to think that there is any dirt there. That is the purest. But because we are acquainted with that type of service here, to be most nasty, dirty, mundane, objectionable, in our case, so we hesitate to accept that. There is some truth behind whether is the highest we must not make a show only. That is the danger of the sahajiyā section, from which our Guru Maharaja came to save the people. But it is admitted in all respect that that is the position for which Mahāprabhu came to give us.

At the same time we should not think the other paraphernalia of the main service, that is also of less value, negligible value. No, the sākhya, vātsalya, they have got their position, that is also supreme in his own way. As much as they do not like the other thing, “We are in the happiest position.” Yei rasa, sei sarvottama.

[kintu yāñra yei rasa, sei sarvottama / taṭa-stha hañā vicārile, āche tara-tama]

[“It is true that whatever relationship a particular devotee has with the Lord is the best for him; still, when we study all the different methods from a neutral position, we can understand that there are higher and lower degrees of love.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.83]

And that is not very small thing, negligible thing. That is also very, very high. Yasyālinde param brahma.

*śrutim apare smṛtim itare, bhāratam anye bhajantu bhava-bhītāḥ aham
iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde param brahma*

[Raghupati Upādhyāya says: “Those who fear rebirth in this world may follow the advice of the Vedic scriptures - others may follow the Mahābhārata - but as for me, I follow Nanda Mahārāja, in whose courtyard the Supreme Absolute Truth plays as a child.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.96]

How high and covetable is this that a great paṇḍita is talking with Mahāprabhu, he says, and Śukadeva also says, nandaḥ kim akarod brahman, śreya evaṁ mahodayam yaśodā ca mahā-bhāgā, [papau yasyāḥ stanam hariḥ]

[“Having heard of the great fortune of mother Yaśodā, Parīkṣit Mahārāja inquired from Śukadeva Gosvāmī: O learned brāhmaṇa, mother Yaśodā’s breast milk was sucked by the Supreme Personality of Godhead. What past auspicious activities did she and Nanda Mahārāja perform to achieve such perfection in ecstatic love?”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.8.46]

So that should not be undermined that vātsalya rasa is nothing, sākhya rasa is nothing. They’re rather helping, all have an organic relation. Eliminating one, the other may not, cannot exist. So they have got their friendly relation, and all together building Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Their value should not be undermined, minimized. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rāya Rāmānanda saṁvāda, that is a very covetable thing for the students who want to know what is the conception of theism of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava School. Most reliable. Mahāprabhu is taking out, sucking out, as if, from underground, deeper to deeper to deeper, in this way. That should be ideal in our heart, always, ideal, Rāya Rāmānanda. Beginning from varṇāśrama proper, daiva varṇāśrama, where there is room for Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

And this āśura varṇāśrama of Śaṅkarācārya, that is not favourable. The personality of the Lord is not accepted there.

But daiva varṇāśrama, that personal God is on the top, that varṇāśrama, meaning from Rāmānuja.

_____ [?] They have got positive truth, drawn. Śaṅkarācārya only the negative side. He tried to make us known to public, that is negative side. But the positive side has been supplied by the Vaiṣṇava Ācārya. And giving the purity thereby. He's the enjoyer.

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca [na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te]

["-Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24]

"Everything meant for Me. All sacrifice, wherever it be, occurs, it is for Me, Mine, I'm the enjoyer."

And you must adjust yourself with that. Come to the highest level in mādhurya rasa, wholesale offering for His enjoyment. It is inconceivable almost, it is impossible almost, still it is there.

pūjāla rāgapaṭha gaurava bāṅge [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

["The path of divine love is worshipping to us
and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."]

The aim always should be there, and we shall try to march with seeing that flag, flag of the temple will be in our view and we shall march on.
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

...

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Mahārāja, is it an offence not to have enough love for the Deity, or enough respect for the Deity?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Offence is a question of jurisdiction. How far we shall give the name of offence. The offender he will always be ready to say that, "I am committing offence." Even in Vṛndāvana, "I am committing offence." The gopīs, the Vaiṣṇavas, all, aparādha, aparādhana, "My worship is not up to mark."

Aparādha, apa arādhana, rādhana means to worship, to revere, to serve. Apa, not up to standard, below standard. "What I am doing, that is below standard." And that may be according to degree, it becomes. So Vaiṣṇava aparādha has been told to be the most heinous, most dangerous. Aparādhana, a Vaiṣṇava is serving, and then find fault there, then my impurity will go more down, aparādha.

That Vaiṣṇava, he's also saying that, "I can't serve fully, perfectly, there is much defect in my service," they say, always.

Rādhārāṇī will also say that, "I can't serve properly." But She's serving to the highest degree, and in any of lower position come to clash, that is Vaiṣṇava aparādha. That is greater than aparādha to Kṛṣṇa direct, because proper serving and that is the earnestness in me and I am abusing that, thereby I am committing suicide. Aparādhana. And generally they have been classified in several heads, thousand types, then sixty-four, then that has come to Nāma aparādha, ten. Sevā aparādha perhaps sixty-four, or thirty-two. In details they are infinite. In this way, aparādha.

Once in Benares, I have come newly, Bhāratī Mahārāja, of that date, he was suffering from fever. Anyhow he asked Professor Sanyal, Professor Sanyal used to be considered to be a surrendered soul. The sannyāsī Bhāratī Mahārāja asked him, the Professor, "Bhakti Sudhakar Prabhu, please advise me how we can get out of anartha?"

Professor then told, "The anartha never leaves us. Anartha continues for lives together." And smiling, but not ordinary smiling, but disappointed smiling. "The anartha can never leave us."

I was puzzled, newcomer. Tato' nartha-nivṛtṭiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ.

[ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā tato' nartha-nivṛtṭiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyaudañcati sādhakānām ayaṁ premṇaḥ prādurbhāve bhavet kramāḥ]

[“In the beginning there must be faith. Then one becomes interested in associating with pure devotees. Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.”][Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16]

Clear, it is there, but he says that. Still he’s considered to be a very good devotee. He says, “Anartha never leaves us.” What does he mean? Later on I came to understand that he’s meaning that everywhere a devotee he says that, “I am in anartha, I can’t, there is no satisfaction in the service of the Lord.” The nature of infinite is such. When he comes in connection with infinite his temperament is also, gets that colour, “That I can’t do, I can’t do.” The degree of service considered from the standpoint of infinite it becomes minimal, nothing almost. So in every stage they say, as much as progress towards the infinite, everyone will say, “Oh, I’m hopeless. All of equal position. I’m hopeless. The goal can never be reached, I’m almost disappointed. In the verge of disappointment, I got chance, but I could not do anything.”

That we see from Mahāprabhu, from Rādhārāṇī, from everywhere, “We can’t, we had a good chance but we failed to attain.”

Anartha-nivṛttiḥhoina, because the Vaiṣṇava that are considered to have their position in the highest plane they also see, purīṣera kīṭa haite muñi se laghiṣṭha [“I am lower than a worm in stool.” Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.205]

Mahāprabhu Himself said, na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi me harau [“I have not the slightest tinge of love of Godhead within My heart.” Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

What does it show externally, that anartha does not go, leave us totally. This posing, in the connection of infinite A, B, C, is such. But at the same time there is some taṭasthā understanding.

[kintu yāñra] yei rasa, sei sarvottama / taṭa-stha hañā vicāṛile, āche tara-tama

[“It is true that whatever relationship a particular devotee has with the Lord is the best for him; still, when we study all the different methods from a neutral position, we can understand that there are higher and lower degrees of love.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.83]

So Rūpa Goswāmī has said, anartha nivṛtthih syāt, from outside it may be detected, but relatively the man in the position, they never say that, but onlooker they can detect the stages, differentiate anartha nivṛtthih, this, that, they can say. This is a peculiar thing. The man who is in possession of the jewel, he says, “No, I have not got the jewel.” The others say, “No, you have got the jewel within your fist.” It is a peculiar thing.

Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa says about Rūpa Goswāmī, Rūpa, Sanātana,

Govinda abhidya indriya_ratna [?]

Rūpa, Sanātana, what order of Vaiṣṇava they were. The most wonderful gem, the Govinda, Him they showed to the public. [?] If one has got a jewel in his hand, he can show it according to his own sweet will, this side, that side, the weight, all these things. Rūpa, Sanātana showed Govinda [?] in such a way to the world, devotee of such [?]

Govinda unknown and unknowable and Him they showed like anything, with any freedom they showed, the inner side, the outer side, the eastern side, the western side, “You see Govinda in so many ways.”

Sanātana Goswāmī himself says that, “Where am I? I had the audacity to compare the queens of Kṛṣṇa in Dvārakā, Satyabhāmā is such, Rukmiṇī is such. How it is possible for me to look at them and to differentiate and to record their nature, their quality of superiority, inferiority? What audacity I have got. But I am not writing, my friends, someone forcibly holding my hand, and pen, and is making me to write. It is not I. How can I? It may be possible for me to describe all these things, transcendental, but like ordinary things, ordinary ethics in this world, this novice I am writing, what audacity I have got. But really speaking my friend, it is not mine. Someone is writing through my hand, what I can do?”

Though such things we are to believe. Before we approach the transcendental world we shall have to have such broadness of our understanding. This is possible. Kavirāja Goswāmī:

ei grantha lekhāya more ‘madana-mohana’, āmāra likhana yena śukera paṭhana [“Actually Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta is not my writing but the dictation of Śrī Madana-mohana. My writing is like the repetition of a parrot.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 8.78]

Not only this abstract valuation, but practical valuation, real evaluation we shall have to understand what is that. It is possible. There is a layer of life where it is true, it is reality.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, we are told Kali-yuga, harer nāmaiva kevalam harer nāma, [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 17.21] then guṇa kīrtana, rūpa kīrtana, līlā kīrtana, that will also be included?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, because if properly Nāma kīrtana is done the other results will come irresistibly. It will come. And Hari Nāma, that does not mean not Vaiṣṇava Nāma. Hari means including raja chavati [?] the king is going, that means with his paraphernalia, not alone. So with His group He's going. The śānta says that, "Kṛṣṇa came alone from Vaikuṇṭha, we can have recognition to that." But Vaiṣṇava says that, "With whole paraphernalia He came, including Nanda, Yaśodā, and all the servitors of different types."

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura just says, dhāma saha avatari saparsada siva dhama saha avatari [?]

He comes, raja comes, means with his paraphernalia. Automatically it should be understood, taken, meant. So Kṛṣṇa means, this is Vaiṣṇava faith.

And this smārta faith, "Oh, Kṛṣṇa alone came, and these were mundane fellows, and they were graced by Kṛṣṇa. And Kṛṣṇa is part of Nārāyaṇa. Nārāyaṇa is all in all." The Vaiṣṇava general faith.

And Śaṅkara will be saying, “Yes, all is good, all is well, but this is all sattva guṇa. And above this nirguṇa, that is the Brahman. All this side the Brahman, the dancing, the chanting, the weeping, all good, not bad, but all this side is of Brahman. This is sattva guṇa māyā.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhāgavatam has paved the way to that highest. Na tathā me priyatama. One Paṇḍita in Madras he was silenced by me by this śloka. Who is the highest devotee of Kṛṣṇa I asked. He told, “Catuḥsana.” Then he asked me, “According to your opinion, who is...?” Catuḥsana is in the last grade, lowest. “Then who is the high?”

na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir na śaṅkaraḥ

na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr naivātmā ca yathā bhavān

[“Neither Brahmā nor Śīva are as dear to Me as you; My elder brother Saṅkarṣaṇa is not as dear to Me as you, nor even Lakṣmī Devī. Even My own Self is not as dear to Me as you.”][Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15]

The royal road is paved towards Vṛndāvana to show the gradation, the greatness of the thing. Then āsā maho caraṇa-renu, these two *śloka*s from Bhāgavatam has proved positively that where is that Vṛndāvana? One śloka from Kṛṣṇa Himself up to Uddhava, and the next, the śloka of Uddhava.

āsā maho caraṇa-renu-juṣām aham syām vṛndāvane kim api gulmalatauṣadhīnām yā dustyajāṁ svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā bhejur mukunda-padavīm śrutibhir vimṛgyām

[“The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61]

These two poems sufficient to prove the position of Vṛndāvana. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

*yā niśā sarva-bhūtānām, tasyām jāgarti saṁyamī yasyām jāgrati
bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ*

[“While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self- realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his uninterrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

Where we live and where we die.

tava kathāmṛtaṁ tapta-jīvanaṁ, kavibhir īḍitaṁ kalmaṣāpaham

śravaṇa-maṅgalaṁ śrīmad-ātataṁ, bhuvi grṇanti ye bhūridā janāḥ

["O Kṛṣṇa, the nectar of Your words and the narrations of Your pastimes give life to us, who are always suffering in this material world. This nectar is broadcast all over the world by great souls, and it removes all sinful reactions. It is all-auspicious and filled with spiritual power. Those who spread this message of Godhead are certainly doing the greatest relief work for human society and are the most magnanimous welfare workers."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.31.9]

Where should we live, where really do we live and where we die.

Once old Tīrtha Mahārāja, he returned from London preaching and reached Bombay Maṭha, and asked one Satyavighraha Brahmacārī, "Save me, save me. Chant kīrtana, vaiṣṇava thākura dayal sagara. Save me. I am thirsty, from long time I am thirsty. Please give me some food. Vaiṣṇava thākura dayal sagara, chant, I can't stand."

So tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca.

*mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam kathayantaś ca
mām nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca*

["My devotees mix together, talk about Me, and exchange thoughts that give consolation to their hearts. And they live as if this talk about Me is their food. It gives them a high kind of pleasure, and they find that when they talk about Me among themselves, they feel as if they are enjoying My presence."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

In His topics, talking about Him, there the devotees they get every satisfaction of their inner heart, tuṣyanti ca. Tava kathāmṛtaṁ tapta-jīvanam, kavibhir īḍitaṁ kalmaṣāpaham, tava kathāmṛtaṁ tapta-jīvanam, different meanings may be squeezed out from this, tapta-jīvanam. Kavibhir īḍitaṁ kalmaṣāpaham. Śravaṇa-maṅgalaṁ śrīmad-ātataṁ. The negative to positive. Bhuvī grṇanti ye bhūridā janāḥ. Who are really benevolent, magnanimous, generous, helps the people, gives food to others, who are they?

bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ kṣīyante cāśya karmāṇi, mayi drṣṭe 'khilātmani

["The knot in the heart is pierced, all misgivings are cut to pieces and the chain of fruitive actions is terminated when I am seen as the Supreme Personality of Godhead."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.20.30]

The all-capturing, all-comprehensive. No other thirst, all wholesale solution of life, wholesale solution to untie all types of knots. All will be dissolved, all dissolving, dissolve everything, this is dissolved. All capturing, all dissolving, comprehensive. One who has got that thing he does not want anything else any more.

Eka-bindu jagat dubāya [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 15.19] "I am only, like you to taste, make you taste one drop." Mahāprabhu says to Rūpa, "Only one drop for your taste I am giving. Eka-bindu jagat dubāya."

One drop is sufficient to inundate the whole universe. It is of so infinite nature this bindu, marvellous, all-capturing, not only from the space but depth also. What you do not know what are you within, but should show that also from within. All-capturing. You are not conscious that that thing was within you, but that will come out when He will touch from our innermost heart the noble portion of your heart will come out by His touch, you will be astonished. 'Such things was within me.' You will wonder."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vasu Gosh says, Gaurāṅga mahima na cariya kahila koiliya suna [?]

"Only by means of dancing and chanting He made so many iron balls golden. What should I talk about the wonderful greatness of Caitanya Deva. He only simply engaged us in chanting and dancing, and great transformation was effected. What charm, what magic, magician He is. Transformed us into gold only through dancing and chanting, singing, dancing and singing, what marvellous thing is this, we wonder."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

nāhaṁ vasāmi vaikunṭhe, yogināṁ hṛdayeṣu vā mad bhaktāḥ yatra gāyanti, tatra tiṣṭhāmi nārada

[The Lord Himself says: "O, Nārada, wherever My devotees sing My praises I cannot but be present there."] [Within the purports of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.2.41 & 4.30.35]

*mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam kathayantaś ca
mām nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca*

["My devotees mix together, talk about Me, and exchange thoughts that give consolation to their hearts. And they live as if this talk about Me is their food. It gives them a high kind of pleasure, and they find that when they talk about Me among themselves, they feel as if they are enjoying My presence."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

teṣāṁ satata-yuktānāṁ, bhajatāṁ prīti-pūrvakam dadāmi buddhi-yogaṁ taṁ, yena mām upayānti te

["To those devotees who are constantly dedicated to Me, and who engage in My service out of their love for Me, I bestow the internal divine inspiration by which they can approach Me and render various intimate services unto Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.10]

"Upayānti, already engaged in chanting, and incidently, then again upayānti, gacchati, come to Me." What is it? Upayānti te. Then I connected here, upayānti, upagata, there is parakīya bhāvena.

"I give them hints to go towards parakīya bhajana in Vṛndāvana. That is continuous, full engagement, then further development from svakīya to parakīya, upayānti, upapati, upagata, these words gives hint to that, parakīya, upayānti te.

teṣāṁ evānukampārtham, aham ajñāna-jaṁ tamaḥ nāśayāmy ātma-bhāva-stho, [jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā]

["Out of compassion for them, I, situated within the hearts of all living beings, dispel the darkness of ignorance with the radiance of knowledge.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.11]

The salvationists, they come here. After such deep and continued engagement with Kṛṣṇa, then He gives the pure knowledge and by the knowledge then they go to salvation, to Brahman. That is their point of argument.

So I have taken it in this direction. I asked Swāmī Mahārāja, the upayānti, what I have interpreted this śloka of Gītā in this line, parakīya.

Swāmī Mahārāja told, “Without this, we don’t find any other way here.” Here he told me. “No other way we find without such interpretation. Because only fully engagement.”

*mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca*_____ [?] Śaṅkara also has written [?] a taste from Me of that line of emotional or sentimental pleasure, ramanti ca. Then again, teṣāṁ satata-yuktānāṁ, bhajatāṁ prīti-pūrvakam dadāmi buddhi-yogaṁ taṁ, yena mām upayānti te

“If you want more, the next developed stage is to have Me, upa, that is parakīya. Not only mādhurya rasa but also in vātsalya rasa.

Yaśodā, sometimes news comes to her, “Oh, it is not your child, Vasudeva’s child, Vasudeva Devakī’s child. Don’t you know that she sent Garga for the Nāma-karaṇa, you don’t know that. Why did he send his child?”

“No, no, no. I won’t admit that. He’s my child.”

“But there is a rumour, no, He’s Devakī’s son, not your son.”

Parakīya, “That I may lose. I have got anyhow but I may lose, there is a possibility.”

So the affection is more intense. In this way, the sakhā they also, “Yes, He’s one of mine, but still He possesses some sort of wonderful power. Sometimes it is detected. So He may not be our friend. So charming. No one of us is such, so that they say that the God has come in His figure, it may be. We may lose Him as a friend.” It makes them more intense towards His friendly service, so parakīya, upayānti te. Then, teṣām evānukampārtham, aham ajñāna-jaṁ tamaḥ nāśayāmy ātma-bhāva-stho, jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā

This jñāna-dīpena, this troublesome expression, I have led it to another channel.

Śruti ganiman ata bhuli [?]

When the pangs of separation to its extreme stage He suddenly comes and shows Himself and they can see, clearly they can see that Nīlācārya has come and taking prasādam. In Vṛndāvana also when such high degree, the highest degree the pangs of separation reaches, then suddenly they can see that “Kṛṣṇa is here in our company.” So sustenance, that sort of medicine applied and they can go on further. Sometimes He had to come and to show His friends that, “I am amongst you. I have not left you.” This is jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā, ātma-bhāva-stho, son, or friend, or consort, according to that respective relationship He comes and expresses Himself so clearly, that, “He’s within us.” So some sustenance is injected by this, jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā.

Teṣām evānukampārtham, aham ajñāna-jaṁ tamaḥ, nāśayāmy, ajñāna-jaṁ tamaḥ, that jñāna sunya bhakti, ajñāna means jñāna sunya bhakti. There they think, “Oh, He’s God, He’s so great. I am nothing. Why should He come to us? We are so mean, so little, so small. Why should He come?” This jñāna sunya bhakti. “We are part and parcel of His līlā.” No, jñāna sunya bhakti, most innocent.

“Dive there and I shall have to, I can’t tolerate their pangs of separation, their feelings, and I run towards them and show that, No, I am here My mother. I am taking food, you see.”

“Who has, did I see a dream. I saw Nimāi is taking, and yes of course nothing remaining in the pot. Nimāi has gone long ago. But who has, I saw, was it a dream, or some dog has taken, or I have not cooked today, I forgot. I did not give the bhoga to Bala Gopāla. What did I do?” In this way.

Mahāprabhu says to Dāmodara, Paṇḍita Dāmodara, not Svarūpa Dāmodara, “You tell all these things to My mother in the days of this [?] such things occurred. I go there, I take food from her hand. You remind this to My mother and give consolation to her. That I come to you and I take your cooked prasādam. Remind her that in this recent [?] this occurred. Your remind her.”

Devotee: Mahārāja, what is the significance of tamaḥ here then, ajñāna and tamaḥ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tamaḥ means śoka, moha, these are the two significances of tama guṇa, ajñāna and tamaḥ. Tamaḥ means śoka, moha, repenting, śoka, moha. Ajñāna-jam tamaḥ, nāśayāmy ātma-bhāva-stho, jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā.

But in our case we feel encouragement to commit more sin, crossing the orders of scripture and society. Ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61] But it is not applicable in our case. What is this? Kavibhir īḍitaṁ kalmaṣāpaham. But our kalmaṣa is increasing we find, and we're told like that from our relatives. Kalmaṣāpaham that is kavibhir īḍitaṁ, not that is kalpanā, that is their imagination. But the opposite we find in us. Śravaṇa-maṅgalaṁ. When we listen to Your sweet words we have much hope it is told, we get the bright hope, from in. But it is mentioned in the scriptures but what maṅgala we're getting we don't know. Śravaṇa-maṅgalaṁ, the maṅgala is only we hear, but not substantial it is present. Only we heard through our ear that is maṅgalam, that lip deep, just as it is only ear deep maṅgalam, śravaṇa-maṅgalaṁ."

This nectar is broadcast all over the world by great souls, and it removes all sinful reactions. It is all-auspicious and filled with spiritual power. Those who spread this message of Godhead are certainly doing the greatest relief work for human society and are the most magnanimous welfare workers."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.31.9]

"It is full of beautiful promises, śrīmadbhir-ātataṁ, all well-wisher of their own best prospect, they crowd, throng, on all sides of You. There is Your consolation features, just as there it is.

He's our bhayam ca, in Bhagavad-gītā. Your soothing and assuring words even captures and captivates Lakṣmī Devī. And in her comparison what is our position? You have got that fascinating capacity, that all are attracted by You. So śrīmadbhir, that is in there also."

“A great attraction, wonderful attraction, is about Your talk, about talk about You. So You are always surrounded by different persons of high rank. Bhuvi grṇanti ye bhūridā janāḥ. Viraha milan. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. We're talking about so high. Where we are?

āmi - eka bātula, tumi - dvitīya bātula, ataeva tomāya āmāya ha-i sama-tula [Mahāprabhu said: "I am insane, mad, bāula - pāgala - eccentric. I am one eccentric, and you are another. Therefore, we two are of the same class." So He told to Rāmānanda Rāya. It is not to be expressed outside - not to be divulged. Still, the bāulas, the eccentrics - so called, they cannot check their ecstasy. They express it anyway.] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.291]

They're talking like madmen. Who will care for this? They'll say, "Oh, these fellows are spoiled, gone." They won't give any importance, attach any importance to all these things. They'll say, "Oh, these mad persons are spoiling the country." This Chinaman, Mao Tse-tung and his followers, they'll say, "These people, they're ... the religious section they're also extorting the public. The priest class, so called religionist, the innocent public they're robbing, exploiting. So they should be driven off, finished."

Devotee: Mahārāja, actually, Brezhnev in Russia, he said that about a couple of months ago. He said that, "The biggest enemy of the Russian youth is American pop music and Hare Kṛṣṇa."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. The Kazi told Gadādhara Paṇḍita, Gadādhara Paṇḍita approached the Kazi of that locality, in some position, and asked him, “You say Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa.”

“Why should I say Hare Kṛṣṇa?”

“Oh, you have said Kṛṣṇa. Oh, you’ve already said Kṛṣṇa.” He began to dance. “That very Name you have pronounced the Hare Kṛṣṇa Nāma. What to be done, you’re finished, your fellows are finished. You have pronounced Hare Kṛṣṇa. That has captured you from the back door. From the back door Hare Kṛṣṇa has captured you.”

Bhaya dvesad karna kroda bhaya desat [?] “You are approaching from the other side, the negative side, and Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa.” This stobha.

This is accepted by all the learned scholars of the scriptures.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.2.14]

“In one group you are, your liberation is sure. Now think what to do.”

Devotee: The other day also I was reading the news Mahārāja, in America, Los Angeles, there's a devotee who used to work with our Aranya Mahārāja, that saṅkīrtana [?] He was describing one incident that President Reagan, he was not the President but he was a senator of California. So one day he was distributing books in the airport and then he came, Reagan came, the senator Reagan, and he gave him a book. I think it was Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam fifth canto. So at first he couldn't figure out what it was. At first he thought that he came to take his autograph, so he gave him an autograph. He said, "No, I don't want that." So he kept on pressing, "No, it's for you." So he thought he's come for a TV display, he showed it in the TV camera. But then he kept on insisting, "No, it's for you. I want you to read it." So quite reluctantly he took the book and he gave it to one of his assistants, his aide. And then he went away for some conference or something they had in the airport. But then, when he was coming back, then again they met. But this time when Reagan saw him he smiled at him, as if a smile of recognition. And then he was pointing out that after that Reagan's policies had changed to some extent because he was supporting abortion at one time, now he's against abortion. And his policies taking a better shape now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Modified.

Devotee: Modified, yes.

Aranya Mahārāja: We approached him one time in New York, President Reagan, and he said, "Oh, I have many of your books." He said, "Thank you, I have many of your books already."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. What's the time?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Nine thirty.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Gaura Hari bol.

Swāmī Mahārāja used to come here now and then and now you are coming to represent him here. Mahāprabhu told when the Prince was produced to Him, utrena dana yechay raja milan [?]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Perhaps I'm one year older than Swāmī Mahārāja.

Devotee: Two years Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's [18]96, and I'm [18]95. One year. He came in August, and I in October, so ten months. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: And then you lived also together for a long time. Next door neighbours.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. First met Allahabad, and next Bombay, third Calcutta. For long time. And there the birth of ISKCON and Back to Godhead, that Sitakanta Banerjee Lane.

Devotee: ISKCON was founded there, or?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I heard from Govinda Mahārāja.

Devotee: League of Devotees.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not ISKCON perhaps. Govinda Mahārāja said that ISKCON name was consulted there. I know from him, but I have not direct experience of that ISKCON.

I rather asked him that, “Your Mission is known as Hare Kṛṣṇa, direct name, and why you have given the name ISKCON? This is not representing the Name.”

He told, “Īśā-con.” Īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ [Śrī Īśopaniṣad, 1] “Īśā-con, you may take it.” That was his answer to me.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, when there is disagreement or misunderstanding among the devotees, fights among the devotees, what is the cause of it actually Mahārāja? Why it happens?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is according to their, it is mentioned where, may be in higher stage may be difference in the realisation of their internal rasa, may be difference. And the lower stage also according to their classification there may be difference. And different type of anartha in the lowest stage can attract one to one direction, another to another direction. In the lowest stage that may be the cause of difference of different types. Difference is also in the ideal also there's difference, not only ordinary difference but enemy position, in mādhurya rasa, vātsalya rasa. In mādhurya rasa different camp, it is already in Yogamāyā, but is all harmony going to one. And here is diversity, difference, bhedābheda.

Devotee: But that is in Kṛṣṇa sambandha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, Kṛṣṇa sambandha, it is well and good. And perverted reflection it is bad.

Devotee: Yes. So when the fights are causing difficulties in Kṛṣṇa consciousness...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That are all different stages, fights amongst them. There is in some cases the question of principle, some case the anartha. We're to detect in particular what case is what. La puja [?] pratiṣṭhā, do to that also there may be difference, especially pratiṣṭhā. La puja pratiṣṭhā, according to the degree there may be differences. That is the lower difference. And higher departments also there is.

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet [ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati]

[“Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa.”] [Ujjvala-nīlamanī]

This example has cleared many things, by Rūpa Goswāmī. Just as naturally the serpent goes in a crooked way, so prema, the love, is of such nature. Ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati. So sometimes cause, no cause, but difference must arise in the higher section. Not only amongst the servitors, but with the servitor and Kṛṣṇa, the difference will come automatically, hetor ahetoś. Sometimes with a little cause, sometimes no cause, constituents come to enhance the līlā by Yogamāyā it is made in such way. Ato hetor, there is some cause, or no ground, but the feelings, sentiments, are anti, fighting. This is the necessary part of the līlā.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: As Prabhupāda also said that, “After the Ācārya leaves the planet there’s chaos.”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Naturally. That is a position of disaster, a great misfortune when the Ācārya leaves. That shows that a great misfortune is falling on the followers. So they should be very careful for that. The bad time has come, and how we’re to go on with self control. Some sort of caution everyone must have within him. The bad times have come.

32:20 - 32:32 [?]

Devotee: Is there any caution about the disciples also?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not any particular thing I have seen mentioned in the scripture, but general knowledge. Viśvanātha Cakravartī has written somewhere in the tikā that when Gurudeva disappears then some calamity comes down for the followers. I can't remember where it is, but I saw somewhere.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, it says that Kṛṣṇa is saying that [?]

So on the other hand, those that are endowed with much material opulence, then can it be understood that he's not really...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If it's for service of Kṛṣṇa it is all right. And if it's considered for individual interest then it is bad.

Devotee: He's carried away with that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everywhere it is such. If for Kṛṣṇa, all right. And for a devotee of Kṛṣṇa, or some such thing, it is all right, everything. But if it deviates me from Kṛṣṇa to other interests, then of course it is bad, a different thing. So in our weak stage we should not mix with much tempting opulence.

If some superior association is there then nothing can work badly in us. Otherwise they're always trying to devour us.

kāma eṣa krodha eṣa, rajo-guṇa-samudbhavaḥ mahāśano mahā-pāpmā, viddhy enam iha vairiṇam

[“The Supreme Lord replied: Certainly it is lust, born of the mode of passion, which induces a person to commit sin. Lust is the basis of the desire for sense enjoyment, and in different situations that lust becomes transformed into anger. It is utterly insatiable and extremely malicious. Know this lust alone to be the greatest enemy of the living being in this world.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.37]

If we have the tactics to utilise it in the service of Kṛṣṇa, then we're forever, if we come to adjustment, then forever we're relieved. Otherwise if we set fire it may come again to attack me, so, anāsaktasya, nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa-sambandhe, yuktaṁ vairāgyam ucyate. Proper adjustment. This is all for Kṛṣṇa. And I am also in this sort of relation with Kṛṣṇa. So we have got our mutual relation with this. I'm a servant, and to serve the serving materials, in this way, real adjustment. That is the solution. So renunciation is no real solution, but proper adjustment is solution. Nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa-sambandhe, yuktaṁ vairāgyam.

*prāpañcikatayā buddhyā, hari-sambandhi-vastunaḥ mumukṣubhiḥ
parityāgo, vairāgyaṁ phalgu kathyate. [anāsaktasya viṣayān, yathārham upayuñjataḥ nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa-sambandhe, yuktaṁ vairāgyam ucyate]*

["That renunciation which is practised by those desirous of impersonal liberation and rejects things in connection with Śrī Hari, thinking them to be material, is called phālgu-vairāgya, external or false renunciation."] ["That renunciation in which there is no attachment for the objects of the senses, but in which everything is seen in relationship to Kṛṣṇa and all things are engaged in His service is called yukta-vairāgya, or practical renunciation."] [Padma-Purāṇa] & [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.125-6] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 13.106]

Temporary and inefficient and not permanent. Anāsaktasya viṣayān, yathārham upayuñjataḥ, nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa... Not to try to utilise it in the service of Kṛṣṇa, that is phālgu-vairāgya, imperfect knowledge, not knowing the utility of those things of our environment. Their knowledge is not perfect knowledge.

Īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, yat kiñca jagatyāṁ jagat [tena tyaktena bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam]

["Everything animate or inanimate that is within the universe is controlled and owned by the Lord. One should therefore accept only those things necessary for himself, which are set aside as his quota, and one should not accept other things, knowing well to whom they belong."] [Śrī Īśopaniṣad, 1]

I am also His subordinate and other things also subordinate to Him has necessary connection not to be detached from Him, even māyā. Māyā is also there, to serve Kṛṣṇa.

daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī, [mama māyā duratyayā mām eva ye prapadyante, māyām etāṁ taranti te]

[“This “trimodal,” supernatural, (alluring) deluding energy of Mine is practically insurmountable. However, those who fully surrender exclusively unto Me can certainly surpass this formidable fantasy.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 7.14]

The necessity of māyā also - to entice. That CID may not be successful if the test is there. You test, tempt my clerk if you can entice him. If you can't and he's so much faithful to the office, now he's a good man, can be relied. So indirect way the attack of māyā, that also has some necessity, to test ones purity. Just as some persons generally go to the physician to check his health, though not any particular disease, but still check my body if there is any. So māyā is there to check our faithfulness of the servitors to Kṛṣṇa. She has got that duty - temptation against Kṛṣṇa.

Sanātana Goswāmī has written in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta when a jīva, soul, is liberated and going towards Vaikuṇṭha, the Devī herself comes in a very beautiful figure to pray, “Why do you leave me? Stay here. I shall serve you. So don't neglect me. I shall serve you.” In this way the Devī comes to him. And if he can cross that and go, he's safe, otherwise he's again captured.

Śivo 'ham, as śiva they're again seen to come under the feet of the Māyā Devī. The jīva soul.

pāśa-baddho bhaved jīvaḥ pāśa-muktaḥ sadāśivaḥ

The ordinary soul when liberated from the clutches of māyā he's śiva, above māyā, but not inviting the serving nature towards upper realm, he's śiva. And baddha jīva is trampled under the feet of māyā.

Devotee: Isn't Śiva platform higher than the layers of māyā, coverings of māyā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. But in connection of māyā but higher, master of māyā, but relativity with māyā.

Devotee: Because Mahārāja, in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta Sanātana Goswāmī is describing that he went across the covering, went past it, then he came to the brahmajyoti and there he was feeling very uneasy because he couldn't see the Lord at that time in the brahmajyoti. And then he started praying.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nāḍṛta-

[ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nāḍṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ]

[“O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

If no visa is available then to retrace back here.

Devotee: To be born again.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From border.

Devotee: And then he started praying, and then he heard the sound of saṅkīrtana, and then he saw a man whose bodily complexion is like camphor, riding on a bull and surrounded by his associates. And the procession was going by, and that was Lord Śiva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That is bhakta Śiva. Māyādvēsa Śiva, Māyāpati, and then the devotee, Sivaloka, above Brahmāloka. Śiva, the vague personality, personal conception of the consciousness, that is Brahman as a whole, on this side, and this side, of Brahman. Brahman is more or less non differentiated, and differentiation of Brahman in relation to māyā is Rudra. And differentiation of Brahman catching a little colour of serving, Vaikuṇṭha, that is bhakta Śiva, Śivaloka, Sadāśiva, of Mahā Viṣṇu, sometimes.

*svadharmma-niṣṭhaḥ śata-janmabhiḥ pumān, viriñcatām eti [tataḥ param

[“A person who executes his occupational duty properly for one hundred births becomes qualified to occupy the post of Brahmā, and if he becomes more qualified, he can approach Lord Śiva. A person who is directly surrendered to Lord Kṛṣṇa or Viṣṇu in unalloyed devotional service is immediately promoted to the spiritual planets. Lord Śiva and other demigods attain these planets after the destruction of this material world.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.24.29]

If one can discharge his duty very perfectly in varṇāśrama dharma for a hundred years consecutively then he's eligible to hold the position of a Brahmā. Svadharmma-niṣṭhaḥ śata- janmabhiḥ pumān, viriñcatām eti. He gets the position of a Brahmā, the creator.

Devotee: After hundred lifetimes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A hundred lives of perfectly discharging the duties under varṇāśrama. Tataḥ paraṁ hi mām.

Then it is the saying of Mahādeva. “Then after that, a little higher, they attain my position, Śivaloka, Śiva.”

Brahmā is clearly connected with this mundane world. But Śiva is aloof, little aloof, so almost independent, but master of māyā. Brahmā is within māyā. He's always, his whole engagement with this māyāic world. But Śiva is not so addicted to māyā, but independent form of life, conception of his own self as pure consciousness, not māyā. In this way. Tataḥ paraṁ hi mām. Mām avyākṛtaṁ...

hi mām avyākṛtaṁ bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ, padaṁ [yathāhaṁ
vibudhāḥ kalātyaye]*

[“A person who executes his occupational duty properly for one hundred births becomes qualified to occupy the post of Brahmā, and if he becomes more qualified, he can approach Lord Śiva. A person who is directly surrendered to Lord Kṛṣṇa or Viṣṇu in unalloyed devotional service is immediately promoted to the spiritual planets. Lord Śiva and other demigods attain these planets after the destruction of this material world.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.24.29]

Then there is another, upper region, where, which is bhāgavata padaṁ, avyākṛtaṁ bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ, padaṁ, upper to mean there is another realm where the bhāgavata, the servitors of the Lord, they live, that is vaiṣṇavaṁ, padaṁ, that is known as vaiṣṇavaṁ, padaṁ, upper than me self. Padam. Avyākṛtaṁ bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ, padaṁ yathāhaṁ vibudhāḥ kalātyaye. Eti.

Na gachati prapnoti, vaiṣṇavaṁ, padaṁ, prapnoti. Yathāhaṁ, including myself. Kalātyaye, when the dissolution of the whole creation, at that period, we, including myself, we attain to that position. Yathāhaṁ vibudhāḥ [?] vibudhāḥ. “Oh gods.” The demigods he’s addressing, kalātyaye, kala means development, industry, earth. When the whole kala, means developed things, improved things is dissolved, wholesale dissolution of the differentiated world, then we enter that bhāgavata loka which is undisturbed. It is eternal in its conception always, nityam. That is bhāgavata, there is a section named as bhāgavata. Bhagavān, bhāgavata bhakta. Vaiṣṇavaṁ padaṁ, and that position is known as vaiṣṇava pada, param pada, vaiṣṇava pada, in this way, bhāgavata.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Mahārāja, the husband of Pārvatī, that Śiva, is he Rudra or Sadāśiva?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Both. Sadāśiva is not alone. There is also his śakti, but he's more tending towards devotion. Pārvatī says, ārāadhanānām sarveśāṁ, viṣṇor ārādhanaṁ param [tasmāt parataram devi, tadīyānām samārcanam]

["Lord Śiva told the goddess Durgā:] 'My dear Devī, although the Vedas recommend worship of demigods, the worship of Lord Viṣṇu is topmost. However, above the worship of Lord Viṣṇu is the rendering of service to Vaiṣṇavas, who are related to Lord Viṣṇu.'"

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 11.31]

She asked Śiva, "Whose adoration, whose worship is the highest?"

"Viṣṇor ārādhanaṁ param. The worship of Viṣṇu, that holds the highest position." Then Pārvatī was a little mortified.

Then the next line came, tasmāt parataram devi, tadīyānām samārcanam. “Even more than that is the position of a man who serves His devotee.”

Then Pārvatī was again cheerful. “That Śiva is His devotee, and I’m serving him, so I’m doing greater service.”

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [03:45 - 04:40 [?]

A man of his calibre, the Brahmo section wanted, at that time. But they were frustrated. And one Mr. Duff who was in Scottish Church College, he also...

First, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura wrote an article like an atheist, on the basis of atheism.

And then Dowel [?] that gentleman, Christian, he rebuked Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, at that time as Kedārnātha. “That you have very dexterously proved this, but after all what is the result? You should not follow this path. You’ll lose your energy in that way. You should try to become theist.”

So that Christian gentleman also had much affection for Kedārnātha. And the Brahmo section they also wanted him to be one them, one of their preachers, wavering Bhaktivinoda, Kedārnātha Datta.

Then when he was transferred in Purī he got some Bhāgavata, that book Bhāgavata.

Previously he said, “I thought only the devotee third class they read Bhāgavatam and this Vaiṣṇava literature. The intellectual has got nothing to do with that, the Bhāgavatam and Caitanya-caritāmṛta.” But in Purī he said that, “I came in connection with that Caitanya-caritāmṛta and that Bhāgavatam, and then I got some taste there and began to enter into and gradually I was captured.”

It is mentioned somewhere that when he gave his Bhāgavata speech when he was the magistrate in Dinajpur, then the other sections were frustrated. “Now he has become a Vaiṣṇava, servant of the Vaiṣṇavas.”

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

One who has got realised truth to such extent, what he showed in his early days, that is nothing, that is all a show. Where we find such prospect of such a high degree, that cannot come automatically, and abruptly. That must have been there in the depth. So the other show in his childhood that was mere show, no value.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: But Mahārāja, even as a student he protested [Śvarachandra] Vidyāsāgar’s statement that, īśvara-nirākāra-brahma-svarūpa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prabhu-pāda’s challenge to, he approached Vidyāsāgar...

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Oh, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and challenged him. “You have written, īśvara-nirākāra-caitanya- svarūpa. Where have you found this? Nirākāra-caitanya-svarūpa, and you say īśvara. īśvara, that Brahman may be nirākāra-caitanya-svarūpa, but you have written that īśvara-nirākāra-caitanya- svarūpa. Where have you found this? What is īśvara?” Prabhupāda approached him and challenged. It is mentioned in Sarasvatī-jayaśrī perhaps.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is there, that was there, but the cover was very thin, though apparently it may seem that it is very thick. But really when such things can come out from him, so it was negligible thing. And sometimes it is His show, but show of the creator. It may be taken in that way.

Nimāi Paṇḍita He also showed so many things. Nimāi Paṇḍita He wrapped Himself, when a boy, with a blanket and entered into the plantain garden, and by the push of His head He used to break those plantain trees. And the householder came out and found that, “A bull has entered and demolishing my garden.” Nimāi Paṇḍita with His followers He did something like that some day. With a blanket covering His body and He’s pushing with head the plantain trees of the neighbours. He’s seen to do that. Ha, ha.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: What is the significance Mahārāja of Mahāprabhu doing that?

When He used to throw water on the brāhmaṇas that was to show that, to make them understand, that doing the japa, and doing the sundha, is not the final goal. The final goal is to chant the Holy Name of the Lord.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That sort of meaning you can ascribe anywhere and everywhere. “Your plantain fruit, that will be used for your purpose, futile. I’m demolishing all them. In the highest sense you are My parśada. I can do anything and everything with your articles. It is My fleeting pleasure. Śrīdhara Paṇḍita I’m snatching from his hand. ‘Oh, give Me this plantain. I won’t be able to give any price.’” In this way snatching, that is a līlā.

“Why do you do so you impudent brāhmaṇa boy? I can’t check you. But you should not do in such a way. I’m a poor man. If you snatch away my best things how can I go on with my life?”

In this way the quarrel. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Mahārāja, all the living entities, all the people present at that time, when Mahāprabhu was performing His pastimes, did they all get liberated?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. All get liberated, or were all were liberated, and more than liberated.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Yeah right, of course His associates were more than liberated.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sa parsada siva dhama sakha avatari [?]

If we're to accept that theory, that suggestion, then more than liberation, that is one sense.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Yeah that's no doubt, His associates they were, they actually came down from the spiritual sky.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anyhow in connection with His līlā, connection with Him in this līlā, and what nature of that part there may be, the play, may be included. But gradation there may be.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is also, we may take as show.

*[mahā-kṛpā-pātra prabhura jagāi, mādhai,] 'patita-pāvana' nāmera sākṣī
dui bhāi*

[Jagāi and Mādhai, the eighty-ninth and ninetieth branches of the tree, were the greatest recipients of Lord Caitanya's mercy. These two brothers were the witnesses who proved that Lord Caitanya was rightly named Patita-pāvana, "the deliverer of the fallen souls."][Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 10.120]

Their position is always enhancing the līlā of Mahāprabhu by the sacrifice of their own pratiṣṭhā. Their prospect, “That we’re the most heinous persons.” Jagāi, Mādhāi. “We were the greatest pest of the society, and we’re delivered.” In this connection they had connection with the līlā of Mahāprabhu. Just as Pūtanā and others, so many demons in Kṛṣṇa līlā they have got their position in the opposition.

[Edmund] Burke also was in the opposition of the parliament, taxation conciliation. And the [Lionel Ismay] Hastings’ misdeeds in India, he was in the opposition party, but he’s living a glorious life in the history of parliament, British. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Actually Mahārāja, at that time, when Mahāprabhu was performing His pastimes, that was also a time of renaissance in Europe, and many great personalities also were born there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. A general upheaval.

ekhon je brahmakule caitnyer ari, ta'ke jani caitanyer lila-pustikari

[“I know that these enemies of Lord Caitanya, coming from brāhmaṇa background, are actually assistants for giving nourishment to Lord Caitanya’s pastime.”] [From Prarthana Lalasamayi, 4.11]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says that, “Even if so many brāhmaṇas are seen to be anti Caitanya, but I reckon them as they’re contributing something for the negative side to the great līlā of Caitanya Deva.”

Līlā-pustikari, we should take. And we should not foster any abhorrence towards them. They’re connected in this way by His līlā, he’s given this part to play, as in a drama. One is attached to play the part of a sweeper, another is given the part of a prince. So it is His dispensation that they’re given to preach the - someone to play the part of Duryodhana, someone of Yudhiṣṭhira, and Duḥśāsana, some of Draupadī. A play, līlā, loses the venom. When we come to realise the līlā, that one centred satisfaction pastimes, then everything loses the venom thereby. We’re to accommodate in our heart the whole as this as such, the līlā.

Reality is For Itself. Everything, no measurement according to our interest. The measurement from the interest of the Supreme. Even the victory and the defeat in a play, in a players attitude we must take. One side defeated and in a field they began rowdyism. That is not laudable. Take the defeat in a players field. So play means līlā, from that way we go to līlā. We must take it in that attitude, it is līlā. So great loss and great gain, our party and their party fighting, eternal animosity, that should be rejected. We must be free of that. Līlā.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: How should we consider Duryodhana, Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Duryodhana also like that, that negative side.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: But at the same time he’s being presented as a representative of Kali.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The Kali has got also his position. Everything within Māyā, Māyā has got her position, on the whole. We're to accommodate. The Māyā is also contributing some service, in different nature, of different type, that's all. And it is by, at the back of everything is the will of Kṛṣṇa. No complaint. Hare Kṛṣṇa. [?]

Devotee: Mahārāja, [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Everything is eternal, so eternal circular movement [?]

Gets chance, after long, long time they will again have a chance.

[ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ]

āruhya kṛcchreṇa param padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nāḍṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ

[“O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

‘mukti, bhukti vāñche yei, kāhāñ duñhāra gati?’ ‘sthāvara-deha, deva-deha yaiche avasthiti’

[“And what is the destination of those who desire liberation and those who desire sense gratification?” Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu asked. Rāmānanda Rāya replied, “Those who attempt to merge into the existence of the Supreme Lord will have to accept a body like that of a tree. And those who are overly inclined toward sense gratification will attain the bodies of demigods.”][Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.257]

The sthāvara-deha, for long time, like a sleep, he’s within a stone, or a tree, but again his chance comes.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Temporary [?] short period [?] Long period, but in course of time they will also have a chance. Circular movement.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: From the absolute perspective Mahārāja, everything is inauspicious, from the absolute point of view.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One who’s in that centre where from he can see their harmonious quality, the fullest adjustment, he sees everything is all right. In infinite circular movement, māyā, the measurable adversity, no time. “I’m in infinite, and māyā means within finite. And how long it may be in māyā? In comparison to infinite, relativity of infinite, it has got no position. No number of finite can make infinite.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: It's from a different plane altogether.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vasudeva Vipra, he has got leprosy, the worm from the leprosy, that wound, is falling out onto the earth, and he's picking it and putting in his own wound. He's happy there. But others?

So there's a position where the extreme sorrow is nothing. Which is considered all relative, which is considered to be the worst position, a devotee's enjoying that position. The attitude.

So Kuntī Devī is inviting danger. "Where Kṛṣṇa is present the adversity is more than prosperity."

So Kṛṣṇa consciousness is where no adversity can enter there. Yes, the tolerance, infinite, even in separation, union in separation.

Vṛtrāsura, Chitraketu, cursed by Pārvatī became that demon Vṛtrāsura. But there also under such circumstances adverse, he's maintaining in his inner heart the exclusive devotion to Kṛṣṇa. At the time when the cursed life is passing away he's pronouncing, the expression is that of a great devotee. It has come, the curse period finished, and he's reinstated in his former...

nehābhikrama-nāśo 'sti, pratyavāyo na vidyate [svalpam apy asya dharmasya, trāyate mahato bhayāt]

["Even a small beginning in this devotional service cannot go in vain, nor can any loss be suffered. The most insignificant practice of such devotional service saves one from the all-devouring fear of repeated birth and death in this world."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.40]

He's come in connection of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. His future prospect guaranteed. Only question of time and different stages, circumstance passing through.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Mahārāja, is it that he was reinstated in the same position, or that he was even more elevated after that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rather, we shall say, more elevated, with that experience. That proved, when a general in great danger he becomes victorious, facing that he's rewarded. He's more strengthened, his position after that temptation he has come back he's more strengthened than the past experience. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

But after all, the Supreme Will. Development, non development, keeps everything, Supreme Will, sweet will. We can't put any binding law on that.

Bhakti Caru Swāmī: Mārobi rākhobi yo icchā tohārā, [nitya-dāsa prati tuwā adhikārā] ["Slay me or protect me as You wish, for You are the master of Your eternal servant."] [The Songs Of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 13]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! Even Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has mentioned, "Jīva nitya, but if Kṛṣṇa wills, can do away with his whole, efface the existence." In Tattva-sūtra perhaps he has written in this way. Nearly nitya, but Kṛṣṇa has that capacity. Supreme Will. But that is not general, very particular. Jīva sattya, taṭasthā śakti, but generally that is not.

Mayi te teṣu. “I am everywhere, I’m nowhere. Everything in Me, nothing in Me. But, mayi te teṣu, tv ahaṁ.”

[ye caiva sāttvikā bhāvā, rājasās tāmasās ca ye matta eveti tām viddhi, na tv ahaṁ teṣu te mayi]

[“Furthermore, you should know that all objects that be of the nature of goodness, passion, and ignorance are born of Me alone. Nevertheless, I am not in them. They, being subordinate to Me, exist in Me.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.12]

It is not in application in the case of the svarūpa śakti. Just as he does not, he cannot commit suicide. [?]

I shall go to take bath. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Jaya Om Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrāja...

Devotee: We cannot serve you properly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The attempt is to be appreciated. Evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana. [karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana

mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi]

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

Man proposes God disposes.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Does a śaktyāveśa avatāra descend directly from the spiritual sky, or can he be empowered, just a jīva in this plane of existence, and when he reaches a certain level he can become empowered?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No inclination to enter into that thought at present.

And Prabhupāda tried to get the service of that Maṭha as a cottage. Gaura Gadādhara Maṭha in Chapahatti, established by Baninatha, the disciple of Paṇḍita Gadādhara, Gaura Gadādhara.

Devotee: And his good name, what is his name?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His name, Satprasan Ananda [?] Maṭha name. And previous name, Satish. Satish, Dr. of something. He also had golden merchants, suvarṇa-vaṇik [?] His Maṭha's name is [?] He did much service in the main Maṭha, Caitanya Maṭha during Prabhupāda. And once Vasudeva Prabhu wanted to give him red cloth but Prabhupāda [?] His nature of service in Māyāpur requires that he will, he should be white clad, and for that he's dressed all through.

What is necessary for the upliftment of our spiritual career, this has been recommended. We shall try to have the association of the same nature but higher than me. Always seek the company of some higher type of saint, devotee, in the same line of thinking, my aspiration, sajātī-yāśye snigdhe.

[Śrīmad-bhāgavatārthānām āsvādo rasikaiḥ saha sajātī-yāśye snigdhe sādhau saṅgaḥ svato vare]

[“One should taste the meaning of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam in the association of pure devotees, and one should associate with the devotees who are more advanced than oneself and endowed with a similar type of affection for the Lord. Those that are in our line, who have the same high spiritual aspirations as we do, and who hold a superior position. To associate with such saintly persons will help us the most to progress towards the ultimate goal.”] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.91]

& [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.131]

Who is of the same thinking, similar thinking, and affectionate to me, and superior to me at the same time. To select such company, association, will help to promote our improvement.

Once that Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī wrote in the head of the letter addressed to Prabhupāda, without Guru Gaurāṅga Jayata, he was very fond of Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa, Hare Hare, Hare Rāma, Hare Rāma, Rāma Rāma, Hare Hare.

On the head of the letter, without Guru Gaurāṅga Jayata. Then Prabhupāda fondly - Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī at that time he was staying with me at Delhi Maṭha.

Prabhupāda wrote in reply, “Don’t you believe in cid-vilāsa? Everywhere that Hare Kṛṣṇa, and if you write Guru Gaurāṅga Jayata, that is loss of time, wasting time? Do you think like that?”

And another thing. “Or you want to give mahā-mantram to myself.” In a taunting way he told. “Do you like to give mahā-mantram to me?”

Waves of different type are created through the sound. That wave we are to find some in different planes of purity according to sambandha jñāna. So where congregational chanting, that must be under the guidance of a man of higher plane. Otherwise that should be left, the congregational chanting. The guidance must be in the hand of the śuddha bhakta. Others may join, anyone and everyone may join the congregational kīrtana, but the guidance must be that of a pure devotee. Otherwise we should not mix with that, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura writes.

Śuddha bhakti ranu gati kīrtana hoile secani jali haya [?]

We may attend that function, otherwise not. When Nāma aparādha offences are being committed against the Holy Name we should not go there, to participate there. And there is also gradation. So mere nāmākṣara, the sound name is not the Name proper. The inner realisation, that is the main thing, what sort of vibration is being created. That is all important, not the sweet tone, nor the persevering pronouncement, pronouncing. So the quality we should try to improve.

Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau. [From Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindu, 1.2.234 & 2.109]
So our Guru Mahārāja instead of encouraging taking the Name in the beads, more trace he gave, laid on, “Learn to serve.”

And what is service? Just obey Him, obey the Vaiṣṇava. Throw yourself to fulfil the will of the higher plane. Try to utilise yourself in the guidance of the higher realisation, the realised soul.

“Try to give yourself, give yourself, not assert, but serve Me.”

Practice what is service proper, not to carry out the order of your own dictation, dictation of your own mind. That is filthy. But dictation from the purer quarter, you will come and you must submit to that. Thereby you can rise up. The dictator must be of the higher plane and you must carry out that. Don’t assert yourself what you are. By repetition of your own thought, that will be fed, your mental system will be fed, and will acquire strength. But don’t allow your mind to get hold from your level and become stronger, rather allow it to die by fasting. Only what you get, the direction from upward, throw wholesale to carry out that. Without food your ego will be dissolved. Your ego must be removed, and the soul’s function will come out. And don’t give food to your ego. Ego means whatever your ego suggesting and you are carrying out the order, that is the food of your ego, the mind, vāsanā, kaṁana, aspiration. Aspiration in the food of your present ego, and that should be stopped, and ego will die fasting without food. And the soul’s function will be awakened, ego will die.

So Parvat Mahārāja he went to visit the holy place, he was punished. That the śakti, the assertion of the śakti ego. That is nirguṇa what is coming from Gurudeva, and you are to carry out. Don't place yourself in the position of an orderer, but server. Always try to sing the position of a server, not orderer. And when a man of such order is absent, try to understand within you, that how in such position, how my Gurudeva wanted me to do this action.

End of 82.06.19.D_82.06.30.A

82.06.30.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...in such position I'm doing. The higher concern. And Guru also at the same time should not be located in particular body, or in particular opinion. But that may be temporary for the time being for the normal universal characteristic.

ācāryam mām vijānīyān, [nāvamanyeta karhicit na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

[“One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods.”]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46]

śikṣā-guruke ta' jāni, kṛṣṇera svarūpa / [antaryāmī, bhakta-śreṣṭha, - ei dui rūpa]

["One should know the instructing spiritual master (śikṣā guru) to be Kṛṣṇa Himself. As Guru, Kṛṣṇa manifests as the Supersoul and as the best of devotees."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.47]

Of the same kind, same thought, same aspiration, same, similar, all similar, superior similar.

We thrive by service, and service of a perfect nature, that is, to get that we are fortunate. When we do not get that, all servant no Guru, that is deplorable condition. All Guru, no servant, that is what we should aspire after, thereby we gain most. More guardian, think for my good. All guardian, all well wisher. Guardian, well wisher I want, not servant I want. "I'm the dictator, and they're to carry out." Not this. That is also indispensable, but we must be fully awake to the order above, and we may be connecting link. We may use ourselves to be the connecting link of the superior to the lower. That is kīrtana. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, amani manada, hole kirtane, kadhikar dibe tumi [tomar carane, niskapate ami, kandiya lutibo bhumī]

["If you will bestow upon me the right to chant the Holy Name, I will then give all honour to others without expecting any respect for myself. Thus I will sincerely weep in ecstasy while rolling on the ground at your lotus feet."] [Prarthana Lalasamayī, 8.5]

We shall get the adhikāra, the right to offer honour to the others when we're fully dedicated to our Guru. Amani manada, we don't aspire after anything, and we're ready to give proper respect to one and all. No aspiration for self seeking. Guru distributing, Mahāprabhu distributing, Kṛṣṇa conscious distributing. Amani manada means to be selfless, no aspiration for personal aspiration, amani manada.

We want to give respect to anything and everything, and don't want anything for our own self. That is amani manada. Don't want any position, ready to give position to all, so no aspiration, no weed. That is the stage of minding which we can be proper mediator, no self seeking. The mediator must not be self seeking to the least. Amani manada, be selfless mediator, then we can transmit. Ke?

... of God seeking, self seeking may not come, the enemy, worst, pratiṣṭhā. The Māyāvādīs they do not get relief from this pratiṣṭhā, self seeking, matsara, nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satām [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2] So they're not eligible for the Bhāgavata School. They're self seeking, so 'ham, the biggest thing, I'm represented there, I am so 'ham. Tat tvam asi, everywhere mostly self seeking. Ahaṁgrahopāsanā. They cannot eliminate that nature to worship his own self. Pratiṣṭhā, the highest position I hold. I'm represented in the highest prime cause. As in dictatorship, if there is anything. Pratiṣṭhā. They can't accept the negative side of the things.

All service, no enjoyment, this creed. All service, no enjoyment, that sort of life, servants, slave, slavery, śaraṇāgati, slavery. That creed to accept, the creed of slavery in the service of Kṛṣṇa. Slavery is our glory. It is glorious to become a slave to Kṛṣṇa and kāṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa and His association. We want to be slavery. The heart must be prepared for that. By saying slavery we live, in mastership, in lording, we lose. This is the basic conception of Vaiṣṇavism. Sarvva-vedānta-vit-koṭyā viṣṇubhakto viśiṣyate.

[brāhmaṇānāṁ sahasrebhyaḥ satra-yājī viśiṣyate satra-yājī- sahasrebhyaḥ sarvva-vedānta-pāragāḥ sarvva-vedānta-vit-koṭyā viṣṇubhakto viśiṣyate vaiṣṇavānām sahasrebhyaḥ ekāntyeko viśiṣyate]

[“Among many thousands of brāhmaṇas, a yajñika brāhmaṇa is best. Among thousands of yajñika brāhmaṇas, one who fully knows Vedānta is best. Among millions of knowers of Vedānta, one who is a devotee of Viṣṇu is best. And among thousands of devotees of Viṣṇu, one who is an unalloyed Vaiṣṇava is best.”] [Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 10.117] & [Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, 117]

It passes the stage of Vedānta, brahmāsmi, daso smi. They say on their part, taking Hanumān.

Deha buddha buddyu deham daso smi, mano buddha tadam sakha [?]

Ātmā buddha tade aham iti me si mama te [?]

Hanumān who is the ideal of the dāsya bhakti, they say through their mouth, concoction, that Hanumān says: “When I’m in the plane of physical consideration, I’m His dāsa, I’m servant of Rāmacandra. When I’m thinking in the mental plane I’m His part, so ‘ham, part and parcel of Him. And when I soar to the plane of soul, then He and myself are one and same.” That is their standpoint.

But ours is just the opposite. When we’re in the plane of physical we think, “I’m gone. When in the mental plane, No, I’m something different. When in the plane of soul, Oh, I am the eternal servant.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Phantasmagoria, Prabhupāda told, “They’re running after phantasmagoria. So ‘ham, I am He.” Most cursed temperament, such a great blunder one may commit, only influenced by māyā, misconception, that ‘I am the highest.’ Then how do you fall? Who has forced you to come down to such stage? You are self treacherous. You are a traitor to your own self, thinking that you are the supreme entity. Then how your supreme entity can come within māyā, and mourning? This is your idea of your supremacy, supreme.” Mayadish mayagosh [?]

Mahāprabhu told to Sārvabhauma, “This is most wonderful that how one can ignore this plain truth of common sense. Kṛṣṇa is Māyādisa, He’s Master, Lord of māyā, and we’re captivated by māyā, and He’s Master of māyā. And you say that these are one and the same. The most astounding statement. This broad thing is being ignored by māyā, the Lord of māyā. And what makes you come to be the slave of māyā? The lord of māyā you have come to be slave of māyā.”

So that Vaiṣṇava sevā, Guru sevā, thereby we come to the proper temperament where everything, whether taking the Name, or any other duty, that may have the nearest approach towards Vaikuṇṭha culture cultivation. Whether maybe it is in Name, through sound, or through any other way. So Rūpa Goswāmī gives that śloka, ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ sevonmukhe hi jihvādaḥ svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ

[“Therefore the material senses cannot appreciate Kṛṣṇa’s Holy Name, form, qualities, and pastimes. When a conditioned soul is awakened to Kṛṣṇa consciousness and renders service by using his tongue to chant the Lord’s Holy Name and taste the remnants of the Lord's food, the tongue is purified, and one gradually comes to understand who Kṛṣṇa really is. In other words, the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa can never be grasped by the material senses. Only by rendering devotional service, beginning with vibrating the Lord's glories upon the tongue, can one realize Kṛṣṇa, for He will reveal Himself directly to the sincere soul."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.234] [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 17.56]

The central thought. This must be very favourite of one who wants to help himself really, and not self deceiver. His attention must be attracted by this central thought of guidance, sevonmukhe hi, service is all, serving temperament. And to acquire that serving temperament, the service of the Vaiṣṇava or Guru, that whatever nature it may be does not matter, but try to obey the Vaikuṇṭha cause. And anything, even killing a person may be devotion. Not much about the form, but the spirit, that must attract our all attention. What is the serving, serving mood, when we take Hari Nāma, or do any other thing.

*[yasya nāhaṅkṛto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate] hatvāpi sa imāḷ
lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate*

["He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer's consequences."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.17]

He may kill wholesale, but he does not do anything. That is the marginal stage. But you kill everything if by the order of the Supreme you do the right thing. Then this killing is not killing proper. Tearing the cloth is not harming the man. It is something like that.

The Supreme Will, that is all for benefit, welfare, all beneficial. Die to live. Don't think that you are loser if you go to die as you are at present. You may not be loser. If it is for Him, die to live. Dissolve, die means dissolve yourself as you are at present, dissolve, dissolve. Then proper self will come out with all glory, pristine glory, dissolve. By service, by seeking the comfort of the Vaiṣṇava, you can dissolve your, ignore yourself, deny yourself, as you are at present. Die. Die means deny.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja the other day he told very well. "One lākh of Hari Nāma, one lākh of noise." Ha, ha, ha, ha. The Name is noise. Ha, ha. Mahāprabhu told.

Heno kale tomar sada kola hala kori amar doiye [?]

When Mahāprabhu in His trance He was just experiencing the līlā of Rādhā Govinda and with the gopīs in Govardhana, Svarūpa Dāmodara and others tried their best by chanting the Name of Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, to take Him out of the trance.

When Mahāprabhu was roused He complained. "What have you done? I was in such a most happiest experience there, and you are all rousing a clamour. You have drawn Me here, down. Kale tomar sada kola hala kori [?] A clamour."

And what sort of clamour? "Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. That Kṛṣṇa Nāma. That clamour. And Kṛṣṇa Nāma by whom? Svarūpa Dāmodara and also persons of that type, kola hala."

Kola hala, so one lākh of Name means of lākh of noise. Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Of course this is that direction, then we should think that we're making noise.

Once, or Guru Mahārāja he was talking to one person, Hari kathā, about Kṛṣṇa, and one of his disciples [?] of lower rank, he was taking Hari Nāma loudly.

And Prabhupāda told, “Don’t, aloud, [?] Don’t make noise.” Then he answered, “I’m taking Hari Nāma. You are making noise.”

Devotees: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Have you heard it clearly, do you remember, no? This is news?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No, we didn’t hear that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] One Vaiṣṇava dāsa, he was disciple, our God-brother, very senior. Ordinarily he was an ignorant man, non educated. He came to serve Prabhupāda and did service. And he was taking the Name loudly, taking Name, Hare Kṛṣṇa. And Prabhupāda was talking with a gentleman about [?] And he was chanting loudly, and Prabhupāda asked him to, “Don’t make noise.”

And he answered straight, “You are making noise. I’m taking the Name of the Lord.” So we must be careful about this.

Devotees: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: God save me from my friends.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Our Guru Mahārāja cautioned us also, sometimes while working, chanting loudly, sometimes quiet. “It’s for you, not for the world.” Something like that. “Chant for yourself.”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Occasionally, it depends upon circumstance.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: The pleasure of Gurudeva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm. Not in the presence of the superiors one should try to spread his mental plane towards them. The waves towards them should not be...

The higher, the movements, the waves of the higher, the vibration of the higher plane should be received, and not opposed by another vibration, opposing. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

[“Even very learned men are baffled in ascertaining the nature of action and inaction. Some cannot comprehend action, while others cannot comprehend inaction. Hence, I shall now teach you about such action and inaction, knowing which you will attain liberation from the evil world.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 4.16]

Muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ. What is truth, it is infinite. Satyam paraṁ dhīmahi.
[S-B, 1.1.1] The higher conception of truth let us try to attend, to cultivate, to search.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Mahārāja, it seems that we have been tricked by that Kali-santarāṇa Upaniṣad, because that verse says, harer nāma harer nāma harer nāmaiva kevalam [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 17.21] But it says, “Chant the Holy Name,” and yet if we chant the Holy Name then we learn about deeper, we know that there are so many things, that by the time we want to chant the Holy Name properly we have to surrender completely to Kṛṣṇa. It is not so easy as just chanting.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He said that, In Kali-santarāṇa Upaniṣad, etc, this harer nāma, and also Nāradiya Purāṇa. We’re told simply to chant Hari Nāma, but after chanting we find there are so many more things. We must surrender and suddenly find more ways. So we’ve been tricked by this only harer nāmaiva kevalam we got tricked, fooled.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And when we shall go what is Hari Nāma? You analyse, many things will come out, relative thoughts. Hari, not our Hari. There is Hari, and there is not Hari. What is Hari, what is not Hari? In the process everything will come in details. In general, ‘take Hari Nāma.’ Then what is that Hari Nāma, Hari Nāma proper? Only one Hari Nāma is sufficient to quench all our thirst, to do away with all our sins. But where is that Hari Nāma? How to get that Hari Nāma? And what is, who is Hari, and what is His Name? Details in details. A general call, take Hari Nāma, it is most general. And when it comes, to get it, then details will come to you. “Do this, do this, do this.” Everywhere it is such. Everywhere, the first approach, in a word, ‘one God,’ may be used. “Come here.” Then, next, whatever you say, in the least sound you are to express the beginning call. And then when you come there you get many things.” In every case it is such. First, hazy call, hazy attraction, and then details come, anywhere and everywhere. [?]

Now try to take Hari Nāma, get the sound infinite, sound absolute. Not ordinary sound meaning you’re catching and moving hither, thither, for this thing and that thing. The universal sound, try to attend the universal sound. And what colour you’ll be able to catch at the suggestion of that sound. Take Hari Nāma, accept the universal sound. Try to feel the universal sound that is ringing, try to connect yourself with that. And what will be the object of that universal sound, it will come to you gradually, how you can connect with the universal wave. Universal purpose, the object, destination, connect you with that. Then you’ll be relieved of provincial and local difficulties. Your identification with local and provincial difficulties is bringing reaction to you, and you don’t desire that. So connect with the universal sound. And you’ll have a permanent basis and no reaction will be possible.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Does it make any difference - if you want to develop a serving attitude, does it make a great difference if you serve a very advanced Vaiṣṇava, or a less advanced Vaiṣṇava? Does a serving attitude develop in both cases?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course, the difference between advanced Vaiṣṇava more deeper engaged in the attraction of the universal. Nearer the approach, nearer the universal call, or sound, or activity. Nāma, rūpa, guṇa, līlā. The Name will be the principal thing, then the quality, and then the pastimes, connected with that gradually.

[?] in connection with that universal sound. We shall come to be Mādhava Mahārāja: So one should try to serve the highest Vaiṣṇava.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The highest realisation Vaiṣṇava, of type also, śanta, dāsyā, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, etc, and the degree. The highest degree in śanta rasa, highest degree in dāsyā rasa, highest degree in sākhya rasa, vātsalya rasa, mādhurya rasa, gradation. In every department there is head, and sub head.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, yesterday you told, Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Prabhupāda, he mentioned puṣpa varṇa. There were three words I could not catch the words, puṣpa varṇa. Then another word.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is not an easy thing to be able to throw a flower on his body to attract his attention towards me. That is to capture him for my sweet service. It is not very easy. I'm trying lives after lives, but still I'm not able to throw, to come in his care, within his attention. To present ones own self within the circumference of his attention in the service of mādhurya rasa, to be able to come to such level that from there to throw a flower on his body to attract him, to enjoy him, her, to enjoy her, to come to such a level, to such a circle, I'm not able, trying hard for so long, long, time.

But you have got only this, the beginning of that sound, and you think, "Oh, it is already within my fist." It is not so easy a thing. That was his attitude. But we may not think that he's in that position but he's saying so. To say such, that in itself is a proof that he's with that.

*na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi me harau, [krandāmi saubhāgya-bharam

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: “My dear friends, I have not the slightest tinge of love of Godhead within My heart. When you see Me crying in separation, I am just falsely exhibiting a demonstration of My great fortune. Indeed, not seeing the beautiful face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I continue to live My life like an insect, without purpose.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

As Mahāprabhu says. As much as one gets, so much he thinks that I’m not getting. The occupation of infinite is of such nature. It must be measured from the negative side.

But, “You give up. You are trying lives after lives, sacrificing so much. Still you’re not able to draw the attention of Kṛṣṇa. You leave it. Come away.”

“No, no. I can’t leave everything. I can’t. It may be an imagination, still I won’t give it up. It is nothing, still I cannot go any other way.”

Na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi me harau. Demand, hankering, hunger, hunger, only hunger. Hankering is health. Hunger is health. And what is the symptom of a good health? To be hungry. Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. What does your research department say?

Mādhava Mahārāja: Very scientific.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: [?] I'll go and preach that Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Now I know how to preach to the Doctors. Now I know how to preach to the Medical Doctors.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And I am poison to ISKCON. I am supposed to be poison.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Swāmī Mahārāja was present. What did he say? “That these words are not of my Guru Mahārāja?” Hmm? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Mahārāja, Swāmī Mahārāja, Guru Mahārāja, used to say that, “Preaching is the essence.” What is the meaning of that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Essence?

Mādhava Mahārāja: Yes. He'd say, "Books are the basis, preaching is the essence, utility is the principal, and purity is the force." So what is the meaning of that, preaching is the essence?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yukta vairāgya [?] Utility, he used to say, use everything.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Utility is the principal. Utility from the standpoint of universal standpoint, utility, principal. Utility is service, utility, that I may be used properly. The kīrtana is life, essence. Essence means vitality, the life, the transaction, movement. That is cultivation of the Lord, to indent and to export. Import and export, that is life, import and export. Import of God, and to export Him. Import and export, that should be the movement of two sides, opposite, and it is connecting with God. ISKCON means export and then import is necessary for that. So that is the essence, essence of life. Vitality means import and export. By export that import is implied. Without import no export is possible. And that is the essence and vitality is there. And then essence is kīrtana and then?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Books are the basis.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Books are the basis. That is, we may not - that the greater circle if we want to represent that it may not be in direct connection, indirect connection should be adopted, for future and for far. We can, only through the sound with the lips, the gun produced sound, the limited circle. But the books can reach far away, and also in future also it may work. So books are the?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Basis.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Basis. That should be taken as the basis. It is for greater kīrtana. And then...

Mādhava Mahārāja: Purity is the force.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...with that basis we should do kīrtana. Another thing is that when we speak, and when we write - there is a saying, when writing there is more responsibility. Satam baddha madhika [?] In kīrtana we may be more attentive to the thing, because I cannot say anything irrelevant. I must be fully awake to my principles. And when I meditate that is very weak, because anything and everything I may think within. But when we say something to others I must give more attention, all attention, I may not be irrelevant, kīrtana. And then again, satam baddha madhika [?] Orally you may try to make transaction with anything that accuracy may not be so much necessary. But when you write down you'll be more attentive, more accurate, because deviating is not oral statement, the evidence is there. So you'll be more attentive when you write something than you say. When you say, you're more attentive than when you meditate, and when you write you'll be more attentive than when you say. So it is the, what is this, this writing books?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Books are the basis.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Basis, and with that basis you will go on with kīrtana, reproduce, in the basis of books must be more accurate, it's caught there in writing aspect permanent, so you'll give all attention when you write something, than you say something. Then?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Purity.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Utility is the principle.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is, there must not be any other purpose but for the service of Kṛṣṇa, must be pure in its principle, that selflessly you're doing. Doing for the service of Kṛṣṇa and Guru, and not for any other object of life. That principle you must accept first. On the principle of purity, first. Then in the basis of writing, second. And then import and export, what is that?

Mādhava Mahārāja: Preaching.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Preaching, and then another, fourth thing?

Mādhava Mahārāja: Purity is the force.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Purity is the force. Then it will come to make us understand that purity is the force. If you are sincere in your faith and pure, then it will get the source of energy from there. Tat paratvena nirmalam.

[sarvopādhī-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam / hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanam bhaktir ucyate]

["Pure devotion is service to the Supreme Lord which is free from all relative conceptions of self interest."] [Nāradya Purāṇa]

Purity is the force. The force you'll get as much as you'll become pure and selfless. And if impure then you'll be weak, you'll be cowed down. But if you're pure and sincere at your heart, the infinite source will come and back you. Purity of purpose, purity of purpose, that is [?] the faith, that is the source of all power, faith.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. And so Dayal Nitāi has also come here?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What's the time now, nine?

Parvat Mahārāja: Quarter to ten.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, quarter to ten. So now I dissolve the meeting.

This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.”] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16]

At least he must attain this bhāva daśā, and the signs, the symptoms, have been described by Rūpa Goswāmī Prabhu, of bhāva daśā.

When such condition is seen in a devotee then he can begin such internal life.

Devotee: Please explain that śloka Mahārāja, the translation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṣānti, that whatever loss may be incurred in any transaction that matters little. He's fully conscious that, “My whole wealth is here, and this external acquisition not much to me,” so kṣānti.

When He will come to help? So many days passed.” Samutkañṭhā. And nāma-gāne sadā ruciḥ. “World is being busy with this and that, so many activities. But always he will find some taste for the Name of the Lord, always maintaining, sadā ruciḥ. Āśaktis tad-guṇākhyāne. Then he will begin to describe about the transcendental qualities of Kṛṣṇa and their group. Madly he will go on with that. Prītis tad vasati-sthale. And whatever place is associated with Them, with Their memory, they will have special attraction for that.

These are the qualifications to be located in a person who has got that bhāva bhakti. And then he’s eligible to tackle all those appearance in the transcendental. That is the pathio [?] [?] the money, to book in a train, passage money. That is his passage money. [?]

This is bhāva bhakti. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, [?]

Pramāṇa Swāmī [?]: Mahārāja, even without attaining that stage, you can feel...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. Irresistible inner tendency, greed for the thing, that is the seed, and that will grow gradually.

Pramāṇa Swāmī [?]: How to make it grow faster?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the company, association.

Pramāṇa Swāmī [?]: Association. Then what can I do? I have to go.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Association. When they're living and with the scriptural, both, sādhū and śāstra.

Pramāṇa Swāmī [?]: Which is more important?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When sādhū is available then association with him, when he's not available then the scripture. These two will promote our progress, help.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Caitanya. [?] 11:40 - 14:02 [?]

Devotee: Mahārāja is saying that he has given a lot of nice introduction to you, with much glorification. It's very nice actually. He describes your physical beauty, as well as that you have taken the whole mission of spreading the glory of Mahāprabhu's movement in the mood of mādhurya rasa. And completely engrossed in kīrtana, Hari kīrtana, you're spreading Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Pramāṇa Swāmī [?]: Ha, ha. That's Mahārāja's vision, beautiful vision.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And this is self evident in you. It is written, tatas kuta.. [?]

Devotee: Ah, tatas kuta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With the eternal..

Devotee: Manifestation.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Jīva dhara sama suta viranya vigra hayana [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe that engaged you in this līlā, in this campaign.

Devotee: Spontaneous affinity, attraction.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Devotee: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not delegated by committee, but independently and internally inspiration you began this work to deliver the public and to take them to Kṛṣṇa. And your aim is in the mādhurya rasa, Rādhārāṇī, [?]

Pramāṇa Swāmī [?]: I think my aim is in your feet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Vaiṣṇava [?] And always cheerful when he gets the association of the sādhū.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Śuddha vaiṣṇava saṅge parayana [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Natural inclination for the association of the pure devotees [?] They're very careful, quite at home when [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?] like moon.

16:50 - 20:20 [?]

Devotee: He wrote Mahārāja's praṇāma mantra. Govinda Mahārāja composed [?] Very beautiful.

Pramāṇa Swāmī [?]: It is very, very beautiful poem.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Pramāṇa Swāmī [?]: Poetry, it is an expression of the heart, the beautifying heart of the devotee.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Poetry? Yes. We see [?] sundaram. Whatever is beautiful _____ [?] of Kṛṣṇa, Rādhārāṇī. All emanating from there.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Devotee: [?] You were saying that the desire is the seed. So this desire, is it...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] fleeting desire, but is finite desire.

Devotee: Internal desire. So this internal desire...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Which is covered now, thickly covered.

Devotee: But still sometimes it is felt Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Innate nature is thickly covered, even in the trees and stones. And then if the cover is being thin and thin, then sufficiently thin then we can peep from outside what is inside. With this, this is ruci parīkṣa, when Gurudeva tests and lookout what is the internal desire and then helps him in that line to make progress and he can leave alone, ruci parīkṣa.

Prabhupāda, after circumambulation in Vṛndāvana, he asked many of us, “What place attracted you most?”

When he asked me I pointed out that Rūpa Goswāmī's place between Nandagram and Yāvaṭ. Rādhārāṇī's father-in-law's house was Yāvaṭa, and Nandagram seat of Kṛṣṇa, Nanda Mahārāja. And between, almost equal distance from both villages, the Kadamkhāṇḍi, that was the bhajan kuṭīra of Rūpa Goswāmī. I told, that place - first attraction was this Varsāṇa, Rādhārāṇī's father's place. First I pointed Rūpa Goswāmī, this Kadamkhāṇḍi. This and Varsāṇa, these two places attracted me most.

Then perhaps after two or three years Prabhupāda says, "Your place." I can't follow. What is my place?

"Your place, that Kadamkhāṇḍi you told."

I wondered, I did not give such importance to his asking two years ago. He asked it to many, "What place attracted you most?" I told that this place attracted me most. And he kept in mind, I forgot, he kept in mind. [?] "Your, that place." I can't follow. What is my place?

"That Kadamkhāṇḍi."

Then I could remember, Oh, he asked previous, "What place attracted you most." He has kept in mind.

And then also he, before his departure he ordered me to sing that śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada. (All in one life ?) And also, in my poem also:

*śrī-gaurānumataṁ svarūpa-viditaṁ rūpāgrajenāḍṛtaṁ rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam aho tad dātum
īśo bhavān*

[“What was sanctioned by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu by His descent was intimately known only to Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī. It was adored by Sanātana Goswāmī and served by Rūpa Goswāmī and his followers. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī tasted that wonderful thing fully and enhanced it with his own realisation. And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā: that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy.”]

And all these things.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Anyhow that is the grace given by [?] sanctioned by me.” That was the indication of his order, for me to sing before him that kīrtana. “That I have given sanction just before I departed.”

That was told to me when superior Godbrothers were that side, “That Prabhupāda has given you entrance in this way.”

All right, I accept it from you perhaps. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, such desires cannot be artificially invoked.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No.

Devotee: It has to be from a inner, natural...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inner flow, natural flow. It must be natural flow. Pratiṣṭhā ahaṅkāra, if for name and fame we hurriedly try to climb up, then we will fall and the limbs will be broken. Ha, ha, ha, ha. Growth must be natural, inner [?] inclination. Rather we shall shrink in here, that when my venture, my feat, will enter into that door, that holy domain, this sort of adjustment will be with us, where angels fear to tread.

Devotee: Fools rush in where angels fear to tread.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So I may not be fool, always be suspicious, and take heed. But his, the providence may be inevitable. It will forcibly take me. The wave will push me. But I should, as Dāsa Goswāmī says, sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam, dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam [Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, the greatest exponent of the faith of servitude to Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā-dāsyam, wrote: “I won’t allow myself to become fascinated by the proposal of the higher level service as a friend, sākhyā. Rather, I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsyā, the service of the servant. I shall not consider myself to be a high-class servitor and I shall always tend to go towards the lower class of service. But He may forcibly take me to a higher service - “No, you are no longer to serve there; now you must serve in this higher category.”] [Vilāpa-kusamāñjali, 16]

I shall try to respect, to mind my service, dāśya, and sākhya will be proposed but I shall say that I’m not fit for higher position. I want service. And they will say, “No, no. You are to serve here.” In this way the pressure will come. Ke?

Devotees: [?]

Pramāṇa Swāmī [?]: Mahārāja, there’s one question I have. Sometimes we hear of Lord Śiva, beyond Brahmaloaka.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Beyond Brahmaloaka, and then that Sadāśivaloka, devotee of Nārāyaṇa, Kṛṣṇa. [?] Devotee Śiva is over this king Śiva, king of māyā, and is servant of Viṣṇu. That is higher. Vaiṣṇavānām yathā śambhuḥ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.13.16] & [SCSM’s Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, p 144] The devotee Śiva is higher. He has a position in the lower part of Vaikuṇṭha, Sadāśiva. He’s told generally as Sadāśiva. His position is higher than the māyā bhakta, who is the master of this illusory energy. And Śiva is also seen in Vṛndāvana, Gopesvara, Rasesvara, all these, but as God, there. But this is jñāna sunya bhakti, aprākṛta, prākṛta vat, just as in this mortal world we worship so many gods, in imitation to that, there are so many gods to be worshipped there.

And gopīs pray, “Fulfil our purpose oh Mahādeva.” They’re doing everything as in mundane world. So that is the picture, drawn, photo, from here. They have the importance of so many gods, demigods. Demigods are also represented in aprākṛta dhāma. Because they consider themselves human beings. “We’re ordinary human beings of the lower status. These are gods.” This portrait, this photo of here is there. Rather, this is the perverted reflection of that attitude. That is a peculiar adjustment there. And this is the facsimile, perverted reflection here.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Mahāprabhu. Nitāi. Nitāi. Govinda Mahārāja, [?]

...

Parvat Mahārāja: We were talking about - yesterday, some devotees, and these doubts came because some devotees have the feeling that to some of us Śrīla Prabhupāda gave more emphasis to the sambandha and abhidheya. And we have the feeling that you are opening the doors of prajoyana. So it came like er, the word came to the conversation that you might be seen by some of us as prajoyana Ācārya. And er, this would be correct? It seems like you’re showing us a highest...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may be said, it will be said something like that.

parokṣa-vādo vedo 'yaṁ, bālānām anuśāsanam [karma-mokṣāya karmāṇi, vidhatte hy agadaṁ yathā]

[“Childish and foolish people are attached to materialistic, fruitive activities, although the actual goal of life is to become free from such activities. Therefore, the Vedic injunctions indirectly lead one to the path of ultimate liberation by first prescribing fruitive religious activities, just as a father promises his child candy so that the child will take his medicine.”]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.44]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written in some place that Veda, the revealed truth, the giver of the revealed truth, that seer, or transmitter of the revealed truth, they have adopted a particular policy in imparting their knowledge they receive. The policy of the parokṣa-vādo. They recommend to do something, but they have another thing in view, but that is partial instalment. And sometimes say, 'This so far, no further.' And when he comes there, then again, then he says, 'No, there is further.' This policy has been adopted. Parokṣa-vādo vedo 'yaṁ, bālānām anuśāsanam. Just for the beginners the whole truth is not revealed, because that will puzzle them. So by instalments the process is given, the knowledge about the whole truth, by instalments. This process has been dealt, has been taken, when in the consideration of the revealed truth path.

na buddhi-bhedaṁ janayed, ajñānāṁ karma-saṅginām [joṣayet sarva-karmāṇi, vidvān yuktaḥ samācaran]

["The scholarly proponents of the path of knowledge must not confuse ignorant, attached men by deviating them with the advice, "Leave aside action, and cultivate knowledge." Rather, controlling their own minds, the learned should perform all the various duties without desiring the results, and in this way, subsequently engage the common section in action."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.26]

niyataṁ kuru karma tvaṁ, [karma jyāyo hy akarmaṇaḥ śarīra-yātrāpi ca te, na prasidhyed akarmaṇaḥ]

[“Perform your ablutions, worship, and other daily duties. Since even bodily sustenance is not possible without action, it is better for an unqualified person to perform his duty rather than renounce it. By giving up fruitive action and regularly performing your daily obligatory duties, your heart will be gradually purified. Then, surpassing the plane of renunciation, you will attain pure devotion, beyond the mundane plane.”]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 3.8]

Then, after he has finished his karma course, then jñāna is there. Then after finishing his jñāna course, then of course the bhakti, prema is there. By instalments that is a process. And there is another direct bhakti Ācārya from the beginning they’re there, that is also course. The sādhū bhakti, bhāva bhakti, prema bhakti, by instalments they distribute. That is the process they follow. It is there.

So, as Swāmī Mahārāja told to me, “To look after. They’re following law, material. I’m taking them here.”

And as he told, that Acyutānanda told, “What talk I had with Śrīdhara Mahārāja, if he tells you, you will be...

Parvat Mahārāja: Fainting.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Faint. That is, if you try to understand that you’ll be zero degree. You’ll faint, means you won’t be able to enter into that domain, not to appreciate that. That is, you will faint there. Your consciousness as a subject will reach, but no conception you will get, that is you will faint. You’ll be in zero degree. So, by instalments it is given.

He says that, “My Guru is Rādhārāṇī.” And also he gives mantram which is within that Rādhā dāśya. Especially sannyāsa clearly, gopī bhāva svaha [?], that to take shelter under, in the service of gopī. In the mantra of the sannyāsī means this. Before that mantra, that Kṛṣṇa that is mādhurya rasa kṛṣṇaya svaha [?] We must throw ourselves in the ocean of ecstasy, represented as Kṛṣṇa. After that sannyāsa mantra we shall cast our fate in the shelter of the service of gopī. The sannyāsa mantra means this. Mantra is there, Guru paramparā is there, all indicating our course towards mādhurya rasa. Those, that may be as exam course, but those that may not have any internal taste, they will go this side, that side, of the midway. So that portion has not much culture by him. A general education in the spiritual line [?] That is our estimation.

And our Guru Mahārāja also did so, with the exception of few. Though my path was chalked out, but the general distribution was of primary nature. And few exceptions, they can supply, and they can surpass, and have taste, and give [?] not all, in general. Generally as their engagement, the primary, the highest attainment, not post graduate, post graduate education. Connotation increases, denotation decreases.

Devotee: Mahārāja, we were thinking that you are teaching us how to perform rāgānugā bhakti. Whereas Śrīla Prabhupāda...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not [?] but it is in view. I’m making it clear that that is our goal, not that on our head and we shall...

pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge, [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

[“The path of divine love is worshippable to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration.”]

We are worshipping, our highest aim is rāgānugā bhakti, but with that object in our view we are doing work here, in this world. Pūjāla rāgapāṭha gaurava bāṅge. That is the motto of our Guru Mahārāja, that it is the property of our Gurudeva, and we are serving that Guru, one place lower, one step lower. But we must be conscious of the fact that the real wealth is with my Gurudeva, that is rāgānugā bhakti. That is our aim. But I’m not particularly fit. I’m to acquire my fitness for the same by the service of those that are really rāgānugā bhakti. When it takes one day, I’ll be able to meet that standard. That should be our attitude. And if we think that we’re quite fit then that is blameable, that service should be indirect, not direct. Direct, Mahāprabhu says,

na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi [me harau, krandāmi saubhāgya-bharam prakāśitum vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanam vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: “My dear friends, I have not the slightest tinge of love of Godhead within My heart. When you see Me crying in separation, I am just falsely exhibiting a demonstration of My great fortune. Indeed, not seeing the beautiful face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I continue to live My life like an insect, without purpose.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

“Not a drop of real rāgānugā bhakti within Me. That is infinite, that is ocean. My attempt is a sham. It is artificial.”

He’s blaming Himself in such a way. But from the back door rāgānugā bhakti is filling up His whole, capturing His whole, wholesale.

Devotee: Is rāgānugā bhakti in the same level as prema?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Prema.

Devotee: Then it's completely pure?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is the very life of prema, gist of prema. Internal, irresistible attraction for Kṛṣṇa, for the service of Kṛṣṇa, is spontaneous, not calculative, with any gain or loss. We are prey to that. That is a particular force...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and the value of that is only understood by Svarūpa Dāmodara, who is incarnation of Lalitā Devī. Rūpāgrajenādr̥taṁ. The sambandha jñāna Ācārya Sanātana Goswāmī has appreciated that very much. Rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ. Śrī Rūpa with his followers have distributed that practically. Raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitaṁ. And Raghunātha, Ācārya of the prajojana, he, with his followers, Kavirāja, etc, have tasted it and also samudra [?] Samudra means...

Devotee: Expanded.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...developed, Raghunātha, sevitam. Jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ. Śrī Jīva, Baladeva, with their followers have protected this, have given protection, necessary protection from the how, what state, and how the relation with Vedānta, Veda, Upaniṣad, in all ways they've given very good protection, that it may not be misused, the trespassers may not rubbish, in this way, abhirakṣitaṁ. Śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ. And Śukadeva, Śiva - Mahādeva, Brahmā, and Uddhava, they're aspiring after that thing. What is that thing? Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam. And that is the nectar service of Śrī Rādhikā, Rādhārāṇī. Aho. Very wonderful. You Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura you are the master who deals with that nectar." [From Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 9]

In my poem I have written it. And Prabhupāda has much appreciated that, the gradation, how the gradual development. The next... What's this?

Devotee: He hasn't finished. Let him finish.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

By your recommendation I want to be admitted in the group of our Gurudeva, Vārṣabhānavī-Dayita Dāsa.”

_____ [?] So, what do you say?

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Devotee: He's saying that the concept of the universe - he asked some questions last year, and you had inspired him very much. So now this year he wants to present it to the scientists. So in what spirit he should present these concepts of the universe, according to the Bhāgavatam?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is, my contribution to the Vedānta [?]

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have been requested by Swāmī Mahārāja to crush the Darwin theory of fossilism [?] One conclusion is that, that the original thing is consciousness. And just you conceive as the material world that is floating like iceberg in the ocean. Consciousness is the original substantial thing, and the different types of thoughts and ideas, that this is stone, this is tree, this is gold, this is tiger, all these ideas are floating in the waves of the infinite consciousness. I want to assert that.

And who is the Master of the consciousness, like a hypnotiser, as He wants us to see, we are forced to do that. We are helpless [?] But His will, the Master's will, that is all important. We're helpless. It is His īlā, He's the party. He represents the one whole. He's the party.

And we are part of that whole, one whole. And we have got several laws of movement, but He's autocrat, He can change the law, and also change is clearly designed and destined by Him.

Devotee: So everything rising from subjective evolution of consciousness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, subjective evolution. Subjective evolution, subjective eternal domain,

And this world where the free will is tested of the particles. There is the [?] And that is also illusion. That is another thing, eternal līlā, pastimes.

Devotee: So that means that Śukadeva Goswāmī imparted the knowledge to Mahārāja Parīkṣit according to [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As is required, as He requires you are shown [?] He's distributing that. And whatever Śukadeva was shown, in respect of the geography of the moment, he expressed that. [?], or that they may not be infallible.

_____ [?] When Arjuna was shown Divyarūpa, Viśvarūpa, what was that? That He's the controller of His subject [?] you cannot but have that sort of also. The master key is in His hand, of all of our experience. The jīva has been given some free will, very meagre free will.

Devotee: Mahārāja, to introduce this structure of the universe according to Bhāgavatam to the scientists, logical foundation...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Science is nothing. Science is part of misconception. What is science? A group of exploiter, and the worst exploiter. Exploiting from the mineral substance also. They will have to pay with interest. To every action there is equal and opposite reaction. One of their friends has given warning to them. And that is still held to be true, to every action there is equal reaction. This is not an anarchical world. Whatever you're doing, he will give his loan to you, action, reaction. You are not master to loot this universe, you human rogue, or we human rogue. This is not meant for our robbing. There is justice. So scientists are such robbers. They're showing their path of robbery.

Devotee: Mahārāja, in Bhagavad-gītā, Arjuna saw the Viśvarūpa, and divyaṁ dadāmi te cakṣuḥ... yogam... But Sañjaya is relating that to Dhṛtarāṣṭra.

[na tu māṁ śakyase draṣṭum, anenaiva sva-cakṣuṣā divyaṁ dadāmi te cakṣuḥ, paśya me yogam aiśvaram]

["By these present eyes of yours you will not be able to see Me. Therefore I give you supernatural eyes by which you can see My almighty, mystic power."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 11.8]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That was transmitted by Vedavyāsa to him. Vedavyāsa, as a yogī, he was awake on that layer, and he had the power of transmitting it to another, then Sañjaya could see.

Devotee: So are we to understand that Sañjaya may have been eligible to see that, or not?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sañjaya for the time being he was given. And when the war finished that was withdrawn. With the death of Duryodhana, Sañjaya had no power in possession, it was finished automatically. Only by the request of Dhṛtarāṣṭra. He had no eye, he wanted to have the information about the development and details of war. So Vedavyāsa by his yogīc power, he, for Dhṛtarāṣṭra, he inspired with peculiar power Sañjaya. And Sañjaya, so long as it was necessary for Dhṛtarāṣṭra, he got that special mental power, to see anything and everything. But as soon as the war finished Sañjaya was devoid of that power. That was withdrawn by Vyāsa.

Gaura Hari. Who is that gentleman? What is your name?

Devotees: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Satyavak.

Devotees: Viśuddha-sattva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Viśuddha-sattva.

Parvat Mahārāja: He's from the Bhaktivedānta Institute.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This has been repeatedly told what you are.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Myriad questions, the basis of spiritual faith.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, the different stages of development, abhidheya, sambandha, prayojana, are those also different stages of devotional service, like viddhi bhakti, rāgānugā bhakti, and higher?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course.

Devotee: Which one corresponds? Which one is contained?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Devotee: Which level of devotion corresponds with sambandha, abhidheya, and prayojana? Viddhi, rāga, like that, which is corresponding to these three stages?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not quite clear. Viddhi, rāga. Selflessness [?]

Devotee: [?] sambandha, abhidheya, prayojana [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] They're always present, only changing their phase.

Devotee: In what relation in corresponding stages do they have with viddhi bhakti and rāga mārga?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Viddhi and rāga. Viddhi bhakti we generally see constitutional position of the master. The master of the world, His cooperation with us guided by some law. Nārāyaṇa in Vaikuṇṭha. “This is our good. I get some special pleasure by His service, and so I do. The śāstra also encourages me to do this.” This sort of calculation in the servitor is present in viddhi. There is some awe, grandeur, some apprehension that I may not do it rightly. In this way, calculative devotion, calculative service. And in rāga mārga it is spontaneous, automatic, helpless, can’t exist but do. That is fully independent. That inner, _____ [?] in the body, maintenance of the body, some voluntary action and some reflexive _____ [?]

Devotee: Spontaneous?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The voluntary, “That I must use this, it will help my health. I must not use that, that will do harm for my body.” The voluntary. And when we put it into the stomach the process of digestion that is automatic, I can’t help it. Without my consciousness it is going on working. So in rāga mārga, without my calculative faculty, my voluntary faculty has not got much room there. It cannot but do. The internal, spontaneous energy works there. They cannot live but do their service. That is the position there. That is more natural, that is automatic, spontaneous.

And in Vaikuṇṭha, the sambandha is Nārāyaṇa Who is the Master of all the human conceptions. “We are going on with service, we are His servants. He’s our Master.” All these things.

But in rāgānugā, not that ‘He’s our Master.’ Sometimes the friends they’re climbing up the shoulders of Kṛṣṇa. Sometimes giving a slap to Kṛṣṇa. And sometimes Kṛṣṇa is carrying, is climbing on their shoulders. “We are equal almost.”

In vātsalya rasa Yaśodā says, “He’s of lower capacity than my... I must look after His welfare. He's destroying my face, I must punish Him." Such attitude is the real master in rāgānugā. It is arranged by Yogamāyā to give real and better pleasure to Kṛṣṇa.

Not master and servant, but lover beloved, in this way. That is the main thing there.

Devotee: So is there any connection between viddhi and rāga with sambandha, abhidheya, and prayojana, Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. There is sambandha, just like in ordinary sense. "He's my lover. He's my friend. He's my son." As we find here, something like that.

Devotee: So, now we can understand that in sambandha, rāga mārga can be achieved? In sambandha jñāna can one achieve the rāga mārga devotional service? [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. There is sambandha, prayojana. Sambandha means that, "Who am I? Where am I? What am I?" One's relation with the environment, proper relation with the environment. That is sambandha consciousness. There also we're in a world, the creator is Brahmā, so many gods are there. We are human beings. And he's my paramount, he's my son, he's my cousin. In this way I live in mundane world, that sambandha. But it is transcendental, and this is the mundane. This is the extension, the opposite, but couching almost in the same way. Adjustment very similar, very, very similar with this mundane world. But that is the highest, this is the lowest. This is self centred, that is God centred, he's self centred. But apparently that may seem self centred.

And apparently here it may be that I'm God centred. [?] And there, really God centred, but they think they have got their self interest. That is posing. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: [?]

Devotee: And abhidheya, what is the...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Abhidheya, they do not think it is abhidheya. Abhidheya, means to end. Here, just as, "Oh, I want to satisfy my friend Kṛṣṇa, by play, or by supplying some [?]

Devotee: Peacock feathers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tails of peacock, a friend is presenting to Kṛṣṇa. "Now I want to satisfy Kṛṣṇa. Please take this." In this way that is their abhidheya. The abhidheya has entered into the end. That is local abhidheya, the activity according to the relation between them, that is līlā, pastimes.

Devotee: Once that relationship has been established...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because they have attained - the train fare is not necessary, going finished, they have reached the goal. And there, if you want abhidheya, that is local transaction, according to the local necessity of that [?] That may be abhidheya. But they have attained and they're not passing through any way, or road. Reached the goal, and they have got their desired function. And their abhidheya means transaction, transaction in the perfect state. That is, you may call abhidheya, and abhidheya finished. Abhidheya in the sense of, applied here, that is to make journey from one place to another. That is finished there, that they have reached there. [?] transaction, so you may say abhidheya.

Devotee: So once the sambandha has been established, then acting on that platform is abhidheya?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is abhidheya, you may say. Not in the sense that 'means to end.' The end is attained. "And we are already engaged in līlā, [?] automatic, designed by Yogamāyā." In this way. And sambandha, not as master of the land, but as son, or as beloved friend. That is sambandha, permanent relationship.

Devotee: He also wants to know what prayojana is, Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And prayojana is also immediate. "I want to satisfy, by presentation, by my service." That is immediate necessity.

Devotee: In all the stages of bhakti, sambandha, abhidheya, prayojana, it is present?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It is, in its attained stage, it is placed to that līlā. Sambandha, abhidheya, prayojana, when the prayojana is in my hand, and sambandha is established there. And abhidheya, my relationship to Him is according to my movement, that is abhidheya. It is all in eternal and permanent position. When we are far off, then of course, what is that Himālaya? Some description. Then I'm to walk that side. That is abhidheya. And prayojana, "I can get their eyes, I can get their this thing, their creeper. I can get my health with cool atmosphere." That is prayojana. But when I reach there, that is also, I'm extracting, want to have my aim from there. That is prayojana. And abhidheya, I'm taking a walk there to keep up my health, abhidheya, prayojana. And sambandha, that this is a cool atmosphere. I have come and to recoup my health. This is being done ... I'm getting, my internal satisfaction is there. I may not expend on so much for satisfaction as I do.

In a friendly circle Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma, two parties they're fighting each other. And that fighting they're feeling satisfaction that they're achieving their object of life to the fullest extent, fullest expansion. They're fighting, mock fight, between the parties.

Once, Balarāma gave a slap to Kṛṣṇa. And Kṛṣṇa, He's complaining to Yaśodā. "My elder brother has taken Me mother."

Balarāma's name was put to shame. And then, what to say, after gone a little distance, "Yes, I did it, My affectionate brother. But should you complain to mother about that? I did before You. I might have done, that is through some affectionate anger. But what did You do? You put Me in very awkward position when You told it [?]

So Kṛṣṇa also putting it to see that it is the position of Balarāma. That is also a mood of enjoyment in service of Kṛṣṇa. In this way [?]

Ordinary things, but the type of bliss which they enjoy, that is quite different and perfect. Conjecture, somewhat, according to our inclination and our [?]

According to the degree of [?] one with Him, of common interest. That will help us understand the reality of relying on these things.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, the Spiritual Master, the Guru, to train his disciple he must teach them that he must respect the Guru could be as good as God. So what should be the basis, how should he understand, according to the Guru's position, his own internal adhikāra, how should he, what should be the basis for him, the level of worship and the amount of respect that the disciple should offer to him? What should be considered?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It has been recommended by the scripture. Their attempt, the advice of the scripture and the sādhus, the Vaiṣṇava, to raise the maximum faith towards Guru. As much as you are faithless it is very hard to get a drop of water from the stone. The baddha jīva is like a stone. To get water from the stone, so hard hearted baddha jīva, to draw maximum attention from him, it has been encouraged that:

“In My delegated agent, try to give your maximum attention of adoration. I am there. He's My agent. You take the full regard Myself. It will draw a life span attention.”

It has been said. But on the other hand there are relative positions. Madhyama adhikārī Guru, uttama adhikārī Guru, their position in the absolute sense. As so many agents, so many Magistrates, District Officer in charge, may be. “The rank is but the guinea stamp. Man is the gold for that.” So man and office, they're different, but still, the man should be taken as the officer. The relative and absolute, always there. The rank and the man, the gold and the stamp. Stamp is not ignorable, but man is also not to be ignored, under the stamp. Is it clear?

Devotee: Not completely.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Try to think it.

Devotee: So a madhyama Guru he should be careful to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. [?]

Devotee: When he wants to encourage faith, but...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Magistrate, he has to be careful that I have got the power of such limit. Within that I'm working. And he will rise to the upper authority when the special power is necessary. Some special power necessary if I'm to control this area which is full of your subjects.

_____ [?] The Magistrates position is that of Commissioner, Deputy Commissioner. Not the position of real, but Deputy Commissioner. [?] come to control an area of [?]

Such persons are also sent there to check the revolutionary activity in Bengal. [?] he was sent from the London centre every now and then, and he could do successfully [?]

He was the able man to deal with the revolutionary activity. Such special power one may have, the man. And the stamp is there. All Generals are not Napoleon, not Alexander, but they're Generals.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Perhaps Pramāṇa Mahārāja will have to go Vṛndāvana. Viraha Prakāśa Mahārāja will also follow? No? Or he will remain here?

Devotee: I think he will go to Vṛndāvana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He'll also go?

Devotee: Yes. According to your desire I will come back, and he may also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course dealing Mahāprabhu Himself I desire that you all return here. Is it too much?

Devotee: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotees: [?]

She's working with Yudhāmanyu Prabhu, so I think Yudhāmanyu Prabhu should do the introduction.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. And what she does there?

Devotee: Book distribution.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How long she has come to Swāmī Mahārāja?

Devotee: She's been a devotee eight years.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eight years back, she joined ISKCON. Very fortunate, of course. Is she American?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Something, it is before. There was an incident in some province of America. A group of Christians they committed suicide.

Devotees: Oh yes. Jim Jones. They had a so-called spiritual leader called Jim Jones.

Parvat Mahārāja: He put poison in everyone's 'prasāda.'

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The whole group committed suicide by taking poison?

Parvat Mahārāja: Yes. But they did not know that they were poisoned.

Devotee: No, they did.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They wanted that you must live in the land of faith, and we won't like to be disturbed by these demons.

Devotee: No. They want to live in a land of blind faith Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Devotee: Those people who committed suicide, they wanted to live in the land of blind faith, and not faith proper. Because their connection was with the wrong thing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] But they had got some sincere object. Sacrificing before their creed of spiritual faith. They, according to their position of realisation, they're dedicating themselves to the faith of their consideration. But from the absolute consideration their faith may not be perfect.

Devotee: And also Mahārāja, their objective, they were not proper Christians. They were an offshoot of some sort of self propounded religion, by this Jim Jones.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the conception of their religion?

Devotee: That I don't...

Aranya Mahārāja: The first point was that they accepted Christ as - they accepted the dogma of Christianity, but after a while it evolved to the point where Jim Jones, the leader of the group, said that he was God, that he was Christ, he had become Christ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The incarnation of Christ, eh? That he will come down here?

Parvat Mahārāja: They're waiting. Most Christians are waiting. The sky will open, and angels with trumpets, and then Christ will float down to Earth. And then from the grave...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He said that he himself was Christ. Then again Christ will come down. What is the rub?

Parvat Mahārāja: No. Another group, the big group, the Catholics, which are the biggest group, they're waiting for the sky to open, and Christ will float down, with angels with wings playing trumpets. And then from the graves of the cemeteries the dead will get their bodies back, reassembled molecules, and they then will be able to enjoy the kingdom of God here on Earth with their family and everyone. Those who believe in Christ. Those who do not believe will burn eternally on the fire of hell.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is a particular group, eh?

Parvat Mahārāja: A big.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A group. And they, with the absolute consideration, they're also a particular group, but how much transcendental faith, what, how much in their faith, that is to be measured. But they're better than these exploitationists here. Not much attachment with the object of exploitation. But they're unsatisfied with things here. They're searching after something. But that is not very - what they're searching after that has got no very clear conception. A hazy conception, a partial conception. But at least, no affinity in the world, towards things in this world of exploitation. They want relief from the present condition, and they're seeking, search after relief from the present condition, that is somewhat genuine. But the object, the aim, is not very clear aim, vague. That may be connected in some other position. The fullest conception they have not got. But this we can appreciate, that they're apathetic with this present environment. They're seeking for something which is not found here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...he destroyed his own eyeballs. And last, he had some attack of sense pleasure. From country he's going towards Vṛndāvana.

Devotees: [?]

Devotee: Now I read this?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Please accept my humble obeisances at his divine lotus feet. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Please excuse me for taking so long to write, but I wanted to include a fair donation. And recently I'm going to California...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Your pronunciation may not be understood by me.

Badrinārāyaṇa [?]: “But I wanted to include a fair donation. And having recently gone to California to visit Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja I could not afford to do so until now.”

So Mahārāja, here he's saying that he's sent you a donation.

“Thank you so much for accepting me as your disciple. I can honestly say that you have undoubtedly saved me. For without your mercy I would have surely remained in gross māyā. So many exalted Vaiṣṇavas, Akṣayānanda, Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā Dāsa, and especially Sudhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja, have been encouraging and kind to me. Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā Dāsa and I have been distributing prasādam daily in New York city to hundreds of people. I've been fortunate to engage even the karmīs in this service. Recently I acquired a beautiful set of Gaura-Nitāi Deities which I've put on my altar, and now daily I offer to Them the fruits I distribute, by your mercy. For spiritual instructions and guidance I've been relying on his divine grace Sudhīra Kṛṣṇa Goswāmī, who kindly keeps me enlivened in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. As a service to you and him, I have pledged to give him one hundred dollars a week donation to go for the printing of Your Divine Grace's books in English language. I am praying that some sannyāsī comes here to New York, as I have discussed with Sudhīra Goswāmī, plans to open a temple here in New York city for your glorification. Also in that way I will get the Vaiṣṇava association, also desperately needed. As you requested, I plan to see Your Divine Grace in Navadvīpa around the first week in October. I pray to be able to stay with you until the middle of November, just passed your Vyāsa-pūjā celebration. So I look forward very much at a time when I can take darśana of Your Divine Grace in the Holy Dhāma again. I can't express in words my appreciation for your mercy in accepting me and allowing me to be your servant as Deva Nārāyaṇa Dāsa. I only hope that through my actions I can serve you and somehow repay you for some small degree for the great mercy you have so compassionately shown upon this fallen soul. Gaura Hari bol."

_____ [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa. [?] He says, "For a long time I wanted to include a fair donation. And having recently gone to California to visit Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja, I could not afford to do so until now."

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja and Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa [?]: This letter is evidence Mahārāja, this letter is evidence.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, he has sent something?

Badrinārāyaṇa [?]: Yes, one hundred eight dollars.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa [?]: Guru dakṣiṇā is written, donation, Guru dakṣiṇā he has written on the cheque itself.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Badrinārāyaṇa [?]: And sent to Aranya Mahārāja, so there's no problem.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Aranya Mahārāja not here.

Badrinārāyaṇa [?]: No.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Where is Aranya Mahārāja?

Mādhava Mahārāja: He's gone to Paris, then London, then U.S.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Achar. Paris, London, then U.S. Anybody can sign, ha, ha, no problem.

Mādhava Mahārāja: You can try.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: It is general case. _____ [?] Anybody can sign. Then I'm doing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. So Bilvamaṅgala when going for Vṛndāvana on his way...

_____ [?] when he was taking bath perhaps [?] so many men and women came also to take bath in that holy day in the holy river. Anyhow he was attracted by the jingling sound of the ornaments of a lady, and then he looked at her face and felt some attraction for her. And so much that he followed her to her house. And he became a guest in that house. That man, he was a rich man, a vaiśya, merchant, of religious heart. He became guest in her house.

And when the householder wondered, "How I can satisfy you? Patichi [?] Nārāyaṇa, you are my guest. It is written in the śāstra that I should treat you as a representative of Nārāyaṇa. So you please order what sort of service I can render to you."

He told that, "At night I want the service of your wife."

The man was a highly religious type. "Yes. I shall do that." So he managed for his company. And at night also he asked his wife that, "You must go and serve my guest." The wife came.

In the meantime some change had come suddenly. He prayed, he begged of her, "I want some hairpin from the head, some pin used in the hair." And she presented. And with one pin he destroyed his eyes, eyeballs. [?] He told that, "These eyes are my enemies. They have drawn me here for the satisfaction of my carnal desires. So eyes are my enemies." He destroyed two eyes, and came out of the house, and started for Vṛndāvana.

Already he was accepted by Kṛṣṇa. He mentioned. In the beginning of course when - of course you know, the author of Kṛṣṇa-Karṇāmṛtam, a very beautiful poetic literature composed by him. And Mahāprabhu earnestly took then from the south to Bengal at that time, Purī. Karṇāmṛtam, it is nectar in the ears, karṇāmṛtam, Kṛṣṇa-Karṇāmṛtam. Kṛṣṇa as nectar in the ear. That is the name of the book he composed. He was very addicted to a prostitute. Her name was Cintāmaṇi. In the beginning he writes, cintāmaṇi jayati somagirirgurume, śikṣāgurusca bhagavān sikhi-pichcha-mouliḥ

[Kṛṣṇa-Karṇāmṛtam, 1]

One day when he was, he had his father's śrāddha ceremony, so it was late for him to come to Cintāmaṇi, prostitute. He had to cross a river [?] there was hailstorm, the river was overflowing. But anyhow he went, "I must come," and he managed to come. And he could not find any boatman there. He found a dead body is passing through the current and caught that dead body. And with the help of dead body anyhow he came on the other side of the river. And then came to the house of Cintāmaṇi, and the door was closed. Anyhow he wanted to jump over the compound wall. At that time he thought that a rope is hanging. With the help of that rope crossed the wall and dropped down, fainted.

Cintāmaṇi thought, "Every day he comes, but today it's not possible for him to come in such stormy night." But when that sound, from that fall from the high wall, she came with her maidservant. "What's that sound?" And found that man is there, fainted. Anyhow took him to her room and by nursing he came to senses. "How have you come in this furious night? And what is on your body? Rotten dead body, and rotten flesh also smeared on your body. A bad scent coming." Then she bathed him, cleansed him. “What is this? Human flesh, rotten flesh on your body. How did you come?”

“With the help of the rope I crossed the boundary wall.” “How? No rope is possible. That may be a serpent.”

Serpent entering his mouth in some hole, and he with the help of that apparent rope, serpent, he climbed up the wall, and swooning.

So Cintāmaṇi told at last, “That so much attention towards me, a fallen prostitute. If a portion, a part of this attention, concentration, you can devote to Kṛṣṇa, then you may attain how high life.”

And he struck to his head, “Oh, you have rightly spoken. A part of this energy is devoted for Kṛṣṇa I can get Him. So much concentration for this filthy action.” He got knowledge, conscience awakened, and he bowed down, gave obeisance to Cintāmaṇi. Got fortune, and left the house.

So cintāmaṇi jayati, “Through her Kṛṣṇa came to teach me, through the medium of Cintāmaṇi the prostitute, cintāmaṇi jayati.”

Then he went straight to Māyāvādī Maṭha, Somagiri, the Mohamed, and was initiated in Māyāvāda. Somagirigurume, went to Somagiri and got dīkṣā. But Kṛṣṇa, for his previous sukṛti, Kṛṣṇa wants to accept him, so he could not stay there for long time in the Māyāvāda philosophy.

Suddenly he felt within himself that the boy Kṛṣṇa, He’s such a beautiful boy. He’s looking at him in a playful mood, he was charmed. “What is this? I’ve never experienced such transcendental experience, supramental experience in my heart, in my mind. Most charming and beautiful.”

Then this Māyāvāda, Brahmavāda, was disturbed. This Parabrahma, he came from Parabrahma consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and started towards Vṛndāvana. Then on the way met that lady on the riverside and felt some transient tendency to enjoy her. Then when again the thing was presented to him he bowed down, showed his obeisance, and made himself blind, and started for Vṛndāvana.

And Kṛṣṇa was playing with him on the way, sometimes guiding him towards Vṛndāvana, sometimes flying away. In this way in a playful mood Kṛṣṇa is dealing with him.

And he told, once, “Kṛṣṇa, You are going away from my vision, eyesight,” as if he’s seeing Him. “But can You go from my heart?” A challenge was invited to Kṛṣṇa.

These are his writings. Anyhow he reached Vṛndāvana. And there blinded, self blinded, to his Vṛndāvana, and could see so many līlā.

Just as in the court of Duryodhana, when Kṛṣṇa displayed His aiśvarya, His majesty, spiritual majesty, then Dhṛtarāṣṭra offered, “Though I’m blind, but I pray for temporary vision, eyesight. Because I hear that Bhīṣma, Droṇa, and other Ṛṣis are praising like anything Your beautiful sight, darśana. I want to get a glimpse of that rūpa, figure, colour, all these things I want. So temporarily, You can do anything and everything, temporarily relieve me of blindness.”

Kṛṣṇa told, “No necessity of removing physical blind eye. But I say that you will see Me, you will be able to see Me. Now see.”

In the blind eye Dhṛtarāṣṭra could see.

So what does it mean? That to see Him does not require any physical eye. Only by His free, sweet will, if He says, “Yes, see Me,” as He told to Arjuna just before he’s seeing, “You see as you like.”

Arjuna told, “I want to see that figure of You as You related so long to me. I’d like to see that face.” Then Kṛṣṇa, “Yes, see Me, I am such, so and so.”

Arjuna could see.

So any vision, any hearing, anything, experience of the transcendental substance, is independent of our physical body. Physical eye cannot see, physical ear cannot hear, physical hand cannot touch. But when He descends in the plane of our consciousness we feel as if with this hand I'm touching, with this ear I'm hearing, with this eye I'm seeing.

When He came first to see Dhruva, Dhruva in meditation found Him, His figure. Padma pada locan. But when that was more intensified then he opened his eyes and found that very figure there.

He comes, the adhokṣaja, that feeling comes from up to down in the mental plane. And then more intensified in the physical plane. It comes from up towards this plane of experience. It's not created in the plane of our sense experience, but comes from up, from the transcendental to soul, from soul to reason, from reason to mind, impulse. And then more intense then eye can see. The feeling is very much intensified. And that becomes physical vision. Comes down, not any external. I'm seeing Kṛṣṇa here, but if anyone from outside comes to touch Him, he won't find anything, he won't see anything. Not touching. I have seen. So coming from up towards down.

The other day I told I found in a paper, one Frenchman, French scientist, he says that, "The colour does not exist outside, it comes out of the eye." So all the things what we feel in the physical plane, everything comes as produced by the corresponding indriya, that is senses. The colour is produced by the eye. The sound produced by the ear. In this way, the taste produced by the tongue. It is not outside. And my mental faculty, mental principle, is more intensified we feel, "Oh, I am seeing concrete things, what is coming.” Then again withdrawn. From the centre it is coming outside, and centre is withdrawing. The world vision is like that. The subject is there, and the subject what we feel to be physical, all our sense experience is evolved by within, from subtle, more subtle. The subtle is producing the gross. Guṇa-pravṛddhā viṣaya-pravālāḥ.

[adhaś cordhvaṁ prasṛtās tasya śākhā, guṇa-pravṛddhā viṣaya-pravālāḥ adhaś ca mūlāny anusantatāni, karmānubandhīni manuṣya-loke]

[“Some of its branches extend upwards (in the planets of the demigods and celestial beings), some of the branches extend downwards (in the planets of the humans, animals, and lower species), and its mature (three modes of) nature and aim and object (of sound, smell, touch, taste, and form) are its fresh, young shoots. Some aerial roots also extend downwards, to take root in the land of exploitation, within the human plane.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.2]

In Bhagavad-gītā, fifteenth chapter it is mentioned. Just as a tree, the branches spring up. From the seed how it will sprout, it is coming. And viṣaya means the object of senses, that is just like branches of tree, it is coming forth. Coming forth from in to out. So the whole world has sprung up from the subtle. From ether air is produced. From air heat is produced. From heat, fire, water is produced. From water earth is produced. From earth evolution, the stone, the iron, gold, everything is produced all from the subtle the gross coming out. And ether comes from mind. Here the difficulty. Time, space, all coming out of the mind, the thinker. The thought is coming from the thinker. These are all objects of thought, coming out of the thinker. The object coming from the subject. Subject has introspection, but object is dependent on subject. Guṇa-pravṛddhā.

And sattya, raja, tama, prakṛter guṇa, equilibrium. Equilibrium disturbed in three ways, sattya, raja, tama. Then by mixture. First in three phases, then three mixture, inter mixture, so variegated nature things have been produced. From peculiar Brahmaloka, Virajā, almost equilibrium stage. And from equilibrium there is some shivering, compound, the wave. That wave is coming in the process of creation.

“Let there be water.” There was water. “Let there be air.” There was air. The sankalpa. He thought to design and destine. He thought to create and the creation began. Here everything as the prime cause reserved, in this way.

Not that the fossil is producing consciousness, but consciousness - fossil is a part of consciousness. Everything is a part of consciousness. Consciousness is a huge ocean, and there everything is floating, and when withdrawn everything gone. The Brahman sleeps, the virāt-puruṣa, when He’s sleeping nothing remains. When He awakes, just as when we awake from our sleep, our previous memory of world comes out. When we’re sleeping nothing remains. In sound sleep nothing remains. When I wake then the world of my conception and previous day, or before I slept, all this consciousness coming gradually in me, part by part. Again I’m in the table of breakfast, in the table of my official table, again repeating. But when I was sleeping nothing remained. So as in the individual case, so it is in the universal mind, the whole world. When it is sleep everything nothing. As our body is a part of this physical world, our mind is a part of the great mind. As our mind is withdrawn in the sound sleep with my world of experience, so the greater mind in which my mind is a part, when He’s in sleep all these ideas vanish in Him.

yadā sa deva jāgartti, jadedam ceṣṭitam jagat [yadā savṛti-śāntātmā, tadā sarvvaṁ nimīlate]

[“When the jagad-puruṣa, or universal form of the Lord, falls asleep, then everything naturally falls asleep along with Him. Then there is no more creation, no more external activity because all are dissolved. And again, with the awakening of Him, everything becomes active.”] [Manu-saṁhitā]

Everything vanishes when that great mind goes to sleep, whose particle is our individual mind. The great mind, just as the great physical thing controls our body, if earthquake, or tempest, hurricane, cyclone, then these bodies may be handled by the greater, bigger thing. So when that great mind in which our mind is a part, according to His movement our small particle mind is brushed away by Him into sleep, deep slumber. A part of the slumber of that great mind. Our intelligence is also a part of that great intelligence, bigger intelligence. Our soul is a particle of that great soul. This may not be unreasonable. We can think out in this way. [?]

Deśa, kāla, pātra, the space and time is the factor of thought. When thinking began, then came necessarily, the idea of space. Deśa, kāla, pātra, three things, three factors, indispensable necessity for this creation. The person - the figure, and the space, and the time. Time and space and a person within. Deśa, kāla, pātra, filler of these come, of space and time. Without that no thinking is possible, no thought is possible. Thought means there must be space, there must be time. And when dissolution all enters into mind. No mind, no space, no time, no thinker. All together.

Hegel also told, the Berkley theory was refuted, and Hegel's Ideal Realism. “If I think that there's a dollar in my pocket, will it be?” And he answered, “That in universal mind this is there. Not that everything is within my own mind, but it is in the universal mind.” What we say, that if I die, still all these things will remain. That means, remain in the universal mind, virāt-puruṣa.

And Manu-saṁhitā says, “When He sleeps everything disappears, including all of us, who are in this mundane connection. And who has transcendental life, their case is another thing, they're in svarūpa śakti, they're under the ruling and regulation of that land.”

Anyhow, the controller, the highest controller, is supreme consciousness, of experience. Experience means greatest part, almost everything depends on consciousness. External sensations, perceptions, all dependent. A thing means perception of a thing, by eye, or by touch, or this, a cluster of perceptions. Everything what we experience in this world, all cluster of perception, sensation. And the whole based on consciousness.

The Master, the King of the conscious world we are to search for. No engagement here. The cause, the prime cause has different stages of mind. There's gradation of course. It's all spiritual. The land of beauty and love. We are to withdraw there, svarūpe sabāra. Back to God, back to the centre, home. Not only consciousness. Consciousness is a middle way to understand, like a, I'm going a long way and there are so many hostels on the way, so consciousness in the way, to go to the land of love and beauty, to the land of Kṛṣṇa. First, consciousness we must cross, and then we shall find sweetness, ānandam, rasam. Ānanda is controlling, not consciousness. Consciousness is the basis. But our real hankering of all of us is for happiness, ecstasy, ānandam, rasam. Rasa, beauty, is controlling, and that can satisfy our inner hankering. Even not jñāna, consciousness. Consciousness is not the integer, what to speak of this material energy. Even consciousness cannot satisfy our inner hankering for satisfaction, for happiness, for sweetness, for love, for beauty, for mercy. Such a thing we want. Really, if diagnosis, the inner analysis of our heart, we're all hankering for sweetness, for rasa. But we're wandering, running hither thither for that rasa, but frustrated we come back with a slap on our cheek, coming back. Going for rasa but frustrated with a slap, coming back. In this way wandering endlessly and dejected by the forces of the external nature, hither thither. But won't find thing proper.

Now the agents from the high level they come to our relief, anyhow consciously, unconsciously, inject some sort of such news. And that accumulated creates some energy that I must go back to my home. We are told that our home is such, our fortune is connected with such form of life. We must retrace back there. That is the campaign of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. That is the Vṛndāvana, happiest domain, and that is the most extensive that includes everything. That is not a part, but this is a negligent part of that infinite world, infinite ocean of sweetness. All may be accommodated there. So recruitment from that, and now we're trying to be so many agents for the recruitment of the misguided conscious units, so many jīva soul. On the whole, this is our campaign. And in details we are to consult so many treatises of the spiritual scholars and help us.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

It is not idolatry, nor hypnotism, or sentimentalism, devotionalism. It is concrete fact. As much as we want happiness, and we're searching and thinking we're getting by this money, or this woman, where we're being frustrated. What is apparent, that is not real. We're being deceived in such way, all through our life more or less. So such guidance from the conscious friend of my life, that endeavour to recruit us back to home. Come to senses, come to normal position, come to home. You are all misguided like a mad crazy man, running hither thither for happiness, for pleasure, but not getting it, this is the common. So wild goose chasing, the scientific researches are trying to furnish you with more comforts of this transient type, flickering type. That is the opposite direction, inviting you to give more comforts by the help of this gross conception. That is [?] not real thing you'll find there. You will have to go inside. Home is necessary. You are being carried to the foreign land, dependent on foreign things for your happiness. But real happiness does not depend on the supply of these physical comforts. It is within. The road from within, it is independent thing. The stone, the electricity, cannot produce comfort for you. Which can give you comfort, that is superior in comparison to you who are seeking, who is searching, like a crazy man for comfort. That comfort is holding superior position to you, not inferior in the nature that will give you comfort. Your thirst can be satisfied, fulfilled, only from the higher region, not from the lower. You are mad to find it in the lower, in the fossil, you are trying to find your comfort.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Mahārāja, we can develop attachment to the things we experience because there is some impression, some sense impression, we develop attachment for them. But how can we develop that same attachment for Kṛṣṇa Who we can't experience?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, you can experience. Just as your eye experience and ear experience is not one and the same, so your soul experience, your most precious aspect is your soul, and in soul experience you may have Him. You cannot have experience, the sound experience you may not have with eye, nose experience, there is different, so soul experience is different from the experience of your senses. So soul may have such high experience, not all souls, in all stages, but it will have to soar up. Just as through the senses the eye come to a beautiful thing then I got some pleasing sensation. So soul will have to go there through devotion and then he can draw that sort of ecstatic experience there. You can get it. First the name, the sound aspect, then in proper culture of the divine name, the sound, you will get the rūpa, the colour, figure.

Namna svano anta kala sudha tama vikram sujay ante karme rūpa saysye bhavati [?]

From the sound will show its colour, its figure, its beauty. Then, [?] Then afterwards you will be able to come in contact with the quality. Then, [?] Then we find by the law of relativity so many parikaras, and so many parṣada, so many servitors around Him. And then with all these mixed it will be produced, you will find the līlā. And His beauty, His quality, His friends and the action between them. The action reaction with the beauty, with the quality and the paraphernalia, then there must be some relation, transaction, the līlā. [?] And you will find you have got a particular place in that. And you will be in that harmonious movement of līlā, automatic pleasure trip, playful life. In that dynamic harmony you will have a part to play, and you will find your heart is fulfilled with joy, overjoyed, in that harmonious movement you will find yourself overjoyed. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Mādhava Mahārāja: So one cannot get that attachment until he has that experience of Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, attachment, before that you have any experience before you come to the discovery of electricity. Many things you have to do in expectation. Then you reach to the fact, is it not? Before you reach to any research you have to do many things. Then you can reach to the stage of finding any life. So also, here also preliminary things have to be done, śraddhā, sādhū-saṅga, śravaṇa, kīrtana, bhāva bhakti, all these things, then in prema bhakti you will come to find experience. When you reach the stage of prema bhakti you will have direct experience. Before that, preliminary activity you will have to do to find out a new thing.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Mādhava Mahārāja: There is one scientist, his name is George Wald, Nobel Laureate, he's a good friend, we're good friends. He has done his research on vision, to try to study what it means to see. And he has studied all the chemical processes that is involved in vision. But he could not answer the question what it means to see. From the chemical processes he could not understand what it means to see.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, that is see, then hear also, must be similar, then every experience of this world is similar. Then nothing is solved, all mysterious. So we shall have to go back to the seer to find what is sight, what is seeing, we shall have to go back to the seer and to define there, analysis, the research will begin there. The sun ray, the heat is producing so many wonderful things here. But if we are to, the influence of the sun ray on different stone and earth and water, then we shall have to go to the sun, what is the quality of the ray which is producing all these things here. The source in germinal form, what is there. The seer.

Mādhava Mahārāja: There's another story of the scientists. They have this saying that seeing is believing. If you see something, you can believe it. So one scientist wrote an article called Believing is seeing. Because there was one time...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: At the back of seeing there is believing, otherwise you need not come here to see. First faith then you come take the trouble and then you put it and if not then you put some spectacle, if not then microscope, then you see. But the back is your will, the seers necessity. Believing, faith, śraddhā begins. Even the mundane, what to speak of the spiritual, permanent, in the small temporary transient things, fleeting things, faith is presupposed, some sort of belief. Then you can come to that thing. Then whatever will be attained, how much faith is necessary to retrace that to the cause, prime cause. In Upaniṣad:

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati

["Enquire into that upon knowing which, nothing further remains to be known. Try to achieve that upon gaining which, nothing further remains to be gained."]

The backbone of Upaniṣad is there. There is something, by knowing Him we can know everything, if we get that, we get everything. Such key of life, key of solution is there. By getting one thing we can get everything. Sometimes in the war, one is trying to capture the leader, the king. By getting him captive, he may demand anything and everything, you give all this. If owner is captured his property is captured thereby. Something like that.

The master, the controller of the whole, if I know Him, by His sweet will everything happens. By that principle I can know, I have known everything. What of that mystic man, that magical man, whatever he likes to do that comes to exist. In this way. The designer and the destiner of what we see, if you can find the designer of this world, of the whole and who has got the destiny also in his hand. If we have Him, we have everything within. Have the master, then we have the property. Something like that, in this way.

That is the way through which we shall march on our future success. Yasmin vijñāte. There is one, if He's known, everything is known. Now whether it is possible at all or not. Upaniṣad says, revealed truth says, it is possible that if one is known, everything is known, it is possible. And accept this. Just as if food is put into the stomach, whole body is fed. Then if the central position, to help us, our understanding, put water into the root, the whole tree is fed, how it is possible. Put food into the stomach the whole body fed. How it is possible? So central truth is there and if you know that, if you have that, you have everything. It is possible. If we can find the real centre, we find everything. It is possible. This is revealed truth, extended to you. Try this way. Yasmin vijñāte.

Chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.21, & 11.20.30]

The whole misgivings will be cleared, all doubts will be cleared if you come to such general knowledge. The knowledge becomes so much universal in general, that if you get it, the key, you can command everything.

The central truth is such, everything coming from Him, the controller, all controller. Everything is By Itself and for Itself, and die to live. By Itself and for Itself. Nothing for you, you are for Him. Find out your master. You are for Him, everything for Him. He's by Himself and He's for Himself. And we are all for Him, secondary position. What to do? This is the nature. You are to accept that, or you are nowhere. You must accept, you must have to swallow this bitter pill, that everything for Him, we are part of His līlā, the bitter pill. Otherwise, nowhere. Run hither, thither, like so many goats and jackals, no peace. This is the fact. Everything for Him. You are a part of that, you accept that you will be happy. How much happiness you can consume, you, a particle of consciousness, you will get more than that. If you be in harmony, you can't earn your livelihood, but join as a coolie in a big farm, or a big capitalist in industry, you will get more than your bread. Something like that. And if you detach from that, you can hardly earn your bread, you are fasting. But join that industrial company, you will earn more than your bread. Something like that. Accept the harmonious work of the universal world, no misery. No misery, you will find ample.

Mādhava Mahārāja: So Mahārāja, a thought, thinking, any particular thought that we have seems to be independent. How can we understand that it is part of a bigger mind?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Independent has got its characteristic.

Diseased independence is independent. Independence has got its nature, this is independence. Independence is not madness. Independence proper that will find within its own scope, how much independence. A part cannot claim the independence of the whole. So independence in his own jurisdiction, he must get that, what is independent. And now we are found prey to our senses, not independent. This is not independence what we call that this is independence. This is a diseased thing, aspect of independence. Independence proper that will go to its own respective free position. And this is our diseased independence. Independence, what is this? One independent man is approaching another, attacking, consuming another independence. Everyone should have independence. If independence I want, then everyone has got that aspiration. My independence encroaching on the independence of others, that is diseased independence, not healthy independence. Healthy independence must work together, and must have limitation, and must have connection with higher harmony. We are searching for independence, that is to encroach over other rights, others independence. To destroy others independence that is meant independence proper. Do you follow? What we conceive at our present stage as independence, that independence to harm others. Exploitation, more exploitation, means more independence. That is diseased independence. That is not independence proper. I want independence, you want, he wants, everything will be independent. Then must be harmony, cooperation. That will be healthy independence. Independence and rowdyism is not one and the same. We should be educated to aspire after real independence, svadhinata. In Sanskrit, independence, the priti [?] śabda, the word independence in Sanskrit, svadhinata. That is submission to ones own soul, not slavery to the senses.

kamadinam kati na katidha [?]

My lust is drawing me towards something, my anger is drawing me towards another, my greed is drawing towards another thing, in this way. The senses they are our masters and they are quarrelling with each other, my condition is very hopeless. I'm not independent. So many senses, so many different inclinations, they are drawing to that direction. I'm their slave.

karnadinam kati na katidha palita durridesas [?]

And also another śloka in Bhāgavatam. In exhibition it was shown that a man is there and six sense pleasure is drawing him, one this side, another that side, another that side. In this way he's helpless. So what we think to be independent, that is to lord it over the other independence. That is not independence proper. That should not be. That encroaching the independence of others, that is not independence proper. To acquire mastery, Lord Śiva with the other things, they have got their independence. I have no right to destroy that. So the more power of exploitation is not independence. Here independence means to increase the capacity of exploitation.

Mādhava Mahārāja: That's not the question I was asking Mahārāja. I was asking like this, that I am thinking something different, and Badrinārāyaṇa is thinking something different, and Nādia is thinking something different. We are all thinking something different, so how can we understand that we are part of one mind?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So you are thinking, that thinking must be regular, normal, that may not be misled, misguided, then there will be clash and a reaction, and you will have to suffer. Must be a harmonious movement. Our aspiration must be towards harmony, independence, aspiration. What is independence proper we are to understand.

Independence here, in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, independence ends in slavery. You are to conceive this.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Yes. I see. Yes. Your Hegelian reasoning again.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How? This sort of independence, so 'ham, anyhow the Māyāvādīs they have got much reverence for independence, and they merge it in something, non-differentiated area. Rather, “We don’t want anything but we can’t give independence to anyone, rather we shall sleep, we shall die. But we can’t give up independence to anybody.” That is Māyāvādī.

But Vaiṣṇava conception that independence to slavery. So slavery of the highest infinite, there I get more, maximum. I get maximum. If I come to realize this truth that I am a part of the whole. I am not master of the whole, that is mania, madness. That is not independence. To understand this concrete truth that I am a part of the whole. So my independence must be part of the independence of the whole. So consequently I must utilize my independence in accordance with the harmony of the whole, of the outside. That is healthy independence.

The reactionary school is Māyāvādī. “We can’t give independence to anyone. Rather we shall commit suicide in Brahmaloka.”

The independence seekers are exploiters in this mundane world, action, reaction, and withdrawal from that in the Brahmaloka, no existence of one’s own, what to speak of independence. But the concrete and realistic view of independence, that I’m independent, he’s independent, all independent, the absolute independent I must be, my independence should be a part of the independence of the whole. So I must cooperate with them, I must submit to the supreme independence. That will be normal, healthy, wholesome thing. Otherwise this is madman’s, what is not, what cannot be the fact, we are after phantasmagoria. That in the name of independence I can be master of the whole. Then how I can be independent? This is impossible. Must come to a realistic way of thinking. So many independent must live together. And it is possible that all will enjoy independence if they are in a common harmony. Who is representing that common? We must be, in other words, should be slave to Him. By submission we can get maximum independence, submission to the centre.

Gaura Sundara. Gaura Sundara. So no more today. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Jaya Om Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa
Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad His Divine Grace Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...whatever may be. That means to accept that ultimate cause is an autocrat, but He's the highest good, highest good autocrat. If one can accept that, connection with that truth, that conception of truth, his attainment is highest. Then also again there is gradation. That is a separate thing. There is Goloka conception, [?] conception, automatic, ekantaka, kevala. In Bhāgavata it is also kevala, kaivalyam.

sarva-vedānta-sāraṁ yad, brahmātmaikatva-lakṣaṇam vastv advitīyaṁ tan-niṣṭhaṁ, kaivalyaika-prayojanam

[“This Bhāgavatam is the essence of all Vedānta philosophy because its subject matter is the Absolute Truth, which, while non-different from the spirit soul, is the ultimate reality, one without a second. The goal of this literature is exclusive devotional service unto that Supreme Truth.”]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.13.12]

A continuous automatic flow, an eternal flow, to find out within us the plane within of automatic flow towards the centre, the absolute good, autocrat. And there is also quality, this śanta, dāsyā, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya again there, kevala. Kevala means tan-niṣṭhaṁ, kaivalyaika-prajojanam, kaivalya, independent of any [?] kevala stage. No cause, no effect can be traced, infinite flow. And that is the deepest foundation of all existence, that automatic wave, nirguṇa. That is ahaitukī and apratihatā, causeless and irresistible.

sa vai puṁsām paro dharmo, [yato bhaktir adhokṣaje ahaituky apratihātā, yayātmā suprasīdati]

[“The supreme occupation (dharma) for all humanity is that by which men can attain to loving devotional service unto the transcendental Lord. Such devotional service must be unmotivated and uninterrupted to completely satisfy the self.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.6]

The Bhāgavata announces in the beginning, what is bhakti, what is dharma, śreṣṭha dharma, what is the prime duty, most supreme duty of us all. Sa vai puṁsām paro dharmo. That is our highest duty, paro dharma. Yato bhaktir adhokṣaje. Our submission to the unseen, to the undistinguishable, by our present position, senses, adhokṣaje. Ahaitukī apratihātā, that must be causeless, no expectation for any reaction, or any benefit, ahaitukī. And that has no reason and rhyme, that is eternal flow, to join that plane, apratihatā, that can never be resisted, irresistible and automatic. The most fundamental flow of this whole world, gross and subtle, is that plane, that flow in the plane, the deepest and that cannot be stopped, cannot be challenged, it is automatic and ahaitukī. And that gives its own explanation, not responsible to any explanation to anything else. It is automatic and irresistible. To join that is our paro dharma, Bhāgavata announces. Sa vai puṁsām paro dharmo, yato bhaktir adhokṣaje. That indistinguishable, unseen, imperceptible at your present position. Towards that, towards infinite, connect yourself with the infinite. The infinite has got the deepest flow; that is irresistible and automatic, and you must join that. That will be your highest duty. Think of it. That is absolute good, absolute beauty, absolute love, absolute charm, mercy, whatever good you can conceive, that is the root of all. You connect with that deepest flow in the universe, not these superficial external things. Exploitation, then renunciation, then submission [?] As much as deep, deeper your realization, you will find all these things. Sa vai puṁsām paro dharmo, yato bhaktir adhokṣaje, ahaituky apratihātā. Indistinguishable, direct words are indistinguishable infinite. Try to connect with Him, that irresistible plane of the whole.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] As much as you will be able to make progress, you will have experience of that. And that is belittle this mundane experience, param dṛṣṭvā nivartate.

[viṣayā vinivartante, nirāhārasya dehinaḥ rasa-varjam raso 'py asya, param dṛṣṭvā nivartate]

[“Although the person of gross corporeal consciousness may avoid sense objects by external renunciation, his eagerness for sense enjoyment remains within. However, inner attachment to sense objects is spontaneously denounced by the person of properly adjusted intelligence, due to his having had a glimpse of the all-attractive beauty of the Supreme Truth.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.59]

The charm of all these base things, outer things will disappear. You will find newer and newer charm, and your attraction for these gross mundane things will vanish, paraṁ dṛṣṭvā nivartate, in Bhagavad-gītā. The higher thing you will be able to realize, and your attraction for the lower things will disappear, will vanish automatically. Misconception and the world of conception also there is gradation.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, does the material energy, the prakṛti, the lower energy, does that have sometimes any reflection of the higher intention or the spiritual energy?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is perverted reflection, prakṛti, here we find a reflection but perverted.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Should one pay much attention to the way circumstances come in ones life? Should one pay much attention to the material energy?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are you, your name?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: This is Vidagdha-Mādhava dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you say?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Should one pay much attention to circumstances presented by the material energy? Is that some indication at any time, some indication of the higher purpose, the spiritual energy?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To certain extent as much as it will help the progress towards the spiritual, so much help we may take from our paraphernalia. Present paraphernalia should be utilized for higher realization, everywhere. We should take advantage of our present position, wholesale, where there's yukta-vairāgya. Even food, even rest, sleep, all these things in the midst of which we find ourselves at present. We shall take advantage of them in such a way that may help me most for my going up. That sort of utilization we shall accept, yukta-vairāgya. Everything may be utilized, even what may seem to be a danger, undesirable, tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, everything has come.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatim tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

If sincere, so many difficulties will also come to help us, to test us. Difficulties will come but we can utilize them also for realization of higher purpose. Not only favourable things, unfavourable things also may be utilized for our progress.

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam hṛd-vāg-vapurbbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When [Bhakti Saranga] Goswāmī Mahārāja was preaching in London, when Prabhupāda passed away, some differences of management came in the disciples. So he had no money or collection even there. He was a good collector when he was in India. He was known to so many chiefs also as the Secretary of Gauḍīya Mission.

One day he found that, he told, not a farthing he had, that to put that into the box and then gas will come then he'll be able to cook something. No money.

But he _____ [?] in a near park, he's taking the beads, counting the beads, and loud voice chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa on beads. Suddenly he found that in that park there was so many shrubs _____

[?] he found something _____

[?] there on the earth. He came, and after removing the earth he found a Śrī Mūrti, small, and he took it to his quarters. And from the scriptures, śaṅkha, cakra, gadā, padma, then according to Caitanya-caritāmṛta [Madhya-līlā, 20.221-239], Siddhārtha-saṁhitā, he came to see that Deity was Vāsudeva, according to the arrangement of the astra, śaṅkha, cakra, gadā, padma, according to the arrangement of the hands. Śaṅkha, cakra, gadā, padma. Then śaṅkha, gadā, cakra, padma. In this way the difference made. So according to one arrangement of the astra is following that is Vāsudeva. Then he began to worship.

Then that very day he came back, nothing to eat. But suddenly the maidservant that used to brush the, and wash the residencies, she came with a paper. That was given [?] but when he took out the other letters then that was left there.

And that woman came with that, “Is it for you Swāmīji, is it?”

Then he saw, “Oh, Yajavara Mahārāja has sent a cheque for one hundred pounds.”

He wrote letters to so many chiefs already acquainted with him, and Yajavara Mahārāja responded with a hundred pounds he sent in cheque. Then of course he was satisfied. At that time he had no money at all in his bank. He went to the bank to cash it.

And the bank said, “Yes, the cheque - but you are that Goswāmī? How I’m to know? Some identification is necessary.”

Then, already he gave a lecture there with Lord Zetland in the chair. And so many other respectable men also were present in the meeting. Suddenly he found that a copy of paper there in, and he brought it and showed it him. “Is this sufficient for my identification?”

Then he said, “Oh, you are this Goswāmī?” “Yes.”

“Your appearance and the name, of course it will do.”

Then of course in the bank the cheque was cashed. In foreign land, and penniless, he had to experience such conditions there, Goswāmī Mahārāja, the founder of Gauḍīya Saṅga.

He took sannyāsa from me, first sannyāsī disciple is that Goswāmī Mahārāja. He took sannyāsa from me. He was my senior God-brother. After the departure of our Guru Mahārāja, first sannyāsa was taken by him, from me, and next, Keśava Mahārāja.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. He was very brave and affectionate, Goswāmī Mahārāja. Single handed he could fight with many, hundreds, such powerful [?] he had in himself.

Once I say, he's asking a man in Andara [?] "You should give something for the service of Kṛṣṇa." "I have no faith in all these things."

"No, no. You should do, give something at least." "No, never."

"I must take it from you, then I shall leave the place. I don't go without doing some good to you." "How you can take? It is my money. If I don't pay, how can you take?"

"I must take. I won't go. I must do some sukṛti to you. I have come for that."

So fighting going on. I'm standing on the side. He's also white clad, I'm also white clad at that time. With curiosity I'm wondering, what the man says it is true. The money is his, and if he does not pay, then how he can get?

But still he says, "No." Protesting. "I must take, then I shall go. Without that I won't go. You are a pāṣaṇḍa and I must do some sukṛti to you. I shall open the door for you." In this spirit he's troubling, fighting.

And so many men flocked there. And after hearing they all pressed that man. "Only give something. You know he's representing a particular institution, and they're doing some service. Why you are so much determined that you won't pay a farthing? Give something, give something."

Then by their pressure the man is giving, he handed over to him. "And not one rupee, I'm taking one lākh."

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Hari bol!

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because it is very difficult to give you any sukṛti, to create sukṛti for you, so Kṛṣṇa will endow me spiritually because I'm ready to give some sukṛti to you. Such type of atheist you are."

In this way. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Did he give the lākh?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Gauḍīya Maṭha people they have come not to beg, but to give. They want to give something, and only formally they take something, but really they come to give something most valuable. They want to make connection with the divinity, the highest type of divinity, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Their determination is to connect anyone and everyone with Kṛṣṇa consciousness in any way or other. That is their achievement, not an ordinary beggar, that one paisa, two paisa, or one lākh, two lākh, whatever they get they're satisfied with the money, no. They come to give, with this consciousness. Energy is being wasted. Energy is directing you in this mundane world, and all the resources are up, down, action, reaction. But connect with nirguṇa world. Connect with saguṇa, the entitlement of the sattva guṇa world, connect with nirguṇa, the permanent plane. That connection we give of his sukṛti, to give connection to the people with the eternal plane of love divine. That is that, anyhow. Hare Kṛṣṇa. We must be conscious of that. Otherwise, what is indispensable, that is, the connection of those agents with the genuine source, that is all important factor. The connection with the transcendental [?] what is of inconceivable character.

[yasya nāhaṅkṛto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate] hatvāpi sa imāḥ lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate

["He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer's consequences."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.17]

If we can find connection there, then our transformation may be of such order that if we kill, if we destroy the whole of the brahmāṇḍa we're not affected in any way. The connection with such a plane, which can take us to adjustment with such great happiness, great events. That what to speak of destroying one jīva, one animal, or one man, it is nothing. If you can destroy the whole creation you will remain unaffected, by the great grace of that... such plane is there. And we're to have connection with that plane of life: Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The vilāsa is so, that destruction is life, that is so. The destruction is life there. The destruction in the ordinary sense that is also life giving to the proper essence that are being destroyed. They're amply benefited. Dissolve with death. Death we're facing every moment, every life. Where is life there is death. But such a death which can kill the death itself forever, such death is there. So that is desirable. That is help to the died man, and so the man who is the cause of such death, he also gets uplifted. It is possible. It is such. The cause of harmony is of such wonderful character that it may be such. And how, by approaching towards Him we'll be charmed to find His way, that of wonderful stride, adbhuta-kṛāma, Urukṛāma. His strides are wonderful, unthinkable, unknown and unknowable. His stride, His padaki. Wonder.

How much of the environment we are acquainted with is nothing, posing.

["Some see the soul as astonishing, some describe him as astonishing, and some hear of him as astonishing, while others, even after hearing about him, cannot understand him at all."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29]

None can finish. At every step he feels wonder, and still he has no finish, no end. Feeling, wonder of wonder, wonder of wonder, and no finish. Such engagement, such is infinite. Kṛṣṇa is such. Kṛṣṇa is such.

The Brahmās have come, and the Brahmā of this brahmāṇḍa when he went to see Kṛṣṇa in Dvārakā, Kṛṣṇa asked the mediator, "That what Brahmā, which Brahmā has come?"

The Brahmā was astonished. "Which Brahmā? Then there are other Brahmās also? Say that I'm father of Catuḥsana, and four-headed Brahmā. You just inform."

Then he went. "Yes, you may take him in."

Then Kṛṣṇa, in his temperament he saw that so many Brahmās are gathered there. And they're hundred-headed, thousand-headed, million-headed Brahmās are there. He's seeing Kṛṣṇa as well as those Brahmās. Other Brahmās they do not know anything.

So I say, the basis is that of hypnotism. The whole creation is His hypnotism.

This Brahmā can say, other Brahmās they do not say. They say that, "Kṛṣṇa has come in my brahmāṇḍa, and He has called for me for some necessity." That's all. But this Brahmā he's seeing that all, because he enquired that, "Which Brahmā, what is the meaning of which Brahmā? Are there any other Brahmās?" So wonder.

*naumīdya te 'bhravapuṣe taḍidambarāya, guñjāvataṁsa-paripicchala-

["I offer my prayers unto You, O praiseworthy Lord who are the child of the cowherd Nanda. Your complexion is the dark blue colour of a thundercloud and You are clad in silk garments that shine like lightning. Your charming face is adorned with guñja-mālā ornaments, and Your hair is decorated with a peacock feather. You look beautiful wearing a garland of forest flowers, and that beauty is enhanced by the morsel of food in Your left hand. You carry a buffalo horn and a stick for herding cows tucked beneath Your left arm. You hold a flute and other emblems, and Your feet are as soft as a lotus."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.1]

Brahmā, when he had first suspicion that, "Who is He, this boy, this cowboy, who is He? His ways are very questionable. His movement is in such a way He does not care for anyone. He's within my brahmāṇḍa but He does not care to know me even. What is this attitude? Who is He? He's not Nārāyaṇa. Only above me there is Nārāyaṇa. His ways and manners I'm a little accustomed with. But this boy is not that Nārāyaṇa. Then, anything can exist over Nārāyaṇa it is impossible. Then, what is the matter?"

So to test Him he took away the cowboys and also the calves, and putting them somewhere else in the cave, he has again after a year has come to see the devastation and despair, how He's doing. Then also he found, yes, as he found, first, the same position, after one year he has come but he's finding there He's in the same position, with the rod under His armpit, and with some morsel of His food, He's out as if in search of His friends and the stolen calves, in this way. And everything is going on as it is.

Then Brahmā, “What is this? Then have they come back without my notice?” He again attended the very cave, and they’re there, as he kept them they’re there. Then he’s, “What is this? I stole and they’re all deposited here. And still, when I go there everything is all right, no harm.” Then of course he was perplexed and fell at His feet.

“I could not recognise You my Lord. And what fault on my part? You have come to play such a plain part, how one can believe You, that You hold the greater position even than that of Nārāyaṇa? But whatever I have done I want to be pardoned.

Naumīdya te 'bhravapuṣe taḍidambarāya. You are venerable entity I have come to know. I bow down to You. Te 'bhravapuṣe. Your body is like that of black cloud, 'bhravapuṣe, black cloud. And that is some mystic representation. Black is generally, cannot be detected, but taḍidambarāya, but Your dress of yellow colour helps us to know what You are. It is carrying some similarity, bearing, with Nārāyaṇa, pīta varṣa. The black body and the yellow dress, that gives some hint towards the personification of Nārāyaṇa, Viṣṇu. Taḍidambarāya. You are unknown and unknowable, Yourself, but Your dress, Your potency, makes You known to us by this, You potency. The colour of Rādhārāṇī, the śakti, Your own potency, that is of yellow colour. So Your greatness, Your magnanimity, Your nobility, Your beauty, charm, can be known through Her.

Naumīdya te 'bhravapuṣe taḍidambarāya, guñjāvataṁsa-paripicchala-sanmukhāya. So many plain things are ornaments to You. In our consideration what is gorgeous and of splendour, You don’t find anything about that here in Vṛndāvana. But in Vaikuṇṭha we’re accustomed to find those things. But this is a new plane where You have come to show Your play. Here we find we come across a new conception very wonderful, plain and charming. Plain yet attracting to the most. Guñjāvataṁsa-paripicchala-sanmukhāya. With simple things, ordinary things, You have decorated Yourself. But it is so extraordinarily charming we find there, it is impossible to understand and to describe.

Vanyasraje kavalavetraviṣāṇa-veṇu. Rather they’re trying to show Your most ordinary position of a cowboy. Which is a negligible position in this world, creation. But in such a position so wonderful and charming, all attractive figure, hypnotising us. Kavalavetraviṣāṇa-veṇu. Lakṣmaśriye mṛdupade paśupāṅgajāya. And Your movement is very slow but sure, mṛdupade. Your movement is such that You don't care for anything else in this world. Though in a very simple and lower position You are, but Your gesture, posture, Your outlook, Your movement, You don't care of anything in this world. Such mixture with plainness and the highest conception of things mixed, garbed, dressed in a very plain thing, it has given me a very nice and very wonderful expression, charming. Such things of ordinary value may be so charming.

Being creator also, I fail to understand. What is this creation? I'm proud that I created so many things in the world, but I'm lost to see the beauty of the environment here. What is that? Lakṣmaśriye mṛdupade paśupāṅgajāya. Movement is slow but sure, and beautiful. Mṛdupade paśupāṅgajāya. You may be the son of that human being, even that who keeps the cows. Not very high status in the society, or in the scripture. But is this Your personality wherever You can go You can make it to hold the highest position? What is this? Mṛdupade paśupāṅgajāya. Whoever You be, my vanity is expired, defeated. Defeated to You I am taking refuge. I surrender. Please help me understand what You are really." In this way Brahmā surrendered.

Madhvācārya, he in his conception of Ācārya mentality, he could not harmonise with this brahmā- vimohana chapter with Guru, the Sampradāya Guru, the first inaugurating Guru of the Sampradāya, Brahmā-Madhva-Sampradāya. So Madhvācārya has omitted these two chapters of brahmā-vimohana from Bhāgavatam.

But Mahāprabhu He did not. He accepted Śrīdhara Swāmī's edition, belonging to viśuddhādvaita- vāda, of Viṣṇusvāmī, rāga-mārga. They're followers of rāga-mārga, the Viṣṇusvāmī Sampradāya. The branch of whose is Vallabha Sampradāya at present, many in number, specially in the Gujarat side, the Vallabhis. Vṛndāvana also found New Gokul, a New Dvārakā, they have established, the Vallabhi School. They're followers of rāga-mārga. Śrīdhara Swāmī belongs to that section and he has accepted those brahmā-vimohana two chapters in his book and has given his commentary. Mahāprabhu accepted that, caritāmṛta, there we find mentioned.

But Madhvācārya he could not accommodate that how Guru may be seduced. How? He's always, he could not tolerate that Guru may not know everything, may not be omniscient. He could not accommodate this idea, this Madhvācārya. But Mahāprabhu did that.

Because we, our Guru Mahārāja used to tell, "We are worshippers of sonhood of Godhead, not fatherhood. Not the extreme point, as the creator, or as the controller, but sonhood, that He's in the centre. He's not in the circumference anywhere, His position. And not from one side He's furnishing everything, creating everything He's at the back. No. He's in the centre. That is the conception of Bhāgavatam, sonhood, consorthood, healthy expression here, He's there. And His extension, His vaibhava, is emanating from Him, going outside, all around, going around all sides. He's at the centre. So the father is controlling Him. Mother is abusing Him, punishing Him. He's also shown to fall at the feet of His beloved. That also we are to accommodate, and why, what for? The prema, the love divine. That can make Him such. So how highly precious thing that love divine is. After liberation, then the service of calculation, and then at the highest plane of whole creation, of whole world, eternally, reigns the love, the prema. And that all emanates from one personality, Śrī Rādhikā. Emanating just as rays, light emanating from the sun, so She's at the centre and with Her extension of all types. Baladeva one hand, supplying the energy, the existence maintaining at the background. And the ecstatic side is controlled by that particular potency which can make the absolute independence a ball in the play of Her hand. So it is inconceivable, it is incalculable, it is such.

hṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ]

[The Lord tells Durvāsā: “I am the slave of My devotees; I have no freedom apart from their will. Because they are completely pure and devoted to Me, My heart is controlled by them, and I reside always in their hearts. I am dependent not only on My devotees, but even on the servants of My devotees. Even the servants of My devotees are dear to Me.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63]

“Yes, I am. I have freely accepted this subjugation of My devotees. Yes Durvāsā, I have got no independence of My own. The bhaktas, the devotees, their treatment towards Me is of such wonderful way that makes Me subservient to them. It is so charming, so loving, that bhāgavata prema.”

Pañca-puruṣārtha, the fifth end of life, and Mahāprabhu came with that news to this plane. Nityānanda Prabhu. What is prema, love divine? How powerful, how charming, how wonderful. And we may have the taste of that nectar, and life also in that ocean of nectar plane, living in the waves of that plane, ocean of love, ocean of nectar. That is our highest object.

The personality can be maintained. We should necessarily not dive deep and lose our own personality, individuality, it is not necessary at all. But prema is of such nature. Amar leta ami [?] You are living, but you are living on His behalf. The wholesale converted into His service. A wonderful thing. You can keep your personality, still, for the interest of Kṛṣṇa, of the Whole, of the Absolute. No selfish, no separate, no conception of separate interest, separate existence. The merging not physical, this mortal merging, not losing individuality. Merging, mayātmabhūyāya ca kalpate vai.

*[martyo yadā tyakta-samasta-karmā, niveditātmā vicikīrṣito me
tadāmṛtatvaṁ pratipadyamāno, mayātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai]*

[“One who is subjected to birth and death attains immortality when he gives up all material activities, dedicates his life to the execution of My order, and acts according to My directions. In this way, he becomes fit to enjoy the spiritual bliss derived from exchanging loving mellows with Me.”]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.29.34]

Tato, viśate tad-anantaram.

[bhaktyā mām abhijānāti, yāvān yaś cāsmi tattvataḥ tato mām tattvato jñātvā, viśate tad-anantaram]

[“By the potency of that supreme devotion, he is able to completely know My nature of Almighty Lordship and majesty. Thereafter, acquiring the perception of his divine relationship with Me, he enters into a group of My intimate personal associates, whose nature is non-different from Mine.”]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 18.55]

“They enter into Me. To Me means I am person in My family, among the circles of My friends he enters. Viśate tad-anantaram. Ātmā-bhūyāya ca kalpate. He becomes as if My own. That means without losing your personality you can be fully My own.”

It is living merging not physical and dead merging into Brahman. That is prema. It is above this original conception of merging into the, to lose oneself into the consciousness, as compared with our suṣupti, the sound sleep, not that. Very sweet. We may be lost in swimming in the sweet ocean, ocean of sweetness.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

So Mahāprabhu has accepted. Our Prabhupāda once told one Parvat Mahārāja enquired.

“When Rādhārāṇī left the rasa līlā, seeing, looking, tracing, that all are dealt almost equally. Equal treatment to one and all, that did not satisfy Her. All are of same value. So She suddenly disappeared. There was a competition of singing, dancing, to please Kṛṣṇa in a wonderful, transcendental way. And Rādhārāṇī at the last moment She showed Her skill in all these plays, pastimes, and suddenly disappeared. And Kṛṣṇa He was engaged in that combined singing and dancing and suddenly found that Rādhārāṇī is absent. So He left the whole and left for search of Rādhārāṇī. And met Her in the way.

And when after going for some time, Rādhārāṇī told that, “I can’t move, I can’t walk more. If You like to go somewhere else You are to carry Me. I can’t move.”

Then Kṛṣṇa disappeared suddenly.

This question was put by Parvat Mahārāja to our Guru Mahārāja.

And Guru Mahārāja answered, he was a little disturbed to hear such question. Apparently here the disregard of Rādhārāṇī, so he could not tolerate such question even. He could not tolerate by his nature. So much partiality towards Rādhārāṇī that he was not supposed to hear anything against Her, as if.

He told, “What do you find about devotion here?” In a mood, a rather exited mood he answered Parvat Mahārāja. “What bhakti do you find here, that you have asked, put this question to me?”

Rejected. He could not tolerate even such enquiry.

This came to me. I tried to find what Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written as his translation of this śloka. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has harmonised in this way, that Kṛṣṇa wanted to experience, “In such stage, if I vanish, what will be the mentality in Her?” Only to experience that event He did like this, to enjoy that sort of circumstance, helplessness, and the dark night in the jungle, how She can fare, what can be Her attitude, to enjoy, suddenly. Then of course He came in.

But Prabhupāda, our Guru Mahārāja could not tolerate even. “What is devotion? Then where is devotion? Devotion proper to be traced where? Devotion is there in its flying colour where the Absolute becomes subservient to the devotee. When the positive becomes powerless near negative. The negative is so powerful that the positive, as if, losing its existence separate. Something like that.

And that is in and out of our conception of infinite.

Devotee: In and out [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Absolute good. Absolute good is the deepest existence, finest, and all- controlling, and we must have connection with that. That is Goloka, that is Kṛṣṇa consciousness proper, in and out of everything, everything within Him. Everything is floating in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. And Kṛṣṇa consciousness is absolute goodness and beauty. And we are to connect us with that plane through our soul by the help of the divine saints.

Devotee: And everything is preserved for the Lord Kṛṣṇa Himself.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, but suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ.

["I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshipping object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshipping Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

"But don't be frightened that I am all in all, because know sure that I am your well-wisher, your guardian. You are represented in My heart. *Suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati. I am friendly to you all, no apprehension on any [?] And if you can realise this, you will find peace in your heart. That all controller is my guardian. I am represented there where the all-controlling agency. Suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ. I am all controller but I am friendly to everything, to every atom, no apprehension."

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: “Only you can attain peace of mind at that time when you can take it that the all-controller is my friend. This is the only way to get peace of heart. The all-controller, He’s all good and He’s my friend also. Then no apprehension, you can go, move, with your attention towards Me that I am friend to you. Then you will be more attentive towards Me, to your friend, the all- controller who you have come nearer to nearer.”

All the revealed truth expressed in scriptures are so many cows. And the dogdhā gopāla-nandanah, and the cow milking expert the gopa, his son is milking the cow, the Upaniṣads, the revealed truth. And the gist of the revealed truth is distributed in Bhagavad-gītā, the milk. Pārtho vatsaḥ sudhīr bhoktā. And Arjuna as a calf, he, on our behalf, he made arrangements to get it. Sudhīr bhoktā. And the real scholars they are to partake in that, to be satisfied. Love is such a thing. Affection is such a wonderful thing that can control the Absolute, infinite to the finite, and that is devotion, bhakti, sevā, service, that can do impossible, possible, what is that? The infinite is controlled for the interest of the finite. That is possible by devotion. Śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā. That part of the universal function is devotion proper where we find that infinite is thinking in giving to the finite.

Prabhupāda told this. "Where we find this function, that is bhakti. That is devotion proper where finite gets the greater facility, or greater position over infinite. There is bhakti."

Wonderful. So how should we hanker after a drop of devotion? With what earnestness we should hanker for a drop of devotion, nectar, that forces infinite to serve finite?

Mādhava Mahārāja: ...Sometimes we find that even if you give much affection, to a finite being, he still may go away, he still may reject you, even if you give much affection. So how is it that we can capture the infinite by affection?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ke bolchen? What does he say?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He's saying, "You can give so much affection to the living entity, to a person, but that person may go away. So how is it that if we are trying our best to give all our affection to the infinite, how is it that we can capture Him?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

When I came first to join the Maṭha I was posted in Kurukṣetra, Kurukṣetra Maṭha in charge. At that time one sannyāsī disciple of Prabhupāda he went to visit Badrinārāyaṇa. A letter suddenly came for me that, “If that sannyāsī comes to stay in the Maṭha, don’t allow.” I’m a novice, he’s a veteran man, about more than fifteen or twenty years service in the mission, and I am perhaps six months.

[?]

I was perplexed, what should I do? I’m a newcomer, only six months, and another of twenty years experience sannyāsī, I shall oppose him, I shall not allow him to enter the Maṭha compound. That came to me.

Another gentleman was of three years experience. I told him that I’m only a newcomer. This order you try to carry out. Please [?]

“No. I worked under him for many years. I can’t do so. You have not such obligation allegiance.

Especially the letter is in your name, you are Maṭha commander. So it is your duty.”

And the Mahārāja also came in. What to do? I took the letter, gave to his hand, he read it. And he loudly began to abuse the secretary who wrote the letter, that Kuñja Bābu, this Tīrtha Mahārāja of Māyāpur, Bhakti Vilāsa Tīrtha.

With him there were others, three or four. “Oh, say, Kuñja Bābu’s treatment.”

“Only for few days I went to have the darśana of Badrinārāyaṇa and I am punished, I’m not to be allowed entrance into the Maṭha. What sort of injustice it is?” In this way he began abusing.

Then I asked, just approached him, Mahārāja, I’m very much frightened. Why? If your experience, your service, serving life of fifteen or twenty years comes to such conclusion, then I’m a newcomer, what hope I have got, what prospect I have got? So it was discouraging me to the extreme. Why should I live here? I have got no prospect here. Because after fifteen years or more serving he was in such position that not to be allowed to enter the Maṭha compound? How is this? I am puzzled.

Then the opposite thing came from his mind. “No, no.” He came to encourage me. “No, no, no, why should...” He was abusing the authority, now he came to support the authority. “No, no, no. The substance is like this. A man may not pass the higher examination, but that does not mean that who is a successful candidate in the lower class, he will not be able to pass that higher examination. I may fail, but why should you fail? You must go enthusiastically and energetically. You may pass over. I may fail. Such is life.” In this way he came to me.

This took me to another world of conception. What is this? A sannyāsī, a renunciant, he will go to have darśana of Badrinārāyaṇa, this [?] etc. and that is a crime, dealt as crime. Then what higher things are here in service under the direction of Guru Mahārāja. That is so high.

And not only that, later on he was punished, and he was degraded from the post of sannyāsa to vānaprastha, Badrinārāyaṇa dāsa. His sannyāsī title was taken away and he was degraded to the position of vānaprastha, Badrinārāyaṇa dāsa.

He went to commit the sin of going independently to see that Badrinārāyaṇa. With that remark_____ [?] At least in my mind that was a revolutionary thing. What sin did he commit, so great sin that he’s punished in such a way?

So there must be very high thing in the service, in carrying out the order of Guru Mahārāja. It is so high. And gradually I came to find out [?] Work under the direction, under the guidance of a Vaiṣṇava, that is more, more high than independently to seek what is good for us as a master, ignoring the higher existence of the dictator, Guru and Vaiṣṇava etc.

And it is possible by their own karma, in the case of Mahāprabhu also. What Kālākrṣṇa dāsa was a companion of Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu came and rejected him.

By chance coincidence such things sometimes to help the understanding of the others, and sometimes [?] seen that nearer persons for some time tried to remain in connection and then going away, and new persons coming.

Satsvarūpa who has written a biography of Swāmī Mahārāja, he has also written that many who came to him have drifted by the wave of ocean, and again innumerable number, newcomers came to his feet, in this way. Some elimination and some acceptance. In this way it is going.

Mahāprabhu also told to Rūpa Goswāmī, “Physical nearness is not nearness proper. By anugatya, by our our submission, the soul can be near only by submissive connection, not by physical nearness.”

So the example has been given, the bugs in the bed, and also lice in the head, very closer physically. But mentally or spiritually how far they are? So physical connection should not be reckoned as real connection, physical nearness. Nearness only by submission should be calculated. Physically may be far away, but if he’s submissive to a particular, he’s near.

Rūpa Goswāmī after his training in Allahabad asked Mahāprabhu, “Please keep me along with You. I can’t tolerate Your separation.”

“No, no, you are always with Me. You are always with Me. You just go to obey Me, to be near to Me. Now I say you have got much work to do. Go to Vṛndāvana and work as I have directed [?]

_____ [?] nearness to live in the same level, same plane.

So we find something like that. Nearer, come near, going away. Near means, what sort of near? By living physically in a different place one can be near. So, union in separation, it is leaning towards that. Physically separated, mentally separated, but still in soul it may be very near.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Union in separation, that is proper union. That can never be severed by any other waves that are coming in.

Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

So this is the world where the culprits are being sent, and here we have come to find sādhū.

Devotee: [?] Different category of prisoner.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Different class. [?] by the charm of the sense experience, that is prisoner. Prisoner, the word may be insulting, but when we say, who are captured by the sense pleasure, there we use the name of prisoner.

Then everyone will say, ‘Yes, it is all right, something, no objection. Yes, we are captured by the sense pleasure. We want sense pleasure. We want exploitation. We can't deny that we are exploiters.'

_____ [?]

Always we must energise. We [?] And to energise means, only to keep up ones position means, that is a nuisance to the atmosphere, devouring so many things. Everywhere there is life. Even the creepers, even the seeds of the paddy, there is also life. And they are devouring. So always we are creating nuisance to this plane. Our existence means exploitation. And we are being victim of the reaction. So how we are in a laudable position? We are committing suicide. Exploitation means we are bound to be exploited again by them, action-reaction. In the world of action-reaction, action is pleasing, reaction of course must be painful. And we are living there in that plane. How we can admire our present position. A sensible man can never do that. Living in the fools paradise. When we appreciate our present position. Only the appreciation should be that we have got the key to get out of this prison house in our hand, in this human birth. In this human birth we have got the key to get out, if we utilise it properly. After then, we can go out of this prison, the vicious circle we can go out when we have got this human birth, if we can utilise this. Otherwise the world of action-reaction.

["The living being must be delivered from the dark well of material life by means of the mind detached from sense objects, and he must never in any way be flung down into the material world by the mind enchanted by sense objects - because the mind is sometimes his friend, and in another situation the very same mind is rather the enemy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.5]

bandhur ātmātmanas tasya, yenaivātmātmanā jitaḥ [anātmanas tu śatrutve, vartetātmaiva śatruvat]

[“For the soul who has conquered his mind, his mind is his friend and well-wisher. For a person unable to control it, his own mind remains constantly engaged in his disservice, like an enemy.”][Bhagavad-gītā, 6.6]

One who can control himself, he’s his friend. Anātmanas tu śatrutve, vartetātmaiva śatruvat. And if we cannot control us then we are our enemy, we are our own enemy. Almost all of us are our own enemy in the way in which we are living here. The process we have accepted of our living, we are enemy to our own self, because we are incurring debt, exploitation. Without exploitation we can’t maintain our present position, this body. And that is making loan, loan in the nature. And that must be paid to the farthing. So we are living a life of spiritual suicide.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Connect with infinite. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja. Just as... So you were saying this sannyāsī fifteen, twenty years experience and yourself six months, new in the...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was given some punishment, then again he was admitted.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes, but you were telling, “You are acting in this capacity fifteen years experience and you are discouraging me, what chance do I have to succeed when you have so much experience and you have not succeeded?” My question is this, the present leaders of ISKCON, they have rendered so much service to Śrīla Prabhupāda, our Swāmī Mahārāja, so much service, and yet...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So much service, what is service proper, that should be analysed and known. What sort of service, apparent and service real, there must be some difference. May come to a sādhū not only with the purest purpose, but there are baddha jīva, fallen soul, many sorts of elements within us. So one thought is predominating, some small sukṛti that connects me for some time, and then again that is finished, or I may be, having once connection, of course it must not be lost.

nehābhikrama-nāśo 'sti, pratyavāyo [na vidyate svalpam apy asya dharmasya, trāyate mahato bhayāt]

[“Even a small beginning in this devotional service cannot go in vain, nor can any loss be suffered. The most insignificant practice of such devotional service saves one from the all-devouring fear of repeated birth and death in this world.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.40]

For the time being it may take far from, after, for long time, or short time, I shall again have to come back. Service proper, that is very rarely found, very valuable thing. Many things within us. Some good sentiment, holy sentiment, pure sentiment, that took me to a sādhū. But there are other things also, tendencies in the mind that may predominate and that may misguide me, more or less. Those that have come, they're cent per cent purified, we should think that.

In his time also so many came and went away. Why? When he was present personally then also coming and going, and after he has passed away they may deviate to some degree, no wonder.

When he was living I was told that Tamāla Kṛṣṇa asked him, “When I shall do the work of the Ācārya, should I?”

Then Swāmī Mahārāja told in a tape. A mice was living in the vicinity of a ṛṣi, he was going to be attacked by a cat. When he complained, he was blessed and he was transformed into a cat. Another day dog is attacking that cat. And he complained to ṛṣi and he made him dog. Another day one tiger came to attack the dog and he was taken to the notice of ṛṣi and he turned him into tiger. Then that tiger one day came to devour the ṛṣi. Punar mūṣika bhava, again be a rat at once.

I heard that Swāmī Mahārāja asked that Tamāla Kṛṣṇa, that you have already as a tiger when you have come to devour me, you have to resume position of a rat. That you come to be one with your master, this sort of evil idea has taken you down in that rat conception. So this was also to be told by him during his presence.

So many came, so many gone, and difference also. The GBC's opinion and my opinion was not always congruent, some difference. Still, what we are to do? But in general way we are to go by the resolution of the GBC. That does not mean that that holds the highest position of realisation. Not binding to one and all. One may commit right and wrong, a body also may commit right and wrong. Because it is a body of ten, twelve, or hundred, so it is faultless, it is infallible, that cannot be. Because the British parliament has taken a resolution, so it cannot be faulty, that cannot be.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: But again it comes back to, what is my prospect? If this is the result for their sevā, for their service, what is my prospect? I am a newcomer. They are so many years experienced and they have agreed like that. So what is my prospect?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Your prospect you are to think out of that, you are responsible for your prospect, ultimately. You are to think of that, and you are free to adjust yourself in different ways, in the way in which you can prosper. That is your caitya Guru. Always try to follow your caitya Guru, your direction you get, you must do that.

Did I tell you to leave the Maṭha, desert, abandon the Maṭha of Tīrtha Mahārāja? And not only that but only few years after to construct another Maṭha. And this Maṭha was constructed by Prabhupāda. And antagonistic in opposition to Prabhupāda's Maṭha only few years distant you construct another Maṭha for competition. What is this? A filthy-minded man. Body. But I want to serve under the guidance of a Vaiṣṇava. I'm concerned with a Vaiṣṇava, and not the resolution of the Governing Body. Governing Body means the property governed under the body. I have no charm for that property, so I don't like to go by the decision of the Governing Body. I want a Vaiṣṇava under whose direction I want to serve Mahāprabhu. My problem is this. I don't care for your government. I'm that type of man.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We must be sincerely searching after truth, kṛṣṇānusandhāna, what is my object of life, the search after Kṛṣṇa. Wherever, which direction I find Him I must go that direction. I shall try at least. Kṛṣṇānusandhāna, we are out to search for Kṛṣṇa. That is our only aim of life. Whatever direction my inner Guru, caitya Guru, will guide me, I'm after that.

'Go this direction, there is Kṛṣṇa.' 'No, Kṛṣṇa is running that side, I shall run that side.'

In this way my only object is to find out Kṛṣṇa, where is He, I want to have Him, kṛṣṇānusandhāna. And He's not a static substance. He's of extremely dynamic character.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: My all object of life, every time, everywhere. Only to find out which side Kṛṣṇa we can expect to find, that should be our guide. Where to be traced, where to be traced most, about Him. We must run to that side. Not pinned down with any space. He's the spiritual attractor. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The mercy that was shown to Uddhava, that was mentioned in connection with the highest grace of Kṛṣṇa, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, not Vāsudeva. And also the chivalric nature, in hero, there should be some heroic nature. And that requires this sort of doing away the opposition. So some are of opinion no Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, Kṛṣṇa, in Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa. It is His līlā but this is to be differentiated. There are two functions, they are not of the same nature, one negative-positive, that sort of difference, direct-indirect. But it is a part of the līlā with the gopa and gopī, in relativity to that. He's presenting Himself as a hero. That nature requires some sort of such display, so should be a part of the līlā.

Devotee: So all the līlā that took place in Vṛndāvana, that's all Svayam-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa. Yes.

Devotee: Then Vāsudeva Kṛṣṇa is in Dvārakā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Mathurā-Dvārakā. The Nārāyaṇa means Śeṣaśāyī. Vṛndāvana is a place where He Himself tried His best to take the form of Nārāyaṇa but could not retain it when Rādhārāṇī came there.

When the other gopīs also approached Him, "Oh, He's Nārāyaṇa. Please accept our obeisance and grant the boon that we may have our love, loving service towards Kṛṣṇa, passed away."

But Kṛṣṇa could not retain His four-armed figure of Nārāyaṇa. He was forced to come to His original position there as Kṛṣṇa.

We are to understand that hero and heroine, to part a play of hero...

to drive away the opponents or disturbing elements. That should be a part and parcel...

...

But that is not His positive affectionate nature. Only by the indirect process He can manage all this, removal of the obstacles in the way of union.

Baladeva is also there. He also managed to do away with some other troubles. There was perhaps three was removed by Baladeva Himself.

_____ [?] we have seen there. To kill, to remove the difficulties of the world management, that is not the function of Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa. What is necessary for the administration, bhuvan haran, the necessity of the administration of the world at large, to remove the demons, that is not connected with Kṛṣṇa. That is the duty of Vāsudeva. But what is necessary for the background of His loving play in Vṛndāvana, that is connected with His highest personality, and connecting in the negative side.

It is necessary that the heroic nature of the hero can establish Him in a higher, good position and that is under special attraction of the heroine group, heroine and Her group. It is necessary. A necessary part of a hero that He will do such deeds which will attract the heroine and Her part. Such bravery is necessary in the hero, indispensable, to capture the charm of the beloved section.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Also we have been given to understand that when that sort of attempt comes from Svayaṁ- Bhagavān, a least attempt can produce a very big result.

In Rāma Avatāra He had to fight, sometimes defeating, sometimes being defeated, after much struggle He's becoming successful.

And in Vāsudeva there is also some sort of fight: Jarāsandha coming and defeating Kṛṣṇa, several times He's going away.

But in Vraja līlā slightest attempt [?] most minimum energy He's doing a very big thing. And those that are enemies in Vṛndāvana they are also of very high power than ordinary state. But very neglectfully He's removing these things, playfully. Not in a challenging mood, fighting mood, but playfully, very negligent way they are being killed, removed. All these things. Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. All in the nature of play He's doing. The āśura was not less powerful there, so in mild form there placed. All part of His play.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

sāṅketyaṁ pārihāsyāṁ vā, stobhaṁ helanam eva vā [vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam aśeṣāgha-haraṁ viduḥ]

[“One who chants the Holy Name of the Lord is immediately freed from the reactions of unlimited sins, even if he chants indirectly - sāṅketyaṁ

(to indicating something else as in the case of Ajāmila who called for his son by the Name of Nārāyaṇa), jokingly - parihāsyā, for musical entertainment - stobha (to use the Name with some other intention; Jīva Goswāmī has taken advantage of this in his book of Sanskrit grammar, the Harināmāmṛta-vyākaraṇa; when one is playing the mṛdanga drum, using the Names Gaura Nitāi, Gaura Nitāi to represent different drumbeats), or even neglectfully - hela (when we are rising from bed in the morning sometimes, we may neglectfully say Hare Kṛṣṇa; in this way we may cast off our indolence). This is accepted by all the learned scholars of the scriptures.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.2.14]

These four types. Neither aparādha, nor śuddha Nāma. Neither exploiting tendency there, nor serving tendency. That in a marginal position, mukti, the stage of liberation it may come, nāmābhāsa. Its object is like that. Nāmābhāsa mukti, not sevā prapti, that is the goal, mere liberation.

Just as the evening or the morning when the sun does not rise, sandhyā, slight dark, neither dark nor day, something like that. Not this side, that side, the middle position, nāmābhāsa.

The sound aspect of the Lord, that contains all other things. Just here the sound is the most subtle. In Vaikuṇṭha, sound, that is the most gross thing. And then the rūpa and other development are more and more subtle than the inner conception, inner representation.

The gandha which is the grossest in the here, the quality of the earth, gandha. Śabda sparsa, śabda, sound in ether, sparsa, in the air, rūpa [?] in the fire, rasa in the water, and gandha in the earth, the grossest, and there this gandha is the finest. Perverted reflection, the opposite there.

In Caritāmṛta it mentions Mahāprabhu is experiencing the gandha, in the very last developed stage He's showing like that, gandha, kṛṣṇa āṅga gandha [?]

Vague, and that's a concrete thing, tangible, to have experience of Kṛṣṇa in the most tangible form, that is the highest stage of realisation. Sound Kṛṣṇa is very easily approachable. Then rūpa, the beauty, in this way it goes up. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja, sometimes you speak of service proper, or real service. What is that service proper, what is that real service?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That has got real connection with Kṛṣṇa, more accurate...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Does it have anything to do with sādhana bhakti?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not siddha. Real service is in siddha stage. When before that attempt of service from far. Svarūpa siddhi realisation is final, but still there is a barrier, fine barrier. Only at vastu siddhi, so much intense. It is told that where the līlā is going on in this brahmāṇḍa there you can have chance of participating direct. Then only we can have in touch with the reality. Before that more or less theoretically.

But there is gradation and it is only possible through the Vaiṣṇava. So we are requested, the stress is given so much, do under the direction of Vaiṣṇava, Guru. You cannot have any direct connection. Your direct connection is vague and abstract. But if you do under the direction of a Vaiṣṇava, because he has got the real touch, so your attempt will fetch more value. It helps touch with the direct thing, direct. And yours will be more or less imaginative character, your bhajan. So we are requested.

Sometimes we can't appreciate that. 'Why should I not approach direct? Why so much stress is given, do it under the direction of a Vaiṣṇava?' Very much stress is given here. Always try to do under the guidance of Vaiṣṇava. Service means under the guidance of the higher agent. That is the purpose. Who is...

Devotees: Mādhava Purī Mahārāja. Dāsarātha Sūta is here also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm. Ha, ha. The real touch with Kṛṣṇa, that means a great revolution that can play havoc. Man cannot stand the direct connection in his position. So that should be tempered.

Just as in the steel, different quality of steel, very hard and soft steel also there. The iron is being melt by the heat, and the pot which holds the melting iron, that is not being melted.

So, not in that rough way, that the Vaiṣṇava who can stand to be at the direct touch of the waves coming from Kṛṣṇa, that's made up of another metal, not this metal. And gradually that may be hard steel. We have to make hard steel, a process, or preparation for that.

So the eyes, nose, everything, the ears, should have got training of higher, finer type, that they can catch and they can tolerate that wave, catch and tolerate, stand.

Mahāprabhu showed that when He got darśana of Kṛṣṇa on the way back to [?] how the whole system was turned into madness. In the [?] of a madman.

So mean that, “Kṛṣṇa I can't tolerate. I can't tolerate My existence without that sort of vision again. My friends, show Me that thing. I can't retain Myself without that.” [?]

So the vision is controlling the visitor, in such a way making him mad. To stand to that wave, that requires that sort of body, formation, everything. This, our ordinary mind cannot stand that, so,

[maj-janmanah phalam idam madhu-kaiṭabhāre mat prārthanīya mad anugraha eṣa eva] tvad bhr̥tya-bhr̥tya-paricāraka-bhr̥tya-bhr̥tya- bhr̥tyasya bhr̥tyam iti mām smara lokanātha

[“O Supreme Lord of all beings, O slayer of the demons Madhu and Kaiṭabha, this is the purpose of my life, this is my prayer, and this is Your grace - that You will remember me as Your servant, a servant of a servant of a Vaiṣṇava, a servant of a servant of such a servant of a servant of a Vaiṣṇava, and a servant of a servant of the servant of a servant of a Vaiṣṇava’s servant’s servant.”]

[Mukunda-Mālā-stotra, 25]

The force of the first wave cannot be stood by ordinary person. The stuff is there who can manage, the first group, second group, third group. And whatever we get from furthest that is so much that we lose our sense. It is such.

Just as if we go nearer the sun ray we will be burned to ashes. From a particular distance we can have the fullest benefit of the sun ray. Not very far, not very near, proper adjustment.

So we are also told that ānandam is of so intensity and ecstatic, we can’t tolerate that. Swāmī Mahārāja has told you will faint there. No perception, perception will reach to zero degree. Gaura Hari bol. The eye will not be able to draw the beauty in its own experience. So the ear, sound is also told to be like that. The biggest sound ear cannot catch, nor the lowest sound also cannot catch. Only in the middle. Such, so take your stand where Guru and Vaiṣṇava, from there you try to see.

Mahāprabhu used to see Jagannātha from far away, just from behind the Garuḍa-stamba, He taught us to do that. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread. So proper adjustment, we should keep it in our mind always, proper adjustment to our best benefit where we are to adjust it. [?]

Then we can have our best. Maladjusted we lose.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

We are requested to take our stand just nearby, we should secure a position nearby Rūpa Goswāmī, Rūpa Mañjarī, Rūpānuga. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, in this song, Śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada, there's one line I want to ask a question about. Anukūla habe vidhi se pade haibe siddhi. Does this vidhi mean vidhi mārga?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not vidhi mārga but the difference between adhokṣaja and aprākṛta. Aprākṛta which is similar to mundane but not mundane. The highest part of the creation, of the existence, of the absolute, is similar to the lowest part. Aprākṛta means not prākṛtam but similar. There is signs of similarity, so generally one mistakes that this is ordinary thing. So here one is in aprākṛta layer, the highest layer, they think that they as if jñāna-sunya bhakti, as if they're in the midst of this mundane world.

So Yaśodā, she's trying to take the feet dust of a saint and putting it to the head of Kṛṣṇa, her son, that the troubles will be removed. All these things. The brāhmaṇas, the saints, so many things, anukūla habe vidhi, that we are under the administration of [?] Brahmā. That will be the posing of the jñāna-sunya bhakta school. [?] is making arrangement, everything. We are faulty people, we are under the administration of [?] the administrator of this mundane world. And if he kindly grants something for our enjoyment, we can enjoy that facility. That is the posing.

And it means it will go to Yogamāyā. If Yogamāyā kindly grants such circumstance, occasion, favourable circumstance is created, then only we can have that chance. Otherwise it is not in our hand. If the circumstance becomes favourable to us, then only can we have that great favour. Just as Rāmānanda Rāya.

punaḥ yadi kona kṣaṇa, karāya kṛṣṇa darśana, tabe sei ghaṭī-kṣaṇa-pala diyā mālya-candana, nānā ratna-ābharaṇa, alaṅkṛta karimu sakala

["If by chance such a moment comes when I can once again see Kṛṣṇa, then I shall worship those seconds, moments and hours with flower garlands and pulp of sandalwood and decorate them with all kinds of jewels and ornaments."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.38]

“Now suddenly Kṛṣṇa gave His darśana to me and I’m charmed. Now I have lost that my heart is hankering very ardently to have that repetition again. But now if any such chance comes to me, what should I do? I shall try to propitiate that time. The time that showed Kṛṣṇa to me, I shall worship the time so that time may stay, it can linger, and then I can have the darśana of Kṛṣṇa. So this time I shall try to satisfy the time, that time showed me Kṛṣṇa.” This is the idea, the paraphernalia.

Devotee: Putting some ornaments on the time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Time is supposed not to be cinmaya, cetana, having personality. So the deity of time I shall satisfy by ornamentation and offering better food, all these things. I shall worship him and if he's propitiated with me, he stays, then Kṛṣṇa will also stay automatically, a figurative way. So also if Virata [?] is propitiated with us, Virata can deliver Kṛṣṇa to us. Jñāna-sunya bhakti. Virata can do anything and everything. If he's giving Kṛṣṇa to us so we get. If he withdraws then we're helpless. That is the idea, that is a form of jñāna-sunya bhakti. They do not know where they are and who is managing; managing of course the Yogamāyā. It is meaning to Yogamāyā. Yogamāyā is supposed to handle the whole pastimes in Vṛndāvana, uniting and then separating, always. That is also a part of Kṛṣṇa's will, Yogamāyā, having direct connection with Baladeva. Baladeva in His different function is managing the stage for the līlā of Kṛṣṇa. Jñāna, bala, krīya, ca, feeling, thinking, willing. The willing portion is mastered by Baladeva, the energy side. And the enjoyer side representing Kṛṣṇa. And the enjoyed side representing Rādhārāṇī and Her group, and Baladeva somewhat. Sākhya, dāsya, vātsalya, all included in Baladeva. Jñāna, bala, krīya, ca, thinking, feeling, willing. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: So the neophyte devotee he's under the management of Brahmā or this Yogamāyā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Neophyte according to the degree of their position, realisation. Sometimes in the beginning he has got his past karma. That is also playing a leading part there for the beginners. And then according to the stage of the devotee it should be considered. The relation finite and infinite we are to keep in mind, not conjecture everything as finite. If we think in the character of finite, that will be in the mental plane. The infinite is covering the whole circumstance also, environment, everything, in His subordinate function of Baladeva. The whole paraphernalia, time, space, the management, all. Ha, ha, ha. We must throw ourself into ocean. Ha, ha.

Devotee: Then nirakhibo e dui nayane.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is in a particular stage, jñāna-sunya bhakti, anukūla habe vidhi, if kindly He comes to show, then I can see, I can have the pleasure of seeing Him. But it depends on the hands of the administrator. It is not within my hands, my reach, only looking up at that fortune.

*āśliṣya vā pāda-ratām pinaṣtu mām, [adarśanān marma-hatām karotu

[Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8]

And that sort of aspiration is almost hopeless. It may be hopeless totally, still you can't leave Him, it's of such type. Though the highest complete type, but still not complete in our own conception. It's the most hazy of the hazy, un-understandable, adhokṣaja, unthinkable, unknown, unknowable. But still it is, and we may have any touch of it, contact. So prepare yourself to that type level. You may or may not get it. You may not get it, still, if you want only Him and none else you are in the purest position, highest...

82.07.05.B_82.07.07.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...much, is your qualification. But to get it or not to get, that is at His disposal. So you should be prepared for that. If you like you may come, or go other way. That may embrace you or may finish you. Rūpa Goswāmī says, “Like thunder.” The cātaka, a kind of bird, they only drink the water of the rain and never any water on the surface. They’re always with their face upwards, “Patī jala, Oh water, Oh water.” In this way they make noise. But the cloud may send a thunder or drops of pure water for him. With this attitude we are to approach towards Kṛṣṇa. I may get, may not get, that also may be. But still to hanker after His connection, that is the highest position. Not, eliminating all others. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna. Elimination of the whole and only to wait for His favour. I may get it, I may not get it. If you like you may come, otherwise go away. This is so dear, so rare. It is Your sweet will, Kṛṣṇa conception is like that.

*āśliṣya vā pāda-ratām pinaṣtu mām, adarśanān marma-hatām
karotu vā yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa
eva nāparaḥ*

[Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8]

Whether I get it or not, I admit that that is the highest ideal of life, to aspire after Him. So you are to understand, scrutinise, how and what for, only hankering should be the best aspiration. How it is possible? We may get it, may not get it, still we must aspire after, and that aspiration is our highest goal. How it can be possible? What is in the process, have they not achievement of the fruit. But in the attempt there is such purity that everyone should hanker for that, even without surety that you may get that. What is there in the process that we should adopt for eternity. We are to wait for eternity, may or may not get, still we want that. What is that? If you can understand that the beauty in the way of search, that to search for Kṛṣṇa, that is the highest beauty and nothing else. Exclusive search for Kṛṣṇa, that is reward of its own. Virtue is reward of its own. In that way you are to analyse, think, realise and have your satisfaction. Virtue is its own reward. I am victorious because I want that I will be rewarded, not that. I am virtuous, it is itself its purity. So of all the conception of all the virtues the search for Kṛṣṇa as truth, that is the highest virtue. In this way we are to understand what is devotion to Kṛṣṇa and who is Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Sometimes people give up aspiring, they reverse positions, and they say, “I did not get it, therefore Kṛṣṇa’s will is that I do not get it.”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: “It’s futile. I won’t try that path.” This is? Yes, they may go. They’re at liberty to do so. And there are so many, because very, very rare, we may or may not achieve. So the big research scholars, what they do, “I may be successful or I may not be successful. Should I go in this way?” If you ask them, what they will answer? “I may be successful or may not be but still I want to research this thing.” Their determination will be like that, the high scholar.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, some śiṣyas find hope when they see someone has been successful, when they see someone has succeeded, he has reached the goal.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: When someone follows the process and is successful in the attempt, he reaches the goal, he gets darśana of Kṛṣṇa, then that gives hope to others to see that. To see someone who has perfected...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Someone is successful and they say that, “You come and follow me and you'll be successful.”

svayaṁ samuttīrya sudustaraṁ dyuman, bhavārṇavaṁ bhīmam adabhra-sauhrdāḥ bhavat-padāmbhoruha-nāvam atra te, nidhāya yātāḥ sad anugraho bhavān

[“O Self-revealed One, You are bhakta-vāñchākalpataru, the wish-fulfilling tree of the devotee. The great devotees surrendered unto Your Lotus Feet, who have crossed over this ghastly insurmountable ocean of mundanity, have left the boat of Your Lotus Feet in this world (in the guru-paramparā or in the line of Revealed Truth, śrauta-panthā) - because, they are greatly affectionate to all beings.”] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.31]

There is a śloka in Bhāgavatam that when they cross this ocean:

*svayaṁ samuttīryya sudustaraṁ dyuman, bhavārṇavaṁ bhīmaṁ adabhra-sauhrdāḥ bhavat-padāmbhoruḥa-nāvaṁ atra te, nidhāya yātāḥ
sad anugraho bhavān*

So many, that is of the lowest conception. So many saints after using Your name, after taking shelter in the service of Your name they have crossed the dreadful ocean of life and death and left that boat. By the help of the boat of the praise of Your holy feet, they have crossed this ocean of death and birth, and again they have left behind that boat for others to go by that way, to cross this. This is only about mukti, taking the name of Kṛṣṇa to acquire liberation, the example for that, here. And what you want to take. Some have already experienced.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: No. If someone has attained Kṛṣṇa prema, that is the goal, Kṛṣṇa prema.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Then? They come to distribute that, recruit us persons for that?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Then others will be attracted to make the attempt because the goal has been reached by someone. Then the process has been shown to be correct because the goal has been reached. Someone has reached the goal.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, if we can go properly then of course we generally can hope that we shall reach the goal. That does not affect my point, because it is very rare, I say that it is not so easy to capture the goal. We should not think like that. We have the real conception of the thing, and we have also at the same time the conception of what is He and what is called to get Him. That getting may not be according to our picture of the present time. Union in separation, we must try to conceive that thing. Though I do not get I cannot leave the search. Once search begins the right way, then one cannot leave that search. In searching, he's in the searching also about Him, so they can't leave. The search of Kṛṣṇa is also Kṛṣṇa, of a particular type.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Our Swāmī Mahārāja, he was asked, “Have you seen Kṛṣṇa, have you seen Lord Kṛṣṇa?” How would you answer such a question? If someone comes to you and says “Have you seen Lord Kṛṣṇa?” How would you answer such a question?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Have you touched the ocean? With one finger touching one verge of the ocean, “Yes, I have touched the ocean. I have got it, I have got the ocean.” What do you say?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Some want to say, “Have you seen the Lord, have you seen His form?”

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is to draw the idea from this material world, and that should be cured. That is a disease and that disease should be cured first, that we can take Kṛṣṇa like this. What is Kṛṣṇa? One who has no idea, they can say so, “Have you seen Kṛṣṇa?” Like a man, Kṛṣṇa can be seen. He has also said that He cannot be seen by these present senses. And what do we mean when we say, “Have you seen Kṛṣṇa, have you seen with these present eyes. In the [?] it's mentioned that He's beyond the experience of our senses. Adhokṣaja, that is His first, the first nature, that He's beyond the range of our senses; and even mind, and even sometimes our reason. And we must go to that plane to have the idea of seeing Him. Then what will be the form of sight, the nature of sight, seeing Him? We are to learn from A,B,C, that what does it mean to see Kṛṣṇa. That is also possible but not so near, the unconscious of this world. Seeing Kṛṣṇa is not like the seeing of these material things here. In the beginning we are to be acquainted with this principle experience.

He can be seen, we may think, in the soul's eye. The illumination of this physical body, mental body, then a body of service and that will have so many senses and perceptible by such senses, that soul's eye, soul's ear. In a general way you may think of it in that way. Not this mental eye, or physical eye, mental ear, physical ear. To have experience of Him, the body is of another element. It is made by cid-ānanda deha. That is the highest type of conscious body, full of service and love. Not this body of exploitation, eager to exploit the environment, nor to get rid of the unfavourable circumstances. There is another body you will have and He's approachable by that figure. At least you may think like that, in a general way. That that eye is not this eye, that mind is not this mind, all different, all Kṛṣṇa-ised. The transformation, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, in its process will transform me wholesale and give me some sort of body with which I am to experience Him and His līlā. We may think in that way.

So through the service, a transformation will take place within us, Kṛṣṇa aiming transformation. He's all-in-all. He only can satisfy all our hankerings. In this way the transformation will come for Kṛṣṇa interest, for interest of Kṛṣṇa. We must be converted into interest of Kṛṣṇa wholesale. And we shall find that from within a body has come out who can play there with Him, eligible to work there in Vṛndāvana.

Ane ṛday more more vrndavana gane gane eka kori mane [?]

Tahe tomar pari daya yado koro aya daya samakud [?]

We must find out Vṛndāvana within us, and there my own self and others also must come to such paraphernalia. It is there. If sweetness, if love is there, the land of love is also there. From so far we are captured by the perverted reflection of sweetness, love, beauty, charm, all these things, mercy, beyond the law of nature. So if we make progress fairly towards that goal, then we are told we shall come in a plane where we shall find our own self in a proper adjustment with the paraphernalia where we will see Kṛṣṇa and His paraphernalia there. We are to attain Vṛndāvana from this mundane world of exploitation, the world of renunciation, then that calculative devotion, and then spontaneous devotion. No rhyme and reason, but most tasteful, taste is our guide, ruci, our guide. And we shall enter deep within and find our own beautiful, our sweet self, as well as the sweet paraphernalia, as well as the master of that land, all these things. You have got some charm for such a news from far away. You try to catch this train to go there.

*brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva, guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya

[“Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

A ticket to go to that land of dream. That land of dream, sweet dream, feeling our feeling. We’re feeling keenly this present circumstances, present environment. The feeling should be raised to such a standard when we’re to traverse through the long, to make a long journey, leaving aside so many proposals, enticement of different types. And to go to Kṛṣṇa consciousness area. Kṛṣṇa consciousness, it is real. This world which we think real, this is transient. We are told, and we can understand also, the sun, moon, earth, everything will vanish. It was not there, and it will not be there again, coming, going, unsettled. But there is a plane that is really existing, and where there is real knowledge, and over that there is real love, sympathy, sweetness, beauty. We want to live in that plane of life. We abhor this plane of life. This is not worth living. We're disgusted with the highest proposals of the scientists to explore the moon, the sun, the sukla and other planets. In spite of all these big hoax we neglect, we despise it, for the reason of janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhī [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9] And we want to live in another soil. And that soil, the proposed soil, in Bhāgavatam, that is that Kṛṣṇa Brajaloka. And we have particular taste and attraction for that plane of life. We want to purchase ticket to go to that land, however distant it may be, and however troublesome may be the journey. At all risk we want to go to that land of our ideal conception given by Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu. That is the general conception behind.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, you were mentioning this morning about how some Vaiṣṇavas were emanations from the dust particles of the body of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. What was that word again? Could you please describe the Sanskrit word.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is mentioned sometime the jyoti, the figure has got the lustre, and that lustre means that so many atoms of electrons of light, whatever you say it. Who has got some relation with, relativity with that centre, they will be ultimately drawn towards that. That is adaptability you may think. The far fledged relation, the connection with that, undetectable in the present.

If it is there, the difficulty is, if it is there, how that can come here? That will be the problem. So whenever these type of things are mentioned we are to take the connection of adaptability. In the undetectable position of the jīva soul, of both sides. In this side also, how lower he can come in relation to māyā, and how higher it can go in relation to Yogamāyā. These two possibilities are always in the marginal potency, the unit of marginal potency. The possibilities, without that we cannot attribute anything positively to that. The possibility you may think it. Otherwise there will be difficulty in the law of thought, mundane.

And we must not forget the qualification general, given by Mahāprabhu, acintya bhedābheda. We must not forget inconceivable. We're not master to conceive anything and everything. The whole conception with the Absolute. And we being infinitesimal, we want to devour the whole administration, plan, and everything. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You want that infinitesimal, though they feed on infinity, they live devouring infinity. Acintya, jñāna sunya bhakti. We neglect all these things and want to devour, the finite wants to devour the infinite. And that is loss, waste of energy. Somewhat workable knowledge we may be imparted with. Not that I shall get the whole thing in my fist, then I shall start. The very nature is condemnable and it is mundane in its worst type. [?] then I shall make follow on one leg. I want the future held in my fist then I shall begin starting. This is not possible even in this mundane world, and what to speak of the world of infinite.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. What's the time?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Quarter after nine, fifteen after nine.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. So I want to dissolve the class now because...

...

...and well-read man and parṣada bhakta has been disguised. They're consulting the scriptures and waiting, the time has come when the Avatāra of Kali will come, the time is up. And searching His birthplace, it will be in Navadvīpa. Navadvīpa Dhāma at that time famous for learning

Navadvīpe [?] in some Purāṇa it is mentioned [?] where the Yuga Avatāra is coming.

In the mean time Mahāprabhu began Nāma saṅkīrtana. Then they came to understand that the Yuga Avatāra has come here, the Nīlācārya. He wrote a few letters to Him, and Mahāprabhu also answered.

They were letters of such type that, "We are very mean. How men like us may be delivered from this trouble of the world?"

And Mahāprabhu also replied in a Sanskrit śloka.

para-vyasaninī nārī, vyagrāpi gr̥ha-karmmasu tad evāsvādayaty antar, nava-saṅga-rasāyanam

["A married lady who has love and affection for another gentleman may be seen to be always engaged in her household activities but her heart always realises, or tastes, the company of that person whom she loves. Though outwardly she is seen to be very busy with household work, at heart she's always enjoying the company of her beloved. (Similarly, outwardly you may be captured and may be seen to be busy in the association of the government's activities, but your heart is not there. It is searching something, and it is receiving the benefit of the association of that inner substance.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 1.211]

Gave consolation. “It does not matter that you are engaged in political affairs, and in the association of the mleccha. It is your external self. But internally you are all right. Your hankering for the truth is evident, and you have no fear.” In this way. And this example He put, “A lady who has got some attraction for another person than her husband, she’s seen to be very busy the whole day in the household affairs, but internally she’s always associating herself with the company of her paramour. So your position, don’t be afraid of that.” In this way.

But after sannyāsa, Mahāprabhu when He came here, went straight to Ramakeli and there Dabhir Khas [Rūpa Goswāmī] and Sākara Mallika [Sanātana Goswāmī] they met Him. At that time it is told that Jīva Goswāmī was a boy. He also saw Mahāprabhu only at that time, had a view. Then both of them came and fell flat at the feet of Śrī Caitanya Deva at that time.

And Caitanya Deva accepted them. “You are My eternal servitor. Very soon you will join Me.”

In this way they had a talk. And also Sanātana Goswāmī put a word to Mahāprabhu. “Oh, lākhs of people coming along with You and You will go to Vṛndāvana. In this way they will create much disturbance, this over burdening crowd, and You won’t find peace there.” And gave some hint that is under Muslim control. “And with so many persons You will go and if any disturbance is created by anyone You will have no peace in wandering through Vṛndāvana.”

Mahāprabhu took this in His heart and came back through Śāntipura, via Śāntipura to Purī. And from there with only one attendant He started for Vṛndāvana.

After this incident Rūpa Goswāmī, Sanātana was at the head, so no difficulty, Rūpa with all his articles, family, has removed to his house in Yasobad. Sanātana Goswāmī was there. Anyhow this news reached to Orissa Emperor and found the able administrator Rūpa, Sanātana is no longer helping the Nawab. He attacked the border of Bengal and Vatsar had to go to the battlefield. Asked Sanātana, a very supernatural talent to accompany him.

But Sanātana told, “It is not possible for me to do all these things.” Sanātana in the meantime is indifferent with the political affairs, and he’s deeply engaged in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Gītā, etc. and not attending the court.

And the King when he informed this, “That I’m not keeping well.” Then he sent the doctor. Doctor reported that, “I did not find any physical trouble but indifferent.”

Then what to do? The King had to go alone to the battlefield to guide his soldiers, and he thought that, “Sanātana’s temperament is not reliable. In my absence he may fly away, as his brother Rūpa has done.” So he asked, “Put him into, intern him, put him into concentration camp and keep a vigilant eye until I come back from the battlefield.” With this order he went away.

In the meantime Sanātana he’s thinking very severely, furiously, how to get out of this entanglement of māyā. In the meantime Rūpa Goswāmī he sent a man in Purī and told him, “Whenever Mahāprabhu will start for Vṛndāvana, at once you will come and inform.” In the meantime the man came there. “Mahāprabhu started with an attendant towards Vṛndāvana via Benares.” Then Rūpa Goswāmī when he got this information he sent a man with some mystic poetry. Yadi ranga rdham naya [?]

yadu-pateḥ kva gatā mathurā-purī, raghu-pateḥ kva gatottara-kośalā iti vicintya kuruṣva manaḥ sthiram, na sad idaṁ jagad ity avadhāraya

[“Where has the Mathurā-purī of Yadupati gone? Where has the Northern Kośalā of Raghupati gone? By reflection, make the mind steady, thinking, ‘This universe is not eternal.’ ”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.3, within the purport]

In a figurative way, others cannot understand, only those know, those that are aware of this mystic meaning they can read. So this was given to Sanātana, anyhow.

And also the man told, “Ten thousand rupees have been kept with some merchant there to help you, Rūpa Goswāmī has managed. So anyhow with the help of that rupee you get out of the prison house. And I’m running to join Śrī Caitanya Deva on His journey towards Vṛndāvana, and you also anyhow come hurriedly.”

Then Sanātana Goswāmī managed. He, with the jailer, bribed him and he told, “You are all in all above us. When you were in administration I liked to help you, but I’m afraid of the punishment of the King. How can I do?”

“I’m giving, a policy I recommend. You say that ‘I took the prisoners from the side of the Ganges for their, to answer the call of nature. And the chain was on their leg. And Sanātana suddenly jumped into the river. And I tried my best but could not find him. Carried by the current where he went I don’t know.’ You give this explanation.”

And the money he got and the advice was given. In this way. And he was ready. At dusk, just before the evening time he released Sanātana. Then Sanātana Goswāmī he went to the banks of the Ganges and there he prayed with folded palms. “Oh Gaurāṅga, how can I cross this river?”

Suddenly found at dusk a piece of wood perhaps. He was so eager, as much as he can make progress, so he took a step on the wood floating, which was apparently floating on the Ganges, and he suddenly found that the floating wood is moving. That was a crocodile. And the crocodile carried him to the other side of the Ganges.

Anyhow - offering obeisance to Mahāprabhu, Sanātana started on the other side. One man with him and he had eight golden coins. And he took shelter under the chief of that, that is mountainous. The chief showed very much courtesy, hospitality, made good arrangement as for the respectable guest.

Sanātana Goswāmī thought, 'Why this gentleman is showing so much respect for me? So much care he's taking for me. There must be some meaning.'

Then he asked his attendant, "Have you got any money with you?" "Yes I have got."

"Why have you taken? This is death direct you have kept with you. [?] This you have taken with you and this will be the cause of killing..."

End of 82.07.05.B_82.07.07.A

82.07.07.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...told, seven coins. Took. "Give them to me." And took them and produced to the chief. "I have these seven golden coins, and you please kindly accept this, and help me to get out of this hilly and jungle path. I want to go to Benares. Please help me."

And then the chief told, “Yes. I know not seven but eight gold coins are with your attendant. And this night I could have killed both of you and took those golden coins. But when you have yourself taken I’m satisfied with your behaviour, I won’t take them. And also I shall help you to get out of this jungle route, to guide you to Benares.”

Sanātana Goswāmī told, “No, no. You please save me. Otherwise another person will take these and kill me, so save me. Save my life by accepting these golden coins.”

Then he took, and very carefully helped them to get out of the jungle towards Benares. Then Sanātana Goswāmī asked, the attendant’s name was Īśāna, “Have you got any other?” “Yes, one.”

“All right, with that you go to your home. Don’t come with me.”

In this way Sanātana Goswāmī went. And when going in Bihar there in some Hājipura, a place named Hājipura there in a mango tope he’s sitting, and the time was, winter approaching. The month may be this Mārgaśīrṣa or so, November maybe.

And at that time Sanātana Goswāmī’s sister’s husband, one gentleman, he was sent by the Nawab to purchase some horses necessary for the war field. Śrīkānta was his name. He suddenly found from the top of a house that Sanātana Goswāmī perhaps, similar person is sitting on the mango tope. He detected, found that, “Yes it is he. I heard that he’s in the prison. But how he has escaped, and where are you going?” He privately met him, “What’s the matter?”

“Things are such and such.”

“Then how you will go, so cold, on that side, you will die. You can’t meet Śrī Caitanya Deva. Anyhow I am offering this valuable blanket to cover this body. Anyhow at least take this blanket and go.”

He accepted that, and gradually he reached Benares and inquired where is Śrī Caitanya Deva, and he came to know that He’s in the house of Candraśekhara, the physician Candraśekhara, so he went.

Caitanya Deva was sitting on the veranda in the front, the door. After taking a peep he crossed the gate and on the other side took his seat. Mahāprabhu could understand that only a seconds visit he could catch and asked that Candraśekhara, “There is one saint outside the door, you call him here.”

The Candraśekhara he went out and cast his glance this side, that side, no saint. He came back. “There is no saint there.”

“Is anyone there?”

“Yes, one daraveśa, a Muslim fakir, seems to be sitting there.” “Take him.”

Then he went out.

‘prabhu tomāya bolāya, āisa, daraveśa!’ [śuni’ ānande sanātana karilā praveśa]

[“O Muslim mendicant, please come in. The Lord is calling you.” Sanātana Gosvāmī was very pleased to hear this order, and he entered Candraśekhara’s house.][Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.50]

“My Lord is calling for you. Come, you fortunate daraveśa fakir, you come in.”

Śuni’ ānande sanātana karilā praveśa. The highly glad Sanātana entered the house. Then Mahāprabhu just came down from the veranda, and going to welcome Sanātana, and Sanātana is going back.

“No, no, no, don’t touch me. I’m so mean. I’m so low. Don’t touch me my Lord.” “No, no.”

prabhu kahe, — “tomā sparśi ātma pavitrīte / bhakti-bale pāra tumi brahmāṇḍa śodhite

[The Lord replied, “I am touching you just to purify Myself, because by the force of your devotional service you can purify the whole universe.”]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.56]

“No, no, Sanātana, I’m touching you for My purification. You have got such a type of devotion at your heart, that what about Me, you can purify the whole of the world. Bhakti-bale pāra tumi brahmāṇḍa śodhite. The whole brahmāṇḍa, the solar system, you can purify. Such a type of devotion is at your heart Sanātana. I want, for My selfish purpose I want to touch you, welcome you. Ātma pavitrīte.”

In this way, a little talk. And then Mahāprabhu asked Candraśekhara, “Please take him to the Ganges and cleanse him, gentleman like, these bushes should be removed.”

Then Sanātana went there and after having a good shave he came. Then, at the consent of Mahāprabhu just before him, He asked Tapanā Miśra, “Give some clothing. I shall change the dress.” Then Tapanā Miśra came with some new cloth.

“No, no, I won’t take that. If any used cloth you have got to spare from your family you please give it to me, but I won’t accept any new.” So some used cloth was given to him, and tearing that into two, a kaupīna and bahirvāsa he made himself just before Mahāprabhu.

And then there was that valuable rag with him. Mahāprabhu is casting glance at that, that valuable rag.

Sanātana could catch the meaning. He went to the Ganges and there a Bengali gentleman he had an old kantha, this cloth together put and sewed like a blanket, and one gentleman has cleansed that kantha and spread it in the sun.

Then Sanātana approached him, “My brother, will you do some help to me?” “What to you want?”

“Please take this rag and give me that torn cloth, covering, sheet.”

“What do you say? This is a valuable thing, and this has got no value. Are you cutting jokes with me?”

“No, no, no.”

“But your figure shows that you are a gentleman, and you are cutting jokes with me. I can’t understand.”

“No, no, no, I don’t cut jokes with you my friend. I really appeal. I’m am a sannyāsī, no necessity of this rag, this is very valuable, and this will suit me.” So anyhow that was changed, and with that torn cloth, rag, he came to Mahāprabhu.

Mahāprabhu was very much satisfied, and then He came out. “Yes, you have understood My internal feeling. You will go out for mādhukarī, for begging from door to door, and such a valuable rag on your body the people will ridicule you. So now it is all right. Mādhukarī dress, and this plain dress, a poor dress, suiting.”

So in this way Sanātana lived there for two months. Mahāprabhu taught him sambandha-jñāna. About four chapters in Caitanya-caritāmṛta perhaps devoted for this purpose.

And before that Śrī Caitanya Deva met Rūpa Goswāmī in Allahabad, Daśāśvamedha-ghāṭa, there. Caitanya Deva told that, “Rūpa also met Me, and with him the father of Jīva Goswāmī, that is Anupama, he was a Rāma bhakta, and both of them met in Bindu-Mādhava temple in Allahabad. And in Daśāśvamedha-ghāṭa in Prayāga I had discourse with him and he has gone to Vṛndāvana.

And I also want that you also go and join him, and I give these directions to you, four directions you are to serve for the purpose of Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana, in this way. You must find out the old places of pastimes of the Lord Kṛṣṇa. And the second, you will install the Deities there, and how they will be worshipped, the process, pūjā, prapadan [?] all these. And also bhakti-siddhānta-grantha, the bhakti-sadācāra, what should be the practices of a typical Vaiṣṇava. You are to collect verses from the different scriptures and to prepare a book, what should be the practice of a śuddha Vaiṣṇava.

Sri vigraha sevā, nastra tīrtha udar, vaisnava sadacar, and ?

Devotees: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Four. One, nastra tīrtha udar, to restore the previous places of the pastimes of the Lord. Then Vaiṣṇava sadācāra pracāra. And Śrī Vigraha sevā pracāra. And then grantha, śāstra, and śāstra pracāra, maybe.

“These four things I request you to make ready for the coming sampradāya. And also to look after the persons who come to accept this creed, to protect them.”

In this way, Sanātana was sent there. And Sanātana moved, wandered through the length and breadth of the whole Vraja maṇḍala, and with the help of Rūpa Goswāmī he did so. And afterwards Raghunātha Dāsa and Jīva Goswāmī also joined there. And Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa, Tapana Miśra's son he also joined. And Gopāla Bhaṭṭa also came from the South to join in that party. And Gopāla Bhaṭṭa's previous Guru Prabodhānanda he also came and he also lived there in Vraja maṇḍala. They all had high reverence for Mahāprabhu and together they began to work under the direction of Mahāprabhu.

Kavirāja Goswāmī has dui shana pati [?], so many followers later on joined, but Rūpa and Sanātana they were the two leaders of the company, Gauḍīya Sampradāya. Rūpa Goswāmī he did as directed by Mahāprabhu, the rāgānugā method of devotion. What is rāgānugā devotion, the loving service towards Kṛṣṇa, he was in charge of distribution of that devotion, that service, love and affection. And Sanātana was especially directed for vidhi-mārga. By the scriptures and by the help what we can get from the ordinary sādhū about devotion.

And it is mentioned in so many scriptures, "Collect them, and arrange them in such a way to prove that the Bhāgavata School of devotion in the line of Nāma saṅkīrtana. that holds the foremost important position, you are to prove that." And with Nāma saṅkīrtana in what way the progress a devotee makes towards the attainment, and what is the highest attainment of the Gauḍīya Sampradāya, all these were established by Rūpa. And later on by Raghunātha also did something. And Jīva Goswāmī he came with the help of the quotations from different scripture to show that how this devotion of love, that holds the highest position, to prove that.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, [mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja ahaṁ tvām sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

ājñajaiva guṇān doṣān, mayādiṣṭān api svakān [dharmmān samtyajya yaḥ sarvvān, myām bhajet sa ca sattamaḥ]

["In the scriptures of religion, I, the Supreme Lord, have instructed men of all statuses of life in their duties. Duly comprehending the purificatory virtue of executing those prescribed duties as well as the vice of neglecting them, one who abandons all allegiance to such dutifulness in order to engage in My devotional service is the best of honest men (sādhū)."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.11.32]

"I have ordered in different scriptures, 'do this, this is the religious life. A religious man must observe all these things.'"

It is told by God Himself. And now again leaving them aside to take another proof that only through affection and love we can go and we can get Him in its highest aspect as a loving Lord. All these things were preached under the direction of Sanātana Goswāmī, Rūpa Goswāmī, Jīva Goswāmī, Raghunātha Dāsa, then Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa, Gopāla Bhaṭṭa. Sanātana was the leading man, leading devotee, respected by all those stalwarts, Sanātana Goswāmī.

And when Śrīnivāsa Ācārya, Śrīnivāsa Ācārya he was the son of one Padmanābha Bhaṭṭācārya in the Nadiya district. Padmanābha Bhaṭṭācārya was a classmate of Śrī Caitanya Deva in Navadvīpa. And he found that Nimāi Paṇḍita's genius is so supernatural, He's not an ordinary man. Anyhow when once he came near Katwa, Jajpura, his father-in-law's house, and going away to his own house, he heard that Nimāi Paṇḍita has come to take sannyāsa in Katwa. He went to see, and he was so much moved seeing that function that he lost himself. When Nimāi Paṇḍita went away taking the name of Kṛṣṇa Caitanya and ran towards Vṛndāvana, he also went towards his own house, but half-mad. Whatever he heard, that his name was Kṛṣṇa Caitanya, and then whatever any man says to him, he says 'Caitanya.' Every answer to every word of enquiry was 'Caitanya, Caitanya.' No other word comes from his mouth but 'Caitanya.' Then Caitanya Dāsa was his name to the public, Caitanya dāsa.

Then he went to meet Caitanya Deva to Purī once and came home and got a child, Śrīnivāsa, very beautiful and very genius, a very good intellect, well-read. Then he came to Navadvīpa and he was a young man of sixteen or so. He was sitting on Mahāprabhu's ghāṭa. Viṣṇupriyā Devī saw him, and this young boy how he's absent minded, took him to her house and gave some prasādam.

Then from there he went to Purī to have a darśana of Mahāprabhu. But by going no more than half he heard that Mahāprabhu disappeared.

Still he anyhow went and reached there and Gadādhara Paṇḍita was there. Gadādhara Paṇḍita accepted him and welcomed him and told that, "My Lord Gaurāṅga, Caitanya Deva, He has ordered me to teach you Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. I'm awaiting for you. But my book is not suitable to help you to study Bhāgavata because many of the letters have been effaced by the tears. So go and fetch in my name a good copy of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and I shall teach you." He went back to Sarakāra family in Katwa. He asked. And he came and took a copy of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and going, then he found that Gadādhara Paṇḍita has gone away.

Anyhow with that meeting he got the inspiration, and in future life he was a unique exponent of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.

That Śrīnivāsa coming from there, he, Narottama and Śyāmānanda, these three combined going towards Vṛndāvana. And when they reached some near about place heard that Sanātana Goswāmī has passed away.

So he was so much, he can chastise his own fate that, “Wherever I’m going the object of my desire is vanishing. So wretched I am here.”

Anyhow they reached Mathurā and heard that yesterday Rūpa Goswāmī disappeared.

Then what to do? With broken heart anyhow approached Vṛndāvana. At that time the sandhya āratī of Govinda was taking place in the royal temple of Govindaji. And for Rūpa Goswāmī, the founder, he passed away, so a big gathering there. And a most splendourous arrangement for the function. And seeing all these things, and the fatigue, the weariness of the way, Śrīnivāsa lost his senses and fell in a part of the temple when the āratī was going on. Lastly when he came to senses he found that Jīva Goswāmī with some attendants are nursing him and took him to his own temple.

And these three they lived there for some time. Narottama took initiation from Lokanātha, Śyāmānanda from Jīva Goswāmī, and Śrīnivāsa from Gopāla Bhaṭṭa. And Jīva Goswāmī in the meantime wrote many things, and Sanātana Goswāmī’s writings, Rūpa Goswāmī’s writings, and Jīva Goswāmī’s, all these collected was entrusted to these three. “Take them to Bengal and preach them there and keep it.”

These three took it to Bengal, and it was stolen near Bapura district by Birhambir. That also a leader of the hill tribes. But he was a devotee to a certain extent. Then it was robbed. They tried their best to search but failed. Śyāmānanda left for Midnapur side to preach there. Narottama also left to the North Bengal to do his work in his way. And Śrīnivāsa Ācārya who was the leader of them he could not go anywhere without the books. In his charge it was given by Jīva Goswāmī. So he was wandering nearby like a half-mad person.

Then that Birhambir who managed to rob those books by his men he had some attraction for Bhāgavata discussion, discourses. And one, his Guru was Vyāsa by name, he used to explain Bhāgavatam and Śrīnivāsa used to attend that class. And one day the Vyāsa who was explaining Bhāgavatam committed some mistake, and unconsciously Śrīnivāsa corrected that.

Then the attention of the public all fell on that half-mad young boy, young gentleman. “Who are you?”

Then he was compelled to divulge the whole secret. Then they told, “Oh, the books are here.”

Then they found the books. And Birhambir was his disciple. And the intimation went to Narottama and Śyāmānanda, the books were saved.

So we get Sanātana Goswāmī’s writings and Rūpa Goswāmī and we find with those books, scriptures, we can find to certain extent who they are, and what was their connection with Mahāprabhu, all these things. Our previous study was the day of Sanātana Goswāmī departure. But he has not departed, he has given us what he got from Mahāprabhu direct. For the period of two months Mahāprabhu infused His wealth in him. And he has given to us. And through that we can come to know what is he and what is Mahāprabhu, what is Vṛndāvana, what is Kṛṣṇa, Rādhā, all these things.

vairāgya-yug bhakti-rasaṁ prayatnair, apāyayam mām anabhipsum andham kṛpāmbudhir yaḥ para-duḥkha-dukhī, sanātanaṁ taṁ prabhum āśrayāmi

[“I surrender unto Śrī Sanātana Goswāmī, the ācārya of sambandha-jñāna. He is an ocean of mercy and is always unhappy to see the sufferings of others. Although I was blind, in the darkness of ignorance, he gave me the light of transcendental knowledge. He taught me the real meaning of detachment and made me drink the highest nectarine rasa of divine love.”] [Vilāpa-kuṣumāñjali, 6]

Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī he has written this passage in praṇāma mantra to Sanātana Goswāmī. He’s saying, vairāgya-yug bhakti-rasaṁ prayatnair, apāyayam. The juice of divine love and affection, vairāgya-yug, with a little tinge of vairāgya, indifference, added to that love. Bhakti-rasaṁ prayatnair, apāyayam. With much care he made me to drink, tried his best to make me drink. He forced to me to drink that rasam what is mixed with vairāgyam. Prayatnair, apāyayam. Whom, I was blind and also unwilling. My qualification was such that I do not know what is what. At the same time I have some propensity, I won’t take it. This was my tendency. Such an unwilling person who is blind, him, he managed to force to drink this vairāgya bhakti rasa. With the tinge of indifference, the sweetness of the loving service. Sanātanaṁ taṁ. That Sanātana Prabhu who was so well-wisher of the mankind, I show my obeisance to him.”

This is the praṇāma mantra by Dāsa Goswāmī. Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa also has told:

govinda bidam nida rasita padam hastadi ratnadi vat [?]

tatvam tattva vidhutamam kṛta valay gaur dasayam cakrat [?]

“I show my obeisance to Rūpa and Sanātana. Who are they? Govinda bidam nida rasita padam. The Lord Govinda, Who is carefully served by Lakṣmī Devī, His consort. Hastadi ratnadi vat. Who Lakṣmī Devī herself wants to serve that Govinda. Such Govinda they have, such jewel, or gem, the Rūpa, Sanātana dealt Him as a jewel within the fist of their hand. This side, that side, below, up, side, all these things, they could show unknown and unknowable. The whole resources represented. The majesty are after Him. All the majesty of the world resources are seeking to serve the principle. And that unavailable, unknowable, unknown, that substance, that was shown to the public just as a gem in one’s palm, this side. So clearly they could describe what is indescribable. They have shown, given to understand what is unknowable. This is the position of Rūpa, Sanātana. He has dealt that the highest principle in such a way as an ordinary thing. That was the position of Rūpa, Sanātana. [?] Simply wonder. What they have done, simply wonder. [?] I bow down to them.”

This is Sanātana Goswāmī [?] said Rūpa, Sanātana about Dāsa Goswāmī, and Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa.

Another you know, Swāmī Mahārāja has spread throughout the length and breadth that, vande rūpa- sanātanau raghu-yugau śrī-jīva-gopālakau .

[nānā-śāstra-vicāraṇaika-nipuṇau sad-dharma-saṁsthāpakau lokānām hita-kāriṇau tri-bhuvane mānyau śaraṇyākarau rādhā-kṛṣṇa-padāravinda-bhajanānandena mattālikau vande rūpa-sanātanau raghu-yugau śrī-jīva-gopālakau]

[“I offer my respectful obeisances unto the six Gosvāmīs, namely Śrī Sanātana Gosvāmī, Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī, Śrī Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī, Śrī Raghunātha dāsa Gosvāmī, Śrī Jīva Gosvāmī and Śrī Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī, who are very expert in scrutinisingly studying all the revealed scriptures with the aim of establishing eternal religious principles for the benefit of all human beings. Thus they are honoured all over the three worlds, and they are worth taking shelter of because they are absorbed in the mood of the gopīs and are engaged in the transcendental loving service of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 1.33, purport]

That is composed by Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. The Sad Goswāmī, led by Rūpa, Sanātana, they did so much service for the propagation of the divine cult of Śrī Caitanya Deva what is love, love, love. And not for the mundane purpose but for the highest being, highest absolute master. Kṛṣṇa conception in five full rasa, mādhurya, vātsalya, sākhya, dāsyā, śānta, all these, in a new colour, the highest Lord in such a new colour, in a new land, in a new view, they have very elaborately depicted.

One gentleman told that, “Twenty-four hours engagement with the Supreme Lord, it cannot be imagined in any conception of the existing religions in the world, cannot compare, conceive the possibility of twenty-four hours engagement in the service of the divinity. And that is also the wholesale, most comprehensive service, that every atom may be utilized in the service of the every corresponding atom of the Lord. This is inconceivable.”

And that has been given out by Sanātana, Śrī Rūpa etc., their group. So we invoke for their mercy.

ārāadhanānām sarveśām, viṣṇor ārāadhanam param tasmāt parataram devi, tadīyānām samārcanam

[“Lord Śiva told the goddess Durgā:] ‘My dear Devī, although the Vedas recommend worship of demigods, the worship of Lord Viṣṇu is topmost. However, above the worship of Lord Viṣṇu is the rendering of service to Vaiṣṇavas, who are related to Lord Viṣṇu.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 11.31]

Of all sorts of worship, the worship of Viṣṇu is the highest. Again, more important to serve the worship of the servitors. If we can show our sincere heartfelt reverence for Sanātana Goswāmī, Rūpa Goswāmī and the direct parikara of Mahāprabhu, Mahāprabhu will be more pleased than if we try to offer our obeisance to Him. With this hope, by their grace, we are needy, in every respect, but our hope is, prospect in life is this, that our masters are so gracious and so magnanimous and so high. Anyhow fortunately we have come in connection with such great masters. This is our wealth, this is our fortune, this is our everything.

With this I like to conclude.

*vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca [kṛpā-sindhubhya eva ca, patitānām
pāvanebhyo] vaiṣṇavebhyo namo namaḥ*

[I offer my respectful obeisances unto all the Vaiṣṇava devotees of the Lord. They are just like desire trees who can fulfil the desires of everyone, and they are full of compassion for the fallen conditioned souls.]

Devotee: [?] So there is no more in ISKCON. They already have given a letter, for the six persons. Even Vidagdha is, the last time he was entering, ‘Śrīdhara Mahārāja’s court there you should not come in the temple because you keep on talking with a number of disciples over here, so I don’t want to see you in temple.’

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

sve svehadhikāre yā niṣṭhā, sa gunāḥ parikīrtitāḥ [viparyayas tu doṣaḥ syād, ubhayor eṣa niścayaḥ]

[“Remaining fixed in the position for which one is qualified is considered virtuous. The opposite - accepting a position for which one is unqualified, while giving up a position for which one is qualified - is irresponsible and is considered impious. This is the conclusion of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.”]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.2]

In their own position they’re doing. They’re also getting some sort of support from the common source.

Devotee: Gopāla Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The structure is there with him.

Devotee: ... Giriraja Mahārāja, one day he was asking me. I should say that Giriraja Mahārāja, everything is going with Prabhupāda. Now you people are simply making a problem here as a material way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As politics. They wanted to put Bhāratī Mahārāja into jail. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: He was asking the spiritual name on the telephone. I said I will come in the temple and tell you spiritual name over there, not on the telephone.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: And a very beautiful name, there. I'm sure he will appreciate it. Acyuta Caitanya is a very beautiful name, I think.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When a boy of five he called for explanation from his father, old father. "You say that Caitanya has Guru, Keśava Bhāratī. You're spoiling the whole world. Caitanya is the Guru of all Gurus. And you say that Caitanya has His Guru that Keśava Bhāratī, you're spoiling the whole thing." When he was five, Acyuta, the youngest son of Advaita Prabhu.

And Mahāprabhu took him on His lap after sannyāsa. First He took the child on His lap. "Advaita Prabhu is My father, so you are My younger brother Acyuta. In this way I adore you."

Acyuta Caitanya. Caitanya as worshipped by Acyuta, that Caitanya. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

I was told by someone, can't remember by whom, that Haṁsadūta Mahārāja is also delivering lecture that, “Śrīdhara Swāmī's advices are too high for us. So we request you to go through the works of Swāmī Mahārāja, our Prabhupāda, because you are not fit to study what Śrīdhara Mahārāja says.” Perhaps meaning about mādhurya rasa or so. That was told by him.

End of 82.07.07.B

82.07.08.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written in his aspiration for dhāma līlā that, “When the day will come that from near Śrīvāsa Aṅgan I shall look after that sannyāsī veśa of Mahāprabhu and try to bring Him to Śrīvāsa Aṅgan. Just as Mahāprabhu did in Purī, and the gopīs in Kurukṣetra. They left Kṛṣṇa but not in their same so they aspire after union only in Vṛndāvana. And Mahāprabhu in Purī also while taking from Jagannātha Temple to Guṇḍicā garden. With the same aspiration I'm taking Kṛṣṇa to Vṛndāvana as He promised in Kurukṣetra, He will come very soon to Vṛndāvana.”

Here Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he expressed his aspiration, inner earnestness. “That sannyāsa clad Caitanya Deva not desirable for us. We want that Gaurāṅga who continued saṅkīrtana day and night in Śrīvāsa Aṅgan. When I shall get that Gaurāṅga, home Gaurāṅga and not sannyāsī Gaurāṅga. It is giving much pain to the hearts of the devotees and He's practising penances, penances of a sannyāsī which the devotee cannot tolerate. So we aspire after that Gaurāṅga who was with the devotees of Navadvīpa, continued in Nāma saṅkīrtana.”

yadi anga ganga kari nama sankirtan antaranga sange kari rasa asvadhan [?] “That Gaurāṅga, gr̥hastha Gaurāṅga we want and not the sannyāsī Gaurāṅga.”

With this aspiration, bhajana lālasā, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura’s, it is mentioned there. The chariot pastimes if, should take place in Navadvīpa, then it should take place from Vidyānagara to Śrīvāsa Aṅgan, not otherwise. In consonance with the eternal līlā of Navadvīpa, a chariot as it was done in Purī, to take sannyāsī Gaurāṅga, that is, Dvārakā Kṛṣṇa, to Śrīvāsa Aṅgan, in Vṛndāvana [?] That was the idea of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, he has expressed in bhajana lālasā, my greed of the process of bhajana. In Navadvīpa bhajana lālasā, he expressed his lālasā that, “These things are my inner aspiration.” Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura expressed. You can go through that booklet, it is a songbook. And I do not know anyone who will come to satisfy that into practice, if anyone will come.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: He wanted to have Ratha Yatra from Vidyānagara to Śrīvāsa Aṅgan.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. You can find the reference in that book, Bhajana lālasā perhaps the name of his book, Bhajana lālasā. There we found it.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Yes, we would like to do that very much.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sannyāsī Gaurāṅga there has been compared with, in this Dvārakā, some form, to the Navadvīpa vāsī, dhāma vāsī, Navadvīpa, not desirable. Sannyāsa is not desirable for the parśada of Navadvīpa, ‘that we lost Gaurāṅga.’ Just as Mahāprabhu went to help the other, so many souls, others in bondage. Kṛṣṇa also came out from Vṛndāvana līlā to organize help, political help to the people at large to solve the administration, the Kāṁsa administration, Jarāsandha administration, _____ [?] And other administration at that time was very bad type, demonic type. So to release the public from that sort of maladministration Kṛṣṇa came out from Vṛndāvana to help the public. And here also Mahāprabhu came out of His Navadvīpa līlā to help the ordinary souls to get out from that bondage. But just as gopīs did not like that He will come out to help the public by improving the general administration of the country. So also Navadvīpa people did not want that Mahāprabhu leave Navadvīpa and He will go and He will work for the public throughout the world leaving them alone here. They could not.. [?]

Devotees: [?]

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Perhaps I'll go to Vidyānagara today.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Your nature is always [?]

Devotees: [?]

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Rolling stock.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ready made seller.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Easy to sell.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To take the money and give the [?] Not any debt. What is that? Ready made sale, something, immediate. Whatever you think, you try to do it immediately, anywhere and everywhere. You're ready, you're soul is in your hand and you are ready to give it anywhere and everywhere, whoever demands it. [?]

Now I think your disciples are not in normal condition and their only help is you. So you should not delay to go to London or America so that they may be released from the present position as soon as possible. Then after a few months you may come. After the solution of this present problem, undesirable problem, you may come and live here.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Thank you very much.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't think that they're in Nepal, in Bangalore, here and there, they're expecting your grace, a drop of water they are waiting, and you are waiting here. It is a discord in me. They are fully dependent on you, so you should go hurriedly towards the west and to send some tickets or some money, anyhow, what is dire necessity in them, to do the relief work as soon as possible. Bhakta sevā.

Mahāprabhu gave the charge to Sanātana Goswāmī to look after His devotees.

kāñthā-karaṅgiyā mora kāṅgāla bhakta-gaṇa / vṛndāvane āile tāṇdera kariha pālana

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu told Sanātana Gosvāmī, “All My devotees who go to Vṛndāvana are generally very poor. They each have nothing with them but a torn quilt and a small water pot. Therefore, Sanātana, you should give them shelter and maintain them.”]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 25.183]

“My poor devotees, their wealth is only one kāñthā, to cover the body in the cold, and one water pot. These are the two wealth of My - one kāñthā and one karaṅgiyā. Kāñthā-karaṅgiyā mora kāṅgāla bhakta-gaṇa. A very, very poor style they live. Vṛndāvane āile tāṇdera kariha pālana. When they go to Vṛndāvana you please look after them.”

That was the heartfelt request to Sanātana Gosvāmī from Mahāprabhu. The devotees are suffering. He can't tolerate.

At the same time He Himself says that, “I practice the austerity of a sannyāsī but My devotees cannot tolerate that. And they feel pain at their heart, and I can't tolerate their pain in the heart. As a sannyāsī, thrice taking bath and lying on the ground. Mukunda he does not say anything expressibly, but he's very sorry to see that, lying on the ground, and taking bath thrice, and taking some more limited diet. Mukunda can't tolerate, but he can't say anything. But I find that he's very sorry for that. And that sorrowfulness in him is very difficult for Me to tolerate. I can't.”

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. They're looking at your face.

madhavendra puri kabi sani thakur [?]

Just as the Gopāla in Govardhana, “When the day will come that Mādhavendra Purī will approach to take Me from this jungle and establish in a throne?”

So they’re also with that expression. “When Jayatīrtha Mahārāja’s help will come and relieve from this circumstantial trouble?”

Ha, ha. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

And Jayatīrtha Mahārāja says, “Who is a genuine follower of mine, I want to test now.”

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. I just pray for your blessings that I’ll become a genuine follower of yours.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: But so far since coming here I’ve been surrounded with auspiciousness. I’ve taken your darśana, I’ve gone to see Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura’s samādhī, and also Gaura-Gadādhara Mandir. So perhaps I can still visit Vidyānagara and then plan my journey back, with your permission.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] The aim to return, that is added. You go only to return.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. I consider that your highest deputation. Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The followers of Mahāprabhu, Navadvīpa is our home after all. Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Thank you very much.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You're more generous. Generosity mixed with sweetness. Vṛndāvana is sweet but Navadvīpa distributing, the distributor of that sweetness of Vṛndāvana, something more, mahā-vadanyāya. And that distribution both combined, the highest sweetness, the degree of the highest sweet līlā, that distributed here, the both party combined. With the consent of both the parties. The full positive and negative, distributing Himself.

svabhajana vibhajana prayojana avatārī

Jīva Goswāmī gives this adjective to Mahāprabhu, svabhajana. When He's worshipping Himself, serving Himself, that is the type of perfect bhajana. Svabhajana vibhajana, and He's distributing that to the public. And this distribution is the only end of His life, prayojana. What is the necessity of this Avatāra, to distribute something. What is that? His own bhajan. He's serving Himself and that type of service He comes to distribute here, and that is the necessity of His life. And He's not an Avatāra, but such Avatārī. That the highest position of Him, Avatārī, that from the highest position He's distributing Himself, not of any lower function or lower part. Everything is sweet, but still there is degree. And when He's the highest degree Avatārī, at that time this has been the necessity of His incarnation, coming down here. Why? To give His own thing, what He does Himself, to distribute to others, all. Svabhajana vibhajana prayojana avatārī. That is Mahāprabhu described by Jīva Goswāmī.

So, such a magnanimous place where the highest thing is distributed, where shall I go to get, this place, Navadvīpa, Navadvīpa.

About our Guru Mahārāja I have written in a poem. Gauḍe, in Bengal, gāṅga-taṭe, in the vicinity of the Ganges, gāṅga-taṭe. Nava vraja, or para vraja, the higher Vṛndāvana, or new Vṛndāvana. Nava- vraja-navadvīpa. Then that is by name Navadvīpa. Gauḍe gāṅga-taṭe nava-vraja-navadvīpa tu māyāpure. And within that Navadvīpa area the Māyāpur, the part of the city. Gauḍe gāṅga-taṭe nava- vraja-navadvīpa tu māyāpure. Śrī chaitanya-maṭha-prakaśa-kavaro jīvaika-kalyāṇadhīḥ. Who has established that great Maṭha by name Śrī Caitanya Maṭha. And the purpose of establishing that Maṭha was, jīvaika-kalyāṇadhīḥ. The only object in Him was to help the people at large, jīvaika- kalyāṇadhīḥ. Śrī siddhānta-sarasvatī-vidito. He was known to the public as Śrī Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī by his name. Vidito gauḍīya-gurvanvaye. In the spiritual lineage of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava his name was Śrī Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī. Vidito gauḍīya-gurvanvaye. In the line of Guru of the Gauḍīya School. Bhāto bhānuriva prabhātagagane rūpānugaiḥ pūjitāḥ. And he shines just like the morning sun, prabhātagagane rūpānugaiḥ, like a sun in the morning sky, prabhātagagane. Rūpānugaiḥ pūjitāḥ. And he was worshipped and shown reverence by all the rūpānuga who could appreciate what Rūpa Goswāmī has given, the nectar, the type of nectar distributed by Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī, inspired by Mahāprabhu and deputed by Mahāprabhu to Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī Ṭhākura.

And Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī recorded that in Māyāpur, in a stone. Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī, he appreciated my poems very much. And this poem, he has, I'm told in [?] or somewhere else, he has recorded in the Caitanya Maṭha.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Is there a stage in between nāmābhāsa and ruci?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The stage of anartha nivṛtti, niṣṭhā. Anartha nivṛtti and niṣṭhā there should be the position of nāmābhāsa. Niṣṭhā means nairantarya, continuance of a connection with Kṛṣṇa, that is niṣṭhā. Continued, not [?] not cut, or forgetfulness. Continued memory of Kṛṣṇa, that is niṣṭhā. Before that the stage of anartha nivṛtti. So nāmābhāsa will be very near anartha nivṛtti. In the continuance of Kṛṣṇa smṛti, that real Kṛṣṇa, not this Māyāvādī Kṛṣṇa. His continued company, that is above nāmābhāsa, śuddha bhakti, His connection, but not very clear, but still it is Kṛṣṇa connection and no gap. Then ruci. The taste after that is called ruci proper, otherwise ruci coming and going, flickering, that is not ruci proper. After continued connection then the coming, the advent of ruci is possible, not before that. Then that develops into āśakti, then to bhāva. In bhāva the practical Kṛṣṇa connection has come, touch, particular touch has come. Then that bhāva. [?] Just as blossoming stage.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja, ananya bhajana?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ananya bhajana, that niṣṭhā, and the whole thing beginning with śraddhā also may be ananya bhajana where there is no possibility of the entrance of any other gods or entity within.

Within what the sun will do without. Within, prema rasa, that will soothe the body, whole thing. And what can do, the hot sun? I have experienced sometimes in the hot sun barefooted I'm going, chanting the name and meditating as if, while Mahāprabhu is going distributing the name in the south, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa He. In this way going dancing distributing the name He's wandering in the south. That idea excited me very much, and I'm travelling barefooted and the sun hot. I felt that something oozing from my body and that is meeting the heat that emanates from the earth, something oozing, as if, from my body as if from my body something like gas oozing from my body. And that is meeting the heat and minimizing, the heat cannot touch my body. I had some experience once. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gas is emanating and that is meeting with the heat of the earth. The heat does not enter my body.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Isn't there a story of Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī sitting in the sun all day doing bhajan and Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī came and held something over him to protect him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is a higher thing, Dāsa Goswāmī. And we had experience in this way from a lower position. We should not expect that, Rādhārāṇī will come, or our Guru will come to relieve us from this variation. That is not desirable that they will come to serve us. Rather we shall go to serve them in their bhajan.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, I have one question. In the twenty third verse of the third chapter of the Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta in one verse it is described in the commentary by Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura that it says here, “Abandoning all of these processes, I glorify the qualities of the personality of faith by whose mercy devotion can be attained.” Can you please explain...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the Bengali there, or Sanskrit?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja:

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. That is by Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī. You say Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: No.

Devotee: There’s one commentary, there’s a comment on this verse.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura?

Devotee: Yes. And he says...

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] What is the difficulty?

Devotee: He says here...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Attention to vipralambha, why a Vaiṣṇava...

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is your point?

Devotee: I'm asking the question, he says here, "Abandoning all these processes, I glorify the qualities of the personality of faith, by whose mercy devotion can be attained." Can you please explain the personality of faith.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Oh. Sakala chāḍiyā bhāi, śraddhādevīra guṇa gāi, yanra kṛpa bhakti dite pare. [Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written: "Giving up everything, let us sing in praise of Śraddhā Devī, faith, whose grace can take us to Kṛṣṇa."] Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: It's been translated as the personality of faith, Śraddhā Devī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Faith is producing, in one word, the faith is producing all these things. What is that faith? First we must have faith, and by the grace of faith we may have so many things. So by the very foundation he's trying to concentrate all his attention and devotion towards the foundation.

Just as Rāmānanda Rāya told, “When again that Yugala Mūrti will come to reveal in my heart I shall try to worship, sei-kṣaṇa-ghaṭī-pala [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.38] without minding what the time is producing, without minding that, I shall give my attention to the time only, which can produce that.”

In this way the basis. Ihāṇ mālī sece nitya śravaṇa kīrtanādi jala.

[tāhāṇ vistārita hañā phale prema-phala, ihāṇ mālī sece nitya śravaṇādi jala]

[“The creeper greatly expands in the Goloka Vṛndāvana planet, and there it produces the fruit of love for Kṛṣṇa. Although remaining in the material world, the gardener regularly sprinkles the creeper with the water of hearing and chanting.”] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.155]

The creeper of devotion has grown and has reached the feet of Kṛṣṇa, so far progress. But the mālī, the gardener, he will be more attentive to pour water into the root of the creeper, the foundation. Then automatically they will be enlivened, and I shall get the result, but not direct.

vicakṣaṇa kari', dekhite cāhile haya, haya ākhi-agocara

[Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: “Suddenly a flash came, but when I tried to see that, it disappeared. It was withdrawn.”]

If I give attention to the upper side more, it will disappear. Always towards dāśya, service, towards foundation. And indirectly everything will come to me. Vicakṣaṇa kari', dekhite cāhile haya, haya ākhi- agocara . Whenever I shall try to derive some consequence direct from the effect, it will disappear. But I shall to engage myself only in the service, of the lowest service, and that will grow more and more. Dainyam. Get yourself lower. To take Name, automatically the other things will come. But you neglect the foundation, everything will disappear. That is the idea. Always your attention should be drawn towards the lower form of service.

Rādhārāṇī says, “He wants to enjoy Me, but My attention is always to serve Him, not to be a partner of His enjoyment.”

That should be the attention always, dāśya. Pour water into the root. That is the nature of śuddha bhakti. Sakala chāḍiyā bhāi, śraddhādevīra guṇa gāi. Śraddhā Devī, it is all her product. If she's withdrawn, everything gone, finished. So I shall try my best to keep up my gratefulness, thankfulness, to the very foundation by whose grace I may hope to have so many things. It is not mine. It belongs to Śraddhā Devī, svarūpa śakti. I'm taṭasthā śakti. All the wealth belongs to her. Yogamāyā, svarūpa śakti, Śraddhā Devī. By her grace I think that I have got so many things. But this belongs to her. I should not be ungrateful to her. I may be fully awake that it's only through her grace. This is all the extended grace that I get, not a matter of right. I must be conscious of the fact, all through. It is the wealth of my Gurudeva, śraddhā. I should be wakeful to this truth. And it concludes to parakīya again. It is very clear there, it does not belong to me. Any time I may lose, very rare. Only the chance is producing. I'm not fit. I have no right. So rare. And so with that attention we shall try to attain, to connect. Sakala chāḍiyā bhāi, śraddhādevīra guṇa gāi, yanra kṛpa bhakti dite pare. Fully awake to the fact.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Vidagdha-Mādhava Dāsa. One question. With all this separatism, this secular feeling, within our own camp, how can we preach sanātana dharma as the solution to so much separatism, so much fighting in the material world, when there's so much problem within our own camp?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is natural. When from provincial view creates some difficulty, from universal it is all right.

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet / ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati

[“Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa.”] [Ujjvala-nīlamanī]

Even in higher prema, love divine, we find difference, and some antagonistic feeling, and some competition. It is the very nature of dynamic system. But when it is seen from provincial interest it seems undesirable. But from the universal interest, everything is all right, it is this way.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: I had the same feeling about the situation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Both universal and provincial, both continuing, as eternal process of līlā. Aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ. Rūpa Goswāmī says, just as the serpent does not go straight, it is in this way, in a curved way. It is natural to him, to the serpent, to go in a crooked way, not straight. So also the nature of the prema or Kṛṣṇa śakti. Thesis, antithesis, synthesis, that is the process by which the whole world is producing, or is moving. When from the standpoint of provincial interest then it is eliminating. And from the higher universal interest it is justified. Helps progress, helps līlā, helps to taste the intensity of rasa. It is not only undesirable but it is desirable for the whole movement. Thesis, antithesis, synthesis, in Hegelian style. Rūpa Goswāmī even in the higher layer it is so, aher iva, svabhāva, this natural movement is in a crooked way. And He's pleased by that. If an anti party, an opposition party is there, it is for the benefit of the cause, the anti party is there. Anti party also helps the positive, the main party is helped by the anti party in indirect way. So it is direct and indirect. In Bhāgavatam [1.1.1] 'nṣayād itarataś, itarataś, that is indirect cannot be eliminated, it is there. And the fullest harmony it is included.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Is there some platform everyone can agree on, even though there is diversity and opposition?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. From the position of Kṛṣṇa. Two branches and this is enjoyed by this, and two hands enjoyed by the body, in this way. Where they may combine, that enjoys both parties, different functions. Difference is enjoyed by the common. In this way it goes to the prime cause. In the absolute, everything has got its position of utility. Not only undesirable but utility. Māyā has got its position. On the whole māyā has got its necessary position. In general, but with the absolute will anything and everything may happen. In a country the prison house has got its position though it is undesirable. It's a necessity in the system.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Even though there's opposition, there's no enmity, is there enmity between parties?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Opposition enhances the līlā, the pastimes. For the very nature of pastimes opposition is a necessary part.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Is their enmity between parties?

Sridhara Maharaja: So called enmity, that can be minimized by Yogamāyā, that higher potency, only to please Kṛṣṇa. It is designed and the design is eternal. It is necessary by Yogamāyā to create the opposition, and the gradation in the opposition, and gradation in the positive line also. It is such. And after all it is beyond our conception, acintya bhedābheda, bhedābheda, everywhere, common and difference everywhere. And the position of them is unthinkable. Mahāprabhu in a very small sentence has expressed. Don't go to dash your brain against that. It is not to come within your brain. It is incomprehensible. Your brain is not comprehensive to catch that, it is acintya. You leave it to the infinite. All mathematics cannot be solved, left to infinite. Leave it to the infinite, inconceivable. Don't go into any details. There are other business by which you can thrive more, not by this.

(In the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam [10.14.3] Lord Brahmā said to the Supreme Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa):

[“Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes (kathā), which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds.”]

Oh, it is unknown, unknowable. What I have got in my quota, I must utilise my energy in that. That is the best intelligence.

...

...he has asked to observe some restriction about our movement, favourable to our devotional life. Generally this privation is not the end of our life.

ārādhito yadi haris tapasā tataḥ kiṁ, nārādhito yadi haris tapasā tataḥ tataḥ kiṁ

[“If one is worshipping the Lord properly, what is the use of severe penances? And if one is not properly worshipping the Lord, what is the use of severe penances? If Śrī Kṛṣṇa is realised within and without everything that exists, what is the use of severe penances? And if Śrī Kṛṣṇa is not realised within and without everything, what is the use of severe penances?”] [Pañcarātra]

Ārādhito yadi haris tapasā. If Hari is served, if Kṛṣṇa is satisfied, what is the necessity of penances? Nārādhito yadi haris. If without penance Kṛṣṇa can be satisfied then that sort of penance is unnecessary. Yadi haris tapasā. Nārādhito yadi haris tapasā tataḥ kiṁ. If we cannot satisfy Hari, satisfy Kṛṣṇa, what is the necessity of penances as we find amongst the so many atheists, Buddhists, Jainists, all these? They have no recognition of Hari. Only some sense and any other penances of life, this anti enjoyment campaign. Negative side, enjoyment is that, and take the reaction. But above all the harmonizing principle is there and His will is all in all. Such conception is wanted there. So ārādhito yadi haris tapasā, if Hari is not satisfied then what is the necessity of taking so much trouble, every point in the austerity and so much penances. Hari's position.

mayā tatam idaṁ sarvaṁ, [jagad avyakta-mūrtinā mat-sthāni sarva-bhūtāni, na cāhaṁ teṣv avasthitaḥ]

[“In an unmanifest manner, I pervade this entire universe, and everything conceivable is situated within Me - and yet, I am not situated within that total entity.”] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.4]

“I'm everywhere and nowhere. Everything in Me, nothing in Me. Try to understand My mystic position.”

So, for the satisfaction of Him such principles which is transcending all these phenomenal conception existing. If we cannot catch Him, these atheistic penances, what value they can fetch? Ārādhito yadi haris tapasā tataḥ kiṁ, nārādhito yadi haris tapasā tataḥ kiṁ, antar bahir yadi haris tapasā tataḥ kiṁ. If anyone can find Hari is within him and without, overflowing consciousness of Hari, everywhere, tapasā tataḥ kiṁ, what is the necessity for going to run after the phantasmagoria of austerity? Antar bahir yadi haris tapasā. If Hari is not within and outside how we find? Then also what is the necessity of penances. Hari is all in all and His satisfaction should be marked. That is the aim of our life. This is Vaiṣṇavism, above all. Above all calculation. He's everywhere, He's nowhere.

Such existence we are to trace. It is very difficult, and also it is told to be very easy, sahaja. Sahajata, the adaptability. The fitness is within us. That is our svarūpa. This is in our svarūpa. The possibility is there. So with that thread we are to go in touch with Him. That is śraddhā, that is faith. That is subtle most faculty, or function, or enquiring principle, that is there, the faith, śraddhā. We may be afraid of our credulity. Whatever we find we shall believe that, we shall take that, we shall devour that. We shall lose our energy after that. That carelessness, we are very much afraid. But at the same time we have to understand that what little faith we can have. What is our position in this universe? How much it is possible for us to know, how much possible? How much possibility in this small spot it is within me, my consciousness, meagre consciousness? The infinite possibility is there, and how much my faith may misguide me. What the faith can understand and expect, more than that, crores times, million times more than that there may be existence of type. What is non believing. So faith in the positive direction, everything.

Everything may be possible in Him. "I am everywhere, I am nowhere. What does that mean? That in your case I may be nowhere. In your tiny brain, puppy brain, how much you can be expected to try to understand. So I'm nowhere means that beyond the jurisdiction even of your faith, supposition, I'm there. I'm everywhere, I'm nowhere. Everything in Me, and nothing in Me. Everything in Me but still he may not know. A particle or stone may not know Me. Then he says, no, He's not in Me, not conscious that he's My dependent. He's staying on Me, I'm his support."

*aham sarvasya prabhavo, mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate iti matvā bhajante
mām, budhā bhāva-samanvitāḥ*

[“I am Kṛṣṇa, the Sweet Absolute, I am the root cause of the all-comprehensive aspect of the Absolute, the all-permeating aspect of the Absolute, and also the personal aspect of the Absolute - the Master of all potencies, who commands the respect of everyone - Lord Nārāyaṇa of Vaikuṇṭha. The universe of mundane and divine flow, every attempt and movement, the Vedas and allied scriptures which guide everyone’s worship - all are initiated by Me alone. Realising this hidden treasure, the virtuous souls who are blessed with fine theistic intellect surpass the standards of duty and non duty, and embrace the paramount path of love divine, rāga-mārga, and adore Me forever.”]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 10.8]

“When they come to realise that I’m the origin, I’m the sustainer, I’m there. It is My līlā in all respects. When they come to understand this, then bhāva-samanvitāḥ, no necessity of any penances. They come as bhāva-samanvitāḥ, by faith, and the result of faith is love. Cannot be otherwise. Faith is the basis of love, rāga, anurāga.”

*aham sarvasya prabhavo, mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate iti matvā bhajante
mām, budhā bhāva-samanvitāḥ*

“Not much formality there, but they come with their whole heart towards Me, wholesale embrace, welcome, they come to welcome Me, to embrace Me with their whole heart when they come to know that I am everything. I am everything so automatically the natural love will flow towards Me.”

That is the gist. That is the important essence of every conscious unit, is love, flow, prema, priti, attraction, wholesale, ātma-nivedanam. To surrender. If we can find any person who can make or mar, my whole fortune is in his hand, if we can know then we cannot but surrender to him for my every success. That is the natural thing.

So penance, cāturmāsyā penance, that has got also some necessity in the beginning, because we are under at present, such a plane that we do not know without enjoyment. Always calculating what benefit we can derive from that, going to have a connection with anything, the second thing, how much benefit I may derive from it. It is natural. So just to check that, to check that natural irresistible attempt in our present position, some restraint is necessary. So the śāstra has come with so many restrictions, don't do this, don't do that. Some also concerning our health in this rainy season. And also some necessary indirectly to help our cause. But if it is connected with Viṣṇu, with Kṛṣṇa, with Hari, then that has got really, surely, some value.

Once when we were in Purī this Caitanya Maṭha had its own cultivated field. And there was_____ [?]

and other things which was barred in this cāturmāsyā, went to Purī. Prabhupāda told, “Oh, from dhāma it has come. So no restriction of cāturmāsyā [?] Mahāprabhu's own field, and His own men have cultivated and produced this, so we must take this, exceptional case. In this way. Ārādhito yadi haris. With connection with that ārādhito we shall take penance so much what is necessary to help us in the service of our Lord.

There was a story of a sycophant, flatterer. In ancient times the Nawabs were there and they had some sycophant, flatterer. Perhaps one flatterer dead so in his place another recruitment is necessary. So many candidates have come. The Nawab is asking, “Will you be able to do this service?”

“Yes sir.”

“I think you may not do.”

“No, no, I shall do. I shall be able to do the service you want.”

Then left him, asked another man. “What do you think? Will you be able to do the service properly?”

“Yes sir, I think I shall do.” “Yes, you will be able to do?”

“Yes. Surely I shall be able to do.” “I think no, you are unfit for it.”

“Yes sir, I’m also thinking like that, I’m unfit for this.” “No, no, you will do it very well.”

“Yes, I must do very well.” “Appoint him.”

So, our position is such, surrender means such. Only the master consciousness, the master consciousness. Whatever He demands we have to do. Forgetful of the circumstances and our relation with anything, in general, in higher position also. When they can oppose for the purpose of the prestige of their own superiors, even they can oppose Kṛṣṇa. That is a very high position. Just as Lalitā Devī’s function. Always for partiality towards Rādhārāṇī, and fighting with Kṛṣṇa, to win the cause for Rādhārāṇī. That is also we are told. So that is in high position. That has got another nature.

But generally for the beginners, we do not know anything, neither enjoyment, nor renunciation. The reactionary school, they advise us to take the path of renunciation, and then in the last that samādhī means zero, no personality. Personality is buried. And within they say vague conscious region, Virajā, Brahmaloḥa. The extreme case of renunciation is just like in deep sleep. If we are awake, then we come in connection with something, and that is material world of exploitation. We will lose. Whenever we are awake we will come dvitīyābhiniveśataḥ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.37] and the world of enjoyment we will lose our position. So eternal slumber, samādhi means, no personal awakening, consciousness with the environment, renunciation.

So neither renunciation nor enjoyment. Murari sthitiya pantha [?] Use everything, try to see the connection of everything around you for the service of Kṛṣṇa and engage yourself in that. And as your existence is necessary, for the service, you are at liberty to accept from His store whatever will help you to get the best service. That is the main principle of Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism. Not much austerity and not enjoyment. What is necessary.

Once Prabhupāda told us when we were in U.P. in Naimiṣāraṇya the sevāka there they wrote a letter that, “Our number is less if we go for collection then the cooking department is disturbed, so we have appointed a cook for the āśrama.”

Prabhupāda wrote in reply, “Yes, engage a cook and ask him to prepare good dishes for Kṛṣṇa and for prasādam automatically to you, and try to do service also very well. _____ [?] Take good prasādam and do also good service. That is our creed. The service is all important and if good food can help us for that, we don’t deny that food, we shall accept.”

Once told that the ant eats very little, but it may bite the devotees. Kṛṣṇa Himself can bite. But the elephant eats much but elephant may bear on his back the Rādhā-Govinda Vighraha and His devotees. So because the elephant eats much, that is not to be considered in the infinite. The ant eats very little, that has got no value, in the infinite. What is the utility, where we find the utility in the service of Kṛṣṇa, that is to be reckoned, that is to be considered. Not less eating or much eating, that is not. Whatever is favourable for the service of Kṛṣṇa, that is our main guidance in our life, about the, from the store of Kṛṣṇa.

Asura dvitiya abhay kṛsne bandha [?] The demons are exploiting what is meant for the service of Kṛṣṇa. So the devotees they should take anything and everything from His store and render the highest possible service to the Lord. That is the principle of life and generally in Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism, the viddhi and anurāga, and higher things.

Mahāprabhu, as He had to take the role of a sannyāsī what was not necessary, but He took this advantage. Because the preachers at that time they were all sannyāsīs generally. They hold the upper position of the teachers, spiritual teachers of this life, so Mahāprabhu accepted that advantage and took sannyāsa. As He took sannyāsa so He had to observe to certain extent the practices of the sannyāsī. So He's seen to observe this cāturmāsyā. Taking that advantage He preached against them, had to preach against them.

Just as Rūpa, Sanātana, they have recommended yukta-vairāgyam, but they themselves practised much austerity in their life. Because they had to keep the position in the society of a leader amongst the preaching staff, of then India. They observed so much austerity that even the worst Māyāvādī they also could not do so, so much austerity. But from that position they have recommended, this is nothing. Ārādhito yadi haris tapasā tataḥ kiṁ. Yukta-vairāgyam, not this phalgu-vairāgyam. But to make this maxim accepted by the society, they had to observe the highest standard of austerity.

_____ [?] Not under the shade of a single tree more than a day. No attraction. Sometimes every day under a new tree, under the shade of a new tree. Always changing.

_____ [?] No fixed place to stay. "Then the next day we shall get some more comfortable arrangement.” No. Every day a new place under the shade of a new tree. That also they showed like that.

And Dāsa Goswāmī, Rādhā Kuṇḍa, on the banks of Rādhā Kuṇḍa Mahāprabhu discovered a paddy field. That is Rādhā Kuṇḍa concealed. And when Mahāprabhu He was circumambulating that Vraja maṇḍala at the Govardhana He intuitively went to some place and where is Rādhā Kuṇḍa He was searching for, then none could say where is Rādhā Kuṇḍa. Then suddenly from His trance He came out and in a paddy field there was some water, took water on His head and began to chant the stotram of Rādhā Kuṇḍa as is mentioned in Padma Purāṇa. And that place was located as Rādhā Kuṇḍa after that. And Dāsa Goswāmī was there. By the help of some merchant that was dug into a tank, and Rādhā Kuṇḍa came out to our vision. And Dāsa Goswāmī lived there without any care where he is.

Sanātana Goswāmī had this responsibility as asked by Mahāprabhu, “Please look after My devotees that go to Vṛndāvana.” Mahāprabhu had the highest faith in Sanātana Goswāmī’s organizing capacity. So the general maintenance and other help was entrusted with Sanātana Goswāmī. “You should look after My party whenever they go to Vṛndāvana.”

So he was wandering, and where is who, he used to take note, and as much possible help for them. One day he’s going in search of Raghunātha. He’s very fond of self abnegation, too much. He did in Purī. Here also he has come, must do that standard. So he found that he’s sitting unmindful on the bank of Rādhā Kuṇḍa. Whether a tree, or not tree, anywhere he’s sitting and thinking and thinking not conscious about the external world. Sanātana Goswāmī stood before him. Anyhow he came to understand, found, showed his respect.

Sanātana Goswāmī also noticed that one tiger is coming and taking water from Rādhā Kuṇḍa, took and went away. And Dāsa Goswāmī he does not know what is happening there, in this way. So that excited Sanātana Goswāmī and he came and proposed to Raghunātha, “It is my order you should live in a cottage and never under the sky. It is my order. You will have to do it.” Then of course he was the senior God-brother amongst the followers of Mahāprabhu and the responsibility of the whole Braja maṇḍala devotees entrusted on him. Dāsa Goswāmī could not but obey his order. And Sanātana Goswāmī managed to construct a thatched cottage and Dāsa Goswāmī when ordered you must remain here.

*mahāprabhura bhakta-gaṇera vairāgya pradhāna / yāhā dekhi’ prīta hana

[Renunciation is the basic principle sustaining the lives of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu’s devotees. Seeing this renunciation, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is extremely satisfied.] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 6.220]

This high class of abnegation was shown by the Goswāmīs. But what he has written in their book, they themselves practised a high order that astounded even the Māyāvādīs, the Buddhists, the Jains. But there from they wrote that this phalgu-vairāgya is of no use, yukta-vairāgya as advised in Bhagavad-gītā. Whatever will be necessary to render the maximum service of the Lord you should accept that. It is individual, not sectarian. A man who is a little sick, his diet should be something else. And a man healthy he should be according to his own suitability. In this way yukta-vairāgya. In cāturmāsyā also, everywhere, no austerity, no penances, that is our end of life. But our end of life to satisfy Kṛṣṇa and His devotees, His bona fide devotees, and we must make adjustment with the environment, with that end in our lives.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...Mahādeva, Śiva. The Kīrttikā, Āśvinī, Varuṇī and Kīrttikā (aka Kīrtidā), the third name, daughter of Dakṣa that is. And it was a fashion in Vraja-maṇḍala to name the girl according to the name of these girls of Dakṣa Prajāpati. So Rādhārāṇī's mother's name was Kīrttikā, Kīrttikā, and Rādhārāṇī is called Kārttikī, Kīrttikā, born from Kīrttikā. In that sense She's known as Kārttikī, so Kārttika. Sanātana Goswāmī has given the clue that, māsānām mārga-śīrṣo 'ham.

[bṛhat-sāma tathā sāmnam, gāyatrī chandasām aham māsānām mārga-śīrṣo 'ham, ṛtūnām kusumākaraḥ]

[Of the hymns in the Sāma Veda I am the Bṛhat-sāma, and of poetry I am the Gāyatrī. Of months I am Mārgaśīrṣa [November-December], and of seasons I am flower-bearing spring.][Bhagavad-gītā, 10.35]

Kṛṣṇa says, "That from all the months the Mārga-śīrṣa month represents Me."

And Kārtika [Oct-Nov] just before Mārga-śīrṣa, Mārga-śīrṣa, Kārtika, then Agrahāyana, aka Mārga- śīrṣa. So Kārtika has some reason to be conceived as representing Rādhārāṇī, as Kṛṣṇa represents Mārga-śīrṣa. Just before that month Kārtika that is...ravistarta devata [?] The Devī, the Goddess, representing that portion of the year goes to represent Rādhārāṇī, so Kārtika-māsya.

Ūrjeśvarī also a name of Rādhārāṇī, ūrjaḥ means resources, all the resources culminates in Her, She commands the whole resources, the śakti, śakti, the power, the resources commanded by Her, so, Ūrjeśvarī, Ūrjarvṛta, Kārtika vṛata, that going ultimately to the connection of Śrī Rādhikā. So Vaiṣṇavas they give much stress to observe that month, especially with the aspiration of satisfying Rādhārāṇī, to attain Her service and the service of Kṛṣṇa.

And also we are told in that month, gopīs they worship Kātyānanī, observe that month with the internal object of satisfying the Devī that they may...

nandagopa-sutaṁ devī patim me kurute namaḥ

...That was their internal prayer to the Devī, "Deva Yoga-Māyā, please manage such a way that we can have the service of the son of Nanda in our own hearty way." With that prayer the Kārtika vṛata was observed by them. And we also give some special stress in the observation of the caturmāsya, the last portion of the Kārtika vṛata. And that is exclusively connected with the service of the gopīs, Rādhārāṇī, and Kṛṣṇa. Kārtika, the last month of caturmāsyā. More of the most attention is given to that and well, and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam also comes to encourage us in the line of gopī, Kātyānanī vrata. With that spirit within we observe the last month more attentively, caturmāsyā vrata.

"You are searching this and that, this is all futile, only try to know Me, know Me, everything is known. Your searching life will be finished. No longer will there be any necessity of searching if you can know Me."

bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ kṣīyante cāśya karmāṇi, mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani

["The knot in the heart is pierced, all misgivings are cut to pieces and the chain of fruitive actions is terminated when I am seen as the Supreme Personality of Godhead."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.20.30]

"Only your quest will be stopped when you come to such a stage." Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. There is, "Your heart is sealed, that seal will be broken." Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. "There is a tie and that will be torn, the flow will come out towards Me. Your heart will say, heart. If it is in bondage, if it is unloosened, untied, the easy flow, natural flow will come to Me. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. That tie is removed and the heart will flow with love towards Me. Chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ. Your searching troubles will be finished, no other search will be necessary. Searching for better, always searching for better, better, better, that will come to an end, stop. Kṣīyante cāśya karmāṇi. Your previous connection with the environment that will also vanish. Your obligation for your previous life, your obligation to the environment will also disappear. Mayi dṛṣṭe 'kḥilātmani. When you will find that I'm everywhere, I'm the party with whom you are to deal with. So I can satisfy you only, wholesale satisfaction."

As our Guru Mahārāja told, "If there is any fire, don't try to extinguish the fire, and then come to Kṛṣṇa. No, no necessity of extinguishing fire, no necessity. All your internal necessity is with Kṛṣṇa and you go to extinguish fire, that you have some necessity with the thing that is going to be burned, no, no, no necessity there. The whole world may be reduced to ashes, you won't lose anything. All your necessities is in the holy divine feet of Kṛṣṇa, He can supply, He can capture, He can give you fullest engagement, fullest engagement. Naturally your relation with Him is such."

Kṣīyante cāśya karmāṇi, mayi dṛṣṭe 'kḥilātmani. "Wherever you cast your glance you will see I am the party there, I am there, I am there." We want to do good to others, He will say, "I am there so your attempt to do good to others is not necessary, I am fully conscious of his benefit, so you will owe nothing, nothing."

He has got the best interest and best liking for everyone. He's there, so all stopped, and you and myself, others subsidiary, in this way, in a general way. Then again readjustment through Yogamāyā, in a group of service, that with another thing will come. Everything similar but not same, same and not. Satisfaction crossing that layer of satisfaction again dissatisfaction. I'm not getting the service of Kṛṣṇa. Not a drop to drink, only hankering, hankering, increasing hankering. How can I get a drop to drink of this nectar? That will be another thing, cid vilāsa.

Know, and Kṛṣṇa's aspect and different aspects will be unfolded to our hankering and we will find infinite love.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, is it true that by practising caturmāsyā during the month of Kārtika in the holy Dhāma one receives the benefit of the whole caturmāsyā, as if one practised for four months, is that true?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. That depends on the quality of observance. Only one day, one seconds observance may cover the whole. Intensity and quality. Quality means to get us relief from the mathematics.

eka kṛṣṇa-nāme yata pāpa hare, pātakī sādhyā nāhi tata pāpa kare

[No sinner can commit as much sin as one Name of Kṛṣṇa can destroy.]
A sinner cannot commit so much sin as much can destroy one Kṛṣṇa Nāma.

nāmno 'sya yāvatī śaktiḥ pāpa-nirharaṇe hareḥ tāvat karttuṁ na śaknoti pātakam pātakī janaḥ [Kūrma Purāṇa]

[The sinner cannot commit so much sin, what even one word, the Divine Word, the Divine Name can.] Still we are requested to take one thousand names, one lākh names, sixteen rounds, all these, what does it mean? These are necessary for the lower order, but our attention should be with quality. That one Name can do so much that crores of Names cannot do. Nāmāparādha, nāmābhāsa etc, and even in Name there is also distinction. Tuṇḍe tāṇḍavinī ratim vitanute. Yaśodā taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa, Rādhārāṇī takes the Name of Kṛṣṇa, the volt, how much volt is there, that is inconceivable to us, the voltage.

Then the Name takes over and handles him as if the person to whom the lips belong loses all control over his lips, and the devotee says: 'With one mouth, how much can I gather the ecstasy of the Holy Name? I need millions of mouths to taste its unlimited sweetness. I'll never feel any satisfaction by chanting with only one mouth.] [Vidagdha-Mādhava, 1.15]

They can't reach the standard of taking the Name, from beforehand all this is.

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam bhaktir uttamā

[“One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service.”] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11]

If they're of, anyābhilāṣ, fleeting desires, that is whims of every individual, disorganised. The karma which is recommended with connection of revealed truth, and also considering our stage, something common has been, a mixture has been produced, do this, this, this. A certain percentage of devotion is there but more this, the objects of this anomalous world. Then jñāna, karma, jñāna, there we can know, we can know only mortality of this world, so we should not keep our connection with the world of death. We must go above death, otherwise cannot be happy. With that proposal the knowledge comes, jñāna and yoga also. Anyhow to get out of the difficulty of death, to drive the death, that is the be all and end all of our life that should anyhow to save from the clutches of death, mortality, chain of these things, to get out of the negative side. Jñāna-karmādy, jñāna means yoga and śaithilya, our idleness, apathy, all these.

Ānukūlyena kṛṣṇam, not pratikūlyena, desirable, but ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanam. Cultivation of Kṛṣṇa means service of Kṛṣṇa. Our normal relation with our higher existence only can be that of service, not otherwise, so to take that path and go ahead anyhow. Calculative, and then we shall come to such a stage that it will be automatic we find within us, spontaneous. That is of love, a labour of love, loving service. That will be its own food, the food, clothing, shelter, everything is there, no other necessity outside. The wholesale twenty four hour engagement, everything there, and of every aspect of our life, all engaged. The whole time, and the whole space and time, and person, three absorbed wholly, time, space, body represents the space. "Time, and I'm the owner of them." All swallowed by rasa personified with His own group.

Prabhodhānanda Sarasvatī, Tuṅgavidyā, Vraja man, that sakhī, amongst the eight principal sakhīs, one Tuṅgavidyā is Prabhodhānanda in Gaura līlā. Likings are very grand and sweet, sweet and grand. And appealing and hitting to the mark.

How did you find that Vidyānagara? [?] Prabhupāda, a very desolate condition?

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Very desolate, very run down.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I hear like that and the next they show their kuṅga, the Sārvabhauma's house was there, nearby at the front of the Maṭha of our Gurudeva.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: It is quite dilapidated.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Quite dilapidated. Hare. Each one is best, each one is best, everyone is better than other, that was it, so wherever you go they strike you to be the best, very good.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: My thinking was that your original suggestion was Madyadwīpa, that we should establish something in Madyadwīpa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Madyadwīpa, no it tackle? No a Maṭha in Madyadwīpa, established as yet.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: When I heard that this bridge was called Gaurāṅga Setu then I became thinking that if we could get a place just on the Gaṅgā, on the other side in Madyadwīpa then it would be very close by to Your Divine Grace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Pañca veni triveni, is there. That Sarasvatī and Ganges confluence, these three, and there also another, two from this side and that side is coming from Ganges, that is called pañca veni, triveni and pañca veni, this Gaṅgā and Sarasvatī, Jamunā. Three going, and another two meeting, that is known as pañca veni, confluence of five rivers, and three rivers here, so between three and five, if any this Madyadwīpa undiscovered, pañca veni. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Jayatīrtha Mahārāja: Perhaps we can look for a place on the Gaṅgā in Madyadwīpa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And proved via Śāntipur. Calcutta is very less distant, very near, Calcutta, because from there a straight street is going, a road is going to Calcutta via Śāntipur, and there I'm told. I've not seen all these things.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

If we can develop the eye, then every atom of Gaura Dhāma will charm to its most. Only the eye is necessary and they charm every atom is sufficient to engage us fully, fully, and accommodate wholesale. One particle of dust can give us fullest engagement, because all infinite of the most generous type, all the dust of the most generous type, they can, promising for Kṛṣṇa, they're all, every dust is promising to give us Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa. What more we may need? They're all promising, outcome of Gaura Dhāma. No other nature can be traced in them, all helping to take us to our highest attainment. Rarely, really seen it is their nature. Externally according to our anartha it may produce so many tests, examinations, and others. With least test, least trouble, they're ready to give our highest goal, the connection of Mahāprabhu, the connection of Mahāprabhu and what is Mahāprabhu.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The angle of vision to look after the environment, what the angle of vision, that is the most important thing, angle of vision. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitai.

In Vṛndāvana also, so many, Agha, Baka, Denukha, Baumha, Ariṣṭa, Keśi, all these, Kaṁsa, on the surface, on the surface. Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa everywhere, the superficial vision and the real vision. Soul's necessity, internal self and necessity of that internal self, avoiding the superfluous, the surface. Surface is for our senses, physical senses. And for the mind also there is mental layer of different types of religionists, including Mohammedans etc, even. But in the layer of soul if we have to find any interest outside, then we will come to appreciate how beautiful, how magnanimous the connection of Gaurāṅga here, how it can enrich our soul, our souls necessity.

āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ kathañcit, kālo mayātigamitaḥ kila sāmprataṁ hi tvaṁ cet kṛpaṁ mayi vidhāsyasi naiva kiṁ me, prānair vrajema ca varoru bakārināpi [Vilapa-kusumanjali, 102]

In that śloka he [Raghunātha Dāsa] says, āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ._____ [?] And there he expresses his earnest desire, impatiently, with the sweet hope for the attainment of Your service. Āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ. And that hope has been qualified with this objective. It is a portion of nectar. The service of Rādhārāṇī is he feels to be the ocean of nectar, amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ, āśābharair. The great hope, the great hope which is compared with the ocean of nectar. I'm passing my days impatiently from long, long time, waiting for that. Sindhu-mayaiḥ kathañcit, kālo mayātigamitaḥ kila sāmprataṁ hi tvaṁ cet. And I have reached to the last point, my Mistress, I have reached, my patience reached to the last point. Kathañcit, kālo mayātigamitaḥ kila sāmprataṁ hi tvaṁ cet kṛpaṁ. Now I'm in such a position, if You don't grant any grace in my favour, tvam cet kṛpaṁ mayi vidhāsyasi naiva kiṁ me, prānair, I don't find any charm in my life any longer, nor I feel any necessity of this Vṛndāvana. My living, if I do not get Your grace then this is a mockery to live in Vṛndāvana for me. Prānair vrajema. No necessity of my life and not even any necessity for living in Vṛndāvana. Vrajema ca varoru bakārināpi. And what more, I even do not want to have any connection with Bakāri, that is Kṛṣṇa Himself, if I do not get Your special mercy, favour towards me."

So that has been accepted to be the highest end of our life, rādhā- kiṅkarā, rādhā-dāsyā. From that, is this śloka considered to show the highest attainment of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava School, and of course in this connection we may recollect his previous life.

He [Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī] was born in the opulence and in young age he left everything and ran to Mahāprabhu in Purī. And he practised the highest degree of self abnegation. So much so that the prasādam of Jagannātha, what was given rotten, what was given to the cows of Jagannātha, and they also could not take it, and such prasādam he used to take and washing that, the internal portion with some salt he used to take, and in this way he was continuing his life.

When heard, Mahāprabhu one day suddenly appeared there and took a portion of that and expressed that, "I have taken prasādam many a time, but such tasteful prasādam I have never experienced, never got such tasteful."

The taste in prasādam according to our earnestness. It is a soul's function. As much as with earnestness, or devotion, we shall take the prasādam, the taste will be so much increased. The hint is given there.

So Svarūpa Dāmodara was there and in this way he passed his days here and then after the disappearance of Mahāprabhu he went to Vṛndāvana. And there when he came in connection with Rūpa and Sanātana, and their literature, and their behaviour, and their practices, he took it that Mahāprabhu is living in them. "Mahāprabhu has not disappeared but He's present in Rūpa and Sanātana." And in his last days he was in their company. And at the guidance of Sanātana and Rūpa he lived there a long time. And especially what Rūpa Goswāmī has written he observed very strictly those things, about the place.

["The holy place known as Mathurā is spiritually superior to Vaikuṇṭha, the transcendental world, because the Lord appeared there. Superior to Mathurā-purī is the transcendental forest of Vṛndāvana because of Kṛṣṇa's rāsa-līlā pastimes. And superior to the forest of Vṛndāvana is Govardhana Hill, for it was raised by the divine hand of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and was the site of His various loving pastimes. And, above all, the super-excellent Śrī Rādhā-kuṇḍa stands supreme, for it is over-flooded with the ambrosial nectarean prema of the Lord of Gokula, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Where, then, is that intelligent person who is unwilling to serve this divine Rādhā-kuṇḍa, which is situated at the foot of Govardhana Hill?"] [Upadeśāmṛta, 9]

The highest place of our service we can find in Rādhā-kuṇḍa. Rūpa Goswāmī, and he at his last days he used to stay there in the highest sweet connection of Rādhā-kuṇḍa līlā, kuṇḍa līlā of Rādhā- Govinda, he was there, and Vaikuṇṭha, and then...

["There are those in the world who regulate their tendency for exploitation in accordance with the scriptural rules and thereby seek gradual elevation to the spiritual domain. However, superior to them are those wise men who, having given up the tendency to lord over others, attempt to dive deep into the realm of consciousness. But far superior to them are the pure devotees who are free from any mundane ambitions and are liberated from knowledge, not by knowledge, having achieved divine love. They have gained entrance into the land of dedication and are engaged there spontaneously in the Lord's loving service. Among all devotees, however, the gopīs are the highest, for they have forsaken everyone, including their families, and everything, including the strictures of the Vedas, and have taken complete shelter at the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, accepting Him as their only protection. But among all the gopīs, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī reigns supreme. For Kṛṣṇa left the company of millions of gopīs during the rasa dance to search for Her alone. She is so dear to Śrī Kṛṣṇa that the pond in which She bathes is His very favourite place. Who but a madman would not aspire to render service, under the shelter of superior devotees, in that most exalted of all holy places." [Upadeśāmṛta, 10]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...to conclude to Rādhā-kuṇḍa and Rādhā bhajana, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura also following that.

heno rādhā-paricaryā yākara dhana, bhaktivinoda tā'r māgaye caraṇa.

"If your desire to worship Śrī Rādhā is not awakened, worship of Kṛṣṇa is ultimately useless.

Just as the sun is not perceived without sunlight, similarly I cannot accept Mādhava without Śrī Rādhikā.

One who worships Kṛṣṇa alone has imperfect knowledge and one who disrespects Śrī Rādhikā, is simply conceited and full of vanity.

Never associate with such a person if you at all desire the transcendently delightful pastimes of Vraja, to appear within you heart.

If you consider yourself to be a maidservant of Śrī Rādhikā, then you will very soon meet Kāna (Kṛṣṇa) the Lord of Gokula.

Even Lord Brahmā, Lord Śiva, Devārsi Nārada, the personified Vedas (Srutis) and Lakṣmī-Devī honour and worship the dust of Śrī Rādhikā's lotus feet.

The Vedic scriptures (āmnāya) declare that Umā, Ramā, Satyā, Śacī, Candrā and Rukminī are all the expansions of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī.

Bhaktivinoda whose only wealth is the service of Śrī Rādhā Ṭhākuraṇī humbly begs the shelter of Her lotus feet." (The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 129-131)

In this way it has been preached by other Ācārya of the posterity and that Rādhā kaiṅkaryya is the acme of our object of life, if it is possible, allowed by our svarūpa, by the grace of the Almighty. This is rather [Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī, and in his last days sometimes if he could take any diet, sometimes not, he only, the leaf pot, with that some butter milk, butter milk, only one or two leaf pots he used to take and went on with the Name, with the Name.

Māyā lakhanam sahasra dandavat kalilay lakhanam [?] Thousand times he gives his obeisances to these different Vaiṣṇavas and one lākḥ Name. About two lākḥs of people he takes the name and takes their memory. In this way he used to, two thousand Vaiṣṇavas, he showed his respect in this way, praṇāma and daṇḍavat, thousands, and lākhanāma, in this way. And last moment crawling, when about eighty he was crawling on the banks of Rādhā-kuṇḍa, "Rādhe, Rādhe, Rādhe." In this way half mad he used to crawl on the banks of Rādhā-kuṇḍa, "Jāi Rādhe, Jāi Rādhe, Jāi Rādhe." In this way he passed his days. Gaura Haribol. [Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī.

Guru Mahārāja when he used to come to this śloka to explain this, āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ [kathañcit, kālo mayātigamitaḥ kila sāmprataṁ hi tvaṁ cet kṛpaṁ mayi vidhāsyasi naiva kiṁ me, prānair vrajema ca varoru bakārināpi] [Vilapa-kusumanjali, 102]

Full of emotion, we found in him, sometimes tears oozing. Āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ kathañcit. This śloka he used to explain rarely amongst the selected disciples sometimes. Āśābharair- amṛta-sindhu - mayaiḥ. That he has come to his own place, come home when he used to explain this śloka. He's quite at home, we could trace somewhat. Amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ. Full of, fully found, when he comes to express this, the meaning of this śloka we marked him as if fully found full football?

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. So I wrote the poem.

*śrī-gaurānumataṁ [svarūpa-viditaṁ rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam aho tad dātum
īśo bhavān]*

What Bhaktivinoda has recommended for us, śrī-gaurānumataṁ. What sanctioned by Mahāprabhu, svarūpa-viditaṁ. And the nobility, the greatness of that thing known by Svarūpa Goswāmī who was the second of Mahāprabhu.

[kṛṣṇa-rasa-tattva-vettā, deha — prema-rūpa] sāksāt mahāprabhura dvitīya svarūpa

["Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara was the personification of ecstatic love, fully cognizant of the transcendental mellows in relationship with Kṛṣṇa. He directly represented Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu as His second expansion."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 10.111]

Rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ rūpādyaiḥ sanātana, who has shown much respect for, rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ. And which has been distributed direct by Rūpa Goswāmī with followers. Raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam, and Raghunātha Goswāmī has tasted that, in a proper way, what was distributed by Rūpa Goswāmī by the inspiration of Mahāprabhu. That was really tasted and enhanced by Raghunātha and followers, raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam. Jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ, and supported by the quotation of the scriptures and reasoning by Jīva Goswāmī with followers, Bāladeva, etc. Śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ, and which is hankered by Śuka, Śiva, Brahmā, Uddhava, etc. Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam. What is that thing? Rādhā-pada-sevanam, the nectar of the service of the Divine feet of Śrī Rādhikā. Śrī-rādhā-pada- sevanāmṛtam-aho! It is very astonishing, aho! means. Tad dātum īśo bhavān. You Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are in a position to distribute that highest nectar of our sampradāya to one and all. Your position is so dignified.

And my Guru Mahārāja was very much pleased to find this siddhānta in my śloka. And he expressed also to me, "Yes, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, very much pleased, this is properly hit in the śloka." So he told that, "Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has himself made to write, he wrote through him." That was the opinion of Prabhupāda. And to someone he told, "Yes, what I came to give to the world, it will be there, it is there. I'm leaving it for the world, that thing." And he told to me, "You have written it in a very happy style." Hare Kṛṣṇa. He was highly pleased with this, finding that, that was his real necessity, that it has been properly hit. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So far we have been given to understand this is the aim of our life, wherever we be. We are given to understand that our mark must be towards this. Very fortunately we have got such nature within us, in mādhurya rasa, parakīya, mādhurya rasa, rūpānuga, the sampradāya rūpānuga. That that Kṛṣṇa bhakti is a departmental thing, so Rādhā dāsyā is another thing, department within department, and that is rūpānuga. The Ācārya paramparā is in that way, within us. Direct concern with this, rather to support the vātsalya, sākhya, the consorhood of the, just as the fatherhood of the Christianity, masterhood of the Islam, and sonhood and the consorhood, the consorhood of the Supreme Entity, that has been delivered by Mahāprabhu.

anarpita-carīm cirāt [karuṇayāvatīrṇaḥ kalau samarpayitum unnatojjvala-rasām sva-bhakti-śriyam hariḥ puraṭa-sundara-dyuti-kadamba-sandīpitah sadā hṛdaya-kandare sphuratu vaḥ śacī-nandanah]

[May that Lord, who is known as the son of Śrīmatī Śacī Devī, be transcendently situated in the innermost chambers of your heart. Resplendent with the radiance of molten gold, He has appeared in this age of Kali by His causeless mercy to bestow what no incarnation ever offered before: the most sublime and radiant spiritual knowledge of the mellow taste of His service.][Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.4]

Which has never been distributed before this, before this, so perfectly and so clearly, it was not in ancient times anywhere it was distributed. So anarpita-carīm cirāt karuṇayāvatīrṇaḥ kalau samarpayitum unnatojjvala. This śloka I found in Madras in Bhaviṣya Purāṇa written by Vedavyāsa from the Nayasindhu Press of Bombay. In Nagari Sanskrit the Bhaviṣya Purāṇa was published and I found in Madras a copy of that. There I found this śloka.

And also about the incarnation of Mahāprabhu. It is mentioned there Rūpa Goswāmī and Jīva Goswāmī, these two names mentioned there. Śāntipura, Navadvīpa is mentioned there in Bhaviṣya Purāṇa. And Rāmānuja, Madhvācārya, they came to discuss about the Vaiṣṇava ontology with Mahāprabhu. That was mentioned there in Bhaviṣya Purāṇa. We found three chapters perhaps in Bhaviṣya Purāṇa dedicated to Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva. There I found Rūpānanda and Jīvānanda. Jīva Goswāmī's name has been given as Jīvānanda and Rupa Goswāmī's name has been given as Rūpānanda, and Mahāprabhu's preaching centre has been given as Śāntipura, some difference, in this way.

And they came to make argument with Mahāprabhu, Rāmānuja, Madhvācārya, though historically it is not possible, but Bhaktivinoda Thakura also shown in his Dhāma Parikramā. In the subtle world, not in the physical world, in the subtle world the Vaiṣṇava Ācārya's came. Why this modification on their opinions? Madhvācārya came to establish his dvaita-vāda, Rāmānuja also came to argue with his viśiṣṭādvaita-vāda, but Mahāprabhu in a mystic way answered in such a fashion that they were silenced, dumb and went away. I found in Bhaviṣya Purāṇa. Or there Mahāprabhu says something mystic śloka, one mystic. So some questions and they're silenced so they go away. In this way it is mentioned, anarpita-carīm cirāt, and this has been discussed in Jaiva Dharma also by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, anarpita-carīm cirāt, which has never been given before.

That is this Rādhā dāsyā, the most secret object, fulfilment of our life is there, because Rādhārāṇī's service, that wholesale service, and intense also it has got no parallel. When that sort of service comes in connection with Kṛṣṇa, the quality and quantity of rasa from the akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ is drawn in such a huge and beautiful and noble way. That is not to be found anywhere and everywhere. And again, those that are in that camp, the taste of the rasa, not only in mādhurya but categorically from that parakīya ordinary mādhurya in the service of gopī, it is superior in quality and quantity, both, specially quality. And if you want to have a taste of that type of rasa which only Rādhārāṇī can enjoy, you have not other alternative. What sort of rasa that attracts Rādhārāṇī so much? The high transaction of the rasa, higher quality must be there, and if you want to taste, whatever, a particle of that standard of rasa, you'll have no other alternative but to get a service in that camp. This is quite reasonable, reasonable. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

[O Rādhe, Your transcendental love and beauty are so powerful and attractive that they captivate even the heart of Mādhava who is eternally self fulfilled and the unlimited source of all divine ecstasy and charm. By Your own natural excellence You are the most adorable of all young beautiful damsels of Gokula Maṇḍala, therefore Your glories remain ever unequalled.

O Rādhē, Your elegant countenance, decorated by coquettish moods and captivating dress, ever increase the love ecstasy of Your beloved Dāmodara. Manifesting such unique loveliness, You forever remain the beloved queen of the beautiful forest groves of Hari, who is expert in stealing away Your heart by creating an irresistible love attraction.

O Rādhē, from the ocean of Vṛṣabhānu, You have risen like a full moon of exquisite beauty that ever delights the heart of Mādhava.

O Rādhē, You are very fond of Lalitā and Viśākhā who stand out amongst all other damsels of Gokula, due to their charming beauty and expertise in prema sevā. They are also deeply captivated and overwhelmed by Your super excellent qualities which enchant Kṛṣṇa, the divine monarch of all loving mellows and so they accept You, with all adoration as their beloved Goddess and exclusive shelter of life.

O Rādhē, Your transcendental glories are described with unending joy by the exalted saints like Sanaka Ṛṣi and Your intimate servitor Śrīla Sanātana Goswāmī. O magnanimous Goddess! Your heart is full of compassion, therefore please bestow Your mercy upon me.

(chorus) O Radha! O beloved of Madhava! O You who are worshipped by all the young girls of Gokula! All glories unto You! All glories unto You!]

How our attention should be towards that, and that Gaura Dhāma and we are all offenders, and this is the aparādha-bhañjan-pāṭ. We pray our utmost that They may send Their best mercy towards us so we may be clear from all the offences and can hope to participate in such rasa.

...

They had some special affection for me, especially Haṁsadūta, and Tamāla Kṛṣṇa's very shrewd, but Haṁsadūta and this Jayatīrtha Mahārāja. And they felt in the meantime that some are being inclined towards me. They could not tolerate that, so told. In the meantime some others also came and took initiation, I send them back, no boat is found, [?] organization. But there are some who...

...

_____ [?] It is from the time of Swāmī Mahārāja, when they used to come to me they took tapes, that was their fashion. Whenever putting question, I am giving answer, they're recording it. Now those days here and when I went to Maṭha, Māyāpur Maṭha, Swāmī Mahārāja, myself and others give our lectures all taped. That was kept in Los Angeles where Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja was in charge. And he anyhow managed to get the copy of all these tapes. And he was impressed with my lectures perhaps. He began to give publicity to those tapes, and Charu Swāmī also [?]

And that created the trouble for the GBC, and then this Gaura Pūrṇimā occasion they told that, "No one must go to see Śrīdhara Mahārāja, because people are being attracted towards his spirit. With his connection the credit of ISKCON will be lost." So passed a resolution, "None to go and see Śrīdhara Mahārāja, in any way, his connection, or literature, or his tapes."

Some kept silent but Jayatīrtha Mahārāja opposed, "No. I read his tapes as well as Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, I want to read all these things. I can't leave them."

They passed that, "Only Swāmī Mahārāja's literature should be discussed in ISKCON."

He told, "That at least when in the public meeting I shall deal with Swāmī Mahārāja's literature. But outside that for my own self I shall hear Śrīdhara Mahārāja's tape, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, Bhaktivinoda."

"No. Even in your private life you won't be able, you won't be allowed to deal with all this literature."

Then he revolted, "No it is not possible for me. Rather I shall disconnect with you, I can't disconnect with Śrīdhara Mahārāja." Then the dissension came and he was ousted from ISKCON. He first in a lecture, their television told, "That I have retired from ISKCON, you all join ISKCON, I am keeping outside." Then again from here perhaps he sent, "That those that are still faithful in me they may come here, in spite of their propaganda against me. Who can keep faith in me they may not remain with them, they may come, they may sever themselves from the ISKCON." And so some came out and there was another independent and about a hundred men and women came here, for some time here, and Calcutta and Nepal. With much trouble they have to live here for a long time. Then gradually they are going now to London from Bengal, in this way.

In the meantime some of them took sannyāsa from me. Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja got sannyāsa from Kīrtanānanda. Kīrtanānanda was dissatisfied with him and he rejected him, and he took sannyāsa from me. Then Jayatīrtha Mahārāja in a modified way was given by Kīrtanānanda. Then others, five, six, about nearly ten took sannyāsa from here, and they formed an association. In the meantime purchased a land, about three acres, ways, out ISKCON. In this way these things are going on now.

[?] propaganda in various

In general ISKCON is dissatisfied with me, so to keep my connection means to incur displeasure of ISKCON. So you must think deeply, whether at the cost of your connection with ISKCON you will come here. They were not so strict beforehand, but now they're very strict in my affairs. They say, "Who will come here he's poison, against ISKCON creed." That is their ideal, and it is my position. Even Charu Swāmī who used to visit here every now and then, he's also coming very rarely, because he's always engaged in ISKCON duties. He's an editor perhaps for their paper. So long he was neglected, but now for such circumstances he has been encouraged more. He may come here but not so much as he did previously. Sarvabhavana also, and this Jayatīrtha Mahārāja's party, they're here and several others. So ISKCON does not like when anyone comes in connection with me. So that have affection for me, they're also careful. Such is the stage. You are to think what to do? You are under the direction of ISKCON.

Devotee: I have been outside of ISKCON for the past two or three years.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why?

Devotee: I'm engaged in business activities.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With them?

Devotee: No, not with them, independently, but I have maintained.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. So many grhastha householders they may have business, that does not mean that they have no connection with ISKCON.

Devotee: I'm staying in India, so simply I go to Vṛndāvana occasionally.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They have centres in many places in India like Vṛndāvana. That does not mean that you are independent of ISKCON. They take you as their disciple, all these. Mostly all the disciples of Swāmī Mahārāja they're going on under their direction, GBC, and you are all supposed to be in their connection. Hare Kṛṣṇa. With whom are you intimately connected in ISKCON?

Devotee: No, you see, I'm one of the wounded soldiers, which means I've not been following nicely.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Wounded soldier? Who wounded you? You live generally in England and that was in charge of Jayatīrtha Mahārāja, and he might have wounded you?

Devotee: I mean, you previously referred to the fight with māyā, so sometimes the soldiers get wounded.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who? Jayatīrtha Mahārāja, his example discouraged you?

Badrinārāyaṇa: No. Mahārāja, he's saying, previously you spoke of the fight with māyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow you.

Badrinārāyaṇa: He says, previously you spoke of the fight with māyā. So he's one of the wounded soldiers in the fight with māyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the cause of his wound? Māyā has wounded him...

Devotee: So it means I've not been following so nicely, and I've not been living in the temple recently.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...or want of well organization in your camp, what is the cause?

Of course many may be wounded in a big fight, many may be wounded, many may be lost, that fight means that. But still they fight, going on and will go on, though many wounded in many cases, that is the nature.

Devotee: With your blessing I can continue the fight.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whom you have got your best faith in ISKCON, best friend, anyone whom you can rely most?

Devotee: I have many friends within ISKCON.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are they? [?] Mahārāja is one of them?

Devotee: He's a big devotee, I am too small, I could not count him as my friend.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But your guardian, or well wisher, for whom you have some reverence? So many, and they're which side? Akśayānanda Mahārāja is this side, and there are others also on that side, the side of ISKCON. Whom you revere and you have got affection, who are they? Among the Gurus and GBC and even outside? Do you know that Kedanātha?

Devotee: I met him two days ago. He seems very much inspired by your association, he was preaching to me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Something like that, who was next to Jayatīrtha Mahārāja there in England, from before.

Devotee: I have stayed in Gauḍīya Maṭha actually in Burdwan.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not Gauḍīya Maṭha in England, in London? Vasudeva Gauḍīya Maṭha, first it was Vinoda Vāni Gauḍīya Maṭha, now I hear that Vasudeva Gosh? Did you meet one Bhakti _____ [?] sannyāsī? [?] in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that seen, that is something substantial. Can you explain how?

Devotee: In other philosophies everything is not explained easy, but in the Vaiṣṇava philosophy everything is completely explained.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: At least you are satisfied. Who are the striking members of ISKCON whom you met? Who could leave some impression in your mind and encourage you? Whose movements and teachings encouraged you?

Devotee: Bhagavān Mahārāja, Jayapatāka Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhāvānanda, Rāmeśvara, Satsvarūpa, Gopāla Kṛṣṇa, Hṛdayānanda. How have you seen this Bhagavān Mahārāja? He's in charge of southern Europe.

Devotee: When I first joined ISKCON he was my GBC, but I did not see him for many years, I didn't see him for three or four years.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When you joined, what were you? What is your age now?

Devotee: Now I'm thirty years old Mahārāja, and at that time I was twenty two.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Were you a student or what?

Devotee: Actually I was travelling around.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Are your parents living?

Devotee: My father's a teacher in England, mother she's housewife.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How many brothers you have?

Devotee: I have two brothers Mahārāja and two sisters.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're elder or younger?

Devotee: Only one brother is elder, the rest are younger.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He has got a family?

Devotee: My brother? No.

...

Devotee: Just an ordinary man, married.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Two parties [?]

Devotee: Ye Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And one that culture section, another one, Kali one party perhaps, Kali culture one and the same perhaps. [?]

Devotee: [?] They're all politicians Mahārāja, politics, that's all, no limit.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Fighting each other [?]

Devotee: I don't know Mahārāja. I think he's a Sikh. Sikh are always very,very...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Has he got a beard?

Devotee: Yes, he's got beard, turban, yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Udashi [?] sampradāya, Udashi and Akadi [?] two sections of ...

Devotee: No, he's not from any sampradāya Mahārāja. He's a most corrupt man. He's not of any sampradāya. He likes women and everything.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Like Indira.

Devotee: That's right Mahārāja. And only eighth class pass, middle pass, that's all. No qualification. Everybody knows his character, he's a very loose character man. Some university they gave him an honorary degree of doctor.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Indian university?

Devotee: Some Indian university, yes Mahārāja. Now they call him Doctor Zalsing. He doesn't know a single word of English. He has no other qualification. But he was a chief minister in Punjab before coming to centre. It's a shame. [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But he must have some ability.

Devotee: He was a chief minister in Punjab Mahārāja for a long time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And he successfully continued his administration?

Devotee: Yes, that's right.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A man of strong common sense.

Devotee: Yeah, you could say that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just like Śivaji [?], Akbar [?], they did not know how to sign their own name, both Śivaji and Akbar. And Rabindranatha also non-matric.

Devotee: No. That's right. But these fellows have well educated secretaries and all that you know Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No university degree, but still Rabindranatha was a great scholar in the whole of the world.

Devotee: These ministers have well educated people behind them to guide them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But when he's to visit foreign land, what should he do, the Jaysing [?] Some secretary will be, and if any address is written, he'll be able to read it?

Devotee: Yes. They have to do like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No ability to read English.

Badrinārāyaṇa: He will learn.

Devotee: I don't think this is very important.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was chief minister, then he knows something. Has he got any hold over the military? I was thinking India is apprehending that the military government may be necessary for India. So selecting one Punjabi of military type, my apprehension is like that. War may be inevitable, and especially between Pakistan and India, and Rastrapati must be a Punjabi who has got some hold over military.

Devotee: No, that is not the case Mahārāja. But only people think in Punjab and every where else that Indira Gandhi wants to become, change the way of governing. She wants to become herself President, then change the constitution.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And there is some danger, the Sikhs they want Kalistan, and Pakistan is encouraging that. And some able man is necessary in Punjab who can control that Pakistan difficulty.

Devotee: No, those people, Jaysing can't solve those things Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jaysing is an instrument to Indira. Whatever Indira will direct, he will carry out.

Devotee: Oh yes, he will. But I think Indira wanted to change the constitution, and she wanted to have a government like American government. That's why she had Jaysing. People say it like that. I don't know.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe. In American government the President holds the substantial power. Then Indira wants she will be the President and control the country. Maybe. Anyhow Indira is better than this communist. Some respect, though not very substantial, some respect for religious view. But more reserved, the whole family is pro-Muslim. The Jawarlal [Pandit Nehru] and Indira, they are all pro-Muslim. Not anti-Hindu but pro-Muslim, supporting the Arabian country, dismissed the Israel ambassador the other day.

Devotee: So Mahārāja, my inquiry is about the man in the street, how he should live. If I talk with somebody in the street about Kṛṣṇa consciousness, or about God consciousness, he said, "Well no, we must work, we must look after our families, that is more important." What should I tell to them? "If we all leave working..."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that, work, but not family interest, but the whole interest. Otherwise you are to suffer. Local interest is sure to suffer, hitch with another local interest. We must live in the eternity, not in the span of life of a human being. Next, if I have got faith in transmigration, after human birth I may be given birth of a dog. What is the good there? So we must have a program that's concerning the eternal life - my past life, my future life, and also this is true about everyone. If there is possibility the man may again become a dog, then should we not, in our program give permission for that?

Devotee: Then how to divide the days? Like how they should work in office or in a shop?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anything may be done but the centre connected with Kṛṣṇa consciousness, anything. Even the battle may be fought, does not matter, but Kṛṣṇa consciousness. This body consciousness, body is only a garment, like clothing. So body consciousness is treacherous. We must be wakeful to the fact that we shall have to die. But the soul does not die. The body will go, another body to be accepted. That I cannot ignore. If my knowledge helps me to see that future, then how can ignore my future life at the cost of this present. And what is true in my case, that is also true in all the members of my family, in their case also, the countryman's case also that. Today I shall feed well and the next day I shall die without food. That cannot be any reasonable proposal. A question of faith, whether transmigration of soul, we have faith in that, transmigration of soul. Yata sei dvau mrtya tvamam jana mrtya yasa [?] So we are to solve the problem of death and infirmity, old age, all these things. Not very narrow...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...not in the comfort of this life, but you must work for your future.

There was another gentleman, one, who was very clever man. At the time of war with China or some, he gave much gold to Jawaralal [Pandit Nehru]. He was killed by another party of the Punjabi on the road near Karna. Who was that gentleman?

Devotee: He was chief minister Karon. He was chief minister of Punjab at that time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What was his name?

Devotee: Karon. He was a very strong man. He was a good man, very strong man to rule Punjab. Karon, K,a,r,o,n.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, Karon. He was killed by four Punjabi on the road?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja, that's right. Yes, he was killed. This thing going on. Sikh people they kill each other like that. This is family ridden troubles, all that from religion, and they keep maybe hundred years later they still keep in mind then they kill each other. It's always like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Another religious leader amongst the Sikh, he's killed recently?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja. He was from Narankari. He was a follower of Narankari.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! Nirahankari. Narankari, he was killed by his own group?

Devotee: No, other group Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Other group, and what are they, Khalsa?

Devotee: Khalsa. Only Narankari is a religious party in Punjab, and Rādhā Swāmī, there are two parties which are religious.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Have some real faith in religion?

Devotee: That's right. And these [?] and all opposite parties, they're all politicians, their politics, that's all, nothing else. Nothing to do with their religion. They rule their Gurdwaras and that's why they call themselves religious, or whatever they can say. Otherwise there's no religion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Like present ISKCON, the GBC.

Devotee: That's right. They rule their Gurdwaras...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Administration getting the upper hand.

Devotee: They have plenty of money. Sikh people very good in offering money.

...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Does that mean that he was just uttering Kṛṣṇa, no transactions, no Kṛṣṇa kathā or nothing, just Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, all the time? Is it taken like that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who? Kālidāsa?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Kālidāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kālidāsa was a relative of Raghunātha dāsa and who had very much attraction for the Vaiṣṇava ucchiṣṭha, the remains of the Vaiṣṇava. He did not...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Utter anything else but Kṛṣṇa, the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By his previous life he earned some [?] about Kṛṣṇa. Deep faith in the remains of the Vaiṣṇava. That indicates that he earned in his previous life deep faith in Vaiṣṇavism, particularly guided to one direction.

Badrinārāyaṇa: But Mahārāja, before, you said that first realisation is the Holy Name, then rūpa, then guṇa, then līlā. So does that mean that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The general course, but there may be special characteristic also, but this is the general. It is mentioned by one kind of sādhana one may attain the goal. And there are many that simultaneously they go on with different kinds of sādhana, realisation, nava-vidhā bhakti. There's one, śravaṇe parīkṣit, vaiyāsakiḥ kīrtane, then, smaraṇe prahlādaḥ.

[śrī viṣṇoḥ śravaṇe parīkṣidabhavad-vaiyāsakiḥ kīrtane prahlādaḥ smaraṇe tad aṅghribhajane lakṣmī pṛthuḥ pūjane akrūras-tvabhivandane kapi-patir-dāsyē 'tha sathye 'rjunaḥ sarvasvātma-nivedane balirabhut kṛṣṇāptireṣām param]

[“The following devotees attained Śrī Kṛṣṇa and thus realised the ultimate goal of life by following one of the nine methods of devotional service: Parīkṣit Mahārāja realised Śrī Kṛṣṇa through hearing about His glories (śravaṇam), Śukadeva Goswāmī realised Śrī Kṛṣṇa through speaking Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam (kīrtanam). Prahlāda realised Him through devotional remembrance (smaraṇam).

Lakṣmī Devī attained His mercy by serving His lotus feet (pāda-sevanam). Pṛthu Mahārāja attained Him through worship (pūjanam).

Akrūra attained Him through prayer. Hanumān attained Him through personal service. Arjuna attained Him through friendship. Bali Mahārāja attained Him through complete surrender of body, mind, and words.”]

[Padyavali, 53] & [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.129]

By one aspect they reach the goal, following one line. There are also some special cases. So this gentleman, this Kālidāsa, had his intense attraction for Vaiṣṇava ucchiṣṭha, for the remains of the prasādam after the Vaiṣṇava has taken. That was prominent in him. There is, somewhere written, perhaps Caitanya-caritāmṛta, following one way, one may achieve the goal. And gradually when higher and different departments also, one has got special inclination for a particular service. Uddhava said, tvayopabhukta-srag-gandha-, vāso 'laṅkāra-carccitāḥ ucchiṣṭa-bhojino dāsās, tava māyām jayema hi

[Uddhava says: "Adorned with the articles that have been offered to You, such as garlands, fragrant clothing, and ornaments, we, Your personal servitors who partake of Your holy remnants alone, will certainly be able to conquer Your illusory energy (māyā)."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.6.46]

“By serving, honouring, the remnants of You, we shall conquer the whole māyā, the ocean of illusion. Only by ucchiṣṭham.”

And this inclination making eligible to drink the feet washing water of Mahāprabhu there. Mahāprabhu could not stop him. Mahāprabhu did not allow anybody to take His feet washing water. When He entered Jagannātha temple, before that He used to wash His feet. And Govinda remained there that none can take.

“Govinda, watch that none can take that water.”

But the devotees, by any trick, some false proposal, they used to take it, touch it.

Kālidāsa, when he reached there, when Mahāprabhu is washing His feet, he put his palms together. Mahāprabhu could not ask him, "No, it is not possible."

One, two, three, then no further. It is enough because that is ucchiṣṭha. Where that very mean caste, _____ [?] in the Hindu section, but he was a Vaiṣṇava, and Jarū Ṭhākura his name. And none could get his remnants. Then Kālidāsa visited him with some mango fruits and he came away and Jarū Thakura according to his own nature he offered to the Deity and took some prasādam. And then the remnants, the seed and the skin left outside, and Kālidāsa going there. Vaiṣṇava ucchiṣṭha. A particular tendency to ucchiṣṭham. And Mahāprabhu also could not stop him. He has got so great inclination in the ucchiṣṭha pada-jala.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Foot wash.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ete sadhane bal [?] Vaiṣṇave pāda-dhūli [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: The dust and the water.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ke?

Badrinārāyaṇa: It's Nitāi, Nitāi-pāda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?] Vaiṣṇave ucchiṣṭha, pāda-dhūli, pāda-jala,
[?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: These three, the ucchiṣṭha, and the dust, and the washing water, there is a verse.

[Possibly these verses]

kṛṣṇera ucchiṣṭha haya 'mahā-prasāda' nāma 'bhakta-śeṣa' haile mahā-mahā-prasādākhyāna' bhakta-pāda-dhūli āra bhakta-pada-jala bhakta-bhukta-avaśeṣa, - tina mahā-bala ei tina-sevā haite kṛṣṇa-premā haya punaḥ punaḥ sarva-śāstre phukāriyā kaya tāte bāra bāra kahi, - śuna bhakta-gaṇa viśvāsa kariyā kara e-tina sevana [Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu states: "The remnants of food offered to Kṛṣṇa are called mahā-prasāda. After this same mahā-prasāda has been taken by a devotee, the remnants are elevated to mahā-mahā-prasāda.] [The dust of the feet of a devotee, the water that has washed the feet of a devotee, and the remnants of food left by a devotee are three very powerful substances.] [By rendering service to these three, one attains the supreme goal of ecstatic love for Kṛṣṇa. In all the revealed scriptures this is loudly declared again and again.] [Therefore, My dear devotees, please hear from Me, for I insist again and again: please keep faith in these three and render service to them without hesitation."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 16.59-62]

He who has got genuine attraction for these, this māyā cannot do anything about him. Something like that. many things.

[?] Narottama Ṭhākura has also written so

So, ucchiṣṭa-bhojino dāsās, tava māyām jayema hi. Uddhava says, “No other means will be necessary, but only taking the remnants of the Vaiṣṇava we will conquer the whole of māyā.”

Adopting one means, many have attained. Some śravaṇa, some kīrtana, some smaraṇa, some vandana, in this way it is mentioned. And there are many who contribute the whole thing. The general recommendation about Nāma saṅkīrtana and that will also, that everything must be with the spirit of service. That must be present everywhere. Not with any other motive. Motive must be sincere, this spirit of service. Whatever you'll do, the common thing, the spirit must be that of service. Not seeking anything else but the favour of the Viṣṇu, Vaiṣṇava. Service means that; only the favour of Viṣṇu and Vaiṣṇava. And neither siddhi, nor mukti, nor any mundane aspiration. Externally it may take any shape, any shape, but the serving spirit must be present there.

Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.234 & 2.109] That ātma-nivedana, ātmā- samarpaṇa, surrender, that must be the beginning. Whatever I do I do it for Him, self forgetfulness. And self-forgetfulness and full memory for the service of Guru, Vaiṣṇava, Govinda, etc, positive side. Not only self-forgetfulness, self-forgetfulness in the service of the Lord. Mere self-forgetfulness has no value. A stone also may be self-forgetful. Madness, that is also self-forgetful. Self-forgetful in the service of Govinda.

Badrinārāyaṇa: So Mahārāja, that feeling of recognition, one is servant and he feels he wants to be recognised by the Spiritual Master or by the Vaiṣṇavas, that also..

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The standard will come from the Spiritual Master. There is absolute consideration and relative also. That is return something. So there is gradation in the Guru also. Yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ.

[sattvānurūpā sarvasya, śraddhā bhavati bhārata

śraddhāmayo 'yaṁ puruṣo, yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ]

["O Bhārata, all men have a particular type of faith according to their individual mentalities. The very nature of the living being is based on faith - their internal and external nature is modelled according to their faith. Therefore, their nature may be discerned according to the manner of worship or reverence in which they have faith."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 17.3]

A karmī will have śraddhā for karmī Guru, a karmī. A jñānī will have śraddhā for jñānī Guru. The previous sukṛti, that will guide to select a Guru. Also the free will is there. But still, backed by previous sukṛti. Otherwise, yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ, according to śraddhā he will rank, gather around the Guru, yogī Guru, jñānī Guru, karmī Guru. Guru is everywhere, guṇḍā Guru. Guru is everywhere necessary. But the field of action will be selected by one's inner realization, what aspect of life. Of course there is a comparative line, comparative possibility is there, what is good, what is bad.

But they won't care, a guṇḍā won't care to take. Just as the viṣayī, that ordinary exploitationist has put, "I must look after my family. That is my positive duty. Leaving that, if we all go to serve Kṛṣṇa, how the world will go on?" That is the general cry.

But this world is a prison house. You are to know first you are in prison. So as soon as this world will be dissolved and the jīva will get freedom, it will be better. No charm in this worldly life. The disease, death, just as in the case of Buddha. Buddha had enough for his own comfort. But he read in the society that infirmity, old age, the disease, the death is here, and how one can rejoice and make cheer here, or another place, the fools. He does not know that that will fall upon him as a prey. For future you must think and do accordingly. Janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhī-duḥkha-doṣānudarśanam [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9] Where is birth, where is death, where is disease, and where is infirmity, there cannot be any happiness, permanent. We must leave that soil and seek some other higher soil to live on.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja, you said that to get to a Guru one must have some sukṛti, some sukṛti is necessary?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course, of course.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Then we hear that whatever we acquire from the Guru is his causeless mercy. What is this causeless mercy in relation to sukṛti? We hear that some sukṛti is necessary, and then we hear of causeless mercy. What is the meaning of causeless mercy?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have to approach that department of causeless mercy. Causeless mercy, mother is approaching the child with some affection, but child won't accept it, the causeless mercy. Mother has got some natural affection for the child, she wants to do some good. But child won't take, something like that. Ordinary mother is not the real example, but somewhat. Causeless mercy. He won't accept that advice of the guardian. He'll go, śraddhā, he'll go to keep company with the guṇḍā, won't hear mother or father. His previous tendency will draw him towards the guṇḍā class, won't hear mother, father, guardian, etc.

Similarly, śraddhā, yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ, according to śraddhā one goes to select his company. And śraddhā comes from sukṛti of previous life. And causeless mercy, they're wandering, they're independent of the person, they're trying to distribute them. Just as in ajñāta-sukṛti, a flower garden, a sādhū takes some flower, give it to the Govinda, but his energy used in that purpose, for Govinda sevā. So sukṛti comes automatically, unconsciously in him, because his energy is utilised without his conscience. In this way the causeless mercy there, underground. It is causeless mercy, when accumulated, that sukṛti in sufficient quantity then it creates what is śraddhā. And that śraddhā, faith, then leaving aside other topics he goes to the sādhū, to Kṛṣṇa, to this and that. Śraddhā of different kinds, tamasic śraddhā, rajasic śraddhā, sattvic śraddhā, nirguṇa śraddhā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They are known as Huns, furious Frank and fiery Huns, the French and German fight has been related by one gentleman, the furious Frank and fiery Huns. So they're called as Huns, means haṁsa.

In ancient India two section, paramahaṁsa and haṁsa. In the beginning, there was not these four varṇāśrama, brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra. Before this classification there was two classes of people, one paramahaṁsa, wholly devoted to the Lord, spiritual life. Another was haṁsa; they were not so much intense in their religious life but anyhow they lived a spiritual life, haṁsa.

Haṁsa means, the derivative meaning of haṁsa, who can take out the milk from the water. If you mix water with milk, the haṁsa, the swan, can drink the milk away and the water will be left. This is a wonderful thing. The water will be left and the milk will be taken by them.

So those in the world living who can draw the extract of the advice in one's life, can gather from outside, they're haṁsa, who can understand the real purpose of life and deal accordingly with the environment, haṁsa. Paramahaṁsa, they can do anything and everything. They're well established in their position. They do not lose their relationship with the centre, any time.

Swāmī Mahārāja I think has told that in some ancient time some people migrated from central India to this side and that side.

Badrinārāyaṇa: In his purport of his story of King Yayati, he cursed his sons and he sent them out, Swāmī Mahārāja has said.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They are banished that side, yes in Bhāgavata it is said.

Badrinārāyaṇa: And also Paraśurāma, some of the kṣatriyas they flew.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṣatriyas, they flew the field, they exported. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hans.

Max Muller came from German, Max Muller. Amongst the western scholars Max Muller was the first who appreciated Vedic education, Upaniṣad. He told that, “India has got so much wealth in her treasury. The whole world, if they get it, they will be all rich, but the wealth won't be lessened, anything. The wealth will not be less, but the whole world will be wealthy. Such wealth India has got in the store of her Upaniṣads.” That was the declaration of Max Muller. He was a German.

And even now, in Germany also only perhaps, a half an hour radio transaction in Sanskrit. And coming from Germany Indira introduced in India in Sanskrit language, the radio. But in the whole of the world they have got appreciation for Sanskrit and Indian culture, in Germany.

Badrinārāyaṇa: They say that Hitler took that Dhanur Veda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe. Hitler was pro-Indian. When the war was continuing, I was in Karachi. One European gentleman asked, “How do you like Hitler?”

And, “I like him for some, in some respect.” “What are the respect?”

I told him that, “He says the ladies go home and give good children, and I shall reward you. Don't fill up the office.” This is according to Indian custom. They work in family, not outside.

Then another, so many points I told him, “I like bravery.”

Hitler. But he was a hater of the Jewish, too much. And he was the greatest enemy of the communists. Jews as well as the communists.

One Mr. Kreech, he was a good politician, diplomat, he went to Russia and converted Russia against Hitler. Hitler had a truce with Russia and wanted to attack England. But one Mr. Kreech, he was first sent to India, but he consulted Gandhi, Jawaharl, etc. but they could not come to any conclusion, and solution, went back. Then he went to Russia, and there he began to preach that, "If Hitler is victorious in this world, he will exterminate the whole communist section of the world, it is sure."

And that perhaps moved Stalin. "Yes, he's the worst hater of communist." So it was possible that Russia joined England.

And Churchill he told at that time, many asked Churchill, "Why you have come in terms with the communist? You are the hater of the communists number one."

He told, "Now we are in such a position, what about communists? If I'm to contact with the hell, come in understanding with the Satan, I'm ready, to come out of danger within which we are at present." That was Churchill's answer.

And America came to back both English and Russians. But I think, if Japan could help Hitler at that time attacking Russia from the east side, then Russia would have been finished. But Japan he was busy with America only, and the British, neglecting Russia.

In the meantime the atom bomb came. And we are told, some people say, the atom bomb that was prepared by Hitler. Of course at that time I closely followed the newspapers.

Hitler told, “Supernatural, mysterious nature are working in my favour, but let the providence save me from that heinous action.” This came from his mouth.

And the Allied party they thought, everyone was researching atomic energy, and they thought that Hitler was already successful inventing atom bomb. “Then, in the process if he can fulfil wholly to utilise, then it will be impossible to defeat him.” So with all their might, in full force, very quickly they came to attack Hitler. “No time should be spared. If he comes with that weapon in our land, then there will be no other alternative but to fall at his feet.” So very quickly from all sides they came to Hitler.

And some says so much that the atom bomb made by Hitler came to the hands of the American and that was thrown into Japan. Some are of such opinion.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gandhi also, when France submitted, then Gandhi gave a statement, I saw in paper. “Four qualifications: bold, then a brave soldier and for a quick decision, and boldness.” And other two qualifications given by Gandhi to Hitler.

Bon Mahārāja had some engagement with Hitler, but when he went to see him, the war was going on at that time, Bon Mahārāja told that, “Very busily he’s walking in a corridor, and I saw him from distance. The brain surcharged with very heavy thought. Then when he was intimated that he had some engagement with Swāmī Bon, then he asked some other man,

“You go on my behalf, meet him.” Hitler, though he already engaged Swāmī Bon to some conversation, but he could not attend personally. He sent one of his representative to meet Swāmī Bon. Swāmī Bon told that, “I saw him in a corridor, he’s walking and with heavy thinking on his brain.”

Hitler. Very tactful, very quick, how he could took up Mussolini from Italy. Mussolini was captured, and one day here, and one day there, in this way they’re moving him from different parts. But Hitler, with the help of his SS army, traced where he is and jumped from over and took up Mussolini and took him to Germany.

And this Crete also. All the parties, the island of Crete, in the mouth of Dardanelles, the one island.

Devotee: Near Greece.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: “With that way the Allied party may help Russia.” So he thought that, “This island must be captured.” So how? The French, the British, Americans, all there, having full possession, and he wanted to snatch it from their hands. And he did it.

England told, “What he prepared to attack us, that is finished in Crete.”

The gliders, and the helicopters, some imitation men, they’re coming down from helicopter, and they’re using their bullets uselessly. In this way. Then some imitation man, and some real man are descending. They’re perplexed. “Who is the real man and who is imitation?” In this way, anyhow captured the whole island, which was in full strong possession of the parties, French, English, and others. He showed much wonder, in the fighting.

And this blitzkrieg. In one month, maybe only fifteen days. First week of a month was preparation, and the second week he attacked, and by third week almost finished his battle. And fourth week then he captured the administration. Only one month, then one country, he showed. First it began from Denmark, Denmark and Norway. Next month we found, first in Poland, and next after the winter, the next summer, Denmark and Norway. How long Norway is, and how he could reach Norway, the farthest northern corner of Norway, they could not think it out, how he could do it. Magic. Denmark, Norway, then the battle of Flanders. Holland, Belgium, and a part of France, in one month.

And in America some gentleman who was, not Wilson, Kennedy or someone who told then, "The history of the world, the battle of Flanders is the unique. French, British, Belgium, one side. And Germany on the other side. And then next attack came to France. But when the plans were closely followed, one afternoon, some came French, there was margino [?] line was built between France and Germany after the first great war. Then we were told that one afternoon in some German...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...dynamite, and they put into the pyramids and began to crush them, blow them. Then they told that a mechanised army came, in a round way. They're going in this way, cutting, advancing in this way. Those that were wounded, they come this side and new, the mechanised army is going, always new going, and the wounded are coming and they are treated accordingly. And the new is going. Like a fan, they described, like a fan. In this way they began to advance. And a part of France, Belgium, Holland, in this way, the Flanders. The soldiers that were to withdraw, and when they reached the British shore they began to sleep - no food, nothing. Wherever they're carried, the allied from the ship and they began to sleep. No sleep for a whole week, such was the position of the allied soldiers. It followed like that, Battle of Flanders.

Again we had to see that when America also joined the side, Russia. Russia is a vast country. Blitzkrieg, that is lightening war was impossible there, and that was the cause of Hitler's downfall.

There was one Mr. Hess, he consulted this astrology. He told, "We should not go to the east side. We can't be victorious there. But if we approach, march towards west, the possibility of victory for us."

But Hitler did not take his advice. Hess was sent to make treaty with the British, in a plea that he has fallen accidentally. But really he went to make treaty with England, before Hitler comes to announce war against Russia. But Hess was taken to prison. No proposal for treaty was accepted by Churchill. Then what to do? That failed.

Hitler told that, "Russia is such a great power, keeping at back, I shall go to attack England, this will be foolish. If Russia approaches at that time then I'll simply be crushed, so I must." In the meantime, though there was some truce with Russia, but Russia, they built many aerodromes on the line of Germany, on the border. Many aerodromes in the meantime they built. So that brought suspicion to Hitler. "If I attack England with my force, then Russia in the back will come to conquer me."

So leaving England, Germany went to be at war with Russia. It was a vast land. Blitzkrieg won't work. And Russia had also some military power, strong. None could break the front line. Previously Hindenburg he was the cause of Russian, the fall of the Jarhad [?] Empire. [?] Only General Bock, he suddenly broke the Russian line, and in one day two hundred miles entered deep into Russia.

At that time Stalin he cried, he told, remarked, "The hated enemy has entered into our homeland. With the whole of our energy we must oppose him." In this way.

Then of course they came to Stalingrad. And Rommel also, this side, Africa, that circumambulating Mediterranean he approached this side. And they came to Caucasus and they had a mind that they will meet here in India with Japan. But providence decided otherwise.

Hitler told that Napoleon that, "I'm not defeated by anyone, but destiny has defeated me." So also we see in the case with Hitler.

na vidvan na ca parosam bhagyam phalati sarvatya na vidvan na ca parosam [?]

Destiny defeated him. But the valour he has shown, that is wonderful. Not yet history is admitting him, but sometime after. Just as the first General is Hannibal, second is Alexander, the world Generals. Third Julius Caesar, fourth Napoleon. So far the recognition has come from the historians. And the fifth must be Hitler, according to me. But the present history is not so impartial. They still hate Hitler for the devastation of the world. What he showed that is wonderful, in the war history. This mechanised army, and this blitzkrieg in the word of Germany perhaps, this lightening war. Lightening war and mechanised, that only the fighters on the motor and tank [?] not on foot.

And when France was conquered within fifteen days the whole world was amazed. "A power like France." That man Petain he was hanged afterwards by De Gaulle. Petain surrendered to save his country. The whole country will be devastated, he could not tolerate. Then he submitted, he came to conclude a peace with Hitler.

And there was another trouble. Everywhere French and British navy they're together, and France declared peace, and they're in difficulty. Somewhere they joined, French joined the British, and somewhere they began to fight each other.

And one Mr. Darlan, who was the head of the whole navy of France, he went to Africa and he was stabbed there by a British gentleman. In this way. And at that time America came with fresh energy, to land her soldiers.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Then again that battle came to the French in Belgium' shore. And Hitler had to retire gradually. And we are told that when his followers asked Hitler, "Come away from Baldwin."

"No, I can't go. I asked my soldiers if any general comes to retreat, wants to retreat, you'll shoot him. And how can I say that I shall live warning? I must die here. I can't live warning.”

And the followers, “Oh, we want to save you.”

“Again they may come. With double energy I shall oppose them.”

“If you live, then our leader lives, then I shall have everything.” In this way. What’s the time?

Badrinārāyaṇa: It’s five after nine.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [?]

...

...1915 was a student in [?] college. About death ray, perhaps that is also ready by this time, death ray.

Badrinārāyaṇa: The Russians have a bomb that you can't hear it, you can't see it. It just devastates everything.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We are told that some bomb, only the vitality will be finished.

Devotee: That’s right. The French are making that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No disturbance of any building, or any articles, only the vitality will go.

Devotee: French are making that. That's what we heard. What will happen now Mahārāja when there will be war?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Einstein told that, "What you are dealing with, if you commit mistake in the process, a slight mistake, then whole earth may be burned into ashes within few seconds. The oxygen will take fire, and in a second it will spread throughout the whole of the world. And the earth will be burned into ashes in a few seconds. Don't go further." He gave warning, I was told. "You're tackling with so many dangerous things. The earth may be burned in few seconds, reduced to what?"

Devotee: They're afraid of, now anyway, in international circles they're start talking Gandhism now. It is fact. But they won't have any success there as well as we know. They have to follow our line to have success or peace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Providence is there.

Devotee: But as we see in India Mahārāja, corruption and all bad things. So I think it will be very soon war.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If there is war, then also in the beginning perhaps they may not use that dreadful weapon.

Devotee: They will try to avoid it but still.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Previously when there was another war between Israel and Egypt, Russia wanted to interfere. Then America only told to Russia, "Israel has got atomic energy in his hand. And if he finds that his life is in danger, he may use that." Russia came back. So Israel is so great only because he has got in possession of atomic energy. He does not care for small countries.

So we don't like to live in this world, so nasty. We are trying to realise, to live in the land of the soul. We are soul and we should live there.

[na tad bhāsayate sūryo, na śaśāṅko na pāvakaḥ] yad gatvā na nivartante, tad dhāma paramaṁ mama

["My supreme holy abode is that place which the surrendered souls reach, never to return again to this deathly plane. Upon going there, one never returns to this material world. Neither sun, nor moon, nor fire - nothing can illuminate that all-illuminating supreme abode."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.6]

ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, punar āvartino 'rjuna mām upetya tu kaunteya, punar janma na vidyate

["O Arjuna, from the planet of Lord Brahmā downwards, the residents of all planets are naturally subjected to repeated birth and death. But, O Kaunteya, upon reaching Me, there is no rebirth."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 8.16]

It is coming into being and then again vanishing. Being created and destroyed. Creation and destruction. That is the nature of this plane of māyā. And we must leave this dress, find out our soul person, and live in the plane of soul, beyond the jurisdiction of this world of death. By the use of our intelligence, and mainly, as you told, the causeless mercy of the Vaiṣṇava, the sukṛti. The sukṛti accumulated creates śraddhā, for the unseen. What is seen, that is neglected. What is unseen, appreciation for that. That is more reliable. The unseen is more reliable. Unseen means not under material experience, that is more reliable, than this flesh, concrete life, what to say. That is sure to go. And not only mine, everyone. So this bogus plane should not be trusted more. We must seek something. If we enter within our heart we shall find, yes, there is mind, there is intelligence, there is soul, and Supersoul, and so far, so on, that subtle world. And world without pain and change, distraction.

ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, punar āvartino 'rjuna mām upetya tu kaunteya, punar janma na vidyate yad gatvā na nivartante, tad dhāma paramaṁ mama

Our ambition of life is there. We want to live in a country where this sort of insult, the general insult and disregard is absent, honourable. Honourable life we can live there. And this is sure to go, we are seeing every day, every minute.

Yudhiṣṭhira Mahārāja told, “What is more wonderful than this? That every day we see only that they’re going into the jaw of death, and we’re not preparing ourselves for that. Our tendency is that as much time as we can stay here which is impossible. The whole of our energy we are using almost for nothing; for impossibility, we’re using our energy. I shall have to leave, and grieve. All of us will have to leave this place. Still we want to construct here, give so much attention, to construct houses, and this, that.”

Then why do you do temple and others? In this way the energy should be used for the purpose of the Lord and you'll be saved. Energy should be used for Him. And that is the way through which we can go there. All aspects of our life should be utilised for His service. And that is royal road to go swiftly to His domain. The whole energy should be used for His purpose. For Himself. Reality is for, everything for Him. We must realise this truth. Nothing for us. I'm also for Him. The infinite absolute is such in His nature. By His existence, He's such, everything for Him. We are separatists, we think this is for mine. I may be monarch of all I survey. This is the anti-current that has taken me far away from Him. And so death, disease, they come to make me prey of their life.

The criterion is there. Whatever I do. I commit a murder, but if for the interest of Kṛṣṇa cent per cent then it is no murder. And Guru Mahārāja he gave the highest promotion. It is such, something like that. Outwardly I heard in Benares from the lecture, a discussion between one Māyāvādī and our Guru Mahārāja. I was present there. That cid-vilāsa, what is cid-vilāsa, Guru Mahārāja is explaining. Anyhow the friend came.

simha prasena avadhuta simho jambavata [?] The [Syamantaka] jewel was taken by Prasena, a brother of Satrājī, father-in-law of Kṛṣṇa. Satyabhāmā's father, Satrājī. Satyabhāmā's uncle was Prasena. He took the gem and went out in the forest, and one lion he took that gem and killed Prasena, Satrājī's brother.

There our Guru Mahārāja explaining, the Prasena was killed but he was happy. And the killer and the killed, both, they're happy. Such is cid-vilāsa. One who is being killed, he's also very satisfied. And who is killing, he's also satisfied. Such is the nature of the service of Kṛṣṇa.

Just as in a drama. In a drama a man is killing a person, and he's playing the part of being killed, and he's playing the part of a killer. But if the play is good then both are satisfied. "Yes, he played the part of being killed in a very satisfactory manner." They will all applaud, "Yes."
